An interesting arrangement, also for London Films, is the deal with Rene Clair, the noted French director, who is lining up "A Bicycle Built for Two." The one-picture deal with Marlene Dietrich, recently in on the Normandie, for "Knight Without Armour," represents still another Korda project on behalf of his own company. Robert Donat is to be co-starred and that makes it smart casting insofar as the American market is concerned; Robert will help Marlene, who can stand it. Frances Marion, a member of Louis B. Mayer's studio family, not only is responsible for the script, but will also be associate producer. Another hands-across-the-sea arrangement in still another of Korda's efforts. . . .

Things to come include "Troop Ship," a future Pendennis; "Triangle," starring Miss Leigh with direction by Walter Reisch, author of "Masquerade" and "Unfinished Symphony," author and director of "Episode," reputedly a Continental hit; "I, Claudius," starring Laughton with Korda again, but for the last time, directing and two co-starring Laughton and Merle Oberon, the entire batch for London Films and for American distribution. How soon depends upon production, but Korda plans to visit New York in December for two months and states this elaborate schedule will be well along, if not completed by sailing time. In the meantime it is interesting to note, the U. A. product lineup divulged early in July lists only seven from him. . . .

Open Buenos Aires House

Buenos Aires, Aug. 9.—The President of the Argentine Republic, ministers and diplomats here attended the opening last night of the new Opera Theatre. "Show Boat" was the opening attraction. The managers of American firms here were entertained after the performance by Clemente Lococo, owner of the Opera. Raul Roulien and Conchita Montenegro arrived today from Hollywood for personal appearances at the Monumental.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Back to Nature"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—The adventures of the appalling and appealing Jones family are continued in this second of the series, which looks like a success based on the unqualified delight with which a family audience greeted it. Their enjoyment equalled that with which they approved the first.

Papa Jones is cherishing the hope that he can get off to the druggists' convention alone, while the family spends its vacation on a farm, but it is a short-lived dream and the whole tribe starts off in a trailer, exhausted from the frantic ordeal of packing, locking up and putting out the cat.

The entire appeal of the film is wisely based on the comic quality of everyday domestic incidents to which all families are heir. Tony Martin is introduced as Ned, an escaped confidence man who makes a play for the older girl, and the film ends in a wild chase down a mountain trail with Papa Jones and the boys pursuing in a car without brakes.

Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Spring Byington, Kenneth Howell, George Ernest, June Carlson, Florence Roberts and Billy Mahan perform with the same gusto with which they originated the original Jones family. Dixie Dunbar and Ivan Miller carry prominent supporting roles under the direction of James Tinling, who certainly must have been raised in a large family.

Robert Ellis and Helen Logan wrote the screenplay about characters originated by Katharine Kavanaugh. Max Golden produced to capitalize the popularity of "Every Saturday Night."

Production Code Seal, No. 2,444. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Lady Be Careful"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell and Harry Ruskin, in adapting the stage play, "Sailor Beware," by Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Robinson, have woven a light comedy which holds the interest.

The story concerns the battle of Lew Ayres, known in the navy as Dynamite, to capture the heart of Mary Carlisle, nicknamed Stonewall because of her ability to resist masculine advances. Ayres' shipmates and Mary's friends, meanwhile wager on the outcome, throwing their influence in the direction of their bets. As expected, the couple fall for each other and a romantic conclusion caps the courtship.

The supporting cast includes Benny Baker, Larry Crabbe, Barbara Barondess and Grant Withers. Theodore Reed directed and should be credited with delivering an excellent job in his first effort as a director. Benjamin Glazer's production has maintained good taste throughout the story. As light entertainment, the picture is suitable for showing with a more serious subject.

there to be rushed out if needed to help provide the requisite revenue. When it was learned, however, that other new tax measures, actually adopted, would produce enough funds for the present emergency, the film tax bill was permitted to die. This bill would have imposed the tax on producers or distributors of all film "sold, leased, re-leased, licensed or imported" in Pennsylvania, and, it is estimated, would have yielded about $4,000,000.

The law, adopted at the regular session of the Pennsylvania legislature last year, placing a four per cent tax on all tickets of admission to places of amusement, continues in force.

U. S. Facing Added Levies By Italians

)fficial Coming Here to Clarify Situation

Clarification of new proposals de- igned to aid Italian production activi- es and which may have a drastic ef- ect on American film sales in that ountrv are expected by distribution epresentatives with the arrival here ite this week of an informed Italian overnment official, it was learned esterday.

No details of the new proposals ere known here, although it was nderstood that, in general, they con- mplate serious levies on distribution nd exhibition revenues in Italy for e purpose of aiding film production ithin that country. Efforts of the I.P.P.D.A. to obtain specific in- rmation by telephone from Rome ncerning the proposals now under nsideration there were described as aving been only partially successful nd comment is being withheld pend- g discussions with the Italian of- cial. It was stated that no formal otest could be made either by the .P.P.D.A. or the State Dep't. at ashington until the proposals being nsidered have received final action.

xpect $90,000 for 'Scotland" 2nd Week

"Mary of Scotland" and "The Great egfeld" did extremely well at the x-office last week, despite the heat. nsidering the time of the year, both ractions garnered unusual takes, at Music Hall and the Astor, re- ectively.

After tallying $100,500 in the first nza, "Mary of Scotland" took in proximately $56,000 for the first ur days of the second week. Indi- tions are that the picture will wind

ITOA Will Discuss Revision of Prices

Elimination of "early bird" prices and the adoption of a 5 P. M. evening admission scale, effective Sept. 4 and 5, will be a principal topic of discussion at the I.T.O.A. membership meeting tomorrow at the Astor.

Exhibitors who sat in at the conference last Thursday agree the move is one of the most constructive to be engineered in the local territory. Every member of the I.T.O.A. is expected to support the plan.

None of the Broadway houses has yet been contacted, but it is understood each theatre will be asked individually to conform to the agreement. The theatres which are a part of the Loew, RKO and Harry Brandt circuits will adopt the plan, executives of these companies having attended the meeting at the Loew office and approved it.

Brandt left last night for Montreal and will be gone several days. He will not preside at the Astor session tomorrow, the assignment to be taken over by Maurice Fleischman.

Local Units Report Progress on Merger

Discussions were held yesterday by the I.T.O.A. and T.O.C.C. committee of four to formulate plans for setting up a new independent exhibitor organization to replace the existing two in the local area.

Progress was reported and it is planned to hold another session within a week. The opinion of the committee is that the plans cannot be worked out at two or three meetings and it will take several months before a complete draft is formulated.

There are some reports that Edward Rugoff, head of the T.O.C.C. group, will be made president of the new association. Harry Brandt also is said to be in line for the post.

Attending yesterday's session in Rugoff's office were Bernard Barr, Maurice Fleischman, Rugoff and Charles Steiner.

"It Won't Fail"

London, Aug. 10.—Joseph M. Schenck said here today, when asked if the G. B. deal might go through, "I know it won't fail."

The chairman of the Twentieth Century-Fox board of directors refused to comment on possible Government action or give any details before his press conference tomorrow.

Production Drops With 44 in Work

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—A slight drop in major and independent production was registered here last week with schedules showing 44 features and three short subjects in work as compared to 48 features and two shorts for the week preceding. The slump, which indicates activity at the lowest point in the past seven weeks, was due mainly to the extensive preparation of 25 features and 10 shorts which are slated to go before the cameras within two weeks. Fifty-one pictures were in the cutting room being edited.

Nine new films started shooting during the week. "Poker Face" started at Columbia. M-G-M placed "Camille," starring Greta Garbo and Rob-

"Dog Days," Perhaps, But Not in Cleveland

Cleveland, Aug. 10.—Midseason business here last week during what is known as "dog days" upped the first run average take more than 50 per cent.

All houses did excellent business, including two of the five first runs which were playing hold-overs. It was the biggest week since the appearance in April of Jack Benny and his radio gang.

A New Way of Doing It

Cincinnati, Aug. 10.—At least one suburban exhibitor is considering putting into effect a plan for children's admissions similar to one used by the intercity Ohio Bus Lines in computing passenger fares. Children are charged according to height rather than age. Under 46 inches, the passenger rides free. Between 46 and 55 inches, half fare is charged, and over 55 inches the full rate must be paid. A measuring device is placed near the entrance doors of the buses.

Although some adults come within the free ride and half fare heights, they are charged accordingly, the plan working out satisfactorily over a period of time according to the law of averages.

MPTOA's Plan Seen as Held Up for Month

Exhibitor Unit's Program "Tabled" for Time

No action by distributors on conceding any part of the M.P.T.O.A.'s 10-point trade practice program is viewed here as likely for another month, although representatives of the national exhibitor organization are still hopeful of obtaining some concessions in time to take effect concurrently with the majority of the new season contracts.

Insofar as distributors are concerned the exhibitor organization's program appears definitely to have been "tabled" for the time being. A number of sales executives whose individual interest would be capable of breathing new life into the program at this time will be occupied during the next few weeks with the closing of important circuit contracts for the new season and several of these plan to leave on their annual vacations immediately afterward, thus precluding any immediate likelihood of action.

A further indication that M. P. T. O. A. officials see no hope of obtaining

Balaban Statement Confirms Dualling

Chicago, Aug. 10.—John Balaban, in an interview with Motion Picture Daily today, stated that B. & K. will put into effect its double feature policy this fall as soon as new product is available to the outlying houses. This probably means the latter part of September or the beginning of October.

Balaban's statement was the first positive and official information Chicago's theatre men have had concerning the circuit's dualling plans. There were those who thought that B. & K.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

QUOTA worries, exhibitor trepidation over pictures at fifty per cent and over and West End grosses, dissolved into a temporary past and goings on in America into something even further removed for three days as your wandering correspondent planked himself alongside Ken Nyman for a tour of Devon, a bit of Cornwall and Oxford by twilight. Nyman said he wanted a respite from his duties as theatre operator and as chairman of the London and Home Counties Branch of the C.E.A. Actually, it was our idea he was being more than gracious to an in-and-out traveler. . . .

Out of London in brilliant sunshine, the rain, of course, came shortly thereafter. At lunch at the White Hart at Andover, a sleepy, provincial town where one of the Georges stopped in 1640 or thereabouts; then the Red Lion at Crewkerne for a drink and a game of table skittels, which has to do with sinking billiard balls without disturbing menacing and surrounding pins resting on easily disturbed bases, and finally to the Palace Hotel at Torquay, one of England's best known summer resorts, replete at night with a lot of stuffed shirts in dress shirts having a good time at a square dance, or believing so anyway. . . .

The next day, the road led through winding lanes flanked by countryside, largely uncultivated but with an air that made it part and parcel of one extended private park, to Clovelly in the west country, a unique fishing village carved from the side of a cliff, descending sharply to the ocean where transportation is executed up and down a cobblestoned street and donkeys do whatever work is to be done. But first came a crossing of the moors at Dartmoor in high mist and rain, another dramatic experience, to the Duchy at Princeton where the morning chill made an early association with whisky exactly the thing to do. Then lunch at the Bedford at Tavistock where George V was wont to stop whenever affairs of state carried him Plymouth way. Later, Clovelly and beyond the twin towns of Lynmouth and Lynton—one washed by the Atlantic and the other, high above it with its Royal Castle Hotel, once patronized by Edward VII. So ended the second day. . . .

The following morning found the trail leading to Glastonbury, Wells and Bath, the latter with its original Roman baths, its Pump Room and the ghost of Beau Brummell and so on to Witney, twelve miles from Oxford and the home of E. A. Huddlestone, owner of the Palace in Market Square opposite the Butler Cross, where "Men Without Name" and "Two Hearts in Harmony," a British production, were holding forth. A member of the executive committee of C.E.A.'s London and Home Counties branch, vice-chairman of the town planning committee of Oxfordshire and one of its county council, Huddlestone is important in his area and definite with his slants on the business. Dialogue in American pictures is improving and less complex for his provincial patronage, he declared. He is also experiencing the drift of his patronage to larger towns, say Oxford, but is unworried because the relatively few that go, he finds, talk about and build up attractions he subsequently gets on home ground at a lower admission. . . .

Proving it is largely circumstances that shape matters in anyone's existence was J. E. Poyntz, who runs the 500-seat Scala in Oxford. He buys product flat, plays it after the five union Cinemas in his university town and is getting along very nicely, thank you. The Jericho, the pub separated from his house by a parking space filled with bicycles and serving good whisky, is conveniently at hand. We felt at home, completely. Huddlestone, we discovered, knew his Oxford and the various colleges that go to make up this world-famous institution of learning, aloof, cloistered and calm in its medieval setting. It made little difference what went on in the world of films by this time. Dinner at the Mitre later and down through the cool night to London and its Wardour Street. . . .

Gastronomical hard - to - takes: Norwegian salmon, omelette Parmesan in the dignified grill atmosphere of Scott's at the top of the Haymarket; tea at Maison Barbellion on New Bond Street; more tea at Fortnum and Mason's; very high tea at Claridge's; potted shrimp at the Berkeley; a steak a la Chateaubriand at the Savoy Grill—there it is again—washed down with a bottle of Lanson; chops at the renowned Mitre at Oxford; poupiette of veal with gnocchis at the Cafe Royal; jam and Devonshire cream at the New Hotel Clevelly; steak and kidney pi at the Cheshire Cheese off Flee Street; Scottish salmon at the Trocadero; Kent strawberries a big as a half dollar at Quaglino's, gathering place mad popular since the King, as the Prince of Wales, frequented it raspberries, ditto as to size, al over the town; melon at the Monseigneur; lobster cocktai at the San Marco and steal Hambourg — mere hamburge steak—at the Carlton as Bil Bach looked on amused. Just fo the hell of it. . . .

Spencer Tracy Wins July Actors' Award

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Spencer Tracy turned in the best performance during the month of July in "San Francisco," according to the monthly vote of the Screen Actors' Guild membership. Tracy is the first player to win the vote twice as well as the first to take honors in consecutive months. The actor was at the top last month for "Fury."

First honorable mention went to Carole Lombard for "Princess Comes Across" and second mention to Francis Lederer for his performance in "One Rainy Afternoon."

Writer voting has been discontinued due to the recent dissolution of the Screen Writers' Guild.

The Screen Guild magazine, which announces the winners for each month, has been converted into the Screen Actors' Guild Magazine and will be strictly an organized labor paper, according to Guild spokesmen. William Bledsoe, formerly with the NRA labor provisions bureau in Washington, is editor, and research secretary for the Actors' Guild.

Jimmy Sileo, news photographer, qualifies now as a candid camera specialist, since his shots of "Road to Glory" were accepted by Stage, which has assigned him to a similar job on "Romeo and Juliet."

Jose Reynal, Spanish singer and actor from Buenos Aires, left here yesterday for Hollywood, where he will be given auditions by several companies.

Morris Epstein, New York branch manager of Grand National, spent the weekend with Mrs. Epstein at the summer home of Sam Cocalis in Deal.

Lou Berman, general sales manager for Imperial, has left for an extended trip across the country on new product deals.

James A. FitzPatrick, who was scheduled to return this month from England, has delayed his trip until October.

Gene Fowler, while on Fire Island, will write a book, forsaking his particular brand of poetry for the nonce.

Bob Ritchie sails on the Ile de France Thursday. Frank Orsatti and his bride are on the same boat.

Charles L. O'Reilly, who was due from the coast yesterday, will not return until Aug. 18 or Aug. 20.

Ricardo Cortez, who has been stopping at the Waldorf Towers, hies it to Saratoga Thursday.

Vina Delmar has joined Paramount to do the script for "The Years Are So Long."

Para. Re-Signs Raft

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—George Raft has signed a new two year contract with Paramount to take effect following his current deal, which has six months to run. His next film is an untitled original now being written by Norman Krasna.

Wellman, Karns Signed

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Paramount has closed contracts with William Wellman, director, and Roscoe Karns. The Wellman pact covers a term of years, while Karns was re-signed to a straight two-year contract.

Lillie Messenger on Coast

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Lillie Messenger, Radio's eastern story editor, is here for two weeks of conferences on story material.

Named Aide to Kane

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Margaret Bennett, formerly one of David O. Selznick's private secretaries, has been appointed Hollywood representative for Robert Kane who is producing in London for Twentieth Century-Fox. Miss Bennett's duties include lining up stars, writers, and talent of all kinds to send abroad.

Kelley, Mitchell's Aide

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—William F. Kelley has been appointed assistant to Gordon S. Mitchell, manager of the Academy Research Council.

Mayer, Strickling Here

Louis B. Mayer and Howard Strickling arrived from the coast yesterday, en route to England.

Writing Teams Heavy Story Contributors

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Screen writing teams commonly employed as a unit create an important number of feature productions, according to a survey completed by the Academy in connection with the administration of the Writer-Producer Code of Practice.

The revised Writers' Code, now effective in the major studios, requires that a writer must have contributed more than 25 per cent of the value of a screen play to receive screen credit. This limits the division of screen play credit to not more than three writers on a production. An exception is made in the case of established writing teams, however, who are recognized and employed as such and who are considered as one writer in determining credits under the code.

Of 16 teams registered by the Academy for joint credits in the ten-month period, nine are teams of two men and seven of a man and a woman. No two women screen writers have worked together sufficiently to be recognized as a team, according to the records.

Denies Halperin Plea

Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday denied a motion on behalf of Victor Halperin to set aside a judgment obtained against him last June 30 in a suit brought by the Amusement Securities Corp. against Academy Pictures Dist. Corp. over the use of the word "zombies," in a film title. In his application Halperin said that he is a resident of Los Angeles and that he was not personally served in the action although he was made a party defendant. Amusement Securities obtained a judgment of $10,875 and a permanent injunction against the Academy Pictures Dist. Corp. and other defendants to restrain them from using the title "Revolt of the Zombies." Counsel for Amusement Securities charged Halperin's application was not made in good faith and was "frivolous."

"Romeo" Dates Are Set

Los Angeles, Aug. 10.—Following the opening of "Romeo and Juliet" at the New York Astor on Aug. 20, M-G-M will roadshow the film in Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, Washington, Detroit, Pittsburgh and San Francisco. Dates are set in Montreal and Baltimore for Sept. 20; in St. Louis, Sept. 27; in Buffalo and Cleveland, Oct. 4, and in Toronto, Oct. 5, with general release to be set later.

Set "Mohicans" Premiere

"The Last of the Mohicans" will have its world premiere at the Palace, Saratoga, N. Y., on Thursday evening. Admission will be $1.

Harry M. Goetz, Harry Gold, Moe Streimer, Monroe Greenthal, Eddie Mullins and a number of other U. A. home office executives will attend. Sept. 2 is the date set for the Rivoli opening.

List 29 "Adverse" Dates

Warners have set 29 pre-release dates on "Anthony Adverse," which will be nationally released Aug. 29.

Plan Aug. 21 Premiere

Dallas, Aug. 10.—"The Texas Rangers" will open here Aug. 21.

final decisions from distributors at this time lies in the fact that Ed Kuykendall, president of the exhibitor organization and the most active factor in pushing the trade practice program to its present status, has no plans at this time for coming to New York before Labor Day. Observers here believe that distributor action, if there is to be any, must be urged again by the exhibitor organization's leaders.

In a recent bulletin to M. P. T. O. A. members Kuykendall indicated that if the trade practice program failed the organization might be impelled to abandon its policy of round table discussions as the solution of trade practice problems for one of litigation and the sponsoring of industry legislation. M.P.T.O.A. spokesmen believe, however, that an appeal would first be made directly to company heads if sales executives fail to act or reject the organization's program.

Milstein Denies He Will Head Republic

for a two-week vacation at Moorhead City, N. C. He said, prior to his departure on the 4 P. M. train that he wanted to forget the picture business for a while and that he probably would not make any definite moves until the first of the year.

Milstein and H. J. Yates left for Kansas City last night.

Republic Sets Preview

Kansas City, Aug. 10.—Republic will hold a trade preview here tomorrow of "Follow Your Heart" at the Plaza. Robert F. Withers, local exchange head, will be host to J. J. Milstein, general sales manager, from New York; Nat Levine, from the coast; Herbert J. Yates, Max Roth, and franchise holders from various parts of the country.

Herbert Yates and J. J. Milstein will return from Kansas City tomorrow night. A special showing of "Follow Your Heart" will be held at the Astor on Thursday. Eastern franchise holders as well as circuit executives will attend.

Nat Levine Coming East

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Nat Levine left for the east this afternoon by plane. While the stated purpose of the trip was a search for story material it is believed that it concerns the resignation of W. Ray Johnston from Republic.

Dr. Fletcher on Coast

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Dr. Harvey Fletcher, director of research for Bell Telephone Laboratories, will arrive tomorrow to supervise installation of the Erpi stereophonic sound reinforcing system in the Hollywood Bowl. The system is for Leopold Stokowski's concert in the amphitheatre on Aug. 17.

ert Taylor, before the cameras. At Paramount "The Turning Point" got underway. Radio put "The Big Game" and "We Who Are About to Die" into production. "Sitting on the Moon" started shooting at Republic While Twentieth Century-Fox turned cameras on "Pigskin Parade" and "15 Maiden Lane."

The heaviest production was at Warners where nine pictures were shooting.

Columbia had four features working, four in preparation and six in the cutting rooms. Samuel Goldwyn had two, zero and zero; M-G-M six, one and 12; Paramount eight, five and eight; Pickford-Lasky zero, zero and one; Republic one, two and two; Radio six, four and four; Roach one, zero and zero; Selznick-International zero, zero and one; Twentieth Century-Fox four, two and six; Universal three, two and one; Warners nine, one and eight; independents zero, four and one.

Columbia had one short subject in work, two preparing and one editing. M-G-M had one, one and five; Radio zero, five and three; Roach zero, zero and one; independents one, two and zero.

No Reopening Seen On Lincoln Action

Lincoln, Aug. 10.—There is little probability that the Independent Theatres, Inc., Federal court action for $1,353,000, recently dismissed, will be reopened, according to reports following a conference of the board of directors this week. Action was on the court docket here for more than a year. It charged restraint of trade, an existing collusion and conspiracy among M-G-M, RKO, Warners, U. A., Twentieth Century-Fox, Universal, and Paramount, distributors, with J. H. Cooper, New York, Lincoln Theatres Corp. and Robert Livingston, here, and was dismissed without prejudice in June.

Differences on the board was the reported cause. The same defendants had won a dismissal in April on the State Theatres, Inc., suit for $444,000, on the same charges.

Appeal Lincoln Judgment

Lincoln, Aug. 10.—The recent county court judgment of $2,025 to Frank B. Kimball, against the Lincoln Theatres Corp. in the Rialto case here, has been appealed to the State Supreme Court by the defense. Originally suing for $20,000, allegedly due when Lincoln as a renter sold part of the Rialto equipment and allowed back rent to accumulate, the $2,025 judgment was made last spring.

"U" Men Here on Deal

Harry Graham, southern division manager, and E. S. ("Dutch") Olsmith, Dallas branch manager, are in New York working with James R. Grainger on Universal's deal with the Griffith circuit. R. E. Griffith and Horace Falls, representing the circuit, are here as well.

W. C. ("Bill") Heineman, west coast division manager, who is covering "U" exchanges on an air tour, was in New Haven yesterday and today covers Albany and Montreal.

Salzburg Impressed

Salzburg, Aug. 10.—The world premiere of "Romeo and Juliet" here not only proved a pronounced success, but made a deep impression on diplomatic, society, stage and literary figures who attended the performance. Max Reinhardt described the picture as "charming, and the excellent work of Miss Shearer wonderful."

Grand Nat'l Sets 3 Regional Meetings

Two instead of three regional sales meetings will be held by Grand National starting next week. The first will be in New York at the Warwick on Aug. 17-18. The entire eastern and New England sales force will be on hand for this session.

The second gathering is slated for Chicago on Aug. 20-21. The midwestern, southern and western sales staffs will attend. A hotel will be decided upon in a few days.

Carl Leserman, James Winn, Stanley Hatch and Edward Finney will represent the home office at both sessions. Leserman will announce 52 features to be broken up in three divisions, the first to be known as 36 Grand National Winners, the second, eight melodramas and the third, eight westerns. There will be no shorts.

Several additional producers are expected to be made known by Leserman at the sales sessions.

With the appointment of six branch managers, the Grand National setup for the midwest is now complete, Leserman stated yesterday.

Tom Tobin, formerly of RKO, has been assigned St. Louis; Carl Reese, recently with Twentieth Century-Fox, is in Omaha; Russell Borg, who has resigned from G. B., is manager in Kansas City; Lou Patz, who has been with Universal, is in Milwaukee; Lou Levy, formerly with M-G-M, is at Des Moines, and Don Woods, until recently with Paramount, is Minneapolis branch head.

G. N. Appoints Fish

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Mel Hullings, owner of Far West Film Exchange here, has appointed H. Bradley Fish local manager for the newly-formed Grand National exchange into which Far West will be merged. Fish was with Warners. Hullings will assume general supervision of the new exchange, it is understood.

Springer Party Today

Jack W. Springer today will entertain employes of the Springer & Cocalis circuit at his estate at Seven Oaks, Mamaroneck. There will be swimming, fishing, dancing, baseball, tennis and other outdoor sports. Several exhibitors have been invited and indications were yesterday 150 would be on hand.

Daws in Canada Ad Post

George Daws, of the Warner home office advertising and publicity staff, has been promoted by S. Charles Einfeld to the post of advertising and publicity director in Canada, with headquarters in Toronto. He will assume his new post on Aug. 17.

was using the double feature argument as a means of getting the seven extra days of clearance for which they are asking this year.

Duals have been absent from Chicago since Oct. 12, 1932. Allied and all local circuits are understood to be definitely opposed to the B. & K. plan but it is expected that they will follow suit as soon as the double featuring begins.

As the dual feature clause is not included in this season's contracts, exhibitor groups opposed to the plan have no means of stopping B. & K. The advent of duals may cause much unrest here with the possibility of a price war resulting.

An advance in admission prices is expected with the inauguration of double featuring in the B. & K. houses outside of the Loop.

All Film Houses in Barcelona Reopened

playing 90 per cent of American films, with their programs as of July 19. With regard to American film interests, Espinart Mestres of the Syndicate and Jose Carner Ribalt, newly appointed Commissioner of Public spectacles for Catalonia, representing the Generalidad, assured distributors that in the employe-operation of the theatres, the houses will take over the distributor contracts from the date of reopening.

The American distributors' rights will be fully respected as foreigners, both of the officials declared.

The situation here is clearing rapidly, and an official of Mutua, the distributor organization here, is acting as liason between the two factors.

Expect $90,000 for "Scotland" 2nd Week

up with $90,000. It is definitely being held for another week.

The 18th week of "The Great Ziegfeld" wound up with $14,400. The picture has until Aug. 19 to run at the Astor, following which "Romeo and Juliet" will begin an indefinite run on two-a-day basis.

"Suzy," in its second week at the Capitol, ended with about $21,000. "Devil Dog" is expected to tally about $30,000. "His Brother's Wife" will go in Friday.

Films for First Time

London, Aug. 10.—His Majesty's Theatre in the Haymarket is installing sound for an M-G-M season, with showings of "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Great Ziegfeld" planned. This will mark the first time films will be shown in this famous theatre. The arrangement was concluded by Sam Eckman, M-G-M chief here, with the Government, since the theatre is Crown property.

Norton Quits RCA Posts

Henry K. Norton, assistant to David Sarnoff, president of RCA, and also vice-president of Radiomarine Corp., has resigned both posts. His plans for the future are indefinite.

Seeks to Restrict Seattle Carnivals

Seattle, Aug. 10.—More strict regulation of traveling carnivals that play one-week stands in this city was asked of the city council by James M. Hone, executive secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Washington.

Hone is seeking an ordinance requiring carnival operators to take out a license at least two weeks in advance of their local engagement. He also requests more strict policing of these shows, declaring that at the present time many children are admitted to indecent carnival sideshows and are permitted to gamble at carnival concession booths.

Felicitate Mrs. Temple

New Haven, Aug. 10.—The Independent M.P.T.O. has forwarded to Mrs. George Temple, mother of Shirley Temple, a unanimous resolution congratulating her on her recent refusal of a substantial offer for the personal appearance of her daughter on a radio program and at the Texas Exposition. The move is in line with the organization's protest against the appearance of film stars on radio programs.

Slim Chance for Increase

Cleveland, Aug. 10.—Prospects of an increase in local theatre admission prices here are very slim, according to consensus of exhibitor opinion. While a majority of the exhibitors operating houses in the higher admission brackets favor the raise, there seems little hope that such a move can be adopted unanimously, and unless it is unanimous, no one is inclined to break away from present scales.

Anderson May Direct

London, Aug. 10.—John Murray Anderson, musical comedy producer who arrived from New York on the Normandie today, may direct a picture for London Films.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Mummy's Boys"

(Radio)

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—The new Wheeler and Woolsey film is no better than their last few offerings and will appeal only to fans whose loyalty cannot be shaken.

The comedians play a couple of ditch-diggers who join an archaeological expedition as excavators in Egypt in spite of the fact that mysterious deaths have carried off nearly all members of the original party. Routine complications appear, including a sheik with two missing wives, a stowaway negro afraid of ghosts, a mad scientist with a poison-filled syringe and a chase through the enormous, dimly lit tomb of the Pharaoh.

Several individual members of the cast turn in good work, struggling with pathetic futility to do justice to the poor material. Among them are: Moroni Olsen, Frank M. Thomas, Willie Best, Francis McDonald, Frank Lackteen, Charles Coleman, Mitchell Lewis, Frederick Burton and Barbara Pepper. Lee Marcus produced and Fred Guiol directed from the screenplay by Jack Townley, Philip G. Epstein and Charles Roberts. The story is the work of Townley and Lew Lipton.

The exhibitor should make his play for the Wheeler and Woolsey fans by emphasizing the background of the comedy and the value of the second picture on the program.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,346. Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

"Racing Blood"

(Maurice Conn Prod)

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Balanced evenly with romantic suspense and action, "Racing Blood" is a generous conglomeration of hokum entertainment aimed at small town and neighborhood trade. The film is a tailormade vehicle for double bills and will find adequate audience reaction in the aforementioned spots.

The story is routine melodrama involving horse lovers, race track touts and gamblers. Frankie Darro is one of a long line of famous jockeys who rakes enough money together to purchase a promising colt with a bad leg from Kane Richmond, horse owner who is in love with Darro's sister, Gladys Blake. Darro grooms the colt into a race horse thoroughbred worthy of any sweepstakes. A scandal comes out of the first race due to underhand activities of the gambling ring and Darro's brother is barred for good from competitive racing as a result.

Climaxing the story, Darro is kidnapped before the big race which ultimately leads to the arrest of the gamblers, recovery of Darro's brother who has tried to commit suicide, also subsequent reinstatement and romantic denouement of the love interest linking Richmond and Miss Blake.

Cast performances including those of Arthur Housman, Jimmie Eagles, Matthew Betz, Si Wills, Snowflakes and others are up to standard. Negro songs by the Jones Quintette are diverting. Rex Hale gives the film speedy production in direction. Stephen Norris interpreted the Peter B. Kyne tale well in the adaptation. Photography by Robert Doran, William Hyer and Jack Greehalgh is well above the average independent.

Hazen to Wed Today In Double Ceremony

Joseph H. Hazen, personal assistant to Harry M. Warner, will be married this afternoon to Lita Annenberg Howard, daughter of M. L. Annenberg, publisher, at the Annenberg estate at King's Point, Great Neck, L. I.

Jack L. Warner will come on from the coast to act as best man. He will arrive this morning, and will attend the opening of "China Clipper'" at the Strand tonight.

The ceremony will be a dual affair, with Enid Annenberg Bensinger, another daughter, becoming the bride of Ira Haupt, member of the New York Stock Exchange. The two couples will accompany Jack Warner to Europe, sailing on the Queen Mary. They will be the guests of Max Reinhardt in Austria during their trip.

Barker, Club Paper, Will Be Out in Oct.

Columbus, O., Aug. 10.—The Barker, national magazine authorized at the last annual convention of the Variety Club for circulation among its members, with whom it is declared subscription will be compulsory, will make its initial appearance under an October date line. G. W. McDonald is the business manager of the Barker Publishing Co., which has established headquarters here.

Underwood in Story Post

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Darryl F. Zanuck has named Franklyn Underwood as head of the eastern story department at Twentieth Century-Fox. Underwood replaces Thomas C. Costain, resigned.

Short Subjects

"Listen to Freezin'"

(RKO)

What starts out to be a mother-in-law problem for a pair of newlyweds ends up with the couple knee deep in refrigerators. Ruth Hiatt's mother, Elsie Newell, visits the married fledglings and immediately finds fault with the house and the icebox. In their desire to satisfy and make their parent happy, they move out and then visit a store where they get a complete thesis on refrigeration from Edward Keane, the salesman. They had originally come in for a $40 electrical icebox and go out with about a half dozen. Silly stuff, but will probably get laughs in the neighborhoods. Al Boasberg wrote and directed. Production Code Seal, No. 1,937. Running time, 15 mins. "G."

"It's a Greek Life"

(Van Beuren-RKO)

Last of the Rainbow cartoon series produced by A. J. Van Beuren for RKO. It is one of the best of the series and will entertain generally. A Centaur, whose chief occupation is cobbler, manages to ply his last without any particular excitement until Mercury comes along and demands his winged shoes be re-soled. The shoes start doing tricks and are a general annoyance to the Centaur with the result that the cobbler cannot complete the job in time. He also takes an awful drubbing from Mercury for trying to fool him when the original pair of shoes is not ready in time. Production Code Seal, No. 0985. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Pathe Topics"

(RKO)

Number seven in the series and titled "The Harvard Special." The subject proves unusually interesting in that the complete history of the university is tied in with the Tercentenary this year. The photography is a fine piece of craftsmanship. Interesting highlights are shown from various angles and coupled with a thorough explanation. This short stacks up as one that will be of considerable value to audiences and for educational purposes. Production Code Seal, No. 01154. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Mickey's Circus"

(Disney-U. A.)

Mickey gets equal billing with Donald Duck in this, but it's Donald's show all the way. This time he is the boss of the trained seal act which goes to pot on the basis of unequal distribution of the fish and raids by the baby seal. It's vastly clever and always amusing, like others in this series. Production Code Seal, No. 2,207. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

DuWorld Sets Sales Plan

DuWorld has completed plans for the selling of "Legong" by a sales force working directly from the New York office. Arche Mayers, sales manager, has closed deals with a number of circuits.

"Crusoe" Short Ready

Columbia will release as a three-reel short subject special, "Robinson Crusoe," the classic of Daniel Defoe. Release is set for Sept. 7.

"Rhythm" Hits Chicago High With $39,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Six of eight houses here broke par by good margins and the other two equalled it, in one of the best weeks Chicago houses have had in weeks. The answer is strong product and warm and fair weather.

The standout was "Rhythm on the Range," which did $39,000, to break a par of $32,000 by $7,000 at the Chicago. A Major Bowes unit helped. Bill Robinson on the stage of the Palace lifted that house, playing "Secret Agent" to $22,000, $3,000 above the average $19,000.

"The Green Pastures" did well, grossing $17,600 against an average of $15,000 at the United Artists. "San Francisco" scored $6,000 against a house average of $4,500 at the Apollo, and "Poor Little Rich Girl" went $1,300 over the Garrick par with $6,800. "M'Liss did $14,400 at the State-Lake to better average by $1,400.

Free concerts in the park nightly apparently have had little adverse effect on grosses. Prosperity night every Friday at the State-Lake is helping the gross.

Total first run business was $131,000. Average is $115,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 6:

"SUZY" (M-G-M)
ROOSEVELT—(1,591), 30c-40c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $11,000. (Average, $11,000)

"M'LISS" (Radio)
STATE-LAKE—(2,776), 20c-30c-35c, 7 days. Stage: Verne Buck and Revue. Gross: $14,400. (Average, $13,000)

Warners Acquire House

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—Harry Kalmine, zone manager for Warners here, has completed acquisition of the Regal in suburban Wilkinsburg. The house will be closed two weeks for remodeling.

The Regal will become Warners' "B" spot in Wilkinsburg, playing the product not wanted at the Rowland, the circuit's main house in that section.

To Reopen in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—The RKO Shubert here will reopen Aug. 14. The house closed several weeks ago. The initial attraction will be "The Great Ziegfeld" on a grand basis at 40 and 60 cents. The picture was roadshown at the RKO Capitol recently at 55 cents to $1.65. After about a month of pictures, the house will resume a stage show policy.

"Rhodes" on Dual Leads Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 10.—"Rhythm on the Range" and "Rhodes the Diamond Master" grossed $4,700 at Fox's Palace for the week's high during which business took a decided drop. This was $300 below par and all other houses clocked below average as well.

"The Green Pastures" and "Hot Money," dualed at the Warner, stayed only five days of its scheduled second week run, to gross $3,000. "The Devil Doll" and "High Tension" took in just $4,300 for a five-day run at Fox's Wisconsin. Average for this house is $8,000.

Total first run business was $17,100. Average is $24,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 4:

"THE GREEN PASTURES" (W.B.)
"HOT MONEY" (W.B.)
WARNER—(2,400), 25c-40c, 5 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $5,000)

Retitle Breen Picture

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—"Dream Come True" is the new title for the film being adapted from "'Toinette's Philip" by Sol Lesser as the next Bobby Breen picture.

Well?

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Nicodemus, colored singing and dancing headliner with Duke Ellington's orchestra, will have a featured role in the new Mae West picture.

A leading question might be: "What's happened to Beulah?"

"Rhythm" on Dual $6,000, Portland

PORTLAND, Aug. 10.—In their first week at the Orpheum, "Rhythm on the Range" and "Public Enemy's Wife," secured $6,000, over par by $1,000 in a slightly above average week.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "Till We Meet Again" in their 13th downtown week at the Blue Mouse annexed $2,500, over the usual take by $800.

"San Francisco" was held for a sixth big week at the United Artists, and grossed $6,000, over par by $1,000.

"Rhythm" at $13,500 Tops Cincy Takes

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—"Rhythm on the Range" was the only picture to get into the big money class last week, garnering a neat $13,500 at the RKO Albee. The run continues at the RKO Capitol.

"San Francisco," in its sixth week downtown, did $3,100 at the RKO Grand, which was $350 to the good. The picture played two weeks at the RKO Palace, two at the RKO Capitol and two at the Grand. It stays for a seventh week, which constitutes a record for continuous run. "State Fair" was pulled at the RKO Palace after a disappointing four days, and "To Mary—With Love" was substituted. "She Devil Island" and "Easy Money," double featured at the independent Strand, went $150 over the top.

Total first run business was $43,750. Average is $8,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 4:

"SHE DEVIL ISLAND" (First Division)
"EASY MONEY" (Invincible)

Attendance Is Up One-Third, States Warner

Better Product Reason, Executive Believes

Theatre attendance in the last three months has increased one-third over similar periods for the previous two years, "the low ebb," Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of Warner production, stated yesterday upon his arrival from the coast en route to London and Salzburg on a vacation and business trip.

The increase, which has been noted throughout the world, is due primarily to the improved quality of product, Warner stated. He mentioned a number of pictures reputedly responsible for the spurt.

Arriving with Warner were his wife, the former Ann Alvarado, Georgie Stone and A. Ronald Button. Stone will accompany the Warners to London, and will make a picture at the Teddington studios. The party sails today on the Queen Mary. Button is attorney for Max Reinhardt.

Warner was asked whether or not there would be any change in his com-

LeRoy in Producing Pact with Warners

Mervyn LeRoy has signed a contract with Warners whereby he will produce from four to six features annually, under the name of Mervyn LeRoy Prod., and to be released by Warners, Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production, revealed here yesterday. LeRoy personally will direct at least two a year, supervising production of the others. He will begin production by Nov. 1.

The Warner deal with LeRoy has been pending for several months, and has been considered by the director along with other arrangements which would have taken him either to Para-

20th-Fox Completes Lineup on 69 Films

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—The entire Twentieth Century-Fox lineup of 69 features for the 1936-37 season has been set and is progressing under the supervision of Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production.

Many of the scripts already have been completed. Shooting has started on "Ladies in Love," "Can This Be

Public Wants Single Bills, Warners' Survey Indicates

Single feature programs, rather than double bills, are overwhelmingly the choice of the screen public, the results of a survey, conducted by Warners, and issued yesterday, indicate.

The survey, which was conducted with the cooperation of newspaper editors, organization leaders and radio commentators, brought answers from 725,824 persons. A total of 568,751, or 78 per cent, voted for single bills, and 157,073, or 22 per cent, favored duals. The survey was begun last May 15.

Major Albert Warner, vice-president, expressed gratification at the result.

Those participating in the inquiry were almost unanimous in their belief that unusual productions should not be cut in order that they may fit into double feature programs. Such cutting hurts that type of picture, it was held.

A breakdown of the results shows that among school teachers and principals, 73 per cent favored singles, and 27 per cent duals; replies to newspaper queries indicated 72 per cent for singles and 28 per cent for duals; answers to the question presented by radio commentators showed 67 per

No Elimination

The Warner theatre circuit has no intention of eliminating dual bills where the competition is playing on that basis, a Warner theatre executive said yesterday, replying to a question concerning policy in view of the Warner poll which showed single bills the predominant choice of the public.

There are no specific plans afoot at the moment whereby the circuit will take the initiative in seeking the abandonment of duals in any situation, the executive declared.

"However, we would be glad to see duals eliminated," he said.

N. J. Allied Opposes Stars' Broadcasting

Opposition to the participation by film stars in radio programs was voiced yesterday by members of Allied of New Jersey at their regular meeting at the Lincoln. A protest was sent to the Hays office following the session, Lee Newbury, president, stated.

Policies of all film companies were discussed. Members who attended were given highlights of the various sales plans for next season.

The dual feature survey by Warners was aired briefly. No decision on the matter was made due to the impor-

Delay Facing Plan for RKO Reorganizing

A reorganization of RKO appeared destined for new delays as the result of the admission by Federal Judge William Bondy in U. S. District court here yesterday that he would require an additional six to eight weeks in which to decide the validity of Rockefeller Center's $9,100,000 claim against RKO.

A settlement of this largest of the unsecured creditors' claims against RKO is regarded as a necessary preliminary to the final shaping of a reorganization plan for the company and indications are that current set-

New Opera Idea to Be Tried By Union Cinemas in England

London, Aug. 11.—Operas played by famous artistes, as well as stage, vaudeville and radio acts, on the stage but backgrounded and accompanied by specially produced scenes in Technicolor, make up what is described as a new form of theatre entertainment to be tried by Union Cinemas, that circuit, approximately 150 houses strong, announced here today.

Paramount's theatre interests will cooperate with Union in development of the idea at an asserted yearly cost of £1,000,000. The idea will be pushed under the control of Harold Ramsay.

Korda Again Enters G. B. Deal Picture

Schenck's Visit Arouses London Speculation

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 11. — Alexander Korda and London Films today again re-entered speculation over the Loew-Twentieth Century-Fox-G.B. deal.

It was a day of curious and apparently unrelated circumstances, yet perhaps with significance. The press conference promised Monday for today by Joseph M. Schenck failed to develop. British newspapermen as a result spent their time this afternoon and tonight unsuccessfully trying to get in touch with the Twentieth Century-Fox official and came to the conclusion, shared incidentally by many in the London trade, that some snag in the negotiations may have developed, or will. It was only as far removed as Monday when Schenck, on his arrival from New York, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY, "I know it won't fail."

This afternoon he visited Korda at Denham where he also met Charles Laughton and others of his friends now

Fox Circuits Sign 3-Year Metro Deal

A three-year master contract for the showing of M-G-M pictures in the Fox Midwest, Fox West Coast, Evergreen States, Intermountain and Fox Wisconsin theatres was signed yesterday afternoon by Al Lichtman, representing the distributor, and Spyros Skouras, acting for National Theatres, the holding company for the five circuits.

Under the terms of the arrangement, M-G-M features and shorts will play in more than 400 theatres from coast to coast until 1939.

United Artists Sets RKO Deal on Product

United Artists yesterday closed with RKO for next season's product. The deal provides for dates in the circuit's houses where situations have been open in the past.

Harry Gold, Assistant to George J. Schaefer, acted for the distributor, while John J. O'Connor, Fred Meyers and Max Fellerman represented the circuit.

Distributor Rights Respected in Spain

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

BARCELONA, Aug. 11.—An inquiry among distributors here following the reopening of film theatres indicates that property rights are being fully respected in principle.

An invitation to distributors to cooperate by donating 50 per cent of Sunday's grosses for the relief of the victims of the revolt, has been circumvented.

The rental of the Coliseum, leased by Paramount, has been reduced approximately 90 per cent, but the lease is inoperative and the house is under the control of the Syndicate.

No European Trip

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

IF he alone were calling the shots, Alex Korda would proceed on his own idea of "live and let live." Making progress here in the furtherance of his own production endeavors, via London Films, and the controlling factor in the extensive studios at Denham, Korda wants nothing more than to be left alone by Hollywood in order to pursue his way in his own manner. This led to a question as to exactly what he meant. His answer was "Donat, Oberon and Laughton," his developments all, but now partial part and parcel, at least, of major coast plants. . . .

"If Hollywood will leave me alone, I will leave Hollywood alone," he declared. "But look what has happened in the case of these three players. They have developed here and now we lose them, for part of their time anyway." Therefore, Korda declares himself free to dip into the Hollywood starring pot for whatever he can get at the best available prices, which are plenty, as witness the one-picture Dietrich deal for "Knights Without Armor." Marlene's stipend is exactly $250,000. We told Alex there were some in the west who failed to look upon his activities kindly, that he was accused of jacking up costs on talent and so making it tougher for the boys out Hollywood way. "Be specific," he asked. We were—Dietrich. "That's a funny one. Do you happen to know what Dave Selznick paid her for 'The Garden of Allah'?" Subsequently, we discovered the terms of her new Paramount deal match Korda's. What we were not able to unearth, however, was whether her $250,000 per picture arrangement with Paramount was influenced by Korda's deal or whether it came first. There, however, to take or to leave, was his cardinal argument insofar as it concerned American importations. . . .

The keynote of London Films' production plan is return on the original negative cost from England; whatever else may develop is gravy. Korda, as a consequence, stated he is not proceeding on any assumption that profit will come from America. Naturally, he wants and hopes to get it and is molding and re-molding plots and schemes accordingly. He also fails to understand why the American trade, as he put it, is so unalterably opposed to the crystalization of a substantial production industry here. "I concede readily that Hollywood will always dominate world markets as a producer, but why should Hollywood attempt to rule? It is entirely natural that England should want and will have its own production business. France has its, Germany has its and the United States we all know about." . . .

The answer is, of course, simple and its applications several. Here in England, British producers for some time swept along on the tide of nationalism, always strong in Britain and forevermore strengthened by its geographical isolation. The industry had its long cycle of product like "The Flag Lieutenant," touting the glories of the navy. Some of this ilk were good and some bad, but virtually all cleaned up because of the fires of patriotism kindled anew in each faithful and stalwart English breast. Even now, there are producers who are concentrating on history, figuring costume plays fundamentally English will appeal to domestic pride, which is a very genuine matter to the native-born although not always comprehensible to the foreigner. . . .

In other words and understandable completely, the British producer has played and does play the game along strictly commercial lines. He embarked upon those types of attractions which he thought would make money. The military-naval cycle worked; the costume cycle, if exhibitors are smarter than the rest and can successfully figure it out in advance, will not. That, however, is for tomorrow and the day after to determine. View the British quota law as another evidence of the proof. In its fundamentals, at least, it was thoroughly honest. The first object,

> "to impose certain restrictions on 'blind' and 'block' booking so as to release the exhibitor from the hold acquired over him by the United States renting distributing organizations" will be discussed later. Its second, however, is of direct interest at this time:

> "to assist production in the United Kingdom and elsewhere in the Empire by placing an obligation on renters in the United Kingdom to acquire and on exhibitors to show an increasing proportion of British films during the currency of the Act."

Very clearly, the British Government, by subsidy, set out to drag up a production industry by the very ears, with results both good and bad. . . .

Finally, to get to Korda's point about Hollywood opposition, genuine or fanciful, the same line of reasoning obviously applies. Why should not Hollywood oppose a rising British or French or Italian industry? Why should it set out to encourage wholeheartedly competition in its one or several principal markets? If the Government here, using the full weight of its law-making authority, could and did enact a quota act to reduce foreign, which happens to be American, dominance, Hollywood or any other segment of the United States trade is thoroughly within its prerogatives to set whatever obstacles it can find or create in the way of any competitor who may now or ultimately threaten it. Singularly free does it seem to us is Washington insofar as prohibitions against film importations into America are concerned. . . .

No reason, therefore, prevails why Hollywood should leave Korda's or any other producer's talent untouched. This is a battle for top honors with the odds so far heavily in America's favor. The heads of the majors on your side would be startlingly derelict in the conduct of their official jobs if they did not seek to bring to their studios whatever real talent is susceptible to the lure of higher salaries. Hollywood may not cheer if Korda gets Dietrich for one film at the same or a higher figure. Korda is privileged to submit to the same reaction, of course, when his talent is gobbled up by Hollywood. It's all in the rules of the competitive game and the answer, or one of them, seems to be that England should protect its talent by meeting and outstripping Hollywood offers. When Korda, answering a question, conceded the British industry must develop its own people but complained when Hollywood "steals" them, it seems to us he was avoiding meeting the problem face to face and in the open where, sooner or later, the combat will take place. . . .

Roxy 26-Week Net Equal to $55,425

The bondholders' committee for the Roxy yesterday reported net profit of $55,425.61 for the 26 weeks ended July 2, 1936, after all operating expenses, rent, taxes and other items, but before Federal income tax, interest on funded indebtedness, depreciation, amortization of leasehold and fees for counsel and auditors.

The gross income for the period was $719,657.91, which compares with $890,263.37 for the previous 29 weeks. Of the current gross figure, $709,636 was accounted for by admissions, the balance being classed as miscellaneous. Operating expenses, including film rentals, salaries, advertising and administration, totaled $579,093.91, which leaves a net operating profit of $140,564. Other expenses amounted to $85,138.39, which included rent, taxes, insurance, interest on receiver's certificates and reserves and trustee's expenses.

No Reorganization Set

The weekly average profit for the half year was $2,131.75. Attendance was 1,781,912, or a daily average of 9,791. The feature film rental bill for the 26 weeks was $65,502.14, which gives the theatre an average of $2,519.31 a picture.

According to the committee no plan of reorganization has been submitted that warrants its approval and as a result the committee intends to propose a plan of its own to the Federal court on Oct. 9. It is pointed out that efforts to secure a franchise from one of the major companies have been unavailing, but nevertheless the reorganization plan in the interest of the bondholders is justified.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Straight from the Shoulder"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD,, Aug. 11.—Starting as a routine gangster tale, this builds into a tense drama with David Holt, the child star, holding the center of interest.

Young Holt is the child of Ralph Bellamy, a widower, who is courting Katherine Locke. Bellamy and Miss Locke witness a holdup and he, as the only man who can identify the crooks, is put on the spot by the gang. The couple and David seek refuge at the country workshop of Andy Clyde, a gunsmith. Bert Hanlon and Noel Madison trace them there, reaching the shop when all but David are away. In a tense scene the boy learns their identity and in a well-directed sequence spikes their guns. When the others return Miss Locke takes care of Hanlon with a perfectly aimed bullet while Madison's own gun explodes in his face. Miss Locke's marksmanship wins the heart of the child, who had been distressed over the romance.

Stuart Heisler directed skillfully, nicely balancing the elements. Sidney Brod supervised the A. M. Botsford production, which is neatly executed, although not lavish. Madeline Ruthven wrote the screen play from the Lucien Cary story, building the youngster's part well. The supporting cast includes Purnell Pratt, Onslow Stevens and Paul Fix.

As family entertainment the picture should please.

Hears Arguments in Action Against RKO

Arguments were heard yesterday before Federal Judge Liebell in the $500,000 suit filed against RKO by Claire H. Davis. The action seeks an injunction to enjoin further showing of "Bunker Bean" and $500,000 damages, half of which is sought under a separate cause of action in a complaint which alleges libel.

A motion for dismissal was argued for RKO by William S. Savage, who contended that the name Cassandra was not the plaintiff's real name according to the civil rights' law and further that RKO and the plaintiff both took the name from the same source, a character in Greek mythology. As such, Savage held that RKO had as much right to its use as the plaintiff.

Originally, the case was brought in the N. Y. Supreme court. On Aug. 7, RKO moved to transfer it to the Federal court. Following oral argument, Savage filed a brief. Marc Hermelin, attorney for Miss Davis, was given one week to do likewise. After the latter files his brief, RKO has two days in which to answer.

Bankruptcy Hearing Will Start Tomorrow

A hearing in the bankruptcy of Jaydo Amusement Co. and Fairdeal Amusement Co., which formerly operated the Gem and Majestic, in the Bronx, will begin tomorrow before Referee Joyce in the Federal Court.

Meanwhile, Robert Benjamin of Phillips & Nizer is discussing terms of a proposed settlement of the $30,000 claims held by 14 major and independent exchanges in the local area. Branch managers held a session at the New York Film Board Monday and talked about the settlement, but no decision has been made. Further conferences with attorneys for Gemma Amusement Co., which took over the two theatres, are planned.

tlement negotiations being carried on between Atlas Corp. and Rockefeller Center will be discontinued pending Judge Bondy's decision. Opinion in informed quarters is that any settlement which might be reached by negotiation now would have little chance of obtaining court approval in advance of a decision and would be contested by RKO creditors if it came after a decision favoring RKO. If the decision favored Rockefeller Center the issue undoubtedly would be taken to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals by the RKO trustee.

Judge Bondy leaves today for his annual vacation of six or seven weeks in Europe. At the conclusion of an RKO hearing yesterday he stated that "after reading some of the briefs for and against the Rockefeller claim twice, and all of them once, I find the issues very close and hard to decide." He added that he would like to have additional time in which to make a decision.

Construction Costs Involved

Rockefeller Center bases its $9,100,000 claim against RKO on the unamortized cost of construction of the Music Hall and Center at the time that RKO went into receivership in January, 1933, when the 20-year leases on the two houses were terminated. Thomas D. Thacher, considering the claim as a special master, decided two years ago in Rockefeller Center's favor. Negotiations to effect a settlement of the claim were conducted for 18 months thereafter by the RKO trustee without success and an appeal from the special master's report was taken to Judge Bondy last winter, with the decision now awaited.

The RKO trustee, in contesting Thacher's report, contends that Rockefeller Center's damages under the leases are limited solely to a three-year future rent claim against the bankrupt, or a total of $2,862,000 at the fixed rental of $953,972 annually. The trustee claims that RKO did not agree anywhere in the lease to pay the cost of construction of the theatres except as a default penalty and contends there has been no default.

Theatre Overhead Cited

The assertion is made that if RKO had fully performed the 20-year lease Rockefeller Center would not have received anything for the cost of construction of the theatres and points out in this connection that Rockefeller Center's overhead on the two houses is $646,940 annually, which, on the basis of the $953,972 rental, leaves it $307,032, or a three per cent return on its investment, which, the trustee asserts, obviously leaves nothing for amortization of the construction costs.

The trustee also claims that the damage clause, even if a valid one, is unreasonable and cannot be accurately estimated. He points out that Rockefeller Center tries to establish that the theatres are "white elephants" in fixing the damages it has suffered and yet reminds the court in its brief that they are valued at $10,000,000 for the purpose of fixing rentals.

Yesterday's hearing before Judge Bondy was on the application for interim allowances totalling $148,308 for services in the RKO reorganization since last January. Irving Trust Co., trustee, asked an allowance of $60,000, stating that it has received, heretofore, a total of $175,000 in fees for its three and one-half years of service in RKO's proceedings. Donovan, Newton, Leisure & Lumbard, counsel to the trustee, asked an allowance of $85,000. The law firm has received $240,000 heretofore. Price, Waterhouse & Co. asked an allowance of $3,308 for special RKO auditing work.

Judge Bondy reserved decision on the applications after hearing the lone objections of Joseph Cohen, attorney for an independent stockholders' committee representing 180,000 shares of RKO stock. Caroline Kohl of Chicago, whose former interests included large holdings in Orpheum Circuit, is the largest individual stockholder in the independent committee.

Scooped!

Hearst Metrotone News and Paramount News cameramen covered the sailing of the Rex the other day. William Randolph Hearst and a party of 16 were among the passengers, but the publisher balked at posing. It seemed he didn't feel like it or something along those lines.

The Metrotone News man shrugged his shoulders in that devastating cameraman manner and took a stroll. A few minutes later, Hearst changed his mind, appeared, asked for the Hearst man, was told he had left, and proceeded to stand for Paramount News.

Thereby, the scoop.

engaged in various productions there. From all surface indications it was a casual trip, but it may have had other import. Certainly to those watching the G.B situation carefully, it seemed curious in view of the important matters on which Schenck came over and his own pre-sailing word that he was coming to London to hasten the deal.

Korda was asked over the telephone if the Schenck visit indicated any interest of London Films in the big deal or if Schenck merely was looking over the plant with a view of ultimately centering British, M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox production there.

"We have been talking about many things, but I don't think I can say anything about it," Korda replied.

pany's plans as a result of the impending Loew-Twentieth Century-Fox-G. B. deal. His reply was that his trip had no bearing on any deals aside from production and that Warners would adhere to the original schedule of 26 features to be made at Teddington. Irving Asher will continue in charge of British production. Two new stages are being constructed at the English studios. This is one reason for the trip. The other is to confer with Reinhardt in Salzburg on the casting, script and other details in connection with "Danton," the next Reinhardt production.

With 14 productions in work, Warner asserted this was an all-time high for the studio on the coast. The company is four months ahead of schedule. "Charge of the Light Brigade," which has just been completed, will run two hours and 15 minutes on the screen, he said. Victor Moore has been added to the long cast of "Gold Diggers of 1937."

When Warner returns the latter part of September, he will be accompanied by Reinhardt.

Public Wants Single Bills, Say Warners

cent for singles and 33 per cent for double bills.

Numerous arguments were presented for and against the dual program. The following reasons for duals are listed in the order of the number of times each was cited.

1. The double feature program lends diversity to the entertainment.
2. There is a better chance that one of the two pictures will be enjoyable.
3. It gives us more for our money.
4. We like long programs.
5. A second feature is better than shorts.
6. One feature would be too little for the admission charged. We have learned to expect a lot for our money.
7. A second feature is better than vaudeville.

Eight Reasons for Singles

The reasons for showing films on single rather than dual bill programs follows, again listed in the order of the number of times each was presented.

1. A good picture invariably is coupled with a poor one. Thus we sit through the poor one to see the good one.
2. The double bill four-hour or more show is too long for pleasure.
3. We like more shorts.
4. The pleasure of seeing a good picture is marred by the second one, which wipes out the memory of the first.
5. We dislike the manner in which pictures are billed together.
6. The long double bill show causes eye strain, headaches and fatigue.
7. To make pictures fit double bill programs they often are cut so much that they become jerky and lose their entertainment value.
8. If one picture is suitable for children, the second picture generally is not.

Drop Efforts For Settling Center Claim

Continue Talks to Find Basis of Payment

Efforts to negotiate a settlement of the $9,100,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO have been discontinued, it was learned yesterday, but discussions are continuing between Atlas Corp. and Rockefeller Center officials seeking a basis on which the huge claim will be paid off under a plan of reorganization for RKO when the amount in which it is to be allowed has been finally determined in the courts.

Whether or not the settlement talks were ended as a result of Federal Judge William Bondy's statement on Tuesday that he found the issues involved "very close" and the validity of the claim "hard to decide," could not be learned. It was authoritatively stated, however, that further discussions between Atlas and Rockefeller Center would be confined to what treatment the claim is to receive under an RKO reorganization plan.

The object of the present discussions, obviously, is an attempt to bring a reorganization plan for RKO to completion without having to wait for the courts to decide the amount at

Hawaiian Firm Sues Warners For $300,000

Breach of Contract and Conspiracy Charged

A suit for triple damages of $300,000 and charging breach of contract, conspiracy and restraint of trade was filed against Warners and subsidiaries in U. S. District court here yesterday by Franklin Theatrical Enterprises, Ltd., of Hawaii.

The complainant operates six theatres in Hawaii and alleges in the complaint that it had signed a contract for Warner product in Los Angeles and that the distributor later closed a contract with Consolidated Amusement Co., dominant Hawaiian theatre concern, and advised Franklin Enterprises that its contract had been rejected. The complaint states that the contract was made in July, 1934, and stipulated that the Franklin houses would play the Warner product immediately after Consolidated.

As a result of the contract the plaintiff obligated itself for an investment

Seeks Examination In Skouras Action

A motion for examination before trial was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday on behalf of Lazfox, Inc. against Skouras Theatre Corp., Fox Metropolitan Playhouses and Fox Theatres Corp. The plaintiff charges that Skouras breached a contract by leasing concessions to other theatres throughout the country resulting in damage to the plaintiff's circuit of theatres. They ask for an examination of an official of Skouras and for the production of the Skouras records.

According to Skouras' legal department, papers in a similar action were served last week, but returned because of insufficient time to answer. No new papers had been served at a late hour yesterday, it was stated.

Discuss Extension Of Pool in Brooklyn

Negotiations are under way to extend the Paramount and Strand pool in Brooklyn for a year beyond Sept. 1, the expiration date. Lou, far from realizing what it was all about, succinctly answered "yes," hung up, and now he's trying to find out who made the call.

Beano Object Of Thorough Boston Study

Boston, Aug. 12.—The committee on licenses of the City Council is undertaking a thorough investigation of Beano, which has grown very rapidly here and is operating actively in competition with theatres and other kinds of business.

The object of the investigation is to discover what proportion of the revenue derived from the game goes to the promoters and the amount received by charities. It was charged at a recent committee hearing that the promoters were listing fictitious rental expenses in their reports to the licensing division, in order that they might be required to give less of the revenue to charity. Under the state law, the game must be operated for charitable purposes.

Testimony was introduced to the effect that one large establishment had listed its rental at $30,000 a year,

Decision Tuesday on All-Continent Books

Atlantic City, Aug. 12.—Federal Referee Robert E. He indicated that his decision and conclusions may be ready by next Tuesday, when the examination of witnesses is scheduled to resume.

W. Elmer Brown, Jr., counsel to Steelman, made it plain in today's arguments for the first time that the trustee is not necessarily siding with the creditors. The latter have insisted that when Fox in 1930 created All-Continent as a more than $6,000,000

Warners' Net Is $2,554,772 For 39 Weeks

Compares with $371,591 In Period Last Year

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries yesterday reported a net operating profit for the 39 weeks ended May 30, 1936, of $2,554,772.45, representing a remarkable increase of more than $2,000,000 over the corresponding period the previous year, when net operating profit reached $371,591.84. The figures in both years were after deducting all charges, including amortization and depreciation and Federal income taxes.

The net for the 39 weeks, before the deductions for amortization and depreciation and Federal income taxes, was $7,509,018.33.

The deficit carried to balance sheet as of May 30, 1936, equaled $11,679,782.29, which compares with a deficit as of Aug. 31, 1935, of $14,961,309.96.

The net operating profit was equal to $24.77 per share on 103,107 preferred shares outstanding on May 30, and to 60 cents per share on 3,701,090 shares of common stock outstanding on that date, after allowance for current dividend requirements on the preferred.

During the period, $1,088,982.94 was credited to the deficit account, repre-

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

THE accepted kingpins in British production openly express their serious concern over the status of their business these days when private banks in the City, insurance money, realtors, flour kings and South African fortunes so willingly and quickly open their coffers to new studio and film-making schemes. It is the widespread opinion in all circles here, except the fly-by-night who is in for the killing, of course, that production eventually will experience a severe reaction from Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford day dreams. . . .

Mark Ostrer of Gaumont British feels this way about it. So does Capt. Richard Norton of the Pinewood studios and British and Dominion Productions. Likewise, Korda. Each edition of the British trade papers, it seems, carries word of new enterprises. With such lightning-like rapidity do they come along—in print, anyway—that men experienced in the manufacture of pictures here who should be familiar with personnel readily admit that they are confounded, mixed up and downright confused so considerable is the wildcatting. Promotions continue to be sold to moneyed interests on the basis of loosely prepared estimates, usually blown up beyond rhyme or reason to embrace handsome returns from the American market when, so far at least, those returns are not to be had. . . .

Somewhere in the future must be a day of reckoning. It may be deferred in the flush of a temporary success, but not forever can it go on as it is going on in England without a halt. The damage to be inflicted upon the producer, legitimatized by his record, therefore and inevitably must be hurtful, although not necessarily permanent. Rather is it apt to evidence itself in a gradual tightening of finance and a more rigorous scrutiny of future propositions in the light of extravagant promises thrown about elsewhere and not met. . . .

As an indication of how it runs along in London these bustling days is the indication, which we dub it deliberately in view of other markings, that British producers, in the aggregate, will turn out about two hundred and fifty features in the 1936-37 season. It is highly probable that a number will never be made; that many will be just so much celluloid, produced under auspices which are not qualified for the job, but launched under the protective cloak of the quota law and depending upon that statute and native pride for indulgent support. . . .

Korda makes the flat statement that the small producer must finally go; that he expects England to produce somewhere between twenty-four and thirty genuine attractions a year once the initial excitement dies down, this total to spring from all sources. That he expects to be in the forefront was something he did not mention; that he feels so is, of course, to be taken for granted. Ostrer shakes his head over matters current and separately agrees that the halt must be called sooner or later, but preferably sooner. Norton adds one of the great difficulties centers in too much enthusiasm, inflamed by too ready money, and a woeful lack of production experience. Many things happened in America in 1929 and many minds were sobered by those happenings and their repercussions. In production, England is yet to go through this. . . .

Levine Here from Coast; Back Sunday

Nat Levine yesterday accompanied H. J. Yates and J. J. Milstein from Kansas City after attending a trade showing of "Follow Your Heart." Levine will remain in town for the rest of the week and will probably take a plane to Hollywood on Sunday.

A special trade show will be held this morning at the Astor with Republic's eastern and mid-western sale managers and leading independent and major circuit heads invited.

Decide Credit Terms For Barcelona Films

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

BARCELONA, Aug. 12.—The acceptance of the credit of Sindicato Unico Espectaculos, which is the Government organization in control of theatrical enterprise here at the moment, was tacitly agreed upon today at the first joint meeting of that unit with Sindicato Economico de Casas Distribuidoras, the distributor organization, formerly known as Mutua.

The acceptance is expected to be certified by the Generalidad. The basis of film rentals has been established at 70 per cent in cash, and the remaining 30 per cent in deferred credit for two months.

All theatre receipts are being deposited in the Banco Espana and the books of the theatres are constantly available for inspection by the distributors. When the agreement was reached it was pointed out by a distributor representative that the 70 per cent might sustain the current overhead of the local houses but the 30 per cent must represent a small percentage of the invoice value of the films in dollars. In view of the fall of the peseta, this problem is seen as subject to future discussion.

It was agreed as well that all payments for film requisition services will be made through the successor organization to Mutua, with no dealings to be countenanced with individual companies, and thus making it virtually imperative that distributors work closely together.

The seizure of M-G-M's Capitol in Madrid by the Government was reported in an International News Service dispatch from Madrid yesterday. According to the dispatch the Government maintained its step was legal because the theatre is registered as a Spanish company, although it is operated by American interests.

It was said that the American managers of the house were replaced by Spanish directors at the order of the Government's Industrial Control Board.

24 of G. B.'s Films To Famous Players

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—Further progress is noted in the acceptance of British films in Canada with the disclosure by O. R. Hanson, president of Empire Films, Ltd., Toronto, that Famous Players Canadian Corp. had booked its entire list of 24 Gaumont British features for the entire theatre circuit across the Dominion, including more than 200 owned or controlled houses. Seven of the G.B. pictures to be handled by Empire Films are ready for release, among the first to be shown being "It's Love Again," "Secret Agent" and "Nine Days a Queen."

One of the outstanding Gaumont British attractions for the new season in Canada is "The Great Barrier," starring Richard Arlen and Antoinette Cellier, which has special significance because it deals with the building of the first trans-Canada railroad and is being filmed in Canada at the present time.

White House Promises No Tax Increase

Assurance Comes After Officials Confer

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Assurances against any further increase in taxes were given today following a White House conference among President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasurer Morgenthau, Senator Harrison of Mississippi and Representative Doughton of North Carolina, chairman of the Congressional Finance Committee.

Following the conference it was said the President believed that no further increases in taxes would be necessary next year and the hope was expressed that the budget could be balanced in the fiscal year 1937.

The decision of the Administration to refrain from the enactment of new revenue legislation at the next session of Congress was seen as offering a "breathing spell" to industries which feared that the new corporation taxes adopted last session were but the forerunner of an even more drastic revision of the revenue law.

If adhered to, the Administration's policy will preclude any increase in admission taxes next year.

Loew's Stock Hits New High for Year

Loew's common stock yesterday hit a new high for the year on the N. Y. Exchange, the issue reaching 58¾ and closing at 57⅞ for a gain of one quarter of a point for the day. The sales for the day totaled 66,000.

The annual financial statement of the company is not due until November. On June 14 a financial resume was issued for the 40-week period. The annual statement will cover the year ending Aug. 31.

David Bernstein, treasurer, is prolonging his original three-week vacation until the end of the month. He is in New England.

Only 2% of Ads Rejected in Year

Out of a total of 12,450 advertisements submitted to the Advertising Advisory Council of the M.P.P.D.A. for approval during the year ended June 6, last, only 351, or about two per cent. were rejected or revised.

The effectiveness of the Council is further indicated by the fact that 103,310 stills submitted for use in advertisements or for other purposes during the year, but 1,027, or less than one per cent, were discarded or subjected to retouching to meet the standards of the Advertising Code.

Only 17 exploitation ideas were found unsuitable during the period, from among 12,100 submitted for consideration, and but 62 posters, out of 2,044 submitted, had to be changed. There were only three deletions in 867 trailers.

Approximately 85 per cent of all

RKO-Famous Players Transfer Is Delayed

Deliberations in the RKO-Famous Players Canadian deal whereby the former circuit will step out of Canadian theatre operation by turning over its theatres to Famous Players Canadian have been temporarily held up, it was learned yesterday.

James B. Field, head of the theatre legal department, who had planned to leave for Canada with Kenneth Umbright, one of his assistants, this week, has delayed his trip indefinitely. Umbright may go to Toronto next week, but this is not certain.

The Canadian session was scheduled with J. J. Fitzgibbons for working out final details in connection with the deal. It is possible Fitzgibbons may come to New York.

Charles Boyer, who sailed yesterday on the Ile de France with his wife, Pat Paterson, would not see newspaper reporters when they called at his cabin for interviews just before the French liner pulled out.

But the newspaper men wouldn't take no for an answer and hence got the purser to call the star on the telephone and tell him he was sending something up.

When Boyer opened the door, he found that the members of the fourth estate had outwitted him and then gave in for the interview.

Warner Branches Revised by Sears

Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager for Warners, has realigned the company's exchange setup, in order to bring about more centralized control by the district managers. There has been only one change in personnel. The new lineup, which is effective immediately, is as follows:

Robert Mochrie continues as assistant to Sears. Roy Haines, as eastern district manager, will have under his supervision New York, Albany, New Haven and Boston. Robert Smeltzer is mid-Atlantic district manager, with Washington and Philadelphia under him. Ben Kalmenson, former executive assistant to Harry Kalmine, Warner Theatres Pittsburgh zone manager, has been appointed central district manager in charge of Buffalo, Pitts-

Elimination of 10-Cent Admission in N. Y. Seen

Dropping of Early Bird Prices Will Increase Basic Scale Here

By BILL ORNSTEIN

Virtual elimination of 10-cent admissions in Greater New York theatres is seen as a result of an agreement reached unanimously last week by a majority of affiliated and independent circuit heads at a meeting in the office of C. C. Moscowitz.

The plan to abandon early-bird admissions, while definite for all theatres, does not include alteration of children's prices or theatres not having a price change between the opening and evening scales.

Another meeting of exhibitors who met last week is planned for next Wednesday or Thursday at a place to be determined. Developments in the interim will be the principal topic. Several of the industry's leading theatre executives have pledged to contact neighboring and competitive sources to align with the move.

So far no Broadway manager has been approached, although it is taken for granted the Capitol, State, Mayfair, Palace, Music Hall and Globe will fall in line. Representatives of these houses attended the session and voted for the plan.

The opinion among independents is that they have more to gain by conforming to the agreement than the affiliated theatres. The point is made in comparing prices on Broadway and

Philadelphia Units Merger Is Held Near

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Members of the I.T.O. and the M.P.T.O. of Philadelphia moved nearer a merger this week.

The two groups will meet separately on Aug. 19 to ratify or reject the recommendations of the joint committee on merging. If the ratification goes through, as is predicted, representatives of both organizations will meet on Aug. 20 to arrange final plans for the merging.

As a title for the new organization, the joint committee has agreed on United M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware. A board of 20, equally divided between the two groups, is proposed to elect officers. Non-payment of dues will be the only bar to membership.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

While in London

REFLECTIONS at large: The English are a peculiar people, through American eyes anyway. This reflects itself very frequently in how they view Hollywood's pictures. While the language is understandable, except in the instance of pronounced American idioms, here is the explanation why it is ofttimes impossible to compute success in England on the basis of what identical attractions did in America. The "Dora," or Defense of the Realm Act, for instance, was a war measure, still in effect. Cigarettes may not be purchased after eight o'clock at night. In some areas, ham and raisin bread may, but not plain bread. The pubs are closed at certain hours, as are the bars at the hotels, but "extension" hours, relaxing the closing time, furnish added time on certain nights. Many Englishmen naturally consider the restrictions outmoded, which they are. If you ask what delays their repeal, you're told, "These things take time." So it will also be with production. . . .

The all-British industry. Take a look: Alex, Zoltan and Vincent Korda, Hungarians; Ludovico Toeplitz de Grand Ry, son of Guiseppe of the Commercial Italian Bank and tied in with the Fascist regime, Italian, of course; Paul Soskin, nephew of a Russian banker of the same name and a Muscovite; Max Shach, onetime with Ufa, long experienced in Continental production and now operating Capitol, Trafalgar and Buckingham Prod., Austrian; Otto Klement of Garrett, Klement Prod., another Austrian, although Robert Garrett, partner and moneyed man, was in the British diplomatic service, then in the theatre, now in the studios; Erich Pommer of Pendennis Prod., a German. This is touching the highlights and eliminating the many Americans, previously mentioned, who are here in one capacity or another. . . .

One of the many interesting clubs is the Eccentric where they will bet you anything on anything from which fly will crawl to the end of the bar first to the gross on "Marriage of Corbal," one of Shach's. Probably London's best known sporting club, its stone-carved panels embrace among honorary life members England's statesmen with illustrious names of the theatre, past and present, including Sir Charles Wyndham, Sir Henry Beerbohm Tree, Arthur Bourchier, George Alexander, Sir James Lyons, Fred Terry, Sir Henry B. Irving, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, Henry Ainley, Sir Gerald du Maurier, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Sir John Martin Harvey, Sir Arthur Pinero. Lou Morris was our guide and, while he knew his club, we knew our capacity and the absorption of Scotch ended at a draw. . . .

Pommer looks at the past and today finds the times when he was production general for Ufa in Berlin in the long ago. His Pendennis company, hooked closely with London Films, is busy on "Fire Over England," his first, which Bill Howard is directing. Pommer subscribes to the thought, propounded by us in the form of a query, that the British industry must develop its own people. Further, he declares he is doing something about it and points to his present effort as proof. We shall see. . . .

To be "dirty" in London is not exactly what it sounds, but refers to lack of formal dress. Any hotel or grill here divides itself into two parts, the regular portion for black and white ties and the irregular where mufti is acceptable. Our own unflagging allegiance to the proletariat kept us in the latter practically all of the time. . . .

The streets are so narrow and so congested, the cabs are equipped with a special lock on the front wheel which permits them to turn in their own radius. The resulting marvels in traffic manipulation are actually something. So was the one long breath we took when we clambered aboard and held until our destination was reached. . . .

Long remembered will be the plush high-hatted doorman at Claridge's who called us our "taxeye" every morning. Islandbred Britishers insisted nobody ever said "taxeye," at least any more, but this flunkey did, experts notwithstanding. It was in the same class as the naval chorus at Portsmouth which sang "Down by the Rye-o Grande" at the Monseigneur one night. . . .

One kindly bobby went on a personal tour of inspection of an evening and pointed out odd courts and quaint streets which ordinarily defy the visitor here. He's our nomination for future police commissioner. . . .

There was the cabby who couldn't find the Cheshire Cheese where Dr. Johnson once held forth. It took an American, Eddie Klein, to locate the famous eating place. . . .

Jaydo Case Starts Before Judge Bondy

The examination of Herman Yaffa in the bankruptcy proceedings of the Jaydo Amusement Co. and Fairdeal Amusement Co. got under way yesterday before Federal Judge Bondy. Robert Benjamin and William Corcoran of Phillips & Nizer interrogated the first witness.

Lester Bachner's appointment as trustee for the bankrupt companies was officially confirmed yesterday by Referee Joyce. Bachner had been receiver. Another hearing will be held Aug. 28.

During the first day's examination it was brought out that Herman Yaffa and Henry Suchman sold to Springer and Cocalis the Gem and Majestic in the Bronx for $50,000, half of which had been paid out to specially designated creditors.

It was pointed out that the trustee can now bring action to recover $25,000 from the preferred creditors and then divide the money among all companies and individuals with claims. It is stated that 14 independent and major exchanges in the local area have claims against the two companies aggregating $30,000. None of the exchanges was on the preferred list of creditors.

Hawks-Goldwyn End Director's Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13.—Following two months of shooting on the Samuel Goldwyn film, "Come and Get It," director Howard Hawks today settled his contract with the producer because of a disagreement over the picture's ending. Goldwyn stated that the termination was arrived at amicably.

Hawks said that he wished to end the pact in order "to enable Goldwyn to complete the picture in the manner he prefers."

Kent Drive to Start

The fourth S. R. Kent sales drive, which will continue for 15 weeks, will get under way Sunday. William Sussman, eastern division sales head for Twentieth Century-Fox, will make a tour of his branches to get the drive under way. There is a good chance for the Sussman contingent to come through with flying colors this year, it is said.

Harry H. Buxbaum and Joe Lee have closed with Sam D. Cocalis for next season's Twentieth Century-Fox lineup in about 15 of the independent's local theatres.

film advertising in this country originates with member companies of the M.P.P.D.A., it was pointed out, and the remaining 15 per cent has in large measure followed the lead of the organization, it was said.

The Council was established in 1933, and is headed by J. J. McCarthy. It was indicated that necessary deletions and revisions have been progressively fewer each year since the establishment of the Council.

Report 15% Decline In Missouri Houses

ently, no crops except a little winter wheat. Farmers are cutting what the grasshoppers and dry weather left of the corn for silage.

Other exhibitors, except possibly in the larger metropolitan centers, like Wichita and Kansas City, report that the drought and hot weather have affected their business seriously.

Film salesmen report Missouri much worse off than Kansas, and the northern part of Oklahoma in equally bad shape. While salesmen claim that the drought hasn't yet affected sales of new season product as compared with sales at the same period a year ago, they say there is no way to escape an effect on business as the season goes on, largely because exhibitors seriously affected will have to cut down on the number of changes.

Extends Breen Budget

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13.—Sol Lesser, president of Principal Prod., has revised his plans and will make all films starring Bobby Breen, the child player, as class "A" features. The budget on the next, "Rainbow Over the River," has been more than doubled. It goes into work Sept. 1.

Nominating Group Meets

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13.—The nominating committee of the Academy Technicians Branch met here yesterday to prepare a slate of nominees to be voted upon in the branch elections to be held during the coming month.

Elimination of All 10-Cent Admissions in N. Y. Is Seen

42nd St. At most of the 42nd St. theatres and possibly one or two Broadway houses, the difference between the early-bird admission and the matinee price is five cents. The differential for the larger theatres on Broadway is from 10 cents up.

Every picture theatre on 42nd St. between Broadway and 8th Ave., the hotbed of early-morning-to-late-at-night grinds, plays dual features at 10 cents as the early-bird bargain price, while the larger houses on Broadway feature one picture at 25 cents and up.

Under the new plan, the third, fourth, fifth and sixth runs on 42nd St. and Broadway will lift the price to 15 cents from opening to 5 P. M., while de luxe and straight film houses of the major and independent firms will jack up the opening price to 35 and 40 cents. Paradoxically, the smaller theatres will increase admission prices by 50 per cent in the mornings with a five-cent boost, while the larger houses with a 10- and 15-cent addition will advance the original price by 30 and 40 per cent.

United Artists for four years had refused to sell the 42nd St. grinds. The company's sales executives felt the theatres on this street with low admissions were hurting the revenues of first and second run Broadway theatres. This company today, while selling to some of the theatres on the crosstown street with caution, is said to be getting the highest prices in this particular sector.

Reprisals Planned

No plan of penalties has been worked out for recalcitrant or procrastinating exhibitors, but some leaders are privately developing means of reprisal in the event the agreement is breached after the Sept. 5 deadline.

That Warners will join the parade at the Strand is indicated by a new plan to be inaugurated shortly. Only "A" product of Warners and First National will be dated after "Anthony Adverse," which opens Aug. 26 and is expected to continue for a month at popular prices. Extensive alterations, amounting to approximately $25,000, also will be made, according to plans now being approved by Joseph Bernhard.

With the Twentieth Century-Fox and Music Hall deal becoming more remote as the days pass, Broadway theatres apparently are playing a jig-saw game with product.

"To Mary—With Love," originally sold to the Capitol and withdrawn from the Loew theatre for a date at the Paramount, will ultimately play at the first house. The possibility is that Twentieth Century-Fox will set the date for September, according to reliable information. Aug. 28 was the date set for the Paramount engagement, but because of several scheduled bookings, the Capitol has not decided when to calendar a date. "His Brother's Wife" opens today for a possible two-week run. This will be followed by "Picadilly Jim," likewise set down for a fortnight's booking.

Roxy Gets Two Features

The Music Hall and Paramount have agreed on "My American Wife." It is dated to start at the Sixth Ave. theatre Aug. 20. Two other Twentieth Century-Fox films have been sold away from the Music Hall to the Roxy. They are "Girls' Dormitory," which is dated for Aug. 28, and "Sing, Baby, Sing," slated to begin Sept. 11. Each may go two weeks.

"Charlie Chan at the Race Track," the initial Twentieth Century-Fox picture on the 1936-37 program to show at the Roxy, finished a week's run last night with about $25,000 for the period.

United Artists' schedule of 30 pictures will be split in the local territory between Loew's and RKO. Loew's has a long term franchise with the distributor, which expires next year, calling for 15 pictures a year. Under the terms of a deal just completed, the RKO circuit will get the other 15 in this and other territories.

In the U. A. deal are included four Alexander Korda films. Included in the Twentieth Century-Fox franchise will be five Robert Kane pictures made in England, indicating that G. B. may be off the circuit's booking sheets next season. The circuit also has its affiliated company's product as well as Columbia to complete the lineup.

Many circuit executives are enthusiastic over the elimination of the bargain opening admissions, and the new 5 P. M. night price. Grosses are expected to take a sudden spurt after Labor Day as a result.

Federal House for Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Arrangements have been completed for a Federal theatre here, with the Repertory scheduled to open with "Chalk Dust" on Aug. 24. The leased house will have a scale from 25 cents to 55 cents. Three other Federal theatres in the state are the Worcester, Worcester; Mt. Park Casino, Holyoke, and Mayflower Grove, Bryantville.

In Financial Straits

HARTFORD, Aug. 13.—The local Civic Repertory, Federal theatre, is close to collapse because of financial difficulties. The house has been losing money steadily since it opened last March, and is faced with numerous unpaid bills, including rent on the theatre, leased from Loew-Poli.

To Start L. & M. House

Construction on the new 800-seat theatre planned at 170th St. and Jerome Ave., Bronx, by Leff & Meyers will be started next week, Abe Leff stated yesterday. The theatre is expected to be ready for opening in November. Leff, who has been troubled with a stomach ailment, will return to Monticello, where he has been staying for the summer, in a few days. He said that the papers in the deal whereby Consolidated Amusements will do the buying for the 10 L. & M houses have not yet been signed.

Levine Takes Bows For Talley Picture

Nat Levine, production head for Republic, was congratulated on all sides yesterday after the showing of "Follow Your Heart" at the Astor. The special trade showing was attended by numerous circuit heads, independent and major, many of whom personally felicitated the producer.

Among the prominent industry figures attending the showing were Leslie E. Thompson, J. R. McDonough, John J. O'Connor, Fred Meyers, Max Fellerman, Eugene Picker, Dick Kearney, Louis Frisch, Sam Rinzler, Phil Regan, Leo J. McCarthy, Abe Leff, Leo Justin, T. B. Noble, Melvin Morgenstern and a host of others. All Republic branch managers in the eastern division were on hand in addition to Max Roth, midwest division sales head, and Robert Withers, Kansas City branch manager, and home office executives.

Following the screening the Republic men met at the Warwick to discuss the reaction to the picture and also to talk over sales policy. It is reported the Music Hall is negotiating for the Marion Talley and Michael Bartlett co-starring vehicle.

Levine said he will leave for Hollywood by plane tomorrow.

20th-Fox Gets Writers

Hollywood, Aug. 13.—Twentieth Century-Fox has moved in on the air field and has signed five writers well known on radio. They are Jerry Cady, Darrell Ware, Willis Cooper, Harry Tugend and John Patrick, all on term contracts. Also signed on term contracts are Eleanor Harris, daughter of Ray Harris and a recent graduate of Stanford; and Winifred Willis, wife of John Speaks. No assignments have been made to any of the new group.

McCormack in "Wings"

London, Aug. 3.—John McCormack has finished recording "Killarney" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" for sequences in "Wings of the Morning," being produced by Robert T. Kane for Twentieth Century-Fox. The film is entirely in Technicolor.

Johnson to Handle Six

Hollywood, Aug. 13.—Nunally Johnson has been assigned six pictures for the coming season at Twentieth Century-Fox. They are: "The Lost Nancy Steele," "Rings on Her Finger," "The Last Slaver," "Banjo on My Knee," "Cafe Metropole" and "The Enchanted Voyage."

Civic Film's Debut Set

Sacramento, Aug. 13.—"Progress of California Highways," a feature length, all-color film taken by the Dunning Process Studios of Hollywood for the California Public Works Dep't, will be premiered here about Oct. 1 at the Auditorium.

The department is planning a miniature Hollywood opening and hopes to have several screen stars present.

Col. Holds Hugh Buckler

Hollywood, Aug. 13.—Hugh Buckler, English character actor who has just finished in "Lost Horizon" at Columbia, has been signed to a long term contract by the studio. His next assignment has not been selected.

Seeks Restraint of Color Film Company

An application for an injunction restraining the owners and executive personnel of American Natural Color Films, Inc., including the inventor of the process, from exercising control or ownership of the company pending further legal action was filed yesterday in Federal court by Mrs. Emil Klamt and her daughter, Ada Verowa Klamt. One of the part owners of the company is James W. Gerard, former U. S. Ambassador to Germany.

Mrs. Klamt maintains that she purchased ownership of the process, known as the Wolf Heide Chemical Process of color photography, from the inventor, Herbert Britling, with the stipulation that she was to organize the American company exploiting it. She contends that she was defrauded of these rights by those now in control of the company.

Para. Signs 2 Writers

Hollywood, Aug. 13.—Paramount has signed Maude Fulton and Vina Delmar, writers, for special assignments. Miss Fulton will collaborate with Brian Marlowe on the adaptation of "First Romance," which Harold Hurley will produce. Withdrawal by Ascap May Aid Canada Houses

Would Pay No Music Tax In The Dominion

Canadian exhibitors may benefit by the withdrawal of Ascap from the Canadian Performing Rights Society to the extent of having to pay no music tax thereafter, it was learned yesterday from representative music publishing sources here.

The publishers' attitude places an entirely different complexion on the situation, which will result, insofar as exhibitors in Canada are concerned, from Ascap's threatened withdrawal from operations in the Dominion. Heretofore, Ascap officials have taken pains to create the impression that Canadian exhibitors would find it almost impossible to obtain licenses to perform copyrighted music in pictures and that, as a result, American distributors would be faced with the problem of trying to sell pictures in Canada which exhibitors there could not use without subjecting themselves to expensive copyright litigation.

Call Boston Beano $1,000,000 Racket

Boston, Aug. 14.—Beano, as operated locally, now under investigation by Federal, state and city authorities, has been branded a $1,000,000 racket by officials. The Boston Better Business Bureau charged that the operators were taking a "toll of millions" from the local public. The bureau in its statement declared that complaints and inquiries indicate that the "destructive influence" of Beano "as a legalized gambling device is growing by leaps and bounds" and emphasized that the state receives no share of the proceeds, as it does from horse and dog racing.

At police headquarters it was learned that specific complaints against four Beano parlors had been forwarded to the mayor's office. However, in spite of these complaints the police are powerless to do anything other than make a report of it to the mayor's licensing board. The licensing board may revoke the licenses.

State Appeals K. C. Bank Night Verdict

Kansas City, Aug. 14.—William J. Gilwee, deputy county prosecutor, has filed an appeal in the case of the state vs. R. W. McEwan, Bank Night distributor in western Missouri. Judge Marion D. Waltner of the Jackson County circuit court, who on June 23 held Bank Night not to be a lottery in violation of Missouri laws, has allowed the appeal.

The attorney general will take over the state's case, and the state Supreme court probably will hear the appeal in the September term, though it may be the January one, depending on the condition of the docket. Gilwee filed the original information against McEwan on May 29, this year. McEwan was arrested and released on bond. The information was in

G.N. British Unit Definite—Alperson

London, Aug. 14.—Edward Alperson, president of Grand National, said here today that the company definitely will establish its own distributing organization here. British pictures will be produced with assistance from the United States with respect both to financing and supervision, and with American distribution in view.

Alperson has visited the Pinewood Studios of British and Dominions and has held conversations with Captain Richard Norton, B. & D. executive. Alperson will sail for New York on the Ile de France on Aug. 21.

Mertz Is Appointed G. N. Head in Dallas

Al Mertz, former RKO branch manager in Detroit, has joined Grand National as Dallas exchange head. He has arrived from Detroit for preliminary conferences with Carl Leserman, general sales manager, and James Winn, eastern division head.

Mertz is staying over for the first of Grand National's two regional meetings which will get under way Monday at the Warwick. The session will end Tuesday. Although the first Chicago session was scheduled to get under way Thursday, the date has been set back to Friday. The Medinah Athletic Club will be convention headquarters.

Cleve Adams, temporary manager at New Orleans, will be given a new assignment next week. A number of out-of-town managers will arrive today and by tomorrow night the entire eastern group will be checked in at the Warwick.

London Reports Complete Agreement Reached

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, Aug. 14.—The general understanding in the City here today was that a complete agreement has been reached on the G. B.-Loew's-Twentieth Century-Fox deal between Joseph M. Schenck and the Ostrers.

Only legal formalities remain to be settled and final signatures are expected to be affixed next week. Heavy buying of G. B. securities, believed on the part of the factors in the deal, carried the 10-shilling ordinaries to 13 shillings, 10½ pence; the five-shilling "A" ordinaries to six shillings, 7½ pence and the preference shares to 19 shillings.

The London cable substantiates Motion Picture Daily's insistence that the big British deal, despite apparently serious setbacks, would go through. The delay, considered slight in view of the vast amount of detail attendant upon it as well as the necessity for the preparation of audits and legal papers, now proves to be nothing more, nothing less than had been anticipated after the major outline of terms had been arranged by Nicholas M. and Joseph M. Schenck and Isidore Ostrer in New York a few weeks ago.

Ask Transfer of Suit

Counsel for Carl Laemmle filed a bond for $500 in N. Y. Supreme court yesterday in asking for the transfer to Federal court of the suit for $275,000 commissions brought against him by Edwin R. Lavin. Willard S. McKay is named as a co-defendant. The complaint states that through McKay, Laemmle promised Lavin 5 per cent of the commission on money he was to receive as result of the sale of his Universal Pictures Corp. stock. The stock was sold to Standard Capital Corp. for $5,500,000 and Lavin asserts that he was instrumental in negotiating the sale. The $500 bond was to guarantee the cost of the action.

used or likely to be used in pictures, and from whom Canadian exhibitors would be obliged to obtain performing licenses if Ascap were to cease operating in Canada, dismiss the idea of either setting up their own licensing organizations in Canada or of prosecuting exhibitors for unlicensed performances. They state frankly that to set up their own licensing organizations in Canada would be impracticable and to prosecute Canadian exhibitors for unlicensed performances would be against the business interests of the film companies with which they are affiliated. The connections between large music publishers and film producers are so all-embracing that prosecutions of exhibitors by an affiliated music company would, in reality, place the film company in the position of suing its customer for using the product which it sold to him, one music publisher declared.

Regulation Caused Withdrawal

Ascap's threatened withdrawal from Canada was made as a result of the passage of new legislation in the Dominion which permits the Government there to regulate the rates which may be charged for the commercial, public performance of music. No final action on such withdrawal is regarded as likely, however, for another month, at which time a representative of the British interests which, with Ascap, own the Canadian Performing Rights Society, will come here from London for conferences with Ascap officials on future policy in Canada. It is also reported that a possibility still exists that the Canadian government may modify the new legislation on lines more to Ascap's liking, in which event it would continue to operate in the Dominion. The greatest inconvenience involved in Ascap's withdrawal would fall upon Canadian radio broadcasters and hotels, it was stated.

Shubert Still Out

A letter sent out to all Ascap licensees yesterday informing them of Warner's reinstatement in the Society made note that Shubert Music Publishing Co., a Warner subsidiary, did not apply for reinstatement and its music is not now included under the Ascap license. It is understood that the reinstatement of this company is not being delayed as the result of any continuing disagreement between Warners and Ascap but because of inter-company negotiations going on between the Shubert company and Witmark's, another Warner music subsidiary, which could result in a change in the former's catalogue.

Fights Release of All-Continent Books

Cole, counsel for Mrs. Eva Fox, head of All-Continent and wife of the bankrupt, filed the answering brief today with Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle who is expected to render a decision Tuesday.

Cole declared that neither Steelman nor the creditors have any legal right to an order turning over the books. He insisted that through questioning Herbert Leitsteen, Fox family bookkeeper, the creditors have already obtained the records of "at least 85 per cent of all the transactions the company has ever had. It is fair to assume that by pursuing their present method of investigation, before long they will have obtained a record from the All-Continent books of every transaction with Fox.

Calls Examination Complete

"The referee has permitted the widest latitude in examining the bookkeeper and the books on every point that might tend to indicate the oneness of the bankrupt and the corporation. There has been read into the record from the books every transaction that might be regarded as suspicious by even overly suspicious minds, and photostatic copies were furnished.

"No fraud on the part of either the bankrupt or All-Continent Corp. is alleged and certainly none has been established. Fox has been under subpoena for weeks but has not yet been examined, and no opportunity has been given him to explain what counsel for the trustee has referred to as significant or suspicious.

"Everything to date definitely indicates that the legitimate purposes of the trustee and counsel for the creditors can be fully served by the present form of examination. We are forced to conclude that the application is made for an ulterior purpose."

holdings, becoming a partner of the Fox theatre unit, manager of the Tower and also succeeds Joffee as president of Rewot Corp. Nate Block of St. Joseph, Mo., secretary and treasurer of Rewot, also has sold his interest to Fox Kansas City Corp.

The combination of vaudeville and pictures will be continued as the policy at the theatre. The deal adds Columbia to the list of product under the pool operating arrangement and under the present pact the Fox has all product with the exception of M-G-M and U. A., which plays the Midland.

Joffee opened the Tower April 13, 1934, and signed the deal with Fox Kansas City yesterday. He entered the business 13 years ago when on Aug. 13 he was taken on as an office boy at the Liberty. He was manager of the Fox Uptown from the opening date in 1928 to 1934. Joffee plans to take a six-week vacation in Hollywood and then return to the local scene.

306 Contracts Now Covering Television

tion in television transmission in the RCA Institute here, in addition to being schooled in new advances in film projection and general instruction in the technical aspects of sound reproduction. These 36, when their instruction has been completed, will qualify as instructors for a school to be conducted for all members of Local 306 by that organization.

Officials of the local belittled stories published earlier this week to the effect that it had applied to the I. A. T. S. E. for a television charter. They said that such a move would entail the setting up of a dual union which would have to draw the bulk of its membership from the ranks of 306 and would be against the interests of the local.

Cleveland Can't Believe Its Eyes; 5 Theatres Do $71,500

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—Although two of five local first runs were holdovers, this was the biggest week since Jack Benny played here last April. The total take was $71,500.

"The Devil Doll" at Loew's State, with the Marx Brothers on the stage in "A Day at the Races," skyrocketed to $26,000, which is $11,000 over the $15,000 average for a combination show. "The Green Pastures" playing a second week downtown at the Allen doubled the usual take.

"To Mary—With Love" was a hit at the Hippodrome, grossing $15,500, or $7,500 over par. It moved over to the Allen for a second week downtown. "Public Enemy's Wife" at the Palace with Duke Ellington and his band on the stage, hiked the average $15,000 take to $18,500. "Suzy," following a big week at Loew's State, had an average $6,000 take in its second week at Loew's Stillman.

Good weather, big out-of-town crowds attending the Great Lakes Exposition and two big stage attractions were held responsible for the unusually heavy total.

Total first run business was $71,500. Average is $44,000.

"Rich Girl" Washington's B.O. Winner

Washington, Aug. 14. — Shirley Temple dominated the town last week as "The Poor Little Rich Girl" sent the gross at Loew's Palace to $18,500, to top the weekly average by $2,600. It went into a second week.

"The Devil Doll," doing a return engagement at Loew's Columbia, took $4,000, over par by $400.

The Metropolitan, after pulling "Two Against the World" on the third day, during which $1,700 was taken in, set in "Secret Agent," to hit the $4,300 average for a seven-day stretch.

"Public Enemy's Wife" and a stage show took $18,000 at the Earle, under par by $400. At Loew's Fox, "Florida Special" grossed $18,000, under average by $2,900.

"The Harvester" set into RKO-Keith's prior to the opening of "Mary of Scotland," took $6,500 on a nine-day run, doing $5,700 on the first seven days, $800 on the last two. House average is $10,600 for a week.

Plan to Halt Duals in N. Y. Area Checked

ITOA Informed Product Bars Elimination

Efforts by a number of independent exhibitors to revive the campaign for elimination of double features in the local area have been nipped in the bud. No meetings on the topic are planned, despite the fact the matter was discussed briefly at a recent I.T.O.A. meeting at the Astor.

One or two theatre men who read an editorial on the dual feature situation in the Daily News recently called the article to the attention of the membership at the last meeting. A discussion ensued, but was cut short by a member of the buying committee who told them there was no use debating the matter as the two-ply program cannot be terminated because of the type of product being made.

The contention of the exhibitor in question was that the abandonment of twin bills is not up to the theatre

Will Select Single Bill Films in Akron

AKRON, O., Aug. 16.—The Akron I.T.O.A. has named a committee to develop the details of the organization's new plan for "selective single features." The plan provides for the selection of certain pictures which are not to be played on a double feature program in any theatre owned or operated by a member of the association.

The members of the committee, which was formally nominated and elected, are: Robert C. Menches, chairman; A. Ploenes and W. Hart, for Class A houses; H. Bickle and C. Stadler, for Class B houses, and M. Levin and R. C. Wahl for Class C houses. R. Paulus is secretary of the committee. When the details of the plan have been completed, a meeting of the full membership will be held for ratification.

Postpone Naming of Johnston Successor

Republic at present is not considering a successor to W. Ray Johnston, who resigned recently as president, according to Herbert J. Yates.

The company is too busy producing pictures to be thinking about a new president now and the next board of directors' session will not be held until next month, he said.

MPTOA Outlines Its Course If 10-Point Program Fails

The procedure to be followed by M.P.T.O.A. in the event it is forced into supporting legislation designed to regulate trade practices through a possible refusal of distribution companies to grant concessions for the new season along the lines of the national exhibitor organization's proposed 10-point trade practice program, is intimated in the regular monthly bulletin being sent out today to M.P.T.O.A. members by Ed Kuykendall, president.

The bulletin states that "if it develops that the distributors are determined to prevent self-regulation of commercial practices by refusing cooperation, and the industry is thereby forced into regulation by statute, then the more responsible independent exhibitors should have something to say about the provisions of such statutes."

The statement is interpreted as meaning that M.P.T.O.A. would not support any regulatory legislation now likely to come before the next session

Strand to Run Only "A" Warner Product

Effective Aug. 26, the Strand, on Broadway, will adopt a new policy of showing only "A" product of Warner-First National. On that date "Anthony Adverse" will open for an indefinite run at popular prices.

Under the new plan it is expected that the theatre will show about 30 films a year. "Anthony Adverse" is scheduled for a minimum four-week engagement. There will be no advance in admissions.

Several changes in the personnel of the Strand have been made. Milton Marion, assistant manager, on Aug.

Roxy Study Will Precede RFC Loan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The plan of reorganization for the Roxy, New York, will be carefully scanned by the R.F.C. legal staff before the Government agency disburses any money for rehabilitation of the theatre's financial structure, it has been stated here.

Officials of the R.F.C. explained that the R.F.C. Mortgage Co., through which are handled loans made by the Government, is committed to a loan of $750,000 to the Roxy, conditioned upon the ability of the applicant to meet certain requirements relative to a proper reorganization of the business, in the making of which the interests of all classes of security holders are protected and only reasonable fees are asked, and the settlement of other difficulties, said to include that raised by

By RED KANN

IN 1928, British production, as far as it had gone, compressed its total activities into nineteen stages with a total of 105,211 square feet representing a studio investment of $2.775,000, paying annual salaries of $987,250, less artists, for a combined output of ninety-one films costing $2,448,000. In 1935-36, stages had grown to seventy, their area to 795,557 square feet, their investment to $22,072,500, annual salaries to $10,985,000, combined output to two hundred and twenty-five features representing an outlay of $26,722,500. The Cinematograph Films Act, or quota law, became operative on January 1, 1928, for a ten-year period, foisting upon distributor and exhibitor alike, in its highest bracket, a twenty per cent exactment of English films. The growth in production is a corollary of the other, not that

RCA Service To National Theatres Set

Circuit Mostly Equipped With Erpi Sound

With the closing on Saturday of a five-year agreement under which RCA will service the sound equipment in 300 theatres of Twentieth Century-Fox's National Theatres, Photophone, for the first time in its history, begins large-scale servicing of reproducing equipment of other than its own make.

National's houses are equipped for the most part with Erpi sound systems, although some De Forest units are in use in the circuit. The servicing has been done by Erpi heretofore. That company stated only last week that it was prepared to begin servicing of reproducing systems other than its own and later this week the Western Electric subsidiary plans to launch in trade papers an extensive advertising campaign on a new type of reproducing system. The campaign will continue to the end of the year and will be designed to offset in part RCA's new merchandising advances, it is said.

The new RCA servicing pact becomes effective Oct. 1 and covers houses in the Fox West Coast circuit, the making of pictures there would not have expanded naturally beyond the 1928 level but because it was the quota law, extending Government protection by mandate, which hastened the process.

The Films Act has provided considerable employment in the English industry. It has also furnished a number of producers, some of them singularly lacking in accomplishment, with fat jobs and salaries and a large segment of the British exhibitors with a condition they would either prefer to do without or less of. Now that the first decade of thinly disguised subsidy is drawing to a close and an official committee is sounding out various groups on suggestions for the future, the factional lines are being drawn sharply with the outcome, at this stage, entirely surrounded by speculation and some acrimony.

There will be an extension of the quota. This is beyond argument. The form it takes and the tribute it exacts from the American distributor in the Kingdom are points at issue. The British producer, almost to a man, is for a sterner law for reasons obvious and, from his vantage seat, understandable. He wants to stay in business and the quota underwrites his future. He does not always care about the extent of playing time nor does he always interest himself in terms of sale to the exhibitor. So long as the law imposes on distributor and exhibitor a required acquisition of quota pictures, now at the rate of one for every five others, which means chiefly American, production there will be a going concern. It is axiomatic, of course, that the greater the distributor and exhibitor levy, the greater the enforced output of British-made pictures.

Before the Moyne committee which has the probing job in hand recently appeared a delegation representing the producers' group of the Federation of British Industries sounding off for a distributors' quota from twenty-five per cent in the first year to fifty-four in the sixth and subsequent years and for an exhibitors' quota from twenty-five per cent in the first year to a maximum of fifty per cent by the sixth. The consequences for the American industry under such a proposal may be described conservatively as devastating and ruinous, provided any such plan is embodied in the law to come.

The situation is somewhat curious as to how this came about. Studios have been shooting up at an amazing rate. Stages are available for those who would hire them. No production means idle studios. Idle studios mean stagnant investments. A whopping quota forces production. Work it out in quick reverse and the point is established. In certain American distribution quarters in London, the charge is made privately that the producers' group of the F.B.I. recently became flushed with an embarrassment of members, made up of producers to whom the quota is manna. Whether or not this accusation will hold up under examination is a question. There is, however, no question about the recommendations. There is also no question about the subscribers to the unreasonable quota suggestion.

Their names, for all to gaze upon, appear in the official transcript of the first four days' testimony heard by the committee and include twenty-three companies, among them enterprises with which Alexander Korda and Richard Norton are identified. John Maxwell, once in, is now out. His resignation from the F.B.I., which removes him from endorsement of its recommendations, was predicated on the belief that a reduction, not an increase, should be made because of lack of production manpower. The rumor is that Gaumont British which, it was subsequently admitted in testimony, had not concurred with other F.B.I. members, will join the insurgent ranks. And perhaps others to boot.

The position of Korda and Norton, on the other hand, calls for clarification. They told this writer, face to face but on separate occasions, that they opposed any quota on the distributor because it encouraged cheap pictures for American sales requirements and thereby dwarfed the stature of the growing British industry. Norton, however, expressed himself for the maintenance of the impost on the exhibitor with perhaps a slight increase. Korda has his Denham plant and Norton his Pinewood, twin circumstances upon which several responsible American representatives in London look askance. Both men by verbal declaration deny that which by formal document they have signed, or are claimed to have signed. Which places them on both ends of the see-saw at the one time. Hardlv a tenable position.

Tomorrow—How the producers sought to build their case, as evidenced by their testimony, with an appraisal of their proffered facts.

Legion Approves All Of 11 New Pictures

All of the 11 new pictures reviewed and classified by the National Legion of Decency in its list for the current week were approved, either for general patronage or for adults. Nine of the 11 were classed as unobjectionable for general patronage, and two as unobjectionable for adults. The new pictures and their classification follow:

Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"Brand of the Outlaw," "Ghost Patrol," "Girls' Dormitory," "Last of the Mohicans," "Love Begins at Twenty," "My Man Godfrey," "Piccadilly Jim," "Postal Inspector," "Schloss Hubertus." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"Hollywood Boulevard," "Sing, Baby, Sing."

Horne to Replace Brown

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Hal Horne, who has been on the RKO studio executive staff for several weeks awaiting an assignment, is in line for the producer berth in the picture, "Around the Town," as a result of the sudden resignation of Lew Brown following a difference of opinion with Sam Briskin over story treatment.

of Congress without having first been given a voice in changing drafts of such legislation already in existence or in shaping the provisions of new bills.

"Such laws," the bulletin observes, "should not be written by a small faction of shoe string operators led around by professional organizers who have no experience or responsibility in the business."

In spite of this expressed attitude, the bulletin characterizes legislation as "unsatisfactory and arbitrary" and litigation as "futile, expensive and hopeless."

Silent on Program's Chances

In considering the present status of the M.P.T.O.A. 10-point program, the bulletin is in sharp contrast to Kuykendall's optimism in addressing a convention of the Southeastern Theatre Owners at Jacksonville two weeks ago, when he expressed the opinion that at least four of the 10 points would be conceded by distributors. The bulletin makes no reference to the program's chances of success, either in whole or in part, and confines itself to the statement that efforts to obtain approval of the program have not been abandoned. It calls the "indifference and thinly veiled resistance of the distributors" to the program "discouraging" to the exhibitors who have worked for it.

There is a possibility that Kuykendall may come here from an exhibitor meeting at White Sulphur Springs which he attended last weekend to urge distributor action on his organization's program anew.

MPTOA Is Impartial On Broadcast Issue

Although the increasing use of film stars on radio programs is described in the current M.P.T.O.A. bulletin as of "grave concern" to exhibitors and as being "on the verge of becoming a much more serious matter than it has been," the national exhibitor organization's organ does not condemn the practice nor does it specifically recommend any action be taken by its affiliated units.

Although the bulletin reproduces in full a resolution condemning the radio appearances of stars which was adopted by its affiliate, the Kansas-Missouri T. O., on July 1, it maintains an impartial view of its own.

"Radio is here to stay," the bulletin observes, "and whether it uses screen talent promiscuously or not, it is going to put on the best and most appealing show it can. Just how much restraint or control is possible or practical is a difficult question, made doubly so by the personal right of everyone to realize the maximum return on his or her own talent and ability."

Boston Unit in Protest

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—The Independent Exhibitors, Inc., meeting in the quarters of the New England unit here, adopted a resolution protesting the appearance of film stars in radio broadcasts and calling upon producers to adopt restraining measures in respect to their contract players.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Cain and Mabel"

(Cosmopolitan-Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—H. C. Witwer's story of the prizefighter and the waitress makes lively fare with Marion Davies portraying the hash-slinger turned dancer and Clark Gable as the pugilist.

The familiar tale of the couple brought together for publicity purposes, separated and later reunited when they are actually in love, has been given a lavish production surmounting all rivals in sheer glamour. Several musical numbers staged by Bobby Connolly probably have never been surpassed. Miss Davies occupies a generous percentage of screen time with the supporting players who include, besides Gable, Allen Jenkins, Roscoe Karns, Walter Catlett, Ruth Donnelly, William Collier, Sr., Sammy White and David Carlyle, all delivering topnotch performances.

The Laird Doyle screenplay makes the story timely and provides a number of dialogue and situation laughs. Lloyd Bacon directed and the musical numbers are the contributions of Harry Warren and Al Dubin. Large chorus and good ensemble dancing aid in the general effect.

Audiences who appreciate production will appreciate this.

the fact that entrance of the theatre is gained through property not owned by it.

When queries were made yesterday at the R.F.C., it was said no application for a loan was pending, but today it was explained that the statement was made in the belief that a pending negotiation was referred to. The loan commitment now standing was made in June, and, accordingly, in another branch of the organization.

Officials explained that nothing further remains to be done in Washington until the bondholders' committee seeking the loan shows that the requirements have been met.

"To Mary" Is Los Angeles' B.O. Leader

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—"To Mary—With Love," billed with "36 Hours to Kill" was the big grosser here, doing $14,000, or $1,500 over the line at the Chinese, and $18,000, bettering par by $4,000, at Loew's State.

"Nine Days a Queen," was strong at the Four Star, with a take of $6,000, which is $2,750 over average. "Anthony Adverse," in its second stanza at the Carthay Circle, dipped slightly to $16,000, $1,000 under par, and "Rhythm on the Range," likewise in its second week, took $16,500 at the Paramount, under average by $1,500.

The weather was excessively warm, with freak storms, which was of no assistance to the box-office.

Total first run business was $94,750. Average is $103,150.

operator, but to the producer. The distributors make a certain amount of product for dual feature purposes and the attractions which can stand alone are few and far between, he said.

As an example of the few pictures which do not need support the independent exhibitor cited "Mutiny on the Bounty," "San Francisco" and "The Great Ziegfeld." Aside from "Anthony Adverse," the I.T.O.A. executive does not anticipate any other attraction on the combined lists of the distributors sufficiently strong to stand alone.

Fox Intermountain, Fox Columbia and Wisconsin Amusement Enterprise groups. Under the new arrangement no charge will be made by RCA for regular and emergency service calls by its engineers. Revenue under the contract apparently is to be derived from the sale of replacement parts.

Photophone's national service circuit will be rearranged under the direction of F. B. Ostman, RCA service manager, to meet the requirements of the new contract theatres. About 20 additional sound technicians will be added to the service staff, Ostman said, and new supply depots for spare replacement parts will be established for the convenience of the new account.

RCA's statement said that its service engineers "will be equipped with the most advanced test apparatus known to the electrical art, including the cathode ray oscillograph, an instrument which permits a diagnosis of hidden trouble by making it visible on a fluorescent screen, in much the same way as an X-ray is used."

20th-Fox Pact the First

The Twentieth Century-Fox studio was the first major unit to make a five-year recording agreement with RCA Photophone recently in a move which resulted in giving RCA its first participation in major studio business outside of the RKO lot. The Columbia and Warner studios followed the Twentieth Century-Fox lead in quick succession. Whether Warners or any other major circuit now will follow the Twentieth-Fox move in admitting RCA Photophone to its theatre servicing could not be learned over the weekend.

It is recalled in connection with RCA's admittance to new major company sound service that extended discussions were initiated by RCA's attorneys last fall to bring about changes in Erpi's agreements with the large companies which would clear the way for those companies to make license agreements with others than Erpi. The RCA attorneys stated at the time that they would go into court, if necessary, to obtain the changes. Erpi subsequently revised parts of its agreements.

Ascap Trial To Resume If Parley Fails

Little Chance Seen of Decision This Year

If Ascap and the Attorney General's office are unable to agree on stipulations of fact to be entered as evidence in the Government's monopoly action for the dissolution of the society, the case will be returned to trial before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard early next winter, attorneys identified with the case said yesterday.

Work on the stipulations, which was interrupted in the spring, is being resumed Aug. 27 in the offices of Schwartz & Frohlich, attorneys for Ascap. Richard Bird of the Attorney General's office, is due here from Washington at that time to work with Arthur Schwartz, of Ascap counsel. If an agreement on the stipulations is reached at that time, the evidence will be prepared for submission to Judge Goddard during October without a resumption of the trial or the taking of further testimony. Records and exhibits in the case are so voluminous already, however, that there is little or

Pictures Not Affected By New Price Law

Films Outside Meaning of Patman Act

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Federal officials who have been studying the Robinson-Patman anti-price discrimination act yesterday expressed the opinion that films would not be affected by the new law, which is aimed primarily at chain store organizations.

Although the question of films has not come up in connection with the law, the Federal Trade Commission, which will administer the act, said that films are handled for the most part as a service rather than a commodity; that is, they are leased and are not sold for "use, consumption or resale" within the meaning of the Robinson-Patman act.

The law prohibits discrimination between different purchasers of commodities of like grade and quality, where the effect of such discrimination may be substantially to lessen competition, tend to create a monopoly or in-

RCA Launches Service Drive On All Sound

The Warner theatre circuit may follow the lead of Twentieth Century-Fox's National Theatres in contracting for RCA servicing of its sound equipment, it was learned officially yesterday.

Seven or eight RCA Photophone reproducing systems have been installed in Warner key theatres already and the servicing of these units is being done by the manufacturer. In addition, negotiations are under way separately for RCA servicing of all Warner theatre sound equipment. These negotiations, however, are said to be still in an elementary stage. The developments, obviously, indicate the possibility of Warners replacing obsolete units with RCA systems in addition to the consideration of RCA servicing for the entire circuit.

It was learned also that RCA has preliminary discussions under way involving the servicing of other national

Paralysis Hitting Theatres in South

Theatres in northern Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia have been seriously affected and in some instances face the possibility of being closed down as a result of the appearance of a number of cases of infantile paralysis, Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, said on his arrival here from the south yesterday.

Kuykendall said that while the cases reported have been confined for the most part to northern Alabama, precautionary measures have been taken in the neighboring states. These comprise banning of children under 16 years of age from public assemblages and consideration of extending the ban to prohibit all large public gatherings. Kuykendall operates theatres at Columbus, Miss., near the Alabama state line.

Press MPTOA To Plan for Federal Bill

Kuykendall Admits Units Are Seeking Action

Local exhibitor organizations affiliated with M. P. T. O. A. are bringing pressure to bear on officers of the national organization to take steps toward the preparation of a bill for Federal regulation of the industry to be introduced at the next session of Congress, it was learned yesterday.

Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, admitted the existence of this sentiment within the national exhibitor organization's ranks on his arrival here yesterday from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he attended the annual convention of the Theatre Managers Ass'n of W. Va. Kuykendall said that while he agreed that the necessity for some form of decisive action on the part of M. P. T. O. A. was necessary in the face of distributor inaction on the exhibitors' 10-point program of self-regulation, he remains opposed to legislative regulation except as a last resort.

Kuykendall said that he had been advised that distributors were trying to work out an acceptable policy on the exhibitors' program now and might be expected to make known the results of their efforts by early next month. In view of this, the M. P. T. O. A.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IN presenting its arguments for higher quota, the producers' group of the Federation of British Industries proved itself no slouch, further study of the testimony reveals. The submitted memorandum, thus at one point, got under way with the observation the act "has been successful in its main objects," a conclusion which it views as "beyond question." It then continues with

> "an important and rapidly increasing film production industry has been built up, the output of entertainment films in Great Britain is second only in world importance to that of the United States. . . ."

and thereby creates the quite definite impression that Britain's next objective is for first honors. Certainly, that is a laudable enough ambition if it can be accomplished and England is not to be criticized for trying.

The methods of persuasion, however, might easily be, which goes for the facts as well. Read further what that memorandum has to say and note how it goes jingo in emphasizing its arguments:

> "The vast new studios just completed and others in course of construction, as well as the establishment of numerous production companies with serious financial and administrative support, are an irrefutable indication that the number of worthwhile British films available for exhibition in the near future will greatly exceed the present supply of such pictures. It is sufficient here to state that under the protective influence of the Act there has been built up and is being progressively increased an industry of very considerable magnitude, the importance of which cannot be measured by figures alone since it is inalienably associated with the national prestige and British moral and cultural influence both at home, in the overseas Empire and in the foreign countries where the popularity of British films is constantly increasing. Film producers submit that, in any consideration of the working of the present Act or provisions that may be proposed to maintain or supplement existing legislation in the future, by far the most important section of the whole film industry from a national point of view is that devoted to production, which, among other things, insures the retention in this country of considerable sums of money that would otherwise be expatriated. It is estimated that during the last 15 years at least £100,000,000 has been exported from this country as profits on the exhibition of foreign films."

And America is supposed to be the spawning ground of overstatement! The final figure of $500,000,000 in profit is so glaringly, if not deliberately, biased and so ridiculously out of line as to fall with a sorrowing thud under the weight of its own ciphers. Moreover, if it is a fact that the supply of British pictures "in the near future will greatly exceed the present supply," it would seem reasonable to assume that the quota has done its work, a substantial English industry established and any need for further forced draught tactics vitiated.

Only this is apparently not the case at all. Continuing from the same memorandum, the producers' group "in their considered opinion," assert

> "producers are unanimously convinced that the complete or partial withdrawal of the protection afforded to their industry by the present Act would be disastrous. They are equally convinced that a reasonable and progressive increase in the quota will prove beneficial in the future as it has in the past."

A damaging admission of weakness for an industry whose product is "second only in world importance to that of the United States" and an indication that its foundation either stands on thin ground indeed or its principal producers are most uncertain of their own strength.

The picture which has been painted for the Moyne committee either has been exaggerated to further special interests or must represent the truth with the penalties on either count squarely facing the American producer whose output is conceded to be the backbone of the British exhibition business. The future, sans quota, is as black as this, in the text of the memorandum:

> "It is only by the help of the Quota Act that British companies have been able to build up an industry in competition with the dominant American industry, and if this protection were withdrawn, the following results would inevitably ensue:
> (a) The general predominance of foreign films would be restored throughout the entire British market.
> (b) As the British production industry dwindled, prices for foreign films offered for rental here would tend to rise, and (since films recorded in the English language are the only ones likely ever to find favor with the mass public in the Empire) British exhibitors would be compelled to accept pictures at the

Warners Plan Big Magazine Campaign

Warners plan the largest national magazine advertising campaign in the company's history on the big pictures of the new season's lineup. The company estimates an average of more than 100,000,000 readers reached on each film so advertised.

Space will be taken in more than 30 magazines with a combined circulation exceeding 25,500,000. Part of the arrangement calls for the advising of readers by a group of magazines by telephone of the dating of a picture in the local theatre. Another group will distribute heralds, giving theatre and playdate.

Sixteen Features Finished

Hollywood, Aug. 17. — Having completed the first three months' schedule of 16 features for 1936-37, Warners are working on an additional 14 features, nine of which are in work and five in preparation.

The 16 features completed and awaiting release are: "Bengal Tiger," "Trailin' West," "Stage Struck," "Down the Stretch," "Cain and Mabel," "The Case of the Black Cat," "Draegerman Courage," "Three in Eden," "Polo Joe," "Loudspeaker Lowdown," "The Pony Express Rider," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "The Captain's Kid," "Give Me Your Heart," "Guns of the Pecos" and "Anthony Adverse."

Nat'l Screen Plans Ten More Branches

With seven branches now functioning, 10 additional offices will be opened by National Screen Accessories by the fall. Morton Van Praag, general sales manager, is now in Dallas on a swing of exchanges and is due to return Aug. 26.

The new offices will be opened in Atlanta, Dallas, Cleveland, Boston, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Detroit, Kansas City, Minneapolis and Pittsburgh. Exchanges in the Far West will be opened starting the latter part of the year.

In all instances, trailers as well as advertising will be serviced from the new points.

CEA Group to Be Entertained

National Screen today will be host to the C.E.A. visiting group at a special luncheon at the Savoy Plaza. The 40 British theatre men and their wives returned last night from the coast, via Niagara Falls. The party spent nine days on the coast, visiting Hollywood, San Francisco, Santa Barbara, Del Monte and other points of interest.

Tomorrow the group is scheduled to sail on the Normandie for Southampton.

"U" in Pact with Sparks

Universal has closed a deal for the entire new season lineup with the E. J. Sparks circuit of Florida. Included are 61 houses in 43 towns. The contract was signed here with J. R. Grainger, general manager of distribution; F. J. A. McCarthy and Harry Graham acting for Universal, and Frank Rogers, general manager, for the Sparks circuit.

president said he was reluctant to take action on a legislative policy at this time. He said he would return here early in September to get the distributors' decision on the 10-point program and would reconvene the M. P. T. O. A. trade practice committee at that time if developments warrant.

Kuykendall reported that last week's convention of West Virginia theatre owners indorsed the 10-point program in full and voted Kuykendall its support in any move made by the M. P. T. O. A. as a result of the possible rejection of the program by distributors. He said that the same meeting passed a resolution opposing the Neely-Pettengill bill to end block booking. White Sulphur Springs, scene of the meeting, is Senator Neely's home district.

Discusses Stars on Air

The M. P. T. O. A. president elaborated but little on the failure of his organization to make recommendations in connection with the appearance of film stars on radio programs while considering the problems raised in a discussion of the subject in the regular monthly M. P. T. O. A. bulletin which was mailed to members yesterday. Kuykendall said that he was against "hasty action" on a matter of this kind and would not suggest commercial retaliation by exhibitors against stars appearing on radio programs or their studios "except as a last resort." He said that he had been advised by several producers that their stars' contracts permitted these engagements and there was nothing they could do about it now.

Kuykendall will attend the Louis-Sharkey fight tonight and returns to his home at Columbus, Miss., tomorrow morning.

circuits. These could include either Paramount or Loew's as RCA already is servicing RKO houses.

The five-year contract for the servicing of 300 houses of the National Theatres organization, which was just closed by RCA, is the first the company has been given involving the servicing of equipment other than of its own manufacture. The National houses are equipped with Erpi and De Forest reproducing systems.

Due to an error in the interpretation of RCA's statement on the closing of the National Theatres' deal, MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday said that RCA would make no charge for regular and emergency service calls under this contract and that, as a result, the revenue to be derived would come from the sale of replacement parts. RCA asserts that while no charge will be made for emergency calls, regular rates will be in effect for the routine service calls and that the amount of revenue to be derived from the sale of replacement parts is not known at this time.

jure, destroy or prevent competition. At the same time, the seller is guaranteed the right to select his own customers.

Since the law as written applies only to disposable commodities, it is not believed that it will apply to pictures. Moreover, officials of the commission indicated that they expected to have their hands full in applying the act to commodity sales without attempting to stretch it to cover transactions which were not referred to by Congress.

During the consideration of the measure by Congress last Spring, all discussion centered on the advantages which large purchasers of commodities enjoyed over their smaller competitors, and no reference to pictures was made at any time during the discussion.

Additional provisions of the Robinson-Patman act prohibit manufacturers from giving a discount to one customer without giving the same discount to another customer who purchases the same quantity and under the same conditions. The law does not prohibit quantity discounts where such discounts are based upon differences of cost of manufacture and distribution. In other words, the act permits differentials but prohibits discriminations. The act also prohibits advertising or other service allowances, either in the form of services furnished by the seller to the buyer, or in the form of payment for such services when undertaken by the buyer, except when made to all competing customers on proportionately equal terms.

Shaw Calls Meeting

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 17.—Harry Shaw, Loew-Poli division manager, has called a special managers' meeting for Wednesday, for the purpose of planning new circuit exploitation.

prices offered by an organized foreign industry, or close their doors.

(c) The result would be:

(1) The imperilling of the large capital sums invested in British studios.

(2) Reduced demand for labor of all kinds in film studios and in the industries supplying the trade.

(3) Serious reduction in the values of cinema properties.

(4) Loss of national prestige and the social influence of the British film throughout the Empire, with a corresponding increase in the influence of foreign films.

(5) The eventual eclipse of all British films, loss of the growing export trade in such films and diversion, mainly to America, of the profits now being made by British producing companies.

"The above results must be obvious to anyone having the slightest knowledge of the film trade as it exists today. It only rcmains, therefore, to put forward proposals for renewed or amended legislation together with explanations of the several points and the suggestions arising out of them."

The results, however, are not quite as obvious as their protagonists claim. They were not to the members of the committee and they will not be to others who dig below the surface for the complete truth. The committee, from time to time and by its questions, made it very clear indeed.

Q.—You do not think you could do without the renters' quota?

A.—Oh, no. The renters' quota surely is necessary in order to provide films, to fill the exhibitors' quota.

Q.—I do not think necessarily. There might be such a volume of production in this country that the exhibitor could find all the British films he wanted without the obligation on the renter to supply films beyond those he wanted to supply.

A.—My view, My Lord, would be that abandonment of the quota on the renter would immediately tend to stop, and very quickly stop, the production of many British films.

Korda.—Surely the quota would not be necessary if there were enough good British pictures made by two, three, four or five different firms. It is not necessary that every single renter should distribute a certain quota of British pictures, so it is possible to think of a day when only good British pictures are produced and an exhibitor can find all his quota from British renters; but for the moment I do not think that could work yet.

In other words, the quota admittedly encourages quickies, the producers deplore the practice, yet insist on a distributors' quota to further the very condition which is deplored. This clearly is the sense of the testimony.

Further angles on the movement for a new British quota will be published tomorrow.

Ascap Trial To Resume If Parley Fails

no likelihood of a decision being handed down this year, it was stated.

Ascap does not regard the recent return of the Warner music companies to the society's membership as contributing anything vital to the Government's case, inasmuch as that development merely re-establishes the same situation which existed at the time the suit was filed. Ascap, then as now, believed that it was not operating illegally and remains firm in its intention of having the question legally determined. Ascap officials recall that when the Warner companies resigned from the society last Jan. 1, Government officials insisted that the resignations in no way weakened the Government's case. Therefore, Ascap says, the return of the Warner companies cannot strengthen it.

Ascap asserts that it has refused several Government overtures to end the case by having the society assent to a consent decree. The organization takes the position that if the courts find it to be operating illegally it will make whatever changes are necessary but it contemplates no changes otherwise.

Studios At Peak With 51 in Work

tivity with nine features shooting.

Columbia had five features in work, five preparing and six editing. Samuel Goldwyn had two, zero and one; M-G-M four, two and 12; Paramount eight, five and seven; Pickford-Lasky zero, zero and one; Republic three, three and three; Radio six, two and three; Roach one, zero and zero; Selznick-International zero, zero and one; Twentieth Century-Fox six, two and four; Universal five, one and one; Warners nine, one and nine with the independents registering two, three and one.

In the short subject division Columbia had none shooting, three preparing and two cutting. M-G-M had two, one and three; Radio one, one and three; Roach zero, zero and one and independents zero, two and one.

"Ziegfeld" $15,600 In 19th Astor Week

Garnering $15,600 for the 19th week, "The Great Ziegfeld" tallied $1,200 more in this period at the Astor than for the previous seven days when the take for the 18th week was $14,400.

Tomorrow night's performance will be the last at the two-a-day Broadway house. "Romeo and Juliet" will replace "The Great Ziegfeld" Thursday evening.

"Devil Doll" at the Capitol ended a seven-day run with about $20,000.

Dickinson Moves Office

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 17.—The Glen W. Dickinson Theatres, Inc., has moved its booking office from Lawrence, Kan., to this city.

Greenman and F.&M. In Deal on Theatres

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—Harry Greenman, who recently resigned as manager of the Fox, a post which has since been taken over by William E. Raynor, is going into business for himself. He has formed a partnership agreement with F. & M. and organized the F. & M. Greenman Corp.

The new company will build, buy and develop a number of neighborhood houses in and around the city. For five years Greenman has had a desire to go into business for himself. He is now surveying the field looking for sites.

F. & M.'s arrangement with Greenman has nothing to do with the circuit's plans to build two new neighborhood houses as well as to assume the leases on five new structures to be erected by local real estate operators.

Harry C. Arthur is president of the F. & M. Greenman Corp., while Greenman is vice-president. Arthur is due here within the next two weeks for negotiations with the musicians' union on a pact which will permit presentations in several of the downtown F. & M. first runs.

Bondholder Talks Completed

Arthur also has concluded discussions for a deal with the bondholders of Central Properties Corp. for a 10-year management contract for the 22 St. Louis Amusement Co. houses as soon as the bankruptcy proceedings against Skouras Bros. Enterprises are cleared up by the Federal court. This is expected before Labor Day, when F. & M. are scheduled to have all first and second runs in operation.

Ralph McGowan, who is managing an F. & M. theatre in Salt Lake City, will be shifted to this area. Edward Arthur, youngest of the Arthur clan, is due from New York soon to join the local circuit.

U. S. to Censor All Coast Guard Films

Hollywood, Aug. 17.—The John Wayne picture, "Sea Spoilers" is the last film depicting activities of the Coast Guard which will not be subject to censorship by the Government, Trem Carr declared here.

Carr's announcement came on the heels of an ultimatum from the Government to all producers that the same rules would apply to filming scenes of the Coast Guard that now apply to army and navy maneuvers. Scenes of the Wayne picture, which will be released through Universal, were subject to the supervision of a Coast Guard commander, it was said.

Rosenzweig Starts Circuit Expansion

Expansion plans of Dave Rosenzweig and his associates in Brooklyn and Long Island will take definite shape today when work will get under way on the first of four theatres scheduled for Brooklyn.

Construction work will be started this morning at Coney Island Ave. and Brighton Beach. Three other structures are slated to be added to the list as soon as the first is completed. With units at Williston and Mineola, Rosenzweig plans as many, if not more, additions to his Long Island group as in Brooklyn.

NOW, MR. EXHIBITOR, WE'LL TALK!

You have heard a lot about Grand National. There was much comment as to what we were going to offer the exhibitor, but we said nothing.

We were building—planning, preparing and putting into concrete form a definite program attuned to the public demand and geared to box office.

These production plans are now consummated. We have 52 pictures on our program — 36 Grand National Winners, 8 Westerns and 8 Melodramas. And now, Mr. Exhibitor, we'll talk, with the firm conviction that we have the product and you the opportunity to reap definite profits from this program.

Short Subjects

"Porky, The Rainmaker"

(Vitaphone)

The farm is drought stricken, the barnyarn population refuses to carry on unless fed and things look dour on the cartoon character's father's farm. Porky is sent with the last dollar to buy some feed and is taken in by a medicine show selling rain and other weather making pills. At home his father, in anger, scatters the purchase over the yard, which the stock promptly eats. Startling and amusing animation follows as the animals are affected internally and externally by the various elements of the pills. The weather gamut from earthquakes to thunder is run and finally rain falls quenching the parched lands. It is good material made into effective amusement. It should be pleasing. Production Code Seal, No. 2,401. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Happy You and Merry Me"

(Paramount)

Betty Boop and her pup, Pudgy, play the roles of good samaritans in this cartoon which reaches the status of average entertainment. While Betty and her dog are playing the piano, a kitten wanders into the house, gorges itself on a box of candy and gets sick. Its wails attract Betty and she sends Pudgy for some catnip. On his return from the druggist Pudgy scatters the catnip and attracts all the cats in the neighborhood. They relieve the kitten and bring contentment to all the stray felines. It is a mild cartoon. Production Code Seal, No. 01011. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"The Novelty Shop"

(Columbia)

The familiar theme of the merchandise on the shelves of a toy store coming to life when the proprietor closes up, is again utilized in this short. With a few new twists the parade of the various toys amusingly passes. There are clever impersonations of screen comedians and the animation, done in Technicolor, is good. While familiar, it is, nevertheless, good entertainment and should be well received. Production Code Seal, No. 2,296. Running time, 6½ mins. "G."

"Gypsy Revels"

(Paramount)

Yascha Bunchuk leads a Russian gypsy band amid the surroundings of an old tavern. The musical program consists of characteristic numbers and there is singing and dancing. It unreels as fair amusement. Production Code Seal, No. 0991. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Screen Snapshots No. 13"

(Columbia)

Another good compilation of shots of the stars in their off-the-set moments. This number records them at the opening of the new harbor and yacht basin at Newport, Cal. In the marine parade Lee Tracy, Lona Andre, Robert Allen, Anita Stewart and Mae Clark among others are to be seen. Preston Foster indulges in some amusing antics while on the deck of his cruiser. Continuing, the reel shows a fashion show featuring wooden bathing suits and closes with shots of a dog show at Palm Springs. It is all interesting and should be welcomed by the fans. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time 9½ mins. "G."

"Sunday Go to Meetin' Time"

(Vitaphone)

In color the story of the colored, wayward, church evading Nicodemus, is offered in this cartoon. Rather would he play dice and steal chickens, he is regenerated when he is knocked unconscious and dreams of his hellish retribution. The hell scenes are dramatically colored and the action has effective comic relief. It is laugh-provoking stuff and satisfying. Production Code Seal, No. 2,350. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Unknown Ranger"

(Darmour-Columbia)

Hollywood, Aug. 17.—Every western needs a little something different and this one makes two bids for distinction. Besides a full measure of hard riding, there is a fight between two stallions and some very fair roping and riding by a tiny boy, Buzzy Henry.

The engaging Robert Allen rescues Buzzy from a runaway team and gains the smiles of his sister, Martha Tibbetts, who persuades her ranch-owning papa to put him to work. Harry Woods is the subtle villain who has trained a stallion to lead mares from their home ranges. His nefarious scheme is discovered when a wild stallion joins the herd, but he is not delivered to the sheriff by brave Bob Allen until there has been a very energetic fist fight, a cattle stampede and the man-killing wild stallion has been broken on five minutes' notice. Hal Taliaferro sings a good cowboy ballad, "Frankie's Flaming Fandango," with words and music by Lee Zahler. Nate Gatzert wrote the original and screenplay and Spencer Gordon Bennet directed.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Shakedown"

(Columbia)

A melodramatic effort of the shakedown racket, this should be reasonably satisfying and provide fair entertainment. The action is well paced and incidents are logically built up. There is a rousing good chase, in fine style, at the conclusion, bringing the film to a thrilling finish.

The story concerns the troublesome perseverence of Lew Ayres for the hand of Joan Perry. Ayres insists on marrying Miss Perry when he can support her in the manner to which she is acccustomed, and will not accept a job from her father to reach that end. However, he does take a job—as messenger boy—with her father's telegraph company, which annoys Miss Perry. Not to be outdone, Miss Perry arranges with Henry Mollison, her father's secretary, to be kidnapped by gangsters who are after Mollison for welching on a gambling debt, and have Ayres come to the rescue. Mollison also arranges for a fake murder to effect a shakedown. Miss Perry falls for the plot and there follows the usual police work, running down clues and finally the fast climax which brings about the capture of the extortion gang and concludes the Ayres-Perry romance.

Miss Perry, a newcomer, gives a fair performance. Ayres is adequate. The supporting cast includes Thurston Hall, Victor Kilian, John Gallaudet, George McKay and Gene Morgan.

The screen play is by Grace Neville, from a story by Harry Shipman. David Selman directed.

Pickford Delays Trip

Hollywood, Aug. 17.—Mary Pickford has cancelled her passage on the Queen Mary for Aug. 24 and will remain on the coast until after the preview of "The Gay Desperado," which is scheduled for release by United Artists in early October. She probably will sail late in September.

Variety Club

Dallas

Dallas, Aug. 17. — Variety Club held its mid-summer get-together with about 50 members and their friends gathered in the Century Room of the Adolphus Hotel honoring Phil Harris and Leah Ray on their last night in Dallas. Miss Ray left immediately for the coast to make a picture for Twentieth Century-Fox.

The regular Monday luncheons will be resumed Sept. 14, when Chief Barker O'Donnell returns from an extended vacation.

Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Aug. 17.—More than 200 persons attended the third annual picnic at Northern Beach.

Following custom, exhibitors beat distributors in the annual ball game. The contest went the full nine-inning route and hung up a 15-13 score. Captain for the exhibitors was Percy Barr of National Screen Service, while Milt Krueger of United Artists led the distributor squad into the fray.

Other races and contests tabulate up into the "too numerous to mention" class, with sports for bookers, shippers, inspectresses and all classifications. The picnic began at 11 o'clock in the morning and continued almost 12 hours. Many of the picnickers went swimming and a large dinner was served at night, followed by a gargantuan Bingo game.

Barkers who comprised the committee in charge were: Marc J. Wolf, club president; Kenneth Collins, Claude Penrod, Carl Niesse and Al Blocher.

John B. O'Brien Dies

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—John B. O'Brien, 51, a leading director in the early days of silent films, died here over the weekend. He was assistant to D. W. Griffith on "The Birth of a Nation" and directed many of the leading screen personalities.

John E. Davis Dies

Wenatchee, Wash., Aug. 17.—John Edward Davis, 23, assistant manager of the Liberty here, is dead of pneumonia, after a brief illness.

Schertzinger Quits Col.

Hollywood, Aug. 17.—Victor Schertzinger, who has been a Columbia director for several years, has concluded his contract. The arrangement was concluded by mutual consent between Schertzinger and Harry Cohn. No reason was given for the move.

Meet on Sound Courses

Hollywood, Aug. 17.—The Academy Research Council committee on industrial education met here today to continue discussion of the courses in sound recording which will be given to studio employes this fall under Council auspices.

tem as adopted by Grand National to be the right one and that the production policy has been set up along those lines. He also discussed the distribution system and the financial position of the company.

Production budgets, the number of pictures, stars and producers and selling policy will be the chief topics which Leserman will explain today.

During the luncheon recess yesterday, Sam Fox of the Sam Fox Music Publishing Co. pledged cooperation for tieups in all localities on music in "Devil on Horseback" and "Captain Calamity," which his company is publishing. He also asked support of the men present in exploiting the films.

Tex Ritter, who will be starred in The Boots and Saddles' western series to be produced by Edward Finney, appeared during the luncheon and sang three numbers with the assistance of William Butler. He left yesterday for the coast by plane and in a week will begin work on his first picture.

James Winn, division sales manager, discussed branch operations in the afternoon. Prior to the Winn talk, the men saw a rough print of "Devil on Horseback."

Leserman Talks Branches

Leserman, between sessions, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that Grand National is 100 per cent set on branch managers and exchanges. Cleve Adams, who has been temporarily handling the New Orleans exchange, has been transferred to Albany. Homer Hisey is now in charge of New Orleans.

Following the afternoon session, the men were entertained at the Paradise. After today's session, the branch managers will depart for their respective territories.

Broadway Criterion Opening Is Delayed

Due to a delay in the completion of the interior of the theatre, the New Criterion will not open until next month, B. S. Moss stated yesterday. The house originally was scheduled to open the latter part of this month.

With Warners adopting a policy of showing only "A" product at the Strand and Twentieth Century-Fox selling away from the Music Hall, it is likely the New Criterion will show product of both distributors. Several Twentieth Century-Fox pictures had been offered, but were turned down because of the indefinite opening date.

No decision has been reached on the offering of presentations in conjunction with films, Moss said.

Dyke, John Ford and John Considine, Jr. They will work under the direction of Sol Rosenblatt, chairman of the Motion Picture Division.

E. F. Stein Goes to K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 17.—E. F. "Steve" Stein, formerly at Dallas, for G. B., has been transferred to Kansas City.

On the Grand National Side

CARL M. LESERMAN, boss of the convention, modestly declined to sit at the head of the table during the luncheon. The extent of his reticence further was evident when pictures were about to be taken. After some coaxing LESERMAN finally consented to take a center spot.

ED FINNEY introduced his radio star, TEX RITTER, and SAM FOX of the music publishing firm of the same name, to the boys during luncheon. Aside from FINNEY'S short talks, there were no others while the knives and forks were in action.

AL MERTZ, ex-RKO manager in Detroit, will leave for Dallas tonight to assume new duties as branch manager there. He says it's virgin territory for him.

JOHNNY McLAUGHLIN of the Sam Fox music firm played several numbers from "Devil on Horseback" on the ivory keys as a prelude to luncheon.

JACK KAPLAN, former U. A. branch manager in Buffalo and holding down the same post for G. N., renewed acquaintances with a lot of the boys he knew. He kept close to STANLEY HATCH during the luncheon.

HARRY BROWN and CLEVE ADAMS were in town about three weeks ago, the former from Washington and the latter from New Orleans. Since then ADAMS has changed his address to Albany.

With reports current that Bank Night agents will distribute films in the near future, Ezell explained that in a few territories like Boston the men handling the game are considering taking on pictures, the plan having nothing to do with Bank Night.

Try Revivals on Dual

SEATTLE, Aug. 17.—Hamrick-Evergreen's Paramount has temporarily abandoned its policy of first run duals for double bill programs featuring revivals. Regular prices with a 30-cent top are being continued.

R. A. Film Booked Rapidly in Midwest

LINCOLN, Aug. 17.—At the rate of 10 to 20 theatres a day, the local office of the Resettlement Administration is booking towns for the Tugwell film, "Plow That Broke the Plains." The film is now being handled in a territory comprising 22 states by the local office. Overnight, the publicity office assistants to Paul Jordan have become bookers. They are Larry Hall, former newspaper man here, and Ruth Schill.

Distributing organizations figure the three-reel film is going for $2.50 per reel in most of the towns, hence it is seen beating the regular distributors out of about $120 per day on the shorts it replaces. The film is serviced free except for the shipping charges which are on the user. Nebraska, the Dakotas and Kansas have been well covered so far and the office here has turned to the territory of Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, Utah, New Mexico and Colorado.

will review the case, may use documents of the lower court. In his appeal, William H. Neblett, counsel for Tally and Corbar, had asked leave to print and make part of the record only a small portion of the original proceeding. F. W. C., on the other hand, wants a great portion of the record injected. The stipulation, which was approved by the reviewing body, means that F. W. C. will bear the expense of having the additional data printed.

No date has been set as yet for a hearing on the appeal.

Raise Scale on Specials

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17.—Nat Wolf, Warner zone manager, is raising admission prices for "Mary of Scotland" in all Warner houses playing key spots in his territory. The picture opened Saturday at Warners' Hippodrome, Cleveland at 55 cents top instead of the regular 42 cents top. Other spots where prices will be hiked are Mansfield, Youngstown, Lima, Akron and Canton. This is the first time since 1930 that Warner theatres have advanced prices for any picture. Upon the success of this attempt will depend the future policy of Warner theatres in regard to big features.

Sherman Signs Watt

HOLLYWOOD,, Aug. 17.—Nate Watt has been signed by Harry Sherman to direct "Hopalong Cassidy Returns," replacing Louis Friedlander, who did not complete his current assignment at Radio in time to make the picture's starting date, Aug. 15. Helen Flint has just been added to the cast which will include Irving Bacon, Gail Sheridan, and Grant Richards in addition to William Boyd, the star.

Mickey's Birthday Near

Mickey Mouse will celebrate his eighth birthday the week of Sept. 25 to Oct. 1 and Walt Disney is laying plans for recognition of the milestone. He will release Mickeys and Silly Symphonies in groups of seven or eight, sufficient for a complete show. A special trailer is being released through National Screen Service.

"Scotland" Is Boston's Best With $14,000

Boston, Aug. 17.—In spite of the warm weather here, local theatres did well. "Mary of Scotland" did $14,000 at the RKO Memorial, $2,000 over average. It will be held over for another week.

Competing with the local W.P.A. opera, "Hansel and Gretel" and "Madame Butterfly," and the last week at Suffolk Downs, local race track, "Suzy" co-featured with "Counterfeit" grossed $13,000 at Loew's Orpheum.

The Metropolitan playing "To Mary—With Love" and a stage bill, grossed $23,000, $1,000 over average. The RKO Boston running only six days this week with the new show coming in on Wednesday instead of the usual Thursday, did $9,500 for the six days.

Total first run business was $75,000. Average is $79,300.

Closings Are Heavy In Missouri, Kansas

Kansas City, Aug. 17.—Almost twice as many theatres in Kansas and Missouri closed this summer than last summer due to the excessive heat, according to Earl Jameson of Exhibitors Film Delivery. An approximate estimate by Jameson places the number of dark theatres at present at 45, with more in Kansas than Missouri.

Most of these, however, will reopen when school starts. A majority were without cooling systems and included some No. 2 houses of circuits.

To Reopen N. H. Houses

Boston, Aug. 17.—O. F. Thayer of New Hampshire has opened three theatres which have been closed for several years on a one-day-a-week policy. The houses are the Columbia, Contoocook, N. H.; Town Hall, Bradford, N. H., and Town Hall, in Henniker, N. H.

To Renovate Phila. Boyd

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—For two or three days before the opening of "Anthony Adverse" on Aug. 21, the Boyd will be closed for renovations. The house has been going steadily without break for three years and Warners intend to paint, recarpet and make some sound system improvements.

"To Mary" in 2d Week Top In Cleveland

Cleveland, Aug. 17.— "To Mary—With Love," playing its second week downtown, took top place here last week, grossing $7,000 at the Allen where $4,000 is average. "Girls' Dormitory" at Warners' Hippodrome was a close second, with a take of $12,750. This is $4,750 above the $8,000 average.

"Satan Met A Lady" made a great showing at the RKO Palace with a gross of $21,000, but the big attraction was the vaudeville show headed by the Three Stooges. "Rhythm On The Range" did an average $12,000 at Loew's State but, because it built during the latter part of the run, it moved to the Stillman for a second week downtown. "Things To Come" dropped $1,000 under par at Loew's Stillman grossing $3,000.

Weather was clear and comfortable. The Great Lakes Exposition continues to draw better than 30,000 daily attendance, bringing crowds downtown. Instead of hurting, the exposition is helping business.

Total first run business was $55,750. Average is $43,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 14:

"TO MARY—WITH LOVE" (20th-Fox)
ALLEN—(3,300), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days. 2nd week. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $4,000)

WARNERS' HIPPODROME—(3,800), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days. Gross: $12,750. (Average, $8,000)

Group to Study Mo. Social Legislation

Kansas City, Aug. 17.—A commission of 14 has been named by Gov. Guy B. Park of Missouri to study social security legislation, that passed by Congress, and that needed in the state.

Among other things the commission will inquire into the welfare needs of the state, such as public assistance, child welfare and unemployment compensation, and their probable costs. It will study methods of financing a complete social security problem, with recommendations to the legislature which meets the first of the year as to sources of such funds.

Reduce Theatre Tax

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Aug. 17.—An ordinance reducing the borough tax on theatres from $120 to $75 a year has been adopted by the city council. Mechanicsburg has one theatre, the Paramount, owned and operated by Walter Yost.

To Set "Tundra" Release

Hollywood, Aug. 17.—Ben S. Cohen, president of Burroughs-Tarzan, will go east to arrange distribution on "Tundra" on the completion of the picture.

"Rhythm" Is Top Draw In Twin Cities

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—"Rhythm on the Range" led the Twin Cities' first run houses out of the summer slump here. The film took $12,500 at the Minnesota, over par by $2,500 and $6,500 at the St. Paul Paramount, bettering par by $1,000.

Two other box-office successes marked the week in Minneapolis. "His Brother's Wife" garnered $8,000, over par by $2,500 at the State. "Earthworm Tractors" did a good $7,000 at the Orpheum, over average by $1,400.

Otherwise it was an average summer week for Twin Cities' first runs, with muggy weather prevailing. Visiting merchants in for the annual Market Week helped theatre takes somewhat.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $31,400. Average is $25,100.

Total first run business in St. Paul was $14,800. Average is $14,100.

Estimated takings:

Blue Laws Still Hold

BEATRICE, Neb., July 31.—"Exhibitors here see little possibility of the ban on Sunday shows being lifted in the near future. Nearly 2,000 voters signed petitions asking the city council to pass an ordinance permitting the practice, but the council turned down the petitions and suggested the matter be placed on the ballot again. The question has been repeatedly defeated by vote. Beatrice is the only city in Nebraska of any consequence with Sunday restrictions.

Whitman Sent to Akron

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17.—Wade Whitman, assistant manager at the Penn until Loew's returned operation of the house to the local Penn Federal Corp., has just been assigned to Loew's Akron in a similar capacity.

"Scotland" Is Capital's Top With $18,500

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—"Mary of Scotland" topped the Capital's grosses as RKO-Keith's took $18,500 to beat average by $7,900. It is now playing its second week.

The surprise picture of the week, however, was "Satan Met a Lady," which, at the Metropolitan, took $6,000, topping par by $1,700.

At Loew's Fox, which was renamed Loew's Capitol, "Poppy" and a stage show grossed $21,500, going over the average by $600.

"The Green Pastures" at the Earle was disappointing, where $18,600 was taken in, only $200 over average. The picture, however, is at the Metropolitan for a return engagement.

A return engagement of "San Francisco" at Loew's Columbia topped first-run par by $2,100 for a take of $5,700. Second week of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," at Loew's Palace, took $8,000, under the first week average by $7,900.

The weather was fair.

Total first run business was $78,300. Average is $73,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax:

Advance Three Bookers

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 17.—The head bookers at three Republic-Midwest exchanges, Kansas City, Omaha and Des Moines, have been named office managers and head bookers, and will handle city sales. They are: M. G. Shackleford, Kansas City; O. H. Peterson, Des Moines, and W. R. Riddle, Omaha.

To Renovate Theatre

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—Warners are closing their new Yorktown this week for a month, during which time the house will be completely renovated and the seating capacity increased from 500 to 1,000. The house is only a little more than a year and a half old.

To Reopen Boston House

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Boston's oldest theatre, the Old Howard, will reopen Aug. 22 with the same policy as last season, three complete burlesque shows daily in conjunction with pictures.

Houston Lethargic; Couldn't Lick Heat

HOUSTON, Aug. 17.—"His Brother's Wife" at Loew's State stood out in an average week, increasing the $7,000 house average by $700. "Rhythm on the Range" continued to draw in the second week with a take of $6,500 at the Majestic where the average is $7,000. "To Mary—With Love" played to a $7,000 par at the Metropolitan.

The Kirby was off slightly, due to weakness displayed by "Early to Bed" over the weekend. "Song and Dance Man" and Bank Night, for one day, and "The Mine with the Iron Door" brought the take to $4,800 for the week. House average is $5,000.

Temperatures registered all time highs in various parts of the state and a summer high here. Pictures were offered little competition.

First run business was $26,500. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 13:

RKO to Retire Last $850,000 Of Gold Notes

Will Mean Recovery of Nearly All Assets

RKO proposes to retire the last of its $6,000,000 issue of secured gold notes, $850,000 of which are now outstanding, in a move which, if approved by the Federal court here, will result in the surrender by the trustee for the notes of virtually all of the RKO assets. The company's assets were pledged as collateral when the gold notes were issued in 1931.

Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday signed an order setting a hearing on the proposed payment for Sept. 2.

Chemical Bank & Trust Co. is trustee for the notes and holds the collateral securing them. The Bank of America National Ass'n recently acquired the balance of the notes outstanding from Consolidated Film Industries, which acquired them several years earlier. Under the plan for which court approval is sought, RKO Radio Pictures would pay $850,000 to Chemical which, in turn, would retire the notes held by the Giannini bank and surrender the collateral to the Irving Trust Co., trustee in reorganization for RKO.

The collateral securing the notes includes practically all of the stock

Hold Up Signing of RKO Deal in Canada

Although contracts have been drawn for the leasing of RKO theatres in Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver, St. Johns and Montreal to Famous Players Canadian for 15 years, signatures are being held up until M. Bolstad, attorney for the Canadian circuit, returns to Montreal.

Kenneth B. Umbreit, RKO attorney, was scheduled to leave for the Canadian city this week to sign the papers but has been advised to postpone his trip until Bolstad returns.

The deal, which is retroactive to U. K. Men, Leaving, Find British Rentals Top U. S.

The C.E.A. delegation which has been barnstorming the country on a goodwill tour which extended as far as California sails on the Normandie this morning convinced British exhibitors are paying far more in film rentals than their cousinly neighbors on this side of the pond.

Admittedly having visited few theatres because of the tightness of their crowded itinerary, important members of the delegation in a mass interview with Motion Picture Daily in the lounge and bar of the Waldorf late yesterday afternoon, nevertheless, asserted they had discovered average film costs here run about 25 per cent as compared with 40 or slightly above on Albion's shores. They, therefore, go back to London looking mentally askance at some of the prices they have been paying, but saying nothing about how their discovery may influence their future course through the C.E.A. machinery.

Among their disturbances, already reflected in dispatches from London, is the manner in which the cost of film is rising in England. In this connection, all distributors, whether or not American or British, were described as "of the same breed." The $12,500,000 Is Total British U. A. Budget

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, Aug. 8.—Murray Silverstone declared today that British productions on the United Artists program for the next 12 months will cost approximately £2,500,000. The budget is worked out on 22 films as follows: London Films, six features, £1,200,000; British & Dominions, two, £80,000; Trafalgar (Max Schach), two, £250,000; British Cine Alliance, one, £80,000; Victor Saville, two, £160,000; Criterion (Fairbanks, Jr.), three, £200,000; Erich Pommer, two, £300,000; Garrett-Klement, two, £150,000; Atlantic, one, £100,000; Pall Mall, one, £75,000.

G. B. Closes Warner Deal on 125 Houses

G. B. has closed deals with the Warner circuit on the complete 1936-37 feature lineup in Pittsburgh, Washington, upstate New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts. In all, 125 theatres are involved.

The deals were closed individually in the respective territories, in each case the local G. B. manager and the Warner circuit territorial executive, acting in the negotiations.

All-Continent Records Must Go to Trustee

Atlantic City, Aug. 18.—The books of All-Continent Corp., described by William Fox as a separate $6,000,000 trust for his wife and daughters, but alleged by bankruptcy creditors to be a disguised Fox asset, today were ordered turned over to a trustee.

Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle signed the order, granting a petition by Hiram Steelman, trustee. Former Judge Clarence L. Cole, counsel for All-Continent and Mrs. Eva Fox, declared his intention to appeal the order.

Two steps are planned. Referee Steedle will be petitioned for a review of his order. This petition, with a detailed memorandum from Steedle, then will go to Federal court. The other proposed step is a direct appeal for a stay, which probably will be made this week to Federal Judge William Clark in Newark. Meanwhile, Steedle refused to grant an out-

Shuford Quits W. B.; Joining Biow Agency

Stanley Shuford, advertising manager for Warners, is about to sign a contract under which he will become executive vice-president of the Biow Agency and general assistant to Milton Biow, its president. He will begin his new duties Sept. 1. and probably will be succeeded in his present post by Mort Blumenstock, advertising manager of the Warner Theatre circuit.

Shuford, thus, will end an association of seven years with the original First National and Warners in a move which will take him back to the agency field. Prior to joining First National, he was with the Joseph Katz Co. of New York and Baltimore and the H. E. Lesan Agency.

Concessions May Eliminate MPTO 'Threat'

Would Drop Federal Law Plan—Kuykendall

The conceding by distributors of any vital part of the M. P. T. O. A.'s 10-point trade practice program would be regarded by the national exhibitor organization as sufficient to deter it from pursuing its threatened policy of supporting Federal legislation designed to regulate industry trade practice, Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, said yesterday.

Kuykendall declined to state what concessions his organization regarded as being essential on the grounds that it involved a question which would have to be considered first by the M. P. T. O. A. trade practice committee and, finally, by the board or executive committe of the organization.

He reiterated his belief that distributors were trying now to work out an acceptable program that would be ready with their decision shortly after Labor Day, at which time he plans to return to New York for their answer. If, at that time, exhibitors are offered "compromise" concessions, rather than the 10-point program which is being sought, he said that he would feel obligated to submit such a proposal to the trade practice committee for a recommendation to the M. P. T. O. A. board.

Kuykendall indicated that the grant-

Consolidated Film Industries will pay a dividend of 25 cents a share on accumulations on the $2 preferred stock. It is payable Oct. 1.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

INDICATING that it had not necessarily swallowed the bait dallied by the producers, the Moyne committee approached the quota problem by asking if it would matter very much if only English distributors specialized in the handling of English pictures, theoretically and for the moment ruling out the American companies which are charged with throttling British production through the encouragement of "quickies." The reply was "possibly not, only that he [the English distributor] would book most of the dates for his foreign films and leave few days for British pictures to be shown." Not a kindly criticism of the nationalism which may be lurking along Wardour Street.

And then this extremely interesting tidbit to which no effective reply was made by the producers' branch:

> The point I want to put is this:
> Supposing Parliament decided that in future every exhibitor in the country should have fifty per cent British films for ten years. That would encourage production of British films. I cannot see that it is necessary for the renter to be compelled to take any quota of British films because the effect, if Parliament had laid down that fifty per cent of the cinema theatres in this country should exhibit British films, would be that they would be made—that would encourage the film makers to make British films. There would then rise, surely, in London, a number of renters who would concentrate on British films and the cinema people, exhibitors, would know that they could go to these renters to get their British films. They could not fill up with foreign films, they could only half fill the theatres with foreign films.
> A.—Well, I do not suppose the producers would have any great objection to that, but I think our friends, the exhibitors. would say it would be unfair to compel them to show fifty per cent of British pictures without the similar compulsion on someone or other to make those pictures. That is the answer to that question.

But it is not the answer. The purpose of the quota act is to encourage British production. Quota on the exhibitor would, of course, induce production in sufficient numbers to meet the letter of the law. The insistence that the distributor likewise be compelled is merely the levying of tribute against foreign competition to keep old and new studios humming and members of the F. B. I.'s producer group in business.

A final development proved a walkout on the original memorandum. Under persistent questions by the committee, spokesmen for the producers' group ran into this:

> Q.—I still cannot see why putting the quota on the renter will make any difference.
> A.—I fully agree with your point. The foreign renter so far did nothing to help the British film industry and if he could be cut out we would be dealing with one opposition less and have over 100 less bad pictures. In my opinion, the method you suggest of saying to the Exhibitor, "You have to devote half of your screen time to British pictures," would inevitably lead to the growth of the British film industry.

It was Norton, managing director of the leasing Pinewood studios, who registered the principal objection with

> "I think there is grave danger in this because it would automatically encourage a lot of cheap production taking up screen time, and the bulk of the revenues for screening would still go to the important American pictures."

If British production has merit, this observer completely fails to understand how Norton's argument holds together. If it lacks merit, the quota guarantees playing time anyway. It's sweet for the British producer by any approach.

The story of quota agitation, as far as it has gone, therefore, indicates that members of the Moyne committee shook the original agenda of the British producing industry by persistent queries of why, if quota was maintained and perhaps increased on the exhibitor, it would also be necessary to place imposts on the distributor. The theory was that compulsory playing time must of necessity keep production there going, while elimination of a distributors' quota would kill off the "quickies" which seem to bother the producer and so the growth of his business.

Yet, in its submitted memorandum, the producers' group of the F.B.I. advanced a cute plan about which something further should be told since adoption of its terms and so incorporation into the new law are not at all remote.

The quota on distributors, it was proposed, is to begin at twenty-nine per cent, not twenty-five as inadvertently reported the other day, and rise thereafter until a fifty-four per cent bracket is reached in the sixth and subsequent years. The plan, however, was described

Denver All Set For Picnic, Two Meetings

Denver, Aug. 18.—With two exhibitor conventions booked for the same week, a record attendance is looked for at the annual distributor-exhibitor picnic this year. Dates recently announced for the three events have been changed.

The first annual convention of the Theatre Owners and Managers of the Rocky Mountain Region, Inc., is now set for Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2; the annual convention of Fox theatre managers of the Denver territory will be held Sept. 2-5, and the annual distributor-exhibitor picnic, sponsored by the exchanges, will be held at the Cherry Hills Country Club on Sept. 2. Both conventions will be held at the Cosmopolitan Hotel here.

The exhibitors expect to spend two intensive days discussing their problems, among which will be broadcasting by film players, double billing vs. shorts, percentage pictures and preferred time, and legislation. Two newspaper men will address the convention.

The exhibitors' convention will be presided over by A. P. Archer of Denver, president; while the meeting of the Fox managers will be handied by Rick Ricketson, division manager of Fox Intermountain.

Republic Makes Bid For Sennett Studio

Hollywood, Aug. 18. — Republic Pictures Corp., present leasor of the old Mack Sennett studio, has offered a bid for the outright purchase of the property which has been placed on the market by the directors of the Guaranty Liquidating Corp. The property will be opened to bids for 60 days.

The property covers 24 acres and includes five sound stages. Estimates have been submitted to Republic for the construction of a laboratory, two sound stages, portrait gallery and writers' building contingent on the purchase of the property.

William Cosgrove Dead

Scranton, Aug. 18.—William Cosgrove, manager of Comerford's Strand here, died suddenly today following a stroke. He was 38 years old and had been with the Comerford organization for about 18 years. Funeral services will be held here on Friday.

Rites for Mrs. Rinzler

Funeral services were held yesterday at the Jewish Memorial Funeral Parlor, Brooklyn, for Mrs. I. Esther Rinzler, 85, mother of Sam, who is a partner with Louis Frisch in the Randforce circuit. The exhibitor's mother was buried at Montefoire Cemetery at Springfield Gardens, L. I.

inference was that a way will be sought to curb the practice.

Arthur Taylor, secretary of the London and Home Counties Branch, who acted as sort of general mentor for the party, declared a third concern had to do with the lack of product of direct appeal to juvenile audiences. "In the silent days, serials and fast-moving action pictures were a constant delight to children and British exhibitors generally, therefore, ran special kiddies' matinees. With the advent of dialogue which tended to slow down action and the certificate system to designate pictures for adults and otherwise in vogue in England, we have found out future audiences are not being developed because those audiences, as children, have fallen out of the habit of going to theatres. I mentioned this to Will Hays when he greeted us in Hollywood, but the matter was not pursued," he said.

Particular Dual Astounding

One of the many amazing reactions which travel overseas with the group today is a program of two unnamed features at an unnamed theatre which, these exhibitors asserted, would have cost them 80 per cent at home, had they been foolhardy enough to attempt a similar combination.

Their impressions of the Music Hall were reported early in their meanderings over the land. Their impressions of Hollywood gyrated between the ecstatic and the critical.

"We were immeasurably impressed with the calibre of the task Hollywood accepts as routine," the consensus of opinion went. "We might have questioned from time to time the right or the wrong of the liberality with which money was spent, but, after all, the executives in charge of production must know their jobs. Every detail, not matter how slight, was accorded the most minute attention."

All major studios were visited in the three days the group was in Hollywood. Then followed Santa Barbara, Del Monte and its 17-mile drive and San Francisco. The return, via Chicago, was broken up with visits to Toronto where Ray Lewis, editor of the Canadian M. P. Digest, entertained and a visit to Niagara Falls.

American Trade Invited

Taylor, through Motion Picture Daily, on behalf of his branch extended a general invitation to the American trade to visit London during the coronation next year. All members of his party went the limit in praising the wonders of their trip and the extent of the hospitality shown them.

Yesterday, the delegation was guests of National Screen Service at a luncheon at the Savoy Plaza where William Brenner, a general executive of the trailer company, was host. Sam and George Dembow and Charles Casanave also represented N.S.S. and National Screen Accessories. Jack Davis, who operates the Monseigneur newsreel theatres in London, was also a guest. Last night, the party was on its own, many of its members seeking the sort of divertissement not to be found in London. Minsky's and Harlem were among the suggestions made earlier and spots visited later.

The committee chose the code after studying various systems of regulation used in other countries.

Chicago Passes 'Adverse'

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The censor board here today re-reviewed "Anthony Adverse," made three cuts in the dialogue and passed the feature. The deletion of lines in the first reel referring to the honeymoon appeased the local censors.

the sales force a general breakdown on the titles, players and producers lined up. He also told the men that the company is here to stay definitely and that rumors to the contrary going the rounds are without foundation.

Among the titles announced were "Devil on Horseback," produced by George Hirliman in natural color; "White Legion," Conrad Nagel in "Yellow Cargo," "Captain Calamity," "In His Steps," "Call Me Arizona," "We're in the Legion Now," "Five Little Peppers," James Cagney in "Great Guy," "Hats Off," "23½ Hours to Live," Conrad Nagel in "Navy Spy," "Ride, Ranger, Ride," "Snow Covered Wagons," "China," "Grand Canyon," and "Murder With Music."

Cagney appeared at the afternoon session and spoke briefly to the branch managers. A number of exchange men will meet today with James Winn and Leserman for individual conferences prior to returning to their territories.

Cagney Budget Set

Leserman stated that the production budget for Cagney's first, "Great Guy," will approximate $450,000. The cost for "Snow Covered Wagons" will exceed $750,000, he said. W. B. Frank, who will produce "Snow Covered Wagons" will leave for the coast in a few weeks. Cagney also plans to depart for Hollywood shortly.

Although James Davidson and Stanley Hatch, who have attended the two-day session, planned to be on hand for the Chicago meetings which start Friday at the Medinah Athletic Club, pressure of business will prevent them from leaving town.

Leserman, Winn and Edward Finney will leave tonight for Chicago.

After the Chicago meeting Saturday, Leserman will go on to the coast, where he will spend about a week at the studio.

It is understood the company will have a number of 30 per cent and 35 per cent pictures on the program, in addition to asking for preferred playing time.

held by RKO in its going subsidiaries and the obligations of those subsidiaries to the parent company.

The original 1931 issue of $6,000,000 had been reduced to $1,825,000 outstanding at the time of the RKO receivership in Jan., 1933. The obligation was further reduced to its present $850,000 outstanding since that time. It comprises one of the principal secured debts of the company, except for the RKO debentures, and its retirement at this time is viewed as indicative of the improved financial status of RKO and subsidiary companies.

"Ziegfeld" Ends Tonight

"The Great Ziegfeld" tonight will end its stay at the Astor after 19 weeks at two-a-day prices. Business during the last few weeks picked up in contrast to early July grosses. Yesterday, there were 25 standees during the matinee show. "Romeo and Juliet" opens tomorrow night with the same policy.

ing of such concessions as elimination of the score charge and increased, unqualified cancellation undoubtedly would be sufficient to deter the organization from a legislative policy. He appeared just as certain that distributor approval of the setting up of local conciliation boards, without accompanying concessions, would not be. He described the local boards as being "just as much, if not more, useful to distributors as they will be to exhibitors," despite the fact that three or four of the M. P. T. O. A.'s 10 points might be realized through the establishment of the boards. Such points are the forcing of shorts with features, designated play dates, nontheatrical competition and overbuying.

No attempt will be made to make an issue of the short form of contract recommended by the M. P. T. O. A. for adoption by distributors, it was indicated.

Points to Business Increase

Kuykendall estimated that theatre business throughout the country was up 35 per cent over the same time last year, attributing the improvement to the spending of bonus payments, improved product released this summer and better advertising and exploitation methods being employed by small town exhibitors. His opinion is based on observations and talks with exhibitors at theatre owners' conventions in all parts of the country during the past few months.

Kuykendall came here to attend the Louis-Sharkey fight and leaves today for Washington. En route from there to his home at Columbus, Miss., he will stop off at Nashville for a day for conferences with Tony Sudekum, head of Crescent Amusement Co.

Ina Claire Tax Reduced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The Internal Revenue Bureau today reduced by $23,331 the tax responsibility of Ina Claire for the year 1932. An overassessment of $20,219 was determined by the commissioner of internal revenue by eliminating from the taxable income of the actress certain amounts which in a prior audit were held to represent the separate income of her husband, and which were included in his taxable return. The balance of the reduction represented interest assessed on a previously asserted deficiency.

Wins Bank Night Point

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 18.—A point in the Bank Night controversy in progress here has been won by Carl A. Porter, manager of Warner's Elsinore, when he gained permission to operate until Sept. 21. Porter claimed that the game represented advertising and did not constitute a lottery. The test case is being watched by all Oregon theatres.

as a departure from the current law in that computation is to be figured on the basis of "foreign" film acquired. "Quota to be a percentage of foreign films acquired by renters and shown by exhibitors instead of a percentage of all films handled as at present." The italics are from the plan. In an appended chart, the producers' group, extremely cooperative, went beyond and endeavored to show how it would work:

Renters' Quota

	Proposed New Quota (Being the Percentage of British Film to be Acquired, Calculated upon the Total of Foreign Film Acquired)	Approximate Equivalent on Basis of Calculation of the Present Quota Act
First year of new act	29 per cent	22.5 per cent
Second " " " "	33 " "	25 " "
Third " " " "	38 " "	27.5 " "
Fourth " " " "	43 " "	30 " "
Fifth " " " "	48 " "	32.5 " "
Sixth and subsequent years	54 " "	35 " "

Exhibitors' Quota

	Proposed New Quota (Being the Percentage of British Films to be Exhibited, Calculated Upon the Total of Foreign Films Exhibited)	Approximate Equivalent on Basis of Calculation of the Present Quota Act
First year of new act	25 per cent	20 per cent
Second " " " "	29 " "	22.5 " "
Third " " " "	33 " "	25 " "
Fourth " " " "	38 " "	27.5 " "
Fifth " " " "	43 " "	30 " "
Sixth and subsequent years	50 " "	33.3 " "

And with it a generous footnote explaining that exhibitors currently show approximately one British out of every five exhibited while, by the proposed quota, the maximum requirement would merely be one British out of every three, a mere pittance. By default or perhaps downright oversight, no footnote sheds light on the burden which would be placed on the operations of the American producer in the Kingdom, even at the thirty-five per cent bracket which the producers' group says actually will equal the fifty-four per cent specifically sought.

It is a partisan fight which is being waged and the manifestations are in evidence on all sides. They trace back to the original Films Act which, by the sliding scale method, not only penalized American producers for supplying British exhibitors with the majority of their profit pictures by making them take on English pictures, but left open a convenient method for British producers of utilizing stars and production brains developed in America by American methods and American capital, not to overlook courage. "Not less than seventy-five per cent of the salaries, wages and payments specifically paid for labor and services in the making of the film (exclusive of payments in respect of copyright and of the salary or payments to one foreign actor or actress or producer but inclusive of the payments to the author of the scenario) must be paid to British subjects or persons domiciled in the British Empire," reads a significant portion of the law. These italics are ours and are recommended for re-reading.

Now, however, it is proposed to extend the exemption to scenario writers, the excuse for that being the difficulty of differentiating between writers of treatments or the scripts themselves under the terms of the act. The British producers, continuing to wave the red flag of "quickies" that hurt, have a third idea which is to compel that distributor pictures for quota be made at a minimum of $12,500 a reel or $75,000 per average five-reel feature, thereby further causing more money to be spent in production, which means studio space and gravy for plants that were built largely to sell their stages to all bidders. The sop to nationalism and patriotism, not to overlook pride in the home industry, would take form in another suggestion that all distributor quota films made at any lesser figure flash the screen line, "This picture is a renters' quota film acquired by Messrs. . . . to enable them to distribute foreign films." The angles have been worked out with a great deal of precision.

The British exhibitor has a slant of his own on quota. Tomorrow's article will deal with its salient points.

week-day price from 1 to 6 P. M. will be advanced from 35 cents to 40 cents. From opening to 1 P. M. the 25-cent charge will continue unchanged. Instead of the admission of 55 cents from 1 P. M. to closing on Saturday, Sunday and holidays, the new price will be 55 cents to 6 P. M. and 75 cents thereafter. Saturday midnight shows will have a 40-cent scale instead of 35 cents as heretofore. Children will be admitted at 15 cents at all times, as has been the rule.

The first picture to be booked under the new scale is "Girl's Dormitory," Aug. 28. It probably will run two weeks and will be followed by "Sing, Baby, Sing" on Sept. 11. Several other Twentieth Century-Fox pictures will be dated from time to time.

Paramount, Strand Marking Time

Bob Weitman of the Paramount yesterday stated there are no plans for dropping the early morning price. Byron (Dinty) Moore of the Strand said he had not been advised officially of the Broadway plan to increase prices, but if everyone else does it he certainly would want to join.

Although tentative plans called for a meeting this week of major and independent circuit heads who convened two weeks ago at C. C. Moskowitz' office for a discussion of developments since the first session, it was learned yesterday no definite date has been set.

"Swing Time" has been dated to start an indefinite run at the Music Hall on Aug. 27.

Bette Davis to England

Bette Davis is en route to England where she will confer with her manager, M. C. Levee, on a possible G. B. contract. She was suspended by Warners recently after refusing a role in "God's Country and the Woman."

Woodhull Dies Suddenly from Heart Attack

Former Head of MPTOA Inactive Recently

R. F. ("Pete") Woodhull, former president of the M.P.T.O.A., died suddenly yesterday of a heart attack at his home in Dover, N. J. He was 55 years old and had been in apparent good health up to the time of his death. The fatal attack occured about 3:30 A.M., Wednesday, and Woodhull lived until 12:10 P.M.

R. F. Woodhull

Operator of the Baker, at Dover, from 1912 to 1926, Woodhull was president of the M.P.T.O.A. for a total of seven years, from 1924 to 1930. In addition, he served terms as president of the New Jersey exhibitors' organization and as a director of the former Eastern Theatre Managers' Ass'n. After relinquishing the Baker to the Stanley-Fabian interests in 1926

MPPDA Opens Drive To Offset Politics

The M.P.P.D.A. today will open its publicity campaign on behalf of outstanding pictures being released from now to the time of the Presidential election with comment on approximately 50 important pictures. The publicity is aimed for this afternoon's and tomorrow morning's newspapers.

A sustained campaign is planned for the next three months to center public attention on important releases during that period in order to offset as far as possible the effects on theatre business of local and radio electioneering programs.

MPTO-ITO Merger Completed at Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Both the I.T.O. and M.P.T.O., meeting in separate sessions, today, ratified the merger plan whereby there will be formed one unit to be known as the M. P. Theatre Owners of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware.

A board of 20 from each of the former groups will meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning to elect officers.

Following the election it is believed that the first active move of the new organization will be a drive against high film prices now being asked here.

Erpi to Launch New Theatre Reproducer

Erpi is prepared to launch commercially a new theatre sound reproducing system known as the Western Electric Mirrophonic sound system, as a result of the reception given the equipment employed in a special concert conducted by Leopold Stokowski in the Hollywood Bowl early this week.

Erpi installed its new Stereophonic sound reinforcing system in the Bowl for the first exacting public test of the new amplification unit, which is an integral part of the reproducing system being made available to theatres. The demonstration was arranged by Dr. Harvey Fletcher, physical research director of the Bell Telephone Laboratories; Boris Morros, Paramount studio musical director, Stokowski and Erpi engineers. Dr. Fletcher is now on his way east following a farewell luncheon tendered him by Erpi and studio executives at the Hollywood Athletic Club.

In a statement issued by Erpi yesterday Harry Cohn, Columbia president; H. M. Warner, president of Warners, and Stuart Doyle, head of

Distributors Fight Chicago Reel Order

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The demands of city officials that 2,000-foot reels have one inch space between the outer edge of the reel and the inner edge of the magazine will force the use of a 14-inch reel, distributors here say. As a 14½-inch reel is standard, all film will have to be rewound on a smaller reel before a show starts.

The distributors say they will not accept the city's demands, the statement coming from Henry Herbel, head of the local Film Board of Trade, who called the M.P.P.D.A. in New York advising them of the local decision. He was advised to disregard the city regulations.

It now appears that considerable trouble may result if the city begins to enforce the new rule next month.

Blumenstock Takes Ad Post at Warners

Mort Blumenstock, who has been assistant to Joseph Bernhard and handling publicity and advertising for the national Warner circuit, yesterday was named advertising manager for Warner-First National, succeeding Stanley Shuford, who joins the Biow Agency Sept. 1. He assumes his new post Monday and will be second in command to S. Charles Einfeld, publicity and advertising director.

Harry Goldberg, head of advertising and publicity for Warners' theatres in Philadelphia, on Monday will take over Blumenstock's former duties. He will be succeeded in Philadelphia by Jules Seltzer, formerly Goldberg's assistant.

Before joining Warners five years ago as publicity director for the company's metropolitan houses, Blumenstock had been a director for Paramount and prior to that engaged in production on his own. He also au-

"San Francisco" Going to Town, and Defying Analysis

By SHERWIN A. KANE

Now comes "San Francisco" with its fabulous dollar record to confound the trade, the critics and its own producers. They're all discussing it, analyzing it, trying to take it apart to see what it has that makes the money roll in. In short, the public, having shown that it wants "San Francisco," the experts once again have something close at hand which may offer a clue to what the public really wants.

If records count for anything the search will probably bear fruit in a cycle of musical earthquake pictures and, while they are in work, the elusive public taste probably will be captivated by a new animal picture or a comedy-drama with a wholesale bakery as its setting.

At M-G-M they are beginning to regard the mounting gross and the disappearance of many respected institutional records somewhat philosophically. They admit they don't know what "San Francisco" has that makes it a better buy for the public than "Tugboat Annie" and "Mutiny

See No Plan On RKO Ready Before Jan. 1

Center Claim Settlement Will Require Weeks

The completion of a reorganization plan for RKO much before Jan. 1 is regarded as unlikely, authoritative sources familiar with the present status of reorganization progress and cognizant of the work which remains to be done, said yesterday.

An agreement on a basis for treatment of the $9,100,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO under a plan of reorganization is conceded to be the most important single step which is to be taken before further progress toward completing a plan can be made. A considerable amount of work has been done already in attempting to arrive at an agreement on the amount of new RKO securities the Rockefeller Center claim will be entitled to when and if it is finally allowed by the courts. This work, however, was discontinued recently while principals in the negotiations are vacationing. The discussions probably will be resumed after Labor Day and authoritative sources estimate that at least four weeks of additional work will be required then before an agreement is effected.

If this claim is out of the way by mid-October, it is said, the proponents of an RKO reorganization plan then would have to obtain the assents to the plan of numerous other unse-

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

SO it was that producers had their say and their day before the official Government committee. The English exhibiting fraternity, represented by T. H. Fligelstone, president, and W. A. Fuller, general secretary of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association, also had a story, however, and it failed to match in many significant details the picture painted by the producers' group.

On the point of poor product, a general agreement was voiced. It was stated that, prior to quota times, British films held about three per cent of British screens. For the twelve months to September 30, 1934, and, by estimate, for the succeeding year, the percentage bracket had stepped sharply to 26.09 per cent. Here, in itself, was a sign to the impatiently obdurate producers that they are making progress when it is remembered the British exhibitor was compelled to devote only 20 per cent of his playdates to English pictures under the law..

Indicating that patriotism can be expected to go so far and then ordinary, but less glorious, business sense prevail are some of the points brought home to the committee by the exhibitors' association. They are worth the perusal:

> "Through a sense of loyalty to the Films Act, many exhibitors are weary of the constant loss of money which they suffer through constantly having to show British films to which the public does not respond when there is available a considerable margin of selection in foreign (American) films to which the public would respond.
> "We have, therefore, come to the definite conclusion that the original intentions of the Films Act, that there should be a margin of two films from which to select one, should be the standard for future legislation.
> "We accordingly ask that the quota upon exhibitors should be reduced at the earliest possible moment to 10 per cent.
> "We would emphasize our unwillingness to continue to suffer heavy financial sacrifice by continuing to show British pictures unacceptable to our patrons and to rely upon the sympathetic administration of the Board of Trade in the event of default. It is not fair to the Board of Trade to place upon it the responsibility of endeavoring to smooth away the difficulties arising from an excessive quota upon exhibitors. Nor is it fair that we should be compelled to be ever searching through an inadequate number of films in an endeavor to satisfy the onus placed upon us to show in the event of default that the films were commercially impracticable."

The producers, expansive and expanding, could not have reacted very kindly to this, for instance:

> "Concerning other suggestions which we have heard of a quota rising to 35 per cent, we regard such proposals as fantastic and unnecessary. Any legislation for an increase of quota would, we venture to predict, result in an orgy of prospectuses with much resulting loss to an investing public. British films, when good, have sufficiently established themselves that an increase in quota is unnecessary for their development. They can now increase in numbers on their quality without any further artificial stimulus. As our request is for a substantial reduction of quota it follows that we shall resist to the fullest extent any proposals to increase the quota upon exhibitors."

And the distributors, always in the exact middle of this drag out squabble, were faced with this until subsequent indications pointed to a get-together between the C.E.A. (theatre owners) and the K.R.S. (renters or distributors) on mutuality in quota suggestion:

> "We shall oppose any suggestions which diminish the footage obligations imposed upon renters unless after consideration it appears that such scheme(s) is desirable and insures a corresponding reduction in the footage imposed upon exhibitors and also secures a margin of choice to which we have referred."

Swathed and almost smothered in high-sounding terms of British morals, national pride and maintenance of face by the mother country throughout the empire was the general complexion of the case which the producers sought to build up, not to their own disadvantage. Not so ethereal and much closer to the practical phases of the situation was the attitude of the exhibitors.

Discomfiture might well have been written on the miens of the former by many of the devastating bits of evidence injected into the record by the C. E. A. representatives. There was, for instance, another and persistent return by committee members to the possibility of eliminating the quota on distributors on the ground compulsory playing time imposed upon the exhibitor would induce a sustained flow of good British films.

It was Fligelstone, a bit roughly in this opinion, who pinpricked

Goldwyn, Kingsley Sued for $2,000,000

A $2,000,000 plagiarism suit alleging copyright infringement was filed in Federal court yesterday by Edna Buckler, a playwright, against Sidney Kingsley, playwright, Norman Bel Geddes, producer, the 138 E. 37th St. Corporation, Random House, book publishers and Samuel Goldwyn, film producer. The plaintiff alleges that prior to Jan. 21, 1935 she wrote a play entitled "Money." She left the copy of the play with Joseph P. Vickerton, a theatrical attorney and producer, to consider the play for production.

She states in her complaint that she subsequently learned that he was the attorney for Sidney Kingsley and that he didn't return the copy of the play to her until Aug. 1, 1935. She charges that on Aug. 21, 1935, Kingsley filed a play titled "Dead End" in Washington for copyright which is an almost exact copy of her own play. She claims that Goldwyn paid Kingsley $165,000 for the film rights. No answer to the complaint has been filed as yet.

Skouras and S. & C. Sued for Showings

A series of suits in which it is charged that the defendant wrongfully exhibited various pictures were filed in Federal court yesterday. Twentieth Century-Fox, M-G-M, Radio, and Columbia, filed suits against Skouras Theatres Corp. for the unauthorized showing of pictures at the Capital and Embassy in Westchester. Twentieth Century-Fox is suing over "Feud," M-G-M over "No More Ladies" and "The Voice of Bugle Ann," Radio on "Love on a Bet" and Columbia on "The Calling of Dan Mathews." In each case $250 is asked for each exhibition.

Another series of suits have been filed against Jack Springer and Sam Cocalis by Republic, Mascot, M-G-M and Paramount. These suits are for exhibition of pictures at the Manhattan, Alpine, Dyckman, Syphony and Thalia Theatres. Republic is suing over "Darkest Africa," Mascot on "Pride of the Marines," M-G-M over "Three Live Ghosts" and Paramount over some newsreel releases. In each case $250 is asked for each exhibition.

Roxy Shows $9,489 Loss

The monthly report of Howard S. Cullman as trustee of the Roxy Theatre Corp. covering the period of June 26 to July 30, showed a loss of $9,489.42. It was filed in Federal court yesterday. The receipts for the period were set at $116,766.41 and disbursements at $115,632.58 or an excess of receipts over disbursements of $1,133.83. The cash on hand for the period amounted to $62,363.60. The figure which represents the loss is the result of an item amounting to $16,429.15 covering rent, taxes, insurance and interest on receivers' certificates.

Now, inspired by the splendid public reception of such sincere and unusual recent attractions as their "Story of Louis Pasteur," "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "The Green Pastures," Warner Bros. will embark upon the new cinema season with a series of productions definitely planned to exceed all past efforts, filmed in studios specially enlarged for this expanded program. The first of these, to be presented shortly in the country's most important theatres, will be

Continuing Their New-Season Cycle of Great Dramas, Warner Bros. Now Present

THE PICTURE EVERY WOMAN WILL WANT SOME MAN TO SEE

To all the women of all the world who know—as no man can ever know—the anguish that is the glory of love, the despair that is its ecstasy, Warner Bros. give this amazing exploration of the soul of a mother, caught in the turmoil of a love so desperate that she must break another woman's heart—or her own! See it and you will understand why famous feminine critics unite in calling this the finest picture of its type in recent years.

Short Subjects

"Louis-Sharkey Fight Pictures"

(Super Sports Attractions)

Another excellent job is turned out in the filming of this important sporting event. With the high perfection that characterized the Louis-Schmeling match, the producers have scored again. The audience witnessing this picture will enjoy fine views of the fight from a variety of angles. There are closeups of the four knockdowns from ringside positions and they are repeated in slow motion, something that even those in actual attendance did not witness. These reels, if they maintain their standard, should revive a waning interest in the heavyweight boxing field. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Feminine Form"

(Treasure Chest—Educational)

A bevy of pretty girls go through strenuous exercises with various appliances in this short. The point of it is to show how the girls keep their slender figures. They go through their paces with archery, a clever rolling device and a special gadget for strengthening back muscles. It closes with a fine exhibition of adagio dancing by Mademoiselle Andre and her partner. It is eye-pleasing stuff and the camera angles and effects make it fair entertainment. Production Code Seal, No. 01,116. Running time, 9½ minutes. "G."

"Clyde McCoy & 'Sugar Blues' Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

Entertaining, gay, youthful and melodious, this number of the familiar orchestra series is a nice tidbit. McCoy is something of a virtuoso with a cornet, he can almost make it talk. The band plays a few tunes in its unique "blues" style for the benefit of a group of dancing couples recruited from Roseland. Their dancing is of the modern manner and will interest and amuse. Well done specialties are offered by Ruth and Billy Ambrose, and Bill Hawley and Gloria Fay. Production Code Seal, No. 01014. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Highway Snobbery"

(Columbia)

A cartoon featuring Krazy Kat, this is moderately amusing. Krazy takes his girl for a spin in his car and violates all the rules and what have you, in his endeavor to get to the head of the traffic line. The other drivers, however, at the height of their annoyance, start passing him, each taking off a part of his car until he is reduced to standing by the roadside with only the car's radio. It is average cartoon fare. Production Code Seal, No. 2,379. Running time, 6¾ minutes. "G."

"Play, Don"

(Paramount)

The popular band renders a few tunes in good style and snappy, up to the minute numbers are well given by "Ducky" Yontz, Neil Buckley and Patsy Kane. Bestor plays "Star Dust" on the vibra harp. It is fast-moving and has fair entertainment qualities. Production Code Seal, No. 01130. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Texas Rangers"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—Following the well-established story situations familiar to its type, but turned out with lavisness in scale, "The Texas Rangers," firstly, has Fred MacMurray, who is box-office in any man's theatre these days, a rapidly-moving tempo, punctuated by hard riding, exciting fights and generous gunplay. There is another factor which may add immeasurably to the substantial, potential drawing power of the attraction, which is the fact that some time has elapsed since the last big outdoor western has been found on any distributor's schedule.

With three main story elements—friendship, adventure and romance—skillfully, although obviously, combined, this attraction has heart appeal, enhanced by production values on a large scale.

MacMurray, Jack Oakie, who ought to do something about his avoirdupois, and Lloyd Nolan, who delivers an excellent performance, are carefree outlaws, separated while fleeing a western posse. MacMurray and Oakie, falling on hard times, join the rangers with the intent of carrying on their bandit careers under the law's unwitting protection. To gain the confidence of the officials, they fight Indians intrepidly and finally get the opportunity they seek.

MacMurray is sent into Kimball County to depose Fred Kohler, bad man and big boss, and succeeds in sending him to jail for a period long enough to count him out of the reckoning as well as the picture, the idea being that Nolan will succeed. It is Oakie, injured in the Indian fights, who sees the right in the law, goes straight and plants the same seed in MacMurray's manly breast. Eventually it takes, aided by his dawning love for Jean Parker, daughter of the major of the rangers.

Nolan, however and despite his genuine promise to stay out of MacMurray's way, remains outside the law and terrorizes the state with a career of bank robberies and murders. Eventually, and as was expected, his path and MacMurray's cross again when the latter, assigned to bring in Nolan, quits the rangers rather than get his friend. Thrown in jail through a link connecting his past with Nolan's, Oakie undertakes to bring in the bad man and is killed in the effort. MacMurray asks for his release to finish the job. Here develops one of the best sequences in the entire picture. Mutually respecting and liking each other, MacMurray and Nolan fight a running pistol duel, each exhorting the other to quit. In the end, of course, Nolan gets his and MacMurray gets the girl by direct inference after a "Bengal Lancers" type of military funeral is accorded Oakie.

King Vidor's direction is competent in the accepted style, although it is hard to excuse the cliffside scene where a double for MacMurray slides down the face to observe the Indian tactics with the sustaining rope plainly visible.

Performances are good, this going for Bennie Bartlett, as young Davie; Edward Ellis, as the chief of the rangers; Kohler, Richard Carle, George Hayes and Jed Prouty.

The script is by Louis Stevens from a story by Vidor and Elizabeth Hill. Edward Cronjager's photography is one of the picture's decided assets. Bernard Herzbrun's art direction is workman-like.

Would Force Garden To Open Fight Bids

A motion will be made before Justice Lloyd Church in N. Y. Supreme court this morning on behalf of the Oliver Film Corp. against the Madison Square Garden Corp. to compel the latter to hold open bids on the picture rights to the forthcoming Braddock-Schmeling fight. The petition also asks for an order enjoining the Madison Square Garden Corp. from transfering or otherwise disposing of the picture rights for less than $60,000.

Counsel for Oliver charges that the Madison Square Garden Corp. is about to award the picture rights for $25,000 to Mike Jacobs and the Twentieth Century Sporting Club in spite of the fact that Oliver Film already made a bona fide offer of $60,000. In explaining that it has previously bought picture rights of other fights at Madison Square Garden, the petitioner also states that it is a minority stockholder of Madison Square Garden and has been promised an opportunity to make a competitive bid.

Demand Cut in Wages

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Aaron Saperstein declared here today that Allied is demanding a 10 per cent reduction in operators' salaries for the coming year. The operators, who are negotiating next year's contract, are asking for a 25 per cent increase. It is understood Allied is basing its demand on the contention that operators are overpaid at present, and that the new 2,000-foot reels will ease their work.

Variety Club

Kansas City

Kansas City, Aug. 19.—It was a hot time everyone in the film business in these parts had at the fifth annual picnic and golf tournament sponsored by the M. P. Relief Fund and Variety Club at Ivanhoe Country Club. With the thermometer at 110 the ball game between exhibitors and distributors was called. The girls, who were to have had one, followed the men to the shade, but the drought has been so bad most of the trees have shed their leaves.

The girls still were less sissy than the men, because they did run the 50-yard race, and Katherine Shafer of M-G-M perspired in first, with Marie Jones, Warners, second. The Rummage Race for inspectresses was won by Edith Hess of RKO, Florence Kemp, United Artists, tagging her for second. The big moment of the day was the balloon race for girls, won by Marie Jones and Dorothy Star, Warners.

They never discovered who has the strongest back on Film Row because shippers and poster clerks, captained by Ed Breugginger and Roger Leaton, disappeared two minutes before the contest was called.

Billy Andlauer, Paramount News cameraman, won the beer drinking contest with a false bottom in the beer can. Larry Larsen was second. Tom Edwards entered, but was disqualified when he insisted that all the beer he had already consumed be counted.

Paul Bayzman of Box Office and Ken Force of Motion Picture Daily split a can, but couldn't get in the money even then. Sam Sosna was two contests behind by the time he had finished his can of beer.

Nat Hechtman had some pies for a children's pie eating contest, but all the children who came were grown up.

Finton Jones put on a boxing and wrestling show in the evening, but refused to participate.

R. W. McEwan miked the events stentorianly, and furnished the "shine" for the throwing booth.

R. R. Biechele maestroed the beer cans, cutting the tops off for the crowd to get free lemonade.

Profits will go to the relief fund, with which the industry here "takes care of its own."

Hold O'Brien Rites

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—Funeral services were held here yesterday at the Blessed Sacrament Church for John B. O'Brien, silent film director. He was buried in Calvary Cemetery.

he remained in retirement for more than eight years. About 18 months ago he began publication of Picture Business, a weekly paper of exhibitor comment. Its publication was suspended last spring.

Woodhull is survived by his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Woodhull; a son, Robert; his mother, Mrs. Mary Estelle Woodhull; a sister, Miss Nina Woodhull, all of Dover, and a brother, Horace, of Honolulu.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, at the home, 183 North Sussex St., Dover, and burial will be in Locust Hills Cemetery, Dover.

Woodhull was a 32nd degree Mason, a former president and an honorary life member of the Dover Rotary Club, a former exalted ruler of the B.P.O.E. and an officer of the Dover Chamber of Commerce. Prior to his entry into exhibition, which was as a manager for the late William H. Baker, Woodhull was associated with the United States Express Co., National Broadway Bank, Dover Trust Co., Metropolitan Life Insurance and Swift & Co., all in the vicinity of his native northern New Jersey.

Orders New Search For Fox's Records

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 19.—Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle today ordered Herbert Leitsteen, William Fox family bookkeeper, and Murry C. Becker of the Fox counsel to make a new search for Fox records. If any more are found they are to be turned over to the trustee in the William Fox bankruptcy proceedings.

The order was made after creditors' counsel protested that Leitsteen "has been evasive. The time should come when they could definitely say, 'You have all the records'."

Steedle directed also that during the sessions of the proceedings here next Tuesday, Leitsteen must prepare a financial statement of Fox assets and liabilities as of Jan. 1, 1930. This was after Leitsteen, re-questioned in an effort to contradict some of his earlier testimony, insisted that he could make up a statement for that date entirely from the Fox books "with some little memorandums."

Leitsteen Again Questioned

Though denying any recent recollection of these memorandums or of their whereabouts, Leitsteen testified that "I used to make up one each year." A few minutes later, still on the subject, he was asked, "Don't you know you made up a financial statement for Fox every year?"

His reply was, "Oh, no, I didn't."

Leitsteen conceded that "up until 1930 it was Fox's habit to have his books audited every year," but insisted that they were never audited since then.

Later in the day, Leitsteen said that Fox once gave $200,000 to Jack G. Leo, a relative, and attorney Becker commented, "Why, Fox gave away a million dollars to strangers."

The questioning continues tomorrow.

Union Theatres, Australia, among others, were quoted as enthusing over the sound effects achieved in the large outdoor amphitheatre.

In discussing the new sound equipment, Erpi asserts that the amplifying unit is capable of augmenting the 100-piece Stokowski orchestra 10-fold. It states that a "stereophonic effect" is achieved which eliminates the impression of all of the amplified sound having a common source with a resultant audience effect similar to that produced by radio reception.

The "refined" reproduction said to be achieved by the new Erpi equipment results from three distinct systems covering respectively right, left and center of the stage. The amplified reproduction thus attained is described as comparable to that which would be produced naturally by any orchestra sufficiently powerful to make its separate units and lowest volume distinct under conditions corresponding to those of the Hollywood Bowl.

Volume Control a Feature

Special controls, or "filter networks," are a feature of the new Western Electric theatre amplifiers, which permit a conductor to control volume. In addition, new "di-phonic" speaker systems have been developed to project high frequency or low frequency sound. Erpi says of this development that "all sounds are clearly and evenly radiated throughout the entire audience area—peaks of maximum loudness are reproduced clearly without any tendency to overload the speaker system—and faint sounds retain all their naturalness to a degree heretofore unknown."

The price: 10 cents.

Haines to Name New District Head Here

Roy Haines, who last week was promoted from New York state district manager to eastern division sales head for Warners, expects shortly to name a district manager for metropolitan New York, a post he held prior to his promotion to New York state head.

Haines will continue to make his headquarters at the New York exchange, as heretofore. This makes the fourth eastern sales head for the major companies locating at the local exchange. The others are William A, Scully, M-G-M; Charles Stern, U. A.; Sig Wittman, Universal.

thored and titled several pictures. A year after he joined the company, Blumenstock was promoted to publicity director for the Warner Circuit of 450 theatres. About three years ago he was again promoted, this time to assist Bernhard in the post he will relinquish to Goldberg on Monday.

the producers' self-sacrificial attitude for Britannia's sake with his answer which went on, briefly, as follows:

> "What guarantee have we that there will be this urge on the part of the British manufacturer to make good films? There appears to be a misguided opinion about this industry that there is a wish on the part of the producers to make greater and better films. We have not found that. What we have found is the wish to make money in this business and I put it to you this way as a thinking man. I know that if I were a British manufacturer in those circumstances I would immediately get hold of the British manufacturers and form such a ring that there would be no choice or margin of selection for the British exhibitor. He would have so much, and so much, and he would have to take it whether he liked it or not and to pay what was demanded whether he liked it or not."

The italics are ours and how!

The committee, searching for the facts, impresses with its essential fairness. Its members assumed the point of view time and time again that abolition of the quota on distributors would quicken the sales opportunities for existing British distributors and, no doubt, encourage new ones to enter the field with a market guaranteed through continuation and, perhaps, increase of British playing time; a strong argument.

The observation, also logical, was made that, once American distributors were not compelled to acquire and market English films, but consumption kept at its old level, if not jacked up, the number of playdates thereby available for all-British renters must of necessity take a spurt forward. The C.E.A. delegation could not quite see the light of such logic. It also failed to explain why it could not.

Two Meetings Set By Fox Circuits

Two four-day meetings of all National Theatres' division and district managers and bookers will be held in Kansas City and Los Angeles to familiarize the men in the field with terms and conditions of product deals concluded with major and independent companies. Attending the sessions from New York will be Spyros Skouras, William T. Powers, J. J. Sullivan, Ed Zabel and George Balsdon.

Last year and the year before, Skouras and his home office aides made a tour of all divisions. This year it has been decided to get the various operating heads to convene at two central points.

The first session will be held in Kansas City, Aug. 25-28. Skouras, Powers, Zabel and Balsdon will leave by plane Monday night, while Sullivan will depart by train Sunday. He is not permitted to fly because of a recent operation. Attending this four-day conclave will be Harold J. Fitzgerald and the Fox Wisconsin district men and bookers, Rick Ricketson and his Intermountain group, and Elmer C. Rhoden with the Fox Midwest personnel. Rhoden's office will be the headquarters for the talks.

To Meet in Skouras Office

The second meeting will be held in Charles P. Skouras' office in Los Angeles, Sept. 1-4. Arch Bowles, San Francisco; Frank Newman and John Hamrick, Seattle and Portland; Will Steege, Salt Lake City, will bring their associates with them. After this session, Skouras, Powers. Sullivan, Zabel and Balsdon will return to New York.

Product deals concluded so far for the five units for National Theatres are a three-year arrangement with M-G-M, a two-year pact with Paramount, and one-year terms with RKO, Columbia, Warner-First National, Twentieth Century-Fox, Universal and G.B. The Republic contract will be signed the latter part of the week and will be among those discussed at the two meetings. United Artists is the only company which has not completed negotiations.

Fitzgerald and Ricketson are in New York and will leave for Milwaukee and Denver before the home office group heads for Kansas City. Fitzgerald has been in town for over a week discussing theatre deals with Skouras. He plans to leave tomorrow. Ricketson may leave tomorrow or Saturday. On Sept. 2, the Intermountain circuit will start a three-day annual convention at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Denver.

Smith Wins Col. Golf

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Don Smith led the field of 250 golfers in the Columbia studio tournament at the Altadena Country Club. Smith had a net score of 65 and a gross of 78. Low gross was won by Henry Batista with a 73. The field was the largest to turn out for a Columbia tournament.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 19.—William Benjamin, exchange manager for Universal here, and Buena Salk, were married at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

cured creditors of the same class as Rockefeller Center, in addition to those of the more important RKO stockholders' committees. It is estimated that a minimum of two months would be required to complete this work and the final shaping of the plan for presentation to the Federal court here probably would require additional weeks.

If the work which remains to be done proceeds as expeditiously as these estimates contemplate, a first court hearing on the plan might be had some time during January. A minimum of several weeks would be required for the court hearings, it is believed, and several additional weeks would elapse before the court's decision was known, thus indicating that a plan might not be formally approved by the court before late February or March.

Atlas Leads Move

Estimates that the plan would be completed by next month or even next fall are dismissed by those close to its development as being "amazingly optimistic."

The Atlas Corp. which holds about $11,000,000 of face amount of RKO securities, and has an option to acquire from RCA a like amount, is taking the initiative in the reorganization proceedings and probably will be the chief proponent of the final plan. With RCA, it dominates the secured RKO creditors' group, assuring the approval of the plan by that class of creditors.

Receipts from the admissions tax during the first seven months of the calendar year were approximately $1,000,000 above those of the corresponding figures in 1935, bureau records show, the figures being $9,805,791 against $8,808,065.

is expanding its theatre holdings rapidly here.

Alperson refuses to confirm either angle, confining his comment to the observation that he has discussed plans with many interests and probably will not reach a decision before he sails for New York Friday.

Discuss Local Problems

Local problems were discussed by the various eastern and southern Grand National branch managers yesterday at individual meetings with Carl Leserman, vice-president in charge of distribution, at the Warwick.

After the separate talks, the exchange heads left for their territories. Leserman, James Winn, eastern division head, Edward Finney and Sidney Biddell, eastern story editor, will leave by plane today for Chicago where a two-day session for the western and mid-western sales groups will get under way tomorrow at the Medinah Athletic Club.

Those who will attend the convention include Bradley H. Fish, and Mel Hullin, San Francisco; Sam Berkowitz, Los Angeles; Joe Merrick, Seattle; Lon Fidler, Denver; Tom Tobin, St. Louis; Russell Borg, Kansas City; Lou Levy, Des Moines; Carl Reese, Omaha; Lou Patz, Milwaukee; Don Woods, Minneapolis; Ralph Peckham, Detroit; and Earl Silverman, Chicago.

Leserman will leave the Windy City Sunday for a 10-day visit to the coast. Finney and Biddell will accompany him. Winn will head for a tour of the company's southern exchanges after the Chicago session.

Take Western Exchanges

Denver, Aug. 19.—Grand National has taken over Lon T. Fidler's Denver and Salt Lake City exchanges known as Distinctive Screen Attractions. The name will be changed to Grand National. Fidler closed the deal when Edward L. Alperson, president, was on the coast recently. He will continue with the new company as district manager for the two exchanges.

Fidler has gone to Chicago to attend the two-day regional sales meeting at the Medinah Athletic Club.

Von Sternberg Deal Set

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—Negotiations with Joseph Von Sternberg to make three pictures for Grand National will await the arrival here of Edward L. Alperson, president, now in London. The deal with Von Sternberg has been on for some time. Associated with him will be Max Marcin, who will supervise the pictures while Von Sternberg will direct.

According to the terms of the deal, Von Sternberg and Marcin will finance half of the production costs while Grand National will finance the other 50 per cent. This plan holds true for all pacts made with producers.

First Ritter Film Set

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—"Call Me Arizona" will be the first Tex Ritter western to be produced by Edward Finney for Grand National. Production under direction of John P. McCarthy will get under way Aug. 25.

Pathe's Bankruptcy In Paris Confirmed

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Aug. 10.—The third chamber of the Paris court has confirmed the bankruptcy of the former organizations of the Pathe Natan companies; Pathe Cinema and Societe de Gerance des Cinemas Pathe (the Pathe circuit).

Liabilities of Pathe Cinema are 33,819,000 francs, and of the circuit, 30,000,000 francs.

Extremely cold weather, and considerable rain, has seriously affected business in local first runs through July and thus far in August. The theatres have comparatively little to offer, in any case, since distributors are reluctant to release their better pictures until September. A few houses showing American product have closed until next month, and others are showing weaker material.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Show Boat" and "Bullets or Ballots" are the outstanding films still running.

E. Lapinere, M-G-M advertising director here, has set Aug. 24-26 as the dates for the first meeting of all the European Laurel and Hardy Clubs, which have been organized for children between the ages of 10 and 14. The session will be held at the Olympia here in conjunction with the showing of "The Bohemian Girl," in which the comedians are starred. An elaborate entertainment program has been arranged for the children.

British Set System Of Picture Awards

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The British Institute of Cinematography has worked out a system of annual film awards similar to that of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences in Hollywood. In addition to gold awards to the various departments contributing the best British film of the year and bronze medals for second place, the Institute will present a gold medal to the producer of the best non-British picture, according to W. E. Chadwick, honorary general secretary of the organization.

The award classes will be as follows: best film, direction, art direction, photography, recording, actor and actress performances, editing, and the best contribution to technique of film direction.

Plan Veterans' Party

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Stars of silent days will hold their first annual dinner dance at the Biltmore Bowl here Aug. 24. J. Stuart Blackton, general chairman, has appointed a men's committee and a women's committee to handle arrangements. The men's committee includes William Farnum, Bryant Washburn, Creighton Hale and Jack Mulhall. Florence Turner, Virginia Pearson, Agnes Ayres and Alice Calhoun form the women's committee.

Truog Joins Warners

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 19.—Morton "Buddy" Truog, son of W. E. Truog, exchange manager for United Artists here, who has been booker for the Columbia exchange the past two years, has gone with Warners as booker.

Looking 'Em Over

"Heroes of the Range"

(Columbia)

This is an entertaining western that is sure-fire fare for the enthusiasts. As usual with Ken Maynard films there are a few musical interludes in outdoor fashion that are quite pleasing.

Maynard, through rescuing June Gale in a runaway rig, ingratiates himself with a gang of safe-cracking outlaws who are waiting to make off with a shipment of money to be delivered to the local express office. When Maynard arrives on the scene they are holding Miss Gale's brother, who was shot in a brush with the law, to get information as to the date when the money arrives. When the gang raids the express offices a counterplan Maynard evolved is foiled and, after the safe is rifled, he sets out and captures the leader in a rip-roaring fist fight. The sheriff takes the prisoners and Tarzan helps with the romantic conclusion.

The supporting cast includes Harry Woods, Harry Ernest, Robert Kortman, Bud McClure and Tom London. Nate Gatzert is responsible for the screenplay and story. Spencer Gordon Bennet directed.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,008. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

"Il Serpente A Sonagli"
(Serpent's Fang)

(Nuovo Mondo)

A finely executed production from Italian studios, this picture will be good entertainment for audiences who understand the language. A fast tempo creates exciting atmosphere and carries the story forward rapidly without a dull sequence. Subtitles in English adequately translate.

The story, set in a girls' college, is a murder mystery with comedy overtones. The plot thickens when a teacher, disliked and called by the students "the Witch" is found dead in her bed. The police are called in with a personable young inspector taking the case. He discovers the adverse sentiment in the student body, uncovering many leads and clues, which he eventually sifts and brings to a climax, unearthing the murderer. He also develops a romance with another teacher for a pleasant conclusion.

The performances of the principals and supporting cast are good. Included are Andreina Pagnani, Lilla Brignone and Vanna Pegna, a charming young actress of whom Hollywood should take note. The film was directed by Raffaello Materazzo. Credit is due Gioacchino Gengarelli for admirable photography.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Murder in the Red Barn"

(Olympic Pictures)

The theme expressed in the time-honored phrase—"And the villain still pursued her," is nowhere more clearly expressed than in this English version of one of the most famous of yesterday's "mellerdramers." It was revived, in all its gory glory, last year as part of a New York variety show, and the audiences hissed and booed and wept to their heart's content. They enjoyed it immensely.

In this version, however, there is neither the one nor the other. There is none of the downright burlesque of the old "meller" which so pleased the stage audience, nor, on the other hand, is there the completely serious playing of it which might also be reckoned genuine entertainment—of a sort. Rather there is a combination of both. The character bits are done in the time-honored heavy style, almost with a touch of burlesque, while much of it is played straight.

A word for Tod Slaughter's performance as Corder, the villain. It is easily the outstanding feature of the film. On the whole, there are a number of chuckles inherent in the atmosphere and the story of the film. It was produced by Sound City Studios, Ltd. Milton Rosner directed.

The story need not be retold. It is too familiar. He wronged the maiden and paid the price for his nefarious deed—and that's that.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 60 mintues. "G."

"My American Wife," which makes its debut at the Radio City Music Hall this morning, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on July 20.

"Yours for the Asking," now current at the Paramount, was reviewed from Hollywood on July 31 by wire.

"Seven Sinners," which is to be previewed tonight at the Roxy, was reviewed by cable from London on July 6.

"The Road to Glory," being shown at the Rivoli; "His Brother's Wife" at the Capitol, and "China Clipper" at the Strand are holdovers.

Stage Show Deal Is Set for St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—F. & M. executives today completed arrangements with the local stagehands' union whereby stage shows will be presented in two downtown first runs starting Sept. 4. A deal with the musicians' local had been completed several weeks ago.

The first show will be booked into the St. Louis on Sept. 4 with the Ambassador following shortly after. Eve Ross of the New York F. & M. office will be in charge of stage productions here.

Harry C. Arthur, Jr., is slated to arrive from the east next week and Jack Partington, who produces the presentations at the Roxy, New York, is due Aug. 29. The latter plans to remain here about 10 days to coach Miss Ross, who is assistant to Gay Foster in the east. The shows will not be routed.

Duals Will Probably Stay

No definite moves to eliminate duals have been made and according to F. & M. plans, two pictures will be booked in each house not featuring stage shows. "My Man Godfrey" and a second film not yet penciled in will open at the Ambassador Sept. 4. "Swing Time" and "Yellowstone" have been dated into the Fox for the week starting Sept. 4. "Mary of Scotland" and "Pepper" will be the twin bill at the Ambassador beginning Aug. 28. "China Clipper" and another undated film will comprise the Missouri bill for the seven days starting Sept. 4. "Sing, Baby, Sing" and "Shakedown" are slated for the Orpheum for the week of Sept. 4.

Wilby Takes G. B. List

The Wilby circuit, with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., has signed for the complete 1936-37 program of G. B. J. H. Butner and Scott Chesnutt acted for G. B. in the transaction while Jimmy Harrison represented Wilby.

on the Bounty," which were pretty good pictures in their day. Nobody claims it's Art. Nobody claims it's the best picture the industry or even M-G-M ever turned out. But look what it—or the public—is doing.

Up to Aug. 10 it had grossed over $2,000,000 and, in a majority of situations, it was still playing first run engagements. On these engagements and in 58 key cities only it has exceeded by far the gross of any previous M-G-M picture.

For the past few years they have been accustomed in M-G-M to using "Tugboat Annie" figures as exemplifying 100 per cent grossing possibilities. This standard was shaken a little bit when "Mutiny on the Bounty" ran up 111 per cent on the "Annie" comparison. "San Francisco," in its first 68 bookings up to Aug. 7, with numerous engagements still in progress, had grossed 137 per cent of "Annie" and 122 per cent of "Mutiny." It has exceeded the length of run of "Annie" in 52 of those 68 engagements and is fast approaching new records in the remaining 16 cities, in which its run is still continuing. The duration of its individual engagements exceeds that of any production ever released by M-G-M.

The picture is in its seventh week of first run in Cincinnati and San Francisco, new records for both cities. In Cincinnati the record was established in the face of one of the most prolonged heat waves the city has known. In San Francisco it was running between 60 and 70 per cent over average grosses for the houses it played and its take in that city alone was estimated at approximately $100,000 on Aug. 10.

Extended First Runs the Rule

Six cities have given the picture five weeks of first run; eight have given it four weeks and 21 have given it three and two-week engagements. In many of these situations the picture's run has not been concluded. Where prior bookings have forced the picture out of the house in which it opened originally before the business being done warranted ending the run, it has been transferred to a second, third and, in some instances, a fourth first run house. In Cincinnati it played the Palace, Capitol and Grand; in San Francisco, the Paramount, Fox West Coast and St. Francis; in Los Angeles, Loew's State, the Chinese, United Artists and Egyptian; in Albany, the Palace and Harmanus-Hall; in Cleveland, the State and Stillman; in New Haven, the Poli and College; in Pittsburgh, the Penn and Warner; in Worcester, Poli and Elm Street; in Milwaukee, the Wisconsin and Strand; in Des Moines, Des Moines and Paramount; in Seattle, the Fifth Ave. and Blue Mouse; in Oakland, Paramount and Grand Lake; in Tulsa, the Ritz and Majestic, and in all to grosses amazingly beyond the expected. In many instances it bettered the take, for comparable periods, of roadshow attractions which played the same cities at advanced prices.

It was the first picture in the history of the Valentine, Toledo, to play more than five weeks. After four weeks at the Capitol, New York, it played two weeks at Loew's State on Broadway, the first time in the history of the house that a picture has been held there for a second stanza. The second week's gross was comparable to most first week's business at the house. It was the first picture in the history of the Palace, Dallas, and the Minnesota, Minneapolis, to be held for a second week.

Added Dates Prove General

An interesting slant on the picture's performance is that it was generally off to good but not unusual business, but either increased or maintained its strength over extended periods. Reviewers, on the whole, classed it as a good, but far from exceptional picture. Word-of-mouth advertising obviously was the hypodermic which lifted it into the big dividend class. In many instances second week grosses exceeded or compared favorably with first weeks. In some instances this was true, as well, of third weeks.

In Boston, the fourth day's business was $283 better than the Friday opening; at the Capitol, New York, the fourth day was practically the same as the Friday opening; at Memphis, the third day, a Monday, was better than Sunday; at Harrisburg, Providence, New York, Reading, Toledo and Memphis it did better business on Tuesday than on opening day. At Boston, Nashville and New Orleans it did the best second weekend business on record.

Over 90 per cent of its runs to date have gone into overtime and announcements of extensions of 22 of its first 37 engagements had been made at the end of the third or fourth days.

M-G-M still is as much at a loss to explain "San Francisco's" performance as is the competitor down the street who dismisses it all with a scornful "The lucky stiffs."

"We were just going along minding our own business," said one M-G-M official, "and when we looked in the cash register, there it was."

Australia Speeding Production Activity

By CLIFF HOLT

Sydney, July 31 (By Airmail Via London)—Production activity here has responded to the New South Wales and Victorian quota laws and with six features actually shooting local studios are working at top speed. Cinesound has nearly completed "Orphan of the Wilderness," Columbia is busy on the Victor Jory feature, "Rangle River"; "Uncivilized," produced by Expeditionary Films, is ready and "The Flying Doctor," starring Charles Farrell, is about to be released. The "Phantom Gold" unit is on location in Central Australia; Zane Grey is pushing ahead with "White Death" on the Barrier Reef and an unnamed syndicate has commissioned Commonwealth Films to proceed with "Mystery Isle," while Cinesound is concluding preparatory work on a feature scheduled to follow "Orphan of the Wilderness," and which according to Cinesound's director, Ken G. Hall, "will have international appeal."

Directors of the Prince Edward here blame the opposition of broadcasting for the theatre's comparatively small profit of £7,491 for the year ended June 30. Nevertheless this profit represents a slight increase over that of last year.

Denies Melbert Petition

Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme court yesterday denied the petition of Melbert Pictures, Inc., for an order to permit Melvin Hirsh, as assignee of Melbert, to exhibit the film previously called "Revolt of the Zombies" under a new name "Revolt of the Demons." The petition was opposed by Sherman S. Krellberg, vice-president of the Amusement Securities Corp., which already has a permanent injunction and judgment for $10,878 against the defendants for infringement of the title. Krellberg contended that to permit the distribution of the picture under the proposed name would nullify the effect of the injunction, as the word "zombies" appears throughout the dialogue.

Moyce Starts East Today

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—Hollis Moyce, vice-president and secretary, S.M.P.E. and Du Pont representative on the west coast, will leave tomorrow for New York on his semi-annual visit to the factories and executive offices.

London, Aug. 19.—Joseph M. Schenck is on the Continent and returns Monday or Tuesday, when further word on the status of the Loew-Twentieth Century-Fox-G. B. deal is anticipated.

"U" Buys Wilson Novel

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—Universal has purchased the Harry Leon Wilson novel, "Oh, Doctor," and will produce it as a starring vehicle for Edward Everett Horton.

Rodgers Expected in L.A.

Los Angeles, Aug. 19.—William F. Rodgers, M-G-M's general sales manager, is expected here shortly from San Francisco where he arrived yesterday.

Cantor, Smash In 'Frisco at A Big $34,000

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—Eddie Cantor, in the flesh at the Golden Gate, brought $34,000 into the box-office there last week and made Cliff Work smile and smile. House average is $16,000. There was also a picture on the bill, "The Last Outlaw" by name.

In point of straight picture house attractions, however, honors went to the Paramount with a $16,500 take on "Great Ziegfeld" comparing with a $13,000 normal. The Orpheum did well with a combination of "Meet Nero Wolfe" and "Final Hour" at $10,000 which was $3,000 to the good and the Fox, playing "Secret Agent" and "Jailbreak" had no complaints at $10,300 since its average is $7,000. Third week of "San Francisco" at the St. Francis was strong at $10,000, while the second roadshow week of "Anthony Adverse" at the Geary was good for $11,500.

Weather was fair and competition was confined to Duffy stock and the P.W.A. show. Total first run business was $112,570 against a bulk average of $88,200.

Hollywood, Aug. 19.—Paramount has added three new writers to the scenario staff. They are Charles Lederer, who has been assigned to adapt "Double or Nothing," and Jay Gorney and Henry Meyers, who will collaborate on "College Holiday."

Pittsburgh Strikes Summer High; "To Mary" Is Leader

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19. — With weather conditions ideal and competition keen as the result of generally superior attractions everywhere, business hit a new high for the summer. Every single one of the five first-run houses went considerably above par.

"Suzy" at the Penn was the first real Jean Harlow money picture around here in years, getting pretty close to $14,000, while at the Alvin, "To Mary—With Love" approximated $9,000 and wasn't held over only because the tag end of the season is approaching and the house is anxious to play off remaining product under old committments.

Charlie Chase in person, and on the screen in "Kelly, the Second" built steadily after a slow start at the Stanley and came through with $17,000 and the Warner, with what critics rated its best double bill in some time, collected $6,100 with "One Rainy Afternoon" and "The Devil Doll." "Poor Little Rich Girl" also stood up well at the Fulton, getting $5,700 in six days of the second week.

Total grosses in five first-runs were $51,500. Average is $39,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 13:

"TO MARY—WITH LOVE" (20th-Fox)

ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,700. (Average, $4,500)

"POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL" (20th-Fox)

FULTON—(1,750), 15c-40c, 6 days. 2nd week. Gross: $5,700. (Average, for 7 days, $4,000)

"SUZY" (M-G-M)

PENN—(3,300), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $14,000. (Average, $10,000)

"KELLY, THE SECOND" (M-G-M)

STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Charlie Chase, Niela Goodelle, Rio Brothers, Four Steps, Elida Girls. Gross: $17,000. (Average, $16,500)

"ONE RAINY AFTERNOON" (U.A.)
"THE DEVIL DOLL" (M-G-M)

WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,100. (Average, $4,000)

"Pastures" a High $8,000, Louisville

Louisville, Aug. 19.—"The Green Pastures" was a box-office hit at the Mary Anderson. Contrary to expectations, interest was high in this town, and the excellent work of the colored cast received splendid reviews from the critics. The take topped the house average by $4,500, reaching $8,000.

At Loew's State "His Brother's Wife" hit a fast pace over the week-end, and held up well to the close. It was good for $7,000, a good $1,500 over average.

Two holdovers, "Rhythm on the Range" dualled with "High Tension," and "To Mary—With Love" at the Rialto and Strand respectively, were also on the profit side. The Rialto took $4,800, $300 over par. $3,600 was the take for the Strand, an even $100 over normal, "To Mary—With Love" received some good word-of-mouth publicity.

The weather was pleasant.

Total first run business was $26,300. Average is $19,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 13:

"HIS BROTHER'S WIFE" (M-G-M)

LOEW'S STATE—(3,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $5,500)

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19.—The Stanley, deluxe Warner house, will return to straight pictures on Aug. 28. For the last two years the house has been playing stage shows regularly.

"Wife" and "Lang" Best in Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Aug. 19.—"His Brother's Wife" and "The Return of Sophie Lang," on a dual bill at the Wisconsin took high honors for the week with a $10,000 gross, $2,000 above average.

Business was off to a slow start, due partly to the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus which played the city twice daily on Saturday and Sunday, and other houses failed to reach par. Midweek business was slowed up by the International Opera Chorus' operetta, which drew some 35,000 people on Wednesday night. It marked the last performance of the season.

The weather was warm and fair.

Total first run business was $23,600. Average is $24,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 11:

"SATAN MET A LADY" (W. B.)
"JAILBREAK" (W. B.)

WARNER—(2,400), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,500. (Average, $5,000)

Week Ending Aug. 13:

"YOURS FOR THE ASKING" (Para.)
"BORDER FLIGHT" (Para.)

PALACE—(2,400), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $5,000)

"DANCE BAND" (Rep.)

RIVERSIDE—(2,300), 20c-25c-30c, 7 days. Stage: Rhythm Revels. Gross: $4,100. (Average, $5,000)

"RHYTHM ON THE RANGE" (Para.)
"PUBLIC ENEMY'S WIFE" (W. B.)

STRAND—(1,400), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $1,000. (Average, $1,500)

"HIS BROTHER'S WIFE" (M-G-M)
"THE RETURN OF SOPHIE LANG" (Para.)

WISCONSIN—(3,200), 25c-40c, 8 days. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $8,000)

Nova Scotia Cuts Tax

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The new amusement tax scale adopted by the Provincial Government of Nova Scotia following appeals by exhibitors for downward revision, is found to be practically the same as that now prevailing in Ontario for the lower admission brackets. The tax on the 25-cent admission has been reduced from five to two cents while the reduction on the 35-cent ticket has been from five to three cents.

"To Mary" Is Denver's Top With $9,500

Denver, Aug. 19.—"To Mary—With Love," netting $9,500 at the Denver, was the top of the week, the gross going over par by $2,000. The film moves to the Aladdin for a second week.

"The Green Pastures" held up well in its second week, having moved over from the Denver, doing $4,500 at the Aladdin, against a par of $3,000, making it $1,500 to the good. "Navy Born" was strong at the Center, doing $4,000 to top average by $2,000, with a stage show to help.

The competition is still severe, with amusement parks and the Elitch stock company, and free softball games nightly drawing thousands.

Total first run business was $33,000. Average is $28,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 13:

"THE GREEN PASTURES" (W. B.)

ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days, following a week at the Denver. Gross: $4,500. (Average. $3,000)

"WHITE FANG" (20th-Fox)

BROADWAY—(1,500), 25c-40c, 7 days, following a week at the Aladdin. Gross: $1,500. (Average, $2,000)

"NAVY BORN" (Republic)

CENTER—(1,500), 15c-25c-35c, 7 days. Stage show. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $2,000)

"RHYTHM ON THE RANGE" (Para.)

DENHAM—(1,500), 25c-35c-40c, 4 days, holdover. Gross: $3,500.

Italy's Envoy Here to Talk U. S. Film Aid

Head of Government Unit Will Go to Coast

Plans under which American production talent would cooperate with the Italian Government both in launching and lending continuing assistance to the new studio enterprise established near Rome will be discussed by Carlo Roncoroni, member of the Italian Chamber and head of the Government's film bureau, on his arrival in Hollywood next week, it was learned yesterday.

Roncoroni arrived from Rome yesterday on the Conte di Savoia and plans to leave for the coast this weekend for an indefinite stay. While there he will confer principally with Dr. A. H. Giannini, president of United Artists, and with Walter Wanger, who completed arrangements while in Rome recently to make several pictures at the new Italian studio, the first of which may be undertaken this fall.

Roncoroni could not be reached at his hotel here following his arrival for questioning concerning new legislation affecting the distribution and exhibi-

Superb 'Romeo and Juliet' Opens Run on Broadway

By RED KANN

Under its dazzling white and circular electrical sign, whatever notables might be found in New York on a hot August evening last night made their way through police lines into the Astor Theatre for two hours to the minute of a magnificent "Romeo and Juliet."

The event had touched a high water mark of the year and the peak of the waning summer season in anticipation and was by no means let down by its arrival. The painstaking care and the fidelity to the worthwhile which characterized the majority of Irving Thalberg's work were on display to do the producer, its cast and its director proud and to add to the laurels of the industry an effort which will bring it unstinted praise.

This is no critical appraisal of "Romeo and Juliet"; that was done weeks ago over the Hollywood wire. This was slated to be a closeup and a sort of running narrative of an important opening. But whatever variance to that objective may creep in is, perhaps, pardonable in view of the magnitude of the task and the measure of its merit which are

RCA In Deal With Warners On 13 Houses

RCA High Fidelity sound reproducing equipment will be installed in a total of 13 Warner key theatres, Edwin M. Hartley, Photophone sales manager, said yesterday. The deal represents the first significant installations of RCA equipment in a major circuit other than RKO.

As reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of Aug. 18, a number of these installations have been made already in key Warner theatres and the equipment is being serviced by Photophone. The houses in which the trial installations have been made include the Strand, New York; Stanley, Philadel-

B'way Houses Set Meet on Price Change

The first meeting of all Broadway theatres to discuss abandonment of early bird prices and adoption of a 5 P. M. evening admission scale is scheduled to be held next Tuesday.

Indications definitely point to all first and second runs approving the plan, it was learned yesterday. In line with the original idea, when independent and major circuit heads met at C. C. Moskowitz's office two weeks ago, one or two exhibitors have contacted executives of the Roxy and the Strand.

Representatives of both houses have pledged support to the plan,

Key City Grosses in Gain; 166 Houses Bulk $1,468,800

Key city grosses for the theatre week ending July 31-Aug. 1 reflected an improvement over the previous seven days when 166 first runs in 29 cities bulked $1,468,800 as compared with 165 houses and an aggregate of $1,426,153 for the earlier period.

Currently, nine Cincinnati houses reported $49,300 as against eight earlier with a combined gross of $48,250. The additional theatre, therefore, had virtually no bearing on the present gain.

Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Houston, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Providence, San Francisco and Seattle evidenced increases, the number of reporting theatres remaining constant over the two week period

The comparison, city by city, will be found on page 13.

National Is Considering Price Raise

Would Be First Such Act By Major Circuit

National Theatres, whose subsidiaries comprise Fox West Coast, Fox Midwest, Fox Wisconsin, Intermountain and Evergreen States, is seriously considering an increase in admissions. The possibility will be one of the principal topics to be discussed at regional meetings at Kansas City and Los Angeles starting next week.

The step would be the first by the major circuits toward stepping up price scales throughout the country. It is expected that when both sessions are ended, definite commitments to boost admission charges will be made. Divisional and district operating heads and bookers as well as import sales heads of major and distributing companies will attend the two sectional conclaves.

Favoring the move for National is Spyros Skouras, first vice-president, who yesterday stated that "an increase in admissions is necessary."

"Film entertainment," he added, "is the only commodity in the world which has not risen along with price

Earnings of Para. Theatres Show Gain

Paramount theatre earnings are running approximately eight per cent ahead of last year, an official of the company stated yesterday. Last year's earnings were well in the black with a gross income indicated by the company's annual financial report for 1935 of approximately $42,000,000 from theatre operations.

Paramount has an interest in a total of approximately 1,100 theatres, 950 of which are operated under management contracts outside of New York supervision. Of the 150 remaining, all of which are under New York supervision, 90 are operated under individual management contracts.

Negotiations for the extension for two years of the contract under which Si Fabian operates the Brooklyn Paramount may be concluded within the next few days.

Purely Personal

JAMES FINNEY of RKO, garbed in a creamy-hued suit, had little time for lunch yesterday as he dashed around trying to catch up with his work now that Jules Levy is at Lake George. The latter returns Monday.

Grace Moore will leave by train for the coast to start work in "Interlude" for Columbia. The second picture she will make for the company will be "Nightingale Flies Home," by Rupert Hughes. The first picture will be a sequel to "One Night of Love."

Arthur W. Kelly has changed his plans about leaving for South Africa this week. His sailing schedule is now marked "indefinite."

Quip of the Day

"Ye'll kindly gie me back the money I paid for amusement tax," said the Scot at the theatre box-office.

"How do you mean, sir?"

"Weel, I wasna amused."

—The Era, London.

Mrs. George Skouras was among the passengers returning yesterday on the Conte di Savoia. She had been away for two months.

Sam E. Morris will sail on the Queen Mary on Aug. 26 for conferences in England with Jack L. Warner and Irving Asher.

Milton Kronacker is recuperating at So. Fallsburg, N. Y., from a recent illness. He's at the Ambassador Hotel there.

John Hay Whitney, back from Saratoga, yesterday denied reports he was selling his holdings in Technicolor.

L. E. Goldhammer, RKO Minneapolis branch manager, and Walter Branson, midwest division head with headquarters in Chicago, are in town.

Arthur Greenblatt returned yesterday from a swing of G. B. exchanges in the east and on Monday again leaves on another tour.

Peter Lorre is in town.

JAMES W. GERARD, who returned yesterday from Europe on the Conte di Savoia, said he knew nothing of the suit recently filed against him and Natural Color Film Corp. by Emil Klampt for alleged infringement of patents. The former U. S. Ambassador said he and two friends have a stock interest in the color film company, which is small compared to other interests he holds.

Billy Mauch, who plays the young "Anthony Adverse" in the picture of that name, will arrive in town tomorrow accompanied by his twin brother, Bobby.

George Gerhard is visiting a number of upstate New York towns on behalf of "Mary of Scotland." Later in the year he will entrain for the coast.

Arthur Willi, eastern talent scout for RKO, is making a tour of summer stock shows around Cape Cod. He will return after Labor Day.

Jessie Matthews will broadcast from London Aug. 25 and will be heard in America from coast to coast over the NBC Red network.

Paul Lamboit, technical expert for Dufaycolor, has left for the coast by plane, on the Dufaycolor process used by studios for stills of color sets.

Whitford Drake, Erpi vice-president, returns Monday on the Queen Mary from a two-month European business trip.

Charles L. O'Reilly again has delayed his return, this time until Monday. Business on the coast is responsible for setting back the departure!

Morton Nathanson has joined Monte Proser in handling publicity for James Ullman and D. A. Doran in the coming Broadway season.

Y. Frank Freeman and Frank C. Walker returned yesterday from a theatre inspection visit at Scranton, Pa.

Lou Irwin flew all the way to New Orleans to attend the inauguration of that city's new chief executive, Mayor Maestri.

Si Fabian will return Monday from Albany where he is looking over his various theatre interests.

Mary Pickford is due here around Sept. 15. Then she'll probably head for London.

Name Kuschner to Succeed Kalmenson

Pittsburgh, Aug. 20.—Oscar Kuschner, Warner branch manager at Indianapolis, has been named to succeed Ben Kalmenson as buyer and booker for the Warner theatres in this zone under Harry Kalmine.

Kuschner formerly was a Chicago theatre operator. Kalmenson recently was promoted to mid-east division sales manager for Warners by Gradwell L. Sears, vice-president and general sales manager.

No successor to Oscar Kuschner as manager of the Warner office in Indianapolis has been made by Gradwell L. Sears, it was stated here yesterday.

Tracy Is Made RKO Studio Legal Head

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—John Tracy was today appointed legal head at the RKO studio succeeding Felix Cunningham who has resigned to open his own office.

Ross Hastings, formerly aide to Cunningham, will be assistant to Tracy.

RKO in Packard Tieup

RKO has concluded arrangements for a tieup with Packard on "Swing Time," Astaire-Rogers musical. An eight-week contest is scheduled, with Packard cars as prizes, featuring slogans, and open to the public. Another contest, open to theatre managers and publicity men, is for the best cooperative campaigns on the picture handled in conjunction with local Packard dealers.

Files Judgment Data

A satisfaction of judgment was filed in N. Y. Supreme court yesterday on behalf of Austin B. Irwin against John Klein, Paramount Publix Corp. and RKO Studios, Inc., for $20,762. The judgment originally was obtained on May 6, 1935. The statement of the judgment settlement was filed by attorney Edward A. Scott.

U. A. to Show in Tibet

United Artists, through H. A. O'Connor, general manager in India, has closed with an exhibitor in Lhasa, the sacred city of Tibet, for the showing of U. A. Product. Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, states that the initial subjects will be "Around the World in 80 Minutes" and "Samarang."

Broadway Gay As "Romeo and Juliet" Opens

considerable by both of the counts.

There would appear to be no point in outlining the highlights of a play known so thoroughly and one so securely catalogued among literature's most famous love tragedies. Shakespeare, to many, offers no excitement and is devoid of thrills. Thalberg must have known that when he advanced his plans for "Romeo and Juliet" and that realization, no doubt, accounts for the adroitness, first, and the execution, next, of the decision which impart modern tempo, mood and speed to much of the picture.

Not that "Romeo and Juliet" departs from the printed word in essential detail. To have attempted that would have risked a storm of abusive criticism. This version rather is skilfully moulded to a recognizance of the sweep of the camera and it results, where properly such could be done, in wild and thrilling duels, breakneck travel on horseback, pageantry and color in dance and movement. It also significantly transforms to the quiet and to the gentle in the love scenes—on the balcony, in the friar's hut, in Juliet's bedroom—and to moving tragedy in the death scene at the finish.

This "Romeo and Juliet" is something of which Metro is very proud and that is thoroughly understandable. It is also an accomplishment fine enough and big enough for the entire industry to throw hats in the air and to reflect gratification that it was produced in the manner of its making.

Audience a Notable One

The mounted police, basking in the hot beams of sunlight arcs flooding the front of the Astor Theatre, were on display last night to maintain order at the premiere of "Romeo and Juliet." Injunctions of "move along" kept the crowds circulating and two lines of policemen, cleaving a narrow path into the lobby, were necessary to permit ticket holders through the crush.

In the lobby, Jay Flippen, at the WHN microphone, introduced celebrities, near and genuine, for a couple of words through the ether, including one woman who read hers which were more than a few.

Many Executives Attend

Film executives in New York were on hand, including Barney Balaban, A. W. Warner, Leon Netter, Major Leslie E. Thompson and a flock of others. The audience likewise included Lee Shubert, Morris Gest, sitting all by his lonesome; Clifton Webb, Ginger Rogers, Nicholas M. Schenck, Louis B. Mayer, E. M. Saunders, Thomas J. Connor, Louis K. Sidney, Charles C. Moskowitz, Howard Dietz, Si Seadler, Howard Strickling, Libby Holman, Jean Chatburn, Frank Orsatti, William Thalberg, the producer's father; Herbert Mass, his attorney; Ethel Levy, Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, president of the Shakespeare Ass'n; Kitty Carlisle, Fannie Hurst, and Luise Uhlrich and Viktor Kowa, Viennese players who arrived on the Bremen yesterday. Philadelphia critics, including Elsie Finn of The Record, Henry Murdock of The Evening Ledger, Jeff Keene of The Record, Linton Martin of The News and Hobe Morrison were there en masse as M-G-M's guests.

What the Critics Say

Midnight editions of three of this morning's newspapers carry reviews of "Romeo and Juliet." A consensus of their opinions:

Daily Mirror—Made with rare taste and played by an inspired cast, the first film production of "Romeo and Juliet" is a distinguisbed triumph for Hollywood. Photographically exquisite, magnificently mounted, it is one of the most elaborate and opulent of the recent films.

Liberated from the rigid confines of the stage, the film is active and spectacular, with brawls, duels and a suspense which brings it vividly to life. Despite the familiarity of its story, it awakens a gripping interest as the unfortunate young lovers meet and move forward to their inevitable tragedy.

Norma Shearer is a bewitching Juliet. She assumes the exacting role with the assurance of a seasoned Shakespearian. Her voice is lustrous and stirring. Leslie Howard plays Romeo with his usual skill. With Edna May Oliver as the nurse, Basil Rathbone as Tybalt and John Barrymore as Mercutio, the acting is uniformly inspired. Rathbone contributes the outstanding performance.

The vigorous direction of Mr. Cukor and the unobtrusive musical score of Herbert Stothart intensify the mood of the play, which emerges as a history-making film.

Herald-Tribune—With rare good taste and surprising resourcefulness the screen has translated Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" into a distinguished and beautiful photoplay. The singing measures of the tragedy have been framed in sumptuous pageantry. The acting, always effective, rises at times to genuine brilliance. Under George Cukor's knowing and sensitive direction, the angularities of the plot have been shaped to a smooth-flowing narrative exposition.

No speeches have been added, but episodes have been interpolated to give the production an almost continuous action. There are elisions, as there are in all theatrical productions of the play, but the bulk of the poetry remains and benefits by eloquent expression. Beautifully photographed, performed with feeling and restraint and consummately decorated, it is an offering that should commend itself both to Shakespeare lovers and those to whom the dramatist is only a name.

In Talbot Jennings's carefully wrought scenario the plot loses its jerky, episodic quality, and the misadventures that lead to Juliet's tomb are explained for the first time with clarity and dramatic conviction. Meanwhile, all the tricks of the camera have been used to give the production an excitingly varied tempo and to conjure up a visual accompaniment to the shifting moods of the drama.

Norma Shearer has not the exquisite diction of several great Juliets of the past, but her soliloquy when she drinks the potion is superbly moving. As Mercutio John Barrymore gives a matchless reading of the part and the other players, with scarcely an exception, do no violence to the verse.

Of all the splendid performances in the film, that of Mr. Barrymore is outstanding.

In her (Miss Shearer's) most ambitious role she does the finest acting of her career.

As Romeo, Leslie Howard is almost too restrained, although he conspires with Miss Shearer to make the lovers' meetings incidents of haunting beauty. One suspects that he is too conscious of the part's frailties. His characterization takes on stature and conviction in the desperate journey from the apothecary's shop to Juliet's tomb.

Pictorially, "Romeo and Juliet" is surpassingly lovely. Backgrounds that have reached bare suggestion behind footlights emerge here in a gorgeous panorama of fifteenth century Italy. Renaissance art has been culled assiduously by Cedric Gibbons and Oliver Messel to inspire striking street scenes at Verona, palatial interiors, elegant trappings and bright costumes. The visual imagery is carried to extremes at times. The screen version of "Romeo and Juliet" has flaws, but they are trivial when weighed against the beauty and compelling power of the production.

Times—Metro the Magnificent has loosed its technical magic upon Will Shakespeare and has fashioned for his "Romeo and Juliet" a jeweled setting in which the deep beauty of his romance glows and sparkles and gleams with breathless radiance. Never before, in all its centuries, has the play received so handsome a production as that which was unveiled last night at the Astor Theatre. All that the camera's scope, superb photography and opulent costuming could give it has been given to it here. Ornate but not garish, extravagant but in perfect taste, expansive but never overwhelming, the picture reflects great credit upon its producers and upon the screen as a whole. It is a dignified, sensitive and entirely admirable Shakespearean—not Hollywoodean—production.

But there is more to "Romeo" than mechanical perfection, and if we seem to have delayed unduly in reporting upon Leslie Howard's Romeo, Norma Shearer's Juliet and the others it is because the best news should be kept to the last. Considering the performances en masse, they are splendid. Here and there we can expect imperfections: Miss Shearer was not at her best in the balcony scene. Mr. Howard came a cropper in a few of his soliloquies—there must be some inherent antagonism between the screen and soliloquy—Conway Tearle was a bit on the declamatory side as the Prince of Verona.

Fortunately we need not value a performance as the proverb instructs us to judge a chain. With more pleasure, and with a sense that this memory will endure the longer, do we recall Miss Shearer's tender and womanly perverse Juliet during her farewell scene with Romeo before his flight to Mantua. Bright, too, is the recollection of her surrender to uncertainty, fear and suspicion before swallowing the potion, and of that scene in which she finds her lover dead beside her in the tomb. Miss Shearer has played these, whatever her earlier mistakes, with sincerity and effect.

Mr. Howard is a pliant and graceful Romeo, overly weak perhaps in those moments when his hot blood should have boiled and he shared some of Mercutio's fiery spirit. But as a wooer and whisperer of Shakespeare's silver-sweet lines, he is as romantic as any lady on a balcony might desire.

Metro's film of "Romeo and Juliet" is a a lovely thing; if it should not be well received the fault will not be Hollywood's. It will mean only that Shakespeare has become a literary exercise or a matter for a drama cult's admiration. Somehow we cannot believe that.

Lauds Romeo and Juliet

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, president of the Shakespeare Ass'n. of America, has addressed a letter to Irving Thalberg on the coast, lauding M-G-M's production of "Romeo and Juliet."

"Ziegfeld" Weekly Average Is $16,480

The average weekly gross for "The Great Ziegfeld" during its 19-week tenancy at the Astor on a two-a-day policy was $16,480, according to figures compiled by MOTION PICTURE DAILY. The total intake for the run was $313,331.

According to Loew's bookkeeping records, the first week, ending April 11, closed with a tally of $12,427. The last week, ending Aug. 19, was listed at $7,000, of which $2,600 was chalked off as the final day's receipts. As figured by the circuit, the first week amounted to four days and the last, three days. This is due to the fact the musical film opened on a Wednesday night and the week ended on Sunday.

Unlike previous two-a-day films, no passes were issued the last three days of the run. There was standing room at the final three performances.

The grosses from week to week are as follows:

Week Ending	Gross
April 11 (four days)	$12,427
April 18	$18,954
April 25	$18,000
May 2	$17,950
May 9	$17,775
May 16	$17,400
May 23	$17,125
May 30	$17,200
June 6	$16,100
June 13	$16,900
June 20	$17,400
June 27	$17,300
July 4	$16,500
July 11	$13,100
July 18	$13,600
July 25	$14,700
Aug. 1	$13,900
Aug. 8	$14,400
Aug. 15	$15,600
Aug. 19	$ 7,000

Considering that the Astor has a seating capacity of about 1,600 and the lowest figure during the whole run was $13,100, the final take is unusual for a two-a-day extended engagement.

"Mary of Scotland," which ran three weeks at the Music Hall, came pretty close to aggregating in that time as much as the 19-week booking of "The Great Ziegfeld." With $75,100 garnered in the last week, the 21-day booking of the film wound up with a total take of $263,300. The first week's business was $100,200, the second, $88,000.

THE new UNIVERSAL!

increases for the products of other industries.

"We charge less for our output and give more value than does any other commodity," he declared.

With more than 400 theatres under his supervision, the National Theatres operating head asserted that in northern California Fox West Coast has an average admission of 32½ cents, while in southern California the average charge is 32 cents. These figures include matinees and children's admissions, according to Skouras.

Considering this average, "we charge the highest admission in the country," he said.

Tells Purpose of Meetings

Indefinite runs are in line for all big pictures next season for all theatres over the circuit. Skouras pointed out that this policy has been in effect on the coast and now will be extended to other theatres throughout the country.

According to Skouras, the midwest and coast meetings are being held primarily to give the men in the field a first-hand opportunity to hear from top line distributing officials full details on the big pictures promised, the various clauses in the contracts and preferred playing time.

Al Lichtman, M-G-M; Neil F. Agnew, Paramount; John D. Clark and Herman Wobber, Twentieth Century-Fox; Gradwell L. Sears, Warner-First National; Ned E. Depinet, RKO; Abe Montague, Columbia; and George W. Weeks, G. B., all will be on hand for the four-day Kansas City session which will get under way Tuesday at Elmer C. Rhoden's office. The same distributing heads will gather on the coast for a similar conclave scheduled for Sept. 1-4.

Each company official will be allotted three hours in which to give a resume of his company's plans at each meeting.

Calls Plan Unusual

Skouras declared yesterday it will be the first time anything of its kind has taken place and looks forward to beneficial results. From his own staff and attending both meetings will be William T. Powers, J. J. Sullivan, Edward Zabel and George Balsdon. Skouras will act as chairman of both meetings. The Kansas City gathering will be represented by Rhoden's group, Harold J. Fitzgerald's Fox Wisconsin clan and Rick Ricketson's Intermountain men. Arch Bowles, Charles P. Skouras, John Hamrick, Frank Newman, Sr., and Will Steege and their aides will convene for the Los Angeles sessions.

No plans are afoot to expand, Skouras stated yesterday. National first wants to develop its manpower in the field under the local autonomy system, he said. "We've got a number of good men in the field and we are going to cultivate them for bigger jobs," Skouras concluded.

Most of the eastern party leaving for Kansas City will depart Monday night by plane.

B'way Houses Set Meet on Price Change

starting Sept. 4 and 5. The executives held that they would join any move that was constructive and that the present program was of that nature.

Howard S. Cullman stated the other day that beginning Aug. 28 the 1 P. M. to 6 P. M. price on weekdays would be raised five cents, and that the opening to 1 P. M. admission of 25 cents would continue. However, since the announcement, it is learned that Harry C. Arthur has promised to adopt the new plan, provided all the other theatres on the street go along.

With the opening of "Anthony Adverse" on Aug. 26, the Strand will advance the price from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M. to 40 cents, an increase of 15 cents over the old admission. From 2 P. M. to 6 P. M., the new admission will be 65 cents and from 6 P. M. to 10 P. M. the price will be 85 cents instead of 75 cents.

In-Between Charge Retained

The new scale disregards the Broadway plan of doing away with the matinee price changeover, but assurances have been made by an important executive of the circuit that the in-between charge will be dropped. Whether this will be done during, or after, the run of "Anthony Adverse" could not be learned yesterday. It is known, however, that after the picture completes a four or five-week engagement, the scale now in effect will be restored with modifications.

Brooklyn first runs are expected to follow suit. Si Fabian, who operates the Strand and Paramount on a pooling arrangement in addition to the Fox, on his own, agreed to the move when he attended the conclave in Moskowitz's office. Nate J. Blumberg of RKO acted for the Albee, which makes 100 per cent for the downtown sector.

Representatives of the Loew and RKO circuit, as well as Harry Brandt as spokesman for the I.T.O.A., have stated that regardless of what the Broadway theatres do about the early bird and new evening admission scale, their neighborhood houses definitely would adopt the scheme. The thought generally is that now is the right time to make such a move and to pass it up now would be a serious mistake.

"A" Product for the Strand

With the first showing of "Anthony Adverse," the Strand will inaugurate the policy of playing the "A" Warner product only, the sluffs to be sold away to other houses. This will give the theatre about 25 features a year instead of the full program. Pictures like "The Green Pastures" and "The Petrified Forest" instead of being dated into the Music Hall will find a home at the Strand. "Charge of the Light Brigade" will not be sold away under the new plan.

"My American Wife," a Paramount picture, opened at the Music Hall yesterday to standing room business. This is the first film bought on a spot booking. Another deal was on with Paramount for "Son Comes Home," in the event "Swing Time" was not ready to open at the Music Hall next Thursday. RKO has definitely promised the print of the next Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers combination. It is penciled for three weeks. There is a possibility that a U. A. film may be booked as well as "Follow Your Heart," a Republic picture for which a deal is now in work.

A Record Low

Hamilton, O., Aug. 20. — A record low in admissions was established by the Lyric, independent playing subsequent runs. Two features, a comedy and sport reel were shown for two days at five cents, when accompanied by a coupon clipped from a local daily. The regular admission is 10 cents at all times.

Globe May Be Two-A-Day

"To Mary—With Love," a Twentieth Century-Fox film, has been set for the Paramount starting next Friday. The Palace has booked first run another Twentieth Century-Fox, "A Star for a Night," thus giving the distributor outlets at these two houses and the Roxy and Rivoli since the tieup with the Music Hall came to an end recently.

The new Criterion has not yet set an opening attraction for next month. Plenty of product will be available, it is understood. Harry Brandt is negotiating with several interests to convert the Globe into a two-a-day house. Such a policy may be adopted after Labor Day.

Harry Kosiner, former assistant to Hal Horne as head of the Blackstone Agency, will join Horne on the coast, where the latter is a producer for RKO.

Italy's Envoy Here to Talk U. S. Film Aid

tion of American pictures in Italy which is reported to be under consideration by the government at Rome now. Whether the participation of Wanger and possibly other American producers in the new Italian production venture is associated in any way with the contemplated regulatory legislation in that country could not be learned. It is believed unlikely, however, that Rome would enact legislation seriously curtailing American film distribution and earnings in Italy while receiving, perhaps, actual and advisory aid from American producers, technicians and players for the production venture which it is endeavoring to establish.

The type of legislation reported to be under consideration in Rome is said to involve new restrictions on the withdrawal of money from the country by foreign interests, together with a designation of what purposes the credit left on deposit in the country may be used for. Film officials here are of the opinion that it is not impossible that the credits of film companies could be designated for use only in the production of pictures in Italy.

Restrictions Possible

Reports also indicate that the Italian Government may have under consideration new regulations drastically decreasing the number of pictures of foreign make which may be distributed or exhibited within the country. The American industry and the State Dep't have been unable to take definite action in the way of protest because of the present uncertain status of the legislative proposals which are reported to be under consideration.

Alperson will sail on the Ile de France for New York tomorrow, taking with him two Associated British films for distribution, one of them being "The Lonely Road," with Clive Brook. It was indicated that Grand National plans to lend its producers to the British company for the production of films designed for distribution in the United States, but no contracts were signed relative to the distribution in the U. S. of the British firm's product.

Golden on Sales Tour

Eddie Golden, sales manager of Chesterfield and Invincible, left for the middle west and south yesterday to close franchises on the few remaining territories open on the 1936-37 lineup.

The product has been sold first run in Brooklyn to Si Fabian and will play either at the Fox, Strand or Paramount.

"Mary" Smash With $47,200 Tops Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The Loop here enjoyed unusually fine business, with "To Mary—With Love" at the Chicago a real smash with a gross of $47,200, against an average of $32,000, a gain over par of $15,200. The draw was made without an outstanding name on the stage bill. The show is holding over.

The Palace, with "Mary of Scotland" did a fine $26,500 to top average by $7,500. That, too, is holding a second week. "Devil's Squadron" at the Oriental topped par by $1,500, doing $16,500. The other first runs likewise did well.

The weather was generally fair, with the ball games and the races bringing business to the city. Conventions helped the Loop night trade.

Total first run business was $141,200. Average is $115,000.

Cantor Hits Los Angeles For a Record

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—Eddie Cantor, giving his personal attention to the stage of the Paramount, with the assistance of Bobby Breen, Parkyakarkus, and Rube Wolf and his orchestra, gave that house a new record of $33,000, which is $15,000 better than the average. "Yours for the Asking" was the picture.

"Mary of Scotland" was the straight film standout of the week, grossing $10,500, or $7,300 over average at the Pantages, and $9,200, or $1,200 over par at the Hillstreet.

"His Brother's Wife," dualled with "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack," was strong at Loew's State and the Chinese, going $5,000 over to tally $19,000 at the first house, and bringing in $13,500, topping par by $1,000, at the Chinese.

The weather was favorable.

Total first run business was $125,800. Average is $105,150.

See Big Week in Cincy

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20.—Theatre men are anticipating a sharp increase in attendance during Fall Festival Week, starting Monday, when the city will entertain 20,000 retail merchants and their families, invited here to inspect stocks of merchandise. The affair is sponsored by the Manufacturers and Wholesalers division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Dismiss Sunday Charge

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 20.—City Solicitor Brock Barkley will dismiss the case against B. S. Lewis, manager of the State, who ran a film six minutes beyond midnight on a recent Saturday. Lewis was brought to court in a city blue law drive, his arrest causing a storm of protest.

VITAPHONE

A True Reproduction of the Original

Now – Sound Has a New Box-Office Value!

For the first time, a sound system is offered that can reproduce the complete range of balanced, dramatic sound – from stark silence to soul-stirring crescendo – sound that pulsates with real life – sound that brings hitherto unheard beauty to every seat – Every Sound Effect That Can Be Put On The Sound Track, as true as a mirrored reflection in a true mirror – MIRROPHONIC.

Big grosses belong to the new, dramatic sound effects. Box-office receipts of test theatres on a few pictures during the past year have proven it – future pictures will have many more dramatic sound effects, now that Western Electric's new, epoch-making MIRROPHONIC sound system has contributed such money-making possibilities to picture production. It is even possible that the increased receipts from a few such pictures will pay for the cost of the change to MIRROPHONIC.

Climaxing fifty years of Bell Telephone Laboratory research and ten years of Electrical Research Products' experience, embodying in commercial form the revolutionary principles of the historic Stereophonic☆ reproduction demonstrated to science in 1933, MIRROPHONIC is a perfected new sound system retaining every basic Western Electric superiority of the past and setting a new standard of leadership for years to come.

E.R.P.I.'s world-wide service facilities assure the proper installation of MIRROPHONIC, and the ever-watchful inspections assure the maximum in performance of this new sound system that will give true reproduction of the original.

MIRROPHONIC brings with it to exhibitors a powerful exploitation campaign which will make every listener conscious of the superiority of the sound in your theatre. Our representative will assist in your campaign.

MIRROPHONIC may be installed in theatres already having Western Electric Sound Systems on a step-by-step modification plan adapted to your individual needs. An illustrated descriptive book is ready for you.

☆Stereophonic Sound, or Auditory Perspective, was first successfully demonstrated by Bell Telephone Laboratories before the National Academy of Sciences on April 27, 1933, seven years after Western Electric first brought the miracle of sound to motion pictures.

THE STANDARD SOUND SYSTEM OF THE WORLD

"Rhythm" Hits K.C. Heat to Score $15,400

Kansas City, Aug. 20.—"Rhythm On the Range" played a sweet tune at the Mainstreet box-office, bringing in $15,400 for the high comparative gross in an extremely hot week during which there was some stout night baseball competition. This figure was profitable by $7,400, and the picture was moved to the Newman for a second week.

"His Brother's Wife" opened strong and continued packing them in at the matinees to cross the $11,500 line by $6,900. "We Went to College" was over average by $700, with $7,200 at the Tower.

The other first run box-offices were quiet. The Newman's double bill, "Secret Agent" and "Girl of the Ozarks" did a poor $5,500 in eight days, well below the $8,000 average, and the reissue of "State Fair" proved so disappointing it was pulled after taking $2,600 in five days, $600 shy of an average showing.

Total first run business was $49,100. Average is $37,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 12:
"STATE FAIR" (20th-Fox)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 5 days. Gross: $2,600. (Average, $3,200)

"Rhythm" Doubles Average in Omaha

Omaha, Aug. 20.—"Rhythm on the Range," on a dual bill with "Educating Father," at the Omaha, was sensational, drawing $10,000 to exactly double the house average. The result was an indefinite holdover.

"Blackmailer" and "Two Against the World" at the Brandeis, dropped $800 under the $3,500 par, and was pulled after six days to make way for "Mary of Scotland."

The weather held excessively warm, the thermometer just glancing at the 100 mark in passing.

Total first run business was $19,900. Average is $16,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 11:
"TWO AGAINST THE WORLD" (F. N.)
"BLACKMAILER" (Col.)
BRANDEIS—(1,200), 25c-35c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $2,700. (Average, $3,500)

"Rhythm" Buffalo Best at $13,200

Buffalo, Aug. 20.—"Rhythm on Range" took top money here as grosses held up well in the face of blistering heat and a winning baseball team at home. It drew $13,200 to the Buffalo, breaking par by $1,700.

"The Green Pastures" failed to weather a second week at the Great Lakes. It was replaced on Wednesday by "Sing, Baby Sing." "Suzy" was steady in its second week at the Hippodrome, drawing $7,500, over average by $500.

Total first run business was $39,700. Average is $36,900.

Lincoln Swelters, First Runs Mourn

Lincoln, Aug. 20.—Sweltering heat did a comeback this week and humidity was terrific, although no rain fell. Temperatures ranged between 104 and 111 all through the week, which was a crippler at the box-office. Houses gave impression of being pretty well filled, but it was mostly stayovers to take shelter from the heat. "Green Pastures" at the Stuart started very well, but took it on the downbeat after the opening. Final cash count revealed $3,400, about $300 above normal.

"Earthworm Tractors" was better at the Lincoln with a $2,700 take, representing a $500 profit. All the other houses were beating the back trail.

Total first run business for this week, $9,150. Average is $8,650.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 12:
"HEART OF THE WEST" (Para.)
"JAILBREAK" (F. N.)

Form Carolina Firm

Ayden, N. C., Aug. 20.—Carolina Playhouses, Inc., capitalized at $25,000, has been chartered. The principals include Wilbur C. Ormond of Ayden, H. C. Ormond and Mrs. Ada Hardee Ormond of Hookerton.

"Wife" Providence Smash at $15,500

Providence, Aug. 20.—Ideal weather helped grosses here for the week although exhibitors fear the opening of Narragansett racetrack will cut into matinee business for the remainder of August. "His Brother's Wife" at Loew's State was sensational, picking up $15,500. The usual house take is $12,000.

Both the Majestic and Fays had par weeks, each with $7,000. The former had "Public Enemy's Wife" and "Velvet Claws" while Fays ran a dual bill of vaudeville and "36 Hours to Kill." The Strand, with "Hearts in Bondage" and "Ticket to Paradise" was $500 down at $6,000. The Albee stage offered competition, grossing about $7,000.

Total first run business was $35,500. Average is $32,500.

"Wife" at $10,000 Indianapolis High

Indianapolis, Aug. 20. — "His Brother's Wife" was a smash hit at Loew's, pulling $10,000 into the box office, $4,000 over normal. Matinee business was particularly heavy.

"To Mary—With Love" was $1,500 over the line at the Apollo, excellent summer business, and it was held over for a second week. "Girls' Dormitory" at the Lyric was $1,200 over, to $8,200, plus a vaudeville bill. "Rhythm on the Range" and "Bunker Bean" in their second week at the Circle took $3,500, $500 below normal.

Moderate weather is believed to have aided takes.

Total first run business was $27,200. Average is $21,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 14:

Jobs, Savings Show Gains in New Haven

New Haven, Aug. 20.—Employment figures issued by the local Chamber of Commerce reveal that employment for June, 1936, was the highest since Jan., 1931. These do not include WPA and other Government projects. Bank deposits also reached the highest point since 1929 in June of this year.

Interpreting these figures, the Chamber contrasts them with the usual seasonal slump in June, and expresses great optimism for New Haven's future.

"Wife" Leads Detroit Race With $26,200

Detroit, Aug. 20.—"His Brother's Wife" was the big grosser of the week here, clearing a splendid $26,200, against the house average at the Michigan of $20,000. An NBC radio revue on the stage helped the gross.

The Fox, with "It's Love Again," went over par by $2,300 to gross $22,300. "The Green Pastures" bettered the average at the United Artists with a gross of $12,200 against a par of $10,000.

The weather was fair and cool.

Total first run business was $69,100. Average is $60,000.

Building Continues Active in Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Almost every week is marked by announcements regarding new theatres in Toronto, two more projects having been revealed during the past few days. B. and F. Theatres, Ltd., Toronto, a subsidiary of Famous Players Canadian Corp., has started construction of a $60,000 suburban house, to seat 750. The house will be air-conditioned.

Village Theatres, Ltd., Toronto, is erecting a theatre in the Forest Hill Village section, also to cost $60,000. The comparatively new Circle in North Toronto is to be enlarged before the fall season opens. The new house nearing completion at Bathurst St. and St. Clair Ave. here, is to be named Radio City.

Goring in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 20.—John Goring, who leased and operated the old Criterion in New York for 17 years and later operated a string of his own houses, has just been named manager of the Fulton here by the Shea-Hyde circuit. He succeeds Dan Fenton, who has returned to New York to await a new assignment.

The Fulton, which has been closed since the flood last March, has just reopened.

M-G-M Shifts Brauman

Pittsburgh, Aug. 20.—For the last two years chief booker for M-G-M here, Milton Brauman has been transferred to St. Louis where he will become office manager of the company's branch there. John J. Maloney, exchange manager, has promoted Eddie Moriarity, assistant to Brauman, to the latter's post while John Zominir moves up to Moriarity's vacated spot.

F. & M. Revamping 3 St. Louis Houses

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—The St. Louis is scheduled to reopen next month with stage shows built around traveling band acts and second run pictures. It probably will also have a dancing chorus and a 20-piece pit orchestra. The house has been dark for two years and recently was taken over by Fanchon & Marco.

The Missouri will be advanced to first run classification when it reopens the first week in September. It is now undergoing extensive repairs and improvements. Architects for Fanchon & Marco have also worked out plans for the complete redesigning of the New Grand Central, which is to be known as the Guild Cinema. The entire facade and interior of the house are to be done over. The seating capacity will be reduced.

Elect James to Head Vaudeville Managers

Springfield, O., Aug. 20.—William M. James, of Columbus, was elected president of the National Vaudeville Managers Ass'n at the meeting of the organization here, the first it has held in four years.

The meeting was marked by a rallying of theatre operators' support for vaudeville, with all members of the Ohio delegation agreeing to add vaudeville to their programs whenever possible.

Other officers elected are Caldwell Brown, Zanesville, vice-president; Ray Andrews, Muncie, Ind., secretary, and Gus Sun, Springfield, treasurer. Directors are John A. Schwalm, Hamilton; Robert Shaw, Springfield; Earl Myers, Chillicothe, and E. R. Custer, Athens.

Chicago Officials Firm on Reel Size

Chicago, Aug. 20. — Officials here are firm in their stand for a 14-inch reel, which is causing exhibitors considerable anxiety, since it may necessitate the buying of 18-inch magazines, which are expensive. Operators will have to rewind all film on smaller spools if the present ruling is enforced.

It is seen as possible that the ruling may prevent the acceptance by exhibitors of the 2,000-foot reel, which to date has not been approved here. City officials declare the larger reel is hazardous, which view is opposed by many exhibitors and distributors. They express wonder that conditions here should be any different than in other cities.

Price Raise on "Adverse"

Cleveland, Aug. 20.—Warner's plan to raise admission prices here and in Akron, Canton, Youngstown, Lima and Mansfield on certain big pictures refers to "Anthony Adverse," as the first film. "Mary of Scotland" was incorrectly noted as the first in a recent issue.

Petitions to Reorganize

Chicago, Aug. 20.—A petition for reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy act has been filed in Federal court by the Garrick Building Corp., which operates the Garrick Theatre and office building here. The house is operated by Balaban & Katz.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Don't Turn 'Em Loose"

(Radio)

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—The most sordid aspect of graft and corruption in its relation to parole boards is heavily emphasized in this unrelenting melodrama which is an impassioned preachment against easy parole.

Bruce Cabot, a congenital criminal, gets his freedom through the tears and pleadings of a fake wife using a hired baby for added atmosphere. With renewed confidence he then continues to dominate his gang and causes the death of a number of people. He has a softer side, however. While in jail, he was careful to have post cards sent to his family from foreign countries in order to give the impression that he was working hard as an engineer. But his carelessness in pursuing his criminal activities in his own state brings his crime record to the attention of his school teacher father, Lewis Stone, who, when appointed to a parole board, discovers all. To save the family honor the father consents to the parole of Cabot, but finally shoots him down to save the life of detective James Gleason.

The supporting cast includes Louise Latimer, Betty Grable, Grace Bradley, Nella Walker, Frank M. Thomas, Harry Jans, John Arledge, Frank Jenks, Maxine Jennings, Gordon Jones and Addison Randall under the direction of Ben Stoloff.

The screen play, which is the work of Harry Segall and Ferdinand Reyher, is based on the Thomas Walsh story, "Homecoming." Robert Sisk produced. Cabot's work makes the central character stand out as the arch villain of the month. Emphasize the problem of easy parole for criminals in selling this one.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,417. Running time, 66 minutes. "A."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Dark Hour"

(Chesterfield)

Ponderous and talkative, this mystery drama is quite average. The featured players handle their roles well, but they work with a mediocre story.

Beginning with a series of disconnected sequences the plot begins to make itself apparent when Irene Ware's uncle is found murdered one morning. Ray Walker, a detective, who is in love with Miss Ware, comes in on the case. He gets Berton Churchill, an ex-sleuth who lives nearby, to assist him and together they go about having theories, finding clues and questioning the servants. In spite of this, the butler in the bereaved household is killed. Through picking up a prowler, light is shed on the case and Churchill lays a trap which ensnares the real culprit. The action in the last scenes is long in coming. There is some grim humor, also near the end, which livens things up a little.

The direction is the work of Charles Lamont. The picture is based on the book, "The Last Trap," by Sinclair Gluck. Ewart Adamson did the screenplay. In the supporting cast are Hedda Hopper, Hobart Bosworth, E. E. Clive, William T. Mong and Fred Kelsey.

Production Code Seal, No. 1,899. Running time, 71 minutes. "G."

Sidney Biddell on Coast

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—Sidney M. Biddell, New York story editor for Grand National, arrived here today for conferences with Douglas MacLean and Bill Cagney on the first James Cagney picture for the company.

Edward Finney and Carl M. Leserman are scheduled to arrive here Sunday.

Schlesinger Quits London

London, Aug. 20.—I. W. Schlesinger, who has been here for six weeks in the interests of the various companies he represents, sailed today for South Africa, his headquarters.

In Talks on the Screen

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Edwin Carewe, director, addressed the local center of the California League of Women Voters on "The Educational Motion Picture," and Dean David Schull, Golden Gate College professor, spoke before the Peninsula Atheneum on "Society's Stake in the Motion Picture Industry."

Mankiewicz Does Script

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—Herman Mankiewicz has been signed by B. P. Schulberg to adapt the original by John Bright and Robert Tasker tentatively titled "A Man and a Woman."

Stars On Radio Hit By MPTO in St. Louis

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—The M. P. T. O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois has passed a resolution urging that screen players be kept off radio programs during the hours when the broadcasts directly compete with the theatre's best hours. Fred Wehrenberg presided at the meeting.

The resolution, which was adopted unanimously, was forwarded to Will Hays, president of the M.P.P.D.A. The matter of overbuilding also was discussed, Wehrenberg making the point that the present rapid building may some day prove a boomerang.

Blank's Son Recovering

Montreal, Aug. 20.—Ray Blank, son of A. H., is recovering at the Neurological Institute of McGill University here after a serious operation. When Blank's son was 11 years old he suffered a head injury in an accident. The Paramount partner has been here for more than a week visiting his son. Other friends, including Harry Brandt, have come on from New York to wish Ray a speedy recovery. Brandt is due again next week. He is a friend of the family.

Korda Has Three Ready

London, Aug. 20. — Three of the nine productions on Alexander Korda's list for London Films are slated for early release. They are: "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," with Roland Young; "Rembrandt," starring Charles Laughton and "Elephant Boy," the Korda version of Kipling's "Toomai of the Elephants."

Retitle Mae West Film

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—Mae West's first film for Major Pictures will go out under the title, "Go West, Young Man," instead of "Personal Appearance." Samuel Cohen feared that audiences would be confused by the title of the play on which the film is based.

phia, and Stanley, Pittsburgh. Installations are under way now in the Columbia and Warner, Erie; Germantown, Philadelphia; Yorktown, Elkins Park, Pa.; Washington, Washington, Pa.; Oritani, Hackensack, N. J.; Smoot, Parkersburg, W. Va., and the Boyd and Aldine, Philadelphia. The equipment consists of the standard RCA High Fidelity system with rotary stabilizer sound head and a new two-way, cellular type loud speaker.

Additional installations in the Warner circuit nationally are in prospect as a result of the deal recently closed, together with the possibility of large-scale servicing of the Warner circuit's sound equipment by RCA. Photophone recently closed with Twentieth Century-Fox's National Theatres for the equipment company's first contract involving the large scale servicing of equipment other than that of its own manufacture. Negotiations for the servicing of the Warner circuit are in progress now.

Erpi Pushing New System

The Twentieth Century-Fox, Warner and Columbia studios recently closed with RCA Photophone for use of the latter's sound recording equipment, representing the manufacturer's first advances into major studio ranks, except for RKO.

Erpi yesterday divulged the first information on its new Western Electric Mirrophonic sound system for theatres, which it will exploit on a large scale from now until the first of the year by way of answering RCA's recent merchandising advances.

20th-Fox Sets Pact With Seider Houses

Twentieth Century-Fox has closed with Joseph Seider for the full lineup of features and shorts next season in the entire Prudential circuit. William Sussman, Harry Buxbaum and Joe Lee represented the distributor in the deal.

Terms of next year's product on the RKO franchise have been ironed out. There was some talk of the matter being arbitrated, as provided in the franchise if the parties could not agree on terms. This procedure has been obviated.

According to the distributor's representatives, the New York exchange has more independent accounts on its books now than it had last October.

"Asking" Opens Well

Heat failed to affect the opening of "Yours for the Asking," at the Paramount. They claim the first day's business exceeded that of "Rhythm on the Range" which held the previous summer record for the house, by 2,000 admissions.

Preferred Takes Two

Guaranteed Pictures has sold "Just My Luck" and "Women in White" to Preferred Pictures, for eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia.

Bickerton, Attorney, Producer, Dies at 58

Joseph P. Bickerton, Jr., well known theatrical attorney and producer, died yesterday in Mount Kisco Hospital, where he had gone for observation on Monday. He was 58 years old.

Bickerton was responsible for first bringing Noel Coward, English playwright and actor, to the American stage. He purchased the American rights to "The Vortex" and produced the play here in 1924. He was associated in a number of other production ventures with A. L. Erlanger, William Harris, Jr., John Golden, Elmer Rice, Charles Frohman, William Ziegler, Jr., and George Abbott, among others. For many years he served as arbiter of the Dramatists' Guild and in that capacity was well known to film men here for his work in connection with the sales of film rights to stage plays. He was renamed arbiter by the Guild last spring with the adoption by the organization of a new five-year contract between playwrights and producers. Only yesterday he figured in news stories as counsel for Sidney Kingsley, playwright, whose play, "Dead End," was alleged by a Flushing woman to plagiarize a play she had written.

Bickerton is survived by his wife, Lois T. Bickerton; his father, Joseph P., Sr., and by two sisters. Funeral services will be held at 1 P. M., Saturday, at the Church of the Transfiguration. Interment will be private.

Claude E. Penrod Dead

Indianapolis, Aug. 20.—Claude E. Penrod, 48, known among distributors here for many years, died at his home following a heart attack. He had been district manager for RKO several years, sales manager here for Fox five years and earlier sales manager for Universal in Indianapolis and Cincinnati. Penrod was active in Variety Club affairs.

RKO to Reopen House

RKO will reopen the Albee, Providence, R. I., on Sept. 3. The theatre is being thoroughly remodeled. Clem Pope, who formerly managed the Downtown, Detroit, before RKO gave it up recently, will manage the New England house.

Within the next few days, RKO is expected to sign contracts for the acquisition of the Grand Opera House on West 23rd St. It is now being operated by an independent exhibitor.

Pursue Trail of Checks from Fox

Atlantic City, Aug. 20.—Creditors' lawyers in the William Fox bankruptcy here today tried unsuccessfully to trace some connection between several $200,000 checks, as the effort continued to unravel the Fox finances and possible assets.

One was made by Fox on April 1, 1930, on his own account, to cash. With more than $9,000,000 of claims listed and less than $2,000,000 of assets, most of which have been wiped out by foreclosures since the filing of the action, the creditors' counsel tried today to trace even this $200,000, but failed.

Another $200,000 check was drawn by Fox on Jan. 4, 1932, on his own account, but voided, it was shown today, on the same day the All-Continent Corp. drew a $200,000 check to cash. This was endorsed by one of the New York lawyers for Fox. On the All-Continent books it was found to be charged to Fox, and about that time Fox, it was testified today, gave his daughter, Belle, $200,000. Questioners tried in vain to learn through Herbert Leitsteen, Fox family bookkeeper, how these things were related.

The next session before Referee Robert E. Steedle will be held Tuesday. Tomorrow, however, Fox is to be examined before a notary here in the office of attorney Walter Hanstein, in an effort by a creditor to upset the transfer of Woodmere, L. I. Fox estate to Mrs. Fox.

two or three additional men, but plans of Assistant Attorney General John Dickinson call for much greater expansion of the service to carry out his ideas.

At the department today it was explained that no new anti-trust drive is contemplated, and that, with the present limited force, it is impossible to make complete investigation of all complaints. It is Dickinson's idea that every complaint received should be proved or disapproved.

Close scrutiny of all situations brought to the department's attention is now impossible because its investigators are pre-occupied with those inquiries which the department undertakes from time to time. Many of the complaints which are received deal with relatively unimportant matters and must be passed up in order that major violations of the anti-trust laws may be checked, it was said.

Weiss Finishes Serial

Hollywood, Aug. 20.—Louis Weiss has completed shooting on "The Black Coin," third Weiss-Mintz serial of the year. It will be released through state rights exchanges by Stage and Screen Prod.

Tax Revenues From B'way Jump in July

Washington, Aug. 20.—Admission tax collections in the Broadway district during July jumped $120,000 over the preceding month, it was reported today by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Booming Broadway business was indicated by figures compiled by the Bureau which disclosed that admission taxes in the third New York district last month accounted for almost exactly one-third of the admission tax receipts of the country as compared with slightly over 25 per cent in June.

Collections in the district for the month were $522,536 out of a national total of $1,568,487 compared with $403,501 out of a total of $1,532,189 in June.

Third district tax collections last month, it was said, included $471,748 on box-office and season ticket sales, against $351,457 in June; $6,275 from free ticket sales or reduced rate admissions, against $2,142; $7,153 from tickets sold by brokers, against $7,368; $2,232 on tickets sold at more than the box office price, against $1,178; nothing on permanent use or lease of boxes and seats, against $5.96 and $35,127 from admissions to roof gardens and cabarets, against $41,348 the previous month.

Paramount in Suit On Use of Its Name

A motion for an injunction will be heard this morning by Justice Lloyd Church in an action brought by Paramount Pictures, Inc., against Leonard W. Rutledge, doing business under the name of the Paramount Movie Photos. The petition asks that the defendant be restrained from using the name Paramount in connection with his business.

The affidavit signed by Neil F. Agnew, vice-president of Paramount, states that the defendant is making use of the popularity of the name, Paramount, and that in February, 1935, the defendant registered the name in the County Clerk's office in Manhattan. The employees of the defendant, Agnew states, take photos of pedestrians on the street without previous solicitation. Paramount pictures are asking for an accounting and damages as well.

NEW 20-PAGE BOOK HELPS THOUSANDS OF EXHIBITORS AT

BOX OFFICE!

THEATRES that sell THE MARCH OF TIME know its box-office value. And exhibitors who have put this new 20-page book to work know how it, too, can suggest practical ways of selling even more tickets. Writes Vincent R. McFaul of Buffalo Theatres, Inc., "Every theatre man should have this manual on one of the best short features being offered on theatre screens and one that actually attracts people to the box office." Comments Advertising Manager Sid Dannerberg of Warner Brothers Ohio Theatres, "Your manual is most comprehensive and an intelligent aid to a manager in selling this deserved subject to the public."

Selling THE MARCH OF TIME does not require a major campaign. Time and again, managers have shown how seemingly unimportant "trifles"—little things—can fan an uncommon amount of interest with patrons.

MARCH OF TIME'S new 20-page book is primed with dozens of these inexpensive selling tips, tagged by Variety as "scaled to meet all needs." Your copy is now available at your nearest RKO exchange. Get it today and put it to work!

Italy's Next Move Talent From Studios

Roncoroni Going West To Line It Up

Carlo Roncoroni, member of the Italian Chamber and president of Cines, the Italian studio project near Rome sponsored by the government, plans to leave for Hollywood today, where he will endeavor to line up producer, star and technician talent to aid in the development of the Italian production center.

In Hollywood, he will confer principally with Walter Wanger, who plans to make at least one picture in Italy during the new season, and Dr. A. H. Giannini, United Artists president, who is a member of the company which was formed for Wanger's Italian activity. Silvano Balboni, a member of the M-G-M studio technical staff for several years, will leave Hollywood for Rome immediately after conferring there next week with Roncoroni. Balboni is being named to a strategic executive post in the Italian industry. His position is described as "reorganizer and coordinator."

Roncoroni made no comment yester-

Smith Dickering on Plans for Theatres

A. W. Smith, Jr., who recently resigned as eastern and Canadian sales manager for Warners, is considering several theatre deals, he stated yesterday, one of which he expects to close within the next few weeks.

Smith's plan is to take over a small circuit and develop it. The deals under consideration are in various parts of the country, he said. A vacation in Europe is off for the present as the former sales executive wants to set his future plans before embarking on a rest trip.

4,836 Now Wired

London, Aug. 14.—Western Electric's latest semi-annual survey of the British Isles shows 4,836 theatres are now wired for sound. England has 3,712; Scotland, 528; Wales, 342 and Ireland, 254.

W. E. has a total of 1,930. Of this, 447 are replacements of competitive equipment.

Most N.Y. Critics Rave Over "Romeo"

The published reaction of New York critics to "Romeo and Juliet" is chiefly one of pronounced enthusiasm. Where certain aspects of the production were criticized by Eileen Creelman of the Sun and Douglas Gilbert, pinchhitting for William Boehnel on the World-Telegram, all, however, were unanimous in describing the picture as decidedly worth seeing. Excerpts from the reviews follow:

American—Many movies may be missed, but "Romeo and Juliet" is one which must be seen. . . .

The verbiage is Shakespeare's through and through. And lovelier lines were never born to bring delightful music to the soul. The romantic passages are those of which lovers dream. The jokes ring hearty and full-flavored. Fighting phrases sound like the clash of arms, the hiss of steel. . . .

If love is not enough, there is spectacle,

Wm. Fox Testifies Regarding Finances

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 21.—In all his life William Fox "never made a bond on a property" and only once did he sign as guarantor on a mortgage. This one exception was when he and the Capital Co. as partners leased the Fox Theatre property on Market St. in San Francisco. Furthermore, and in contrast with this cautious policy, he made outright gifts totaling more than $1,000,000 after the $18,000,000 sale in 1930 of his Fox Film and Fox Theatre holdings.

Both of these highlights were in the testimony of Fox given here today during three hours of questioning by Samuel B. Stewart, Jr., of New York, counsel for the Capital Co. Answers were for use in a suit in which Capital is trying to set aside the gift by

Minn. Amusement Building 4 Theatres

Four new theatres are being built by the Minnesota Amusement Co., according to J. J. Friedl. Each of the theatres will seat from 500 to 600, the first to be ready for opening by Oct. 1 and the last by Jan. 1.

The new structures are being erected at St. Cloud, Rochester and Austin, Minn., and Mitchell, S.D. The circuit recently purchased an interest in the Star, Jamestown, N.D., from the Red River Valley Amusement Co., thereby giving Minnesota Amusement Co. two theatres in the town.

Product deals are practically set with all the major companies, Friedl stated. He will leave today for Minneapolis after spending two and a half weeks here negotiating the pacts. L. J. Ludwig, who has been in town with Friedl, left for home yesterday.

Erpi will hold the first annual convention of its national sales force at the Hotel Pierre here all of next week, the company said yesterday. A feature of the meeting will be demonstrations of the new Western Electric Mirrophonic sound system, following which sales and exploitation plans for the new sound reproducing equipment will be detailed for the field men.

The meeting will be opened Monday with a review of exhibits in the main ballroom of the hotel for producer licensees and press representatives. The first trade demonstration of the new Mirrophonic sound system will be given at the Venice, Columbus Circle, thereafter. The first business session of the convention will be held on Tuesday with C. W. Bunn, Erpi

Europe's Theatres Favor Single Bills

By J. K. RUTENBERG

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—In a review just published by the International Film Chamber it is revealed that from 17 countries in Europe no less than 10 are showing single feature bills. The countries with single feature programs are Germany, Finland, Yugoslavia, Austria, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark, Czechoslovakia and Italy.

The few situations where double bills are used in the 10 countries are forced to it by lack of product. In other cases a few minor houses, or rural theatres use duals, but invariably without any shorts.

Dual feature bills are still played to a large extent in Belgium, Esthonia, France, Luxemburg, Poland, Spain

"Glory" at $23,000 Is Held at Rivoli

"The Road to Glory," in its second week at the Rivoli, tallied approximately $23,000. It is being held for a third week and will continue for a fourth.

"His Brother's Wife" at the Capitol in its first stanza garnered about $35,000. Loew's is holding it for another seven days, following which "Piccadilly Jim" is scheduled. After this picture, it is expected "The Gorgeous Hussy" will be dated with "The Great Ziegfeld" to follow. However, the order on the last two may be reversed.

The Roxy, with "Charlie Chan at the Rack Track," ended with a $27,000 gross. Howard S. Cullman has six Universal, six G.B. and two Twentieth Century-Fox pictures lined up, Major Chains Ponder Price Hike in N. Y.

5 to 10 Cent Increase Under Consideration

Increase from five to 10 cents in admissions in Loew's, RKO, Skouras and Fabian theatres in the metropolitan territory are being considered by heads of the circuits.

Loew's has several spots in mind where a boost in the evening scale is regarded as opportune. RKO upped the matinee and evening scales at the Hamilton by five cents and Lou Goldberg is planning to make a similar move at some of the east side theatres under his direction.

George Skouras has been thinking about hiking prices at some of the Long Island group in his circuit. Indications are that the move will be made after Labor Day.

Si Fabian has in mind a 10-cent boost for his Brooklyn houses. The increase would apply to both afternoon and night scales.

These plans, it is pointed out, are aside from the move to drop early-bird admissions and adopt a 5 P. M. evening scale, which, in itself, will mean substantial increases in daily grosses for every theatre in the local area.

Coast ITO Warns of Decree Invocation

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—Independent theatre owners will invoke a consent decree signed by exhibitors, exchanges and Fox West Coast in 1930 in connection with the practice of running pictures day and date in the outlying territory and then playing them in third houses for extended runs if Fox West Coast continues to violate the agreement. Guild Considering Rosenblatt, Golden

Sol A. Rosenblatt, attorney, and John Golden, theatrical producer, are being mentioned as likely candidates for the post of arbiter under the Dramatists' Guild contract with producing managers, succeeding the late Joseph P. Bickerton.

The post will be filled by the Guild, probably after consultation with producing managers. A two-thirds vote of the latter can nullify a Guild appointment. The post of arbiter pays a salary of $15,000 per year. Indications are that the Guild will take no formal action on the matter for another 10 days or two weeks.

Rodney Bush Takes Wanger N. Y. Post

Los Angeles, Aug. 21.—Rodney Bush was today made general representative for Walter Wanger in New York. Bush resigned from his trailer post in the RKO advertising department to take the position. He will leave in three weeks for New York following conferences with Wanger.

Carlo Roncoroni, who will head the Italian studio project in Italy, is due here from New York on Sunday.

Leserman in Chicago Talks Distribution

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Carl M. Leserman, at a sales conference with Grand National representatives at the Medinah Athletic Club today, told of a telephone call from Edward L. Alperson, president, in which was described the deal with Associated British Film Distributors for all Grand National product during the next two years, the cash guarantee being more than $1,000,000.

Leserman further described deals which are pending for distribution in Canada and which are expected to be consummated within 10 days. Edward Finney and James Winn also spoke.

It was stated at today's meeting that "Snow Covered Wagons," based on the famous Donner expedition into the far west, will be Grand National's top picture and will cost $1,000,000. It will be filmed in color against actual backgrounds.

Leserman conferred today with John Balaban but no comment concerning a possible deal was forthcoming.

SEC Reports Sales By Cohn and Zanuck

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Aug. 21.—Disposition of 700 Columbia Pictures common stock voting trust certificates by Harry Cohn, Los Angeles, in June was disclosed today by the Securities and Exchange Commission in its semi-monthly report on stock transactions of corporation officers and directors. At the close of that month, it was shown, Cohn held 70,268 voting trust certificates and 1,565 shares of Columbia common.

Reports on Twentieth Century-Fox showed the sale by Darryl F. Zanuck, Beverly Hills, of 400 shares of common, his holdings at the close of the month being 182,130 shares. A report from Zanuck for March showed the sale in that month of 1,300 shares of the stock.

Transfer of 10,000 shares of International Cinema common was reported by G. P. Regan, Los Angeles, through his company, Regan Day, Inc., which held 240,000 shares at the close of the month. Disposition of 965 shares was reported by Lawrence D. Higgins, San Francisco, through Chapman & Co. Amended reports of holdings Feb. 8, last, when the company's registration became effective, showed that Higgins held one share of common and his company, Chapman & Co., held 965 shares.

A report on the holdings of Warner stock by Harold S. Bareford, New York, on July 10, when he became an officer, showed that he had 1,100 shares of common and 2,000 six per cent optional convertible debentures.

New Haven Planning Admission Increase

New Haven, Aug. 21.—First run heads met here yesterday for a discussion of higher admission prices, to be effective with the opening of the new season. Whereas the three leading New Haven houses, Poli, Paramount and Roger Sherman, and corresponding "A" houses of the Poli, M. & P., and Warner circuits in the state, now charge a 50-cent top, it is thought possible that "The Great Ziegfeld" or "Gorgeous Hussy," which will open the Poli fall season, will raise the top to 60 cents.

"Anthony Adverse" is definitely scheduled to play at 60 cents in the Warner houses, beginning Aug. 29, at New London and South Norwalk, and at other key houses on Sept. 10. It is reported that consideration is now being given the possibility of maintaining the higher admission not only for outstanding pictures, but generally. It is also contemplated that "Anthony Adverse" will play independent theatres at a 10 to 15-cent increase in price.

Amends Empire Plan

An amended plan of reorganization for the Empire Theatre Supply Corp. was filed in Federal court yesterday by William L. Odum, president. The plan, which was submitted to special master Oscar Ehrhorn, proposes that all major creditors are to receive 45 percent in full settlement of their respective claims. These are payable over a period of 24 months in seven instalments. The salaries of the firm's offices are limited. Ehrhorn set Sept. 18 for the filing of all claims.

comedy and conflict in the film. . . .

There have been Juliets for centuries, but none lovelier, more beautiful, more gracious, more appealing, more talented than Norma Shearer. It is she who dominates the picture, shedding lustre over all. . . .

Leslie Howard's Romeo is full and satisfying. He is, to perfection, the moon-struck lover of whom Shakespeare wrote. . .

Daily News—The result is an achievement that the entire moving picture industry might take great pride in. . . .

It reflects enormous credit on all who had a hand in its making. It's an illustrious production that deserves all the kudos that have, and will be, showered upon it. . . .

Evening Journal—A masterful, exquisitely beautiful film, faithful to the Bard's play and a triumph for the movie industry. . . .

The picture is, indeed, a personal triumph for Irving Thalberg, the producer; George Cukor, the director, and for Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard, the stars, because they have produced and played Shakespeare religiously, yet treating it not as a cold classic but giving it all the life, the gripping emotion of a human drama.

Post—Exquisitely beautiful and impressively magnificent is the "Romeo and Juliet" of the screen. Shakespeare's enchanting romance of old Verona—the most touching tragedy of all romantic literature—reaches the Astor Theatre in faithful, stunning reproduction. . . .

For, in spite of the marvelous sets, the superb scope of the film . . . the glorious costumes, the heart-rending romance and the thrilling action—as in the fencing and fistic battles which never could have been conceived to such dramatic effect except by cameraship, and that expert!—it is the sheer beauty and delicacy of Shakespearean poetry superlatively delivered, which make this "Romeo and Juliet" a never to be forgotten screen masterpiece.

Sun—The studio very evidently looked upon the bard with respect and a touch of awe. This is a serious production, beautifully mounted, competently acted and directed solidly and with intelligence. . . .

"Romeo and Juliet" is still, as it must always be, great drama. The familiar lines, perfectly recorded, are startlingly fresh and vivid; nor does any member of the cast fail in his reading of the dialogue. This is, oddly enough, a picture to be relished more by ear than by eye. Shakespeare dominates even the shadow version of his most popular play. . . .

Great and still alive as is the material of which the film is made, "Romeo and Juliet" falls somewhere short of being a great picture. It is a good picture and a distinguished one, worthy, and one no intelligent moviegoer would care to miss. Something, however, has escaped from it in the transfer from printed page, from the stage to a motion picture screen. It does not wring the heart nor start tears of sweet sympathy or bitter resentment of the tragic, needless waste of youth and love and beauty. It remains simply interesting, solid and interesting, never a film to haunt quiet moments like Katharine Cornell's stage production of last year.

World-Telegram — A handsome, dignified and reverent production. . . .

In panoply of settings, costumes, processionals and pageantry Mr. Thalberg's "Juliet" unfolds its sorry feudist tale of love at first sight with devastating glamour. . .

It is stupendous, when it need only have been a little colossal. . . .

Indeed, she (Miss Shearer) is so adequate I have no doubt her performance will go down in cinema history as the Juliet of the screen. She is warm, humane, girlish without gushing, the very consummation of love, and the honeyed lines come trippingly from her tongue—not begging to be said but unsolicited. . . .

She is, I fear too much for Mr. Howard's Romeo.

But these are flaws, if flaws they are, of no consequence to the lay observer, and the production in its entirety overcomes in its very honesty a quibble here or there.

A boildown of comment from The Daily Mirror, Herald-Tribune and Times appeared yesterday.

Opens to Sell-Out

"Romeo and Juliet" opened to a sell out business yesterday afternoon at the Astor where the film supplanted "The Great Ziegfeld" which had a 19-week run at two-a-day. There were 15 standees for the first performance of "Romeo and Juliet."

West End Run Unsettled

London, Aug. 13.—Whether "Romeo and Juliet" follows "The Great Ziegfeld" at His Majesty's Theatre depends on the length of the latter's run which begins Sept. 1. A probability is that another West End theatre will be leased for the Shearer-Howard film.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"King of the Royal Mounted"

(Sol Lesser-Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Aug. 21.—Built around the usual melodramatic theme depicting the mountie who always gets his man, this has everything necessary to please those with enthusiasm for westerns and action pictures. The film's principal quality is the magnificent mountain scenery photographed with utmost effectiveness. The stills should make excellent lobby displays for a selling angle.

The story, while it will make good stuff for the small towns and neighborhood trade, is lacking in the sophistication necessary for the de luxe spots. Robert Kent is a mountie who senses trouble when he notes the arrival in the northwest of Rosalind Keith and Alan Dinehart, an attorney. Dinehart is endeavoring to affect a settlement of a mining claim in which Miss Keith's father held a half interest with Frank McGlynn, Sr. As the plot progresses it becomes apparent that Dinehart is planning to keep a large chunk for himself. His plan comes to nought when McGlynn offers Miss Keith her share without the necessity of court proceedings. Subsequent situations are climaxed by the murder of McGlynn by Dinehart and a mountain chase with Kent ultimately getting his man—and the woman also, for romantic diversion.

The cast performances are adequate. Kent seems to be a personable screen bet. Howard Bretherton's direction keeps the film moving nicely and Harry Newman's photography is exceptional. Earle Snell wrote the screen play from the Zane Grey story.

"Tundra"

(Burroughs-Tarzan)

Hollywood, Aug. 21.—Exploited as a fascinating record of a 400-mile trek through the Alaskan wilds by a lone man, this film should draw the attention it unquestionably deserves, but the less said about the human actors the better.

Fortunately there are few of them and the superb shots of the animal "performers" hold the attention throughout. This should be good for a dual program in any situation. Del Crambe, football star, plays the doctor whose plane crashes in the icy black waters of the Arctic Circle. With nothing but a knife, three wet cigarettes and a lighter, he faces 400 miles of uninhabited country.

His adventures are a boy scout's dream of heaven. He scrambles over glaciers, is pursued by bears, black and white, by wild dogs, musk oxen, and wolves. He catches rabbits, otter, mink, beavers, porcupines and salmon, and has perilous adventures with forest fires, crumbling floe ice and turbulent streams.

Two cub bears, which fall into a series of disasters throughout the film, walk away with top honors. The photography of Norman Dawn and Jacob and Edward Kull deserves high praise. The story by Dawn, who directed, would be improved if the solitary hero's comments on life in the wilds were cut. Abe Meyer contributed an effective score. George W. Stout produced.

Production Code Seal No. 2,313. Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

Deny Klamt Charges

A general denial was filed yesterday to the $300,000 copyright infringement suit brought in Federal court in which Emil Klamt charged theft of a photo coloring process. The defendants are Henry Zollinger, Carles Demby, Jr. and Hans Fraunhoffer. Counsel for the defendants also asked the court to dismiss the suit.

Flash Previews

"The Crouching Beast"—An offering of Stafford Prod., telling the story of espionage in Turkey during the world war.

"The Tenth Man" — Somerset Maugham's story of adventure, romance and comedy is produced with conviction and skill.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of Motion Picture Daily.

Set "Scotland" in London

"Mary of Scotland" will play the Empire in London, beginning Aug. 28, with general release set for Nov. 9, according to home office word from Ralph Hanbury, Radio managing director in London. A total of 230 weeks is assured through a deal with the ABC circuit on the film.

Wm. Fox Testifies Regarding Finances

Fox of his estate at Woodmere, L. I., to his wife Eva. Apart from the current Fox bankruptcy proceedings, today's taking of the Capital Co. deposition occupied three hours after which it adjourned until Sept. 14.

Stewart pointed out that April 7, 1930, Fox received the first $15,000,000 for his holdings. Fox swore that to his best recollection he paid off $1,925,000 bank loans and all other debts at once, becoming entirely solvent before April 14 of that year, the date when he gave his wife the estate.

Promising to supply a complete statement of all other gifts, he mentioned $100,000 to Benjamin Reaus, one of his New York lawyers; $100,000 to James Francis Burke, Pittsburgh lawyer; $200,000 to Jack G. Leo and $100,000 to Joseph Leo, relatives; $100,000 to Claudius Huston, "personally, and not in his capacity as Republican National Chairman" at about that time; $50,000 to Harry Sundheim—which Fox called a "piker sum."

The former magnate was at ease and frequently chuckling, anticipating the artful questions and calling the answering of them "child's play."

day on the reported connection between his solicitation of American aid for Rome's ambitious plans for its film industry and the current discussions there of the probability of drastic new legislation affecting American distributors. It is reported here from abroad that one of the proposals under consideration in Rome would limit the withdrawal from Italy of money by foreign concerns to 25 per cent of their earnings within the country. In addition, it is said, Rome would dictate the uses to which the remaining 75 per cent could be put.

It is assumed here that the seriousness of the new Italian legislation will probably be in proportion to the success of Roncoroni's Italian mission.

In a formal statement issued yesterday the Italian emissary said that he hoped to develop in Hollywood "connections of collaboration which, no doubt, will prove economically advantageous to both countries."

"I would feel gratified," Roncoroni said, "if my trip would result in the realization of a broader understanding in the cinema field between Italy and America."

starting Aug. 28, when "Girls' Dormitory" will begin a two-week run. "Sing, Baby, Sing" is the second Twentieth Century-Fox film bought. The Universal group includes "Two in a Crowd," "The Magnificent Brute," "Madame Curie," "Melody Lady," "Hippodrome," and "Time Out of Mind." The G.B. six include "Nine Days a Queen," "Head Over Heels," "Everything Is Thunder," "East Meets West," "The Hidden Power," and "King Solomon's Mines."

"Rhythm on the Range" at the Paramount grossed in the neighborhood of $20,000 in the third week. "To Mary—With Love," a Twentieth Century-Fox feature, will open there Friday. The initial week of "China Clipper" at the Strand drew about $9,000. "The Noose" at the Rialto took in the same amount as "Down to the Sea," which ended with $6,200. The nine-day run of "The Green Pastures" and "36 Hours to Kill" at the Palace ended with $11,000.

Republic Sets Deal

J. J. Milstein, vice-president in charge of sales for Republic, has closed with the Loew and RKO metropolitan circuits for the company's complete new season lineup. The deal calls for an even split of product between the two circuits.

Republic, National Sign Pact

J. J. Milstein, general sales manager for Republic, yesterday closed with Spyros Skouras for the distributor's lineup in all of National Theatre's outlets.

With numerous sales managers of the major companies scheduled to attend the four-day conventions of National Theatres' bookers and district men at Kansas City and Los Angeles, Milstein does not intend to make the trip.

Leventhal, Steinberg on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21.—Julius Leventhal and Nat Steinberg, St. Louis and Chicago operators and Republic franchise holders, arrived here today for a Republic studio survey.

Republic-W.B. Deal Set

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.— Republic today closed a first run deal with Warners on the coast for "Follow Your Heart" and "Down to the Sea." Floyd St. John, Republic west coast division manager, returned to San Francisco following the signing.

Attend Legion Meeting

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Local exchange employees who are members of the Lieut. A. Vernon MacCauley Post will leave Boston tonight by auto and train to attend the American Legion state convention at Springfield, Mass. It is expected that 20 members will represent the local theatrical post.

Goldberg to Marry

CHELSEA, Mass., Aug. 21.—Israel Goldberg, manager of the Chelsea here, will wed Bessie Koplovitz on Sunday. They will leave immediately for Montreal where they will spend their honeymoon, after which they will make their residence here.

Detroit U.A. Deal Near

A deal has been practically completed whereby U. A. product will play the United Theatres of Detroit. George J. Schaefer completed the arrangement with George W. Trendle in Detroit earlier in the week and contracts are expected to be signed shortly.

Conger Coming East

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21.— A. Conger, member of the Paramount board of directors, will return to New York tomorrow, having completed an unofficial survey of the Paramount studios.

Educational, Ace in Deal

Educational product will be released in the United Kingdom through Ace Films, Ltd., in London, according to an arrangement completed between E. W. Hammons, Educational president, and Frank Green, Ace head, in London. The five-year deal is effective at the expiration of the current contract with G.B., and will apply to the 1936-37 schedule.

Educational Does 12

Educational has completed 12 of its schedule of 88 short subjects for the 1936-37 season.

Fred Miller Promoted

OMAHA, Aug. 21. — Fred Miller, until recently ad-sales manager for Twentieth Century-Fox, has been advanced to road representative and will have northern Nebraska and southern South Dakota for his territory. He succeeds Carl Reese who recently was named branch manager for Grand National. Dick Buell moves up to ad-sales manager's post.

Slim Chance for Shows

CANTON, O., Aug. 21.—Demands of musicians, which are said by theatre men to be prohibitive, are likely to prevent a return of stage shows here this season, although it is understood that a satisfactory agreement has been reached with the stagehands. This town has been without stage shows in the major spots for the past two years.

Take Eighth in Denver

DENVER, Aug. 21.—A. P. Archer and Joe Dekker have added another house to their Civic Theatres group here, leasing the Amusu from C. U. Yaeger. With the addition of the Amusu, Civic has eight houses, the largest group in Denver under one management. The theatre will be renamed the Alameda.

Delay Wisconsin Meet

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 21.—Originally scheduled for Aug. 26 and 27, the annual convention of the Independent Theaters Protective Ass'n of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, will be held here Sept. 23 and 24. George Fischer, Milwaukee, is in charge of arrangements.

To Issue A. B. C. Reserve

LONDON, Aug. 13.—At the annual meeting of Associated British Pictures Corp. today, John Maxwell stated it had been decided to issue the 1,800,000 ordinary shares at present in reserve. Of five shillings value, these shares will first be offered to existing ordinary shareholders on bonus terms.

Ezra Dodge Retiring

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—Ezra Dodge, one of Michigan's veteran exhibitors, who built the Montauk Theatre at Hudson, Mich., and has operated it for years, is retiring from exhibition. He has leased the house to William Schulte, who operates 14 other theatres in Detroit and throughout the state of Michigan.

Duboff in Japan Post

Harold Duboff, formerly of the export department of Universal, left yesterday for the coast en route to Yokohama, where he has been assigned by N. L. Manheim, export manager.

Regal Will Release 16 English Pictures

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—Setting a policy of selecting features from various British companies which are considered particularly appropriate for Canada, Henry L. Nathanson, general manager of Regal Films, Ltd., here, has revealed a group of pictures which will be marketed in the Dominion during the new season under the releasing name of "The Coronation Sixteen." In declaring this policy, Mr. Nathanson asserted that the Canadian distributing firm no longer would take the whole output of one British producing company but would select what was considered the pick of all but one or two studios.

The list of 16 includes: Elisabeth Bergner in "Dreaming Lips"; Paul Robeson in "Song of Freedom"; Richard Barthelmess in "Fall of an Empire"; Boris Karloff in "The Juggernaut"; Jack Hylton in "She Shall Have Music"; Mary Brian and Ned Sparks in "Two's Company"; Richard Tauber in "Land Without Music"; Jack Buchanan in "When Knights Were Bold"; Edward Everett Horton in "Man in the Mirror"; Ann Neagle and Arthur Tracy in "Limelight"; Arthur Wontner in "The Poison Belt"; Percy Marmont in "Livingstone in Africa"; "Broken Blossoms"; "Music Hall"; "The Three Maxims" and Ann Harding in an untitled film.

Feld on New Job

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21.—Milton H. Feld, former operator of the de luxe Publix theatres and for some months in the writing department at Twentieth Century-Fox, has started his new duties as assistant to Sol M. Wurtzel.

Welcome New Trade Board In Australia

Seen As An Encouraging Development There

By CLIFF HOLT

MELBOURNE, July 28 (By Air Mail Via London)—The formation of the Film Board of Trade, a tribunal designed to settle trade disputes without recourse to political participation, is seen as an encouraging development here. The Board has been created as a result of the trade's unsuccessful overtures for arbitrary assistance from the N. S. W. Government.

The decisions of the new tribunal will be effective throughout the Commonwealth, and it is possible that New Zealand will later be included within its jurisdiction.

Distributors and exhibitors will have equal representation. Early forecasts suggest that the chairman will be Dan Carroll, prominent Australian theatreowner, and that Sir Victor Wilson, president of the M.P.D.A., Herb C. McIntyre, managing director of Universal, and N. B. Freeman, head of M-G-M here, will represent distributors; while Charles E. Munro, managing director of Hoyts and General Theatres, Ken W. Asprey, director of Greater Union Theatres, and William Harrop, for the independents will represent exhibitors.

British Television Show on This Week

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Britain's stride in television will be publicly demonstrated at Radio Olympia this week when radio manufacturers will produce what they have in eight booths, each large enough to accommodate an audience of 100. Each performance will run five minutes and, it is promised, the televised screen will exhibit pictures 15 inches in height. Each booth will be outfitted with equipment from a different manufacturer. Program items will be transmitted from Alexandria Palace, the official station.

U. K. Consolidation In Theatres Talked

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Union Cinemas, one of England's fastest growing circuits headed by Fred Bernhard, may consolidate with its subsidiaries, Oxford and Bershire Cinemas and National Provincial Cinemas on the basis of a share-for-share exchange.

Drift Toward Admission Hike by Circuits Gains

Decision, However, to Come Territorially, Not Nationally

With no definite agenda scheduled by major and independent circuits, increases in admissions next season will be spotty and the general tendency to increase them, a consensus of opinion gathered by MOTION PICTURE DAILY shows.

Loew's is considering an advance in at least three sections: New York, Baltimore and Louisville. However, in each instance nothing will be done unless the subsequent and first run houses cooperate with the circuit.

In New York, Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., originally suggested a plan. It is now being discussed with the possibility that RKO, Skouras and Fabian theatres will join the move. Fred Dolle, head of the Dolle circuit in Kentucky, has approached Joe Vogel of Loew's with the recommendation to tip prices. Vogel has agreed, provided the other theatre men promised to do likewise. This move is being furthered by Dolle and is expected to crystallize after Labor Day. Baltimore independents are in favor of a hike in admissions

Move Again to End Duals In St. Louis, Indianapolis

Plans for the elimination of duals in St. Louis and Indianapolis will be revived after Labor Day, it is learned by MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Fred Wehrenberg, head of the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, and Harry C. Arthur, Jr., head of the F. & M. circuit in St. Louis, have had several conferences for doing away with the second feature. Arthur has promised Wehrenberg that as soon as the subsequent runs in the area drop the twin bill policy F. & M. would cooperate.

It was expected that the subsequent run exhibitors would agree to the elimination by Labor Day, but with no word coming from the independents, Arthur is going ahead with plans to dual product in all downtown first and second runs where there are no presentations. The Ambassador and St. Louis will feature F. & M. stageshows, effective Labor Day. Wehrenberg is scheduled to call another con-

Joe Vogel on Oct. 10 will celebrate his 27th year with Loew's. He started with the circuit when he was 14 while going to high school and continued until he reached his sophomore year at C.C.N.Y. Then he decided to quit his studies for a full-time job on the same payroll.

Loew's W. & V. to Renew Virginia Pool

Having dropped the arrangement by mutual consent for a year, Loew's and Wilmer & Vincent have concluded negotiations for a renewal of a pool in Richmond and Norfolk, Va. The new pact goes into effect Sept. 1.

Under the terms of the arrangement, Joe Vogel of Loew's and Walter Vincent of W. & V. will act as a committee supervising operations. Bookings will be handled from New York. Each circuit, however will operate its own theatres.

Loew's has the Loew's in Norfolk, while W. & V. operates the Norva and Grandy. In Richmond, Loew's has a theatre of the same name and W. & V. has the Colonial and National.

Prior to the termination of the agreement last year, the two circuits pooled the houses for eight consecutive years.

Talk Pooling Deal On Houses in N. J.

Negotiations are under way by RKO, Loew's and Warners to pool four New Jersey theatres, starting Sept. 1. Warners has the Lincoln in Union City; RKO, the Capitol and State in the same city, and Loew's the Embassy, North Bergen.

RKO's lease on the two Union City theatres runs out Feb. 1, 1937, but the circuit has made a deal to take over the Rialto, West New York, on the date the Union City leases expire, or sooner.

Bank Night Mention In Ads Is Banned

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 23.—John A. Fleissner, newly named postmaster here, has advised local newspapers that Bank Night is considered a lottery under postal laws and regulations regardless of decisions in local courts to the contrary. As a result, local dailies are refusing to accept any mention of Bank Nights in theatre advertising.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Jesse L. Lasky is not the only film man aboard the Europa which sailed for New York Saturday. Aboard, as well, are N. L. Nathanson, president of the Famous Players Canadian Corp., and W. J. Gell, managing director of Pathe, one of John Maxwell's distributing companies.

Closes With TWA

E. E. Jameson, president of Exhibitors Film Delivery Service of Kansas City, has closed a deal with TWA for the handling of all general air express deliveries for Kansas and Missouri. The deal is similar to that made by Horlacher's Film Delivery Service for Philadelphia. Jameson leaves for home shortly.

Tone-Gable-Crawford

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Franchot Tone, Clark Gable and Joan Crawford will again be teamed in "Love on the Run" by M-G-M with W. S. Van Dyke directing. The supporting cast will include William Demarest, Charles Judels, Frank Reicher and Dewey Robinson. Production is scheduled to start early in September.

◂ Purely Personal ▸

CARL LESERMAN, Grand National sales head; ED FINNEY, advertising and publicity chief, and SIDNEY BIDDELL, eastern story editor, left Chicago for the coast Saturday following a meeting of western and midwestern exchange managers. They will be joined there late in the week by E. L. ALPERSON, Grand National president, who is en route here from London on the Ile de France.

JEANNE MADDEN, First National player, will arrive here for a few days' visit the latter part of the week from Scranton, Pa., where she was summoned from the coast recently due to the death of her father there.

JAMES WHALE is on the Queen Mary, docking today. The Universal director witnessed the London premiere of "Show Boat" while abroad. His next at "U" will be "Time Out of Mind."

SIDNEY HARMON will produce "Still Life," by THEODORE REEVES of the Paramount studio writing staff, as his third production for the coming season.

LOUIS WEBER, attorney for Skouras Theatres, on Saturday stated he hadn't been served with papers in the "bicyling" suit filed against the circuit by four local exchanges.

Resume Examination Of Yaffa on Friday

With hopes of a settlement declared slim, Robert Benjamin of the Phillips & Nizer office on Friday will resume examination of Harman Yaffa, former operator of the Majestic and Gem, Bronx, before Referee Joyce in Federal Court.

Benjamin is representing local major and independent exchanges which have claims totaling $30,000 against Jaydo Amusement Co. and Fairdeal Amusement Co., now bankrupt. In contesting the bankruptcy, the distributors contend that monies paid to Yaffa by Springer & Cocalis for the theatres were paid out by Yaffa to preferred creditors with the exchanges being ignored.

Yaffa was first examined Aug. 13. A continuation was sought in an effort to settle the claims. William Corcoran will assist Benjamin.

Expect 250 at Sept. Meet of N. J. Allied

More than 250 are expected to be on hand for the two-day annual convention of Allied of New Jersey, which will get under way Sept. 10 at the Traymore, Atlantic City, according to Lee Newbury, president.

Directors representing eastern Allied units will hold a session on Sept. 9. On the evening of Sept. 10, the banquet will be held, instead of a day later as originally planned. Because of the unusual interest in legislative matters, one of which has to do with a pending sales tax, there is a possibility that the attendance will be larger than expected, Newbury said.

Abram F. Myers, general counsel of the national organization, will attend as will a prominent figure from Washington.

Blank and Son Home

DES MOINES, Aug. 23.—A. H. Blank and his son, Myron, have returned from Montreal, where another son, Raymond, is at the Royal Victoria Hospital, McGill University, recovering from a serious operation. Mrs. A. H. Blank remained with Raymond, who must stay at the hospital five or six weeks longer.

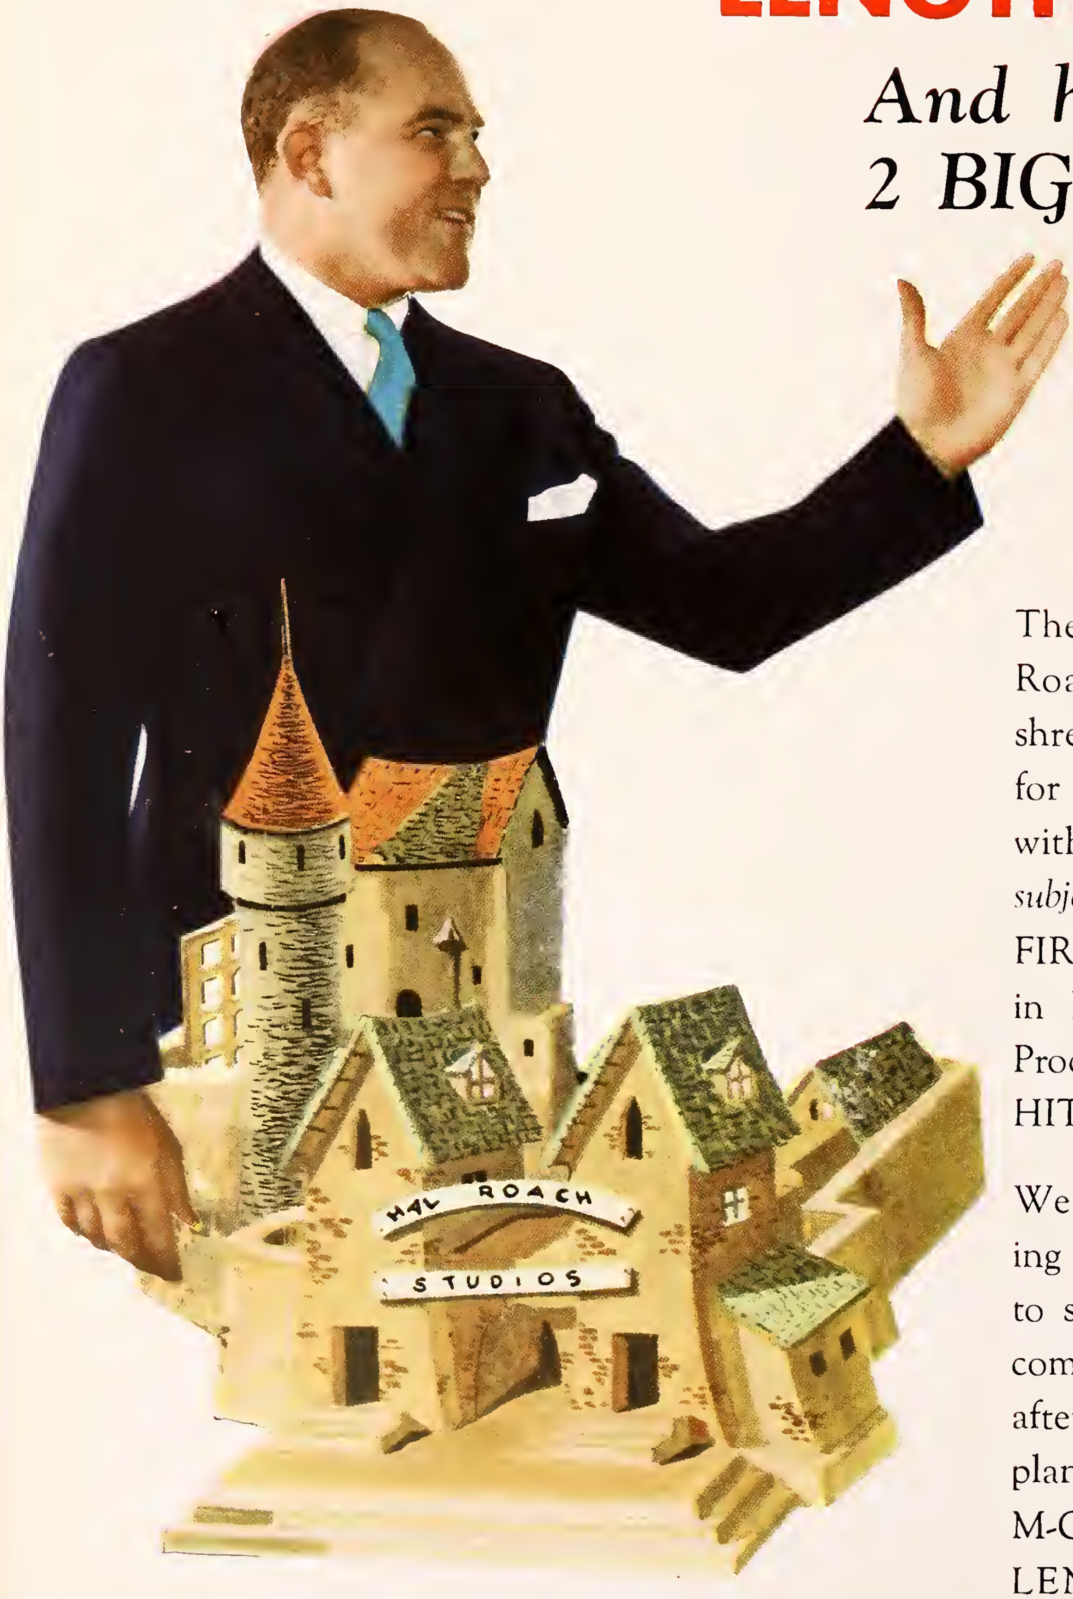
THAT HAL ROACH SMILE
GROWS TO FEATURE SIZE!

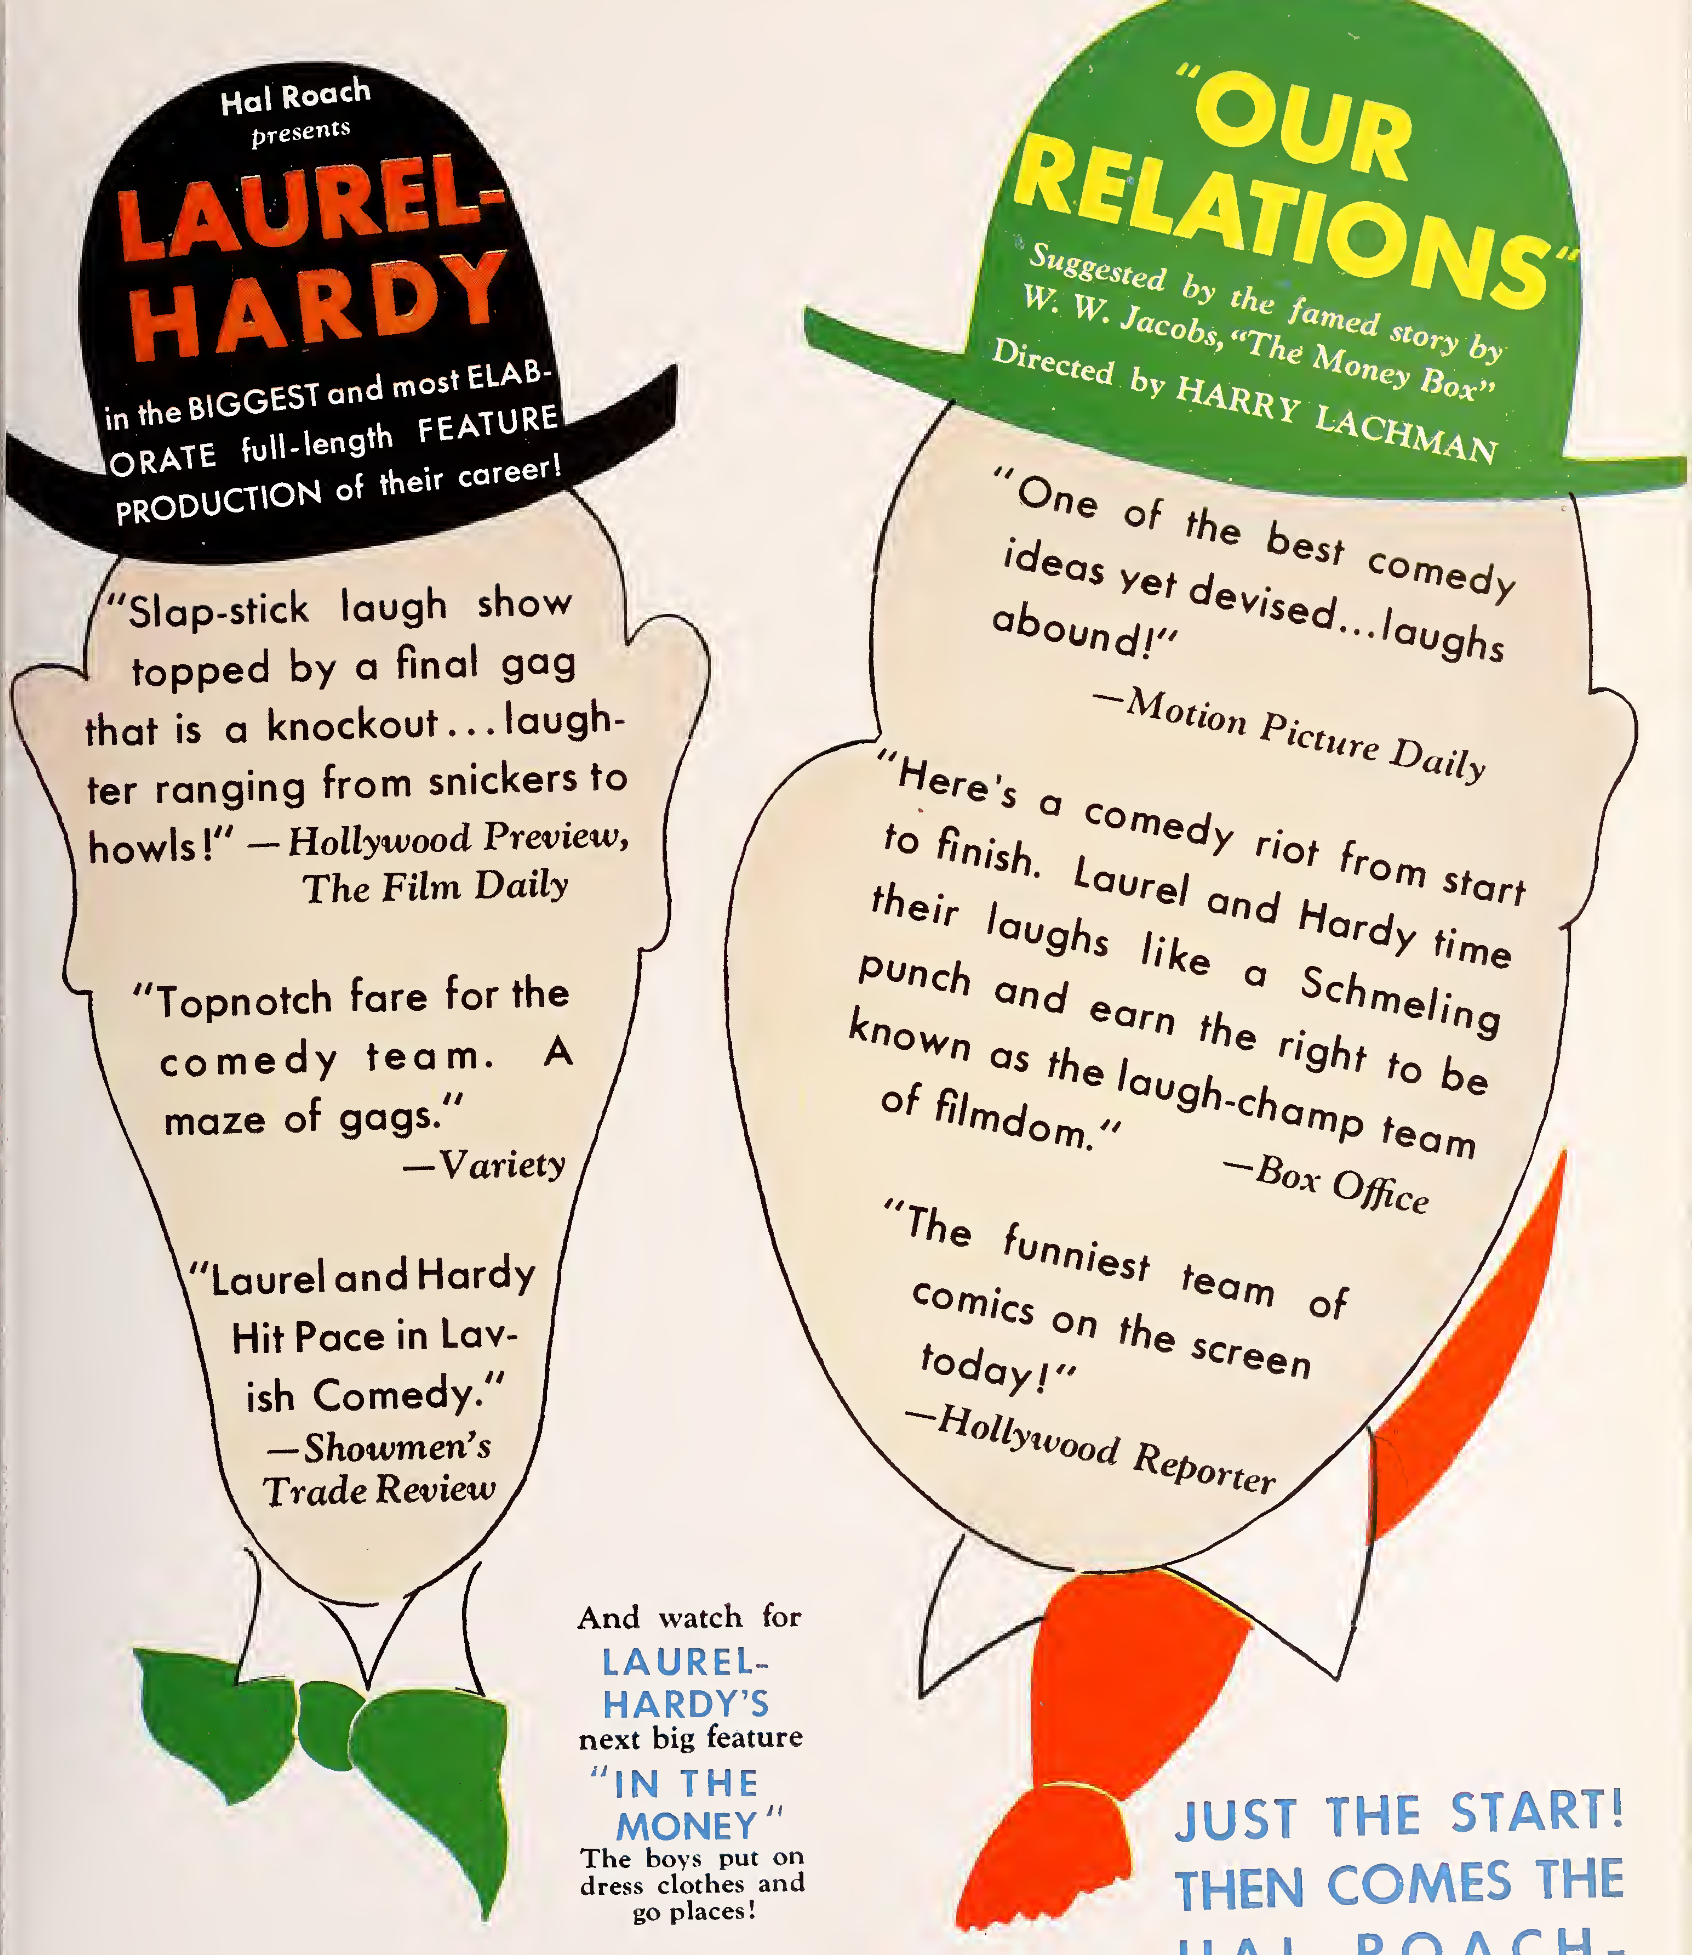
. . . HAL ROACH BRINGS 20 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE TO MAKING FEATURE LENGTH COMEDIES!

And he CLICKS with 2 BIG HAL ROACH-M-G-M HITS at the very start!



The industry is congratulating Hal Roach. There's good reason. This shrewd producer of fun-films, who for 20 years has pepped up programs with laugh-packed comedies in short-subject size, is now delivering the FIRST FEATURE-SIZE COMEDIES in his new enterprise as a Feature Producer AND THEY'RE HAPPY HITS!

We print on the immediately following pages what the trade press has to say of two of Mr. Roach's newly completed FEATURES. And thereafter we reveal a few others either planned or already finished for the M-G-M-HAL ROACH FEATURE LENGTH SEASON of 1936-37.



Hal Roach

LAUREL-HARDY

in the BIGGEST and most ELABORATE full-length FEATURE PRODUCTION of their career!

"OUR RELATIONS"

Suggested by the famed story by W. W. Jacobs, "The Money Box"
Directed by HARRY LACHMAN

"Slap-stick laugh show topped by a final gag that is a knockout . . . laughter ranging from snickers to howls!" —Hollywood Preview, The Film Daily

"Topnotch fare for the comedy team. A maze of gags."
—Variety

"Laurel and Hardy Hit Pace in Lavish Comedy."
—Showmen's Trade Review

"One of the best comedy ideas yet devised...laughs abound!"
—Motion Picture Daily

"Here's a comedy riot from start to finish. Laurel and Hardy time their laughs like a Schmeling punch and earn the right to be known as the laugh-champ team of filmdom."
—Box Office

"The funniest team of comics on the screen today!"

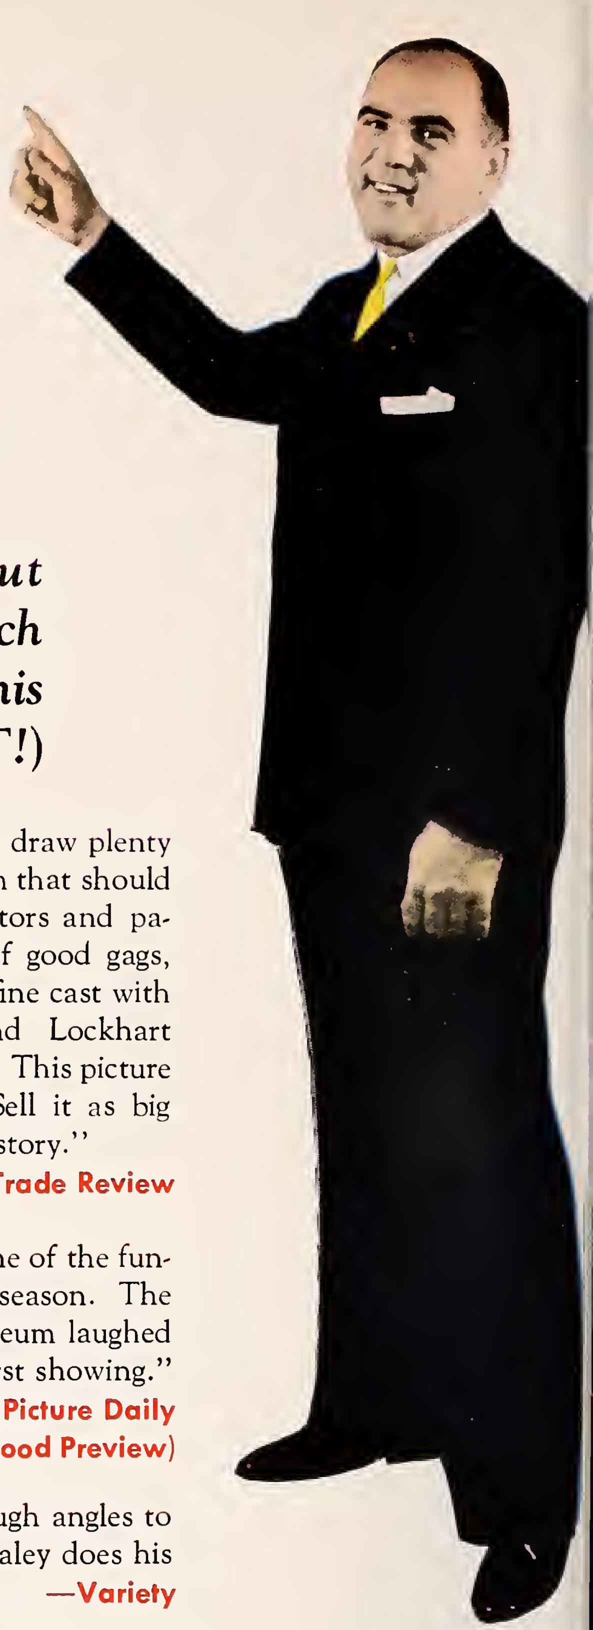
"HAVE YOU HEARD WHAT THE CRITICS SAY ABOUT 'MISTER CINDERELLA'!"



(Following right after the raves about Laurel-Hardy in "Our Relations" Mr. Roach modestly lets the press tell you about his Second-in-a-row FEATURE LENGTH HIT!)

"'Mr. Cinderella' sets the pace in large measure for the new feature-comedy program of Hal Roach. It is one of the most amusing comedies of the type lately shown; in fact, one of the funniest films of the year. The preview showing was given at the Uptown Theatre, and many laughs testified to the satisfaction derived by the audience. Quite a bit of success may be prophesied for this particular cinema diversion."

Los Angeles Times

"The preview of 'Mr. Cinderella,' starring Jack Haley, the other night reminded me of the days when audiences loosened theater seats with laughter. This film was aimed at everybody's ribs, and a thorough job of giggle-getting has been accomplished. You'll like 'Mister Cinderella' because it's fast and furious fun."

—Los Angeles Herald-Express

"Clever Comedy-drama. Will draw plenty of Raves. Here's a worthy film that should be joyfully received by exhibitors and patrons. Picture contains lots of good gags, fast action, clever story and fine cast with Haley, Treacher, Furness and Lockhart scoring in their performances. This picture is destined for popularity. Sell it as big laughfest with clean, healthy story."

— Showmen's Trade Review

"Hal Roach has turned out one of the funniest pictures in the current season. The preview audience at the Orpheum laughed and giggled throughout the first showing."

—Motion Picture Daily
(Hollywood Preview)

"Fast moving comedy with laugh angles to please any audience. Jack Haley does his best picture work to date." —Variety

BELOW we find Jack Haley, Broadway stage star and Betty Furness completely overcome by the swell reviews on this page.

"Class A comedy built for the loud laughs, and will get them. Jack Haley delivers fine performance. This is a Class A comedy, built solely for laughs—and getting them, many of the belly variety. Edward Sedgwick, a master of comedy, has used his full bag of tricks and the result is a heavy total of chuckles and guffaws. Slapstick is used to good advantage. Jack Haley is a happy choice for the title role and has never done better work. Betty Furness, Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn, Kathleen Lockhart, Edward Brophy are among the funmakers who romp through their roles. Monroe Owsley, usually a heavy, is right at home in a comedy part."

—The Film Daily

"Built for audience laughter, 'Mister Cinderella' succeeds honestly in its purpose. Edward Sedgwick concentrates upon the situations that bring howls. The preview reception proved all of it good audience stuff. Hal Roach, now dedicated mainly to feature production, lends a splendid physical mounting to 'Mr. Cinderella.' Jack Haley's is a hit performance. Betty Furness contributes a really fine piece of work. Another smash is scored by Arthur Treacher as one of his inimitable butlers."

MEET HAL'S GALS!

PATSY KELLY'S got a breezy naturalness about her that has clicked with audiences. They like Patsy. She's one of the masses, just like the folks out front and they love her kind of clowning. A good bet for Mr. Hal Roach's feature comedies.

LYDA ROBERTI is well known on Broadway as an electric light name in the $6.60 musical comedy class! Your patrons will fall for her too. She's got pep, personality and when she sings her famous ditty "Sweet and Hot" with that captivating accent and when she dances and taps...okay lovely Lyda!

ROSINA LAWRENCE is frankly a newcomer but with real promise. She's an eyeful and earful. What a voice! And she makes a perfect third for this trio of entertainers!

"The Personality Kid," SPANKY McFARLAND

If this turns out the way Hal Roach thinks it will, you've got a new electric light name to challenge any existing juvenile star. Good as he was in those merry short subjects Spanky MacFarland's got a lot of talent and winsomeness that can only be brought out fully in a full-length feature with character building and story construction. In putting Spanky into a big feature production Mr. Roach really follows the logical development of this grand youngster with audiences and showmen. The deciding factor was Spanky's personal appearance tour when he literally wowed them! So here's his feature debut and it's getting every chance in the way of production, etc. It's a swell comedy built around the Civil War period and a Big role for the little fellow!

SPANKY McFARLAND
OUR GANG
Comedies
One Reel Each

OF COURSE SPANKY will continue to star in "Our Gang" comedies now being made by as spry a troupe of youngters as ever gathered under the Klieg lights. The "Our Gang" Comedies are in 1-reel each now and definitely a bright spot on any program.

ALFALFA! Certainly, there he is in the photo above, second from the right. It sure had to be trick photography to remove his freckles from the photograph and to re-arrange those eyes! But on the screen he's got all those things that make folks chuckle and a weirder voice than ever!

NATURALLY Hal Roach will continue to make "Our Gang" Comedies in single reels in addition to his new Feature Production enterprise. The public just wouldn't stand for a discontinuance of "Our Gang". Might as well abolish baseball!

"OUR GANG FOLLIES OF 1937" The first one was such a joy that it's good business all around to have another in the new season. Based on the experience with last season's Gang Follies, they've developed some new Gang gags that are positively marvelous. Wait!

Certainly, in addition to his FEATURES, there will be

"Just to remind you Leo that the Hal Roach Studios are the only, the largest, and the best studios exclusively producing comedies in the world and as far as making GREAT comedies are concerned, we've just begun! Watch us go places!"

"MY PAL, HAL"

Leo knows that your public cheerfully pays its money for hearty laughter in the theatre. He's delighted that Hal Roach is now devoting his great studio to the production of feature-length comedies. There's happiness ahead for your patrons and your box-office when you play Hal Roach M-G-M Feature-length Comedies.

Drift Toward Hike in Price Seen Gaining

and are expected to advance a concrete plan within the next few weeks.

Generally speaking, Loew's is not for a blanket upping of admission charges. Most of the circuit's theatres are asking prices which are just within the taxable limits. Vogel declares it is because of the Government's amusement tax that he hesitates to raise scales. If Loew's were to increase prices, the jump would be 10 and 15 cents, which would mean giving the Government from two and a half cents to six and a half cents at the risk of losing patronage to neighborhood theatres, it is felt. This, despite the fact that subsequent runs would advance prices in proportion to their former scales.

Y. Frank Freeman, vice-president in charge of Paramount theatres, holds that changes in price scales are up to the local operators. In some towns where a good lineup of product has been obtained, the policy will call for increases. Freeman also is of the opinion that when the better made pictures are shown, admissions will be revised upward.

B. & K. Said to Be Upping

Another important Paramount executive who would not be quoted said that the B. & K. circuit is experimenting with increases in Chicago first runs and neighborhood units. It is hoped that the subsequent runs in this area will follow suit as much of the move's success is contingent upon the action of competitive situations.

The circuit executive also asserted that admissions are a local problem for the partners to decide. In some spots they are too low and in others they have reached the point where they cannot be altered, he added.

During the past year the Minnesota Amusement Co. increased prices in a number of towns in the northwest, according to J. J. Friedl and L. J. Ludwig, operators of that Paramount subsidiary. They have mapped no definite plans for a boost, due primarily to the drought. Farmers in western Wisconsin, North Dakota and Minnesota have suffered greatly from the recent torrid spell thereby precluding a forecast on a change in prices for the time being. If conditions improve, the natural tendency will be to increase admissions, Friedl and Ludwig asserted.

Many in Minnesota Closed

The Minnesota Amusement Co. has about 12 of its 92 theatres dark, some because of the dry spell and others due to poor business in general. Friedl left for Minneapolis Saturday after spending two and a half weeks in town with Ludwig, who departed Friday.

Although changes in scales are being made here and there in some of the circuit's houses, Nate J. Blumberg, operating head of RKO, does not see any need for lifting admissions in theatres under his supervision. In New York a few east side and upper Manhattan houses are increasing tariffs five cents, but otherwise Blumberg has no desire to make changes. He regards his prices near the top and now, he holds, the producers need only to deliver product to warrant such admissions.

With vaudeville slated to be installed in Albany, Troy and Schenectady, Si Fabian will add 10 cents to both matinee and evening scales at his theatres which will adopt the new policy.

He is, however, in favor of readjusting the Brooklyn first run price situation. The move awaits approval of RKO and Loew's. This is expected to take shape after Labor Day.

Meanwhile, Spyros Skouras will confer tomorrow with National Theatres operating heads of Wisconsin, Kansas City and Denver at Kansas City to draft a definite plan of procedure for increasing prices in proportion with the type and quality of product lined up for next season. Sales executives of Paramount, Twentieth Century-Fox, Columbia, Warners-First National, RKO and G.B. will personally advocate such a move and give full details on their products.

Move Starts in N. E.

A general move to hike admissions in New England got under way last Friday when first run theatre heads met to discuss the idea. Loew and Warner houses in New Haven, New London and South Norwalk will charge from 10 and 15 cents above present admissions when they start playing "The Great Ziegfeld," "Gorgeous Hussy" and "Anthony Adverse."

Advance Guard to K. C.

J. J. Sullivan, F.W.C. film buyer, and Aubrey Schenck, attorney for National Theatres, left Saturday by train for Kansas City to attend the four-day session, starting tomorrow, of division and district heads and bookers of Fox Midwest, Fox Wisconsin and Intermountain circuits.

Spyros Skouras, William T. Powers, Ed Zabel, Rick Ricketson and George Balsdon will leave by plane tonight.

In addition to home office sales heads of the various distributing companies, divisional sales managers, district heads, branch managers and bookers of Paramount, RKO, Warners-First National, Columbia, Universal, Twentieth Century-Fox, Republic and G.B. will be on hand to talk to the theatre men.

A second meeting of the western theatres' units and distributing forces will convene at F.W.C. offices in Los Angeles Sept. 1-4.

Up in Terryville

TERRYVILLE, Conn., Aug. 23.—Joe Faith has raised admission prices from 15 to 25 cents at his Mayfair.

clave of his members for another vote on the plan. Arthur will not single feature generally unless neighborhood theatre owners pledge to do the same 100 per cent strong.

In Indianapolis, 80 per cent of the exhibitors are said to have agreed to discontinue the two-ply program. So far it has been found difficult to get all theatre men to agree to the plan. Downtown first runs controlled by the major circuits have agreed to join in any move which would be representative of 100 per cent of the exhibitors in the territory.

Discussions by leading independents will most likely be resumed in this territory after Sept. 7, it is said.

Si Fabian, who operates the Strand, Paramount and Fox in Brooklyn, would like to see an end of double features in the downtown area. The deterring factor as far as he is concerned is the attitude of Loew's, with the Metropolitan, and RKO with the Albee, to continue the current policy.

is tying up from time to time with a local newspaper on the distribution of handbills, one side of which lists the amount of money to be disbursed at various of its houses and the other plugging the film page of the newspaper. During the past week a total of $1,545 in cash was being offered in Bank Nights at eight neighborhood Fox houses here.

Sued on Bank Night

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Aug. 23.—Breach of contract action has been brought against Lowell Wilhelm, manager, and the Nivoli Theatre Corp., operator of the Logan here, by Mrs. Bessie Stewart. Mrs. Stewart said she registered for Bank Night at the theatre July 2 and attended the show July 3 when her name was called. She says the management refused to pay a $40 award and asks damages.

"Production Guide" For 1936 Sent Out

The Production Guide and Director's Annual for 1936, published by The Film Daily, has been compactly prepared and handsomely bound and contains a total of 465 pages of pertinent production material. It is now being distributed throughout the industry.

Features of the publication include production programs of all companies for 1936-'37; biographies of directors and producers; a catalogue of the work of production principals; personnel of producing companies throughout the country; lists of the "10 best" pictures of each year from 1922 through 1935; a list of features released during the first half of 1936; a handy reference guide to picture companies and individuals, telephone numbers of leading factors in the industry on both coasts and articles on topics related to production by members of The Film Daily staff.

Frisco U. A. Reopening

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The United Artists reopens this week with "Girls' Dormitory," after being dark for the past several weeks. Booking of the Twentieth Century-Fox picture in place of the previously announced "Last of the Mohicans" came as a surprise to the local trade, as the house usually plays only U. A. product.

G. N. Plans to Sell 10 on Percentages

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Carl Leserman, vice-president and general sales manager of Grand National, discussing sales policies at the second morning session of the company's two-day meeting, said that pictures would be classified in three groups. The top unit would consist of about 10 pictures to be sold on a percentage basis. Other groups will be sold on a flat rental.

Pictures comprising the first group will vary according to territories, the rating to be flexible as some exchanges want pictures of the second group in the first rank and vice versa, he added. Exchangemen will, in some cases, determine which pictures are to be classified in the top group. Leserman added that selling would start at once.

Individual meetings were held in the afternoon to complete plans for personnel in exchanges. Leserman left today for Hollywood to confer with several producers. Edward Finney, advertising and publicity director, accompanied him.

To Study Grosses of Film-Radio Artists

The Hays office plans to compare day to day grosses of pictures starring a particular individual to determine the effect upon the theatre drawing power of the individual on the evening when he or she makes a radio appearance.

Short Subjects

"That's Pictures"

(Vitaphone)

A jocular explanation of film-making techniques by J. C. Flippen with a few examples is good for some laughs in the first part of this " Broadway Brevity." As master of ceremonies he interweaves a few song and chorus numbers. It is clever stuff which should click. In the second reel he "cuts" over to his amateur program and introduces a few of his more entertaining aspirants. Through the two-reeler there is evidence of a studied attempt to be entertainingly clever, which is attained. Production Code Seal No. 01081. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Kiko and the Honey Bears"

(Paul Terry—Educational)

This is a cartoon featuring that newcomer, Kiko, the Kankaroo. The bear cubs get themselves into mischief and Kiko is brought in to take care of them in his capacity as mother's helper. He entertains them royally, but tires soon and takes a nap. The cubs' scent is picked up by a hunter and his hounds and the cubs are chased up a tree. At the moment the hunter is about to shoot, Kiko arrives and does away with the sportsman. It is fair cartoon stuff. Production Code Seal No. 01,064. Running time, 6 minutes. "G."

"Happy Heels"

In this comedy, Buster West and Tom Patricola get themselves involved with Thelma Shearon and Ruth Shaw, night club entertainers. The boys go to see them perform and cut up so idiotically that they are ejected. In a series of comebacks they go through more slapstick situations and eventually wind up in the patrol wagon. The usual Patricola-West antics prevail in the dancing and chase scenes. It is typical of their work and as such should be fairly entertaining. Production Code Seal No. 0932. Running time, 18 minutes. "G."

"Irish Pastoral"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

A fine travel effort in the excellent style of the Magic Carpets. With good cutting there are many glimpses into the life, scenic beauty and places of historical importance. There is even a song by a girl, sung in the ancient Gaelic. The camera compositions are masterpieces in light and shadow. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 9 minutes. "G."

"Little Champs"

(Columbia)

This number of the News World of Sports series, as the title denotes, concerns the juvenile champions. It is a collection of shots of marble shooters, a sharpshooter, skiers, junior wrestlers, boxers, football players and bronco busters. It is of interest and the accompanying narrative makes it doubly so. The younger element will like it and their elders certainly should follow suit. Production Code Seal No. 01141. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Draegerman's Courage"

(First National)

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Although the foreword claims that no living persons are represented in this drama, there is a strong parallel in many of the incidents to the recent mine rescue which drew national attention to the Nova Scotia cave-in in a deserted mine.

Barton MacLane, rough and ready, warns the foreman that the mine is improperly timbered for safety, but greed on the part of Robert Barrat, the owner, sends the men to their death in a cave-in and the lack of proper hospital attention results in the passing of MacLane's best friend after the rescue. The pleas of Henry O'Neill, a doctor, for a hospital are of no avail.

Barrat buys a valuable, but deserted, gold mine from him for a pittance when the doctor is pressed for money to pay for an operation on his injured child. Rough justice gets to work when the mine owner is trapped in a cave-in while exploring his newly acquired property. After a long sequence showing the frantic efforts of the draegerman to reach the trapped men, Barrat has a change of heart, builds a hospital and it is gathered that everyone lives happily, etc.

Jean Muir has little to do as the sweetheart of MacLane, who gives his expected hearty performance. Addison Richards, Helen MacKellar, Gordon Oliver, Joseph Creehan, Priscilla Lyon, Walter Miller, Herbert Heywood, and Ben Hendricks handle their supporting roles nicely under the direction of Louis King. The original story and screenplay are by Anthony Coldway.

The prominence of cave-ins in recent headlines is about the only exploitation angle. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Crouching Beast"

(Olympic)

This is a feeble and inconsequential tale of spies and espionage in Turkey during the World War made in England by Stafford Prod. The dramatic content, while attempting to reach a serious vein, borders on the unconsciously humorous.

Wynne Gibson, as an American newspaper woman, is doing her stint in a town located near a prison-fortress. An escaping British spy reaches her house in his flight and, enlisting her aid, departs, and is killed shortly after. Miss Gibson, with the Turkish and German intelligence on her trail, goes to Constantinople to contact another agent and deliver a defense plan which she must obtain from a dancer's apartment. She completes her voluntary assignment and is picked up by the Turkish police and confronted with Fritz Kortner, chief of the bureau. There follows the usual drama with Miss Gibson unwittingly causing the death of a German officer who she had befriended and eventually making her romantic escape with the local British spy. The British bombard the city, the marines land and Kortner, disgraced, is the target of a shell.

The screenplay is from a story by Valentine Williams. Victor W. Hanbury directed.

3 Burials Over Weekend

Funeral services for Thomas Hamlin, late publisher of The Film Curb, were held yesterday at the Friends Church, Yorktown Heights, N. Y., with burial at Amawalk Cemetery, Amawalk, N. Y. Many industry friends of the late publisher attended the services.

On Saturday, services were held for R. F. (Pete) Woodhull, former president of the M.P.T.O.A., at his home in Dover, and for Joseph R. Bickerton, theatrical attorney, at the Church of Transfiguration in Manhattan. Woodhull was buried in Locust Hills Cemetery, Dover, N. J., while interment for Bickerton was private.

Brushing Up Strand

The Strand will be closed tomorrow for refurbishing in preparation for the Wednesday morning opening of "Anthony Adverse." Continuous performances will be the policy for the picture with a minimum of four weeks anticipated.

Studio Openings Near

London, Aug. 23.—Two new British studios are getting set for their openings next month. One is Pinewood in Bucks, to be operated by Richard Norton, and the other, Amalgamated. Both will lease space to all comers.

Greenberg Moved Up

Kansas City, Aug. 23.—Fred Greenberg, for seven years a salesman out of the Warner office here, has been named manager of the exchange at Indianapolis, effective Monday. Greenberg, who succeeds Oscar Kuschner, has made an outstanding record in the sales field since he joined Warner in 1929.

Previously he had, with Ed Peskay, operated the Rialto, Rivoli and Revere at St. Joseph, Mo., for five years. He was in the exhibition business also in its early days. He covered northern Missouri, part of Kansas and part of southern Missouri for the exchange here.

Give Kalmenson Party

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23.—More than 100 exchange heads, theatre managers, newspapermen and friends attended the farewell party Warners tossed Friday night in Ben Kalmenson's honor in the Cardinal room of the William Penn Hotel. He was presented with an appropriate gift at the occasion.

Kalmenson last week was made a district sales manager. His successor, Oscar Kuschner of Indianapolis, was introduced locally for the first time.

Bernhard Joining LeRoy

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23.—Jack Bernhard, who has been in the Warner theatre booking department here for the last year, will leave for Hollywood next month to become associated with Mervyn LeRoy's new production unit.

He is the son of Joe Bernhard, director of Warner theatre operations.

Denver Buy Completed

Having closed with Columbia and G.B., Louis Dent, president of the Westland circuit in Denver, plans to complete negotiations with Warners and RKO before leaving for his headquarters either Wednesday or Thursday.

T. B. Noble, general manager of the circuit, has returned to Denver after spending about three weeks here on preliminary discussions with distributors.

RKO Sets League Pace

RKO maintained its lead and undefeated record in the second half of the M. P. Baseball Ass'n. schedule during the past week by winning over the N. C. B. nine, 5 to 1. The "Spitz Terriers" have a record of five victories and no defeats. The second place Music Hall team remains undefeated with two victories. During the week the Skouras nine defeated Paramount and Columbia lost two, one to Consolidated and the second to Loew-M-G-M.

Aides Get Screen Credit

Hollywood, Aug. 23. — Samuel Goldwyn will give screen credit in the future to Merritt Hulburd and George Haight, his two production assistants. Hulburd will be billed as associate producer of "Dodsworth" and Haight will get similar recognition on "Love Under Fire."

Luncheon for Harrison

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Pete Harrison will be guest of honor at a luncheon given by the I. T. O. Aug. 26 at the Ambassador. Harrison is here for a look at Hollywood.

See China Quota Being Maintained

By J. P. KOEHLER

Shanghai, July 30.—There is evidence that the quota limiting foreign film exhibition in the territory under the control of the southwestern Government to 12 days each month and limiting the censorship of foreign films to just enough to fill the quota each month, may yet remain despite the protests of exhibitors in Canton.

So far, these protests seem half hearted, and under the conditions, little more can be expected. Distributors of foreign films are still standing by, and it will probably mean the cancellation of every foreign film contract in Canton. The outcome of the Canton-Nanking political troubles may have some bearing on this matter if Nanking succeeds in placating the southerners and bringing them into line with the central Government policies.

Wu Teh, China's famed feminine screen star, has been awarded first place among the 13 players selected by a group of judges in Nanking. She is the leading personality of Star M. P. Co., of Shanghai. The studio was awarded first place for the best sound and scenic effects.

The Yi Hua M. P. Co. won first award for its production, "Song of Victory," called the best native production of 1935. "Tien Luan," produced by United Photoplay Co., here, took second place. The film, "Mother," of Tien Yi M. P. Co., also of Shanghai, was awarded third place.

Thirteen directors were mentioned for exceptional work during the year, and 12 other players received awards for performances.

The judges, representative of the Central Publicity Council, the Central Cultural Planning Committee, the Ministry of Education, Film Censor Committee and China Cinematographical Ass'n, noted great strides during the year in sound and scenic effects, and photography, but cited the need for improvement in subject matter, direction and the length of films.

The increase of the use of air conditioning in theatres has almost done away with the former open air lawn theatres which were extensively operated here in hot weather. Formerly, heavy losses were sustained by theatre owners due to heavy showers which pour down without warning throughout the summer months.

New Polish Firm Formed

Washington, Aug. 23. — Polski-Tobis, a new Polish company with a capital of 10,000 zlotys (approximately $1,900), has been formed by Dr. Leopold Starzewski, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Commercial Attache George R. Canty in Warsaw. The new firm will work as a branch of Tobis-Syndikat, of Germany.

Roadshow in England

London, Aug. 13. — M-G-M will roadshow "The Great Ziegfeld" in England due to the impossibility of fitting in three shows within ordinary theatre program limits. The picture, as cabled, opens at His Majesty's Theatre, Sept. 1, on a two-a-day basis on a price scale ranging approximately from 50 cents to $2.50.

Variety Club Chatter

Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 23.—The Baltimore ticket selling committee for the annual cruise of the Variety Club on the Potomac held last night included Norman Goldstein, chairman; Eddie Jacobs, Frank Boucher and Lou Brown. J. Louis Rome, chief barker of the Washington Tent No. 11, and president of the Associated Theatres of Baltimore, took care of the Baltimore sales and helped to arrange the affair. Proceeds are to go to charity.

Buffalo

Buffalo, Aug. 23.—Chief Barker Jacob Lavene has completed his committee for a western New York beauty contest to be held in Green Lake Gardens, a summer resort at nearby Orchard Park, on Aug. 30. The winner will be sent to Atlantic City for the national contest held there annually.

The committee: Joseph Miller, Syd Samson, Ted O'Shea, Saul Resnick, Thomas Walsh, Harry Seed, Jack Kaplan, Jack Berkowitz, John Sitterley, Kenneth Robinson and Frank Leonard.

Des Moines

Des Moines, Aug. 23.—New officers elected by the Variety Club are E. J. Tilton, local Warner manager, president; G. R. Branton, business manager of Tri-States, first vice-president; C. L. Freedman, National Screen Service, second vice-president; L. M. McKechneay, treasurer of Tri-States, treasurer, and Lou Lezy, manager for Grand National, secretary. The directors elected were Stanley Mayer, Don West, Stanley Brown and Harry Herman.

At the first general meeting, plans are to be made for the annual picnic.

Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Aug. 23.—Beginning Sept. 1 the Variety Club here will have a home of its own in one of the city's older residences.

The new address: 1454 North Delaware Street. The old quarters are in a suite on the seventh floor of the Claypool Hotel. Although attractively furnished the old quarters are too small and the change will be a welcome and necessary one.

According to Marc J. Wolf, chief barker, a formal house-warming is planned for Sept. 5.

The new home is a stately residence about a mile north of Film Row and the downtown area. Known popularly as the "Irish Castle," the house is of brick, covered with vines and has a rectangular tower that is distinctly feudal in type. It's a neighbor of the old Meredith Nicholson home which the author used as the setting years ago for his "House of a Thousand Candles."

Membership and activity of the tent has progressed by leaps and bounds since it was established here in the spring of 1934.

Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Aug. 23.—Because of the success of the first golf party of the season last month, the local Variety tent is staging another party Aug. 28 at the Brynwood Golf Club. Ben Miller is chairman in charge of arrangements.

Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—The first fall announcement which came from entertainment committee chairman Leonard Schlesinger, this week, reveals a full program for September:

Aug. 26—General meeting, with induction of new members.

Sept. 7.—The club will be host to visiting candidates for the "Miss America" crown, with headquarters at the Adelphia. On the same day, the club will go into full time operation, the club house being open every day, all day.

Sept. 9—Luncheon of the club, first of the new season, will be held at the Hotel Madison, Atlantic City, with Frank Elliott and Frank Gravatte kings for the day.

Sept. 19—Formal opening of the clubhouse is scheduled, with music, dancing, a special show. The night will be called Showmen's Variety Jubilee Night, with "Miss America" of 1936 as the guest of honor.

Sept. 20—The first Sunday trade screening for members.

Sept. 26—First fall special Saturday night function will be held with James Clark, Chief Barker, as the guest of honor.

Ben Amsterdam has been named chairman of the second formal annual stag banquet. He will supervise all the arrangements, aided by Lewen Pizor, vice-chairman. James Clark is in charge of the speakers and dais committee. The Dec. 13 affair at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel will have Leonard Schlesinger in charge of production and entertainment.

The annual fall golf tourney, to be sponsored by the club and The Philadelphia Exhibitor, will be held at Whitemarsh Country Club, Oct. 2.

Shift Henie Vehicle

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Sonja Henie, figure skating champion, signed by Twentieth Century-Fox, will appear first in "One in a Million," original musical, instead of "Peach Edition," as originally scheduled.

Chicago House to Close

Chicago, Aug. 23.—The Orpheum, which has shown films here for nearly 30 years, is singing its swan song. A New York company, operating a chain of shoe shops, has leased the building, and after remodeling, will occupy it next spring.

To Distribute 12

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—The Olmstead-Stubbins Exchange has signed for 12 pictures from Harry Webb and Benny Ray for distribution in the southern California-Arizona territory. Included are six Tom Tylers, four Richard Talmadges, three James Oliver Curwoods and two melodramas.

Song Writers Signed

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Republic has signed Sidney Mitchell and Sammy Stept, song writers, to a "continuous" contract for songs to be used in western pictures.

Tobis Expanding to Largest in Germany

By J. K. RUTENBERG

Berlin, Aug. 12.—The Tobis Film Co. is expanding its influence in the German industry by the acquisition of the Bavaria Film A.G. The acquisition, however, will be effected by a subsidiary company, Syndikat Film. It is reported that the Neues Duetsches Lichtspiel-Syndikat which is half Tobis-owned will take over 74 per cent of the shares of the Bavaria Film A.G., thereby linking one of the greatest German film companies with Tobis.

Tobis is thus becoming the largest German company, even surpassing Ufa, which has hitherto headed the list of German film trusts. Tobis now is uniting production, distribution and exhibition and is, at the same time, the most important patent holding company, with two vast studios in Berlin. The yearly output of the various Tobis companies will amount to 60 or 70 feature films and the same number of shorts.

Argentine Activity Gains; Films Better

Washington, Aug. 23.—Production activity in Argentina is increasing rapidly and, on the whole, the quality of the work has improved, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Commissioner DuWayne G. Clark at Buenos Aires.

The Argentinan pictures, according to Commissioner Clark, find a comparatively restricted audience in the larger cities where a large percentage of the people either understand English or are satisfied to read subtitles attached to the better known American and European productions.

In the smaller towns, however, the subtitled picture has not been enthusiastically received, and in these territories the domestic product has been very popular. In fact, so much so that the income derived from several of them is said to have compared very favorably with the average income earned by the more important features distributed by the well known organizations in Buenos Aires.

Set Club Election

New Haven, Aug. 23.—The Warner Club will hold its annual election of officers tomorrow. The nominating committee has brought in the following slate for the new term: H. F. O'Donnell, president; Dan Finn, vice-president; James Bracken, treasurer, and Sid Weiner, entertainment chairman. Michael Anderson, now president, will preside.

"Frisco" Sets Record

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 23.—"San Francisco" has gone into its fourth week at the Capitol, Famous Players ace house here, and at the same time has broken all-time records for Vancouver. This is the first time that a film has played more than three weeks in the same house.

Does Colgate U. Film

Utica, Aug. 23.—Donald A. Laird, head of psychology laboratory at Colgate University here, has produced a 40-minute film, partly in color, depicting the growth of the university, particularly with respect to the development of the study of psychology.

Crosby, Plus Show, Philly Top--$20,500

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—In the second week of operation of the Fox, Stanley-Warner produced a winner in "Rhythm on the Range," which clicked to a gross of $20,500 and went into a second week.

Until the last half of the week the weather remained temperate, but a swift rise beginning Thursday hurt weekend business. In spite of the lack of any big productions, the presence of many box-office hits gave the town unusually good August grosses.

"Suzy" held up nicely in its second week at the Stanley and collected $15,000, still a bit above house average. The Earle collected $12,500 with a mild program. "To Mary—With Love" received plenty of attention at the Boyd, going to $14,500. "Grand Jury" died at the Karlton in four days, grossing $800.

The surprise of the town was at the Arcadia, where Robert Taylor's "Society Doctor" was revived. It did $3,600, far above the house average.

Total first run business was $68,300. Average is $69,800.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 13:

"SOCIETY DOCTOR" (M-G-M) (Revival)

N. H. Set for Party

New Haven, Aug. 23.—An amateur show is expected to be the feature of the annual film outing, to be held Aug. 27, at Ye Castle Inn, Saybrook. About 160 are expected to attend. Among the out-of-town guests will be Harold Stoneman and Edward Anson of Interstate Theatres, and Phil Smith of Academy Pictures. Prizes for championship athletic events are being assembled by Ben Simon, Edward Ruff and Morris Joseph. Lou Wechsler is general chairman.

Plan Los Angeles House

Los Angeles, Aug. 23.—Abe and Mike Gore and Adolph Ramish have closed for a 40-year lease on property here and will start construction on a $100,000 theatre about Nov. 1. The total rental on the property is in excess of $250,000. This is the second theatre site recently acquired by the newly formed Pacific States Theatres.

"King" Only Film to Beat Seattle Heat

Seattle, Aug. 23.—The heat continued to hammer at grosses here, only one theatre, the Liberty, playing "The King Steps Out," having been able to better the house average. The film did $7,100, over par by $3,100.

The Orpheum dual of "Piccadilly Jim" and "36 Hours to Kill," managed to get only $5,600 against an average of $6,000 and moved to the Music Box for an extended run. "San Francisco," in its eighth week at the Blue Mouse, did $3,100, par being $4,000, and continued its run.

Circus competition for two days of the week was no help to grosses.

Total first run business was $33,300. Average is $34,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 21:

"SAN FRANCISCO" (M-G-M)
BLUE MOUSE—(950), 25c-40c-55c, 7 days, 8th week. Gross: $3,100. (Average, $4,000)

"Secret Agent" Is Best in Montreal

Montreal, Aug. 23. — "Secret Agent" capped the performance list of first runs in Montreal. Heading a British double bill at the Princess, it accounted for $6,500, which was close to the par $7,000.

In second place was "And Sudden Death" at $8,500, which was the chief attraction of the mixed fare at Loew's while "I Stand Condemned," top feature at the Capitol, accounted for $7,500. All were under average.

The fourth week of "San Francisco" at the Palace brought in $6,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 15:

"I STAND CONDEMNED" (Regal)
"BUNKER BEAN" (Radio)
CAPITOL—(2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $7,500. (Average, $9,500)

National Studios has completed plans for the testing of screen talent here, servicing talent scouts. Dramatic schools are expected to cooperate.

"Ziegfeld" Smash $20,000 in Cincy

Cincinnati, Aug. 23.—"The Great Ziegfeld," after playing two weeks as a roadshow at the RKO Capitol earlier in the season, led the field last week with a smash $20,000 at the RKO Shubert, with an increased scale of 40 and 60 cents, compared with 35 and 42 cents charged at other first runs. Average at this house is $12,000. The picture is in for an indefinite run.

"His Brother's Wife" did $16,000 at the RKO Albee, where $12,000 is the average. It continues at the RKO Capitol. "Piccadilly Jim" brought $13,500 at the RKO Palace, upping average by $3,500, and moved to the RKO Grand. "Poor Little Rich Girl," returning to the RKO Grand for a third downtown week, broke even at $2,750. Revival of "Call of the Wild" and "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round" did a total of $1,800 on a split week at the independent Strand, against a $1,500 full-week average. Weather was excessively hot, and theatres had the usual competition from outdoor amusements.

Total first run business was $67,850. Average is $60,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 18:

"CALL OF THE WILD" (U.A.)
STRAND—(1,500), 15c-25c, 3 days. Gross: $1,000. (Average, 7 days, $1,500)

Ban Only Three of 115

Washington, Aug. 23.—Of a total of 115 films examined by the Bengal censor in May, only three, one British and two American, were banned, according to a report to the Dept. of Commerce from Trade Commissioner C. Grant Isaacs in Calcutta. Seventy-four of the total were American, 18 British, six Italian and 17 Indian.

Novelizes "Mohicans"

Charles Reed Jones has completed a novelization of the United Artists release, "The Last of the Mohicans." It is being published in book form by the Lynn Publishing Co.

Claim "Adverse" Records

Warners claim broken records with "Anthony Adverse" at the United Artists in Detroit and the Boyd in Philadelphia.

'Rhythm' Tops St. Louis on Dual Program

St. Louis, Aug. 23.—"Rhythm on the Range," paired with "36 Hours to Kill" at the Fox, took the best gross of the week here, with $17,000, topping average by $3,000.

"Always Tomorrow" and "Spendthrift" cleared $11,600 at the Ambassador to better par by $2,600.

"Suzy" in its second week at Loew's was again above par with a take of $11,000, $1,000 above average. "Sophie Lang" and "Last Outlaw" at the Orpheum slipped below par for the week.

The weather continued extremely warm, which probably helped the first runs because of their modern cooling systems. The chief opposition was the municipal opera presentation at the Municipal Theatre in Forest Park.

Total first run business was $46,100. Average is $40,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 13:

"ALWAYS TOMORROW" (Univ.)
"SPENDTHRIFT" (Para.)

"Wife" on Dual Is New Haven Leader

New Haven, Aug. 23.—With no relief from the heat and most grosses wilting, the Poli did a neat $2,000 over the usual $7,000, featuring "His Brother's Wife" and "Trapped By Television." Although a holdover was being considered following standing room business over the weekend, it did not materialize. "Yours for the Asking" at the Paramount, with "Secret Agent," fell from the $4,800 par to $4,000. "Human Cargo" and "Border Patrolman" at the College missed the $2,800 line by $300. "Jailbreak" and "Satan Met a Lady" tallied a weak $3,000.

Total first run business was $18,500. Average is $19,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"HUMAN CARGO" (20th-Fox)

"Pastures" Is Approved

Toronto, Aug. 23.—Without any of the ado which attended consideration of the feature in Ontario "The Green Pastures" has been passed for showing in both Manitoba and Quebec by the censor boards of those provinces.

"To Mary", "Piccadilly", Detroit Tops

Detroit, Aug. 23.—Good product and theatre weather joined hands here last week to give every first run in town above average business except the Adams with "Meet Nero Wolfe" and "White Fang" in combination.

The Michigan, playing "Piccadilly Jim" and the Glorified Follies of 1936, went to $27,800, or $7,800 ahead of average. Over at the Fox, where "To Mary—With Love" was the film and Blackstone and Co. the stage show, business also thrived to the tune of $26,400. That was $6,400 over the norm. "Green Pastures" did a nice $11,700 at the United Artists in its third week.

Total first run business was $74,100. Average is $60,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"MEET NERO WOLFE" (Col.)
"WHITE FANG" (20th-Fox)

ADAMS—(1,770), 10c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,600. (Average, $5,000)

Transfer Bob Kinsley

Cincinnati, Aug. 23.—Bob Kinsley, assistant to E. V. Dinerman, director of advertising and publicity for RKO Midwest, has been transferred to Keith's as temporary assistant manager until Manager Eddie Reisenbeck returns from his vacation, following which he will be given a permanent assignment at one of the local houses. Eugene Works, doorman RKO Palace, succeeds Kinsley in the advertising department.

Hiehle to Zanesville

Newark, O., Aug. 23.—Edward J. Hiehle, manager of Shea's Midland and Auditorium here for the past eight years, has been transferred to the Weller, Zanesville. He is succeeded here by Frank King of the Colonial, Akron. Robert Rose, Zanesville, replaces King at Akron.

Quits Schreiber Post

Detroit, Aug. 23.—Jack O'Connell, former Toledo, O., theatre man, who came here three weeks ago to become general manager for the Jacob Schreiber circuit, has resigned. His successor has not yet been named.

Diamond to Dickinson

Kansas City, Aug. 23.—Gus C. Diamond, for the past seven years office manager for Warners and city salesman, has resigned to go with the Glen W. Dickinson circuit as film buyer and booker.

H. A. Gillon, head booker for Warners, succeeds Diamond.

'Piccadilly Jim', Olsen Do $22,500 To Lead Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23.—August again last week showed a big increase over the figures for the same time a year ago. General opinion is that business is definitely on the upgrade. With perfect weather conditions the rule and competition only fairly keen, the Stanley led the town by a wide margin, turning in its best take in months, $22,500 with "Piccadilly Jim" and George Olsen and Ethel Shutta on the stage.

There was enough interest in the American debut of the French actress, Simone Simon, to give the Alvin a neat $7,250 with "Girls' Dormitory" and the Warner also managed to claim a nice profit at $5,000 with "Satan Met a Lady" and "Spendthrift." There was only one real disappointment and that was "Mary of Scotland" at the Penn. Although it went a bit over average, getting $10,500, that was several thousand less than the management expected on the strength of the picture's showing elsewhere. The Fulton had a weak combination in "White Fang" and "Educating Father" and yanked the two pictures after six days to a terribly weak $2,900.

Total grosses in five first-run houses were $48,150. Average is $39,000.

Estimated takings for week ending Aug. 20:

"GIRLS' DORMITORY" (20th-Fox)

ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,250. (Average, $4,500)

"SPENDTHRIFT" (Para.)

WARNER—(2,000). 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $4,000)

"Scotland" Strong In Omaha at $5,800

Omaha, Aug. 23.—Playing as the only single bill in the city, "Mary of Scotland" last week delivered the strongest performance with $5,800 for eight days at the Brandeis. Average for seven is $3,500.

"Rhythm on the Range," with "Educating Father" as the second feature, held up strongly at the Omaha on a five-day holdover, grossing $5,800 as against an average $5,000.

Total first run grosses ran to $20,000. Aggregate average is $16,000.

Estimated takings:

4 Days Ending Aug. 17:

"RHYTHM ON THE RANGE" (Para.)

Cooperative

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—Taking a tip from the squirrels, Orpheum employes here each gave 25 cents a week during the winter, banked the sum. This summer they used the fund to rent a completely furnished cabin with maid at Newman Lake, popular water resort 24 miles from the city. On days off they live there. Willard Seale, assistant manager, promoted the project.

Hayward Cast by "U"

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Louis Hayward has been signed for the leading male role in "The Luckiest Girl in the World" at Universal. William Gargan and Spring Byington will also appear. Morrie Ryskind will produce and Eddie Buzzell will direct. Herbert Fields and Henry Meyers are now completing the screenplay.

Henry King on "Lloyd's"

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Henry King has been assigned to direct "Lloyd's of London" at Twentieth Century-Fox. Don Ameche will head a cast which will include, Gavin Muir, C. Aubrey Smith, and Sir Guy Standing. Kenneth MacGowan is associate producer. The screen play is by Ernest Pascal from an original story by Austin Kenyon.

Selznick Signs Flynn

Hollywood, Aug. 23. — David O. Selznick has signed Ray Flynn as production manager for "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," which will be the next Selznick-International production. Flynn was formerly an assistant director and unit manager with Twentieth Century-Fox.

Erwin in Football Yarn

Hollywood, Aug. 23—Stuart Erwin, on loan from M-G-M, has been assigned the comedy lead in "Pigskin Parade" at Twentieth Century-Fox. Production has already started with David Butler directing under the supervision of B. G. DeSylva. The cast also includes Jack Haley, Patsy Kelly, and the Yacht Club Boys.

"Scotland" on Dual, Leader In Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Aug. 23.—"Mary of Scotland" and "Love Begins at 20" were the week's winners on a dual bill at the Warner with a $10,000 take for nine days. Average business for this house is $5,000.

"To Mary—With Love" and "Meet Nero Wolfe" on a dual bill at Fox's Wisconsin were good for $8,500, just $500 above par. The Riverside with "The Final Hour" and the first edition of E. J. Weisfeldt's Follies on the stage, was the only other downtown house to break par, grossing $5,100, or just $100 over the line. Weather was warm.

Total first run business was $29,800. Average is $24,500.

Foreign Pool Patent Rights Void in 1945

Drake, Back Home, Tells Of Developments

Patent rights granted in various countries under the international sound patents pool in 1930 will become non-exclusive after 1945, according to Whitford Drake, executive vice-president of Erpi, who returned yesterday on the Queen Mary after spending seven weeks abroad.

Drake attended meetings held last month in Zurich, Switzerland, during which several questions in connection with patent rights were discussed, one of which was to terminate the 15-year pact on its expiration in 1945. Under the agreement reached patents listed before the agreement went into effect can be used non-exclusively in any country, Drake said. The sessions were adjourned to Aug. 27, when further meetings will be held in Berlin.

Another subject which came up at Zurich was the royalties on German

Photophone Girding For Equipment Drive

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 24.—RCA Photophone will launch an intensive drive to replace reproducing equipment now in use with its own High Fidelity. The drive is to be directed particularly at first runs and its selling keynote will be RCA's argument that new equipment is needed to give theatres full advantages of advanced recording as represented by the Photophone ultra violet method.

This plan will be divulged and discussed beginning Tuesday morning when Photophone sales representatives start meetings here with Edwin M. Hartley, sales manager, and James Frank, Jr., his assistant, who is in charge.

Phila. Unit Lining Up on Rental Fight

The United M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern Jersey and Delaware will hold a meeting in Philadelphia on Sept. 3 to protest high rentals, stated Lewen Pizor, president of the unit who was in New York yesterday.

In reply to a query, he declared the units which recently combined, will retain their affiliation with the national M. P. T. O. A.

Erpi Gives Demonstration Of New Mirrophonic Sound

By RED KANN

Erpi roamed the field of sound yesterday and, by selectivity predicated on various types of recorded material to illustrate its various points, demonstrated what it is about to launch as Mirrophonic Sound. The coined trade name conveys its own description.

Mirrophonic Sound, it was explained, before and during a 30 minute sample show at the Venice Theatre, confines itself to reproduction and, as such of course, has its direct application to exhibition. What it is, how it works and how applied are explained in an adjoining column.

On the basis of what was imparted to this observer's ears and with no knowledge of the technical features which enter into the system, the impression was that Mirrophonic represents an improvement over Wide Range. It appeared that the sound was clearer, more brilliant and more resonant, with more values than probably have prevailed until now in the lower and higher frequencies. Mirrophonic does not increase the range of those frequencies, but it does wring

By SHERWIN A. KANE

The new Western Electric Mirrophonic sound system, for which Erpi claims a truer sound reproduction in all parts of the theatre than that achieved by sound systems now in use, was studied for the first time yesterday by the curious and critical eyes and ears of the New York trade.

The new equipment was placed on exhibit at the Hotel Pierre in connection with Erpi's first convention of its national sales force which gets under way at the hotel today and will continue through Thursday. Simultaneously, demonstrations of the new system were given throughout yesterday afternoon at the Venice, 7th Ave. and 58th St.

Erpi and Bell Laboratory technicians were on hand at the exhibit to take interested visitors on personally conducted tours through the intricacies of sound recording and into the Mirrophonic-equipped theatre. In explaining the new reproducer system, these attributed its advances toward better sound reproduction primarily to a perfected kinetic scanner which, it is claimed, assures a constant velocity

Fox Theatres Assets Valued at 9 Million

A formal report of Milton C. Weisman, as receiver of Fox Theatres Corp., covering a period of six months preceding June 30, 1936, was filed in Federal Court yesterday. The assets are stated as $10,134,462. Liabilities are listed at the same figure. However, the receiver's valuation of the assets is placed at $9,619,313. One item in the assets is $7,500,000 as claims against William Fox. Weissman estimated that the provable items aggregate approximately $15,000,000 in claims against William Fox, but he explained that for present purposes

Loew May Get Back Penn in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Loew's may resume operation of the Penn on Wednesday, it is learned. The theatre is being operated by the preferred stockholders, who took it over when Loew's stepped out over differences on a reduction in rent.

The preferred stockholders are negotiating with the landlord of the theatre for a cut in rent. In the event a deal is made, the security holders will turn the house over to Loew's, on a guaranteed graduated rental, plus a percentage of the gross. This is expected Wednesday.

"Romeo" $12,150 in Its First Four Days

With $12,150 grossed in the first four days, indications are that "Romeo and Juliet" is in for a lengthy stay at the Astor on a two-a-day policy. Standing room has been prevalent at all shows since the Shakespearean film opened. About $1,000 worth of tickets were sold for the first night, most of the house having been set aside for critics, M-G-M executives and their friends. Business for Friday, Saturday and Sunday totaled $11,150.

Warners Feel Way on Raises In Admissions

Advances Being Tried On "Adverse" Showings

Warners will feel its way on admission increases in the circuit's theatres throughout the country before hiking price scales, it was stated yesterday.

With "Anthony Adverse'' as the first picture, prices at theatres showing the picture are being boosted. At the New York Strand the "early bird" admission has been raised to 40 cents from 25 cents with a 99-cent admission charge at night on week-ends.

At Atlantic City the admission has been upped from 55 cents to 65 cents during the run of "Anthony Adverse." At the Boyd, Philadelphia, 11 cents has been added to the previous evening price.

While circuit officials are strongly in favor of increasing the charge of admission at this time, it is felt that a blanket ruling at this time would be out of order, inasmuch as some sec-

About 430 Theatres Admitting Juveniles

Approximately 430 of the 600 eligible theatres in New York already have been licensed to admit children without guardians, it was learned yesterday. Each of the theatres has a special matron, licensed by the Dept. of Health, to look after the juveniles who are seated in special sections.

Some of the unlicensed theatres which have admitted children have been summoned for violating the Stand Act.

The subject is scheduled to be discussed at the I. T. O. A. meeting tomorrow at the Astor.

F. & M. Revamps Its Setup in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—In a realignment of the local F. & M. setup, Harry C. Arthur, Jr., has appointed Charles E. Kurtzman, former manager of the Ambassador, as director of exploitation and promotion for the circuit. Each manager will handle his own advertising under the new plan.

Ralph McGowan, who is managing the Orpheum and Studio in Salt Lake City for F. & M., on Sept. 4 will take over the reins of the local St. Louis, which will reopen on that date with a

Reargument Allowed For "Zombies" Case

Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday granted a motion for a reargument of the motion made by Melvin Hirsch as assignee of Melbert Pictures, Inc.

The court said that upon reconsideration the decision of the original motion was modified as follows: "Leave to the assignee to exhibit the picture formerly entitled "Revolt of the Zombies" under the title "Revolt of the Demons" is denied without prejudice because the court does not feel called upon to determine on this motion whether or not such exhibition would constitute a violation of the pending injunction. The assignee is given leave to continue the assignor business for a 30-day period in conjunction with a co-assignee to be appointed by this court upon consent of the parties."

School Under Water

"Neptune's Scholars" is Grantland Rice's newest Sportlight film, for August release. A pretty little short all taken under water, it was shot at Silver Springs, Fla., using a cast of local mermaids trained by Newton Perry, the burly "Neptune" shown at the lower right. To keep from floating aloft, the girls wore weighted belts and clutched their desks. Continuity was remarkably conserved in 30-second "takes." The action includes eating apples and getting a drink from the water-cooler.

Fox Theatres Units Formed in Delaware

Wilmington, Aug. 24.—Fox Estes Theatre Corp., Fox New Mexico Theatre Corp., Fox Ogden Theatre Corp., Fox Big Horn Theatre Corp., Fox Rainbow Theatre Corp. and Fox Lincoln Theatre Corp. have been incorporated at Dover to deal in photographic films of all kinds. Each listed capital of $1,000. Incorporators were R. J. Gorman, Charles N. Caldwell and Wellington Francisco, all of the U. S. Corporation, New York.

A representative of Hughes, Schurman & Dwight, attorneys for National Theatres, yesterday explained that the new companies have not been formed to take over new properties, but because of intercorporate reorganization which has been brought about by reason of the new Federal revenue act.

The move is regarded as "technical and not important." The reason for including "photographic films" in the papers was to make the charters very broad, as is the rule, it was stated.

Radio Stars at Preview

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Swing Time"

(Radio)

Hollywood, Aug. 24.—The best of the Astaire-Rogers films to date, "Swing Time" means a golden boom at the box offices. The film seems much shorter than its 100 minutes because of the featherweight quality achieved by the brilliant balance of comedy, music, dancing and the plot, none of which is over-emphasized and none slighted.

Astaire plays the hoofer who is unable to resist the urge to gamble for either love or money while his fiancee, Betty Furness, waits at the church. The boys of the chorus bet he will not be married and trick him out of his pants to make the wager good with the result that her stern papa banishes him until he returns with $25,000. With nothing but a lucky quarter, he hops a rattler to New York, where an encounter with the most unwilling Ginger Rogers fires his chance-taking spirits and he starts in pursuit, though she is tentatively engaged to Georges Metaxa. Gambling for everything in sight, Astaire wins the night club, Metaxa's contract and Miss Rogers, but not without a series of hilarious disasters.

The Jerome Kern music and the sparkling lyrics by Dorothy Fields, effortlessly introduced, aid in carrying the plot forward and provide exploitation angles par excellence. Much praised will be "Bojangles" of the Harlem number, in which Astaire does a brilliant tap routine accompanied by three silhouetted shadows which provide delighted laughter in devising different routines at the end and finally walking off. "Waltz in Swing Time" is a great dance tune. "Pick Yourself Up," "The Way You Look Tonight," "This Is a Swell Romance" and the blue and haunting "Never Gonna Dance" all are individual hits and should gain popularity.

Victor Moore, as the mild but ever ready card sharp, scores heavily teamed with Helen Broderick as the respective pals of the leads. Eric Blore as the harassed manager of a dance academy builds a smaller part into continuous laughs. Betty Furness handles the part of the fiancee with charming lightness. Georges Metaxa does the cast-off suitor with admirable suavity.

The story by Erwin Gelsey and the screen play by Howard Lindsay and Allan Scott never lag. They have closely-knit unity and laughs, divided equally between situation and dialogue, given sure emphasis by the direction of George Stevens. Additional high praise goes to Hermes Pan, the dance director; Nathaniel Shilkret, musical director; Van Nest Polglase and John Harkrider, art directors, and David Abel and Vernon Walker, photographers.

Emphasize the smoother sophistication as opposed to the tough overtones of "Follow the Fleet" comedy and romance, because the songs will exploit themselves.

"The Tenth Man"

(Associated British)

London, Aug. 17.—Adapted from Somerset Maugham's play, "The Tenth Man" deals with the adventures in romance, finance and politics of an unscrupulous financial wizard and politician. It is a convincing story with plenty of incident and suspense and well lightened by comedy. The tragic finale will be regretted by many audiences and will cause controversy, although it is obviously inevitable.

John Lodge gives a magnificent portrayal of the ruthless business magnate. The title refers to the quotation "Nine out of ten men are either knaves or fools" and the story proceeds to the inevitable tenth man who appears to expose the financier's shady dealings just as he reaches the height of his ambitions. Rather than face exposure, he prefers suicide. The English electioneering and polling scenes are well done, providing comedy, excitement and suspense. The settings are lavish and the women beautifully if somewhat too extravagantly dressed. A lilting song, "Night Must Fall," is injected into the picture and should surely prove a winner.

Brian Desmond Hurst directed this forceful dramatic offering.

Running time, 70 minutes. "A."

Short Subjects

"The Backyard Broadcast"

(Vitaphone)

Those talented kids again. In this short they do another burlesque of Major Bowes' program and with childishly delivered dialogue the slight story transports them into a night club settting where they go through their paces. The acts are well done in their childish style. There is a myriad assortment of musical and dancing turns. It is quite entertaining and, of course, it will find favor with the youngsters. Production Code Seal No. 01024. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Boy, Oh Boy"

(Educational)

Plenty of laughs in this one. Bert Lahr is the butler who holds a winning sweepstakes ticket. His fiancee, the cook, gets the ticket and gives it to the chauffeur as security for money Lahr owes him. The people who employ the trio try to sell them a share in a gold mine scheme and much comedy and merriment takes place before the piece ends. It is another treatment of the sweepstakes winner story, but it unreels as effective entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 01,122. Running time, 18 minutes. "G."

"Disputed Decisions"

(Columbia)

There should be a noticeable reaction when this short is shown. The more prominent of the disputes of the past few years are given in both regular and slow motion showing highlights of the questionable event. Yacht racing, rowing, running and football are a few that make up the list. The film should be pleasing. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

"The Poets of the Organ"

(Vitaphone)

Jesse and Mrs. Crawford at the twin controls of a fine instrument render in their fashion such familiar numbers as "Valencia," "The Rose in Her Hair," "Masquerade" and a few others. Robert Simmons handles a vocally romantic bit nicely. It is a charming piece of musical entertainment. Mrs. Crawford renders in solo, "Butterflies in the Rain," which is projected in excellent montage. Production Code Seal No. 0849. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Alpine Rendezvous"

Set in a Swiss inn near the top of a mountain, this effort with its musical and comic interludes should make the grade as hearty, melodious entertainment. The numbers are rendered by Ray Halle, the Fox Brothers, The Buccaneers, and Wilf Carter. The main vocal efforts are yodeling, drinking songs and a dialect version of "Home on the Range." It is pleasant. Production Code Seal No. 0875. Running time, 9½ minutes. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"It Couldn't Have Happened"

(Invincible)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—This is a light comedy-mystery which will please audiences not too exacting in their demands for a logical reason for murders and their solution. Two killings take place early in the picture and the balance of the film, with the exception of the last two minutes, is devoted to explaining the impossibility of committing the crime. In the final minutes the murderer is captured, although no motive for the killings is established.

Principal characters are Reginald Denny, a writer of stage mysteries; Inez Courtney, secretary to Claude King, and Bryant Washburn, who are both victims of Crauford Kent, who is disclosed as the killer; Jack LaRue, a gangster, and Evelyn Brent, wife of King, who is indirectly responsible for the crimes because of the jealousy she arouses amongst her various suitors.

Comedy is introduced by Miss Courtney, who, with the assistance of LaRue, goads Denny into solving the mystery after Robert Homans, police lieutenant, has failed. Also included in the cast are Hugh Marlowe, Miki Morita and Emily LaRue, who appear briefly. Phil Rosen directed and Arthur T. Horman wrote the screen play. The production, supervised by Herbert S. Cohen, is suitable for the market for which the picture is aimed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,493. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Lion's Den"

(Puritan)

There is excitement, action and suspense in this western starring Tim McCoy. The story contains a good degree of novelty, deviating from the routine.

McCoy is doing a sharpshooting act in a night club when the piece gets under way. He attracts the attention of Joan Woodbury and her father, visiting rachers. Shortly after he saves the family bankroll from the city slickers and takes a proffered job at the ranch. On his arrival at the Texas cattle town he is mistaken for a notorious gunman. Capitalizing on the incident he allies himself with crooked mortgage foreclosers who, after he makes good on his assumed identity, place him at the head of the "shock" gang. Playing on the side of the law and at the same time stringing along with the opposition, he eventually buys Miss Woodbury's ranch when it is auctioned with the proceeds derived from rounding up the outlaws. He presents it to the heroine. The story moves lively on its clever way. There are twists and turns which make effective and pleasant entertainment.

Sam Newfield directed. The screen play was fashioned by L. V. Jefferson from an original by Jack Neville. The supporting cast includes Don Barclay, Frank Glendon and John Merton.

Production Code Seal No. 2,214. Running time, 59 minutes. "G."

Biedermann Gets Seven

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—Dave Biedermann of Selected Pictures has signed for the release of the following Twickenham films: "The Phantom Fiend," "The Triumph of Sherlock Holmes," "The Last Journey," "The Private Secretary" with Edward Everett Horton; "Daredevils of the Earth," with Ida Lupino; "Scandals of Paris," with Wendy Barrie, and "Wolves of the Underworld."

pictures released in this country. Tobis Klangfilm has asked a downward readjustment on the royalties paid to American companies. Drake said that nothing could be done until he confers with American producers.

In the original contract, the language referring to the country of jurisdiction was not settled At the recent meeting, however, this point was cleared up and England has been named as the country, the Erpi executive asserted.

Among unsettled points to be taken up at the Berlin gathering will be certain rights regarding patents of Companie Francaise Thomson Houston in France, British Thomson Houston in England and Phillips in Holland, Drake said. He will not attend the conference, but one of the company's foreign executives will be present.

Wm. Bach Made Manager

While in England, Drake signed two important deals. One was with the Submarine Cable Mfg. Co. The other was with Amalgamated Studios for recording equipment. He also installed William A. Bach as managing director for Erpi in England. Bach succeeded Robert Hatfield, who has returned to this country.

Although Erpi is not involved in the question of how royalties are to be paid Tobis Klangfilm by American companies, Drake stated a deal set last year whereby American companies can pay from revenues of their German offices is awaiting approval by the German government.

The Erpi executive vice-president said the company is reducing its service charges in this country to meet the prices of its competitors. He said the company has made several deals of this kind where large circuits are using other equipment in addition to Western Electric.

Erpi Gives Demonstration Of New Mirrophonic Sound

By RED KANN

from those already lodged in the sound track better results, according to Erpi.

The tests on display, it was asserted further, all were drawn from material previously, not especially, recorded for demonstration purposes. First was part of "Dark Eyes," the Russian folk song; this was designed to demonstrate the range of overtones from plucked strings. Illustrating the use of modern percussion instruments and Cuban drums were excerpts from "La Cucuracha," while the "Second Connecticut Regiment March," played by the Goldman band, was picked to illustrate the volume and intensity of brass instruments. This constituted the blank screen portion of the program.

Tap Dancing Recorded

A test recording of Eleanor Powell doing a tap dance was visual, as well as audible. Erpi, in this instance, hailed the clip as arresting in that "the sharpness of the taps indicates a degree of synchronism which is a recent scientific achievement now contributed by Mirrophonic." How much exactly of a scientific achievement is for one of that bent to ascertain. It is definitely a fact, however, that the taps were sharp and incisive.

Scenes from the conclusion of "The Green Pastures" were shown to remove objectionable noises in order to sustain the illusion required in the so-called visionary type of picture. From the three-year-old "Krakatao," came flashes highlighted by the volcanic eruption from the bed of the sea; they were decidedly impressive. This went for the beginning of the earthquake episode in "San Francisco" as well. On the volume side, Mirrophonic is impressive.

Musical Reproduction Stressed

Introductory title music from "Anthony Adverse" delved into another angle. The music was interesting and of tonal quality, but failed to create a new high in this commentator's reactions, at least. The "Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" number from the first half of "The Great Ziegfeld" was selected to represent the ultimate in the two senses—eye and ear. The ultimate is reaching for a great deal, but this phase of the demonstration was decidedly good.

The drawback was the handicap given the auditor for obviously impossible hurdling. He was asked to conclude that Mirrophonic represented an emphatic advance, but given no standard, such as earlier or current values in reproduction by, which to compare. Erpi's demonstration would have been far more effective, may be even startling, if this had been arranged.

By SHERWIN KANE

of the film at the scanning point, thereby eliminating all traces of "flutter," or the common sound distortions caused by variations in the speed of the film.

With a faithful sound reproduction attained at this point, the Mirrophonic system embodies an improved type of high-powered amplifier with the new di-phonic speaker system with its separate horns for high and low frequencies. A separate unit, known as the "harmonic suppressor," the new amplifier is able to deliver undistorted power in which the maximum volume may exceed the faintest sound by more than one hundred million times, Erpi technicians assert.

Simplicity of operation is one of the major claims for the amplifier put forth by its manufacturer. The units run entirely on A. C., permitting all parts of the circuit requiring adjustment to be checked by means of a selector switch associated with a "percentage meter," that is, a meter whose scale is graduated to read percentages of the normal or correct value, which is taken as 100 per cent. Thus, the manufacturer asserts, all that is required is to adjust the system controls so that the meter reads 100 per cent on each part of the circuit that needs to be checked.

Reproducer in Two Sets

The di-phonic speaker is designed to reproduce sound in both upper and lower frequency ranges. The upper range is handled by cellular high-frequency horns to achieve even distribution throughout the theatre. The low-frequency speakers are of the dished-baffle type as a cellular subdivision to obtain low frequency sound distribution.

The Mirrophonic reproducer is made in two sets, standard and heavy duty. The latter is described as a de luxe type of unusually durable construction adaptable to any further refinements in sound reproduction which may come from the laboratory in the next four or five years. The drive of the heavy duty set is from a motor built into the front of the unit, the gears of which run in oil for silent operation. Grease leakage in the projector drive is claimed to have been eliminated through a new grooved pump. The film pulling mechanism, or the new type of kinetic scanner, employs an oil damped velocity control. The narrow scanning beam has been superseded by a refinement known as the "optical bridge," in which an image of the illuminated sound track magnified 10 times is projected on a slit 12 mils wide, facilitating adjustment and maintenance and providing increased illumination for the photo-electric cell, thus making possible a higher output.

All Lubrication Automatic

The exciting lamp is operated from a separate power unit, which tends to eliminate noise at this point. Ball bearings are used throughout and all lubrication is automatic. Repairs and replacements are said to be facilitated by interchangeable motors and automatic projector alignment. The latter permits of removing a projector and replacing it again without any need for readjusting the picture on the screen.

An advantage of the system, according to Erpi, is that any one or more of its units may be installed separately, making it possible for the exhibitor who, for one reason or another does not care to undertake the expense of a complete installation at one time, to install single units over a period of time.

Newsreel Apparatus Shown

In addition to the new reproducer set, the Erpi exhibit includes a new portable recording system and a portable channel for newsreel work. The latter weighs 88 pounds, complete, and is compact enough to be carried with camera in the baggage compartment of a small coupe. It makes its sound record on the same film used for the picture and, it is claimed, can be set up for operation in three minutes. Other new recording apparatus on display includes an amplifier designed for newsreel use; a small, non-directional dynamic microphone and a new monitoring headset.

Displays of both reproducing and recording accessories, as well as public address equipment, are on view. There are also exhibits illustrating the service work and the acoustic activities of Erpi. The exhibits have been conveniently arranged in the hotel ballroom, which has been given a theatre front for an entrance-way, and within projection booths have been set up and furnished with the new equipment.

C. W. Bunn, Erpi general sales manager, will open the business sessions of the national sales meeting today. About 75 home office and field men of the organization will be in attendance.

Houston House Opened

HOUSTON, Aug. 24.—Interstate Theatres, Inc., has opened the fifth suburban theatre here and the eighth in the Interstate group in this city. The latest is the Bluebonnet, leased from E. C. Newton and redecorated, air conditioned and equipped with acoustically treated walls.

E. C. Newton, who opened the house 10 years ago, remains as manager.

Cubans' Bill Would Require Vaudeville

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Some members of the Cuban Congress have drawn up a bill to require vaudeville acts with all film shows, according to reports to the Dept. of Commerce from Assistant Commercial Attache Charles H. Ducotel at Havana.

According to the terms of the bill, the acts would be shown at least once a day and the cost would be divided between exhibitors and film distributors. Municipalities would appoint inspectors to see that the measure is enforced.

Roncoroni Starts Survey

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—Carlo Roncoroni, head of Premier Mussolini's proposed Italian studios, is here for a study of the coast studios after which will be patterned the projected plant in Italy.

Roncoroni stated today that he will purchase American sound equipment while on the coast.

"Waltz" for Salt Lake

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 24.—Max Gordon's "The Great Waltz," on a coast to coast tour, has been tentatively dated at the Paramount here for January by Harry David, general manager of Intermountain Theatres.

Banks Injured in Italy

CREMONA, Italy, Aug. 24.—Monte Banks, director, was slightly injured when his automobile collided with another on the road to Venice.

"Glory" Smash Chicago Draw With $22,500

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Grosses hit the high spots on the Loop last week, with "Road to Glory" out front at the Roosevelt where the $22,500 total was $11,500 over normal.

"To Mary—with Love" gave the Chicago the biggest second week in its history, $37,000. This was $5,000 above par for a first week.

"Mary of Scotland" was $3,000 to the good on a take of $21,000 at the Palace in its second week. "The Great Ziegfeld," showing at 60 cents top at the United Artists, went to $21,000, on the profit side of the ledger to the tune of $6,000. "San Francisco" was still strong in its third week at the Apollo with $5,400, and "Crash Donovan," with a stage show at the State-Lake, was big at $15,700.

Rudy Vallee drew 100,000 to Grant Park Monday night, but business was strong in spite of this competition.

Total first run business was $148,500. Average is $115,000.

Form Special "U" Pool

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—Dave Miller, local Universal branch manager, together with four other Universal branch managers who at one time were members of Miller's sales force when Miller was branch manager in Buffalo, have been made up a pool of $250 each as prizes in addition to the Universal prizes in the fall Universal sales drive. The five offices in the pool will compete for this prize. Participating, in addition to Miller of Cleveland are Nate Sauber, Buffalo; Pete Dana, Albany; Al Barnett, Pittsburgh, and Jerry Spandau, Des Moines.

Seeks to Halt Police

DENVER, Aug. 24.—Following three different raids on the Sun, Roy Wennberg has filed an injunction suit in district court to stop the Denver police from interfering with the operation of the theatre. In his complaint Wennberg asserts that he was arrested following each of these raids and charged with running a lottery, but was acquitted in each instance. The complaint says that the house is now closed on police orders.

Picket Kansas House

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 24.—The non-union Ritz, operated by E. Van Hyning at Parsons, Kan., now has 10 pickets active in front of the house. Unions in Parsons will boycott merchants who buy advertising on Van Hyning's screen. Pickets are talking to patrons as they go in, attempting to dissuade them from entering, and in a small town where almost everyone knows almost everyone else, this is real pressure.

"Jury" with Marxes High Frisco Draw

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—"Grand Jury," helped by the Marx Brothers on the stage at the Golden Gate, turned in a fancy $28,000. This was $12,000 over par.

In spite of this heavy competition "Ecstacy" went to $7,000 at the Embassy and "San Francisco" was $1,000 up on a take of $8,000 at the St. Francis in its fourth week. "To Mary—with Love" and "36 Hours to Kill" at the Warfield pulled a strong $16,000.

Total first run business was $97,950. Average is $78,200.

"Wife" High In Slump at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—The bright spot of a dull week was the Stanley, where "His Brother's Wife" came through with $19,000. It was the only one of the three films opening between August 12-22 to equal average business.

The Earle had the opening of "My American Wife" and slipped a bit below average with $11,500. "36 Hours to Kill" drooped at the Stanton for $4,900. In a 10-day period no other picture opened.

"To Mary—with Love" got an extra three days at the Boyd before that theatre closed for the installation of new sound equipment. Holdovers and second runs ruled the schedule, with the Fox doing $15,000 on the second week of "Rhythm on the Range."

Total first run business was $56,800. Average is $69,800.

Taxes High, Whale Drops English Film

Because of high taxes in England, James Whale will not direct any pictures there, he stated yesterday on his return from a three-month holiday abroad.

Whale had a deal on to do a picture for one of the British companies, but when he learned of a $3.50 tax on every $5 earned, he declined the offer.

The tax situation in this country also has the director limiting his efforts to two pictures a year, he declared. He will leave for the coast tomorrow to report on the Universal lot where he is scheduled to direct "Time Out of Mind."

Following this, he has plans for directing Charles Laughton in "Good Bye Mr. Chips" for M-G-M. However, Laughton is expected to be delayed in England. As soon as the star finishes "Rembrandt," he will begin work in "I Claudius," for Alexander Korda, the director said.

Whale made several tests and saw three plays. Of the plays, he expects to negotiate for one, the other two, he believes, having already been sold to film companies.

Bob Taylor's Boston Draw Such As It Is

Boston, Aug. 24.—It was sweltering here over the weekend. Six thousand lawyer-members of the American Bar Ass'n. are here on a 10-day convention, but the best first runs could do was to maintain average business. At least, there were no serious dips under average.

Such as it was, the best performance of last week goes to "His Brother's Wife" because of Robert Taylor. Playing day and date at Loew's Orpheum and State, the former house nabbed $13,500 as compared with a $12,000 norm. The State evened off at an average $11,000.

The Metropolitan held its own with Will Osborne and his band on stage and "Girls' Dormitory" on the screen taking $23,000. The RKO Memorial playing holdover "Mary of Scotland" did well with $12,000. Total first run business for week $79,200. Average is $79,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"RHYTHM ON THE RANGE" (Para.)
"GIRL OF THE OZARKS" (Para.)
FENWAY—(1,382), 30c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $4,500)

Hecht, MacArthur To Start "Heights"

Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht will immediately begin work on the script of "Wuthering Heights" for Walter Wanger, the former stated yesterday upon his arrival with his wife, Helen Hayes, from England and a vacation.

The two writers plan to spend the next six weeks on the screenplay. Sylvia Sidney and Charles Boyer will be co-starred.

MacArthur stated he has just completed the third script for Paramount under a contract signed about a year and a half ago. No title has been set. MacArthur said he did not go to England on a deal with G.B.

Miss Hayes is through with the screen, her husband declared. She makes more money on the stage than in pictures which, according to MacArthur, is the prime reason for her decision. The star will reappear in "Victoria Regina," which will reopen at the Broadhurst on Aug. 31.

Reopen Arkansas House

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 24.—The remodeled Strand has reopened with "Lady of Secrets" and "Hell Ship Morgan" on its first bill. Mrs. J. L. Howe and Erwin Wheatley are the owners and operators.

"Piccadilly" Only Grosser in Houston

Houston, Aug. 24.—Hot weather held grosses down, but "Piccadilly Jim," opening at Loew's State to a slow start picked up to $7,350. Normal is $7,000.

"Girls' Dormitory" was just under the wire with $7,000 at the Metropolitan, and "Mary of Scotland" at the Majestic proved a disappointment with a normal take of $7,000.

"And Sudden Death" at the Kirby three days took up the loss from "Fatal Lady" and "High Tension" to give this theatre a par week of $5,000.

Temperatures continued high over the state. Only the beaches gave pictures any competition, and the hot weather discouraged the 25- and 50-mile drive to the bay and Gulf resorts.

Total first run business was $26,350. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"AND SUDDEN DEATH" (Para.)

Heat, Plus Racing, Wreck Providence

Providence, Aug. 24.—Terrific heat and the opening of racing at Narragansett made deep inroads into attendance at theatres with the result that the Strand was the only house in the downtown belt to go over par. "Yours for the Asking" and "Fatal Lady" caught $6,900, bettering the average take by $400.

"Piccadilly Jim" and "Legong" at Loew's was down from the usual take of $12,000 by $3,000 and the Majestic brought in $6,000 with "Satan Met a Lady" and "Love Begins at 20." The usual gross is $7,000. "There's Always Tomorrow" and vaudeville at Fay's collected $4,200, under by $2,800.

The RKO Albee in its next to last week of legitimate shows caught about $8,000 with "Three Men on a Horse."

Total first run business was $26,100. Average is $32,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"THERE'S ALWAYS TOMORROW"
(Univ.)
FAYS—(1,600), 15c-40c, 7 days. On stage: Vaudeville. Gross: $4,200. (Average, $7,000)

Rathbone, Bruce Arrive

London, Aug. 24.—Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce and Marc Connelly arrived today on the Normandie.

"Scotland" Up With $15,000 At Cleveland

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—"Mary of Scotland," with a gross of $15,000 at Warners' Hippodrome, came within $1,000 of doubling the house weekly average. It was moved to the Allen for a second week.

"His Brother's Wife" was another big box-office attraction. It grossed $20,000 at Loew's State where $12,000 is par. The picture went to the Stillman for another week downtown.

"Rhythm on the Range," at Loew's Stillman following a good week at the State, had an average week with a total of $6,000.

"The Crime of Dr. Forbes" at the Allen, with the Louis-Sharkey fight pictures the last three days of the run, had a $3,750 take, which was just under the $4,000 average. "Secret Agent," plus seven acts of vaudeville, made a fair showing with $11,500 at the RKO Palace where $15,000 is par.

The weather was hot, but there was no rain. The Great Lakes Exposition continues to draw more than 30,000 people downtown daily.

Total first run business was $56,250. Average is $45,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending August 21:

"THE CRIME OF DR. FORBES"
(20th-Fox)
ALLEN—(3,300), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days. Louis-Sharkey fight pictures added attraction last two days. Gross: $3,750. (Average, $4,000)

Cleveland to Get 3 Big Films at Once

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—The week of September 6 will be the biggest film week here in years. Screen attractions that week will be "Romeo and Juliet" at the Hanna, "Anthony Adverse" at Warners' Hippodrome and "The Great Ziegfeld" at Loew's State.

Prices all along the line will be hiked. "Romeo and Juliet" will play a roadshow engagement at $2 top. Prices for "Anthony Adverse" will be 35, 42 and 55 cents, instead of the regular house scale of 30, 35 and 42 cents. Loew's will raise prices for "The Great Ziegfeld," but the scale has not yet been set.

Use Film in London Television Showing

London, Aug. 24.—The first television broadcasts to the Radio Olympia will be largely films with a documentary item entitled "Cover To Cover," tracing the development of writing, as a big feature. Trailers by London Films and G.B. will also be shown. A press preview showed a remarkably flickerless picture. It was stated at the broadcast that the first receivers will be marketed immediately at £90 to £100.

Radio Effect Upon Grosses Being Studied

Hays Office Is Getting Figures for Analysis

Gross receipts records are being submitted by affiliated circuits here for analyzing by the M.P.P.D.A. in connection with the current attempt to study the effects of radio appearances of outstanding stars in competition with the showing of films in which they appear.

A Hays office spokesman estimated that it would require another 10 days to complete the analysis of the figures being submitted. He said that only affiliated theatres selected because of a direct relation between themselves and an important radio broadcasting station using the programs on which film stars appear were being asked to submit their records of receipts. No independent theatres have been asked for this information, it was said.

Some doubt was expressed as to the conclusiveness of the evidence which the figures will show. It was pointed out that variances in the grosses could not be attributed solely to the radio

Dinner for Rodgers Being Planned Here

Local major and independent circuit heads on Sept. 29 will tender William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, a banquet at the Waldorf. Rodgers returned yesterday from a trip to the coast and Chicago.

On the committee on arrangements are Joseph Bernhard, Nate J. Blumberg, Laurence S. Bolognino, George P. Skouras, Edward Grainger, Harry Brandt, Arthur L. Mayer, Si Fabian, Sam Dembow, Sam D. Cocalis, Charles Moses, Lee W. Newbury, Arthur M. Rapf, Walter Reade, Sam Rinzler, Leon Rosenblatt, Edward M. Rugoff, Harry Shiffman, Joseph M. Seider and Jack W. Springer.

Producers to Talk Over School Films

Plans will be perfected by the Producers' Ass'n in Hollywood for the allotment of funds appropriated by the Rockefeller Foundation for the production of a series of character building films for use in schools and universities. Preliminary discussions were held on the coast recently by Will H. Hays and Gabriel L. Hess, M.P.P.D.A. attorney. Hess returned to his office here yesterday.

Says Sound Gained 80 Million in '29

The development of sound increased box-office receipts $80,000,000 in the peak year of theatre business—1929, C. W. Bunn, Erpi general sales manager, told the company's sales force at the opening business session of Erpi's first national sales convention at the Hotel Pierre yesterday.

Erpi's profit for 1929 was $5,000,000, Bunn said. The receipts for the year cited, as well as the equipment company's profit, have receded subsequently, Bunn pointed out. He said that the principles of Western Electric's new Mirrophonic system were known in the Bell Laboratories three years ago, but development of the units was held up until exhibitor demand and purchasing power warranted its commercial introduction. This was manifest a year ago, Bunn said, and technicians have been busy perfecting the equipment since.

The morning session was given over to an inspection of the new Western Electric Mirrophonic sound system and other new Erpi sound developments being exhibited during the meeting. Following Bunn's address the business session was recessed in mid-afternoon for demonstrations of the Mirrophonic equipment at the Venice, 7th Ave. and 58th St. A dinner party was staged for the conventioneers at the Riviera last night.

H. G. Knox, Erpi vice-president,

Says Producers See Need for New Sound

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 25.—Hollywood engineers are conscious of the need for uniform sound recording characteristics to insure adequate reproduction over proper equipment in theatres and are getting together to further the objective, Edwin M. Hartley, RCA Photophone sales manager, told his assembled sales force from all over the United States today.

Insofar as theatres are concerned,

All Eyes Shifty

Chicago, Aug. 25.—They're photographing eyes with a new kind of camera here now and find everybody has shifty looks. In fact, according to Dr. Brant Clark of the University of Southern California, each eye takes turns looking at things.

What's more, the doctor says, nobody is left-eyed or right-eyed. Neither is dominant.

Production Falls Off; 42 on Stages

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Although six new films were started, a number of pictures were finished and sent to the cutting rooms to register a decline in the production pace during the week.

The drop was from 51 features in work for the week preceding to 42. Cutting rooms were working at full speed on 52 features. Twenty-three were in preparation. Only two short subjects were before the cameras.

The six started were: "Theodora Goes Wild" at Columbia. "Under Your Spell" and "Lloyds of London" at Twentieth Century-Fox, "Love Under Fire," Samuel Goldwyn, and

Skouras Discusses Exhibition Values

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—Assigning proper value to a picture and then getting all that value out of it at the box-office through proper booking, dating, running time, etc., was discussed by Spyros Skouras in the sessions of Fox theatre men here today. The increased value of pictures creates the necessity for better exhibition, he added.

Fox theatre executives met alone today to take up contract details, a more thorough knowledge of which by

Delay Action on Ending Broadway "Early Birds"

The scheduled meeting of local major and independent circuit heads to discuss elimination of "early bird" admissions and adoption of a 5 P. M. evening scale on Broadway was yesterday delayed indefinitely, but the plan is not imperiled.

Some of the exhibitor leaders who attended a general conclave at C. C. Moskowitz's office about three weeks ago have not completed their recommendations for instituting the plan on Broadway. A number of theatre men have already worked out a program but are awaiting responses from all parties before calling another gathering.

However, the neighborhood houses are prepared to adopt the "early bird"

Soviet Plans 450 for Next Year's Output

Verlinsky, Amkino Head, Describes Expansion

The Soviet M. P. Industry, government controlled, which plans to produce 300 features this year, will increase this number to 450 next year, V. I. Verlinsky, president of Amkino, asserted yesterday following his return from an 11-week trip to Moscow, where he looked over the studios and conferred with Russian producers.

In the southern part of Crimea a new studio center is being developed, Verlinsky said. It will be known as the Soviet Movie City and it is expected to be completed by 1938. According to present plans, 200 features a year will be made there, the Amkino head stated.

Of the 100 pictures he saw, Verlinsky has decided to import 12 to supplement the previous 13 on Amkino's current releasing schedule. Among the dozen will be "Nightingale—Nightingale," the first all-color Soviet film in two-color process; "Prisoners," "Der Kampf," "Son of Mongolia," made in Mongolia with all na-

Imperial Adopts New Distribution System

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Imperial Pictures has abandoned distribution of its product, which consists of 30 features, through states rights exchanges and will release its 1936-37 program through its nation-wide franchised booking offices for direct contact with theatre circuits.

Clifford Sanforth, executive producer for Imperial, today received word of the new setup from William Pizor, president of the company, who is in New York but who is expected on the coast this week.

The new policy, declared Sanforth,

Warners Ask Change In Answer to Suit

Counsel for Warners and the Stanley Co. of America will make a motion in N. Y. Supreme Court this morning for permission to serve an amended answer to the suit brought by James H. Adamson for $3,232. Adamson charges that the defendants breached an agreement to install theatre chairs made by the Superior Seating Co. in the Grand, Pittsburgh.

In denying the allegations counsel for the defendants said that they had learned certain facts which indicate that prior to the beginning of this suit, Adamson transferred to the Superior Seating Co. all his rights to the alleged cause of action set forth in the complaint. The defendants desire to incorporate this evidence in their answer.

Davis Off for London

H. J. Davis, managing director of Associated News Theatres, Ltd., Monseigneur News Theatres, Ltd., and Cinema Signs, Ltd., left for London yesterday via Boston and Maine. He will sail from Quebec on the Empress of Britain Saturday afternoon after an extended holiday and business trip here.

Gift Night Law Test Started in Alberta

CALGARY, Aug. 25.—Premier William Aberhart of Alberta has instituted an appeal on a police court case to test the validity of theatre gift nights. The result will have a bearing on such stunts throughout the Dominion.

The appeal is from a dismissal by Magistrate J. W. Low of Cardston, Alta., of Gordon S. Brewerton, owner of the Palace, Cardston, on a charge of having violated the Criminal Code by distributing gifts by chance. The Government's notice pleads that the magistrate erred in law by holding that it was necessary to establish "consideration" for the prizes in order to prove guilt.

The appeal is scheduled to be heard by the Appeal Court in Calgary next October.

McKay Asks Dismissal

A motion will be made this morning on behalf of Willard S. McKay to dismiss the suit brought against him by Edwin R. Lavin, who is also suing Carl Laemmle, Sr., for $275,000 as commission for negotiating the sale of Universal stock. McKay, who is named as co-defendant with Laemmle, charges that the complaint fails to state a cause of action against him personally.

Extend Palace Claim Limit

A stipulation was filed in Federal Court yesterday by U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy in which the U. S. Government and trustees for the Palace Amusement Co. agreed to extend to Oct. 1 the time in which the Government may file a claim for taxes against the Palace Amusement Co. The Palace Amusement Co. filed a petition in bankruptcy last November listing liabilities at $258,801 and assets at $6,940. The company operated a circuit of theatres in Wisconsin and had an office at 1270 6th Ave.

Court Authorizes Fees

Justice Lloyd Church in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday signed an order permitting the Continental Bank & Trust Co., as trustees, to pay $652 to the law firm of Kramer & Kleinfeld as fees for obtaining reductions of the assessed valuations of the Golden, Masque and Majestic Theatres.

"Adverse" Starts Today

Warners will open the Strand at 9 o'clock this morning for the first day of "Anthony Adverse." The theatre was closed yesterday for some redecorating in the lobby and other parts of the house.

Mrs. Roosevelt and party, Billy and Bobby Mauch and others have been invited to attend the evening showing.

The picture will run on a grind policy at advanced prices, and launches the Strand on its new policy of "A" attractions only.

Hamilton to Pay $1

Hamilton United Theatres has declared a dividend of $1 per share on the accumulations on the seven per cent preferred stock, payable Sept. 30. The arrears will total $5.25.

Dembow to California

Sam Dembow, Jr., of National Screen Service, leaves by air this afternoon for Hollywood. He expects to return in about 10 days.

Made to Order

Des Moines, Aug. 25.—Glen Nordyke, owner of the Strand in Richland, Ia., found the major part of an air conditioning system when he stumbled over a pipe in the basement and found a good well of water.

He immediately installed an up-to-date air cooling system.

Finds Business Good In Missouri Cities

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—After visiting Ottawa, Iola, Chanute, Independence, Parsons, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Baxter Springs, Webb City, Carthage, Lamar, Joplin, Aurora, Springfield, Sedalia, Boonville, Moberly, Marshall and Lexington, Mo., last week, W. L. Norris, head of the Consolidated Film Exchange, reports that in all but one town exhibitors reported excellent business—in spite of heat and drought. Norris called on independent exhibitors in each city except Iola.

Louis Sosna, operator of the Sosna at Moberly, was the only exhibitor complaining about business, and Moberly had a seven-day mine disaster to draw people a short ways from town in all their available moments.

Uphold "Ecstacy" Ban

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—The appeal board appointed by City Manager H. F. McElroy to view "Ecstasy" and determine whether or not the city censors were right in refusing to approve it, have upheld by a unanimous vote the censors' opinion that it should not be shown the public.

This means the Royal may go into the state courts and seek an injunction to prevent city officials from interfering with the showing of the picture, although Jack Truitt and Breck Fagin, operators of the house, have not indicated their course. They have, however, continued to advertise the opening.

Buys "Personal History"

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—"Personal History" by Vincent Sheean has been purchased by Walter Wanger. The book, which was an account of the author's experience as a foreign correspondent and observer, apparently will be revamped to accommodate roles for Madeleine Carroll and perhaps Fredric March if the producer can get him. Lewis Milestone will direct.

Toeplitzes Also Hurt

CREMONA, Italy, Aug. 25.—Ludovico Toeplitz, head of Toeplitz Prod., and his wife, are reported to have been injured in the automobile accident on the road to Venice. They were in the same car with Monte Banks, who was slightly injured.

Bernerd Sails Today

Jeffrey Bernerd sails for London on the Queen Mary today. He is under doctor's orders to take a vacation and decided to return to England, after having spoken yesterday to Mark Ostrer on the transatlantic telephone.

Kentucky Tax Hits $49,938 in 6 Weeks

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 25.—Commissioner of Revenue James W. Martin has issued his first report on income from the 13 new taxes enacted by the 1936 General Assembly, for the first six weeks of the fiscal year which began July 1. The receipts from amusements totaled $49,938.56. A total of $1,187,791 was collected.

Income taxes, which are not due until March, 1937, are not included in the list.

The sale of spirits brought in the highest amount, $237,879.54, with cigarettes, beer, soft drinks, candy, nuts and chewing gum following. Louisville theatres are still running trailers, protesting against the amusement tax, and urging patrons to write letters to the Governor, state senators and representatives, in an effort to have the taxes removed at the next session of the General Assembly.

Quimby Says 40% of M-G-M Shorts Ready

Forty per cent of the shorts scheduled for production on the M-G-M lot have been completed, Fred C. Quimby, manager of the short subject department, stated yesterday upon his return from a visit to the studio.

Reports that M-G-M would produce shorts in the east were denied by Quimby. He said that James A. FitzPatrick has delivered two on next season's program, and Harman-Ising, one, and Hal Roach, one. Roach is now working on the second.

FitzPatrick, who is making a series of features in England, is scheduled to return Sept. 6.

G. B. List to 2 Circuits

G. B. has closed with Warner Theatres in the New Jersey and Philadelphia territories, also with Intermountain Theatres, Inc., of Salt Lake City, for the showing of the distributor's 1936-37 product.

Arthur Greenblatt and Irving Gumberg of G. B., closed the New Jersey deal with Frank Damis of Warners, while Herb Given, G. B. Philadelphia head, acted for that territory with Lester Krieger of Warners.

W. B. List to Griffith

Griffith Amusement Co. of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas has closed with Fred Jack, southern district manager for Warners, for the entire 1936-37 list of Warner-First National and Cosmopolitan, including Vitaphone shorts and trailers. The deal involves 128 theatres in 51 towns.

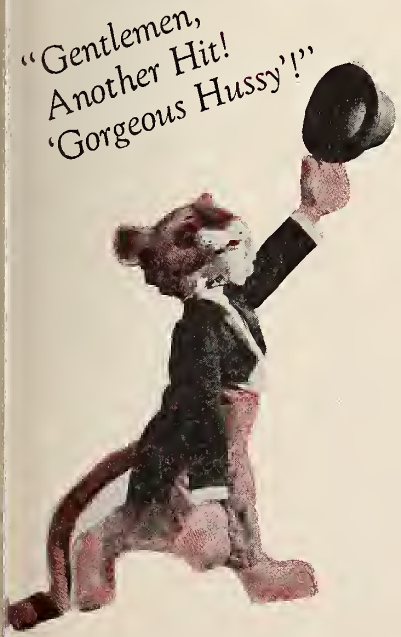
RKO Signs 10 Circuits

Ten circuits in widely scattered territories, have been contracted by RKO. They are: Benton, Albany; Rembusch, Indianapolis; Pizor, Philadelphia; Anger, Bridgeport; Interstate, New England; Rome, Baltimore; Dubinsky, Kansas City; Lucas & Jenkins, Atlanta, and the Lightman circuit of Arkansas and Tennessee.

Minneapolis Takes "U"

J. R. Grainger and E. T. Gomersal of Universal have signed with John Friedl of the Minneapolis Amusement Co. for the showing of Universal features and shorts in the 24 houses controlled by the circuit in Minnesota and South Dakota.

HEY! WHAT DOES M-G-M's LEO EAT that makes him so GREAT?



"Gentlemen,
Another Hit!
'Gorgeous Hussy'!"

The Leaping Lion is leaping again! He hasn't stopped since "San Francisco" started the box-office earthquake, followed by "Suzy", "His Brother's Wife", "Piccadilly Jim" and others.

This time Leo's leaping because of "THE GORGEOUS HUSSY", just previewed in M-G-M's projection room ... and what an attraction! You'll see!

The Cast: JOAN CRAWFORD, ROBERT TAYLOR, LIONEL BARRYMORE, Franchot Tone, Melvyn Douglas, James Stewart. Plus CLARENCE BROWN'S great direction! Produced by Joseph ("Fury") Mankiewicz.

One hit after another! Leo's diet is perfect for the box-office!

Are you all LION-ED UP for 1936-37?

Duals Spreading in Kansas City Houses

Kansas City, Aug. 25. — Double bills are spreading these days. Of 44 subsequent runs that advertise, 29 double billed Aug. 18 and 19; 30, Aug. 20, and 36 on Aug. 22. The number of theatres with doubles dropped back to 26, or 60 per cent, on Aug. 23.

On Aug. 19 and 20, five doubled at 10 cents, one at seven cents. Eight gave away something in addition to doubling. On Aug. 20 there were five money giveaways in addition to doubles, and seven dualled for 10 cents.

Outstanding pictures of the new season will cut down somewhat on doubling, it is believed by exhibitors.

Fox Midwest, given credit for accelerating the practice last year, is doubling at its Isis and Warwick, and increasing rather than decreasing the practice. The Isis is No. 2 subsequent run following the Fox Plaza, and is No. 1 on some pictures.

competition, where an adverse effect was shown, but might be explained in many instances by weather conditions, the amount of advertising done by the theatre, the picture itself or the supporting program, or several other equally pertinent considerations. The main value of the study, it was intimated, would be to determine whether any adverse influence at all could be attributed to the radio competition and, if so, its indicated seriousness.

Sidenberg Gets Fox

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—Harold Sidenberg, assistant manager of the Fox, has been retained by Warners to manage the house.

Frank Buhler, house and production manager, has started on a vacation with his future plans indefinite. A. R. Boyd will concentrate on the other theatres in his circuit in Chester, Allentown and Bethlehem.

Publicity and advertising for the house will be handled from the Warner headquarters in the Earle Bldg., thus leaving out Harry Freeman, with the house since its opening 13 years ago.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Jack London's "The Abysmal Brute" will be the second of the John Wayne series which Trem Carr is producing for Universal release.

Looking 'Em Over

"Pa Solsidan"
(On the Sunnyside)

(Scandinavian Talking Pictures)

A Swedish importation, this is suitable for audiences which want to hear their native language spoken. The picture is a familiar story in another setting. There are English titles.

Eva, orphan daughter of an artist, moves in bohemian circles. She must, however, work in a bank to exist. Through Olle, a friend, she meets a rich, gentleman farmer, Haralde, and after a short courtship marries him, explaining beforehand that she is not doing so for his money—she loves him. At the estate she leads a pleasant existence, but her husband thinks she is unhappy away from her friends. He holds a party on the eve of a regatta, inviting Joachim, presumably an old flame, who falls in love with his sister, Kajsa. Eva senses that he is testing her and is perturbed. She teases the harmless, jesting Olle into kissing her and they are discovered when a ship's light shines on them. There follows much heated conversazione, interwoven with comedy snatches in which Eva purges herself and brings about a complete understanding. The piece ends with the troubled lovers coming out in front the next day when their boat crosses the finish line.

It is finely photographed and a finished production. The yacht racing sequences are of particular merit. While the tempo lags at times it usually moves gayly along. Gustaf Molander directed. The cast includes Lars Hanson, Ingrid Bergman, Karin Swanstrom, Edvin Adolphson and Marianne Lofgren.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Overseas Preview

"The Song of Freedom"

(Hammer-British Lion)

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Paul Robeson is the selling value and most definite entertainment asset in this Hammer production, made in British Lion's studios at Beaconsfield and distributed in England by that company.

He is a negro dock laborer, haunted by a melody which he cannot identify, but which, after he has become a famous singer, is discovered to be the royal chant of a native tribe on an island off the coast of Africa. The singer goes back to "his people," proves himself to be their hereditary king by singing the song when he and his wife are at the point of death, and thereafter devotes his wealth, acquired by periodical appearances as a singer, to the betterment of the tribe.

Dramatic conviction and logical values are not outstanding features of the material, but Robeson has four good songs and sings them magnificently. Elizabeth Welch, as his wife, is also a success. There is an excerpt from "The Emperor Jones," well staged and of course well acted by Robeson.

The star value and the songs make it a possible.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G." ALLAN.

"To Mary—With Love," opening this morning at the Paramount, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on July 18.

"Anthony Adverse," previewed by wire from Hollywood on May 11, also opens this morning, but at the Strand.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25. — First National has given the new title, "The Tattler," to the Ross Alexander-Ann Nagel-Glenda Farrell vehicle formerly known under the name of "Loudspeaker Lowdown."

Ontario Bans Eight Films During Year

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—The annual report of the Ontario censors reveals that 2,186 subjects, representing 7,000,000 feet of film, were submitted. Eight features were condemned; 1,763 were approved as submitted and 415 were passed after deletions. The number of features examined was 522, of which 53 were British. In addition, 56 British short subjects were screened by the board.

According to the report of O. J. Silverthorne, new chairman, there were 18 reasons for deletions. These were listed as follows:

Inciting workers to armed conflict; girls and women in a state of intoxication; excessive drinking scenes; suggestive and indecorous dancing; nude and semi-nude figures; reflections on the medical profession; ministers of religion in questionable situations; blasphemous incidents; objectionable prison scenes; hospital incidents treated flippantly; indecorum of dress or behavior; themes indicative of habitual immorality; hangings, either realistic or comic; methods of crime open to imitation; murderous gang fighting; cruelty to animals, and suggestive speech.

The board banned 36 subjects during the fiscal year of 1934-35 as compared with only eight during the latest period.

Canada Sees Sports On Film House Stage

CALGARY, Aug. 25. — The idea of stage sports, generally developed in different sections of the United States, has gained a foothold in Canada. The credit of being the first Canadian exhibitor to offer athletic attractions in conjunction with films has fallen to Charles Straw, manager of the Capitol here.

Girls' basketball games are being conducted on the big Capitol stage on designated nights following the regular performances under the auspices of the women's amateur federation. It is planned to organize a league with teams from other cities, all games to be played on the stage floor on scheduled dates.

Claims 3rd Dimension

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 25.—A device has been invented by David Gordon, a commercial artist, of this city, which when attached to the lens of a motion picture camera is claimed to show a third dimension. The inventor is of the opinion that the principle may be applied to the screen.

20th-Fox Has 3 Here

Jersey Ponders Price Hike

Moves to increase admissions in New Jersey will be one of the highlights at the Allied of New Jersey annual convention scheduled to be held at the Traymore, Atlantic City, Sept. 9-11, Lee Newbury, president, stated yesterday after a meeting of the membership at the Lincoln.

"There has been some discussion of the move and the members feel something should be done about it," Newbury added. "There is a general movement on part of the industry to attempt to increase prices," he said. "Whether this will be possible without decreasing attendance to the point of damaging box-office receipts and whether the general quality of product has improved sufficiently to warrant boosting admissions are two factors to be taken up at the sessions."

Double features also will be on the agenda. Ideas for abandoning the policy are being solicited for discussion at the shore meet. Other topics listed for the convention will be the future of the organization, state relief taxation, product, election of officers, and legislation.

Among the national directors who are expected to attend are Nathan Yamins, Fall River, Mass.; H. M. Richey, Detroit; Aaron Saperstein, Chicago; Fred Herrington, Pittsburgh; Herman Blum, Baltimore, and Arthur Howard, Boston.

Among the Mirrophonics

H. G. Knox, Erpi vice-president, will take over the chairman's gavel from C. W. Bunn, general sales manager, at today's business sessions. The Erpi sales chief is scheduled to play host to the conventioneers following the afternoon session.

Whitford Drake, executive vice-president, has been kept busy answering questions about Europe and the record-breaking run of the Queen Mary. Drake, after seven weeks abroad, was a passenger on the big liner, which landed him here on time for the opening of the convention exhibits on Monday.

Bert Sanford, Jr., sales manager of the northeast division, received plenty of congrats for his work on convention arrangements.

Gar O'Neill finds the convention pace somewhat exacting and is looking forward anxiously to Dec. 25 when, he says, he expects a one-day vacation.

D. H. Ruliffson, central division sales manager, arrived fresh from a Wisconsin vacation, part of which was spent demonstrating golf's finer points to Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago.

H. E. Ely, Jr., Washington, D. C., sales representative, and son of Major General Hanson Ely, is toying with the idea of communicating with his office by means of the powerful new Erpi public address system.

L. W. Conrow, eastern division general sales manager, got a real kick out of the impression the new Mirrophonic equipment made with the sales force when the curtains were opened on the display yesterday. It was the first glimpse of the new units the men in the field had had.

R. W. Horn, assistant sales manager for the northeastern division, and G. L. Carrington, New York operating manager, appear to be getting as much fun out of the convention as the out-of-towners.

H. W. Dodge, western division general manager, and N. A. Robinson, operating manager of the Los Angeles office, find New York's summer temperature uncomfortable anywhere below the Pierre roof.

Arthur B. Lamb, in charge of studio sales at the Los Angeles office, got a late start and made the trip east by plane in order to make the opening day of the meeting.

H. M. Bessey, general credit manager, and his aides, F. J. Daut, H. O. Duke, R. A. Quinn and Ralph Hilton, went into a huddle yesterday and came forth with a complete speech for Bessey to deliver at this afternoon's session.

P. L. Palmerton, Erpi export manager, is attending all the business sessions.

W. E. Woodward, southeastern division sales manager, is an active figure at the smoothly running convention.

Stanley Hand claims the first Mirrophonic sale was closed in his territory. The new B. & K. Will Rogers Memorial theatre in Chicago will open in late September with the new system.

Fred Foster, treasurer, and D. C. Collins, comptroller, were caught computing the luncheon check for 85 on a table cloth in the Pierre roof restaurant yesterday. And with three days left to go.

W. W. Simons, Chicago operating manager, thinks the view from the Pierre roof is almost as good as that from the Blum Bldg. on Michigan Ave.

E. S. Gregg, assistant comptroller, shuttles between the Pierre and the home office, clearing his desk of work between speeches.

Albany, Aug. 25.—American M. P. Corp., chartered under Delaware laws, has surrendered its certificate of authority to do business in New York.

Sunbeam Pictures Corp., New York City, has filed a certificate in the office of the Secretary of State changing its name to Motion Picture Corp. of America.

Certificates have been filed at Albany dissolving Long Branch Amusement Corp., New York City, and Williston Theatre Co., Inc., Mineola.

Photophone's plan is to advance the idea through pushing sales on its High Fidelity reproducers and is about to launch a four months' campaign along these lines with particular concentration on large first runs.

Hartley also stated sales so far in 1936 are ahead of all of 1935 and that he expected the year end will almost double the volume of the preceding year. S. B. Ostman, service manager, outlined plans for increased personnel and declared already 20 additional men have been added to the servicing department. He said 80 per cent of Photophone theatre accounts had expressed themselves for complete maintenance, not merely servicing. James Frank, Jr., Hartley's assistant, was the third speaker. He covered most of the ground previously touched upon by Hartley. The meeting terminated this afternoon.

Blaettner Succeeds Weed

Dayton, Aug. 25.—Millard M. Blaettner, manager of the RKO Colonial, has been appointed city manager in charge of Keith's, the Colonial and State. He succeeds James L. Weed, who died last week.

Blaettner remains as manager of the Colonial, and will be assisted by Carroll Crist, who moves from the State. W. J. Weagley, formerly treasurer of the Little Playhouse, independent, replaces Crist. Duane Hatfield, who has been assistant manager at Keith's, has been promoted to manager, the post formerly held by Weed. His assistant will be William Pierce, who has been transferred from treasurer at the State.

Tax Protest Spreads

Tampa, Aug. 25.—Public resentment against proposals for nuisance taxes, including a suggestion for a 10 per cent levy on theatre tickets, has resulted in a petition for a "charter election" to substitute a city manager for the present commission form of governmen.

As a result, tax talk has subsided.

Dostal to Marshalltown

Des Moines, Aug. 25.—J. D. Dostal, former assistant manager of the Iowa in Cedar Rapids, has taken charge of the Capitol in Marshalltown, Ia. The theatre was recently leased by the Mort Singer interests from C. C. Dunsmoor.

tive talent; "Seekers of Happiness," "Generation of Conquerors," "Last Night," "Returning of Maxim," "Paris Commune," "13," and "Your Country Calls You."

Amkino also will release four color puppet cartoons. Two of them will be distributed this season and two next year. Alexander Ptushko, head of the Moscow Puppet Studio, produced them.

For the 1937 year, Amkino plans to release 20 Soviet features, Verlinsky said. The first on this program will be "Peter the First," which is to be made at a cost of $2,500,000. This picture, from a story by Alexis Tolstoi, will be the greatest undertaking in the Russian film industry, he declared.

There are approximately 32,000 screens in Soviet Russia today and by the end of 1937 there will be 70,000. Verlinsky explained that the numbers do not signify permanent theatres, but include clubs, halls, portable outfits and traveling theatres for farmers. Of the 32,000, only 4,000 theatres are wired, he said. Moscow, at present, has about 250 actual theatres.

Cutting Costs the Rule

Unfavorable climatic conditions in Leningrad have necessitated the building of the new Soviet Movie City, Verlinsky added.

The tendency on the part of the Russian producers is to cut production costs rather than increase them.

During the current year, Russia imported from three to four American pictures, Verlinsky stated. As film buyer for the Soviet Government, he expects this number to be increased next year. He took with him 10 American features which he screened abroad. The Amkino head asserted that the main objection to importing more American films was due to language difficulties.

About 400 theatres in this country are showing Russian product, which Verlinsky holds is "very good." Requests from additional theatres are being received daily, he said.

Face Heavy Competition

Kansas City, Aug. 25. — From Sept. 26 to Oct. 3 Kansas City houses will have severe competition. The city and its trade territory that week will celebrate the formal introduction of the new Municipal Auditorium with George White's Scandals, Guy Lombardo's orchestra, Burns and Allen, Ben Bernie, Amos 'n' Andy, Rubinoff, wrestling and boxing, and a carnival. So far the Jubilesta committee has arranged for entertainment costing $110,000.

Goodman to Bridgeport

New Haven, Aug. 25. — Harry Shaw, Poli-New England division manager, has promoted Sam Goodman, former College assistant, to a similar post at the Majestic, Bridgeport. Goodman replaces Eugene Schmidt, who has resigned because of ill health.

Recess Taken When Mrs. Fox "Forgets"

Atlantic City, Aug. 25.—The long-awaited questioning of Mrs. William Fox and daughters in the Fox bankruptcy began here today, only to be broken off abruptly when Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle politely but firmly questioned the veracity of Mrs. Eva Fox.

"You are under oath," Referee Steedle told Mrs. Fox, "and must answer proper questions. Merely saying 'I don't remember' does not excuse you. I am not satisfied with your story of inability to remember and of illness. We will adjourn until 10 A. M. tomorrow and I want you to return at that time prepared to answer questions."

For the record Referee Steedle added that "I am satisfied that this witness could answer these questions if she wanted to. She has started out by describing in detail what happened years ago, but she doesn't know what has happened in the last few months."

Mrs. Fox "In a Daze"

Mrs. Fox had said, "I've been sick and I'm just sitting here in a daze. I don't remember anything." She had been awaited as a key figure in the whole William Fox bankruptcy situation. Fox contends that early in 1931, after transferring more than $6,000,000 in assets to his new All-Continent Corp., he gave All-Continent to Mrs. Fox and his daughters, Mona and Belle, as an irrevocable trust. Mrs. Fox is president of the corporation and the daughters are directors.

Creditors' lawyers have been hammering at the admittedly close interweaving of the Fox and All-Continent affairs during the ensuing years, in the evident hope of showing All-Continent to be a disguised Fox asset.

The creditors' counsel came to attention today when both Mrs. Fox and Mona Fox admitted that they never attended meetings of the All-Continent board of directors. Mrs. Fox said, "My attorneys handled everything; I just signed the papers." Mona Fox testified that, "I left that all to my mother; she gave me the minutes and I signed them as secretary."

Mrs. Fox asserted that when she became president of All-Continent, Fox owed it about $400,000. But she could not remember what was planned or actually done toward collecting it. Mona Fox, on the other hand, denied even knowing that Fox was indebted to All-Continent. Each was excluded from the room while the other was questioned.

Sparks Houses Total 92

Tampa, Aug. 25. — The Sparks Florida circuit now has a total of 92 houses, according to B. B. Garner, general manager, when he announced the addition of four houses acquired at Vero Beach, Bartow, Eustis and Mount Dora.

"Piccadilly" Gets Louisville's Lead

Louisville, Aug. 25.—"Piccadilly Jim" and "Legong" on a dual stood out at Loew's State in an average week, beating the $5,500 house average by $1,000.

The Rialto, with "Girls' Dormitory" and "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack," was the only other first run to better par. The gross was $5,000.

"The Green Pastures" at the Mary Anderson was disappointing at $2,500, $1,000 below average. The gross for the first week's showing of the picture was satisfactory, but attendance dropped off during the second week. "Yours for the Asking," dualled with "I'd Give My Life" at the Strand, held up well. The take was up to $3,400, only $100 under average.

Temperatures touching 100 the latter part of the week were not helpful to grosses.

Total first run business was $20,400. Average is $19,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"PICCADILLY JIM" (M-G-M)
"LEGONG" (Du World)

LOEW'S STATE—(3,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,500. (Average, $5,500)

"Piccadilly" Sets Indianapolis Pace

Indianapolis, Aug. 25.—"Piccadilly Jim" went $3,000 above the line for Loew's with a gross of $9,000.

"The Case of the Velvet Claws," teamed with vaudeville, was good for $9,400 at the Lyric, $2,400 into the black. "To Mary—with Love" finished its second week at the Apollo for $4,000, which was average.

Stimulus was given by the convention of the National Ass'n of Rural Letter Carriers. The weather with 90 degrees and more aided. An exhibition race at the Speedway was cancelled because the asphalt at the track was soft and delegates went to theatres as guests of the Indianapolis Convention and Publicity Bureau.

Total first run business was $25,400. Average is $21,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 21:

"TO MARY—WITH LOVE" (20th-Fox)

Atlas and RCA Against Shift Of RKO Assets

Claim Lien on Collateral For the Gold Notes

Atlas Corp. and RCA plan to contest the RKO trustee's right to take possession of RKO's principal assets when and if the Federal court here authorizes the retirement of the final $850,000 of RKO gold notes which are secured by practically all of the working assets of the company, it was learned yesterday.

The $850,000 of RKO gold notes now outstanding are held by the Bank of America National Ass'n. A hearing will be held Sept. 2 on RKO's petition for leave to retire the notes with funds to be advanced to it for that purpose by RKO Radio Pictures. The Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee, informed the court in the petition that the retirement of the notes at this time would effect an interest saving of approximately $40,000 in 1937, and an additional sum in 1938. RKO has been reducing the notes for several years at the rate of $25,000 per month. The trustee asked the court to direct the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. to deliver to Irving Trust all of the collateral securing the notes, in the event

Upholds "Ecstasy" Ban; K.C. Run Jerked

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—The Royal pulled down its first run "Ecstasy" front yesterday, the day slated for the start of an extended first run engagement of the film, and returned to the showing of two features for a dime.

A day before, an appeal board selected by H. F. McElroy, city manager, upheld the ban placed on the film about 10 days ago by Guy Holmes and Mrs. Eleanore Walton, city censors.

Samuel Cummins, head of Eureka Prod., is expected from Dallas to determine finally whether any further steps, such as a court injunction to

Industry Now Is "In Black," Survey Shows

Grosses Up 10-35%, Says M. P. Herald Article

With box-office takes up from 10 to 35 per cent over last year; with attendance at theatres throughout the country showing a pronounced increase and with gross and net incomes of practically all of the leading companies considerably improved, Motion Picture Herald today will outline the trends and recapitulate the figures so impressively indicative of a definite industrial upturn in a feature article, "Motion Pictures 'In the Black' First Time Since the Depression."

Ed Kuykendall, president of M.P.T.O.A., is quoted in illustrating the increase in admissions, which has resulted from outstanding Hollywood product and general business betterment. Attention is also called to the coincidental rise and size of admission taxes which have formed a large portion of the Government's tax revenue.

Figures from the Wall Street Journal are submitted as an analysis of income improvement both within and without the industry.

A breakdown of the earnings from

ITO Ponders Appeal On Rolsky Decision

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—The ITO, meeting to decide whether or not to appeal the case of E. Rolsky vs. Fox Midwest and major distributors, in which Judge Merrill E. Otis of the federal district court here recently found for the defendants, reached no decision although it is indicated that the appeal will be made. Another meeting is scheduled to settle the matter finally.

Another problem facing independents is how they will buy pictures the coming season. Fox Midwest is buying as it did last year and already has

"Adverse" Sets New Record for Strand

"Anthony Adverse" chalked up a new opening day's record at the Strand yesterday and this morning, tallying a conservative $9,200 estimate for the eight continuous performances terminating at 3:15 this morning. The new high compares with $8,756 recorded by "G-Men" on May 1, 1935.

The new scale of prices adopted with the opening yesterday is similar to that prevailing at the time of "G-Men," which held for a five-week run. "Anthony Adverse" also is expected to stay for five weeks. The first seven days of the current attraction will gross from $60,000 to $65,-

French Worry Over Government Moves

By PIERRE AUTRE

Paris, Aug. 17.—Some drastic move by Parliament for nationalization of the French film industry unless the two rival groups within the industry—Chambre Syndicate and Comite Du Film—get together and agree upon a general reorganization is increasing here.

A ministerial decree or action by Parliament could be taken at any time, and it is feared that if this is done the measures may be hasty and harm-

Erpi Not for Sale, Drake Tells Staff

Admits Offers Made, But Says Turned Down All

Assurances that "Erpi is not for sale" were given the company's sales forces in convention at the Hotel Pierre yesterday by Whitford Drake, executive vice-president, who admitted, at the same time, that "a number of offers" for the company had been made.

Drake's declaration to the Erpi field men furnishes official recognition of activities involving the acquisition of the company by major film interests which have been under discussion at various times during years past and which were revived again as recently as two months ago. As reported exclusively in Motion Picture Daily of June 10, representative officials of major film companies held a series of meetings early in June at which the acquisition of Erpi by the industry was discussed. While nothing definite materialized as a result of those sessions there have been indications since that similar discussions will occur again in the future.

Drake's statement to the Erpi convention showed an awareness of this possibility. He stated that the company would not be sold, although a

Extending Dates Is Protested by ITOA

Members of the I.T.O.A., meeting at the Lincoln yesterday, protested the alleged practice of prior runs of extending dates on pictures beyond original bookings.

The theatre men contended that exchange managers had been demanding the extended runs which in turn are said to diminish the box-office value of the films for subsequent situations.

While no definite action was taken yesterday, the exhibitors discussed the possibility of insisting on a clause

New Imperial Sales Setup Nearly Ready

Final deals for national distribution of Imperial product through franchised exchanges, replacing the present states rights distribution, will be closed within the next week or two, it was stated yesterday at Imperial. The company has scheduled 30 features for production during the new season.

Imperial will continue to be represented by a few of its present states rights exchanges, but the new distribution system contemplates, for the most part, exclusive distribution under franchise.

Pete Harrison Guest At I.T.O. Luncheon

Los Angeles, Aug. 26.—I.T.O. of Southern California today tendered to Pete Harrison a luncheon at which were present more than 100 exhibitors and Fox West Coast officials.

Dr. A. H. Giannini, president of United Artists, spoke on the matter of settling problems by amicable rather than forceful means.

Harrison addressed his hosts, expressing his appreciation of their friendship and kindness.

Marco Wolf was toastmaster and Roy Wolf brought the vaudeville acts.

Cooperation Kupper Theme at K. C. Meet

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—William J. Kupper, western sales head for Twentieth Century-Fox, outlined the cooperation his company expects to get this season from the company's affiliated circuits at the morning session today of the four-day gathering of Fox Midwest, Fox Intermountain and Fox Wisconsin executives.

Representatives of distributors which have long term contracts with the circuits are being given time for extended talks. Charles Reagan, western division sales head for Paramount, talked this afternoon. Al Lichtman, assistant to Nicholas M. Schenck of M-G-M, will speak Friday.

Brief talks are scheduled for tomorrow by National Theatre executives. They will leave Friday by plane and train for the coast.

"Gorgeous Hussy" was screened from 11 o'clock to 1 o'clock. "Swing Time" will be shown tomorrow night at the Fox Uptown.

Fox houses will follow a policy of holding first run films as long as they will hold up, and each house will get the full exhibition value out of each picture before it goes to the next run.

It is considered unlikely that the Midwest division will be able to increase scales because of the widespread drought, except possibly in Kansas City, where the four first runs are now in a pooling arrangement.

Mrs. Fox, Ill, Does Not Attend Hearing

Atlantic City, Aug. 26.—Mrs. William Fox failed to resume the stand today before Federal Referee William Steedle for examination into the affairs of the All-Continent Corp., claimed by Fox creditors to be one of the assets available to them in his bankruptcy action.

Steedle said he had received a certificate from Dr. William Hersohn stating that Mrs. Fox was in no condition to testify. He announced that he would appoint his own physician to examine Mrs. Fox before deciding whether she should be required to return to the stand.

Belle Fox, one of William Fox's two daughters, was on the stand today. She testified that she attended no meetings of the corporation. She said that in July, 1935, her mother gave her $75,000 at a health institute at Moorestown, N. J. She testified that she gave it back in small amounts to Fox counsel. She also testified about having amounts up to $165,000 around the house.

Washington Tax Row Taken to the Public

Spokane, Aug. 26.—Exhibitors are carrying their fight against the proposed admissions tax to women of the state. The proposal is one of the initiative measures to go on the ballot at the November election.

Trailers ask this question: "Are you willing to pay an additional one-cent tax for each 20 cents or fraction thereof for admission to any motion picture theatre, or other place of amusement? This would be but one phase of another burdensome tax imposed on residents of the state.

"You are urged by the amusement managers of the state of Washington to vote 'No' on Initiative 115."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"All American Chump"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Aug. 26.—Here is an unusually bright and different variation of the old theme in which the hick triumphs over the city slickers.

Mild and humorous, Stuart Erwin is a human adding machine, tossing off staggering totals without change of expression or a moment's hesitation for $15 a week in a village bank. When the rubes wreck their carnival, Robert Armstrong, Betty Furness and Edmund Gwenn are stranded in the sticks until Armstrong gets the bright idea of billing Erwin as "Chain Lightning," a sideshow attraction. The act is a hopeless flop, but fortune begins to smile when Erwin sets his adding machine mind to work in a game with E. E. Clive, a bridge expert, and later "takes" him in a nationally publicized tournament. A wildly funny fight sequence develops between the baffled Erwin, Dewey Robinson and Eddie Shubert, the latter a pair of gangsters who are under the impression that Edward Brophy has fixed the bridge tournament and Erwin is double-crossing them.

Clive scores delighted laughs with his pompous bridge champion and also Gwenn as the bibulous chiseler. Armstrong as the romantically energetic promoter and Miss Furness as the wise dame who finally joins Erwin on the farm with his beloved cows all make their amusing parts count for the full comedy values under the sure-fire direction of Edwin L. Marin. The original and screenplay by Lawrence M. Kimble is just giddy enough to please on any dual bill. Lucien Hubbard and Michael Fessier produced.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Memphis Area Active With New Theatres

Memphis, Aug. 26.—A survey discloses that approximately $200,000 in new small theatres is under construction or has been completed recently in Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

A $20,000 theatre has been completed at Forrest City, Ark. The Grand, Conway, Ark., remodeled at a cost of more than $2,000, expects to reopen Sept. 15. T. E. Ford has taken over the Palace at Rector, Ark.

Max Davitts is remodeling the Dixie, Winona, Miss., at a cost of several thousand dollars. W. G. Crawford will build a new house at Ashley, Miss., to replace one recently destroyed by fire. The Joy, Pontotoc, Miss., will be remodeled and enlarged. Malco Theatres, Inc., will erect a new house at Tupelo, Miss., to cost between $15,000 and $20,000. Plans are being completed for a new one at Oxford, Miss., to cost $25,000.

Two suburban theatres are being planned by Memphis interests. The Parkview is being erected on Summer Ave. by J. Hanover at a cost of $50,000. Another Memphis operator is planning a suburban house at a cost of $30,000. The Ray is a new house at Bells, Tenn. Bill Ruffin has opened a new theatre at Covington, Tenn., to replace one destroyed by fire.

N. E. Is Optimistic

Boston, Aug. 26.—Exhibitors throughout New England are highly optimistic about the approaching fall and winter season. The summer season through New England has shown great improvement over last year and other summers. More vacationists and tourists have come to the north Atlantic states this year than ever before.

Most theatre operators have had or are having new installations in anticipation of the fall season. Among the recent installations are the Alamo in Bucksport, Me., Globe in Holyoke, Mass., Avon in Springfield, Vt., Waldo in Waldoboro, Me.

The Metheun in Metheun, Mass., installed a new projector. The Roger Sherman in Providence was closed for four days for renovations, including new carpets, lights and sound effects. Warner's Strand in Hartford was closed for two weeks for renovation and redecoration. Tony Romano of the Associated Theatres in Rhode Island remodeled the Empire in Providence at a cost of $25,000. M. & P. in Boston are opening three dark theatres, the Dorchester in suburban Boston, Strand in Chelsea, and Franklin Park in Mattapan.

Rexford House Planned

Rexford, Kans., Aug. 26.—A new theatre is going in here, E. L. Minnick having taken over a building which he is re-constructing. The Scott Ballantyne Co. of Omaha is installing Largen sound, screen and booth equipment.

Order Morgantown Sale

Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Cleveland Trust Co. to satisfy claims The 3,000-seat Capitol, which has been in receivership for some time, has been ordered sold by Judge J. H. Brennan in an action brought by the of bondholders. Bonds amounting to $480,000 are at present outstanding. J. T. McCamic and C. O. Schmidt, attorneys, who have acted as trustees under the receivership, have been appointed by the court to conduct the sale.

Takes Hastings House

Jerry F. Goldstein has taken over the Hastings, Hastings-on-the-Hudson. He is remodeling the house and expects to have it completed by Sept 15, or earlier.

Variety Club

Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Aug. 26.—The third annual golf tournament and field day of Tent No. 3, held at the Hillcrest Country Club, with an attendance of approximately 250, was an outstanding event, due to the efforts of the committee, composed of James J. Grady, chairman; Joe Oulahan and Billy Bein, Ralph Kinsler, Elmer Shard, H. Hartman, Joe Gelman, Harry Wessell, B. Hastings, J. Wesley Huss, Jr., Paul Keieger, Allan S. Moritz, Fritz Witte, John Allen, Bill Koegel and Ed Mayer.

Proceeds are to be turned in to the Variety Club's charity fund.

Oulahan and Larry Benton tied for the Variety trophy, each shooting a net score of 72, making a playoff necessary in the near future. Benton won the long driving contest with a 267-yard hit off the tee. Oulahan was second with 255 yards, and M. C. Farrell third with 253. Benton, incidentally, won the playoff of last years' tournament. Lowest gross scores were made by Lou Smith, 71; Dick Renneker, 75; Erv Baumgartner, 76, and Tom Mulvaney, 78. Al Sugarman won high gross with 198. There were 180 players competing, and prizes went to 143 of that number. Cliff Winehill, associate member, acted as master of ceremonies for the floor show which went over with a bang.

Among those from out-of-town were: M. R. ("Duke") Clark, chief barker of Columbus Tent No. 2; J. Real Neth, W. C. Chesborough and Lawrence Burns, of Columbus; George Landry, Laddie Hancock and Joe Neger, Indianapolis Tent No. 10; George Robergs, Cleveland Tent No. 6; Charles Butler, Washington, D. C., Donald and Dwight Jones, Jackson, O.

H. J. Wessell, chief barker; Billy Bein and Allan Moritz compose a committee giving a testimonial dinner in the clubrooms to Ralph Kinsler, chairman of the privilege men, who recently was named manager of the local Grand National branch.

Nelson Trowbridge is expected back in the city soon from a summer sojourn which he spent with his family in Michigan.

Washington

Washington, Aug. 26.—Under the co-skippership of Sam A. Galanty and Carter T. Barron, Tent No. 11 held its second annual showboat cruise with more than 800 embarking on the City of Washington for a three-hour trip to nowhere down the Potomac.

Heavy thundershowers earlier in the day were blamed for a cut in attendance.

Prior to sailing, the guests were regaled with a water carnival, produced by Dr. Frank T. Shyne. The show was climaxed by having the showboat escorted down the channel by the S.S. Firefighter, with all six streams playing, and a launch from the harbor patrol.

On the cruise, the landlubbers were entertained by Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra, and associated artists, from the Earle; by Ben Blue and other entertainers from Loew's Capitol; by a Leon Brusiloff orchestra, and by the ship's band. The affair was an outstanding success.

number of offers had been made and all had been turned down, but added that "all future offers probably would be, as well." He asserted, as well, that "Erpi never has been for sale."

The advisability of major companies acquiring ownership of the sound equipment used in their studios and theatres was discussed for the first time prior to the formation of Erpi. Western Electric and A. T. & T. officials conferred on the subject at great length with M.P.P.D.A. members in 1926, but, failing to arrive at an agreement, the electrics proceeded with the formation of their equipment subsidiary.

Drake, who returned on Monday from an extended European trip, reported on advances being made by Erpi abroad, particularly in British studios. He described the company's foreign situation as a favorable one and congratulated the sales force on the work of the past year in this country. The Erpi chieftain expressed his gratification over the reception being accorded the new Western Electric Mirrophonic sound, which was introduced to the trade at the current convention.

Knox Predicts Third Dimension

The morning session was in charge of H. G. Knox, vice-president, who predicted that equipment employing dual sound track operation which would give stereophonic, or "third dimension" sound, would be the next big advance in sound recording equipment. He said that certain modifications in recording equipment would be necessary, but that when producers ask for them Erpi would have them ready.

C. W. Bunn, general sales manager, presided at the afternoon session which was addressed by E. S. Gregg, assistant comptroller; P. L. Palmerton, export manager; William A. Wolff, W. E. advertising manager; F. B. Foster, Jr., treasurer; H. M. Bessey, credit manager, and E. J. Moriarty, W. E. general attorney. Divisional meetings are scheduled for today.

an agreement on the stipulations it is believed that the case could be submitted to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard here in October without a resumption of the trial or the taking of further testimony. In this event, however, no decision is expected from the court before next year because of the unusual volume of exhibits and records which have been and will be entered.

However, if no agreement on the stipulations is reached, the attorneys say that the case would be returned to trial, with new hearings probably being started next February.

Ascap officials assert that they have rejected several suggestions advanced by the Attorney General's office involving the ending of the case by the entering of a consent decree. The society's attitude is that it believes its operations to be within the law and, if the courts decide otherwise, it is willing, Ascap officials say, to revise its operations in accordance with court decrees.

Chicago Operators May Bar Long Reels

al, has a strong weapon in his hands in that the existing operators' contract expires Sept. 1 and a renewal already has been the subject of extended negotiations. Reports are also current that a strike is not improbable.

Those close to the I.A.T.S.E. yesterday asserted distributors had ignored the International in paving the way for national adoption of the 2,000-foot reel and had confined its deal for adoption by direct negotiation with various locals throughout the country.

Strong opposition to the plan has developed in Boston, Chicago and Cleveland and nationwide opposition to it has resulted on the part of the I.A., although presumably arrangements between distributors and locals can undergo no change.

Aurora, Ill., in the Chicago area, is one city at least where I.A. men have refused to use the long reels. Those interested in advancing the plan state, on the other hand, that the reels already are in use in hundreds of theatres throughout the nation.

Seeking Operator Cuts

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—A substantial decrease in wages for operators will be demanded by the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n., according to Morris Leonard, president.

Leonard's statement follows a similar demand for lower salaries made by Aaron Saperstein, Allied theatre leader, last week when he notified Frank Clifford, the union's business manager, that his group was demanding a 10 per cent cut.

The operators are asking for a 25 per cent salary increase in the new contract which is now being negotiated.

ful to the industry and to its progress along present lines.

In his recent report to the National Economic Council M. De Carmoy bluntly warned the industry that action must be taken and this report was adopted by the council.

The delay thus far has been due to factional differences. The Chambre Syndicale is made up of French producers and distributors and a small number of exhibitors and the technical branches comprising manufacturers, printers and developers. The Comite Du Film, presided over by Georges Loureau, includes the main body of French and foreign distributors, a majority of exhibitors and a few French producers.

The plan sought by the Government would combine both groups with a section for the technical branches, with one branch for all producers, another for all distributors and a third for exhibitors. A special section might look after French interests.

Box-office reports from the Majestic Theatre, Dallas, Texas, show that in two days "The Texas Rangers" had done more business than the biggest box-office draw in recent months had done in a whole week. The Paramount Exchange in Dallas has been swamped with calls for prints, with local managers begging for immediate showings, even at subsequent run houses. Among the attendance at the opening were more theatre managers than ever seen at an opening . . . and apparently they liked what they saw.

000, based on yesterday's business. The initial stanza of "G-Men" ended with $60,138.

At 2 P. M., "Anthony Adverse" was $347 ahead of the previous blue ribbon winner. Unlike "G-Men" and for the general run of product playing the house, more women flocked to the Strand yesterday. Byron F. Moore, metropolitan managing director for Warner theatres, estimated that 70 per cent of the audiences yesterday was drawn from the distaff side.

Scheduled to open at 9 A. M., Moore began admitting patrons at 8:45 when he found about 2,000 standing on line in spread eagle formation and in a drizzling rain. With the picture running two hours and 17 minutes, the final flicker left the screen at 3:15 this morning. Due to length, the turnover is handicapped to a great extent, according to Moore, who believes that he could have grossed more than $10,000 yesterday had 30 minutes been sliced from the total footage.

Price Boost Accepted

No complaints were registered on the increased 15 cents from opening to 1 P. M. The new price is 40 cents in comparison with 25 cents which is the general "early bird" tariff along Broadway. The evening admission has been boosted to 85 cents, or 10 cents above the previous figure. On Saturday, Sunday and holidays the 40 cent opening will be continued to 2 P. M. The price from 2 P. M. to 6 P. M. will be 65 cents in contrast to 55 cents on week days. From 6 P. M. to 10:30 P. M., the week day price of 85 cents will be advanced to 99 cents for weekends. Midnight shows during the week will be scaled at 55 cents and for weekends and holidays 10 cents more.

Approximately $25,000 has been spent on rehabilitating the theatre. A new system of indirect lighting has been installed in the inner lobby. The men's lounge has been converted into an English room with pictures of hunting scenes decorating the walls. About $1,000 was spent on new furniture for the women's salon. A new drinking fountain system with electric coolers throughout has replaced the former fountains.

Lobby and Front Renovated

The lobby, completely done over, now gives the effect of a skylight scene with indirect lighting. Burgundy velour drapes cover the sides with six water color washes of scenes from the picture set at various vantage points.

The front has a gold satin background and the letters and billing of the cast is done in a transparent opalight glass effect. The enlarged photos are hand colored in natural wood frames painted white and gold.

Not only was the theatre proper given a complete revamping. All the ushers and members of the service staff have been equipped with new uniforms. For mornings and afternoons, ushers have grey striped trousers with dark grey jackets, silver trimmed. In the evening they wear semi-tuxedos. The cashiers have new blue serge dresses, pleated, with white collar and cuffs for contrast.

The S. R. O. sign was out at all performances with long lines in front of the theatre paradoxically but pleasantly embarrassing Moore and Zeb Epstein, manager, because of complaints from storekeepers adjoining the Strand.

At 8:30 Yesterday Morning

Crowds lined up waiting for the box-office to open at the Strand where "Anthony Adverse" bowed in.

At 7:30 the ticket sale was temporarily stopped. By 9 P. M. the gross had reached $7,831 and at 9:45, one-half hour before the breakover, the waiting crowd overflowed into the outer lobby.

A number of Broadway first run managers could not resist the temptation to give the theatre a first hand once-over. Bob Weitman of the Paramount, John Wright of the Rivoli, Harry C. Arthur and Morris Kinzler of the Roxy and Ernest Emerling of Loew's were among those who visited the house.

Moore was the recipient of compliments for the swell job from all sides including Joseph Bernhard, Gradwell L. Sears and some of his fellow Broadway managers.

Ad Tie-up With Macy's

As a part of the "Anthony Adverse" publicity campaign, Warners arranged with R. H. Macy & Co. for a full length, six-column co-operative advertisement illustrating stills of stars and scenes from the production as well as modernized versions of the gowns and accessories used in the film.

Shift Chicago Booking

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—A change in plans will put "Anthony Adverse" into the Chicago for its first showing here instead of the United Artists.

After being slated for a "pink" ticket the film was re-reviewed by the local censor board and given a "general" permit after several dialogue cuts had been made.

By putting the picture into the Chicago, B. & K. have had to pay a fancy rental for the engagement which starts Sept. 11. The United Artists plays pictures on a percentage basis for extended runs. The engagement at the Chicago is for a minimum of two weeks with possibly a three-week run if business is up to expectations.

The opening of "Anthony Adverse" will be simultaneous with the starting of dual bills at the B. & K. de luxe neighborhood theatres, Marbro, Uptown and Tivoli.

Philadelphia Jump Stays

The increased admission at the Boyd, Philadelphia, instituted when "Anthony Adverse" opened there last Friday, will be continued after the indefinite run of the picture, Lester Kreiger, film buyer and chief booker for the Warner Philadelphia zone, stated yesterday prior to his departure for the Quaker City.

While there is no general plan to lift prices at the Warner theatres in Philadelphia, circuit heads are feeling their way and will raise admissions as the occasion presents itself, according to Kreiger.

Set Big "Hussy" Opening

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—M-G-M will stage a real Hollywood opening tomorrow night for "The Gorgeous Hussy," which will have its first showing at the Capitol. Bernard Sobel from the company's home office is here to handle the event. A number of ambassadors and congressmen will attend.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Fox West Coast will hold its annual managers' conclave here, starting Sept. 1, with representatives from Seattle to southern California attending. Spyros Skouras and the New York delegation will come here for the sessions which will last three or four days.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—Paul Bayzman, for five years representative of Box-Office on Film Row and for the past three years midwestern editor of the publication, has resigned to join the Columbia exchange in the advertising department.

Seek Buenos Aires Reduction in Rent

By N. BRUSKI

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 10.—The Ass'n of Real Estate Owners of Argentina has filed a second note with the municipality of Buenos Aires in connection with the revaluation of properties which they have been endeavoring to obtain for the past two years in order that the corresponding taxes be reduced, based on the fact that rents have been steadily decreasing during recent years.

The note protests against the condition imposed which requires real estate owners to be up to date in their payments of taxes before filing their request, pointing out that in some cases this is impossible. It further states that the revaluation should not be limited to a 15 per cent maximum decrease as during the last three years rents have decreased in some cases from 20 to 40 per cent.

In their note the association also recommends that the authorities reconsider the question of taxes with respect to industries and commerce in view of the present economic situation of the country.

The approval of any such measure would mean great relief to many exhibitors.

'Scotland' on Dual Best in Lull on Coast

Los Angeles, Aug. 26.—"Mary of Scotland" was the money-maker of the week. It pulled $5,000 at the Pantages, passing par by $1,800, but dropped $2,000 below the line at the Hillstreet on a take of $6,000.

"Sing, Baby, Sing," on a dual with "Women Are Trouble," did $1,000 over average at the Chinese on a take of $13,500, but failed to make the grade at Loew's State.

With the exception of "My American Wife," billed with "Meet Nero Wolfe" and an F. & M. stage show featuring Rube Wolfe, which came within $400 of equalling average at the Paramount, business was not impressive.

Total first run business was $92,400. Average is $130,150.

Cincy's Employment Showing New Gains

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—Employment in 18 local selected industries was eight per cent greater in June of this year than in June, 1935, according to a business review just released by the Chamber of Commerce. Bank clearings increased 25 per cent in the same comparative period. Interchange of freight cars was up 18 per cent, and the value of building permits 208 per cent higher.

For the first six months of this year, employment in the above industries showed an increase of 13 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. Bank clearings gained 12 per cent; interchange of freight cars, 16 per cent, and total value of building permits, 108 per cent.

The employment index for Cincinnati as compiled by the Metal Trades Ass'n. shows an increase of 3.1 per cent for May, 1936, over April of this year, and an increase of 58.1 per cent over May, 1935.

It's About Time

Columbus, O., Aug. 26.—David Chase, 95, saw his first talking picture when he attended the RKO Grand last week. He refers to the experience as "wonderful," and expects to see pictures regularly from now on.

Chase explained that he was a frequent theatre patron when pictures were in their infancy some 20 years ago, but "sort of got out of the habit" in the intervening years.

"Sing, Baby" Top In Denver, $8,500

DENVER, Aug. 26.—"Sing, Baby, Sing" stepped along at a merry pace at the Denver, getting $8,500 on the week. It was moved to the Aladdin for a second week.

"His Brother's Wife" and "We Went to College" were in the money at the Orpheum on a gross of $7,500, over the line by $1,500, and "Yours for the Asking" also was $1,500 up on a gross of $6,000 at the Denham.

"To Mary—with Love" was moved to the Broadway for a third week following a $3,000 take at the Aladdin. It had already played a week at the Denver.

Total first run business was $35,000. Average is $28,000.

Greenwald in New Post

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26. — Mannie Greenwald, who became manager of Warners' Strand in Oakland only six weeks ago, has resigned to pilot the downtown Barry for William Skirboll and his associates. The Barry, which was remodeled last winter at a cost of $20,000, only to be wrecked a short time later by the flood, will reopen Labor Day with a double-feature, subsequent run policy. Greenwald's successor will be Allan Davis, who moves up from the assistant managership of the Enright.

Another Warner managerial shift will place Bill Powelson in charge of the Regal, Wilkinsburg, recently acquired by the circuit from an independent group, until Powelson's own house in Tarentum, closed for several months, reopens.

"Pastures" on Dual $10,000, Montreal

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—"The Green Pastures" was outstanding at the Princess. It attracted $10,000 on a dual bill with "Love Begins at 20." Average is $7,000.

"Rhythm on the Range" headed the double bill at the Capitol for a take of $8,500, with "Moonlight Murder," on top of the mixed show at Loew's, registering $8,500. The fifth week of "San Francisco" at the Palace was good for $6,000.

Provincial elections and the Montreal baseball team here throughout the week were opposition. Weather that was a little cooler, particularly at nights, helped.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—Russell Borg, exchange manager for Grand National, has opened temporary offices at 113 West 18th St., and has hired Rube Melcher, former Warner and G.B. salesman in this territory, as his first salesman. Mabel Fisk, formerly at the Columbia exchange, becomes Borg's secretary.

Steiner Loaned to W. B.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Selznick International has loaned Max Steiner to Warners for the scoring of "The Charge of the Light Brigade." Steiner has just finished the musical scoring of Selznick's "The Garden of Allah."

"Piccadilly," Show Capital Hit, $25,200

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—"Piccadilly Jim" and the fourth annual edition of the all-Washington revue, "Going Native," topped the town as Loew's Fox became Loew's Capitol. The take was $25,200, over par by $4,300. The revue, as in earlier years, was staged and produced by Gene Ford, one-time production aid with Louis K. Sidney, now house manager.

A return engagement of "Suzy" sent the take at Loew's Columbia to $4,300, over average by $700. "To Mary—with Love," at Loew's Palace, took $16,000, up by $100.

"The Green Pastures," playing a return engagement at the Metropolitan, took $4,600, $300 over average, and went into a second week. "Mary of Scotland," in its second week at RKO-Keith's, took a nice $9,500, but $1,100 under the first-week average. The Earle slipped to $12,700 with "Meet Nero Wolfe" and a stage show, going $5,700 under average.

Total first run business was $72,300. Average is $73,700.

Estimated takings exclusive of tax:

Mass. Racing Ends, Setting New Record

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Horse and dog racing have ended temporarily in Massachusetts, but only after breaking all known records for mutuel betting at the dog tracks with $505,698 bet by fans, making a total for the summer at the dog tracks alone of $17,754,863.

Horse racing will not resume until next year, after a 53-day meet instead of two short meets during the summer. The dog tracks, however, will open again in October. A total of $25,596,050 was bet on horse racing.

For the second year of pari-mutuel betting in Massachusetts the state realized of all the various meetings so far this year more than $2,000,000 as its share of the money wagered. At the dog tracks this year betting surpassed last year by $7,000,000. At the Revere track for greyhound racing the total money handled was $9,867,316, while at Taunton the sum was $4,250,000 and at Springfield $3,637,547 was wagered.

Radio Report Upon Grosses Sent to Coast

Producers Will Analyze Theatres' Figures

Grosses in pictures starring film names which appeared concurrently on radio programs during the run of the pictures have been gathered here and forwarded by the M. P. P. D. A. to the Producers' Ass'n at Hollywood for analysis, it was stated yesterday.

The grosses of 30 affiliated theatres located in territories directly covered by an important radio station comprise the figures gathered. They include the theatres' grosses for performances before, during and after the various broadcasts in which film names were featured and comprise, in all, about 6,000 individual gross figures. It is estimated here that an analysis of the figures will require at least a week.

The object of the study is an attempt to determine whether or not any definite indication may be had of the effect of the radio appearances of film stars on theatre business, and its extent in the event a definite effect is indicated. Producers' policies in connection with the radio appearances of their contract players may be guided for the future by the results of the study.

Capital Turns Out For "Hussy" Start

Washington, Aug. 27.—Before a distinguished audience of diplomats, members of executive departments, representatives of Government agencies, educational organizations, and the press, "The Gorgeous Hussy" opened tonight at a special invitational performance sponsored by the White House Correspondents' Ass'n.

For the first time Loew's Palace closed early to get ready for the opening. About 2,300 attended. A special preview for the general public was held at midnight. The opening was broad-

No New Delay Expected for Longer Reels

Short Spools to Be Used In Certain Spots

No further delay beyond Sept. 1 in the industry's changeover to the 2,000-foot reel is anticipated, it was stated yesterday. That date remains the official one for the start of the new reel, although it is expected to be several additional weeks before the reel is in general use, due largely to the fact that several major distributors will not have September releases for some time after the first of the month.

In situations where local regulations differ in specifications from those of the new reel, such as Chicago, where a 14-inch reel is required, the industry's standard 14½-inch reel will be shipped to the exchanges and rewound in such territories on reels complying with local regulations. A similar procedure will be followed where projectionists' locals refuse to use the new reels, it was stated. In such situations the standard large reel will be shipped from the exchanges and projectionists who desire to do so

Even Passes Hit

Bartow, Fla., Aug. 27.—You can't hand a person a pass to a theatre in this town without being subject to a fine of $100 or a 30-day visit to the hoosegow. This is the penalty provided in a new city ordinance which prohibits the passing out of any printed matter, with the exception of newspapers and magazines.

However, the city fathers did leave a little loophole for the house-to-house passer outer. What he has to do is to go up to the door of a house and play, "knock, knock." When the housewife, or other half, answers, he tells 'em that he has a nice new handbill, circular or ducat and would it be all right to leave a few.

"Swing Time" Gets Off to Fast Start

RKO Radio's "Swing Time" joined the procession of current record breakers by setting new opening day marks of several varieties at the Music Hall. The line started forming outside the theatre at 8:30, a record in itself, and by 9:30 there were 2,000 persons in line, according to a Music Hall count. Doors were opened at 9:40 to accommodate the enthusiasts, although the opening had been advertised for 10:00. The management now plans to open

August Key Grosses Shake Off Heat Bogy; Show Gain

Early August key city grosses shook off the usual hot weather handicap and returned to life after a fluctuating decline that set in last May. The total for the week ending Aug. 7-8 was $1,518,011 and for the week ending Aug. 15-15 was $1,550,120.

Only once since the first week in May has the total been above the latter mark and at that time there were 179 first run theatres in operation. For the week ending Aug. 14-15 only 166 were open.

Several strong releases, with "San Francisco" piling up heavy grosses everywhere, contributed to the gain. In a number of places the attractions of cooling systems in extreme heat were given credit for some of the improvement. Comparative grosses will be found on page 10.

Domination in Britain Is Hit By Aylesworth

Favors Cooperation on Production by U. S.

Merlin H. Aylesworth, chairman of the RKO board, is decidedly against American domination of the British film market.

He made this point clear yesterday upon his arrival on the Ile de France from England, where he said he spent eight days looking over the studios and enjoying a vacation.

Instead of trying to dominate the field in England, Aylesworth urged that the efforts of American companies should be directed toward cementing a closer relationship on production.

"Unless we cooperate," he declared, "we will find a heavy import duty on American pictures." In addition other obstacles will be placed in the path of American companies which would tend to make it difficult to operate in England.

"If we try to dominate the country, it will be a big mistake," Aylesworth said. As far as he knew RKO has no intentions of producing in Great Britain.

Meeting him at the pier, among others, were Herbert J. Yates, Leslie E. Thompson, William Mallard and Rex Cole.

Roncoroni Promises Italian Cooperation

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—Carlo Roncoroni, president of Italy's planned $10,000,000 film project, told Motion Picture Daily today that there would be no need for legislation governing the distribution of American films if American producers accept the invitation to make pictures in Italian studios. Today's interview was arranged by Walter Wanger at the Trocadero.

Regarding taxes, Roncoroni stated

Warners to Ask New Wheeling Suit Reply

Counsel for Warners will apply in N. Y. Supreme Court this morning for permission to serve an amended answer to a bondholder's action brought by Clarence H. Morrow. Morrow, who is a holder of $1,500 worth of 6½% certificate gold bonds of the Capitol Theatre in Wheeling, W. Va., charges that Warners and others are guilty of improper management of the theatre and are in conspiracy to injure that property.

An affidavit filed by Miles H. Alven, one of the defendants, who is making the application to file a new answer on the ground of newly discovered evidence states in his affidavit: "On Feb. 28, 1936, the Supreme Court of West Virginia issued an order ousting the lessee, Capitol Enterprises, Inc., from possession of the theatre premises. A special receiver who had been appointed in a foreclosure action previously begun, then went into possession of the premises and has continued in possession up to the present day. On Mar. 18, 1936, Warner Bros., Inc., transferred all of its Capitol interests in the city of Wheeling. Thus, today none of the defendants have any interest, either directly or indirectly, in any theatrical property or enterprises in Wheeling." He explained that outstanding bonds total $480,000 and the proposed new answer will assert that the defendants have no further obligation in the matter.

Film Judgments Filed

Two judgments were filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday on behalf of United Artists Corp. One was against the Bingham Theatre Co. for $4,078 and the other was for $71.60 against the Dema Amusement Corp. The transcripts merely stated the amount of the judgments without disclosing the background of the suits.

Deny Skouras Examination

Justice Kenneth O'Brien in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday denied a motion on behalf of Lazfox, Inc., candy confectioners, to examine officers of the Skouras Theatres Corp. The complaint charges that Skouras and Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, also the Fox Theatres Corp., violated an agreement to lease concessions to the plaintiff in theatres throughout the country.

Delay Testimony in Jaydo Claim Hearing

Following a request by trustee Lester Bachner to Robert Benjamin of Phillips & Nizer, the examination of Harman Yaffa, scheduled to be resumed today before Referee Joyce in Federal Court, will be postponed a few days.

Bachner has requested the delay in order to discuss certain angles of the bankruptcy of Jaydo Amusement Co. and Fairdeal Amusement Co., former operators of the Gem and Majestic, Bronx.

Benjamin, in his action, contends that of the $25,000 paid to Yaffa by Springer & Cocalis the film exchanges were not included among the preferred creditors, although the 14 major and independent companies hold claims totaling $30,000.

Sears, Einfeld Talk At Fox K. C. Confab

Kansas City, Aug. 27.—Distribution executives of major companies continued to paint a rosy picture of product for the coming season at the third day of the gathering here of Fox Midwest, Fox Intermountain and Fox Wisconsin executives.

Gradwell L. Sears and S. Charles Einfeld spoke for Warner Bros. this morning, while Ned E. Depinet of RKO addressed the delegates this afternoon. Al Lichtman will talk tomorrow.

In substance, the speakers pointed out that one of the best seasons for the film industry in many years is in the offing and that the intensive study of pictures and contracts, which is one of the chief objectives of the conferences, benefits Fox box-offices throughout the year because of the insight into exhibition fundamentals which the delegates receive. The conference will result, they said, in a more thorough understanding by the exhibitors of the national executives' aims and ideas and will, on the other hand, give the national executives a better grasp of local conditions.

Stars of Silent Era Have Party on Coast

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—Screen luminaries of the silent days turned out in force for the first dinner-dance of the Associated Cinema Stars, recently formed.

Among the guests at the Ambassador were D. W. Griffith, Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, Agnes Ayres, Clara Kimball Young, Maurice Costello, Charlie Murray, Flora Finch, Florence Lawrence, Mrs. Wallace Reid, Kate Price, Harry McCoy and others.

Among the present-day stars were Victor McLaglen, June Lang, Jean Darling, Wallace Reid, Jr., and Leon Janney.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Isle of Fury"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—The appeal of this film lies in the attractiveness of its South Seas locale. As far as story is concerned it is only average entertainment. An undertone of suspense is present because of the mystery connected with the past of the principal characters which has brought them to the South Pacific islands. On the surface, however, the story is a routine mixture of triangle love and pearl fishing melodrama.

Humphrey Bogart, newly wed to Margaret Lindsay, saves Donald Woods from a watery grave during a hurricane. Later, as Bogart goes about his regular business of pearl gathering hindered by a rebellion of the natives, who try to steal his pearls, Woods falls in love with Miss Lindsay. He and Bogart alternately save each other's lives in a series of narrow escapes.

Meanwhile, E. E. Clive, a doctor, prevents the love triangle from becoming serious by spouting defeatist philosophy and Bible quotations between sips of hard liquor. When Paul Graetz, a sea captain, finally forces the love issue for selfish reasons all points are cleared and Woods leaves the island.

Director Frank McDonald stresses dramatic tensity and keeps the camera constantly moving to good effect. Robert Andrews' screen play is an adaptation of the Somerset Maugham novel. William Jacobs and George Regas are capable in the supporting cast, while Miki Morita offers some good comedy as a native house servant. The picture's best exploitation angle is the locale.

"Murder with Pictures"

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—As a typical mystery melodrama, this picture succeeds in keeping the audience guessing. The same formula prevails—everybody in the cast is under suspicion with newspaper photographers included this time. The picture will stand up on a dual bill and is satisfactory entertainment for the audiences that like the murder-mystery theme.

Excellent trouping by the cast is the film's chief production asset. Lew Ayres is the crack photographer of a daily who gets mixed up in a murder case endeavoring to protect the name of Gail Patrick, who is the chief suspect. The plot centers on a picture taken by Benny Baker when the crime is committed. After the picture is tossed around and stolen by everybody in the cast it is finally printed, showing that Anthony Nace is the killer, having knocked off the victim with a Maxim silencer concealed in a camera. Throughout the killings the love interest blossoms between Ayres and Miss Patrick, with Joyce Compton, Ayres' fiancee, offering opposition.

Included in the list of top-notch performances are Paul Kelly, Ernest Cossart, Onslow Stevens, the chief menace, and Joseph Sawyer, a flatfoot. Strong suspense is held by Director Charles Barton. John C. Moffiitt and Sidney Salkow did the screen play from George Harmon Coxe's story. Ted Tetzlaff's camera work is fine.

Production Code Seal, No. 2,470. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Invites Court Test On Ban of "Ecstasy"

Kansas City, Aug. 27.—In order to get a court decision which may clear the way for a showing of "Ecstasy," Breckenridge Fagin, manager of the Royal, exhibited the film this morning, was arrested, fined $50 and released on a bond of $100.

Fagin appealed the fine from the police to Circuit Court. A jury will hear the case Sept. 4 and will view the picture to decide whether city censors Guy Holmes and Mrs. Eleanore Walton and the city appeal board appointed by City Manager McElroy were justified in banning the picture early this week.

New Booking Group To Open at Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 27.—Michigan's new booking combine for state theatres will open offices in Detroit within the next two weeks, according to Frank Stuart, general manager and buyer. More than 50 state theatres have signed for membership.

No announcement has been made of the name of the organization nor its officers or members, but James M. Minter of Flint, who, with W. A. Cassidy of Midland has been a leader in the formation of the unit, said that that information would be made public at the time of opening of offices here.

Short Subjects

"Killer Dog"

(M-G-M)

Considerable publicity was given this picture when a New England judge sent for it while trying a case which involved a killer dog. The picture endeavors to show that a dog accused of viciousness should be entitled to the same opportunity to defend itself which is awarded the lowest of criminals. In this instance, suspicion of the animal is proved to be unjust.

The dog, because sired by a killer, is accused of killing sheep. Though circumstantial evidence seems to bear out the charge, the judge agrees to put the dog to a test. It is then proved that the killer is a coyote and the dog was actually trying to save the sheep. Pete Smith's running remarks are up to his usual standard, and considerable suspense is added by the direction of Jacques Tourneur. Production Code Seal No. 2,135. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Harnessed Rhythm"

(M-G-M)

Devoted to the sport of trotting horses, this is an interesting subject. The history of a colt, from the time he is foaled to the time he enters but loses in the big race for three-year-olds, is shown, with the blow of defeat softened by shots which depict the horse as receiving the worst breaks possible in a race.

Pete Smith's comments and slow motion pictures of the horse in action are of more than usual interest. In localities where trotting is popular the picture should be especially well received. Production Code Seal No. 2,445. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Philadelphia Pool Deal Nearly Ready

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—Negotiations, which have been on and off for some time, are expected to be completed within the next few days between Warners and Paramount for the pooling of seven neighborhood theatres under Warner operation.

Involved are the Circle, State and 69th St., Warner units; Roosevelt, Frankford, Tower and Paris, Paramount theatres.

According to present plans, Warners are to take over the four Paramount houses and combine the operation with the other three on Sept. 1.

Expect Pittsburgh Pool

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27. — When Loew's closes within the next few days for resumption of operation of the Penn, it is expected the theatre will again be pooled with Warners Stanley and the Warner. Before Loew's gave up the Penn recently the three theatres had been pooled, with each circuit operating its own units, but combining the product and splitting the profits of all three houses.

Alperson Planning Foreign Department

Grand National will set up its own foreign department in the home office "as soon as possible," E. L. Alperson, president, stated when he returned on the Ile de France yesterday after completing a two-year distribution deal in England with Associated British Film Distributors.

Alperson said he had not decided yet upon the man who will head the foreign activities of the company.

As far as Alperson is concerned, England is the most important country in the foreign picture. He said Grand National will deliver 34 pictures a year for two years under terms of a contract which will guarantee his company a minimum of $2,000,000 in cash. Eight westerns are included in the 34 features.

May Produce in England

There is a possibility Alperson may send one of his producers to England to make a picture for A.B.F.D., he said. While reports have mentioned Douglas MacLean, Alperson said this was not set, although it is likely. The Grand National president brought back with him "Lonely Road," produced by A.B.F.D. with Clive Brook at a cost of $325,000. Other importations depend on what the British company does, Alperson said.

Two weeks were spent in London by Alperson. He asserted yesterday that from now on he would spend half of his time in New York and the other half on the coast. He will leave for Hollywood in 10 days.

William Fitelson, special counsel for Grand National on the English deal, also returned with Alperson.

Although Fitelson represents G.B. in this country, he asserted he did not see any one of the British executives and hence did not know the latest developments in the Loew-Twentieth Century-Fox-G.B. stock transaction.

day. The work is being conducted by Richard Bird, representing the Attorney General's office, and Arthur Schwartz, of counsel for Ascap, at the Schwartz & Frolich office.

Indications are that the work will not be completed for another week. Through the stipulations, both sides hope to be able to submit the case to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard next month without the necessity of resuming trial or taking additional testimony. If no agreement on the stipulations is reached, however, the trial of the action probably will be resumed next winter.

convention spirit, asserting that it would be reflected advantageously throughout the entire Erpi organization. Bloom predicted that Mirrophonic would soon become a byword in the industry.

By means of a direct wire from the convention hall Bloom sent the congratulations of the sales force to George S. Pratt, western vice-president of Erpi, who was being tendered a testimonial luncheon at the Hotel Victor Hugo, Beverly Hills, on the occasion of his 30th anniversary in the Bell System service. K. S. Morgan of Erpi's Hollywood laboratory, responded as toastmaster at the other end of the wire, with Pratt following with thanks to the eastern meeting. Prior to taking over his Erpi post, Pratt had been general counsel, then secretary and a director of W. E.

Mirrophonic Sales Talked

The final day of the convention was occupied with discussions of sales policies for the new Mirrophonic system, and an open forum on technical phases of the new reproducer. Divisional sales meetings followed, one under the direction of L. W. Conrow, general manager of the eastern division, assisted by Bert Sanford, Jr., northeastern division sales manager, and W. E. Woodward, southeastern division sales manager; a second, conducted by Stanley W. Hand, general sales manager of the central division, and a third by Harry W. Dodge, general manager of the western division.

Concluding addresses were given by Whitford Drake, executive vice-president; H. G. Knox, vice-president, and C. W. Bunn, general sales manager. The conventioneers were informed at the close of the meeting that orders for the new Mirrophonic sound system were already coming in from important theatres.

Dinner and entertainment at the French Casino occupied the conventioneers last night. Out of town delegates leave for their home territories today. However, the convention exhibit of the new Mirrophonic equipment and other recent Erpi developments will remain open at the Hotel Pierre today for inspection by invited exhibitors.

Appeal Authorized In "Zombie's" Case

Zombies," was signed yesterday by Justice Church in N. Y. Supreme Court.

Harold A. Lerman, attorney for Hirsh, said that an appeal is now pending in the Appellate Court and would be argued in October. All of the defendants, Lerman said, have filed notices of appeal from the judgment. The plaintiff, in obtaining the judgment and injunction restraining Melbert from distributing the picture, alleged that it infringed on the picture, "White Zombie," produced earlier.

"Adverse" Does $8,000

"Anthony Adverse," on the second day of its showing at the Strand, grossed in the neighborhood of $8,000. It was stated that all the shows this week will wind up at 3.37 A. M. Thus there will be eight complete performances given.

Standing room was the order of the day at all shows yesterday and again the sale of tickets had to be stopped several times during the day by Zeb Epstein, manager.

Roncoroni Promises Italian Cooperation

that Italian artists do not pay taxes. Should such taxes be levied, he said, American artists need not worry about them. He also promised aid to producers and artists by securing reasonable transportation and hotel rates.

The Italian studio will be merely a rental lot, Roncoroni stated. Distribution will be left to individual companies and no attempt to set up a distribution system will be made. He stated that if the project materializes employment problems will thereby be settled, money circulated and Italian artists would receive the expert advice of skilled workmen. His company, he explained, is composed solely of industrialists interested in helping their country and emphatically denied any political affiliation.

Negotiations with King Vidor are in progress, it was said, to produce "Julius Caesar" in an Italian studio. If the deal is closed the film will be released through either Paramount or RKO.

Walter Wanger acted as interpreter throughout the meeting. Roncoroni is expected to leave for home in 10 days.

theatres in Pennsylvania, two in Ohio and one in Detroit.

The first Harris theatre, the Musee, was opened in Sept., 1896, in McKeesport, by the late Senator P. Harris. In 1905 he opened what is believed to be the world's first all motion picture theatre, located in Pittsburgh. The circuit numbered 35 theatres in 1930, when all but a few were sold to Warners, but has been rebuilt to its present status since. Senator Frank J. Harris is the present head of the company.

'Adverse' Good Job, N. Y. Critics Agree

Film reviewers of the New York newspapers, almost without exception, congratulated Warners, Mervyn LeRoy and the large cast which translated to the screen Hervey Allen's 1200-page novel, "Anthony Adverse."

To the producers for their unstinting expenditure of time, effort and money; to Sheridan Gibney for his preparation of the screenplay—a most difficult adaptation; to Frederic March, Olivia de Havilland, Claude Rains, Billy Mauch and the other players there was general approbation together with the recognition that the transcription of "Adverse" to the screen was a job to test the mettle of the industry. The only jarring note was in the Times.

Excerpts from some of the reviews, arranged alphabetically according to paper, follow:

American—Hervey Allen's weighty tome has been transmuted by the Hollywood alchemists into a breathless, thrill-freighted hour of memorable cinematic entertainment.

In a tale that traverses the Alps to Italy, thence overseas to the Western isles, only to be scourged by a restless author onward to African jungles, back to the Paris of Napoleon and a Europe in the throes of conquest, it is to be expected that the fable falls episodically upon the screen. And this it does, relying frequently on captions to bridge both time and space. But a gripping continuity has been preserved, nevertheless, and never once does action flag or interest lag.

Daily Mirror—The gigantic novel which engaged the reading public through an entire season, now has been brought to the screen as one of the most elaborate personal histories ever recorded.

Under the sound direction of Mervyn LeRoy, the thick tome has been compressed to a brisk, active melodrama of the eighteenth century, a melodrama vivid with color and teeming with bizarre adventure. A splendid company assumes the sharply-drawn roles. . . .

Frederic March has a rich role in Anthony and plays it with fire and power. His Anthony, though buffeted by the whims of Fate, never lacks force.

Daily News—Warner Brothers spent vast sums of money and took great pains to give the story a colorful as well as authentic background. They selected a fine cast, headed by Fredric March, Olivia De Havilland, Anita Louise and Claude Rains, to portray the many characters of the novel and they assigned the production to the expert care of Mervyn LeRoy, who is one of Hollywood's ace directors.

March's performance of the grown-up Anthony is an impressive one. Young Billy Mauch, who plays Anthony as a child, is fine.

Evening Journal—"Anthony Adverse," which opened yesterday at the Strand before an enthralled audience, has caught all the rich variety, all the color, action and romance of the long novel, turning it into a picture that is tremendously entertaining.

In the whole wide scope of the story, from the time young Anthony is left at a convent to be reared by Father Xavier, through his turbulent, adventurous and romantic life, the film misses none of the glamour or essential drama of the book.

It is a triumph for screen art, a triumph for Warners, for Mervyn LeRoy, the director, and for the actors and actresses who bring the colorful characters to life.

Herald-Tribune—The inevitable screen transcription of Hervey Allen's mammoth best-seller, "Anthony Adverse," has been accomplished in a handsome and spectacular production. Populated with a huge cast and bulging with picaresque adventure and romance, it richly deserves one of Hollywood's favorite adjectives — colossal. . . .

Of the various disparate sections into which the entertainment falls, that describing Anthony's bitter years as a slave-trader comes to clearest film realization. When he is doggedly working to collect unpaid debts for his benefactor, Bonnyfeather, until he becomes drunk with power and the amassing of wealth and is only turned back into the stream of living by the crucifixion of Brother Francois, the motion picture becomes vividly arresting and powerful.

Post—Director Mervyn LeRoy, a superb cast of players and a skillful crew of technicians have given it painstaking and impressive production to the minutest detail, following the novel as closely as possible.

Everybody concerned with "Anthony Adverse" has done his utmost to make it a great and triumphant motion picture. Projected in two and a half hours' worth of dramatic episodes—singularly well performed—the film is serious and heavy for most part, with a minimum of comic relief. It is filmed with restaint and conviction. It is effective without question in that it completely captures its peruser and leaves him weak at the knees by the time its lengthy tale (but not as lengthy as the novel, of course) has been unfolded.

Sun—Somehow it has been done, and well done, too. Hollywood tackled "Anthony Adverse" and conquered it, a triumph for "Anthony Adverse" as well as Hollywood. Sheridan Gibney extracted the marrow of Hervey Allen's novel, as gigantic in size as in popularity; the Warners made the picture. And the marrow of that adventurous, romantic, complicated, swashbuckling best-seller, as you may see for yourself at the Strand, is the simple and sincerely moving drama of a man who lost his soul and found it again. . . .

Times—If size is your deity and you feel you will be impressed to hear that eighty-odd speaking parts and a cast of 2,000 have shared the task of translating "Anthony" into film, then you will relish the Strand's new picture. Speaking for ourselves, we found it a bulky, rambling and indecisive photoplay. . . .

Scene after scene is presented almost as Mr. Allen described it, but the people in them are substanceless as dreams. Things happen. changes comes, subtitles assure us that Anthony is at the crossroads, but somehow we are not convinced that a real crisis impends. . . .

Many of these episodes have dramatic virtue, particularly those involving Don Luis, who has been played to perfection by Claude Rains, and those centering upon John Bonnyfeather, drawn to the life by Edmund Gwenn, but a series of dramatic episodes does not make a drama. Billy Mauch is an admirable 10-year-old Anthony, but Fredric March is a thoroughly spiritless Anthony, the man. Olivia de Havilland, always an attractive addition to any cast, is a winsome Angela.

World-Telegram—Ever a prodigal house, Warner Brothers deliver "Anthony Adverse" to the screen of the Strand with their customary Midas touch. It is a lavish gold-leaf from Hervey Allen's book, an earnest cinema endeavor, taxing alike its studio's purse and artistry.

Whatever may be the lit'ry appraisals of Mr. Allen's period tale, it was humane —a sturdy document of drinking and loving and ambition thwarted by tragic retribution, and I salute Director Mervyn LeRoy's and Scenarist Sheridan Gibney's attempts to push all this past the censor.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Old Hutch"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—This film is made to order for the Wallace Beery fans, but is rather too routine in its plot development to make new followers for the star, though he turns in plenty of laughs as the good-for-nothing who suffers reform.

"Old Hutch" has been out of work for 20 years when he finds $100,000 in stolen bills buried on the bank of his favorite fishing stream. Knowing that he could never cash a thousand dollar bill unquestioned, "Hutch" sets out to become a man of means and takes over a deserted farm and begins to pile up money the hard way. By the time he is established as a good provider the gangsters recover their stolen bills. In an attempt to make "Hutch" pass the hot money they are caught. "Hutch" gets the reward and reverts to his former lazy life, but not until Cecilia Parker, his daughter, is engaged to Eric Linden and the rest of the family is eating regularly.

Elizabeth Patterson drew an impulsive burst of applause from the preview audience for her splendid scene as the downtrodden wife who is goaded into protest. The cast includes Robert McWade, Caroline Perkins, Delmar Watson, Harry Watson, James Burke, Virginia Grey and Donald Meek. The screen play is by George Kelly from a story by Garret Smith. The direction by J. Walter Ruben contrives a full measure of laughs. Harry Rapf produced.

Union Row in Court

Abraham Rosenson, ousted recording secretary of the Empire M. P. Operator's Union, appeared yesterday in mandamus proceedings in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, before Justice Charles J. Dodd to compel the union to restore him to his office. Abraham Kinzler, president of the union, testified that the dismissal charges against Rosenson were made on July 7 and on July 21, after a complete trial under the bylaws of the organization in which both sides of the question were heard, he was relieved of his post. Justice Dodd reserved decision.

C. J. Giegerich Resigns

Charles J. Giegerich resigned yesterday as sales manager of Celebrity Prod. His future plans are undecided, but he is considering proposals from two companies in addition to the possibility of opening his own office to handle special independent pictures, including a new series of color cartoons.

M-G-M Signs Wodehouse

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—P. G. Wodehouse, English humorist and creator of the character "Jeeves," has been signed to a writing contract with M-G-M. He reports to the studio in October.

Republic in S. A. Deal

Morris Goodman, sales manager of Republic's export department, has set a deal for distribution of the company's 1935-36 product in Colombia, South America, with Cine-Colombia.

Actors' Guild Claim Adjustment Nearing

Los Angeles, Aug. 27.—An amicable adjustment of claims filed against Columbia and Warners by the Screen Actors' Guild on behalf of Victor De Camp and Rex Alexander is imminent, following a request for an extension of the hearing by attorneys for both studios.

Producers are understood to have ironed out the problem between themselves at a Hays office meeting here, where chiseling on NRA hours and wages was prohibited.

The claims of De Camp for additional pay for speaking lines and Alexander for violation of the minimum contract wage most likely will be paid by the studios without any additional court action, according to the negotiations now under way. A committee consisting of Fred Beetson, Edwin Loeb and Campbell MacCulloch will henceforth pass judgment on producers violating the NRA system.

Pasadena Union Pact On Compromise Basis

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—Clarifying the settlement reached in Pasadena recently between I. A. T. S. E. Local 150 and the California Amusement Co. following a year's picketing campaign, Ray Miller, stockholder in the company, stated the deal was a compromise which resulted in the division of labor in the theatres between both the amusement company's workers and union labor.

Miller corrected the impression that the I. A. T. S. E. campaign was against the Robb & Rowley circuit, stating that Robb and Rowley were merely stockholders in the California Amusement Co. with George Haynes and himself.

Riskin Will Co-Direct

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—Robert Riskin will co-direct the next Grace Moore film, "Interlude," at Columbia with Harry Lachman. This will be Riskin's first directorial effort. He wrote the original and screenplay for the film which starts shooting in about three weeks.

"Navy Sky" Start Set

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—George Hirliman will start "Navy Spy" next week. Elinore Hunt and Conrad Nagel will play the leading roles, and Crane Wilbur, author of the story, will direct. The picture will be released by Grand National.

Sampson Back to Old Job

Detroit, Aug. 27.—George W. Sampson, formerly general manager for the Jacob Schreiber circuit and more recently proprietor of Sampson Theatre Premiums, has again joined the Schreiber forces in his former position. George W. Sampson, Jr., has taken charge of the premium business.

"To Mary" on Dual $15,000 In St. Louis

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—"To Mary—with Love" and "Love Begins at 20" was a strong combination at the Ambassador. The gross was $15,000, over par by $6,000, the best take in town, although there was some strong competition.

"The Devil Doll" and "We Went to College" at Loew's was above par by $2,900, while "Rhythm on the Range" and "Blackmailer" at the Orpheum also got into the profit class with a gross of $7,400, beating par by $400. "Yours for the Asking" and "The Final Hour" at the Fox had a take of $11,500, but were $2,500 below average.

The weather continued hot throughout the week, making the effective cooling systems of the first run houses extra attractive. The chief opposition of the week was the semi-final week of the Municipal Opera in Forest Park.

Total first run business was $46,800. Average is $40,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 20:

"TO MARY—WITH LOVE" (20th-Fox)
"LOVE BEGINS AT 20" (F.N.)
AMBASSADOR — (3,018), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $15,000. (Average, $9,000)

"YOURS FOR THE ASKING" (Para.)
"THE FINAL HOUR" (20th-Fox)

ORPHEUM—(1,950), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days Gross: $7,400. (Average, $7,000)

Chinese Consul Approves

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—Sam Katzman, president of Victory Pictures, submitted the script of his 15-episode serial, "Shadow of Chinatown," to Yi-Seng S. Kiang, vice-consul of China, to insure accuracy in the Chinese portions. The Honorable Mr. Kiang, with true Oriental courtesy, called in person to give his official approval to the producer and the cast which includes Bela Lugosi, Herman Brix, John Barclay, Luana Walters, Maurice Liu and Forrester Harvey.

"U" Picks "Guard" Leads

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—Universal has cast Walter Pidgeon and Alma Kruger in the leading roles of "The Case of the Constant Guard," and has set Henry Hunter for the juvenile lead. The picture will be co-directed by Milton Carruth and Lewis R. Foster, its authors.

Breen on a Vacation

Hollywood, Aug. 26.—Joseph I. Breen, head of the Production Code administration, is en route to Panama with his wife and daughter for a three-week vacation.

Repaint at Paramount

The local Paramount exchange is being repainted. Work started yesterday and is expected to be completed by Monday.

Variety Club

Cleveland

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—Variety Club is getting ready to open its clubrooms for the season. Plans are in the making for a dinner-dance and later in the fall a clambake. Frank Drew and Jack Shulman are in charge of arrangements under the direction of I. J. Schmertz, chief barker.

Des Moines

Des Moines, Aug. 27.—Variety Club has appointed Sam Brown, district manager for Tri-States, as chairman of a committee to plan the club's entertainment program for the fall and winter. The program will start the latter part of September.

The club also has started plans for the annual shut-in party, to be given by the club some time late in November at one of the larger theatres for inmates of the children's home, the old people's home, orphans' home and other shut-ins of the city.

M-G-M to Do "Pickwick"

Hollywood, Aug. 27.—M-G-M will produce Charles Dickens' "Pickwick Papers." The film will be done on the same scale as "David Copperfield" and "A Tale of Two Cities." Ben Goetz, British representative of the studio, will gather players in England for the leading roles, making his screen tests abroad. No director has been named.

"Deeds" in 10th Week

After playing all subsequent runs in the metropolitan area, "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" is now in its 10th week at the World Cinema, according to Gilbert Josephson, operator of the house. Josephson has not decided when he will withdraw the picture, he said yesterday.

Strikes Prove Expensive for Mexico Houses

Settlement Terms Call For Full Back Pay

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—Strikes in this country are full of complications and unexpected losses. Coming under the latter heading is the ruling that exhibitors must pay their workers full time for the nine days they were out during the electrical workers' strike.

Workers demanded their pay and refused to listen to proposals of some exhibitors that they call the layoff part of their annual vacations.

The strike payments reached about $200,000 and were in addition to an estimated loss of about $1,000,000 in business.

On top of these troubles most theatres along the northwestern Pacific coast of Mexico are now closed by a strike for higher wages and less work.

Pool in Sioux City Ends All Giveaways

Price cutting has been eliminated in Sioux City and giveaways shortly will be discarded as a result of the recently completed 10-year pool of eight first and second run theatres in and around that city, Mort Singer stated yesterday.

All but two theatres, A. H. Blank's Capitol and Singer's Orpheum, are included in the arrangement, Singer said. The deal is working out advantageously for all parties concerned, he added. Blank does the buying and booking for the eight houses involved.

Affiliated Theatres, Inc., is the company formed to operate the pool. Singer and Blank both have a stock interest in the firm.

New Federal Lawyer Enters Ascap Talks

Berkley Henderson of the Attorney General's office arrived here yesterday from Washington to aid Richard Bird, of the same office, in the current efforts to agree with Ascap's counsel on stipulations in connection with the Government's monopoly suit for the dissolution of the music society. Ascap is represented by Arthur Schwartz of Schwartz & Frohlich.

Indications are that the work will occupy all of next week.

Steady Increase Shown In Building and Renovations

Business gains are being reflected in steadily rising reports of new house construction, particularly in the midwest and south; widespread renovations of older houses, and an almost complete absence of closing reports.

New construction has gained rapidly as the summer has progressed, with 18 new houses underway or nearing completion in the south and nine in Missouri, in spite of drought effects in some of the wheat areas.

Renovation work is being rushed in preparation for fall business.

Remodel at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Remodeling and redecorating work is general here largely as a result of the new F. & M. alignment. The Ambassador, Grand Boulevard, Missouri and St. Louis are in the throes of redecoration and work has been finished at the Fox. The total outlay is expected to run to $135,000.

More than $75,000 is being spent at the Missouri. Changes here include a new canopy, new Neon lighting, a new

Fox Meet a Success, Says Spyros Skouras

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28.—The conference of Fox Midwest, Fox Intermountain and Fox Wisconsin executives drew to a close here today with the comment from Spyros Skouras that "it more than justified expectations."

"We hope," said Skouras, "for greater uniformity in affecting policies through the detailed analysis and discussion of film contracts. We shall emphasize the policy of extended runs at each theatre for big pictures, this being a policy which we have followed to some extent during the past season."

Pathe Loss $17,295 For 29-Week Period

Pathe Film Corp. and subsidiaries reports a net loss of $17,295.85 after provision for Federal income taxes for the 29 weeks ending July 12.

The film developing and printing laboratory showed a profit of $74,402.35, with net sales totalling $376,178.79 for the period. Income from film rentals totalled $437,934.56, but a total of $373,657.74 was allowed for distribution allowances, producers' participation, including estimated provisions for unrecouped advances to producers. Income from other opera-

Donkey vs. Leo

Omaha, Aug. 28.—Roy Bott, manager of the Amuzu at Hooper, Neb., came in for the state Legion convention, bringing along his famous mule which has made every Legion meeting during the past 10 years. The mule is famed for its beer-drinking activities and Bott never fails to bring the long-ears to every bar in town where good fellows always include the animal in a round of suds.

Bott declared his mule was willing to go any place and any time—except on Film Row. There the animal balked. By persuasion and force, he could be shoved into some exchanges, but he positively refused to enter the M-G-M office, a fact the entire row is howling about.

"Swing Time" Tops "Hat" Opening Day

"Top Hat," which held the opening day's record for the Music Hall until last Thursday with a gross for the day of $16,100, now assumes the title of runner up, "Swing Time" having set a new mark to shoot at with a tally of $17,000 for the first day's business.

Up to noon yesterday, the second day's figures were running close to the opening take, the difference being about $30 in favor of the first day's gross. The final intake on the week is expected to be in the neighborhood of $105,000.

The first hour's admissions at the Delay Foreseen for Philadelphia Pool

The pooling of four Paramount and three Warner Philadelphia theatres under the latter company's operation will not be completed by Sept. 1, the date originally contemplated for making the pool operative, it was stated officially at Paramount yesterday.

Negotiations now in progress are continuing, it was said, but there is no likelihood of their being completed in time for the Sept. 1 start. The theatres involved are the Circle, State and 69th St., Warner houses, and Roosevelt, Frankford, Tower and Paris, Paramount houses.

Patronage at Higher Scale Holds Levels

No Drop in Attendance, Despite Price Jumps

With the adoption of increased admissions in a number of spots throughout the country this week, attendance has held up, according to major and independent circuit heads whose units have advanced prices.

Simultaneously with the institution of new scales, the theatres opened with a strong line of product. "My Man Godfrey," "Anthony Adverse," "Swing Time" and "The Great Ziegfeld" are a few of the big pictures booked day-and-date with the new tariff.

Circuit operators, large and small, feel that now is the time to boost the price of admission. The country is in the frame of mind, it is held, what with general commodities increasing prices.

Important major and unaffiliated exhibitor heads who have arrived in town on and from trips within the past few weeks are optimistic over conditions throughout the country. In most instances, admissions have been hiked without any drop in attendance figures, some declared.

FWC to Reacquire Fox, Frisco House

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—A. M. Bowles today confirmed reports that negotiations by Fox West Coast for the reacquisition of the Fox, 5,651-seat house, are nearing completion. The deal has been pending for about two years. The Fox is now operated under receivership management by Henry Goldenberg, who has not yet received official notification of the deal.

Bowles stated that the policy of the house after reacquisition has not as yet been determined, but he further declared that it will not be a de luxe, high price scale, as first reported.

RCA Not to Service Warners—Bernhard

RCA Photophone is not being engaged to service sound equipment in the Warner circuit, Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the circuit, said yesterday.

Photophone officials stated recently that discussions with Warners regarding equipment servicing for the circuit were being held. Bernhard's statement is believed to signalize the end of those

Levine Calls Lease Action "Ridiculous"

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.—Answering the action filed in Superior Court by Guaranty Liquidating Corp. to rescind a lease on the Republic studios in which Guaranty charged misrepresentation at the time the lease was signed, Nat Levine, president of Republic, today charged the action was a "ridiculous attempt to befuddle the issues." Levine stated that when the lease was signed 18 months ago the property was in a dilapidated condition and the appraisal made by the Los Angeles Realty Board, at the request of Guaranty, set the valuation at $125,000 and the rental was based on that figure. Guaranty now wants $500,000, which is far in excess of the true worth as the purchase price, in their move to force payments by threats of legal action, Levine said.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Georgeous Hussy"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Aug. 28.—This film is undoubtedly one of the meatiest and finest pictorial examples of entertainment yet produced. Rich in color, heart interest, drama, homely pathos and vibrant emotion, it is headed for glorified rendezvous at the nation's box-offices. The portrayals approximate perfection against the background of early American politics in Washington.

Joan Crawford gives the finest performance of her career as Peggy Eaton, who climbs from the lowly station of inkeeper's daughter to the very heart and center of the Capital's political life, becoming the target for defaming gossip. Similarly impressive and true to history are the performances turned in by Lionel Barrymore as Andrew Jackson, Robert Taylor as Bow Timberlake and Melvyn Douglas as John Randolph. Exhibitors throughout the country will rush for this one with its cast name draw plus a human story which fully lives up to the name power of the picture.

It is the story of the climb of "Old Hickory" Jackson from the comparative obscurity of Tennesse Senator to the exalted office of President of the United States. He battles against the nasty tongue-lashing sentiment directed against his wife, Beulah Bondi, a coarse, but humanly sympathetic character who likes a good puff of tobacco from her pipe.

Miss Crawford is in love with Douglas, but is spurned because the latter thinks that he is too old for the girl. She subsequently marries Taylor, a dashing an enchanting young sailor, who is later killed in a naval battle.

Striking a strongly sympathetic note, Miss Bondi dies, the victim of wicked tongues, but Miss Crawford sticks by Barrymore when he feels that he cannot discharge the duties of the presidency without his wife. A powerful conflict of emotions results when the girl, still in love with Douglas, turns down a marriage proposal because his ideas of government conflict with those of Barrymore. She finally marries Franchot Tone because he loves her, whereupon the bitter talk reaches such a volume that Barrymore dismisses his entire cabinet to quell the uprising and protect the girl.

The bitterly fought campaign for President between Barrymore and John C. Calhoun, played by Frank Conroy, supplies an impressive spectacle. Most striking is the performance of Sidney Toler as Daniel Webster, whose silvery tongue has the desired effect on the Senate when civil war threatens.

Miss Crawford's wedding night with Taylor and a bundling scene following a hayride are delightfully humorous. The mood of the early American struggle for unity has been successfully captured by Director Clarence Brown, who has skillfully blended the emotion, pathos, comedy and spectacle into a pleasing whole. Allison Skipworth is excellent as a gossipy social leader, as are all performances. Ainsworth Morgan and Stephen Morehouse Avery deserve top credit for their preparation of a high caliber screenplay from the Samuel Hopkins Adams book. Joseph L. Mankiewicz produced lavishly and intelligently while George Folsey's photography achieved is excellent. This is mass entertainment.

Production Code Seal No. 2,439. Running time, 103 minutes. "G."

Agree on Skouras Notes

St. Louis, Aug. 28.—U. S. District Judge Charles B. Davis has authorized J. Buckner Fisher, receiver for the St. Louis National Bank, to compromise a debt due to the bank from Charles P. and Spyros Skouras amounting to $76,243. The compromise provides for full payment on demand notes, with one exception. The brothers receive an interest reduction from eight to six per cent, as of Dec. 1, 1932. Most of the loans were obtained between May and Nov., 1932. In addition to the demand notes, the Skouras brothers will each pay $5,500, representing an assessment on their bank stock. The bank closed in Jan., 1933.

Hollywood, Aug. 28.—Jesse Lasky, who arrived in Quebec from England on the Empress of Great Britain the other day, is due here by plane from Chicago tomorrow.

Ballyhoo to Start New England Season

New Haven, Aug. 28.—New England's fall season is to be ushered in with a motorcycle cavalcade. It's a tieup with the Indian Motorcycle Co. made by Harry Shaw and Erle Wright for the Loew-Poli circuit.

This is one angle of what looks like the start of a big season, with bookings of outstanding films, including "Anthony Adverse" in the Warner houses, another angle.

House renovations are being rushed in the meantime as the result of one of the best summer seasons in a long time.

The motorcycle crew starts out Monday at Worcester with four girl riders in costume and plenty of decorations. Governor Curley of Massachusetts will greet them. Visits will be made at Hartford, Meriden and this city. H. H. Maloney will greet them here and dinner will be served at the Seven Gables Inn. From here the group will go to New York, returning with stops at Bridgeport Friday and Waterbury on Saturday.

As another boost for the new season "The Great Ziegfeld" will be booked into Poli houses Sept. 4. Vaudeville and a dance contest are to be tried at the Globe, Bridgeport.

Army Officer Starts Film Industry Study

Hollywood, Aug. 28.—Capt. Richard T. Schlosberg, of the U. S. Army Signal Corps, is here to begin the study of film production as a continuation of the cooperative training program carried on by the War Dept. and the technical bureau of the Academy.

Capt. Schlosberg will study production technique and film equipment. His first two weeks will be spent in the plants of Eastman, du Pont and Agfa studying raw stock. The course has been arranged by the Academy with Major Nathan Levinson and Gordon S. Mitchell in charge.

To Offer Film Tests

Screen tests for film aspirants are being offered by the M. P. Bureau for New Talent, organized to provide tests on a less expensive basis than is now possible in New York in instances where such tests can not be obtained through home offices here. I. R. Gwirtz, head of the organization, states that the tests are designed solely as a service of convenience to such aspirants and that the completed test becomes the property of the aspirant for use as he sees fit.

Shauer in Talent Job

Hollywood, Aug. 28.—Melville A. Shauer is temporarily replacing Jack Votion, resigned, as head of the Paramount talent department. He will continue as an associate producer on "This Way Please" and "Every Day's a Holiday." Fred Schuessler remains as casting director at the studio. Shauer will reorganize the talent department and make an effort to sign new players.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sitting On The Moon"

(Republic)

Hollywood, Aug. 28.—This is a musical farce concerning the Hollywood adventures of Roger Pryor and William Newell, a pair of songwriters, presented acceptably as average entertainment.

Pryor, an irresponsible tunesmith, has long nursed a secret yen for Grace Bradley, a former star, who has been blackballed by the studios for deserting a picture. Finding Miss Bradley in the extra ranks with his friend, Pert Kelton, Pryor personally strives to engineer her comeback. Through scheming he manages to get Miss Bradley a radio contract. When they are about to culminate their romance, Joyce Compton appears on the scene, claiming that Pryor had married her during a drunken moment. The lovers are then separated and not united until after further difficulties when the Pryor-Compton marriage is proved a phony. Meanwhile Newell and Miss Kelton carry on the traditional comedy romance.

The direction of Ralph Staub is at its best in the musical sequences, although a few opportunities for a fresh treatment are afforded by the screenplay of Raymond Schrock and the adaptation by Rex Taylor and Sidney Sutherland. Two pleasing musical numbers are provided by Sam Stept and Sidney Mitchell. Albert Levoy, the producer, has furnished good production values and wise casting. Included in the support are Henry Kolker, Henry Wadsworth and The Theodores, who do a neat dance specialty.

Production Code Seal No. 2,475. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Three Married Men"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Aug. 28.—Based on the provincial premise that there is something side-splittingly funny about any wedding night, this comedy gambols heavily through forced situations, gathering as many guffaws as it does chuckles.

The family of Roscoe Karns, the bridegroom, hates the family of Mary Brian, the bride, and all the relatives behave with incredibly bad taste at the wedding. Determined to strike a romantic note from the start, Karns dons comically exotic pajamas. His bride falls into hysterical laughter at his appearance and after the ensuing quarrel runs home in her negligee to her parents, giving both families opportunity for speculation, which implies more than is spoken in the innocuous lines.

The cast, which deserves better material, includes William Frawley, Lynne Overmann, George Barbier, Marjorie Gateson, Betty Ross Clarke, Mabel Colcord, Bennie Bartlet, Gail Sheridan, Cora Sue Collins, Donald Meek and Charles Wilson, under the direction of Eddie Buzzell. The screen play is by Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell from a story by Owen Davis, Sr. Arthur Hornblow, Jr., produced.

Production Code Seal No. 2,468. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Piccadilly Jim," which opened at the Capitol yesterday morning, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on Aug. 4.

"Girls' Dormitory," now current at the Roxy, was previewed from Hollywood on July 27.

Dored of Paramount Is Seized in Spain

Hendaye, French-Spanish Border, Aug. 28.—John Dored, Paramount News cameraman on an assignment, was seized and three bodyguards executed by Rebel forces near Naval Moral yesterday, it was learned here. It is believed Dored escaped execution and is in prison awaiting the outcome of verification of his claims to American citizenship. Negotiations for his release were started immediately by Paramount representatives in London, Paris and Washington.

Dored and his three bodyguards, it is reported, set out from Madrid seeking material along the front lines. It is said they encountered a Rebel outpost, were surrounded and taken.

Paramount News stated yesterday representations looking toward Dored's release have been launched with the State Dep't at Washington.

Erpi Men Leave for Regional Sessions

Local sales meetings of Erpi's field forces will be held throughout the country next week, following the closing here yesterday of the exhibition and demonstration of the new W. E. Mirrophonic sound system in conjunction with a three-day sales convention at the Hotel Pierre.

The following Erpi sales representatives left yesterday to prepare for local meetings in their respective cities next week: F. W. Johnson, Cincinnati; F. C. Bickley, Detroit; A. T. Orr, Chicago; O. E. Maxwell, Minneapolis; O. B. Hunt, Dallas, and C. H. Weeks, Cleveland.

All other Erpi sales officials who came here for the meeting leave today, with the exception of the west coast representatives who will remain through Monday to receive details of a new Erpi recording equipment development which was not made known during the meeting.

The Erpi equipment exhibit was inspected by and demonstrated for exhibitors yesterday.

Poli-WPA Studying Joint Arrangement

Hartford, Aug. 28.—WPA and Loew-Poli are working out a plan for joint operation of the Palace with pictures and stock.

Present indications are three weeks of straight pictures beginning Sept. 5, followed by two weeks of WPA Civic Repertory. Then three weeks of pictures, and two weeks more of stock for the season.

During the layoff in Hartford, WPA will put dramatic shows into one of the Loew-Poli houses in Meriden. WPA has been running continuously at the Palace in Hartford since June 10. Grosses are so-so.

C. R. Beacham Dies

Atlanta, Aug. 28. — C. R. Beacham, 64, connected with Warners here for the past few years, and formerly branch manager of the First National Atlanta office, died at his home here this week, after a short illness.

signature sign, travertine walls inside, and new murals. Rest rooms also are being rebuilt. The work is being done under the direction of John Eberson.

At the St. Louis a general housecleaning job is in progress. Exterior and interior walls are being resurfaced, a new foyer is being installed and the mezzanine is being done over. The Ambassador work includes a new canopy, new lighting effects, fixtures, carpets and other changes.

In the surrounding territory Normandy, a suburb, is to have a new house to be erected by Normandy Theatres, Inc., headed by W. W. Kieselhorst, of modern design. Another house is planned by the Wellston Amusement Co.

Building Active in South

Atlanta, Aug. 28.—New construction is general throughout the south. Eighteen projects are underway at present in 10 states in addition to many reported earlier in the summer. Eight more renovations have been started and nine houses have changed hands lately. One old one has reopened.

Georgia is the scene of the greatest activity. New building projects include a house being built by Troumi Douglas at Vidalia, a house at Thomasville to be owned by the Thomasville Bldg. Co.

W. L. Brandenburg of Clarkdale has purchased the Ritz at Marietta; Tri-States has leased the Atlanta here and will redecorate, and the O. C. Lam Amusement Co. has acquired the Jable at LaGrange. Lucas & Jenkins will improve the Lyric at Waycross at an estimated cost of $10,000.

Florida's latest houses include the Ritz at Talladega, a new Sparks house at Fort Joe to seat 1,000. The Sparks circuit also has leased the Eustis and Mt. Dora at Eustis from Dr. C. M. Tyre and the Vam Croix and Eau Claire at Melbourne. Another new project is planned by the recently incorporated Brevard Theatres, Inc., at Jacksonville.

Remodeling Heavy in N. C.

In North Carolina the Hollywood at Mebane has been opened and the State at Newton has gone into commission. Remodeling jobs include the Paramount at Asheville, the Broadway at Reidsville and the Criterion at Charlotte. Carolina Playhouses, Inc., has purchased theatres at Selma and Wendell.

A new house is to be constructed at Columbia, S. C., by Palmetto Amusements, Inc. It will be on the site of the old Imperial. Malco Theatres, Inc., is building the Strand at Pine Bluff, Ark. The Ritz, a new house, has been opened at Fairhope, Ala. Tennessee has two new houses, one soon to be started by Wilby & Kincey at Knoxville and the Ray at Bells, which has just been completed.

In Texas the Opera House at New Braunfels has been remodeled, a new house is nearing completion at Nederland, the Lincoln at Houston has been leased by Milton Starr from the Guardian Trust Co., and Leo Theatre, Inc., has been chartered at San Antonio.

A new project is in the offing in Kentucky for the Lincoln Theatre Co. at Lexington. The Alamo at Louisville is being remodeled.

West Virginia activity includes a new house at Charlestown for E. W. and T. S. Kelly. Urling & Davis have purchased the Grand at Moundsville from F. Arthur Simon and M. Jacobs of Cleveland.

Rush RKO Boston Repairs

Boston, Aug. 28.—Remodeling at the RKO Boston is being done at night so the house can be kept open. The work will be completed shortly and the house will drop double features for films and stage shows on Sept. 3.

The Suffolk, at Holyoke, was given a formal opening after a remodeling job yesterday.

Alperson Going West For Producer Deals

E. L. Alperson, president of Grand National, will leave by air for the coast tomorrow for conferences with Hollywood counsel and Carl Leserman, general sales manager, on the signing of new producers. One of the deals to be set will be with Joseph von Sternberg, who will probably make three for Grand National's program next season.

Alperson, upon his return from England Thursday, said he did not plan to leave for the coast for 10 days. Yesterday, however, he received a telephone call from Leserman and decided to change the schedule.

Leserman is due to leave Hollywood Monday and arrive here the following day.

Pathe Loss $17,295 For 29-Week Period

tions totalled $17,339.26, and miscellaneous income reached $99,817.66, making a profit before interest and other expenses of $15,938.63.

Interest expense, loss on sale of capital assets and loss on purchase of stock of subsidiaries totalled $42,159.17. Other deductions brought the loss before income tax provision to $15,920.78. Income taxes were $1,375.

Gartner Heads Nominees

Charles L. Gartner heads the list of nominees submitted by the nominating committee for the annual election of the Paramount Pep Club to be held Sept. 22.

Others on the list are: Vice-president, Joseph J. Doughney; treasurer, Carl H. Clausen; secretary, Esther Jablow; board of governors (two-year term), John W. Hicks, Jr., Edward Wall, Maude K. Miller, Frank Meyer and Lillian H. Grossman; one-year term, Arthur J. Leonard.

RKO Team Holds Lead

RKO maintained its lead in the M. P. Baseball League as a result of the games played this week with a record of 11 games won and three lost. The team defeated Consolidated, 1—0. Other results of the week were: Music Hall, 4; Consolidated, 3; Music Hall, 8; Columbia, 0.

Trailing RKO in the league standing are Music Hall, Skouras, Consolidated, Loew's-M-G-M, Paramount, Columbia, NBC and United Artists in the order named.

Roxy yesterday when "Girls' Dormitory" opened, marking the American debut of Simone Simon, totaled 3,842. Howard Cullman, trustee, is excited about the showing and anticipates a $58,000 to $60,000 week. The take is possible in view of an increased price scale which went into effect with the opening of the film. The day was expected to show around $7,500.

Cullman sent a wire to Darryl F. Zanuck about the opening, adding that "Simone is responsible for a new industry disease—cashiers' exhaustion." The Roxy wound up the week on "Seven Sinners" with a profitable $34,700.

The Strand, for the third day of "Anthony Adverse," continued to do capacity business. "Pepper" and "Jailbreak" at the Palace ended with approximately $9,000. The Rialto, with "Crouching Beast," did about $6,000.

"Piccadilly Jim" opened to fair business at the Capitol, supplanting "His Brother's Wife," which finished with about $25,000 on the second week. The new tenant will stay until next Friday, when "The Gorgeous Hussy" will occupy the screen.

discussions. The Warner theatre head added that Frank E. Cahill, Jr., director of sound and projection for the company's theatres, would continue to supervise the servicing of sound in the circuit. Photophone officials could not be reached for comment on the Bernhard statement yesterday.

Warners recently installed RCA Photophone sound equipment in 13 key theatres, including the Strand, New York; Stanley, Philadelphia, and Stanley, Pittsburgh. Photophone closed with National Theatres recently for the servicing of that circuit's equipment and stated recently that it had similar deals under discussion with other circuits.

effort to cut down the pass evil. The civic treasurer gives out tickets and policemen walk in without tickets. One manager estimated half his matinee audience was in free recently.

Under the new arrangement all who try to get in on badges have to give the numbers and identify themselves, and pass holders also have to prove who they are. The lists are to be sent later to the city treasurer and police authorities.

Jeanne Madden Honored

Scranton, Aug. 28.—Mayor Stanley J. Davis issued a proclamation calling for observance of today as Jeanne Madden Day in honor of the Scranton girl who plays opposite Dick Powell in "Stage Struck."

The picture opened tonight at the Strand. Twenty policemen escorted Miss Madden to the theatre. A vast crowd greeted her at the theatre.

Chaplin Plans Another

Hollywood, Aug. 28. — Charlie Chaplin said today that he would make a second film starring Paulette Goddard with himself as the producer and director. It will be based on the English novel, "Regency," by D. L. Murray, and will follow the production now in work known as "No. 6."

N.E. Business Nearing 1930, Report Shows

Six-State Study Shows Employment Gains

Boston, Aug. 30.—The New England Council's latest report reveals a definite upward trend of business, reaching a peak that has not been touched since 1930. The index, based upon a regional survey by the council, illustrates a trend of business from 85.8 per cent of normal in June to 93.6 last month, with every part of the index contributing to the improvement.

Employment trends are also upward. At present the index stands at the highest level since June, 1930, and is 18.2 per cent above the period of July, 1935.

The cotton, boot and wool industries have shown a steady increase.

A report by the Employers' Ass'n. of New Haven County showed an increase of 2.5 per cent in industrial employment between June and July and a 9.8 per cent increase in the number of employes over July of last year. A further indication of this business improvement is shown by the percentage increase in local payrolls between July, 1935, and July, 1936.

Building contracts have increased 14.8 per cent in value over June and are almost double that of July, 1935. Total value of building contracts in New England during the month of July amounted to $21,494,000, accord-

Studio Activity Up; Making 44 Features

Hollywood, Aug. 30.—Seven new features went into production last week to show a slight uplift in activity over the preceding week.

Forty-four features and four short subjects were shooting as compared to 42 features and two shorts for the previous seven days. Cutting rooms became even busier than in recent weeks with 58 pictures being finally edited. Twenty-seven features were scheduled to start within a two-week period.

New films launched were "Come Closer, Folks" and "The Depths Below" at Columbia, "Maytime" co-starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy also "Love on the Run" with Clark Gable, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone at M-G-M, "Love and Laughter," a Richard Rowland pro-

"Swing Time" Heads For $125,000 Gross

"Swing Time" is expected to gross around $125,000 for its first week at the Music Hall. The opening day's take totaled $17,100 with the second day ending with approximately $16,500. Weekend weather was favorable for all theatres along Broadway.

If "Swing Time" garners the anticipated figure, it will be the second largest gross for the Music Hall. "Top Hat" holds the all-time record with $130,000.

"Girls' Dormitory" established a new first day attendance mark at the Roxy last Friday when the cashiers recorded 12,333 paid admissions. Gross

Jersey Allied Plans Fight On Proposed Sales Levies

Plans by Gov. Hoffman to revive a move for a sales tax in New Jersey which would include theatres will be one of the principal topics of discussion at the Allied of New Jersey convention at the Traymore, Atlantic City, on Sept. 10-11.

Theatre owners across the Hudson are prepared to fight any new moves for a sales tax which would embrace theatres, it was stated by an executive of Allied of New Jersey. The organization recently was successful in helping to ward off a sales tax which originally figured at 10 per cent on all tickets marked over 25 cents and then reduced to four per cent on all admissions over 10 cents.

"Early Bird" Plan Starts Here Friday

Hour for Evening Prices To Change at 5 P.M.

Plans to eliminate "early bird" admissions and at the same time adopt a 5 P.M. evening scale in the local territory are scheduled to be put into effect Friday and Saturday. The move was agreed upon several weeks ago when major and independent circuit heads met at C. C. Moskowitz's office. Harry Brandt, who attended the session for his circuit, also represented the I.T.O.A., which has gone on record as favoring the policy.

A meeting is expected to be held this week by representatives of Broadway theatres at which a plan either similar to that already agreed upon for the neighborhoods or with a few changes will be discussed. Several of the important exhibitor leaders who attended the session at Moskowitz's office individually have been working on drafts of their own for the Broadway group of houses. The various features of these plans will be aired and the best parts are expected to be merged into a uniform schedule, it is stated.

Local theatre men feel that the move to drop the low morning admission and simultaneously institute a 5 P.M. night price scale is one of the most constructive programs in this territory in years. When adopted,

Peskay Negotiating For Several Houses

Edward J. Peskay is negotiating with a number of theatre operators and landlords for the acquisition of a string of new houses for his circuit. Peskay now has six theatres, having recently dropped the Storm King, Cornwall, which has since been taken over by Moe Baranco, who formerly managed it for Peskay.

Peskay prefers to keep his activities outside the metropolitan New York area. His idea is to eventually develop his circuit so that he will have a unit in every key city. There is no set number of theatres Peskay is shooting for, he says, but whatever comes along and has possibilities he will take.

New Rochelle Bans B. N.

Declaring that the crowds which congregate outside a theatre on Bank Night evenings constitute a nuisance and traffic hazard, Philip S. Tilden, New Rochelle's director of public safety, has banned the game. Tilden's action followed a Bank Night jam during the weekend at the RKO-Proctor. The lottery question did not enter into the decision.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

AT a recent company meeting of Associated British in London, where John Maxwell, the canny Scotchman, with pride reported the year's net profit of almost $3,200,000, there also were made a few remarks about the status of the British production industry. Of more than passing interest, they were:

> "I referred last year to the unsatisfactory conditions prevailing in production and I am now glad to say improvement is in sight. The wild welter of frenzied finance that created these conditions is now abating. The inevitable losses resulting from the handing over of large sums of money to inexperienced people are now having their consequential effects. More rational conditions are already operating and I anticipate shortly a return to normal conditions that will enable British production to become stabilized and prosperous again."

It was inescapable that the pronounced wildcatting which has provided such a joy ride for production incompetents finally would witness its day ended and a more reasonable procedure take hold. This was one of the conclusions which we carried away from the now rapidly receding British tour. Yet Maxwell's emphatic observations that the day already had arrived comes as a surprise. For the ultimate good of English production and in the long view the conclusion can only be one and it is that his appraisal of the current situation is correct. Our own thought, provided Maxwell has no violent objection, is that there is considerably more optimism so far in his point of view than fact, although we are the first to admit that the avenues which his importance in London open to him easily could supply him with drifts and signs not available to us on the basis of a mere sixteen days along the Thames. . . .

Another conclusion which made the westbound voyage with us and has been swimming around in our mental tank since is that one of these minutes, days, weeks, months or years England will have a genuinely important producing business. If you were to turn fussy and embarrass by asking when, frankly we would dodge the answer because we don't know. Among the character markers which go to make up the Britisher, it should be remembered, is the most persistent type of determination. Your Englishman may blunder through when it comes to this or that and he may not always find his objective within grasping distance. But he does stick it out, not always worrying about the length of time involved, and his history shows that, by and large, he makes the grade more often than not. . . .

There is, then, his stick-to-itiveness. There is also the national point of view, kept cooking merrily by the professional, combining with some of the genuine, patriotism of the producer and the realization of the enormous influence swung by motion pictures as such on the part of the government. These factors originally evidenced themselves in the first quota law and they will continue to dominate sufficiently to bring about the enactment of an extension of that legislation on tougher terms for the foreign film company, which means the American. . . .

On the one hand is persistence. On the other, practically government subsidy. Joining them together spells a golden opportunity to make money and wave the Union Jack. It's a set-up, not exactly pure nor quite so simple. Years may pass before Britain takes her place in that much-discussed international production sun, but it is our conviction that day will arrive finally. It may come about eventually on its own or it may be hastened by American participation through deals such as the quiescent Loew and Twentieth Century-Fox buy into Gaumont British, but it is in the cards. . . .

When it does, then what? The answer to that is two-fold at least and perhaps beyond. It is not inconceivable, nor is it rash to forecast the time when playdates for American product on British screens will shrink from their approximate seventy-five per cent today to somewhere between thirty and forty-five. Better English product and more stringent quota will do it. America's reduced return from her most profitable overseas market will leave a very damaging and disturbing mark here and cut its way into the vitals of the domestic industry. If conditions improve to a point where the shrinkage can be supplanted by increased grosses here, no concern will follow. If not, which seems likely, any sharp curtailment from foreign revenue, English or otherwise, will make it necessary to trim sails in Hollywood, bring about a reduction in negative budgets and throttle the sustained flow of quality attractions. . . .

In the light of these storm signals, exactly what M. H. Aylesworth means when he goes on record as opposed to American domination of the British industry and for cooperation is not not quite apparent. England—and at least the program is honest because it is in the clear—is admittedly going very far indeed to hop up native production. She has never cheered Americans or American pictures, wants them throttled down to a point where her own will be the big noise, an old British custom, by the way, and has introduced into a straight matter of business and competition where price and merit ordinarily are the determining factors official support. She is forcing upon the dominant percentage of her exhibitors a product, her own, which they do not want and say they do not want. It appears not entirely unreasonable, as a consequence, to view any possible cooperation with irony and perhaps something more under existing circumstances. . . .

Trailer Service in Deals for Its Sales

With sales representatives set in two territories, Theatre Trailer Service expects to close a number of other deals this week which will establish a selling force in Philadelphia and metropolitan New York and one or two other spots.

Phil Markell and Meyer Rosen have closed a deal with Walter J. Freudenberg, newly appointed general sales manager, for the handling of the trailers in six New England states. Headquarters will be in Boston. Ray Netemeier has concluded arrangements for the St. Louis territory and will represent the company there.

Distribution of all trailers will be handled from the home office in New York. Mark Block, a director of Allied of New Jersey and owner of the Station and Lyric, Newark, is president of the company. Edmund Mantell, who operates five Bronx theatres, is vice-president, which makes the company exhibitor-owned and operated.

G. N. Set in Des Moines

DES MOINES, Aug. 30.—Grand National will open a branch at 1102 High St. Sept. 1, with Lou Levy, who has been with M-G-M in Iowa for the past ten years, as manager. L. L. Wells and Bob Winnig, former M-G-M salesmen, have been appointed salesmen.

Baxter for Powell

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Warners have borrowed Warner Baxter to be co-starred with Kay Francis. The deal is part of an arrangement with Twentieth Century-Fox which has borrowed Dick Powell for "On The Avenue."

U. A. Trailer Ballyhoo

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—United Artists is preparing a special trailer for theatres. Included will be scenes from "Dodsworth," "The Gay Desperado," "Come and Get It," "The Last of the Mohicans" and "Garden of Allah."

ing to the index of orders compiled by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

Theatre reopenings in Connecticut include the Springfield at Springfield, the Mayfair at Terryville after renovation and the State at Hartford.

A new house is in prospect for Hamden. It will be built by the recently organized Whitney Theatre Co., Inc., headed by Maurice H. Bailey.

The Bostwick at Bridgeport has been acquired by Harold Taschman of New Haven, who will remodel it and open next month.

Two Pittsburgh Openings

Pittsburgh, Aug. 30.—Two reopenings are set here. George Jaffe will reopen the Casino Labor Day after a four-month shutdown with burlesque and films. The Art Cinema will go back into lights with foreign films Sept. 12. The house has been redecorated since the flood last spring.

Three Opened in Ohio

Cleveland, Aug. 30.—The U. S. Theatre, closed six years, has been opened by Ed Cole and the Mayfield Center, built by Louis Israel, has just been opened. A new house at Pomeroy is to be opened in September by the Meigs Theatre Co. incorporated by Walter B. Urling, R. T. Jennings and George C. Davis.

Remodel Two in Indiana

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 30.—Remodeling has been started on the Orpheum. It will be a complete job. The Gaiety at Bluffton also is being improved after having been dark several years. Charles Mallers will operate.

Open at West Branch

Detroit, Aug. 30.—James Olsen's new Midstate has just been opened at West Branch. It is claimed to be one of the most modern out-state houses in Michigan. The Omegau there is to be closed.

K. C. Changes Numerous

Kansas City, Aug. 30.—In this territory three houses have changed hands, seven renovation jobs have been started, eight new houses are soon to open and three others have been reopened, according to latest reports. This is in spite of drought conditions that have affected crops in some sections.

As the result of reseating and other improvements the Mary Lue reports a 30 per cent increase in business.

The new houses are scattered. Glen Caldwell is opening the Caldwell at Aurora; N. W. Huston has a new one at Neosho; Charles Travis has a new 600-seater at Sarcoxie; merchants at Omaga are contemplating a new house; Charles A. Swearcinsky is planning a second house at Washington, Kan.; Tom Hall is building at Richmond, Mo.; J. Harry Browne has opened the new Trian at Lakin, Mo.

Remodeling jobs are general. Roy Culley is remodeling the Pastime at Medicine Lodge, Kan.; C. A. Spainbour is installing new equipment at Greensburg, Kan.; the B. & K. Newman here is being redecorated and new sound is being installed; Don Pugh is remodeling the White Way at Fredonia, Kan.; Mrs. E. Nolan is having the Ozark at Caseville, Mo., done over; Herman Lee has the Majestic at Jetmore, Kan., closed for a month for general renovation; Roy Jones is installing new equipment and will rename the former Dickinson house at Marceline, Mo.

A. W. Heyl and C. B. Kelly have sold the Golden Bell at Ellsworth, Kan., to Frank Dodson; R. E. Hamler will reopen the Kesner at Leroy, Kan., soon; Emanuel Rolsky has leased the St. John here to A. Charon of Minneapolis; Wayne Jenkins has taken over the Douglas at Lees Summit, Mo., and is redecorating. The Empress here will be opened as a burlesque house.

Studio Activity Up; Making 44 Features

duction for Paramount, "Daddy and I" at Radio and "Wild Brian Kent," Sol Lesser feature for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Paramount went into the lead among the majors for heavy activity having 10 features working. Columbia had three shooting, three preparing and 10 editing. Samuel Goldwyn had two, zero and one; M-G-M, six, two and 12; Paramount, 10, six and six; Pickford-Lasky, zero, zero and one; Republic, zero, three and three; Radio, four, five and four; Roach, one, one and zero; Selznick International, zero, zero and one; Twentieth Century-Fox, six, two and five; Universal, three, two and three; Warners, eight, zero and 10, and the independents one, three and two.

Short subject activity showed a slight gain also. Columbia had one in work, two preparing and one in the cutting room. M-G-M had two, three and seven; Radio, one, one and three; Roach, zero, one and zero; independents, zero, one and one.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Tattler"

Hollywood, Aug. 30.—Presenting a refreshing angle on radio commentators, this is an amusing comedy.

Ross Alexander, a studio press agent, becomes a fast talking Hollywood radio gossip when Craig Reynolds, a picture star, has him fired. Alexander has two main purposes in life. One, revenge on Reynolds, and the other the winning of Ann Nagel, a radio singer. Hitting hard with his broadcasts he draws retaliation from Reynolds who induces Norman Willis, a gangster, and John Sheehan and George Stone, his aides, to come to his aid. Talking his way out of the first threat from the mob Alexander continues his air blasts, ending only after further complications land him in a hospital, the gang in jail and sends Reynolds from town.

Glenda Farrell, who is included in the case, has a small role but handles her one scene with Miss Nagel in her usual competent fashion. William Clemens directed, sustaining suspense throughout. The screenplay is the work of Roy Chanslor from a story by Michel Jacoby. Miss Nagel ably sells two songs written by M. K. Jerome and Jack Scholl. The picture should please generally as average entertainment.

resentatives. Jack Partington, John Eberson and Paul Ash arrived here from New York by plane on Saturday. Partington will supervise the new presentation policy slated for the St. Louis, starting Sept. 4, and also for the Ambassador, beginning Oct. 2. Ash is assisting him on the musical end. Eberson is here to work on the construction drafts for seven new theatres which will be added to the F. & M. circuit by the end of the year.

Product deals already have been completed by the circuit with Universal, Twentieth Century-Fox, Warners-First National and Columbia. In negotiation are the 10-year franchise with RKO, a term deal with Paramount and a one-year deal with G.B.

many to send as many films as she likes into Austria, sans duties or tariffs.

Germany is not inclined to change the conditions as they apply to Austria. It is reported Austrian distributors already have violated the current "kontingent" arrangement through the sale of nine additional films to German distributors. In a move to circumvent the existing restrictions, Austria is reported now endeavoring to produce a number of attractions in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, thereby seeking to take advantage of the reciprocal deals current between those countries and this. It is entirely probable as a result that Germany will introduce new regulations making the import of Austrian films in other ways except by direct exchange impossible.

Charter Spokane Firm

Spokane, Aug. 30.—The People's Theatre Co. has been incorporated here by J. L. Cooper, Arthur O'Neil, Bill Evans and Cecil D. Miller. Capitalization is listed at $10,000.

Short Subjects

"Violets in Spring"

(M-G-M)

A miniature musical comedy which stands out because of a diverting idea, its music, dancing and clever staging. It depicts a relentless business life and stern employer developing through an unvarying routine a group of automatons who find time or interest for little outside their work. A janitor's experimental psychology upsets the routine for a boy and girl who have been working opposite each other for four years without either one being aware of the other. The results make for good entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 2,197. Running time, 21 minutes. "G."

"Behind the Headlines"

(M-G-M)

This is a picturization of a metropolitan newspaper's handling of an exclusive story from the time the tip is received to the appearance of the story on the street. It is conceived primarily to exhibit news gathering and publishing facilities in operation and this has been given added interest by making these processes a part of a continuing story. Transmission of wire photos, the routine of news handling and the mechanical steps of putting a paper to press are of most interest in this well developed subject. Pete Smith comments. Production Code Seal No. 2345. Running time, 11 minutes. "G."

"Mad Money"

(Tru-Film-Columbia)

This is the first of "The Court of Human Relations" series. Like the plots in others to come, this is similar to the sketches from the True Story Magazine radio hour. The initial effort unreels a tragic and tearful drama written around the winner of a sweepstakes ticket. When he collects, his wife goes on an insane buying spree while he worries about the Government's share in taxes. A climax is reached after a family squabble when the wife packs up and leaves with the prize. A reconciliation with comment from courtroom spectators follows. The film is played in flashback before a judge holding court and is aimed directly at the followers of the broadcast. Should be popular. Production Code Seal No. 01145. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Hays and Roncoroni Have Talk on Italy

duction aid for the $10,000,000 studio project being launched near Rome. Tied in with his visit and its success or failure, it is understood, is new legislation vitally affecting American film companies which is said to be under consideration in Rome. The legislation, according to report, contemplates a drastic change in the regulations governing the withdrawal of money from Italy together with new restrictions on the uses to which "frozen" credits may be put in that country.

Roncoroni plans to remain here for another week and may confer again with Hays during the next few days.

"Adverse" Big With $29,000, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—Topped by the big $29,000 for the first week of "Anthony Adverse" at the Boyd, grosses came back this week with a bang. "Adverse" is expected to run three weeks.

For half the week, the weather was very bad, the second half cooled off, materially aiding grosses.

"Sing, Baby, Sing" got a near $15,500 at the Fox. "I'd Give My Life," flanked by Herb Williams' revue on the stage, clicked at the Earle for $13,500. "His Brother's Wife" ended its Stanley engagement with a good $14,500 for the second week.

Film men are enthusiastic over the prospect of a big September, what with "Romeo and Juliet," "Gorgeous Hussy," "Swing Time," "Mary of Scotland," "Road to Glory" and "Texas Rangers" all booked for the next three weeks.

Total first run business is $86,900. Average is $71,800.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"SPENDTHRIFT" (Para.)
ARCADIA—(600), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days, (2nd run). Gross: $1,900. (Average, $2,800)

PALO ALTO, Aug. 30.—Edwin Carewe's project to establish a studio here to produce educational films has been protested by the Palo Alto residents' Club, which has filed a petition with the City Council.

"Wife" Grabs $19,500 Lead In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—"His Brother's Wife" was away out front among the downtown first runs with a take of $19,500 at the Penn. This was nearly 100 per cent over normal.

"Sing, Baby, Sing" also was in the money with a gross of $6,000 at the Fulton. This was $2,000 to the good. "Yours for the Asking," with a Major Bowes' unit, at the Stanley ran into heavy money, $25,000, which was $8,500 on the profit side.

"Meet Nero Wolfe" and a re-issue of "State Fair" were weak at the Alvin and were yanked after five days to under $3,000 while "Satan Met A Lady" and "Love Begins at 20" took $3,750 at the Warner.

Total first run grosses were $57,250. Average is $39,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"MEET NERO WOLFE" (Col.)
"STATE FAIR" (20th-Fox)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 5 days. Gross: $3,000. (Average, for 7 days, $4,500)

"SATAN MET A LADY" (W. B.)
"LOVE BEGINS AT 20" (F.N.)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,750. (Average, $4,000)

"Rhythm", $10,300 Hit in Providence

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 30.—Top honors were scored here by the Strand which grossed a sensational $10,300 with "Rhythm on the Range." The usual take is $6,500. Crosby is one of the most consistent money-makers in this town.

Cooler weather aided business, although racing at Narragansett cut in on the matinee attendance. The Majestic, with "China Clipper" and "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack," came in for $7,800 which bettered par by $800. "The Last of the Mohicans" and "Women Are Trouble" at Loew's State were under the usual $12,000 by $3,500, and Fay's, with "Jail Break," pictures of the Louis-Sharkey fight and vaudeville, caught $5,000, down $2,000.

Total first run business was $33,600. Average is $32,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"RHYTHM ON THE RANGE" (Para.)
"NAVY BORN" (Republic)
STRAND—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $10,300. (Average, $6,500)

"CHINA CLIPPER" (F.N.)
MAJESTIC — (2,400), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,800. (Average, $7,000)

"JAIL BREAK" (W.B.)
LOUIS-SHARKEY FIGHT
FAY'S—(1,600), 15c-40c, 7 days. Stage: Vaudeville. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $7,000)

"THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS" (U.A.)
"WOMEN ARE TROUBLE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,400), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,500. (Average, $12,000)

"Dormitory" Dual Milwaukee's Lead

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30.—"Girls' Dormitory" and "State Fair" were high grossers with an $8,800 take at Fox's Wisconsin for State Fair Week here. The Riverside, with "The Gentleman from Louisiana" and with "Sketches and Models" on the stage, was the only other house to meet par, grossing $5,000.

What with the fair drawing over 375,000 people during the week and the weather for Saturday, Sunday and Monday in the 90's, business was hard hit. It was estimated that one out of every five Milwaukee residents visited a city park or bathing beach Sunday, with a total attendance of 125,435 persons.

Total first run business was $24,400. Average is $24,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 26:

"CHINA CLIPPER" (F.N.)
"M'LISS" (Radio)
WARNER—(2,400), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $4,800. (Average, $5,000)

Week Ending Aug. 27:

"GENTLEMAN FROM LOUISIANA" (Republic)
RIVERSIDE—(2,300), 20c-25c-30c, 7 days. Stage: "Sketches and Models." Gross: $5,000. (Average, $5,000)

"GIRLS' DORMITORY" (20th-Fox)
"STATE FAIR" (20th-Fox)
WISCONSIN—(3,200), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,800. (Average, $8,000)

Week Ending Aug. 28:

"HIS BROTHER'S WIFE" (M-G-M)
"RETURN OF SOPHIE LANG" (Para.)
STRAND—(1,400), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $1,300. (Average, $1,500)

"Sing, Baby" Dual $6,000, Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 30.—With no letup from the record-breaking heat until the final day for the past week's pictures, grosses held up fairly well. "Sing, Baby, Sing" and "36 Hours to Kill" at the Rialto led the field with $6,000, $1,500 over par.

"My American Wife" and "A Son Comes Home," dualled at the Strand, appealed strongly to women, and wound up the week with $4,200, $700 over normal. "Kelly, the Second," combined with "The Amateur Gentleman," did not show any strength at Loew's State, and could do no better than $5,200, $300 under par. This was one of the lightest weeks the house has had this summer.

Total first run business was $19,400. Average is $18,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"KELLY THE SECOND" (M-G-M)
"THE AMATEUR GENTLEMAN" (U.A.)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,200. (Average, $5,500)

"SING, BABY, SING" (20th-Fox)
"36 HOURS TO KILL" (20th-Fox)
RIALTO — (3,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $4,500)

"MY AMERICAN WIFE" (Para.)
"A SON COMES HOME" (Para.)
STRAND—(1,500), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,200. (Average, $3,500)

"SATAN MET A LADY" (W.B.)
MARY ANDERSON—(1,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,600. (Average, $3,500)

"THE PRINCESS COMES ACROSS" (Para.)
"DRACULA'S DAUGHTER" (Univ.)
"FATAL LADY" (Para.)
"FORGOTTEN FACES" (Para.)
KENTUCKY—(900), 15c-25c, 7 days, split week. Gross: $1,400. (Average, $1,500)

"Mary" Pulls Twin Cities' Top, $13,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 30.—"To Mary—with Love" led the Twin Cities' first run houses for the week. It took $13,000 at the Minnesota, bettering par by $3,000. In St. Paul "Green Pastures" got off to a slow start, but grossed $5,500 at the Paramount for an average net.

"China Clipper" met with box-office success in Minneapolis, the first two days grossing $2,500, with the house average $5,600.

Heavy rains and cold weather probably helped to boost the week's gross in both cities.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $28,400. Average is $22,600. Total first run business in St. Paul was $14,000. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings:

Frisco Theatre Opposed

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—Lurie R. Lurie, financier and lessee of the Geary, has been named defendant, along with the City Planning Commission and various individuals, in a suit to prevent the erection of a theatre, or any other commercial building, at Chestnut and Scott Sts., in the residential district. A neighborhood theatre was planned, it is understood.

M-G-M Signs Silvers

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—M-G-M has signed Sid Silvers to a new three way contract—acting, song and script writing. Silvers is now acting in "Born to Dance" and will start on the script of "Broadway Melody of 1937" in collaboration with Jack MacGowan when he completes this assignment.

Pope to Providence

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 30.—Clem Pope has been named manager of the RKO Albee here which will open with a dual film policy Sept. 3. For the past four weeks the house has been showing legitimate fare. Pope comes from the Detroit Downtown.

"Asking" and Bowes Group Big in Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—"Yours for the Asking," with a Major Bowes unit on the stage at the Metropolitan, took the big money here last week, $27,000. This was above par by $5,000.

"Piccadilly Jim," dualled with "Trapped by Television," was strong at Loew's State and Orpheum, getting $13,500, up by $1,500 at the former, and $12,000, over the line by $1,000, at the latter.

"Three Cheers for Love" and "Two Against the World" also were in the money at the Fenway and Paramount, taking $5,200 at the former and $7,500 at the latter. "Mary of Scotland" held up to $12,000 in its third week at the RKO Memorial.

A rainy week-end, cooler weather and the American Bar Ass'n. convention helped.

Two Reel Shortage

Statistically minded exhibitors, this week, were pondering the possibility of a two-reel shortage occurring in this territory. Because most film districts are double feature areas, a slash in two reel production has already been indicated in the 1936-1937 announcements.

VOL. 40. NO. 53 NEW YORK, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1936 TEN CENTS

$15,301,551 Inter'l Take For Columbia

Average Weekly Gross Runs to $294,260

Columbia grossed $15,301,551 in the year ending June 27, the figure including foreign sales for the 12 months to May 30 only. This total is represented principally by rentals, but also includes accessories. In weekly averages, the company did $294,260.

General administrative and selling expenses for the period ending June 27 tallied at $4,364,304, a footnote in the company's financial report explaining that this included depreciation on furniture in New York headquarters and branches of $33,601. Depreciation on studio buildings and equipment of $122,124 has been capitalized as production cost and is being written off as film amortization.

Net profit was $1,568,860. Reserve of $40,000 for investment in the Spanish subsidiary, provision of $302,067 for retirement of the preference stock and expenses of $92,342 for issuance of the $2.75 preferred convertible appears as other items. Earned surplus was $4,018,463.

The company's assets as of the June

Paramount Directors Will Convene Today

A monthly meeting of the Paramount board, which was postponed from last Thursday because of lack of a quorum, is scheduled to be held today.

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board, does not plan to leave Hollywood for here until tomorrow, so Barney Balaban will preside at today's meeting if a quorum is on hand. Only routine business is scheduled for transaction. Zukor, expected here next weekend, will remain about 10 days to wind up personal business affairs before returning to the coast.

German State Bank Showing Swift Gains

Increasing Credits and Extending Influence

By J. K. RUTENBERG

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The Film Credit Bank established in the middle of 1933 has become one of the most important factors in the German industry.

At the beginning the bank was provided a capital of 10 million Reichmarks, although the nominal capital was only 200,000 marks. In its first year 22 pictures were financed with a total of 1,828,000 Reichmarks and the actual production costs of these films amounted to 6,127,000 Reichmarks.

In the following years the bank became more and more the financier of the whole industry and even the more important companies asked for substantial subventions from the bank.

In 1934, 49 features and 64 cultural films and shorts were financed by the bank with a total credit of 7,647,000 Reichmarks, which was half the total production expenditure in Germany in that year. The following year the capital of the bank was increased to

New Havana Censor Board to Be Named

Havana, Aug. 31.—The Havana censor board is being reorganized and will function, with new personnel, along much the same lines that it did prior to the recent attempt to censor in New York all American produced pictures designed for exhibition in Cuba. The Havana board was to continue to review only those pictures of other than United States origin, under the original plan.

A new Cuban decree, published in the Official Gazette recently, provides for a new censorship board here to be composed of the Secretary of the Interior and five members. One of the Cream or Lemon?

Arthur M. Loew, head of M-G-M's foreign activities, has adopted a 4 P. M. daily tea period for all employes in his department.

This is believed the first move of its kind by any of the companies. However, employes are cautioned not to extend the tea into a "Kaffee Klatsch."

B'way Takes At New Highs For Weekend

Broadway theatres over the weekend harvested a bumper crop in grosses and attendance figures.

"Swing Time" at the Music Hall tallied approximately $76,000 for the first four days and is running neck and neck with "Top Hat," which chalked up a new record for the theatre. "Top Hat" opened at about the same time last year, but the first week included Labor Day which this year falls on Sept. 7. Long lines were evident outside the theatre yesterday, a repetition of similar scenes since the picture opened last Thursday.

The Roxy, which is boasting of the

Loew's and W. & V. In a Virginia Pool

Loew's and Wilmer & Vincent today will pool their theatres in Richmond and Norfolk, Va. Involved are Loew's theatres of the same name in both cities and W. & V.'s Norva and Grandy in Norfolk and the Colonial and National in Richmond.

Joe Vogel of Loew's and Walter Vincent of W. & V. will act as a committee of two to supervise operations with buying and booking to be handled in New York. Each circuit will continue to operate its own houses. The theatres up until last year when the arrangement was dropped had been pooled for eight years.

Warner Film Buying Is Nearly Complete

With the exception of G.B. product, Warners have completed film deals with all companies for its circuit next season. The G.B. negotiations are expected to be concluded within the next few days.

Longer Reels Will Go into Use Gradually

First Films on 2,000 Ft. Spools Out This Month

The industry's changeover to the new 2,000-foot reel becomes effective today with the feature productions of all major companies scheduled for release hereafter being shipped to theatres on the standard large reel.

The changeover will not be instantaneous, however, and will not be general throughout the industry for several weeks. This is due primarily to the fact that the pictures designated by some major companies as their first September releases to use the 2,000-foot reel are not scheduled for national release until late in the month.

The present schedule of first releases from major companies to be shipped on the large reel is as follows: Columbia, "Adventures in Manhattan," release date not set; M-G-M, "The Devil Is a Sissy," release date Sept. 18; "Our Relations," release date not set; Paramount, "Wives Never Know," release date Sept. 25; Radio, "The Big Game," release date not set; Twentieth Century-Fox, "Thank You, Jeeves," release date Sept. 25; United Artists, "Dodsworth," release date Sept. 18, and

Picketing Resumed Here by Local 306

After a lull of several months, picketing broke out again on Broadway yesterday with a number of Local 306 men parading in front of the Globe, Central and Times Square and an Allied representative walking up and down in front of Loew's State.

Joseph D. Basson, president of Local 306, could not be reached for a statement yesterday. The renewed picketing is believed to be in line with plans by Local 306 to recruit additional theatres to its ranks. However, Allied is rebuffing the move by appealing to

Purely Personal

A. W. SMITH, Jr., who had LEO JUSTIN as his luncheon guest at the Tavern yesterday, says he is thinking of forming a foreign legion of ex-Warnerites for the purpose of making a trip abroad. Such men would include EDWARD ALPERSON, CARL LESERMAN, JAMES WINN, NED E. DEPINET, STANLEY SHUFORD, JAMES CAGNEY and the SKOURAS Brothers. CLAUDE SAUNDERS visits the table and says it's a delightful idea, but extravagant.

Also ROBERT WOLFF and SAM RINZLER talking about RKO product. RINZLER is planning to go to Grossingers shortly to rest up. HAL LEROY comes in with a charming young lady and occupies a table near the cold fireplace. MAX COHEN and JOE HORNSTEIN go into a huddle on equipping theatres while HARRY SHIFFMAN, close by, has with him HENRY BROWN, NAT COHN and a couple of others. TRUMAN TALLEY, LEW LEHR and a few other Fox Movietone News-ites are gathered 'round their regular table for a little of thisa and thata. JACK GOETZ and ARTHUR GOTTLIEB huddle in a corner, while HARRY H. THOMAS, BUDD ROGERS, FREDDIE SCHADER and FRANK UNDERWOOD manage to single out friends with whom they have appointments for a quiet tete-a-tete.

At another table, A. W. KELLY is surrounded by HARRY GOLD, LOWELL CALVERT, PAUL LAZARUS, HARRY D. BUCKLEY and HASKELL MASTERS, all kidding about one thing or another with BUCKLEY suddenly finding an excuse to quit the party for his office. MONROE GREENTHAL is seated with a guest at a nearby table and manages to get in a word or two without shouting.

WILLIAM SUSSMAN, eastern divisional sales head for Twentieth Century-Fox, has returned from Toronto where he attended the four-day meeting of F. P. Canadian theatres. SUSSMAN talked to the men on his company's lineup for next season.

HARRY C. ARTHUR is scheduled to leave for St. Louis by plane tomorrow with his brother, EDWIN, who will take over an executive post in the Mound City circuit.

DAVE ROSENZWEIG, Brooklyn and L. I. exhibitor, was limping with the aid of a cane yesterday due to the injury of his right foot over the weekend.

GEORGE J. SCHAEFER is planning to leave for Hollywood the end of the week.

FRANCES CORRIGAN of Spectrum is back from a vacation spent at Wallkill, N. Y.

JOHN COSENTINO, special representative of Spectrum Pictures, is in Boston. There for a week.

LOU KAUFMAN of Warners plans to head for Cleveland next week.

ARTHUR and MRS. KELLY entertained at cocktails at the Gotham early last evening prior to their sailing for England on the Aquitania tomorrow morning. There, they will place their child, Sonny, in school again, and from London visit other parts of the world on United Artists business, to return here in about three months. The U. A. executive staff was present en masse.

LEWIS BLUMBERG is back from his summer on that Wyoming ranch. NATE and VERA BLUMBERG collected him on the eastbound train at Syracuse over the weekend. DODO returns from her Maine camp this morning and that unites the BLUMBERG clan for the fall and winter again.

RICHARD MILLS of Exclusive Music has been named Chicago representative of that firm and is working on a "swing" catalogue. SIDNEY MILLS, his brother, returns to New York this week to resume his duties at Mills Artists, Inc.

MARGOT GRAHAME arrived yesterday on the Normandie en route to Hollywood. She will reach the coast Sept. 6 and will start work in "Daddy and I" with Herbert Marshall and Ann Shirley.

HARRY SHIFFMAN has stepped out of the Central, Cedarhurst, L. I., which he bought and booked for the owners when RKO gave it up a few months ago.

EUGENE V. BREWSTER, former fan magazine publisher, has formed a theatrical partnership with LIANE HILL, who is MRS. BREWSTER privately. BREWSTER and HILL is the firm name.

IRVING DILLMAN, formerly with the Bank of America, and now with Columbia, became a father Sunday. It is a boy, born at the Royal Hospital, the Bronx.

LEWIS MILESTONE, director of "The General Died at Dawn," will arrive by train tomorrow in time for the opening of the picture at the Paramount.

B. S. MOSS and HARRY CHARNAS now hope to open the new Criterion on Sept. 8. The first attraction will be "Give Me Your Heart."

BOB MONTGOMERY and his wife have checked into the Towers at the Waldorf.

PHIL RUBINOFF is in Kansas City, to conclude a deal for fiddler DAVE'S appearance in that city.

LOUIS SIMPSON, head of Central America for M-G-M, arrived yesterday from Guatemala for a vacation.

Vogel Stresses Need For Exploiting Film

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—The necessity of continued exploitation on individual pictures was stressed by A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald, before 250 managers and executives at the F. P.-Canadian eastern managers' convention in Toronto.

Vogel stated that though he saw the value of institutional advertising and buildup of theatre prestige, there was the danger to be guarded against of over-emphasizing this form of advertising and publicity.

Checks for nearly $30,000 were distributed to managers by President N. L. Nathanson who arrived from Europe to attend the last day's session. Both Nathanson and J. J. Fitzgibbons, general manager, spoke highly of the managers' sharing plan and announced that it would be continued during the coming year, with the added proviso that managers would also share in savings of controllable expenses as well as added grosses.

Loeb Suit Against Columbia Dismissed

A judgment dismissing the $200,000 stockholders' action brought by John L. Loeb against Columbia, was filed yesterday in N. Y. Supreme Court. Loeb charged in the complaint that he was induced to purchase warrants on April 17, 1933, to buy voting trust certificates for shares of Columbia common stock. These warrants he said were rendered valueless by the acts of Harry Cohn, Jack Cohn and Joe Brandt.

Loeb asserts that these three, in negotiating an agreement with bankers in March, 1929, did not faithfully serve Columbia, but favored their own individual interests in the deal.

An affidavit by Jack Cohn denied the charges set forth in the complaint, and further stated that because Loeb misjudged the market he attempted to fix the blame on the three individuals he named as defendants. He charged the action was based on a dubious theory and he was upheld in his contention by Justice Richard P. Lydon.

Demurrer Filed in Gary Cooper Action

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Herman P. Selvin, associate attorney for Loeb, Walker & Loeb, representing Samuel Goldwyn, has filed a demurrer in Federal Court to Paramount's recent suit regarding Gary Cooper's contract with Goldwyn.

Selvin stated that the paper listed various legal aspects of the case.

Anna Baumann to T.T.S.

Anna G. Baumann, who has been in charge of service and transit for National Screen for the past 16 years, yesterday joined Theatre Trailer Service in charge of service and installing systems. Miss Baumann during her years with National Screen opened the company's offices at Los Angeles and Atlanta.

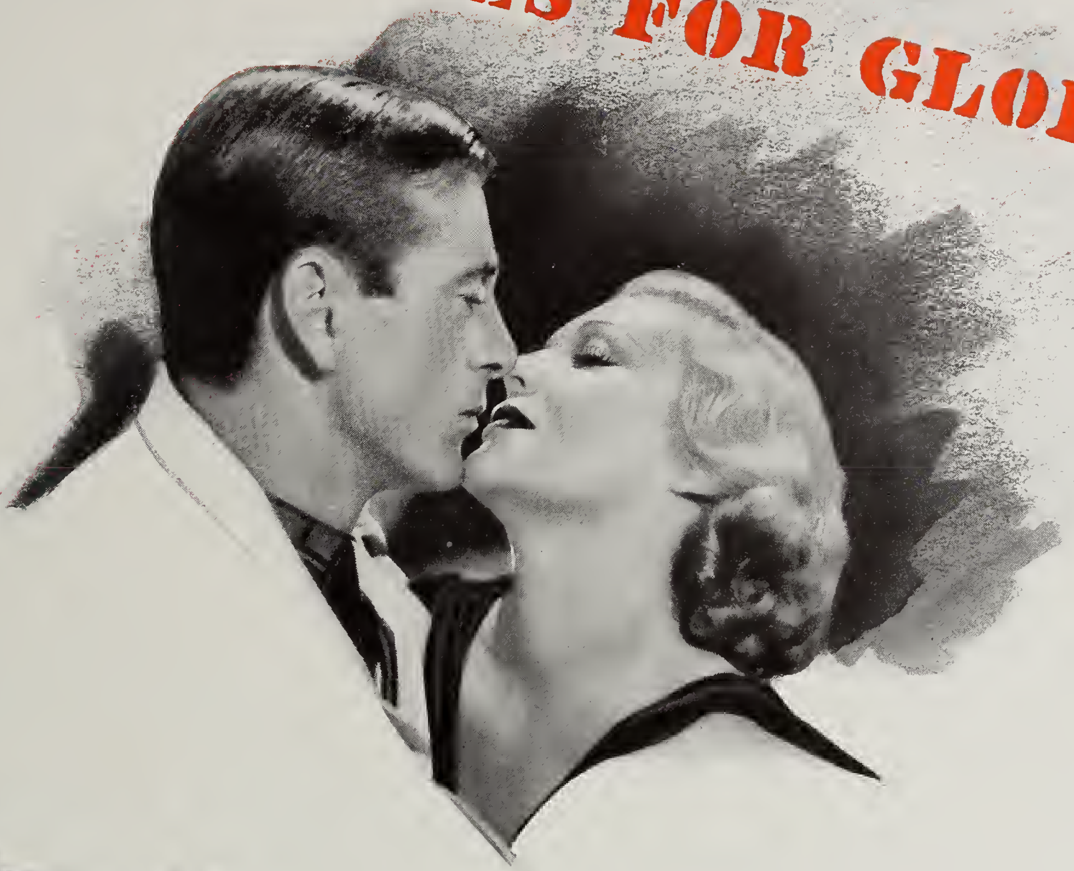
Demonstrations of the new W. E. Mirrophonic sound system will be continued today and tomorrow at 2:30 and 3:30 P. M. at the Venice, 7th Ave. and 58th St.

CANDIDATES FOR GLORY



On September 4th Paramount gives you Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll in "The General Died at Dawn." We do not have to tell you the popularity of those two stars. Yet, frankly, we believe, that their present box-office importance is as nothing compared with the glory which will be theirs when the world gets its first glimpse of them in this picture.

For Clifford Odets, America's most brilliant young playwright, has fashioned from Charles G. Booth's dynamic novel of war-torn China a screen play which will add a new and lasting lustre to their names. With twice the drive, the emotional impact of "Shanghai Express", this powerful story of a bold man's love for a beautiful woman has all the elements of true box-office importance.

Directed by Lewis Milestone, with a supporting cast which includes such veterans of success as William Frawley, Dudley Digges, Akim Tamiroff, Porter Hall, and J. M. Kerrigan, given a typical Paramount double A production, with a musical background by the sensational young composer, Werner Janssen, "The General Died at Dawn" is sure to be a triumph not only at the box-office but in the hearts and minds of the millions who will thrill to the sweep of its greatness.

German State Bank Showing Swift Gains

keep pace with the increasing demand. Last year 65 features and 40 cultural films and shorts were financed with a total of 16,111,000 Reichmarks and the whole production budget was 25,735,000 Reichmarks.

In the first five months of the current year 28 features and seven shorts have been financed to the extent of 8,092,000 Reichmarks, with the total production budget at 11,761,000 Reichmarks.

During the first three years the bank has financed the making of 275 productions with 33,974,000 Reichmarks. The total production cost of these films has been 58,931,000 Reichmarks.

Influence Widely Felt

The bank is not only insuring the financial security of production, but is also penetrating into story selection and likewise is influencing the marketing and the business side of the industry. It is also in favor of decreasing top salaries of stars, and it is reported that decisive cuts have been agreed upon by mutual consent. A star who has been receiving 100,000 marks under the old regulations may get only a third or a fourth of that amount under the new agreements. Only existing contracts are affected by these provisions.

Stars having their own producing units are excepted from this pressure for cuts on the theory that they are responsible for the financial success of their films.

U. S. Leading in Far East

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Total imports into the Netherlands Indies and the American share of the total increased during the first half of 1936 over the corresponding 1935 period, according to statistics for the six months ended July 1, 1936 relayed to the Dep't. of Commerce by Trade Commissioner Edward A. Dow, Jr., in Batavia, Java.

The increase was proportionately greater for the American product, however, since, although total imports were only four percent above the 1935 figure, the percentage originating in the United States rose from 48 in the first six months of 1935 to 59 in the first half of 1936.

German Sales Drop

Imports of German films fell off appreciably, that product making up only 9.4 percent of the total film imports in the first half of this year, instead of 13 percent last year. French films gained slightly, as did the British product, while a very sharp drop took place in imports from Holland.

Tunisian film men report box-office receipts during the spring season have been most disappointing, according to advices received from Vice Consul L. Pittman Springs.

Apparently the attendance figures at most of theatres have fallen well below those for the same period during the previous year and the continued economic crisis is having a very adverse effect.

There were exhibited in Dairen, Manchuria, during the first six months of 1936 about 126 Japanese and 115 foreign pictures, according to a report to Consul John M. Allinson. The foreign pictures were divided, as follows: American, 92; French, 7; British, 6; German, 5; Russian, 2; and Austrian, Italian, and Czechoslovak, 1 each.

In Manchuria, outside of the Kwantung Leased Territory, there were between 250 and 300 foreign pictures shown and about an equal number of Japanese pictures. The majority of the foreign pictures shown were American.

Viennese Upset

Vienna, Aug. 31.—If Hitler appears in a film here, there's a disturbance. If he doesn't, there is also a disturbance.

Authorities found this out when they cut Hitler out of the films of the Berlin Olympics after demonstrations at the first showings. They thought a film of German cathedrals would make everything all right.

The Austrian Nazis demonstrated as a result and the police were called out.

new 1936 star in Simone Simon, garnered $36,427 for the first three days of "Girls' Dormitory." Actually, there were 74,555 patrons recorded by the ticket takers. Irving Lesser expects the first week's tally to end up with more than $55,000, which is unusual business for the theatre. The picture is being held a second stanza. At 2 P. M. yesterday, the business for the day was $200 ahead of Friday at the same time.

"Anthony Adverse" at the Strand continues to do capacity business. For the first five days, the cashiers have counted $44,000 in the coffers with expectations of seeing this figure go to $56,000 before the first week ends tonight. More than 80,000 people have attended the theatre during the first five days and it is said about 3,000 have been turned away the first few days because of the long wait between shows.

Paramount's Feature Strong

"To Mary—with Love" is headed for a $40,000 week at the Paramount. According to the management, the first five days have brought in close to $30,000. "The General Died at Dawn" will be previewed at 11:45 tonight.

The Rivoli is holding up well on the fourth week of "Road to Glory." The take for the seven days ending tonight will amount to around $15,000. "The Last of the Mohicans" will open there tomorrow morning.

"Piccadilly Jim" is being held for a second week at the Capitol after all. The first three days netted the theatre about $20,000 and it is anticipated the final gross will figure around $35,000 for seven days. "The Gorgeous Hussy" will open Sept. 4 and will be followed by "The Great Ziegfeld" and "Libeled Lady."

RKO plans to day-and-date "Swing Time" in 100 theatres over Labor Day weekend.

Rocky Mountain Men Meeting at Denver

DENVER, Aug. 31.—The opening day of the first annual convention of the theatre owners and managers of the Rocky Mountain region was given over principally to hearing of sales talks by managers of local exchanges who discussed product for the coming season.

Rick Ricketson, Fox Theatres executive of the Intermountain division, addressed the delegates on the fundamentals of theatre operation.

President A. P. Archer, chairman of the meeting, introduced William Diamond of Chicago, who talked on stage show possibilities and how to exploit them.

Committees appointed today were: Finance—Rick Ricketson, B. P. McCormick, Charles Gilmour; Resolutions—Harold Rice, John Anderson and Harry Golub, while Dave Cockrill, Walter Ibold and Clyde Anderson form the Membership Committee.

The convention closes tomorrow with a showing of "The General Died at Dawn" at the Denham.

Newark Operators Raised

NEWARK, Aug. 31.—Increases of 25 per cent in operators' wages in Essex County theatres will go into effect starting Labor Day. The hike applies only to the Warner circuit and the larger independent houses. The small theatres have not been asked to boost the pay of projectionists.

Louis Gold, who held a session with Essex County exhibitors last week, does not plan to take any action unless the small theatres are involved.

Terre Haute Houses Hard Hit by Storm failure, as falling trees snapped wires.

The Savoy, Fountain, Rex, Swan and Little Virginia suffered most. These houses were not permitted to open until late in the night because of no power. Other theatres suffered to the extent that what few people did venture out in the evening were sightseeing, or digging their way out of the debris and fallen trees that covered their homes.

While Terre Haute was the hardest hit, other nearby cities suffering disrupted services were Brazil, Greencastle, Newcastle, Anderson and Richmond. Electric services in these towns were halted.

Ken Griffith Transferred

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31.—Ken Griffith, formerly manager of the Dickinson at Olathe, Kan., has been made manager of the Booth, Independence, Kan., also a Glen W. Dickinson theatre. Charles Meyers is the new manager at Olathe. Griffith replaces Charles Oliver.

"Garden of Allah," release date not set; Universal, "My Man Godfrey," release date Sept. 6, and Warner-First National, "Bengal Tiger," release date Sept. 5, and "Trailin' West," release date Sept. 5.

Local delays in putting the new reel into use will also be occasioned in several situations where city regulations have yet to be changed to permit their use. New York and Boston are examples of this kind. In other localities, either city requirements or the opposition to the large reel by projectionists' locals may delay its use indefinitely. Chicago is an example of a locality in which reel specifications differ from those of the industry's new standard. Cleveland, Aurora, Ill., and other cities have encountered objections to the reel from projectionists' locals. In such instances the 2,000-foot reel will be shipped by exchanges to the theatres and, where necessary or desired, rewound on other reels.

Jaydo Meeting Called

Creditors of Jaydo Amusement Co. and Fairdeal Amusement Co., which recently sold the Gem and Majestic, Bronx, to Springer & Cocalis, will meet Sept. 11 to discuss the bankruptcy of the two companies.

Joseph B. Kaufman has been appointed counsel to Lester R. Bachner, trustee. The creditors at the Sept. 11 session will familiarize Kaufman with the facts in the case. Major and independent film companies in the local territory have claims totaling $30,000 against the bankrupt firms.

Para. News Lets Out 35

Paramount News has dropped an estimated 35 staff members of varying rank from its national organization, it was reported here yesterday. The move is believed to be in line with economy efforts originating with the parent company which have resulted in elimination of minor positions and some small salary reductions throughout many home office departments.

27 date were $10,433,150 of which approximately $2,043,327 was represented by cash. Total current liabilities were $1,542,838 and working capital, $8,890,311.

The net of $1,568,860, after all charges and provisions for Federal income and other taxes, was equivalent to approximately $4.95 per share on 289,413 shares of common outstanding after deducting dividends on outstanding old preferred stock to date of retirement and dividends on outstanding new preferred since date of issuance. This compares with earnings for the corresponding period ended June 29, 1935, after all charges and provisions for Federal income and other taxes, of $1,815,266, which was equal to approximately $5.81 earned on a similar number of common outstanding on June 27, 1936 after allowing for the amount of preferred stock dividends paid during the present fiscal year.

Missouri Sales Tax Passes 11 Millions

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31.—The one per cent sales tax in Missouri, which became effective Aug. 27, 1935, has produced around $11,150,000, according to Forrest Smith, state auditor. This is close to the million-a-month average expected from the tax, and sufficient to take care of appropriations made upon it. The money has gone into unemployment relief, old age pensions, care of mental patients, public schools.

There is a general feeling that in spite of the talk about increasing the one per cent levy when the legislature meets in January, state needs may be covered by present levies.

He was en route to Hollywood from London.

Japan Holds Speedy Pace In Releases

By TETSUYA MORI

TOKYO, Aug. 10.—There has been no indication of a slackening of the production pace in this country, nor is there any lessening of the number of foreign films released here. A large number of new producers have sprung up within the past year.

For the six months ending June last, a total of 257 native Japanese films were released, divided into 133 classed as modern pictures, and 124 historical. The 257 pictures were produced by eight different native companies. Daito was the leader with 54, while Shochiku had 52.

In the same period, 158 foreign pictures, mostly from the United States, were released in this country, almost the same as the total released in the same period last year.

High box-office grosses, among the American films presented here during the first half of the year, were recorded by "Curly Top," "Top Hat," "Milky Way," "Desire," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and 'Captain Blood." Popular, active story themes in general were most successful.

"Follow the Fleet," playing 10 days here, proved a tremendous hit, with a total gross of 38,000 yen. Four other key city theatres played the film simultaneously, the total gross, with the Tokyo run, amounting to approximately 80,000 yen.

Details of Rodgers Party Are Discussed

Final details in connection with the beefsteak dinner to be tendered William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, on Sept. 29 at the Waldorf, were discussed yesterday at the Astor by the committee on arrangements headed by Harry Brandt and Arthur Rapf.

Attending the session in addition to Brandt and Rapf were Sam Dembow, Walter Reade, Laurence Bolognino, Louis Frisch, Sam Cocalis, Si Fabian, Charles Moses, Edward Rugoff and Lou K. Sidney.

About 800 reservations from all over the country have already been received by the committee, which expects to have 2,000 on hand for the festivities.

Business Gains for New Orleans Houses

New Orleans, Aug. 31.—Indications of a business pickup are gaining. Patronage has been picking up with the advent of cooler nights, a dog track in the lower section has failed to hit grosses, and prices are to be raised by Harry McLeod at the Strand. Matinees will be 25 cents straight on the lower floor.

At Jackson, Miss., J. A. Kennington and Saenger Theatres Corp. have plans for a $250,000 air-conditioned house to seat 2,500. It will be opposite the Royal Hotel with an arcade open on Capitol St. The present Istrione Theatre also is to be remodeled.

Open New Florida House

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 31.—The new Ritz has been opened at Bartow, with John W. Black in charge.

A new house is planned at Cocoa to cost $25,000 with plans for opening about Dec. 15.

Delay Cleveland Start

Cleveland, Aug. 31.—Opening date of the new Mayfield Center, originally set for Aug. 27, has been postponed to early in September. Louis Isreal is lessee and operator.

The Main, closed for many years, has been purchased by Herman Smith, local exhibitor. He will renovate before reopening the house.

Athens House Nearly Ready

Washington, Aug. 31.—The 2,000-seat theatre started in Athens about 18 months ago is nearing completion, according to word received by the Department of Commerce from Commercial Attache K. L. Rankin there. A restaurant and dance hall will be included in the structure which will be air-conditioned throughout, the first in that country. Total cost is estimated at $1,000,000.

5,000 Seater for B. A.

Washington, Aug. 31.—One of the largest theatres in the world will shortly be constructed in Buenos Aires, according to a report to the Dep't of Commerce from its office there. It will involve a total outlay of approximately 3,000,000 pesos (about $900,000), will have a capacity of 5,000 and be located in the heart of the downtown theatre section, directly opposite another, the Opera, which is now nearing completion with about 3,000 seats.

May Start Late September

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—Fox West Coast Theatres will take over actual operation of the Fox, 5,000-seater, commencing with the third week in September, it was reliably reported to Motion Picture Daily today.

In the first years of its operation, the theatre reached amazingly high grosses approaching in some weeks close to $70,000. House average for the past year has been some $7,000, a tilt up from the 1934 average of some $5,500 weekly.

Open in Detroit Friday

Detroit, Aug. 31.—George W. Trendle, president of United Detroit Theatres, has issued invitations for the opening of the new Varsity opposite the University of Detroit campus, on Friday.

The house was built by Consolidated Theatres of which Sam Brown is president, but has been leased to Trendle. With its exterior decorations in silver and blue and modernistic in design, the interior color scheme is carried out in mauve with chairs, carpets and draperies in harmony. The house seats 1,500, all on a main floor and is modern in every respect, including air-conditioning.

A policy of subsequent run double bills will prevail.

Raise K. C. Uptown Scale

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—The Tower, downtown first run now owned by William Reinke and Fox Midwest, will go into the new season with a revamped admission price, stage policy, and physical setup.

Beginning Sept. 4, the theatre will charge 25c and 35c, rather than the straight 25c price which has featured the summer season for the house.

A new and augmented stage production staff has been employed for the season, with Frank Tracy head of the production department; Ernie Rayborn, assistant producer and costume designer; a dance director from Roxy's, New York, and M. Strand will conduct the orchestra.

Now a part of the first run pool Fox Midwest is managing in Kansas City, the Tower will have a wider choice of pictures.

The house has new lighting and other equipment on the stage, and a new, ultra modern curtain. Other physical changes contemplated are new seats, new lighting equipment, carpets, etc.

Rebuild Ellsworth House

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—The Dickinson at Ellsworth, Kan., which was almost completely destroyed by fire a month ago, has been rebuilt and will open Sept. 2 with air conditioning, sound proofing, and other new features.

Warners Get New House

Pittsburgh, Aug. 31.—Warners will operate the new 1,000-seat theatre being constructed in the Squirrel Hill section by a local builder.

Only 2 New Houses Built in So. America

Only two new theatres have been constructed in Central America in the last year, Louis Simpson, head of M-G-M's offices in the area, stated yesterday. The new structures are the Palace, a 900-seat house in San Jose, Costa Rica, and the Lux, a 2,600-seat theatre in Guatemala City. The Anker interests have taken over the Lux. They have the Palace in the same city.

All told there are about 160 houses in Central America. All are wired for sound. In Guatemala there is a Government tax of 15 per cent on the gross business which does not come out of the pockets of the patron, but is paid by the exhibitor. In other countries, the tax is slightly lower, Simpson stated, and levies are comparatively light throughout the territory.

Unlike most of the countries of the world, the admission for women in Guatemala is cheaper than for men, the theory being that with a low admission for women the tendency is to draw those who bring the men.

There is very little dual featuring as the Government demands that patrons must leave the theatres following the afternoon or evening show. There is no censor, the exhibitor being held responsible for the pictures he shows. Simpson flew in from Guatemala in 28 hours, will remain in New York two weeks during which he will visit his home town, Philadelphia, and then return by boat.

Block to Open Station

Mark Block today will reopen the Station, Newark, which has been closed 10 weeks during which extensive alterations have been made. The exhibitor also has completed remodeling the Lyric, same city. Both jobs cost Block about $3,000.

Looking 'Em Over

"Passaporto Rosso"
"Destiny Unknown"

(Nuovo Mondo)

This is an importation that will find favor with the Italian element. The story is shot with snatches of propaganda and nationalism that limit the appeal.

Concerning the emigration of Italians in 1893 to South America, due to political reverses, the plot weaves a familiar course, tracing the destiny of a doctor and a school teacher brought together in a foreign land. The immigrants have been engaged to construct a railroad. Pestilence and exploitation add to their troubles. A climax is brought about when an unscrupulous Don Pancho prevails upon the Government to send troops to the railroad camps to quell non-existent trouble. Don Pancho is killed and the hero of the piece, together with a landowner, bring about a reform which creates a new life for the emigres. With the completion of the railroad, community life grows and the narrative traces the life of the now married pair through the World War, in which, while fighting for Italy their son is killed. The film has an occasional epic quality and fundamentally is of a nature that should pluck at the heartstrings of Italian-born audiences. At times the dramatics are overdone and the point too forcefully revealed.

The cast features Isa Miranda, Filippo Scelza, Oreste Fares and Ugo Ce Ceseri. Guido Brignone directed.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 92 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Swing Banditry"

(M-G-M)

Georgie Stoll and his orchestra are given an amusing story thread in this subject which permits them to demonstrate effectively just how good they are at swing music. The musicians corner a broadcasting official in an elevator where they find him en route to his office and subject him to a forced audition, eventually landing themselves on the coveted air program. An amusing theme and excellent music. Production Code Seal No. 2217. Running time, 11 minutes. "G."

"Bored of Education"

(M-G-M)

A good Our Gang subject and, written around the youngsters' first day at school after a summer vacation, young audiences everywhere will find it especially timely at this season. The plan of several members of the Gang to be excused from school goes afoul when the teacher overhears their plotting and excuses them after preparing an ice cream treat for the rest. Production Code Seal No. 2514. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

"How to Vote"

(M-G-M)

A new Robert Benchley subject in his very best style. Its searing nonsense, especially at this season of many political speeches, should make many a campaigner squirm in his seat—and many an audience happy. Benchley enthusiasts probably will not be satisfied with seeing it only once. Production Code Seal No. 2,357. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

Shift Pittsburgh Men

Pittsburgh, Aug. 31.—David Shore, an usher at the Warner Enright, has been made assistant manager of the Manor, succeeding Alton Rea, who has become assistant at the Enright. He in turn replaces Allan Davis, named manager of the Strand to succeed Mannie Greenwald, who resigned a week ago to pilot the downtown Barry.

Warners have set Labor Day for the reopening of the remodeled Harris in Tarentum. Bill Powelson, a relief manager during the vacation period, goes back to his old job there.

Tri-States Men Moved

Des Moines, Aug. 31.—Managers of three Tri-State theatres have been changed following the resignation of Bill Praff of the LeClaire at Moline, Ill. John McKay, manager of the Garden, in Davenport has taken charge of the LeClaire in Moline and has taken his assistant at the Garden, Berge Iverson, with him. Ray Wernimont, manager of the Spencer in Rock sland, has been transferred to the Garden in Davenport, and Ely Seff of Sioux City has taken charge of the Spencer in Rock Island.

Peckham Picks Salesmen

Detroit, Aug. 31.—Ralph Peckham, branch manager for Grand National, has appointed Ralph Elliott and Howard Boyle as state salesmen. Elliott formerly was with Warners. Boyle comes here from Buffalo, where he was with M-G-M.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.—Joan Crawford says she will embark on a stage career next summer, and will tour the English provinces to gain experience. Miss Crawford has three pictures still to make for M-G-M.

"Sing Baby" Pulls $3,800 in Lincoln

LINCOLN, NEB., Aug. 31.—The week's big money came from "Sing, Baby, Sing" which drew $3,800 at the Stuart and was $700 above par in the face of repeated waves.

The Lincoln had four pictures and took $2,700, a $500 profit. The foursome, on a dual split basis, included "Girl of the Ozarks," "Three Cheers for Love," "Spendthrift" and "Return of Sophie Lang."

The Kiva, a Westland theatre, will open Sept. 3. It will take over the action policy which has been in force since spring at the Varsity. The Varsity grossed $900 on a split, $200 under average. "Big House" and "Dancing Lady," at the Orpheum took $1,800, $400 to the good in an uncooled house.

Total first run business was $10,000. Average is $8,650.

Estimated takings:

"Jailbreak," Fight $5,000 in Houston

HOUSTON, Aug. 31.—"Jailbreak" and the Louis-Sharkey fight film were the only combination to make any impression in a generally dull week. The gross at the Kirby for three days was $5,000. Average is $3,000.

"China Clipper" at the Majestic and "Sing, Baby, Sing" at the Metropolitan tipped par by $300, each with a take of $7,300. "We Went to College" at Loew's broke even with $7,000.

Bathing beauty parades at the beaches, a popular dance orchestra at Sylvan Beach and Frankie McMasters' orcehstra on the Rice Hotel roof gave some opposition.

Total first run business was $27,600. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"Sing Baby," Kansas City, Gets $10,100

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—"Sing, Baby, Sing" was the No. 1 lullaby during a week of torrid weather and little other outside competition. In six days it crooned $3,100 over $7,000 average at the RKO Mainstreet. The Louis-Sharkey fight film helped.

"Girls' Dormitory" pleased the fans $1,900 more than the customary $5,000 in nine days at the Fox Uptown, while "China Clipper" proved the big draw at the Newman, which also had "Every Saturday Night" to help it over the $7,000 hump by $1,300.

"Charlie Chan at the Racetrack" made it four out of six first runs for 20th-Fox. At the Tower, the picture helped the stage show sweeten the till $7,600 worth, over normal by $1,100.

"Kelly the Second" dropped the Midland's take from $11,500 to $8,900 for the week.

Total first run business was $41,800. Average is $37,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 27:

"SING, BABY, SING" (20th-Fox)

MAINSTREET—(3,100), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $10,100. (Average, 6 days, $7,000)

No Action Taken on K. C. Operator Pact

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—Another Aug. 30 passed without union first run contracts being signed. During the past year first runs have operated on the basis of the preceding year's contracts and probably will continue to do so until differences are settled with the I.A.T.S.E.

Harland Holmden, vice-president of the International, was scheduled to be in Kansas City before this to take up contract negotiations, but other business has detained him. He probably will appear within the next few weeks. His efforts to straighten out the matter last spring ended in stalemate.

The inability of the local union to handle the situation led almost a year ago to assumption of direct jurisdiction by the International.

The local, and later the International, have sought to secure contracts with subsequent run houses. However, most of them, including Fox Midwest subsequents, operate on an oral basis without a contract but with union men.

The non-union situation shows little change from a year ago, according to Felix Snow, International representative in this district. There are about 15 subsequents in Kansas City, Mo., North Kansas City, and Independence not using I.A.T.S.E. operatives.

Reports Ready Soon On Two Fox Circuits

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—The reports of the trustee in bankruptcy for the Fox Midland and the Fox Rocky Mountain properties are being prepared and will be submitted to Judge Albert L. Reeves in U. S. District Court within the next few weeks.

When the Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Paul on July 9 turned down the effort of several General Theatre Equipment bondholders to enter the bankruptcy action, the way was cleared for the reports.

When Judge Reeves approves them, the trustee, Herbert V. Jones, will be formally discharged. He has not been active in the management of the properties since the assets of the bankrupt corporation were sold to National Theatres, May 4, 1935, so that his reports will cover only the period from March 8, 1933, to May 4, 1935.

O. B. Thornton Dead

West Warwick, R. I., Aug. 31.—Funeral services for Owen B. Thornton, pioneer exhibitor, who died here Sunday at the age of 65 after three weeks' illness, will be held Wednesday from St. James Church at Arctic. Forty-two years ago Thornton built the Thornton Opera House at Riverpoint and at one time was New England general manager of National Theatres of New York, Inc. He is credited with having influenced the showing of Sunday films in the state.

Four Take G. B. List

The M. A. Lightman circuit has contracted with Scott Chesnutt for the showing of the 1936-37 G. B. program at its theatres in Memphis and surrounding towns, including the first run Memphis houses, Malco and Strand.

G. B. has also closed for its new season's product with Cooperative circuit of Detroit and with the Fox and Adams of the same city.

Films' Songs Furnish Most Of the Hits

Ascap Reveals 12 of 19 Best from Pictures

Motion pictures contributed practically all of the nation's current song hits, a regular seasonal checkup of the "most played" songs, completed by Ascap yesterday, discloses.

Of the 19 hit songs which received in excess of 20,000 credits under Ascap's rating, 12 were written for and featured in films. A song receives one credit for each time it is performed on the radio. The credit ratings provide the basis on which royalties are apportioned among Ascap's publisher members from the license fees collected by the society from radio stations, theatres, hotels and night clubs and other agencies which perform music publicity for profit.

Individual songs leading Ascap's "most played" list are "When I Grow Too Old to Dream," which was first with 29,161 credits and was published by M-G-M: "I'm in the Mood for Love," second, with 26,537 credits and

Para's Staff Cuts May Reach 100 Mark

A total of more than 100 Paramount employes may be let out as a result of current efforts to eliminate overlapping positions and work duplication in many branches of the company's operations.

The move is part of an economy drive being applied throughout the organization. The winnowing process was begun in the home office several weeks ago with the personnel of various departments being reduced wherever possible. It has been carried since to the newsreel, laboratory, electric rate department, mail rooms and several of the company's exchanges. The economy efforts are being extended to all forms of avoidable expenditures in the home office, studio and branches.

Mrs. Marston Will Establish in N Y C

Hollywood, Sept. 1.—Mrs. F. B. Marston, head of the local Authors' League bureau since the dissolution of the Screen Writers' Guild, will transfer to New York as league secretary Sept. 19.

The local office will continue to be maintained and a successor to Mrs. Marston will be named soon.

Moves to Counter Deal on G. B. Stirring Distributors in England

London, Sept. 1.—While a complete blanket of silence envelops the status of the Loew-Twentieth Century-Fox buy into Gaumont British, elsewhere counter moves designed to be kept under cover are bestirring themselves.

C. M. Woolf, head of General Film Distributors, Ltd., with a substantial interest in Universal, is reliably believed to be acquiring theatres on the quiet, but in small groups with a circuit of 100 his ultimate aim. The development suggests a desire to attempt to offset the move of the Schenck brothers.

Along a different tack, but viewed identically in purpose, is a scheme being shaped up by John W. Gossage of Reunion Films to group a number of British producers in a joint distributing company. So far, Gossage admits he is working on financial details and expects to report tangible progress shortly.

Theatres Gain In Northwest Drought Area

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 1.—In spite of talk of drought and its effect on business, theatres are changing hands and remodeling is going on—always an indication of business confidence.

In Iowa two houses are being remodeled, two new ones are about ready and one has been sold. Herman Fields is remodeling the Armory at Clarinda at a cost of about $15,000. The city owns the building, but the cost is to be borne by the Finkelstein Theatres Corp. The Des Moines Orpheum, recently taken over by Tri-States, is being practically rebuilt with new floors, new wiring, plumbing, chairs, etc. New sound and projection equipment also is being installed.

Tri-States is also building one of Building Picking Up on West Coast

San Francisco, Sept. 1.—New building projects and redecoration and remodeling are common up and down the Pacific Coast.

In the territory surrounding this city George Mann and Morgan Walsh have two new building projects at Woodland which are nearing completion. They have been showing films in the old Legion Hall since their National burned down last spring.

The Crystal at Salinas has been reopened by Lawrence Borg and John Peters after a $25,000 remodeling job. The house was dark for three months. The Haight, a Golden Gate suburban

Kelly to Take Foreign Films For Sale Here

Assurance of American distribution for meritorious foreign product will be carried to a number of countries by Arthur W. Kelly, United Artists vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, on the trip around the world which he will start today.

Kelly will sail on the Aquitania with Mrs. Kelly and their 10-year-old son.

"We must face the fact," Kelly said before sailing, "that although Hollywood still continues to dominate in the world market, it no longer has a monopoly on good product. Good product today means international product. And with the improved production facilities they now have abroad, particularly in England, it is just as

Kuykendall May Not Retain MPTOA Post

Columbus, Miss., Sept. 1.—The withdrawal of Ed Kuykendall from theatre operation may bring about his retirement from exhibitor organization work on the conclusion of his current term as president of M.P.T.O.A.

While Kuykendall is retaining his ownership of the Princess and Dixie here, and his half interest in the Tupelo, Miss., theatre, the houses will be operated by M. A. Lightman in conjunction with the Saenger circuit on a long term lease. Kuykendall said today that he would serve out his current term as M.P.T.O.A. president but that

Cooperative Move Calls For 21 Films Yearly

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, Sept. 1.—British exhibitors will meet here Sept. 9 to consider a scheme for participation and flotation of a company called the Independent Exhibitors Distributing Co., organized by Capt. A. F. Dixey with capital of £100,000 and a production program of 21 features annually by various independent producers.

This is an outgrowth of a plan for cooperative production confidentially discussed at the C. E. A. convention at Eastbourne a few weeks ago. Although the C. E. A. cannot be officially connected with this or any other similar venture, Theodore H. Fligelstone, president of the exhibitors' association, and other C. E. A. leaders are believed interested and will attend the meeting.

The proposal calls for independent exhibitors to contribute 25 per cent of the capital which would work out between £50 and £100 per theatre provided all of the independents in the Kingdom joined up. No further capital obligation on the theatre operator

Rodgers Dinner to Start a Feist Fund

Proceeds to be netted from the beefsteak dinner to be given William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, at the Waldorf on Sept. 29 will go toward a special fund for a memorial to the late Felix F. Feist.

Requests for 800 tickets already have been received by the arrangements committee, 300 of which are said to have come from the M-G-M studios in Culver City. More than 2,000 are expected to attend the testimonial which is being tendered by leading local exhibitors.

RKO Notes Hearing Will Be Postponed

A hearing scheduled for today on a petition by RKO for leave to retire $850,000 of the company's gold notes outstanding of an original $6,000,000 issue, is scheduled to be postponed until some time in October. The delay is being sought in order to permit Federal Judge William Bondy,

Meyer Made Head of Principal Exchange

Sherman Krellberg has appointed Phil Meyer as sales manager of the Principal Exchange. Meyer will have charge of the Greater New York territory. He will assume his new duties next Tuesday.

Krellberg recently closed a two-year deal with Chesterfield and Invincible. Meyer has been branch manager in the local territory for a number of major and independent companies. He resigned some time ago as special home office representative for G. B., a post he assumed after being the local branch manager for the company about a year.

Paramount Meeting Off

A regular monthly meeting of the Paramount board, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until tomorrow when, for the second successive time, a quorum of board members could not be obtained. The company's executive committee met yesterday in a brief session to transact routine business.

No urgent matters are up for board consideration, it was stated, and tomorrow's meeting is expected to consider only routine matters.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IT'S a cheery word that reaches New York these days about the stature of theatre business at large. Important money attractions have been bouncing through from an assortment of sources and the curve of grosses has been ascending in the encouraging manner. New York may appear to some to take on the deserted village look these latterly August weekends, but enough of the cliff dwellers have been on hand and enough visitors have poured in to keep things going very nicely, thank you. . . .

We don't ordinarily go 'round the town poking strange people in the ribs, but every time we've forsaken the desk to find our direction a southerly one since last Thursday it's been a problem in elbowing to get by the Music Hall. We were quite contented with an idea suddenly acquired on Sunday and for a moment viewed our reasoning with a great deal of complacency. Not having seen "Swing Time," the idea was to catch it at the 5:21 show when, by theory and some experience, theatres usually go into the big dip. The facts to report in this instance, however, are these: (1) the theatre was filled, (2) the lobby loaded and the ropes up and (3) the tape out along the 50th Street side of the building well along toward 5th Avenue with the public—God bless it—patiently waiting five and six abreast for a chance to part with its money. . . .

On their own and elsewhere up, down and around the town, other attractions are getting on right handsomely as well. "Anthony Adverse"—courtesy of the dependable news columns—ended at $44,000 in five days with a $56,000 week in sight by last night or, that is, by 3:15 this morning when the overtaxed projection machines at the Strand stopped their whirring and grinding. It's a long show there and only seven complete turnovers are possible in the slightly over eighteen operating hours of each day. The feature runs two hours and seventeen minutes and something has to be done to get them out of the theatre; therefore, a newsreel and a short. Over at the Roxy, Simone Simon's first American venture, "Girls' Dormitory," is confronting that house with a potential $55,000 week while "To Mary—With Love" looks like $40,000 at the Paramount and "Romeo and Juliet" clicked off $20,869 in its second Astor week. That's how it goes these comfortable days. . . .

The end of all the good things is not yet in sight. Grinning amiably are Messrs. Cowdin, Cochrane and Grainger over their season's opener, "My Man Godfrey." Having seen, the reasons why are not only understandable, but justifiable. This is no department to make claims, sans proof, and so here goes: The picture has Carole Lombard and Bill Powell starred, the benefit of Gregory La Cava's direction, a very amusing and well-knit yarn of harum-scarum goings on along Park Avenue and on city dumps, a topnotch cast and production values. Miss Lombard, as a dumb, empty-headed, nit-witted debutante, kicks in with the best of all her performances and does a perfectly swell job of it. There is Powell, this time a butler with a Back Bay background and stiff-necked family. He's very much on the alright side himself. If "My Man Godfrey" fails to get over with wide margins on both flanks, our faith in rewards for real merit goes forever overboard. . . .

The general mood at Universal these days has undergone a change. Nobody ever knows much about production and how it will actually emerge, but, barring that always around contingency, the situation there is earmarked with signs of general improvement. The move is to turn out product that will engage constant nationwide first run attention in the realization that today, more sharply characterized than ever before probably, is the day of attractions, firstly, and celluloid, secondly and so on down the line. The picture that hovers undecidedly somewhere between definite values and doubtful values is getting to mean less and less in any man's theatre. Universal is after more, knows its problems and is fashioning its rebirth to meet them. . . .

To the city desks, in and out of the trade, which ran the stories about Hollywood turning seriously to Lloyd's for insurance, a reminder that Twentieth Century-Fox is trying its hand at a picture titled "Lloyd's of London." Not necessarily connected, of course. . . .

Philadelphia has had its share of alphabet organizations. It had in its exhibitor ranks associations briefed down as the ITO. Also the IEPA. And the IMPTO. Not to overlook the MPTO. Now, wearily we would suspect, it rests temporarily, at least, with the UMPTO. As do we. . . .

"Early Bird" Talks Up Again Tomorrow

Local major and independent circuit heads who convened at C. C. Moskowitz's office about three weeks ago and agreed to drop "early birds" and adopt a 5 P. M. evening admission scale, starting Sept. 4 and 5, will meet again at the same place tomorrow to complete arrangements for putting the plan into effect.

Representatives of all Broadway houses have been invited to attend. It is expected that these houses will join the move, but whether the same idea or a modified plan will be followed is to be discussed at tomorrow's gathering. The meeting will be called to order at 3:30 P. M.

Krasna Refuses New Paramount Contract

Hollywood, Sept. 1.—Norman Krasna today refused to sign a Paramount directorial contract as a result of a dispute with the studio over "Wonderful," his first assignment. The trouble centered on the unavailability of George Raft for the starring role. The understanding is that the studio refused to approach Raft because he has not yet signed his new contract.

It is reported that Krasna will return to M-G-M as a writer.

Chicago Operators Force Short Reels

Chicago, Sept. 1.—A notice not to run the 2,000-foot reels was received by the local operators' union today from George E. Browne, I.A.T.S.E. head. Prints on the larger reels are now coming in and must be rewound on smaller reels even before being censored or shown in the exchange projection rooms.

Browne's order may precipitate an important conflict with distributors' plans.

Cohen Is Preparing Two

Hollywood, Sept. 1. — Emanuel Cohen will have two pictures in work early in October. Preparing now are Happiness Preferred," in which Warren William will star, and "Mind Your Own Business," for which no stars have been chosen yet.

Selznick Signs Lewton

Hollywood, Sept. 1.—Val Lewton, for the past year editorial assistant to David O. Selznick, has signed a long term contract as story editor with the company.

Monday Nighters to Dine

The Monday Nighters will hold a reunion shortly in the form of a beefsteak party. The affair will be held after the Jewish holidays, which, this year, fall on Sept. 17, 18 and 26.

Mayer, Strickling West

Hollywood, Sept. 1.—Louis B. Mayer and Howard Strickling arrived here today from New York.

National Theatres' Coast Meet Started

Los Angeles, Sept. 1.—With the opening today of the four-day convention of divisional and district heads and bookers of National Theatres' units in San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, indications are that the sessions will surpass all previous meetings of the circuit heads.

Discussions will pivot about plans for playing important pictures on extended time in addition to campaigns to be given individual films. Increases in admissions where unusual pictures warrant them also will be a topic on the program.

Home office executives attending the conclave from New York include Spyros P. Skouras, William T. Powers, Edward Zabel, George Balsdon, Milton Hossfeld, Howard Malcolm, and Aubrey Schenck. J. J. Sullivan, local film buyer, accompanied the eastern group and will return to New York with them on Labor Day.

Distribution Men Present

Distributing executives attending include Ned E. Depinet and Jules Levy, RKO; Al Lichtman, M-G-M; Gradwell Sears and S. Charles Einfeld, Warner-First National; Abe Montague, Columbia; Charles Reagan, Paramount; Herman Wobber, Twentieth Century-Fox; James R. Grainger, Universal; Floyd St. John, Republic. All but St. John came on from the east. Each company will be allowed three hours to give an analysis of product and detail information regarding contracts.

M-G-M's deal runs three years, Paramount, two years, and the other companies, one year.

Montague has called a special meeting of Columbia's branch managers on the coast for today and tomorrow at the Ambassador.

Among the circuits' theatre heads here for the meetings are Will Steege of Salt Lake City, Frank L. Newman, Sr., Seattle; John Hamrick, Portland; Arch Bowles, San Francisco; Charles P. Skouras and Al Hanson of F.W.C.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The General Died at Dawn"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Sept. 1.—Grim melodrama is the essence of this picture.

Developing a romance which is contrasted with the dramatic theme, the story is told in a series of suspense-laden situations in which action and dialogue are forcefully combined to create an atmosphere of danger and tragedy. As the rigid quality of the premise is continually emphasized there is but a minimum of lightening comedy. Primarily a man's attraction, a studied exploitation treatment of the film's romantic content should aid in arousing audience interest in the production among women patrons.

Detailed personal characterizations, by thoughtful direction, vividly establish the war-torn China setting. Gary Cooper, the trusted agent of the patriots, is betrayed into War Lord Akim Tamiroff's hands by Madeleine Carroll and robbed of his arms-buying funds. Escaping captivity, Cooper bends his efforts toward recovering the money. With theatrical melodrama dominating, Porter Hall, Tamiroff's agent, plans to steal the money.

J. M. Kerrigan tries to chisel in on both as Cooper begins to fall in love with the girl. Upon learning that she is the unwilling tool of her father (Hall) the menace of the situation is intensified by the arrival of Tamiroff, who is determined that the money shall be his. As Hall is killed, the picture builds to a gripping climax when Tamiroff threatens to torture Cooper, Miss Carroll, Dudley Digges and Kerrigan as a means of finding the missing funds. When he is stabbed by William Frawley, a gun runner, Tamiroff, knowing that he is doomed, orders Kerrigan slain. Desperate, Cooper, playing upon the war lord's vanity to save his face, succeeds in saving his life and that of Miss Carroll by promising to blazon to the world that Tamiroff and all his followers died heroic deaths.

In the featured role, Cooper delivers his standard, pleasing performance but the outstanding characterization in the film is presented by Tamiroff, interpreting a composite war lord character with suppressed but forceful power and appeal. Miss Carroll essays a difficult role with skillful dexterity and Hall's conception of a fear-ridden, mercenary-minded go-between, is an exceptional bit of work. As this group carries the brunt of the story, Kerrigan, Digges and Frawley are effective as the principal supports.

The dramatic tone of the motivation is embellished by the quality of the musical score and expert photography. The picture was adapted from the novel by Charles Booth. The screen play was fashioned by Clifford Odets. Lewis Milestone directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,438. Running time, 95 minutes. "G."

"The General Died at Dawn" was previewed at 11:45 last night at the Paramount and opens its regular run there this morning.

"Lonely Road"

(A.T.P.-A.B.F.D.)

London, Aug. 26.—Neither the story nor the acting is very plausible. It is medley of political plans involving illicit gun landing, love and red roses, murder, Scotland Yard, and enough machine gun firing to kill everybody in the picture, but it all ends in the approved manner, the villains are caught and love is triumphant.

The hero is a naval commander, whose career had ended in disaster and whose marriage proposal met with a refusal. He seeks forgetfulness in drink and stumbles on a gang landing contraband machine guns. Knocked insensible, it is believed he is a victim of an automobile accident. In his travels to recuperate he encounters a dime-a-dance girl and learns that her brother is a truck driver for the gang. Through Scotland Yard he becomes involved in tracking the gangsters down, but meantime falls in love with the girl. All ends well on the happy-ever-after note.

James Flood directed and Basil Dean produced. Clive Brook and Victoria Hopper have the principal roles.

Running time, 70 minutes. "A."

Program Detail Set For Allied Session

Atlantic City, Sept. 1.—Program details have been completed for the three-day regional conference of Allied leaders and the seventeenth annual convention of Allied of New Jersey at the Traymore, Sept. 9-11.

The opening day's session will start with a meeting of the eastern regional directors in the Marine Grill in the morning. In the afternoon delegates will see the boardwalk bicycle parade of bathing beauties and will see the exhibits in the Marine Grill of the hotel. A cocktail party will precede dinner and the preliminary talent contest of the Showmen's Jubilee will be held on the Steel Pier at 8:30 o'clock.

The first business meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, with the annual banquet at 7 o'clock in the evening and the American Beauty ball following on the Steel Pier at 9:30.

Friday will be devoted to committee meetings in the morning, an open business meeting of all delegates at 11 o'clock, election of officers in the afternoon, and adjournment for the boardwalk float parade at 3:15 in the afternoon.

Delegates will be given reserved seat tickets to the national fashion show in the Auditorium at 9 P.M.

Penn MPTO Dates Set

Pittsburgh, Sept. 1.—The annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania M.P.T.O. will be held in a downtown hotel here Oct. 19 and 20, according to Fred Herrington, secretary. He is making arrangements for at least two well known speakers.

Local 306 Pickets An Organizing Move

Declaring the move is not directed at a rival union, but against the circuit for better hours, working conditions and security for projectionists, Local 306 has started picketing 19 Century Circuit houses in Long Island and Brooklyn.

Although the circuit employs Empire State operators, a spokesman yesterday stated that the picketing is not a union fight, but intended to get the men working in the theatres organized.

Youngclaus Circuit Selling Its Houses

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 1.—The Western Theatre Enterprises Circuit started several months ago by W. N. Youngclaus and Lloyd Thompson is disposing of its properties.

The Roxie at Shelton has been sold to E. L. Johnson of Montgomery City, Mo., and the Newman Grove house to W. C. Johnson of Friend, Neb. Youngclaus has also sold the State to his brother-in-law, Joe Lucas.

Bernerd, Morris Arrive

London, Sept. 1.—Jeffrey Bernerd of G. B. and Sam Morris of Warners arrived Monday on the Queen Mary. Morris will discuss British production plans with Jack Warner when he returns from the Continent and also British exploitation of "Anthony Adverse," "The Light Brigade" and others.

would be necessary. Neither would it be obligatory for the exhibitor to take the product. The inducement which is dangled, however, takes the form of promised lower rentals because of promised lower distribution overhead.

The scheme provides that the chairman of the company will be an exhibitor and three other theatremen directors, thereby giving them a majority on the board.

Production tieups claimed to have been arranged already include Associated Artists, recently floated by Leslie Howard and Dudley Murphy for six a year; two with Paul Robeson, from Ensign Prod.; six Liberty Films, including two "supers"; three from Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon and three or four from Franco London, producers of "Guilty Melody."

Dixey, it is reported, plans to raise finances in part, at least, for production on the strength of exhibitor contacts and contracts. As representing the first apparently practical attempt to line up exhibitor participation in production, the impression here generally is that this proposal rates serious attention.

Pathe, England, May Expand to 16 or 20

Pathe Pictures, Ltd., of England, a John Maxwell company producing 12 pictures for the current season, will probably increase this number to 16 or 20 next year, William J. Gell, managing director, asserted yesterday. He has just arrived from Quebec after the trip from London on the Empress of Britain.

Gell stated he is here on his annual trip and may negotiate a deal for distributing Pathe pictures in this country as well as arrange for handling American product in England. He will remain in New York for several weeks, he said.

Cuts Are Sought in Canadian Film Duty

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—A plea for reduction or elimination of customs duties under all tariffs on films and sound equipment imported from both the United States and England has been placed before the Federal Board of Tariffs and Taxation, Ottawa.

The surprise application was entered by the Chamber of Commerce of Victoria, B. C., and was first received by Charles A. Dunning, Minister of National Revenue, who referred it to the Tariff Board.

The brief from William T. Straith, complains that the present tariff is prohibitive.

"Like It" a Sellout

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Carlton is practically sold out for the premiere of "As You Like It" on Thursday. All of the Royal Circle has been sold at 21 shillings a seat, and all the 10 shilling, six penny stalls have been taken.

Joseph M. Schenck will be host to a big party of stars.

Kelly to Take Foreign Films For Sale Here

easy for Alexander Korda, for example, to make international pictures at the Denham studios in London as it is for Samuel Goldwyn or David Selznick to make them in Hollywood."

Kelly revealed that more than half of the 57 features which United Artists will distribute abroad this season will be British films. He also said film tieups are in prospect in England. France, Spain, Italy, Australia, Mexico and Argentina.

After indicating that the more important pictures made in England are out-grossing American product in that market, Kelly said:

"The same is true of the Spanish-speaking countries where native product is outgrossing the Hollywood variety four to one! Even in the Far East—in India, China and Japan—as well as in Continental Europe, South America and Australasia, only the outstanding American pictures are doing big business due to local pride in and support of national pictures.

Calls Nationalism "Inevitable"

"It's a natural and inevitable evolution of the film business," Kelly said, "and instead of fighting national production, United Artists, through its far-seeing executives who long ago recognized the handwriting on the wall, is encouraging these local producers, helping them to raise the level of their product, offering them an international outlet for their pictures.

"We realize that the time has come when we can no longer dump 40, 50 or 60 Hollywood pictures into a foreign country, grab our money, and run. It's a put-and-take proposition today. We must give some of that money back—in fact, we have no choice, since money embargoes are pretty general in most foreign territories."

Report John Dored Going to Gibraltar

John Dored, Paramount News cameraman who was reported captured in Spain by rebel forces, is safe and is being escorted to Gibraltar, according to official advices received here yesterday by A. J. Richard, editor of the newsreel. The information was cabled from Paramount's London office, where it had been telephoned from Bordeaux by the pilot of a plane chartered by Paramount to fly film out of Spain.

The State Dept. at Washington was unable to confirm the report up to a late hour yesterday. Dored was one of eight Paramount cameramen on duty in Spain. He will be relieved of the assignment and arrangements to replace him have been completed by Richard.

Criterion Open Sept. 16

Due to a delay in completing the theatre, the Criterion will open Sept. 16, instead of Sept. 8, with "Give Me Your Heart." Negotiations are under way to date "Follow Your Heart" as the second attraction.

Robinson Impressed

Bill Robinson, front rank tap dancer, was so impressed by Fred Astaire's blackface dance number in "Swing Time" that he called Astaire up in London and congratulated him by phone.

"I like to have a star like you do 'me' in a picture," he told him.

And Astaire was impressed, too.

Golden Closes Deal In Omaha Territory

OMAHA, Sept. 1.—Edward Golden, general sales manager for Chesterfield and Invincible, today closed with Max Weintraub of Security Pictures for distribution of the product of both companies next season.

After completing the deal, Golden left for St. Louis where he conferred with David Komm of Chesterfield Pictures Co. of Missouri, currently handling both products, on arrangements for next season's lineup of 18. From St. Louis, he will go to Dallas.

Golden Nearing His Goal

As soon as Edward Golden, general sales manager for Chesterfield and Invincible, closes distribution deals for St. Louis, Atlanta and Dallas he will have completed the distribution setup for both companies. He is scheduled to be one of the principal speakers at the Allied of New Jersey convention in Atlantic City on Sept. 11.

Reade Boosts Rates For "Ziegfeld" Run

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 1.—With the showing of "The Great Ziegfeld" at the local Paramount and the Carlton, Red Bank, after a two-week run at the Paramount, Asbury Park, Walter Reade boosted the admission at both theatres from 30 cents to 40 cents for the five-day booking. Both theatres wind up the run of "The Great Ziegfeld" tomorrow night, following which the regular 30 cents opening price will again prevail.

"Swing Time" and "The Gorgeous Hussy" are doing a sell out business at the Mayfair and Paramount, Asbury Park, according to Reade associates. "Anthony Adverse" will open at the Mayfair on Saturday. Prices at the two Asbury Park houses have not been increased as the matinee figure of 55 cents and evening admission of 75 cents are regarded as top for the houses.

"Godfrey" Opens in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—"My Man Godfrey" had a gala premiere at the Pantages. The Universal film will run at both the Pantages and Hillstreet and is dated as the next offering for the Music Hall in New York.

New Counsel in Quiz

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Carl I. Wheat, public utilities counsel for the City of Los Angeles, has been appointed associate counsel for the Federal Communications Commission in its investigation of A. T. & T.

Mrs. Fox Given New Delay on Testimony

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Eva Fox won two more postponements today of her appearance on the witness stand in the William Fox bankruptcy case while she rested at home and lawyers and doctors argued over her condition.

The latest order was that she appear at 10 A. M. tomorrow, but with a strong hint of future delay. Her husband also was absent. Mona and Belle, daughters, appeared, but were not questioned.

Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle said after having Mrs. Fox examined by a physician of his own choice: "I have decided that her condition is such that she is not to be excused entirely from testifying, but that some consideration should be given. She will be called only to the morning session each day, and only one counsel each day will be permitted to question her."

Murry C. Becker, Fox counsel, said that if Steedle forced the issue he would advise Mrs. Fox not to testify.

Conferences between opposing counsel and Steedle followed this afternoon.

Skirboll Not to Expand

Having completed a pooling deal some time ago with Ike Libson, William Skirboll, head of the Skirboll circuit of Cleveland, said yesterday before leaving for the Ohio city that he does not plan any expansion. He added the pooling arrangement with Libson runs indefinitely and will continue as long as he is a friend of Ike Libson. Skirboll stated he had been a close friend of Libson for 25 years.

published by an M-G-M affiliate; "In a Little Gypsy Tea Room," third, with 25,228 credits, and published by Joe Morris; "Lullaby of Broadway," fourth, published by a Warner affiliate; "Cheek to Cheek," fifth, written for RKO, and "What's the Reason I'm Not Pleasin' You?" sixth, and written for RKO.

The highest number of sales of sheet music also went to the M-G-M leading song, with a sale in excess of 500,000 copies. E. C. Mills, Ascap general manager, said that prior to radio all of the first six ranking songs would have sold in excess of 1,000,000 copies each.

WCTU Making Film On Alcohol Effects

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Margaret Munns, national treasurer of the W.C.T.U., with headquarters at Evanston, stated today that her organization is sponsoring a three-reel film called "Ethyl Alcohol," now in production under the direction of Elmer Clifton at the Burton Holmes laboratory here. Release of the picture is set for Sept. 15 through Y.M.C.A. groups throughout the country.

The picture for the most part is on 16 mm. film, although the standard size is used for some prints. Both sound and silent production is utilized. The picture treats of alcohol—how it is made and its effects upon humans.

Schools and churchs can have the picture for the showing, if they wish. No theatre showings are planned, since the picture is of a technical rather than entertaining nature. If present efforts are successful a similar film will be made next year.

Film Arts Acquires Space for a Studio

Film Arts Studios, Inc., has been formed here and has leased from the Erlanger estate the Erlanger warehouse at 447 West 49th St. and is equipping it with RCA recording apparatus for the purpose of providing space for the making of shorts and tests for independent companies. Several deals are pending, its backers state.

Officers of the new company are: President, Creighton Donal Kenney; vice-president, John Doran, who was formerly connected with Erpi; secretary and treasurer, Harold Southern.

Seek Patent Agreement

Warners and Paramount are endeavoring to work out agreements on patents covering background process photography which will avoid litigation in the future. Each company has instigated actions against the other at various times as a result of their conflicting patent claims. Agreements may be reached in the near future with M. P. P. D. A. representatives aiding.

Theatres Gain In Northwest Drought Area

the new houses in the state at Keokuk. It will be a 1,000-seat house and will be ready late in October. The other new Iowa house has just been opened at Sheldon by Richard Kerberg.

In Nebraska the Elm Creek, at Elm Creek, has been reopened by William Dolezal, the Grand at Wymore has gone back into lights, and at Friend C. W. Johnson has purchased the Strand from W. N. Youngclaus.

A new house also is planned at North Mancato, Minn., by H. C. Gilbert. It will cost $50,000 and will seat 636.

The Barrymore at Alcester, S. D., and the Primghar at Primghar, Ia., have been taken over from C. Vernon Larson and J. F. Allen by C. E. Werden.

Open at Terre Haute

TERRE HAUTE, Sept. 1.—The Orpheum has just been reopened after a redecorating job. New sound equipment has been installed and other improvements made.

The Tivoli at Jasper, Ind., has been closed for redecoration and will be reopened later this month.

Remodel at Columbus

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1.—Concurrently with renewal of lease on the Majestic, first run, RKO closed the house to permit extensive alterations, which will include a new front, marquee and lobby. A new cooling and ventilating system will be installed. Total cost of the modernization will be $50,000, according to C. Harry Schreiber, city manager.

RKO also controls the Palace and Grand here. The latter house was acquired on a 20-year lease, reconstructed and reopened about a year ago following a fire.

Plan Two for Monroe

MONROE, Wis., Sept. 1.—This town of some 5,000 people, for many years the home of only one theatre, will boast two additional houses before the end of the year if plans announced by rival exhibitors are completed.

C. J. Goetz, operator of the Goetz, has announced plans for a new $25,000-house to seat approximately 350. John A. Ludwig, Milwaukee exhibitor, in turn has plans for a 550-seat house just around the corner from the present Goetz, erected about four years ago.

Baltimore on Upgrade

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—Theatre business is on the upgrade here. One new house, the Lord Calvert, a 600-seater, has just been opened. Two others, the Royal and Booker-T for colored patrons, are to be reopened after redecoration.

Two houses have changed hands. Richard Shamis has taken over the Realart from Irving Levine, and William Hicks has acquired the Bridge. Lester E. Greene of Littletown, Pa., will manage the latter.

Pennsylvania Field Active

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—Three houses have just been sold and two new ones are planned in this territory. Manos Enterprises have acquired the Temple at Kane, Pa., from the Temple Theatre Co. The Manos firm is also building a $150,000 house at Latrobe, Pa.

A. N. Notopoulos, circuit operator, has acquired the Queen and Strand from Hyman Rosenthal at Aliquippa, Pa. Both houses are being remodeled at a cost of about $50,000. The Queen is being managed by C. J. Lund, Paramount district manager in Butler and Ambridge.

M. Goldman of Monongahela is building a 1,000-seater at California, Pa.

The Right Script?

Hollywood, Sept. 1.—Edmund Goulding has started shooting "Maytime" 20 days ahead of schedule.

Starting date had been set for Sept. 18, but Goulding assembled cast, costumes and sets in record breaking time and began shooting while M-G-M was catching its breath.

Saenger Takes Over Mississippi Circuit

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—The Saenger Theatres Corp., and affiliates, have purchased the interests of Mississippi Theatres, Inc., with holdings in Meridian, Hattiesburg and Laurel.

A. H. Yoemans, head of Mississippi, stated that the purchase price was paid in cash but would not divulge the figure. Yoemans said that he intends to remain in the theatre business in Mississippi to build up, if possible, an even larger circuit that than which Saenger has just taken over.

house, also has been reopened after being improved at a cost of $75,000.

Herbert Rosner has taken the Myown from A. F. Billings at Oakland to show foreign films, and the Berkeley at Berkeley has been acquired by Joe Blumenfeld, circuit operator. It will be remodeled and reopened as a first run after having been dark for five years.

Gruber Sells at Ocean Beach

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—F. J. Gruber has sold his Strand in Ocean Beach to John Kehoe. Kehoe operates theatres in San Diego. The policy of the house will not be changed.

Build New Spokane House

SPOKANE, Sept. 1.—Spokane will have its first neighborhood house soon. F. G. Weskil, circuit operator, has plans for a $150,000 house on the north side of the business section. At present this city has 12 houses in the downtown area.

A new house has just been opened at Cathlamet by Jerry Randolph.

Reade, Justin Set Deals

Walter Reade and Leo Justin have closed with M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox for both lineups in the Reade circuit of 23 theatres in New York and New Jersey.

his plans for the future in connection with exhibitor organization work were "undecided." It is believed here that he may reenter exhibition by acquiring another theatre in this vicinity. In this event he might agree to becoming a candidate for reelection to the M.P.T.O.A. presidency at the expiration of his term, but not otherwise.

Kuykendall's term expires with the holding of the M.P.T.O.A. annual convention, at which time the board of directors meets concurrently to elect officers. The convention is customarily held during February or March.

By-laws of the M.P.T.O.A., however, do not require officers to be theatre operators. The custom has been, however, to elect only such men to head the organization.

RKO Notes Hearing Will Be Postponed who has jurisdiction over RKO's reorganization proceedings and who is now in Europe on a vacation, to pass upon the petition.

The RKO notes, which are held by the Bank of America National Ass'n., are secured by virtually all of RKO's working assets, which are held in trust by the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. The petition asks that the RKO assets be turned over by the bank to Irving Trust Co., trustee in reorganization for RKO, in the event the court authorizes the retirement of the gold notes outstanding. Indications are that Atlas Corp. and RCA will oppose this part of the petition. The two companies own a majority of the RKO debentures which have a second lien on the company's assets and may ask that the RKO assets be held in trust on behalf of the debenture holders.

Denver Police End Chance Games Feud

DENVER, Sept. 1.—Following an agreement on sale of theatre tickets offering chances, a suit for an injunction against the Denver police by Roy L. Wennberg was dismissed in District Court here. Wennberg had asserted that the police interfered with his operation of the Sun, having arrested him three times on charges of running a gambling game, and that each time he was acquitted.

The agreement was reached between Wennberg's attorney and the chief of police. Under the terms of the agreement Wennberg cannot sell tickets outside the box-office and he must give away chance tickets when requested without requiring the purchase of a theatre ticket.

Willie Chin, Denver Chinese leader, has filed a suit to dissolve an alleged partnership with Wennberg, for the operation of the Sun. Claiming that the contract has existed since last December, Chin says that Wennberg later had the theatre lease turned over to Edward Zadra, who formerly owned the Washington Park. Chin asks that Wennberg be made to account for the earnings of the theatre and that a receiver be named for the business.

Television Pictures To Have 20 on List

Television Pictures, the new company formed recently by Edward Halperin and Maurice Conn, will produce 20 features next season, according to Halperin, who has arrived from a tour of key cities with Conn. The list will be broken down into eight specials, four starring Pinky Tomlin, four with Frankie Darro and four with Kermit Maynard.

With the exception of a few eastern spots, all territories for the 20 pictures have been closed, Halperin stated yesterday. Victor Halperin is now working on three stories and Conn is busy on five. The first picture, "Merrily We Go to Jail," which will have in its cast 15 old time comedians, will be placed into production on Sept. 26. Halperin and Conn plan to remain in the east about a week during which it is expected the few remaining situations in the east and foreign distribution deals will be consummated.

ITOA-TOCC Confabs To Await O'Reilly

Further meetings of committees representing the I.T.O.A. and the T.O.C.C. for setting up a new local organization to replace the two independent units will not be held until the return of Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T.O.C.C., from the coast.

Preliminary discussions on the new organization have been held by both committees with final developments to await O'Reilly's arrival.

ITOA Meeting Delayed

No meeting of the I. T. O. A. is scheduled today, the next one to be held at the Astor next Wednesday. Allied of New Jersey members will not meet again until the annual convention in Atlantic City next week.

Shift Comerford Men

SCRANTON, Sept. 1.—Changes made by Comerford Theatres Inc., send Edward Simonis from the Capitol to the Strand, succeeding the late William J. Cosgrove; Thomas Killeen from the Ritz to the Capitol; William Matthews from the State to the Ritz, and Thomas Carey, assistant manager at the State, to manager.

Drops Globe Change

Plans to convert the Globe into a two-a-day house have been dropped by Harry Brandt. Several offers had been made Brandt to book long run attractions, but the exhibitor has decided to continue the present grind policy.

A T & T Talks New Bonds

A refunding program which may aggregate $400,000,000 is under discussion by the A. T. & T., it was reported yesterday. The company has refunded more than $137,000,000 of its securities since the spring of 1935.

Clara Bow Recovering

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—Clara Bow is recovering from an attack of ptomaine poisoning at her Nevada ranch, according to reports received here today.

Purely Personal

DONN McELWAINE shoves off for Washington this morning to re-check into the run there of "The Georgeous Hussy," then hops a 'plane for the M-G-M studio, his base. This was his first visit east in five years. He spent eight days in Washington on the advance campaign of the picture and 48 hours in New York.

WILLIAM R. FERGUSON returned yesterday from Boston after attending the opening of "Romeo and Juliet" at the Colonial. DOUGLAS SHEARER, chief sound engineer for M-G-M, left the Hub for Cleveland and then will go to Detroit, Pittsburgh and Washington.

Canadians Employed For Dionne Picture

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Once more Canadian labor regulations have caused a situation in connection with the filming of a feature in which the Dionne Quintuplets are starred. Last year when "The Country Doctor" was about to be made, complaints received by the Federal Dept. of Labor that no Canadians were being employed brought about a delay until a number of "native" technicians were engaged.

The same development has occurred in connection with the filming of "Reunion" by Twentieth Century-Fox, but work proceeded when Joe Moskowitz advised the department that Canadian technicians had been brought to Callander.

Ohio Makes 27 Cuts In 542 Reels Seen

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1.—A total of 542 reels was censored by the Ohio board during August. Twenty-seven eliminations were ordered. There were no eliminations in 87 reels reviewed for the week ending Aug. 14, and only seven out of a total of 170 reels for the week ending Aug. 21.

The above record compares with a total of 27 eliminations in 542 reels reviewed in July.

Argentine and Brazil Close Studio Deals

Climate Makes All-Year Production Possible

By N. BRUSKI

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 19.—Alfredo P. Muria, director and owner of Productora Argentine, S.I.D.E., has closed an arrangement with the Brazilian Government that will make it possible for him to produce both in Brazil and the Argentine and in both Spanish and Portuguese.

Muria believes this will make year-round production possible, as the climate and scenery at Rio are perfect for work during the winter season here when weather conditions limit outdoor work.

Under the terms of the arrangement Muria will work in Genaro Ciavarra's studio at Rio. They are

Howard Release Via U. A. or Woolf Unit

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Leslie Howard and Dudley Murphy, at a press conference slated for Thursday, are expected to announce their plans for Associated Artists. It is understood they are considering United Artists or General Film Distributors for release, although their production venture has been mentioned in connection with the Independent Distributing Co. organized by Capt. A. F. Dixey, who hopes to interest British exhibitors as partners.

Howard sails for New York Saturday to play "Hamlet" on Broadway.

In the meantime, official reticence

Summer Needs Be a Season Not with Displeasure Any

By TETSUYA MORI

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—For the movie house congested by the mass of audiences, summer needs be the season not associated with displeasure and the wry face for sultriness, or the cinema is anything but the place for amusement or diversion. This is not merely what everybody would try to say, but must be a matter of course. Reverse is the case, however, with those attendances at most of the city's second and third run houses which have no perfect refrigeration, so much the case in these hot days when the column of mercury shows the highest 96°F the Tokyo residents have had in the recent several years.

While the major proportion of Tokyo houses are drawing sighs with lessening gross receipts everyday, what a delight to see our theatres, though very few, having their days by virtue of their being accommodated with complete refrigeratories!

As Takashimaya Department Store has plenty, or rather greater amount, of custom than Mitsukoshi, its formidable rival, so do the major first runs of Marunouchi draw film attendances by long odds against other theatres without the accommodation which is really indispensable for the cinema having inside a number of people in the hot season.

Fuji-Kan and Taisho-Kan, other first run houses at Asakusa which have had refrigeratories since early this summer, were judicious enough to know what their patrons want most in the hot season. Well has it been reported that the mercury had been rising at these better appointed houses, throwing into the shade all others without such system. Probably the next summer, Tokyo will have more theatres with refrigeratories. Thus the situation mentioned above tells volumes: investments on theatre arrangements return profit.

Rain Brings Cheer To K. C. Territory

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2.—For the first time in more than three months Kansas City and vicinity yesterday received an appreciable rainfall. The rain measured 1.96 inches, and was heralded by Weather Bureau officials as breaking the drought and the heat. Heretofore all summer not more than .1 of an inch has fallen at any one time and that only once or twice.

Film men were grinning todav. The rains will make fall pasture; will supply water to communities where livestock has had to be shipped out

Philadelphia MPTO Delays Price Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—The M.P.T.O.'s scheduled blast against high film prices exploded with a dull pop today when only 40 exhibitors assembled at the new organization's first meeting to do something about charges current on new season product.

The result of the meeting was the appointment of a committee of five, Dave Shapiro, David Milgram, Ben Fertel, Charles Segall and Leo Posel, to meet with exhibitors individually to hear their complaints and to try to formulate some plan whereby high prices can be checked. Most of the

Reorganizing For RKO Off Until October

Rockefeller Nine Million Claim a Drawback

Efforts to agree on the treatment which the $9,100,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO will receive under a plan of reorganization for the latter company cannot be resumed until after Oct. 1, according to present indications.

The delay in the work on this largest of the unsecured claims against RKO is not expected to halt current progress on the formulation of a reorganization plan, however. At present, reorganization factors are at work on a determination of the status of RKO's contingent liabilities in connection with the obligations of subsidiaries which have been guaranteed by the parent company. This phase of the development of a reorganization plan may occupy the better part of September after which, it is believed, it will be possible to resume work on the Rockefeller claim.

Discussions concerning the treatment of the claim under a plan of reorganization were begun several weeks

Delay Radio Protest At Denver Sessions

DENVER, Sept. 2.—Expected fireworks over broadcasting by film players failed to develop at the Rocky Mountain Theatre Owners' convention here yesterday.

B. P. McCormick, who was emphatic on the subject recently and threatened not to play pictures with broadcasting names in casts, did not submit a resolution on the subject.

Some of the members expressed the opinion that the organization ought to have a year of existence before passing resolutions condemning practices in the industry or laws pertaining to the industry.

The final day of the meeting started with McCormick, Canon City exhibitor, and Charles Gilmour, head of Gibraltar Enterprises, condemning double bills. They tend to lower prices and are largely due to managers' desires to keep competition out by using all the product, they said. McCormick called duals a "shot of dope."

Art Moore of Denver talked on modern trends in theatre decoration and pointed out that often houses can be remodeled to fit in with the history of their locations.

Publicity Discussed

A. de Bernardi, Jr., dramatic critic of the Denver Post, criticized promotion methods other than in newspapers and declared that if theatres would spend the amount of money used a few years back in newspapers patronage would return to old time levels.

T. B. Noble, general manager of Westlake Theatres, asserted that national sales policies would have to be revamped to fit local situations. He said he knew exactly as much now about national sales policies as he did when he entered the business.

L. J. Finske, district manager for Cooper Enterprises, asserted that block booking was not understood by many. It is block buying, he said, and he warned his hearers that its abolition would result in higher distribution costs. He could see no benefits to be derived from the Patman bill.

It was voted to continue monthly luncheons and discussions with special meetings every three months. The old officers hold over, having been elected at the organization meeting a few months ago.

ITPA Sessions Set For Sept. 16-17

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 2.—A third shift in dates for the annual convention of the I. T. P. A., this time from Sept. 23 to 24, fixes Sept. 16 and 17 as the definite dates for the confab. It will be held in the Sky Room of the Plankinton here.

Speakers scheduled include Edward A. Golden, Al Steffes and H. M. Richey. The Thursday noon luncheon is slated to be held in the new exchange building here to be occupied shortly by the Mid West Film Co. and Universal. The annual banquet will be held Thursday night.

Assisting George Fischer, general chairman in charge of arrangements, are Max Krofta, tickets; Harry Perlewitz, music; F. J. McWilliams, program; Ed Maertz, entertainment; Ross Baldwin, exhibits, and A. C. Gutenberg, reception and banquet.

Oakie Pulls One

Hollywood, Sept. 2.—It was that sympathetic soul, Jack Oakie, who suggested that Cecil De Mille change the name of "The Plainsman" to "Valiant Is the Word for Gary."

Young Is Convinced Profit Is in Duals

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2.—People like double bills, E. S. Young, operator of the Roanoke and Central here, is convinced.

Commenting on the Warner poll, he pointed to his own experience.

"Time and again I have polled patrons in the Roanoke and Central, and time and again 99 out of 100 have said they preferred a good single with well selected shorts to a double; but when I show that sort of program, they go to a theatre with a dual.

"When people had money enough for both a show and other entertainment as well—dancing, a night club, or what not—they objected to sitting through three hours of movies. Today when they have money for only one form of entertainment, they don't object.

"I have never heard a complaint from any one of my patrons on the length of a double feature, and I've run them that went 10 minutes under four hours."

As with premiums and money giveaways, Young believes, doubles don't wear out until times are very good again.

Increases Knowledge of Stars

"Another factor is that people like to talk about movies and stars. Nine out of 10 magazines being read by passengers on trains, busses, etc., are screen magazines. If they can see two pictures for the price of one, they have one more to talk about."

Of 44 subsequents advertising Aug. 30 (Sunday), 33, or 75 per cent, doubled.

The use of doubles has steadily increased here and in the territory for the past six months, and the practice appears not to have reached its peak. Until recently theatres doubled on midweek nights, or on another brace of nights that weren't doing well at the box-office. Now they are doubling almost every day in the week. They show singles only when they have a picture the contract on which calls for singling.

Only the Plaza, Fox Midwest's first subsequent run, does not double bill now pretty much as a regular policy as many nights a week as pictures can be got for it.

Levine to Trailer Firm

Julius Levine yesterday joined Theatre Trailer Service as salesman for the New York territory. Walter Frudenberger, general sales manager. is negotiating with several other men for representation in the local area.

Cochrane West Tuesday

Robert H. Cochrane will leave on Tuesday for the coast. The Universal president plans to confer with James R. Grainger, Charles R. Rogers and William Koenig. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Cochrane and their daughter, Mrs. J. H. Laeri.

Committees Chosen For Allied Meeting

Ten committees have been appointed for Allied of New Jersey's annual convention to be held at the Traymore, Atlantic City, Sept. 9-11.

Handling convention details are Sidney E. Samuelson, chairman; Frank Henry, Louis Levin and M. Marks. David Snaper is head of the nominating group which comprises Mrs. Hildinger, Harry Kridel, A. Dollinger, Mark Block, W. C. Hunt and Harry Waxmann.

The other committees follow: Taxation—Simon Myers, chairman; I Levy, D. Mate, A. Rapf, I. A. Roth, A. J. Sabo, H. Sager, P. M. Lewis; zoning and protection — Louis Gold, chairman; Louis Rovner, Frank Gravatt, Max Cohen, A. Nicoletti, A. Nussbaum, O. Shapiro and Max Sneider; theatre financing and remodeling—I. Hill; national legislation and block booking—M. Miller, chairman; J. Forgione, W. C. Hermann, S. Seligman, A. Siegel, J. Pineles, and S. William Ford; double features—E. Lachman, chairman; A. Ginsburg, S. Goldstein, E. Ulicny, D. Shapiro and S. Tannenbaum; increasing admissions—Harry Hecht, chairman; M. Ellis, J. Gravany, R. Smith, J. M. Becker and H. Colmer.

National Theatres Meeting Extended

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—The national distribution meetings of Fox West Coast will probably continue throughout the week. Major distribution executives continue to arrive for the meetings.

Checking into Los Angeles today were: W. J. Kupper, Herndon Edmond and George Ballantine. G. William Wolf, Mark Cory, Edward Lamb and H. C. Fuller of RKO are expected tomorrow as are Edward Saunders, Maurice Saffle and Ira Furman of M-G-M. Barney Rose of Universal is en route here by plane. George J. Schaefer is due Friday.

The Twentieth Century-Fox studio is giving a dinner tomorrow night for the representatives.

M. P. Salesmen Take In Other Film Men

Broadening of the membership rules of the M. P. Salesmen, Inc., to include exhibitors, exchange managers and bookers has been adopted by the organization in a move to extend the activities to all branches of the local industry, it was stated yesterday by Joe Lee of Twentieth Century-Fox.

Among the new members to be voted on Saturday at a meeting at the Astor are Simon Fabian, Richard Edelson, Sam Rosen, Jack Hattem, Lew Preston, Charles Steinman, Nat Beier, Harry H. Buxbaum, Roy H. Haines, Leo Abrams, Max Cohen, Al Mendelson, Seymour Florin, Ray Halperin and Irving Gumberg.

Film Stock Sales by Officers Are Listed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Transactions of corporation officers and directors in the stock of their companies in July included the transfer by Carl M. Leserman, New York, of 3,600 common rights for that number of shares of $1 par common stock of Grand National Films, it was reported today by the Securities and Exchange Commission. During the month, Leserman disposed of 1,533 shares of common, and at the close of July held 5,400 shares, it was shown.

A corrected report from Charles L. Stillman showed that on June 26, when the Grand National registration became effective, he held, through the Stillman Corp., 3,333 shares of $1 par common.

The commission also announced that a corrected report on Twentieth Century-Fox holdings of Arthur W. Loasby, New York, for September, 1935, had been received, showing that at the end of that month he held 125 shares of common, one share of A common, which was disposed of in July, and 250 shares of $1.50 cumulative preferred stock.

"Mohican" Starts B'way Run

AL SHAINESS
THE VARSITY CASINO
The LAST OF THE MOHICANS

The Rivoli yesterday established a new opening day's record in attendance from 9:30 A.M. to 1 P.M., when 4,800 persons paid $1,200 to see "The Last of the Mohicans." The attendance figure tops by 100 the record held by "Road to Glory," which has just completed a four-week run at the theatre.

Business for the day was expected to figure between $6,500 to $6,800 with an anticipated week's gross of $45,000, or over. A four-week run is contemplated, according to John Wright, manager.

Long lines formed in front of the house all morning. The house staff has been doubled to take care of the crowds and, according to present plans, the shows will be continued until 3 A.M. until next Tuesday.

No change in prices has been made, the opening to 1 P.M. admission being pegged at 25 cents, as usual, with the same price scale as the Strand prevailing from 1 P. M. on.

Short Subjects

"The March of Time"

(Issue No. 1; Vol. 3)
(Radio)

Two subjects very much in the public eye at present because of the political campaign and one of widespread interest because of its importance to public health make up the latest March of Time release. The political items are "the lunatic fringe" of "would be messiahs," as the reel describes them, and the Passamaquoddy Bay tidal power project. The handling of milk is the third.

The political items are handled with enough vigor to stir that enormous group which mixes emotion with its politics. Gerald K. Smith, who took up the "Share the Wealth" banner after Huey Long's death; Father Coughlin and Dr. Francis Townsend, the old age pension advocate, are presented. Smith dominates the subject, with a suggestion that he is ambitious to become a Fascist dictator in America.

Some inside background on the influences behind the start of the Passamaquoddy project are introduced, and it is shown how its abandonment is being used as campaign material.

The milk subject dates back to the discovery in 1892 that a typhoid epidemic was being spread by contaminated milk and the development of bottling and pasteurizing since. The reel is timely and extremely interesting. Running time, 22 mins. "G."

Scranton's Own—Jeanne Madden

TO the people of Scranton the world premier tonight at the Strand Theater of "Stage Struck," the first picture in which Jeanne Madden has had a part, is of outstanding interest. Our people have watched Jeanne grow up. She was heard and seen here on numerous occasions in entertainments of one sort or another long before she went away to train for her Hollywood career. Her father and mother, both fine musicians, saw that her training was the best. Those who remember her before she went to New York to train and who have ard her since realize the big improvement has been in her voice and the poise with he goes about her work.

is Scranton's own gift to the motion orld. Charming of face and figure a voice that captivates, it requires no of the imagination to predict future n the pictures, in fact, Warner Brothers en so impressed by her work that she n given a new contract and shortly is to or Hollywood to begin her work on a new cture. Jeanne is reported as thrilled by the spects of tonight's premier. This is not surprising. After all, Jeanne is only a slip of a girl and this is her debut in the picture world.

It is fitting that the world premier of "Stage Struck" should be in Scranton where the people who have watched Jeanne grow up and have been excited about her success can see the picture and tell the young lady in person that our hopes and best wishes for continued future success go with her.

3 Children, 2 Unconscious Women Are Rescued From Milling Throng Of Jeanne's Home-Town Admirers

A pushing, shouting, screaming mass of people, estimated at 15,000, last night turned the premiere of Jeanne Madden's first film nearly into a riot.

It was a scene such as this anthracite city of Scranton had never seen in its history—when the throng, wild with the one desire of seeing the little girl who made good in pictures, suddenly broke gh the police lines around the Strand Theater.

Through a pouring rain, the thousands had gathered along the walks and on the pavement of Spruce Street until only a narrow lane for automobiles was left from North Washington Avenue yoming Avenue.

An announcement had just been made that Miss Madden was ay to the theater and would arrive at 8:27. The tense crowd t waited for two and a half hours began pushing in and suddenly a shout went up:

"There she is."

An automobile with an elegantly dressed elderly lady had just pulled up to the curb and the crowd thought it was their idol. Ropes which had been stretched along the streets snapped as the thousands pushed forward.

They jammed forward around the automobile, pushed on into the lobby of the theater where two microphones were set to announce the arriving celebrities, a la Hollywood.

The air was filled with screams and shouts as some were pushed against buildings, against telegraph poles.

Ten traffic patrolmen who were on duty and five firemen rushed to try to clear a way for Jeanne who was caught with her party in the crowd up the street.

Cops Carry Children Away

Three small children, who had been in the front of the crowd on the side toward Washington Avenue, were caught and crushed, and carried out by the police. A young girl of about 18 fainted and she was carried into the theater. A young woman in her early twenties also fainted and was carried into the theater.

A riot call meanwhile had been sent to police headquarters, and Captain John Lewis and five men responded. They rushed down North Washington Avenue and ago following unsuccessful attempts to settle the claim by compromise. The discussions were discontinued about 10 days ago because factors in the negotiations either left on vacations or were otherwise occupied. The new delay results from the absence from the city during September of several of the negotiators, the presence of whom is essential.

No attempt to settle the claim by compromise is in view at this time. The Irving Trust Co., as RKO trustee, has filed its objections to the claim with Federal Judge William Bondy and a decision on the amount in which the claim should be allowed is expected soon after his return from a European vacation about Oct. 1. Regardless of what that decision may be, it is believed certain that an appeal will be taken by either Rockefeller Center or RKO to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and perhaps, even, from there to the Supreme Court.

Reorganization Would Be Speeded

The current discussions involve only an effort to agree on the number of new RKO securities which would be paid to Rockefeller Center under a plan of reorganization for each $1,000 of the amount in which the claim might be allowed ultimately. If an agreement is reached, a reorganization plan could be completed and presented to other creditors and the court without awaiting the outcome of the lengthy court contests over the allowance of the claim.

A hearing scheduled for yesterday on a petition for leave to retire the $850,000 of RKO secured gold notes outstanding was postponed and tentatively set for Oct. 7. The hearing is contingent upon Judge Bondy's return from Europe.

Present plans call for eight features for the season, with four to be ready in January. One will feature Luis Sandrini and will be directed by Manuel Romero, who has become a partner in the firm, along with Libertad Lamarque. Muria hopes to develop new talent so the company will not be dependent upon the legitimate theatre.

The Ministers of Justice and Public Relations have named a National Cultural Committee to function in connection with the Argentine M. P. Institute. On the committee are Dr. Matias Sanchez Sorondo, national senator, and the technicolor director of the Argentine M. P. Institute, Juan A. Bracamonte.

Among the functions of the committee will be the divising of the "manner and method of the State's intervention in the activities of the motion picture industry" and "the steps to be taken in regard to financing pictures and protection of national production."

"Schlussakord," a German picture, was considered the best musical and "Jugend der Welt," likewise German, merited the honor as the best documentary short. "White Squadron" was adjudged the best Italian effort. It deals with the life of a colonial soldier in Libya.

The jury also awarded medals to three American films: "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," produced by Walter Wanger for Paramount; "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," directed by Frank Capra for Columbia, and "Mary of Scotland," Katharine Hepburn vehicle, directed by John Ford for RKO.

York, Fox counsel, flatly refused to allow further examination.

Steedle replied: "This closes the door to testing the accuracy of the medical opinions set forth in the affidavits extenuating her failure to appear. That leaves me no alternative.

"I feel it is my duty to report the whole matter with all the circumstances to the U. S. District Court and to certify Mrs. Fox for contempt. I shall take such action."

Steedle's report and recommendation will be made to Federal Judge John Boyd Avis in Camden, who under standard procedure, is expected to review these developments, and hold a hearing.

Meanwhile the 21-A proceedings here before Steedle, earlier described as a fishing expedition by creditors' counsel to discover assets, have been adjourned until Sept. 22.

Drs. Saul Alfred Ritter, New York surgeon, and William W. Hersohn, young Atlantic City practitioner, testified today. Both described Mrs. Fox as being in a state of nervous collapse, resulting from a condition she has suffered from for the past year and a half which has been aggravated by worries, with pre-cardial constrictions and anginal attacks.

Other straws in the wind to show conditions in the "drought-stricken" middle west include the report of the 10th Federal Reserve District, showing retail trade (31 department stores) up 5.5 per cent and wholesale business up 9.6 per cent over July a year ago. General business for the district increased.

Missouri, hardest hit by the drought of the two adjoining states, Missouri and Kansas, had a slightly increased attendance at its State Fair in Sedalia.

$62,000 to $65,000. Extra shows are being added because the picture runs 98 minutes. Under the plan, weekday shows will end at 3 A.M. and on Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day the final screenings will wind up around 5 A.M.

Ordinarily the first stage show at the Paramount starts at 12:30 P.M., but due to the early opening hour Shep Fields and his band took over the stage at 10:30 A.M. From now until next Tuesday there will be six stage shows and eight feature screenings instead of five presentations and seven showings of the picture.

Weitman stated yesterday that 24 additional ushers were added to the staff to take care of the crowds.

Meanwhile, the Music Hall with "Swing Time," the Roxy with "Girls' Dormitory," and the Strand with "Anthony Adverse" played to capacity business all day yesterday. Standing room was the order of the day at the three theatres.

"Hussy" Arrives Tomorrow

The Capitol, which on Monday planned to hold over "Piccadilly Jim" for a second week, has changed the schedule. "The Gorgeous Hussy," which is doing a record business where it has opened out of town, will open at the Broadway house tomorrow.

"Romeo and Juliet," the only two-a-day screen attraction on Broadway, is holding up at the Astor and running neck and neck with the gross of "The Great Ziegfeld," its predecessor.

"Swing Time" today will start a second week at the Music Hall. The Roxy tomorrow will hold over its attraction. "Anthony Adverse" is now in its second week at the Strand.

British Unit Plans for 15 In Two Years

Murphy, Howard, Walpole Detail Their New Plan

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 3. — Formation of Associated Artists, Ltd., was announced today by Dudley Murphy, director; Leslie Howard and Hugh Walpole, novelist, at a press party this evening at Murphy's flat, Aldford House, Park Lane.

The plan is to make 15 pictures in two years at a total cost of £675,000 on a new cooperative basis under which artists will hold shares and participate in the profits. The original founder members will be 10, consisting of four stars, three directors and three writers.

Howard has already contracted for one picture a year, with Murphy as director and Walpole to write exclusively for the firm and act as scenario editor.

Three productions are scheduled at a cost of £85,000 each and 12 at £35,000 each, the latter to star players who are characters in America,

"As You Like It"

(Interallied)

London, Sept. 3.—The film is straight Shakespeare without a line altered so far as can be traced, and the dramatic development is as it is in the play.

Elisabeth Bergner is charming, whimsical and fascinating as Rosalind, opposite a somewhat colorless Orlando from Laurence Olivier. Outstanding is Leon Quartermaine's delivery of the "All the world's a stage" monologue. Fine acting and elocution are contributed by Henry Ainley as the exiled duke. Sophie Stewart is excellent as Celia and Dorice Fordred as Audrey.

The forest of Arden is a good piece of stagecraft, but the film has made no attempt to rival the technical achievements of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

As a sincere Shakespearian transcript with Miss Bergner in her most famous stage part it should appeal in special New York and key city runs to an educated public, but its appeal to the general film public appears more than doubtful.

The picture opened tonight at the Carlton with the police diverting traffic and a big assemblage of well known persons from social, governmental and industry circles.

The production will be handled in America by Twentieth Century-Fox.

M-G-M Will Release 17 in Four Months

M-G-M will release 17 features between now and Jan. 1, with "The Great Ziegfeld" heading the list and the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy "Maytime" finishing it. "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Good Earth" will not be included.

The films on the release schedule are: "The Great Ziegfeld," "The Devil Is a Sissy," "The Thin Man Returns," "Born to Dance," "Love on the Run," "Libeled Lady," "Camille," "Good-bye, Mr. Chips," "Old Hutch," "April Blossoms," "Our Relations," "Sworn Enemy," "The Longest Night," "The All-American Chump," "Mister Cinderella," "The White Dragon," "Tarzan Escapes" and "Maytime."

Some of these are already completed and others are scheduled to go into production immediately.

Distributors Pressing for Percentages

Improved Outlook Brings Change in Policy

Influenced by the marked improvement in business throughout the country and an indicated flow of better than average product from Hollywood during the new season, major distributors without exception are concentrating on closing more percentage deals this year than ever before, a canvass of sales offices here discloses.

This concentrated drive for percentage deals will characterize this season's sales policies insofar as the great majority of subsequent run exhibitors are concerned, it is apparent at this time. The policies in this respect will differ from those of the past four or five seasons in that they include no attempt to artificially stimulate box-office receipts according to the distributor's convictions of how a picture should be played. This means, primarily, that no attempt will be made by an important distributor this season to regulate exhibition practices by means of the license agreement.

The past five selling seasons, begin-

Mirrophone Starts W. E. Factory Rush

Sales of the new W. E. Mirrophonic sound system are exceeding the normal production schedule of the company's factory, according to an Erpi announcement yesterday. The plant was recently placed on a 24-hour operating basis, as a result, it was said.

Installations of the new equipment in the Philadelphia territory are being made in the following theatres: Mayfair, New Renel, Erlen, Terminal and Grand, Philadelphia; Arcadie, Salisbury, Md.; Broadway, Pitman, N. J.; Roxy, Lockhaven, Pa.; Park, Reading, Pa.; Strand, Scranton; Strand, Shenandoah, and Rialto, Phoenixville, Pa.

Hart to File Appeal

Counsel for William S. Hart filed a notice of appeal in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday to the Appellate Division from an order by Justice Philip J. McCook which denied Hart's request for $53,417 as interest on an $85,000 verdict which he obtained against United Artists last April 24. At the time Hart sued United Artists for breach of contract.

New Photography, Film Books Issued

Studio Publications today issues two new books, "Modern Photography," the sixth annual number, edited by C. G. Holme, and "Movie Parade," by Paul Rotha. The former is the latest volume in the series of books offering examples of the best work in the field of new camera technique, trends and style. There are 111 fine reproductions, six in color, printed on good quality paper. The work of leading camera exponents the world over is presented. The fine illustrations are striking examples of the beauty and form of life in movement and still-life.

Enlightening material for the camera enthusiast is found in another section of the book which lists technical details of cameras, film, shutter speeds, exposures and lighting.

Rotha Work Features Stills

Paul Rotha, seeing the need for a "pictorial survey of the cinema" collected stills from the work of 300 directors of almost 600 films, covering motion picture history from "The Great Train Robbery" to "The March of Time." He selected the best representative shots from the mass of material and has given an excellent record of film achievement in his "Movie Parade." Dividing his work into three sections, Rotha tells the how and why of the growth of films of fiction, fact and avant-garde and trick films, illustrating each section with valuable and intelligent comment.

The way exhibitors all over the country are handling the launching of Simone Simon is an indication of what can be done if the exhibitor would only enthuse himself up to the point that new draws must be created, but won't be as long as they stick in a demand for players who draw top money at the studio and draw nothing at the box office, making it impossible for producers to give the unknown a break.

● ● ● THE BIG News of the week as far as we are concerned is that a Sensational Star has been discovered over the week-end......and whenever a sure-fire star has been discovered, that is big news to last for several weeks.......for this film biz sure can make use of 'em. .....so forget your narrow party affiliations and your little punk company jealousies and get up on your hind legs and cheer for 20th Century-Fox and their Simone Simon......the charming Maid from Marseilles......for she will add brilliance and glamour to an alleged Art that must keep dishing out brilliance and glamour if the customers are to be kept streaming to the bee-ohs that very directly give all of us our jobs......are you big enough to grasp the point?......then cheer for Simone, for she has the stuff that sends Electric Thrills through audiences......

● ● ● WE SAW it happen with our very own eyes. . heard it with our own ears......sensed it as the waves of emotional reaction swept the first-show audience at the Roxy last Friday......it is a thrill that you get once in a decade ......the last time it happened to us was at the performance of Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor in "Seventh Heaven".....and that's a helluva long way back......and the electric surge in the audience was the same as that at the Simone Simon performance..... you can't fool the people......they KNOW .... some personalities, some stories (like "Seventh Heaven") have the God-given power to reach out to the audience and play upon them as a genius plays upon the strings of a violin ......and that's exactly what Simone Simon does in "Girls' Dormitory"......

● ● ● FORGET THE story...... it is incidental...... Simone Simon would make any story incidental......they could put her in a piece of puerile piffle and she would glorify it with her gracious charm and overwhelming appeal......she is glorious......and oh, such a relief from that never-ending procession of Hollywood Standardized Stars with the same make-ups, the same sophistication, the same routine mannerisms......the same Sameness......Simone Simon is DIFFERENT......she is Herself......natural, believable, charm personified......she will sweep the nation by storm.

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, said before sailing on a world tour that he intended to negotiate such deals in a number of countries.

Chicago Game Off; Theatres Have Jam

Chicago, Sept. 3.—A crowd estimated at 50,000 jammed the Loop Tuesday night when the football game between the All-Stars and the Detroit Lions was cancelled shortly before game time because of rain.

As a result, theatre business was nothing less than phenomenal. Standouts were reported at most houses and grosses jumped approximately $2,000 for the evening in the larger houses. They played to capacity business all evening.

Special trains from Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Indianapolis and other cities brought thousands of visitors to witness the game. Hundreds of refunds were made on the advance ticket sale and many departed with nothing but ill feeling for the sponsors of the game. Football games, they said, just weren't cancelled because of weather.

that everyone was in accord with the scheme. The session lasted less than a half hour. It was informal and in the form of a checkup to see that all the machinery was properly oiled a day before the ball bearings start rolling.

While the Broadway houses did not enter the discussions yesterday, it has been taken for granted these units will join the move by doing away with the morning price which has prevailed between the opening and matinee hour.

The Strand, which boosted the opening price of 25 cents to 40 cents with the run of "Anthony Adverse," is expected to continue the increased admission after the showing of the picture. The Rivoli will boost the current "early bird" price to 35 cents when "Dodsworth" begins a run after "The Last of the Mohicans."

Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., represented that organization at both meetings in Moskowitz's office. Yesterday, he reported that the membership was in accord on the matter and would follow through as scheduled.

All of the exhibitors and circuit executives attending the conclave yesterday were in a happy frame of mind, confident that the plan would prove successful.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Yellowstone"

(Universal)

Hollywood, Sept. 3.—The scenic beauty of the locale rather than the entertaining quality of this formula, melodramatic crime mystery story stands out as the major appeal of this picture. The artistic photography greatly accentuates the natural marvels of Yellowstone Park, but the plot situations complicate the theme.

Tersely, the yarn is the familiar multiple-suspect murder mystery carrying much comedy but only slim romantic love interest. Ex-convict Ralph Morgan is reunited with Judith Barrett, his daughter, and seeks to recover long lost robbery loot. His erstwhile companions in crime, headed by Alan Hale, watch Morgan making his search and murder him.

As various persons become suspects, romance develops between Henry Hunter, the park warden, and Miss Barrett as the investigation of Morgan's disappearance continues. Turning dramatic, the theatrical suspense marking all of the action is leavened by comedy contributed by Andy Devine and Raymond Hatton. Morgan's body is finally erupted from a geyser, after which Hale and Monroe Owsley pay the price of their crime by being frozen to death in an ice cave to which they had tracked Morgan.

Exploitation of the scenic backgrounds seems to be the outstanding showmanship asset for all other than the crime addicts. Hunter and Miss Barrett, newcomers both, show promise. Morgan is somewhat out of his element, but the veteran troupers, Hale, Devine, Hatton, Paul Fix, Rollo Lloyd and Paul Harvey, contribute characteristically effective performances. The story is an original by Arthur Phillips and is wisely directed by Arthur Lubin, who devotes considerable footage to scenic effects.

Production Code Seal No. 2,465. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Adventure in Manhattan"

(Columbia)

Concocted with the blend of originality, comedy, romance, farcical intrigue and novelty that made "It Happened One Night" a refreshing and entertaining cocktail which intoxicated the box-office with its results, "Adventure in Manhattan" should prove a delight to the season's audiences.

The lines and clever situations from the May Edington original, the direction of Edward Ludwig, and the performances by Jean Arthur, Joel McCrea and Reginald Owen are well combined and the resulting job is a perfect blend.

In his role of criminology author, amateur art collector and newspaper man, McCrea is the cocksure predicter of big crimes. Fellow scribblers work a gag to bring him down from prophetic heights to the level of humans and in this manner after the hoax, he meets Miss Arthur, an actress. The pair hit it off in romantic fashion and develop their acquaintance with Reginald Owen, Miss Arthur's producer. When a rare painting is stolen McCrea is off predicting again and so sure is his editor that the presses are set for a "scoop" which fizzles out—as does McCrea from his job. From that point the plot hits its pace and speeds along its zestful, adventurous way to comic and melodramatic conclusion, with predictions coming through, "scoops" and romance. Throughout there is taste and it's the kind of mystery, comedy and romance that hits the spot.

The well-cast support includes Herman Bing, Victor Kilian, John Gallaudet, George Cooper, Emmett Vogan and Charles Wilson. The screen play is the collaboration of Sidney Buchman, Harry Sauber and Jack Kirkland.

Production Code Seal No. 2,359. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

St. Louis Reopened With Shows, Films

St. Louis, Sept. 3.—After having been closed for more than two years, the St. Louis will be reopened tomorrow with a combination stage show and picture policy. Not only does the reopening of the house add another theatre to the downtown list, but it will also mark the return of presentations in the local area. It will be the first show since the policy was dropped from the Ambassador about six months ago.

Headlining the first stage show will be Charles Collins, who appeared in "The Dancing Pirate" and recently topped the Roxy, New York, bill. Freddie Mack, who has been conducting the orchestra at the Roxy, is in the pit at the St. Louis and will remain here for several weeks. In addition, 16 Gae Foster girls, Hecter and his pals, Nadine, Professor Lamberti, and a local singer round out the program.

Partington in Charge

Jack Partington supervised all details in connection with the show. Eve Ross, protege of Miss Foster, is in charge of the girls. Harry C. Arthur, Jr., arrived from New York yesterday with his brother, Edwin, who will be attached to the local F. & M. executive staff which will make its headquarters at the Fox. Partington and John Eberson will leave for the east over the weekend, while Arthur plans to spend about 10 days here for conferences with the bondholders of Central Properties Corp., which is scheduled to turn over the St. Louis Amusement Co. to F. & M. under a 10-year management contract within the next few days. The deal is awaiting approval of the Federal Court.

ning with the depression, have seen determined attempts by the larger distribution companies to offset lowered rentals by means of restrictive clauses calculated to get what was believed to be best playing conditions for all product sold. These included minimum admission clauses and anti-double featuring clauses, which, despite numerous attendant obstacles, distributors attempted to enforce. One or the other of the clauses have appeared in the contracts of all but two of the major companies during the past five years.

For the new selling season all major distributors have abandoned the minimum admission clause. All but four have eliminated the double featuring restrictions from their 1936-37 contracts and, inasmuch as three of these—Paramount, Warners and M-G-M—are on a double feature policy in most of their affiliated theatres, it would seem to be apparent that no serious effort to enforce the clause will be made by these companies.

Business Pickup Fathered Move

The drive for a maximum number of percentage deals as well as the relinquishing of attempts to regulate exhibition policies by means of the licensing agreement, is attributed by sales officials to the rapidly improving business situation and the reasonable expectancy of better product from all companies. Distributors point out that the rate of business improvement has been and promises to continue at such a pace that deals closed for a flat rental at this time almost certainly could not be gauged to approximate the average theatre's probable earnings next fall and winter. Hence, they are convinced that the most judicious participation in the expected business advances can be realized by the producer-distributor only through percentage deals.

Distributors also see the problems engendered by unreasonably low admissions and, in some instances, unnecessary double featuring, being solved through the percentage deals. More expensive product commands its own higher admissions and discourages a second outlay for double features. Thus, sales executives are inclined to believe, a sustained flow of good product sold at its full value, together with increased theatre attendance, may cure many of the competitive exhibition practices which contract restrictions and trade agreements could not do away with during depression years.

effective nationally and is causing much trouble which will increase in volume as the new product arrives.

Union-exhibitor parleys are still on with the projectionists demanding the return of a 20 per cent wage cut made five years ago, and exhibitors demanding a 10 per cent decrease. Both sides insist that they will not compromise.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wives Never Know"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3.—With situation laughs punctuated by smart dialogue this is a good domestic farce, capably played by Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Adolphe Menjou and Vivienne Osborne.

Ruggles portrays a mild horticulturist who is married to Miss Boland. Menjou is a novelist who preaches that marriage is a living death and enters their happy household to convince the wife that Ruggles' impeccable conduct robs her of the happiness of forgiving his sins. Convincing both that their wedded joy is a fool's paradise, he starts Ruggles on a night of gay carousing. Ruggles chooses Miss Osborne, a French actress, as his partner for the adventures and learns afterward that he has picked Menjou's true love. Further complications pile up when Claude Gillingwater and his wife, Fay Holden, arrive during a domestic blowup to reward Ruggles' domestic fidelity by making him the Kansas representative of an eastern nursery. Only when many doors have slammed in the best farce manner do events straighten out.

Elliott Nugent's direction drives the comedy home without any undue strain and able acting support is given the principals by Louise Beavers, Norma Lee, Constance Bergen and Arthur Housman. The screen play is by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan from the story by Keene Thompson. Harlan Thompson produced, giving good attention to details. The picture rates first consideration on duals and the cast names offer good exploitation opportunities.

but stars here. Two pictures definitely set for Howard are "Riviera," by Ferenc Molnar, with script by Robert E. Sherwood; "Bonnie Prince Charlie," in Technicolor, with script by Walpole. Two other stories bought are "King for a Day," by Dashiell Hammett, author of "Thin Man," and "Martyr," by Liam Flaherty.

Production probably will be at Amalgamated Studios and an occasional picture may be made in Hollywood.

Anna Sten and Eugene Franke will join and their present company will be dissolved.

Two offers of distribution are being considered and Murphy admits he has been holding discussions with Capt. A. C. N. Dixey of the Independent Exhibitors' Distributing Co., but denies any pledge.

Murphy says artists associated with the company will work exclusively for it on expiration of their present contracts, but at the start, as in the case of Howard, may have films to make elsewhere.

Howard will leave for New York Saturday for further Warner pictures. While there he may discuss Associated affairs. Production is scheduled to start in November.

Burroughs-Tarzan in Distribution Change

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Far West Exchanges' franchise for the distribution of Burroughs-Tarzan pictures in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle has been terminated by mutual consent. Olmstead Stubbins exchanges have taken over the work. The change was suggested by Burroughs following the taking over of Far West by Grand National.

"Tundra Dragnet" will be the first under the new arrangement.

Times Square Again Has Picket Parades

Sept. 1 employed stagehands identified with the I.A.T.S.E. as well as Local 306 men. Since the theatres do not play vaudeville and since there has been no need for the men in the past year, Cohen decided to drop them from the payroll. He didn't, however, discharge the I.A.T.S.E. operators. As a result, the stagehands are picketing the three theatres while their brother members are inside working the projection machines.

Brandt, who operates the other houses with the exception of the Central, has not had Local 306 men in his booth for more than two years. His theatres are in direct competition to Cohen's group and although one may draw another conclusion the reason the pickets have renewed their daily stint is directly attributed to a new move on part of the I.A.T.S.E. affiliate to get Brandt's houses to sign.

The Allied picket who had been doing service at the State has retired. The major circuit houses on Broadway are not involved in the revival of the sandwich men, all theatres having signed a long term deal with Local 306 last year.

better than the first and close to the "Top Hat" record holder. About 182,000 attended the Music Hall last week in comparison to 186,000 admissions for the first seven days of "Top Hat."

The Strand with $53,350 on the first week of "Anthony Adverse" came pretty close to evening the Roxy seven-day take on "Girls' Dormitory." The latter house drew $55,000, which is the biggest gross for the theatre under Howard S. Cullman's management. Considering that the seating capacity of the Strand is slightly more than half of the Roxy's, the first week's take of "Anthony Adverse" is something that the Warners can turn to with pride.

"To Mary—with Love" garnered $39,000 at the Paramount. The tally also includes the preview of "The General Died at Dawn," which was shown to more than 4,000 persons last Tuesday night. "Piccadilly Jim" wound up with approximately $33,000 in the till, which was good for the theatre, but not strong in comparison with some of the other grosses along the street.

S. R. O. for "Romeo"

"Romeo and Juliet" on a two-a-day policy at the Astor, continues to play to standing room. Four shows, instead of two, will be put on tomorrow and Sunday with three scheduled for Labor Day. In view of the additional screenings, it is anticipated the third week's business will figure around $25,000.

The Rialto, with "The Case of the Velvet Claws," got around $8,000. The Palace on a double feature comprising "Mary of Scotland" and "Second Wife" took in more than $10,000. "China Chipper" was previewed at the theatre at midnight.

"Queen" Big in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—"Nine Days a Queen" is claimed to have set an opening day record at the Alvin. It was a surprise to the management because of lack of star names.

"Mohicans" Phila. Hit

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—More than 7,500 admissions were chalked up for the opening day yesterday of "The Last of the Mohicans" at the Aldine. The theatre seats 1,400.

Representatives of the reorganization committee have conferred with Loew home office executives and are said to have agreed on details of a lease. Meanwhile, the preferred stockholders continue to operate the Penn without the assistance of the combined products made available to the houses under the recent Warner-Loew pooling arrangement.

Hull to Indianapolis

H. H. Hull has been named by Carl Leserman as manager of Grand National's Indianapolis exchange.

UNDER the great Acoustic Shell of the Hollywood Bowl, Leopold Stokowski conducted a memorable concert on August 17. The technical equipment used for the sound enlargement of the music was based on the revolutionary principles of Stereophonic—"third dimensional"—Sound, first successfully demonstrated by Bell Telephone Laboratories before the National Academy of Sciences on April 27, 1933, a single-channel adaptation of which is now available to theatres in commercial form as MIRROPHONIC.

THRILLS FOR YOUR EARS! MIRROPHONIC'S Living Sound DEMONSTRATED IN BOWL

Thousands are thrilled for the first time by Western Electric's new sound reproduction.

Again!—proof of the box-office value of the new dramatic sound reproduction!

In the famous Hollywood Bowl, on August 17, the thrill of a full symphony orchestra was enlarged to reach every ear in the bordering hillside, retaining every vestige of the faithfulness, the tonal purity, the undistorted quality, of the living sound itself!

The spellbound listeners, hearing this miracle of sound, enjoyed the experience that patrons will get—when your theatre is equipped with MIRROPHONIC, the perfected sound system that for the first time brings to every seat in your theatre a massive, undistorted illusion of reality itself, a true reproduction of the original sound!

MIRROPHONIC—Western Electric's epoch-making sound system—brings to exhibitors everywhere the first new large-scale money-making opportunity since Western Electric first gave sound to the silent films!

Backed by E. R. P. I.'s world-wide service facilities, and by a powerful exploitation campaign, MIRROPHONIC sets an entirely new standard of sound reproduction. An illustrated booklet will be mailed on request.

Zukor Asserts New Optimism Now Prevails

Says Paramount to Spend $10,000,000 on 15

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Improved world economic conditions and the grosses rolled up by recently released new season product have imbued Hollywood with a new confidence, declared Adolph Zukor here today en route to New York.

Paramount, he said, will spend $10,000,000 on 15 star-name productions during the next six months exclusive of the rest of the program.

Zukor was particularly enthusiastic about "The Texas Rangers," "Rhythm on the Range" and "The General Died at Dawn." He had just been informed, he said, of the opening grosses on the last named feature at the Paramount, New York.

Above normal returns will be received, he predicted on other recently completed films. He named "The Big

Cantor Settles His Goldman-Sachs Suit

WILMINGTON, Sept. 4.—The suit of Eddie Cantor against Goldman, Sachs & Co., its partners and officers, Goldman-Sachs Trading Corp. and Central States Electric Corp. has been settled and the sequestrator appointed by Chancellor Wolcott to sequester stock holdings of individual defendants has been discharged.

Cantor, with Benjamin F. Holzman, tarted suit in 1932 asking for an accounting by the defendant companies. Cantor, a heavy stockholder, alleged mismanagement. Wolcott, petitioned by counsel for the complainants, appointed Albert L. Massey of Wilmington as sequestrator of stock of the individuals named with the corporations as respondents.

M. P. Salesmen, Inc., Add 20 New Members

About 20 theatre men, exchange managers and bookers were initiated into the membership of the M. P. Salesmen, Inc., yesterday, at a meeting at the Astor. This is in line with the organization's new plans to expand its activities to include all ranches of the local industry.

Plans for the annual ball to be held Thanksgiving Eve also were discussed. oe Lee presided.

RKO Canadian Deal Going Before Court

A petition asking court approval of the recently drawn agreement under which RKO withdraws from theatre operation in Canada and grants a 10-year product franchise to Famous Players-Canadian will be filed in Federal Court here by Irving Trust Co., trustee in reorganization for RKO, in the near future.

The petition asks leave to liquidate RKO Canada and turn over its leases on Canadian theatres to Famous Players-Canadian. Theatres involved include the Orpheum, Vancouver; Winnipeg, Winnipeg; Keith's, Ottawa; Capitol, Winnipeg; Imperial, Montreal, and Capitol, St. John. RKO sets forth that the Canadian operations never have been profitable and that, through the assignment of the leases, it would free itself of contingent liabilities amounting to more than $400,000, exclusive of any other liabilities which might accrue during the life of the leases.

Under the agreement for which court approval is sought, F. P. Canadian assumes RKO's obligations on the Montreal and St. John theatres, in addition to taking over the leases. The 10-year RKO franchise is a further consideration for the relinquishing of the leases by RKO.

British Time Unit Set Up, Says Rolan

An English production unit for the March of Time with Richard de Rochemont in charge has been set up in England, Ralph Rolan stated yesterday upon his arrival on the Paris. Space formerly occupied by RKO International at Deane House has been taken over for the purpose, Rolan said.

Under the new plan, one English subject will be used in all March of Time releases in England and eight of the 12 will be inserted in American issues, Rolan asserted. The initial English subject which has to do with

Florida Cities Try Out Bank Night Idea

SARASOTA, FLA., Sept. 4.—Theatre Bank Night crowds have given this city an idea on how to raise money for a municipal bathing beach. As a result, tickets are being sold at the municipal band concerts and drawings are being held.

Tampa city officials have been so impressed by the success of the plan that they are discussing its adoption for the purpose of raising money to match WPA funds on local relief projects.

Will Have 5 Each

Under the tentative drafts drawn up in the M-G-M-Twentieth Century-Fox-G.B. deal, both American companies will each distribute a minimum of five G.B. pictures in this country annually, according to J. Robert Rubin and Richard Dwight, attorneys, who returned yes-Rubin and Richard Dwight, BARCELONA, Aug. 22.—First distribution of the recently pooled receipts of all theatres has just been made to distributors and producers by the Comite Economico de Cinema on behalf of the Sindicato Unico de Espectaculos Publicos, the Government bureau in control of amusements.

The total distribution was 42,000 pesetas, approximately $5,000. This represented about 70 per cent of the funds in the hands of the Comite, as 30 per cent was retained as "deferred credits," pending the outcome of the economic situation caused by the political disturbance.

It is understood that the Comite has on hand 128,000 pesetas, after the

Cincy Grosses Rise 25% in Heat Waves

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4.—Despite the fact that the weather has been the hottest on record over a continuously longer period of time, theatre receipts at local first runs have been approximately 25 per cent higher this summer than for the corresponding period last year. Generally improved economic conditions have contributed to this result, but better product is considered mainly responsible, evidenced by the fact that houses which are not air-conditioned have shared in the higher grosses.

Another indication of improved business conditions is found in a report just released by the Dept. of Commerce, which shows retail sales here for July were 55 per cent greater than for July, 1935.

Other Ohio cities showed July gains in retail sales as follows: Cleveland, 42 per cent; Canton, 39; Akron, 24; Youngstown, 24; Toledo, 14; Cincinnati and Columbus, each 13.

Lawyers Back With Draft of British Deal

Definite Progress Made, Say Rubin, Dwight

Negotiations on the Twentieth Century-Fox-M-G-M-G.B. deal have been reduced to writing and a tentative draft was brought back to this country by J. Robert Rubin, chief counsel for M-G-M, and Richard Dwight of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight, attorneys for Twentieth Century-Fox, who returned yesterday on the Paris and Berengaria, respectively.

The fact that the tentative agreement has been reduced to writing was regarded by Rubin as definitely moving the deal along. He added that there were not many changes and the pact follows along the general lines as agreed "in principle" before Joseph M. Schenck and Isidore Ostrer sailed for London.

"Certain things are necessary to be made by G.B. in regard to the corporate structure," Rubin stated, "before the deal can be completed." He said he expected this would be done in about a month.

"G.B. will retain its name in England, as heretofore," Rubin asserted, "and will also continue to produce as it has in the past." Distribution of M-G-M, Twentieth Century-Fox and G.B. product in England will be handled through one agency, but the individual sales staffs will be kept on, as usual."

Dwight was reluctant to discuss any phase of the three-company pact, holding that it has not been approved by the boards of any of the firms involved. He said he brought back a

Penn MPTO Demands Star Broadcasts End

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Resolutions opposing star broadcasts adopted by the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, "not only oppose, but demand" that producers, directors, players, writers and others in the industry immediately end their activities on local, Pacific Coast and national hookups.

The resolutions say the broadcasts have proved that screen personalities have "decreased their value to producers."

Copies of the resolutions have been sent to all producers and trade papers in the industry.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Three Mesquiteers"

(Republic)

Hollywood, Sept. 4.—All the standard western ingredients and many refreshing new elements have been incorporated in this fast-moving, outdoor, thrill action film. It is premised on a novel idea, moving at an exciting interest-creating pace in which dialogue, movement and music combine to strengthen the picture's drama, romance and comedy. Direction, intelligent production technique and convincing action combine to provide desirable entertainment.

A group of ex-war veterans seeking homesteads in the west incur the hostility of a gang of old time cattle-raising settlers. A pair of adventurous cowboys, Robert Livingston and Ray Corrigan, later joined by Sid Saylor, come to the veterans' aid. Ensue the situations that account for the wild riding, battles, the slight, but effective, romantic content and well inserted comedy. All work to confound the old timers and win for the soldiers the lands they desire. Pointing to a follow-up film, the finale has Livingston and Corrigan with Saylor, now a full-fledged mesquiteer, riding off in search of further adventure.

While not a big picture, the show is one that should meet with popularity in the smaller town and neighborhood houses. Further, it should prove an appreciable companion piece to a more pretentious attraction of different character.

The work of principals, Livingston, Corrigan, Saylor, Kay Hughes about whom the romance centers and J. P. McGowan, Al Bridges and John Merton as western types, is consistently of high caliber. The story is adapted from an idea of William MacDonald by Charles Condon with screen play by Jack Nattleford. Ray Taylor directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,476. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"The Gorgeous Hussy," which opened at the Capitol yesterday, was previewed by wire from Hollywood Aug. 29.

"A Son Comes Home," yesterday's opener at the Rialto, was also covered from Hollywood Aug. 6.

"Star for a Night," playing the Palace, was previewed Aug. 7.

Issue Big "Swing" Book

S. Barret McCormick's advertising department at RKO has turned out an elaborate press book on "Swing Time" with pockets in the covers, a wheel that can be turned to show various poses in the "Swing Time Waltz," and a large assortment of loose sheets on exploitation. One is an exhibitors' manual.

Publicity stories are on mimeographed sheets. Plenty of color is used.

State Pulls $31,900

"His Brother's Wife," coupled with the "Harvest Moon" contest winners and Milton Berle as master of ceremonies, scored the second best gross for the State last week, garnering $31,900. The best take for the house is held by "Ah, Wilderness" on the screen and Burns and Allen on the stage, the tally for this combination being $42,800.

Syndicate Gets Serials

Robert Mintz, president of Stage and Screen Prod., has closed with Syndicate Exchanges, Inc., for the New York distribution of three Weiss-Mintz 15-episode serials. They are "Custer's Last Stand," for immediate release; "The Clutching Hand" and "The Black Coin."

Pep Club Outing Off

The Paramount Pep Club has cancelled its boat outing scheduled for Sept. 12.

Claims 16mm Cheap Process for Color

Production of 16 mm. sound film in color at the same price as black and white and with no distortion of sound is claimed by the Cinaudagraph Laboratories at Stamford. The process is an invention of George Lane, formerly with Audio Prod.

Sound is reproduced from 90 to 9,000 cycles, it is claimed, the sound track being the same as on regular width film. The new development, it is said, consists entirely in the printing of the positive. Color and black and white stock can be developed in the same solution, it is asserted.

Two printers are required for the sound track and one for the picture. Duplicate lens are required on projectors when color films are being shown. Prints are made from 35 mm. negative.

lisbursement, for the payment of employes of the city's 117 theatres and he orchestras and extra hands taken on when the Government assumed control of the industry. The highest single payment to a distributor, it is reported, was 6,000 pesetas to one American firm.

It is regarded as significant that he Femina and Coliseum theatres have been permitted to continue showng of M-G-M and Paramount films, respectively. The Femina is indirectly an M-G-M property and the Coliseum s owned directly by Paramount. The Astoria, heretofore the showplace of Radio films, has been forced to take varied product, although it is still classed as a first run and has an 18-piece orchestra.

Low Prices Popular

Exhibition time has been extended o 10 P.M. Recently shows have been put on from 4 P.M. to 8 P.M. An early extension to 12:30 or 1 A.M., he old closing hours, is expected, if conditions continue to improve.

Low price seats in the first runs and the smaller houses charging small admissions are getting most of the business. Orchestra seats in the big houses are practically empty except on Sunday.

Because of reduced hours and increased pay, laboring classes are enoying a new prosperity, and scales averaging 75 centimos are the most popular. Legitimate houses charging igher admissions are not doing much business.

Some complaints have been received rom the smaller places doing big usiness that they are not getting proper share of the pooled returns, ut are paying the increased overead of houses which have been forced to take on larger staffs and rchestras.

Death Penalty for Dishonesty

"Gypping" and "chiseling" has praccally ended among theatre employes ince the warning of the Syndicalist Committee that employes caught robbing or cheating would be shot on ght.

English-language films with Spanh sub-titles prevail, with some resues from previous seasons, due artly to the experimental nature of he new system and the hot weather. What the new season product will do an only be guessed. The only first un showing Spanish-language films xclusively is the Cinema Cataluna. erman and French films are shown ccasionally.

tentative draft which is to be submitted to S. R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox, who is slated to return from a Maine vacation around Sept. 15. Dwight has been away approximately six weeks conferring with Joseph M. Schenck and attorneys for G.B. in London. He added he did not think the agreement "in principle" would be presented to the board of Twentieth Century-Fox until Schenck returns.

Schenck is scheduled to sail on the Normandie on Sept. 9.

Arriving on the Berengaria with Dwight was Sidney Towell, treasurer of Twentieth Century-Fox, who declined to answer questions relative to the G.B. situation. He had sailed for England on the Normandie Aug. 7.

With the arrival of the three men, it was learned that Twentieth Century-Fox has not yet parted with any of its 49 per cent voting stock in Metropolis & Bradford Trust, which is the holding company for G.B. Although M-G-M has not yet acquired half of Twentieth Century-Fox's interest in G.B., it is believed this will follow automatically as soon as the boards of the three companies ratify the deal.

civil British aviation arrived on the same boat with Rolan.

Bernard Green has been appointed in charge of special exploitation and publicity for the British unit. Edgar Anstey, who has been attached to the film division of the G.P.O., is a director and James Hodgson is the cameraman.

Rolan, who planned to be gone three weeks when he sailed, spent almost seven entirely in England. He spoke highly of the Denham studios which, he said, has two stages larger than any in Hollywood.

One issue a month, instead of eight a year, will be released in the United Kingdom from now on. There are 915 theatres in the U. K. contracted for March of Time, an increase of 150 over last year, Rolan said.

Jossey, Levy File Suit

Cincinnati, Sept. 4.—J. O. Jossey, Republic franchise holder, Cleveland, and David M. Levy, local attorney, have filed suit in Kenton County Circuit Court, Covington, Ky., asking appointment of a receiver for Pleasure Isle, a Kentucky night club, operated under lease by Thomas Reilly, who also operates the Rialto, local neighborhood subsequent run house.

Plaintiffs last week were awarded judgment against Reilly in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court here for $19,733 and interest amounting to $1,257, and contend that receivership is necessary to protect the remaining assets.

Umbreit Named Trustee

Bankruptcy Referee Peter B. Olney in Federal Court yesterday appointed Kenneth B. Umbreit as trustee for the Orpheum Theatre Circuit in bankruptcy. Umbreit was ordered to post a $5,000 bond and a citation stated that the assets of the Orpheum Theatre Circuit exceeds the liability by more than two million dollars.

Skouras to Get Details

"Barrier" Nearing End

Toront, Sept. 4. — Filming of scenes for "The Great Barrier" will probably be finished about the middle of this month.

The Height of Something

Kansas City, Sept. 4.—For years it has been customary for the Exhibitors' Film Delivery Service here, whenever it had a call from an exchange to pick up a feature print from an exhibitor who is not a customer, bring in the exhibitor's short reels at the same time free of charge. It has been purely a gesture of courtesy.

The other evening a driver went out to get a feature for an exchange. The exhibitor told him he had about three reels yet to run, so the driver said he'd go in and sit down while he was waiting.

"That'll cost you 10 cents," the exhibitor said.

Thinking he was kidding, the driver replied, "Oh, I'll pay you some time."

"Oh, no," the exhibitor replied, and reached out to tap him on the arm. "I really mean it, 10 cents."

The driver waited in his truck. When the feature was over, the exhibitor brought it out, together with his short reels.

"What are those?" the driver pointed at the shorts.

"Shorts."

"That'll cost you $1."

"What!!!" the exhibitor screamed.

"I really mean it," the driver said, unperturbably. "One buck."

When the driver got back to town, he asked the boss if he had acted correctly.

"No," replied Sam Abend. "You should have charged him $2."

"Rangers" Is Los Angeles' Top; $22,900

Los Angeles, Sept. 4. — "Texas Rangers" was the high grosser of the week, doing $22,900, over par by $4,900, at the Paramount aided by an F. & M. stage show and Rube Wolf.

"Road to Glory," dualled with "Kelly, the Second," registered a strong $3,500 over par at Loew's and reached $12,600, over the line by $100, at the Chinese.

"China Clipper" took a weak $12,100 at Warners' Hollywood and also was under the line on a take of $11,500 at Warners' Downtown. "Walking on Air" and "Final Hour" were strong at the Pantages with $5,200, but the same bill slipped at the Hillstreet with a take of $5,500.

Total first run business was $101,550. Average is $103,150.

Dixey Won't Start Without 500 Theatres

Fixes Basis on Which He Will Produce

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Independent Exhibitors Distributing Co., organized recently by Capt. A. F. Dixey, will begin production if a minimum of 500 exhibitors support the project, Dixey states. He asserted that he had received many definite promises to join following invitations sent to exhibitors to attend the meeting being held here Wednesday to discuss the cooperative production plan.

The general impression in and about Wardour St. is that the scheme will be approved by the meeting but the perennial inability of exhibitors to stick together cannot be discounted as a factor. Dixey's production contracts all appear to be provisional upon the scheme being adopted by exhibitors. No producing companies here will admit that they are committed in any way.

Labor Angle Looms In Schenck-GB Deal

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The effects on employment of the proposed Twentieth Century-Fox-Loew's-G.B. deal is expected to be discussed at the trade union congress to be held at Plymouth this week with the possibility of representations being made to the government.

A preliminary meeting of officers of the congress last weekend discussed the advisability of airing the subject before the full congress or confining it to private consideration by the general council. The organization is also expected to instigate a new series of questions in the House of Commons when it resumes its sittings in November.

Paris, New Center For Radio Intern'l

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Centralization of Radio Pictures International, Ltd., in Paris is being completed by Phil Reisman, RKO foreign manager. Harry Leasim is being placed in charge of the new office and Jack De Waal has been made secretary and director of the organization.

The Paris office will have under its jurisdiction all of the company's offices in the various sections of Continental Europe as well as in the Near East territories.

M-G-M Insisting Upon 25-cent Minimum Scales on "Ziegfeld"

An increase in regular admissions with a minimum of 25 cents during the engagement of the picture is being insisted upon by M-G-M on all showings of "The Great Ziegfeld," it is learned.

The distributor is selling the musical on special pacts which provide it cannot be dualed. Although M-G-M demanded 65 per cent on all roadshow engagements, all other runs are being asked for 40 per cent of the gross.

Where exhibitors have been scaling prices at 30 cents and 40 cents, M-G-M is asking that these be boosted to 40 cents and 55 cents.

It is possible that a similar procedure may prevail with "Romeo and Juliet." The company's executives are studying the results of "The Great Ziegfeld" and will make a decision after "Romeo and Juliet" completes the 15 roadshow runs scheduled. The picture opened in a number of key centers Sunday with several others scheduled for next Sunday.

So. Australia Agitating for Cuts in Taxes

By CLIFF HOLT

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 20 (By Airmail Via London)—South Australian exhibitors are agitating for a reduction of theatre license fees and amusement taxation, and in view of the fact that the industry more than did its share during the depression years, it is felt that their representations will be sympathetically received now that the state's financial affairs are showing such rapid improvement.

Amusement taxation was a war-time emergency measure in the Commonwealth but it remained. However.

Times Square Fails to Cut "Early Birds"

With the exception of the Cohan, all theatres along Broadway and on West 42nd St. on Saturday, the deadline, failed to eliminate "early bird" admissions, according to a checkup made between 11:30 and noon by a MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporter.

Theatres continuing the morning admission of 10 cents were the Times, Wallack, Liberty, Selwyn, Lyric, Central, Times Square, and Harris. The Cohan previously had charged a dime, but Max Cohen hiked the tariff in accordance with the agreement adopted recently at meetings held in

Television Intrigues U.K.: Values in New Color Seen

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Shown to the trade press at a studio lunch today were first shots by the British Chemicolor process invented by Karl Grune, director; Otto Kanturek, cameraman, and Viktor Gluck, technician.

Landscape exteriors and portrait shots of Ann Harding and others were the main items. They showed very true color values and, in the latter instances, pleasing flesh tints.

A subtractive process on a four color basis through separate-negative exposures, Chemicolor is first being used for color sequences in the Schach-Trafalgar, "I Pagliacci."

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Television, on the modest scale implied by the fact that a 15 inch wide picture remains the maximum, became a public fact when Radiolympia, press-showing the material first, today opened its eight theatres, or booths, giving eight makers of receivers the chance to show what their sets were capable of, but declining to identify any of these makers individually.

The pictures shown, all drawn from film material, were of practically even quality in all the eight booths. Flicker was there, but it was not offensive. A

Average Last Two Years About 65 Millions

Average weekly attendance at theatres in this country, according to current estimates, will pass the 80,000,000 mark during the new season. The figure represents a gain from a low of 60,000,000 in 1932 and 65,000,000 for the two years following.

Attendance estimates for 1935 placed the weekly average at about 75,000,000, and the first half of the current year the figure was increased to 77,000,000. The all-time high was reached in 1930 when an estimated 110,000,000 attended theatres in this country every week.

No marked increase in theatre openings or the building of new theatres is taken into account in the estimate for attendance during the 1936-37 season. Approximately 16,000 theatres are said to be in operation now as compared with 12,500 in 1932-33. Any increase in this number during the new season will have only a negligible effect on attendance, it is believed. The increased attendance will result from improved business conditions which will permit addi-

2 Milwaukee First Runs Hike Tariffs

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7.—Fox's Palace and Wisconsin hiked their admissions here from a 40 to 50 cent top. The present scale is 25 cents until 1 P.M., 35 cents until 6, and 50 cents to closing, including tax. The previous scale was 25 cents until six, and 40 cents thereafter.

The increase comes right on the heel of the hike inaugurated last week by the Warners for "Anthony Adverse." At that time it was declared the new top would be in effect for this film only, but in view of the Fox increases,

"Ecstasy" Trial by Jury Up Wednesday

Kansas City, Sept. 7.—The jury trial to determine whether or not "Ecstasy" is fit to be shown to Kansas citizens will get under way Wednesday before Judge Marion D. Waltner of the circuit court here. The action was to come up Aug. 4, but two murder cases preceded it on the docket and it was postponed.

City censors Guy Holmes and Mrs. Eleanore Walton two weeks ago turned thumbs down on the picture, which was slated for an extended first run at the downtown Royal, operated by Brock Fagin and Jack Truitt. The theatre had done a good deal of promoting and continued with plans to open Aug. 25. The censors appealed to City Manager H. F. McElroy, who appointed an appeal board for which the censor ordinance provides. Members of this group unanimously upheld the censors.

Last week Samuel Cummins of Eureka Prod., Inc., owners of the film, came in from Dallas. The theatre notified the police department it was going to show the picture in order to get a circuit court test of its fitness to be shown. Fagin was arrested, fined $50 and posted bond of $100. The fine was appealed from police to circuit court.

The jury will view the picture.

M-G-M Closes Deals With Eight Circuits

Contracts have been closed within the last 10 days by M-G-M with eight eastern circuits, representing more than 250 theatres. All deals are for one year.

Included are the United Detroit Theatres with 12 units; the Fabian circuit, seven; Butterfield, 82; Co-operative Theatres, 68; Comerford, 60; Harris, 10; Ike Libson, 10; Mike Kallett, seven.

A deal with E. J. Sparks for the Sparks circuit is practically set. Sparks has been in town with Charles E. Kessnick, M-G-M southern district manager, with headquarters in Atlanta. Both Sparks and Kessnick left for the south over the weekend and will complete arrangements on the pact in a week or so.

Criterion to Have 2 Private Showings

Two private previews of the new Criterion before it is opened to the public on Sept. 16 will be held next Monday and Tuesday evenings, Harry Charnas stated over the weekend.

The theatre will be opened to the public at 8 A. M. on Sept. 16 with "Give Me Your Heart." Republic has closed a deal for "Follow Your Heart" as the third film attraction. A Universal picture will most likely follow the opening feature.

Finishing touches are now being made by various engineers who are checking into every detail to get the theatre in proper condition for the scheduled openings. Both B. S. Moss and Charnas are supervising.

So. Australia Agitating for Cuts in Taxes

about five years ago the Federal Government repealed the Amusement Tax Act and in 1934-35 Queensland did the same; and the industry has been hopefully but vainly awaiting for the remaining states to follow.

Statistics show that in respect to taxation on admissions, South Australia is worse off than any other state. Elsewhere, the lowest taxable admission is nine pence and in most cases one shilling; in S. A. there is a halfpenny tax on threepence admissions, rising to seven pence. License fees in South Australia leave its sister states standing except Queensland, where the absence of the amusement tax accounts for the high rate. In N. S. W., for instance, the theatre licensing law requires a fee of £1 per annum up to 500 seats, £2 up to 1,000, and £10 in excess of 1,000. But in South Australia licensed theatre proprietors pay £1/10/- on a theatre of 100 seats; £3 from 200 to 400; £7/10/- for 500 to 700; £15 for 800 to 900; and £20 for a capacity of 1,000 or more.

Coast Embarks on Production Drive

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—Starting a new drive following a two week respite, major and independent studios turned cameras on 15 new feature pictures here this week. The total amounted to 46 features and five shorts shooting, according to the weekly survey. There were 44 features and four shorts the week preceding.

Nearly every major studio was represented in the list of new pictures. "Legion of Terror" started at Columbia, "The White Dragon" at M-G-M, "Hideaway Girl" and "Maid of Salem" at Paramount, "The President's Mystery" and "Ghost Town Gold" at Republic, "Million Dollar Profile" at Radio, "The White Hunter" and "Glory" at 20th Century-Fox, "The Case of the Constant God" at Universal, "Once A Doctor," "Melody for Two" and "No Hard Feelings" at Warners and "Naval Spy" and "Rebellion" with the independents.

Paramount Busiest

Paramount had nine features shooting to score the heaviest production activity among the majors.

Columbia had three features working, four in preparation and scheduled for cameras within two weeks and seven in the cutting rooms. Samuel Goldwyn had two, zero and one; M-G-M seven, three and 12; Paramount nine, three and six; Pickford-Lasky zero, zero and one; Republic three, two and four; Radio four, three and five; Roach two, zero and zero; Selznick International zero, zero and one; 20th Century-Fox seven, two and five; Universal two, two and two; Warners five, zero and 12 and the independent studios two, four and two.

Short subject production also moved up a notch. Columbia had one in work, two in preparation and three editing. M-G-M had three, two and five; Radio zero, two and three; Roach zero, one and zero; Warners one, one and zero and the independents zero, one and zero.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Devil Is a Sissy"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—Drama with a heart sock, possessed of powerful human interest and told with forceful directness, this picture held a preview audience's attention in a vise-like grip. Although the three juveniles are featured, the picture is absolutely not a kid attraction. While it is of quick interest to that audience, segments of the theme should stir adults deeply.

The story is a dramatic, psychological study of the workings of the child mind. Circumstances force the cultured Freddie Bartholomew into association with Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney, tough mugs in the city slums. Domestic affairs of the youths' parents are not conducive to the best welfare of the trio. They are led into petty crime through the desire of Mickey to buy a tombstone for his electrocuted father. With a tolerant juvenile judge setting the boys on the right track, young Rooney would backslide. But following a brush with bandits during which young Bartholomew endangers his life, the tragedy of his threatened death opens his pals' eyes to the right way of living.

The entertainment quality of the film concentrates on the drama which is enlivened at times by pleasing dabs of natural, human humor in which the trio, Gene Lockhart and Etienne Girardot participate. Save for one number the film has no musical accompaniment as the quality of the motivation and the forceful characterizations carry the theme.

The boys are believably convincing in their roles, ably supported by Ian Hunter, Peggy Conklin, Katherine Alexander and Jonathan Hale.

The story by Rowland Brown was adapted by John Lee Mahin and Richard Schayer. W. S. Van Dyke directed.

It is an intelligent study of a timely and vital subject.

Production Code Seal No. 2,529. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

Overseas Preview

"East Meets West"

(Gaumont-British)

London, Aug. 27.—George Arliss back in the old "Green Goddess" role as an Eastern Sultan who holds up England and a rival Eastern power on the strength of the strategic importance of his harbor to both parties.

Arliss wears this type of part like a perfectly tailored suit and his fans will love to see him in turban and robes again, scoring by the old methods of subtle intrigue and polished epigram.

A good melodramatic plot rests on the fact that the Sultan's English-educated son is in love with the wife of a British customs officer who has a side line in liquor smuggling. The prospect of the officer swinging for it is exploited by Arliss to extort subsidies from both the rival powers. The situation also gives the film some very good mob scenes and a kick finish.

It has an Eastern atmosphere and plenty of action as assets to add to that of the Arliss personality. Lucie Mannheim is the woman lead and Godfrey Tearle is very good as a British colonial governor.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G." ALLAN.

Buys Television's 20

Kansas City, Sept. 7.—Majestic Pictures, local independent, will handle the line up of 20 pictures of Television Pictures, Inc., according to Miriam Wintroub, head of Majestic.

Retitle Melton Film

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—"Sing Me a Love Song" is the final title for the James Melton film at Warners which has been variously titled "Come Up Smiling" and "Let's Pretend."

Lloyd Outlines Story

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—Harold Lloyd and his writing staff have completed the first draft of the next Lloyd picture for Paramount. Adolph Zukor and William LeBaron have approved the script. The story is an original and has not been titled.

"U" Assigns Writers

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—Four writers have been assigned to scripts at Universal. Garret Fort is working on a treatment of "Hippodrome," Charles Grayson is on "I Hate Horses," Austin Parker is rewriting portions of "Three Smart Girls," and Dorothy Fields has started on lyrics for "Love Insurance."

C. C. Moskowitz's office. While he was the only exhibitor to live up to the agreement as far as the Cohan is concerned, the operator apparently did not extend the move to his 42nd St. houses. This, however, may have been due to the fact that the competitive situations flanking the Harris and his other units did not do away with the "early bird" price, thereby making it necessary to keep the 10-cent charge.

The Mayfair did not boost its 15 cents morning admission and neither did the Globe, Rialto, Palace, Roxy, State, Rivoli, Paramount, and Capitol discard the 25-cent early price.

Whether action will be taken against those exhibitors not coordinating with the move to drop cheap morning admissions and adopt a 5 P.M. evening scale is to be decided later, it was stated by one of the prime movers of the plan. Notwithstanding, the general feeling is that the plan will be worked out favorably and that it is merely a matter of time tional numbers to attend theatres now in operation and others to attend more often than heretofore.

On the basis of these estimates and the probability of generally increased admissions and film revenue during the new season, grosses may approximate $930,000,000, and film rentals in the neighborhood of $300,000,000.

Mexico Pledges Aid To Production Idea

Mexico City, Sept. 7.—President Lazare Cardenas has promised a group of capitalists moral and material support of the Government for a project to produce in a studio to be built at Tia Juana. The new company, Compania Estudios Imperio Aztama, S.A., had asked for a Federal concession. Employment will be given to Mexicans for the most part, it is stated, but foreign technicians will be imported.

Para. Buys Booth Story

Hollywood, Sept 7. — Paramount has purchased "Caviar for His Excellency," an unpublished novel by Charles G. Booth, author of "The General Died at Dawn." Cary Grant and Akim Tamiroff are tentatively set for the leading roles.

Ortee Quits Republic

New Orleans, Sept. 7.—Ed Ortee, salesman for Republic, has resigned and has been succeeded by George Nungesser.

Bing Crosby Re-Signed

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—Paramount has signed Bing Crosby to a new two-year contract with the old still nine months to go. He will make three yearly under the pact.

scheduled to be completed by next September. Razing of the present building will start within the next few weeks. Woolworth's and Whelan's already have taken store space.

Sumter House Opened

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 7.—The Sumter at Sumter, S. C., said to be one of the finest in the State, was opened August 31. The new house, which was erected at a cost of approximately $120,000, has been leased to the Palmetto Theatre Co., operators of the Rex at Sumter.

Mrs. J. A. Jones has been named manager of the Ideal at Ashburn, Ga., which will be remodeled by L. A. Stein.

Reports are current that the people of Glennville, Ga., are about ready to "try out" Sunday shows. Sentiment in general is said to favor one show on Sunday afternoon and one at night before and after church services. From Danville, Va., comes information that further efforts to operate theatres in that city on Sunday will be delayed until the Corporation Court has passed on the appeal of Fleet Robinson, manager of the Virginia, who was fined $25 for operating last Sunday.

Loew's to Share in B'klyn House

Negotiations are under way whereby Loew's will acquire an interest in the new 600-seat theatre being completed by Century circuit at Quentin Road, Brooklyn.

Loew's is interested in five Century theatres in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. In two of the houses the major circuit has a 50 per cent ownership, while in the others the interest is less.

Provided the deal is concluded shortly, Loew's interest in the new Flatbush structure will be slight.

Fulton Opens His Seventh

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—W. D. Fulton yesterday opened the Howard, 560-seat house at Arkansas City, Kas., which has been completely remodeled and redecorated. This gives Fulton a string of seven houses, five of them in Kansas City, Mo., one in Kansas City, Kan.

The Strand, S. M. Wetmore's second house at Arkansas City, Kan., opened today. The 390-seat house formerly was operated by Fox Midwest, but has been closed some time. Wetmore also operates the Star there.

Seattle House Renews

SEATTLE, Sept. 7.—John Danz's State reopens this week after a thorough renovation job, including installation of new seats, draperies and Wide Range projection and sound equipment. A policy of dual-feature third run attractions and stage burlesque has been inaugurated, with admissions at 25 cents top.

Resuming "Art" Policy

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Gabe Rubin is reopening the Art Cinema Thursday with an "art" picture policy. The first will be "Nine Days a Queen" which has just closed a six-day run at the Harris-Alvin. The Cinema will keep the film for an extended downtown engagement.

Reopen in Tarentum

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Warners reopened their Harris, Tarentum, today, with Bill Powelson moving from the Regal here to manage the new house. Remodeling work has been under way there throughout the summer.

"Adverse" Draws in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—The Stanley opened to the largest crowd of the year with "Anthony Adverse." Doors were opened at 8:45 A.M. for the first time since "The Jazz Singer," with a long line waiting at the box office at 8:15 A.M.

Houston to Get Another

HOUSTON, Sept. 7.—Interstate Theatres, Inc., will build another suburban here to be known as the Yale.

The Yale will be at Washington and Yale Ave's. in West Houston, and will seat 1,600. This will be the largest suburban theatre in Houston, and second in size only to the downtown Metropolitan and Majestic and Loew's State. It will be the sixth suburban Interstate theatre to be built or bought and remodeled here within the past year and a half.

Work is expected to begin this month.

Reverts to Doubles

SEATTLE, Sept. 7.—After approximately six months on a single film policy, Jensen-VonHerberg's Liberty returns to duals. Admissions of 25 cents at matinees and 40 cents at night will prevail, instead of the 30 cent top formerly in vogue with doubles. The increase during the single-feature regime did not decrease attendance, according to Leroy V. Johnson, general manager, and hence is being continued. The house will return to single bills for certain big pictures during the coming season, he said.

WPA Seeks N. O. House

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—The WPA theatre project, which has been presenting plays in the Little Theatre, is in the market for a larger house. So far officials have studied the Dauphine, the Tulane and the St. Charles, but no arrangements have been completed.

Open Cincinnati Mayfair

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—The Mayfair, 400-seat "art cinema," located in the Masonic Temple, dark for the summer, will reopen Sept. 12 for a two-week revival period, starting with "The Guardsman." The house will open for the regular season Sept. 26 with "Symphony of Young Lovers," listed as a prize-winning film from Czechoslovakia.

The Mayfair plays mostly foreign product.

W. B. to Do "Everyman"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Warners will produce "Everyman." Max Reinhardt will supervise the production which is scheduled to follow "Danton" at the same studio. Romain Rolland, the French novelist, is at work on the script.

Variety Club to Fete

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 7.—The Philadelphia Showmen's Variety Club will entertain the inter-city contestants of the showmen's Variety jubilee at a luncheon at the Hotel Madison, Wednesday.

general comment was that theatre size pictures of the same quality would make television a commercial proposition right away.

Today, also, Baird Television demonstrated its home receiver. About the size of a cabinet gramophone, this set gave, on a foot square mirror screen a picture approximating in quality to the Radiolympia results. As at Olympia, the material was transmitted from the official B.B.C. station at the Alexandra Palace. In the comment on a part of "Gaumont British News" televised and in the verbal parts of the documentary "Cover to Cover," also shown at Olympia, the sound also was found to be good.

Baird has perfected, it is announced, an apparatus which will take a news event and present the film ready for television scanning within 60 seconds.

The straight television receiver will be marketed by Baird at £80-£100, with E.M.I. expected to have sets at the same price and the "mystery" makers of Radiolympia in due course falling into line.

The B.B.C.'s first daily three hours television transmissions will now begin in October, it is stated.

Public interest in the Radiolympia display is enormous, continuous lines forming from opening time at the eight "television booths."

Air-Cooled

Bank Night has reached the point where it has affected the nervous tension of a Yonkers resident so that she has been unable to sleep since she registered at an RKO theatre in Yonkers.

In an apologetic letter to the manager, the woman asked that her name be withdrawn, explaining that "my reason for asking this favor is that I think it is beginning to affect my nerves. I have been suffering from a nervous condition, but last night I got very cold in the theatre; I shook all over and could not sleep for hours after retiring."

British Pioneer Dead

LONDON, Aug. 27.—J. Hay-Taylor died here yesterday. He was the founder of the Optical Magic Lantern Journal and recorded in the pages of that paper the first film display ever given in England—the experimental projection of Friese-Greene. The Journal later became the Kinematograph Weekly.

2 Milwaukee First Runs Hike Tariffs

it is expected that it will remain as the regular admission price.

It is the first time in more than a year that first runs here have increased admissions.

Flynn Sees Higher Scales

Definite signs of increased admissions generally in Albany, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Detroit have been noticed by Jack Flynn, M-G-M district manager for the territory, who has just completed a tour of the cities.

Flynn spent all of last week conferring with home office executives and a number of theatre men on deals for next season. He was optimistic about the trend and stated that in a number of key cities boosts have already been made.

Referring to Detroit, where he has his headquarters, Flynn said that increases in prices have been made right down the line and that the key houses are moving toward a minimum of 35 cents. With the factories booming, theatre business has come back strongly, the M-G-M sales executive asserted.

Expects No Cincinnati Boost

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—"I do not believe Cincinnati will be affected by any increase in admissions on Broadway or in any other cities," said Arthur M. Frudenfeld, division manager for RKO Midwest. "Of course, we are now paying more for pictures that we have for several years. That's because producers are putting more money into them and turning out better product, but, after all, we can get by with present prices, and there's no reason for increasing them, at least not now."

There are at present no "early bird" prices in the ace first run houses. Matinee admissions are effective from opening until 6 P.M.

"The extension of the matinee price to that hour really constituted a reduction, because last year the deadline was 5 P.M.," Frudenfeld explained.

Evening prices are 42 cents, except at the Shubert where a scale of 40 and 60 cents prevails for the current run of "The Great Ziegfeld." The regular rate for stage shows and pictures at this house is 35 and 55 cents for matinee and night, respectively.

Hiked for "Ziegfeld"

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—Loew's Midland will hike admissions from 25 and 40 cents to 35 and 55 cents for "The Great Ziegfeld." No other price increase appears on the horizon for local theatres or those in the area except on specials like "Ziegfeld."

The Tower, downtown first run operated by William Reinke and Fox Midwest, will go to 25c-35c instead of the present straight 25 cents on Sept. 18. The former is its regular admission, however, except for summer.

Seattle Prices Increased

SEATTLE, Sept. 7.—A five-cent boost in evening admissions at the Palomar was inaugurated here this week. The former scale of 20 and 30 cents is now 25 and 35 cents. Matinee prices remain unchanged at 20 cents top.

"Pastures" Is St. Paul High For 2nd Week

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—"The Green Pastures" continued to lead the first run parade for the Twin Cities by getting $8,000 in its second week at the St. Paul Riviera. This was more than 100 per cent over normal.

"The Gorgeous Hussy" was also a big draw, going to $14,000, up by $4,000, at the Minnesota, and "Secret Agent" was outstanding in its second week at the World here with a take of $8,000, over par by $3,500. "Piccadilly Jim" pulled well at the State here and at the St. Paul Orpheum, getting $6,000 at the former and the same amount at the latter.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $32,200. Average is $25,100. Total first run business in St. Paul was $22,600. Average is $14,500.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Charles V. Grimes has been named president of the local Warner Club, with John J. Payette, general zone manager, as honorary president. Other officers are: First vice-president, Harry W. Lohmeyer; second vice-president, James W. Root; third vice-president, A. Julian Brylawski; treasurer, George A. Crouch; secretary, Nat B. Browne; committee chairmen—Charles E. McGowan, contributions and loans; Lohmeyer, entertainment; Brylawski, welfare; Root, membership; McGowan, claims; Frank LaFalce, publicity; George Larkin, finance; Philip Ershler, legal aid.

Para. Holds Lew Ayres

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Paramount has signed Lew Ayres to a long term contract as an actor and director. Ayres was signed on the strength of his performance in "Lady Be Careful" and Mary Carlisle, who also appears in that film, was given a term contract too. Ayres will vacation in Europe before starting another picture, and has left Hollywood to return Nov. 1.

"Mohicans" on Dual Seattle Lead, $6,100

SEATTLE, Sept. 7.—"The Last of the Mohicans," on a dual with "Kelly, the Second," turned in top money for a mediocre week. The $6,100 gross at the Orpheum was over the line by $100. The bill was moved to the Music Box for an extended run.

"San Francisco" held up to $3,350 in its ninth week at the Blue Mouse. "The King Steps Out" held up to a par $4,000 in its third week at the Liberty.

The weather continued warm with an air show and night baseball as competition.

Total first run business was $32,000. Average is $34,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 4:

"SAN FRANCISCO" (M-G-M)
BLUE MOUSE—(950), 25c-40c-55c, 7 days, 9th week, extended run from Fifth Avenue. Gross: $3,350. (Average, $4,000)

Sign Henri Bernstein

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Henri Bernstein, famous French dramatist, is to write an original story for Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., to be made by Criterion Films at Worton Hall.

The agreement stipulates that M. Bernstein shall write a modern subject. He will probably deliver the manuscript at the end of the year.

Friedgen to Florida

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Raymond Friedgen has left for Pensacola, Fla., where he will produce "Killer of the Sea" for Grand National. The picture will feature Capt. Bob Caswell, noted as a swordfish, shark and octopus fighter. The story is an original by Frederick Wagner.

Boston Operators Sign

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Operators' Local 182 has signed two-year contracts with the major circuits, including M. & P., RKO and Loew's, and independent exhibitors. Few changes were made. The present contracts end Labor Day.

Libros in Display Corp.

Sam Libros, president of National Poster Service Ass'n., also is head of Associated Display Corp., recently formed by independent poster service companies throughout the country for the production of all types of advertising accessories.

Of Course

Hollywood, Sept. 7.—Robert Rockwell hated to wash dishes, a job every youngster gets at one time or another while a youngster. At 14, then, he had dodged the issue by having launched a children's hour on the radio. That led to a contract with Sol Lesser.

His first picture will be "Wild Brian Kent" and in it he will wash dishes.

"Hussy" a $22,000 Cincinnati Smash

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—"The Gorgeous Hussy" gave the RKO Albee one of the biggest weeks in a blue moon when it smashed through to $22,000, up practically 84 per cent on a $12,000 average. It moved to the RKO Capitol.

"The Last of the Mohicans" went into the upper brackets with $17,500 against a $10,000 average at the RKO Palace. "Piccadilly Jim" balanced the $2,750 normal figure at the RKO Grand where it played its third week downtown, two being at this house. "The China Clipper" came within shouting distance of average with a $6,200 take at Keith's, while "The Gentleman From Louisiana" and "Born to Gamble," on a dual bill, brought the independent Strand an overage of $200 on a $1,500 par figure.

Cooler weather helped business. The usual outdoor amusement competition prevailed.

Total first run business was $68,950. Average is $60,200.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 1:

"GENTLEMAN FROM LOUISIANA" (Republic)
"BORN TO GAMBLE" (Republic)
STRAND—(1,500), 15c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $1,700. (Average, $1,500)

Week Ending Sept. 3:

"THE GORGEOUS HUSSY" (M-G-M)
RKO ALBEE—(3,300), 35c-42c, 7 days. Gross: $22,000. (Average, $12,000) Moved to RKO Capitol.

"THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS" (U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Leon Shamroy has been signed by Walter Wanger as first cameraman for "You Only Live Once," formerly titled, "Three Times Loser."

"Wife" Smash In St. Louis; Gets $21,250

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—"His Brother's Wife" was the outstanding hit of a week of heavy competition, drawing $21,250 to Loew's and beating par for the house by $11,250. A mark that has not been closely approached for many weeks.

The Ambassador was 50 per cent above par with a take of $13,500, the average being $9,000. The attractions were "Girls' Dormitory" and "Postal Inspector."

"The Road to Glory" and "Hot Money" at the Fox drew $16,300, which is $2,300 above the house average. "To Mary—with Love" and "Two Fisted Gentleman" at the Orpheum did $7,700, which is $700 above par for that theatre.

The weather continued warm. The principal opposition was the Municipal Opera in Forest Park which closed its season Aug. 30. The St. Louis Cardinals and their free games for women and children drew some matinee business away from the first runs.

Total first run business was $59,000. Average is $40,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"GIRLS' DORMITORY" (20th-Fox)

Cincy Union Pact Signed

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—A new three-year contract, now in effect, with an increased weekly graduated scale, has been entered into between independent exhibitors and Operators' Local 327.

An increase of $2 per week has been granted for the first year, with one man in the booth, an additional weekly advance of $1.50 for the second year, and another $1 weekly for the third year.

The scale under the contract just expired, was $65 per week for Class A houses; $52.50 for Class B and $47.50 for Class C houses.

Spoerlein Recovering

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—Charles Spoerlein, 70, veteran theatre man, is recovering in Holmes Hospital from a series of operations which included amputation of a toe on his right foot, later the foot itself, and finally the entire leg. The amputations were necessary to stay an infection caused when a musician accidentally stepped on Spoerlein's toe during a performance of the Zoo summer opera. Spoerlein was working backstage as a property man.

O'Hara to M-G-M

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—John O'Hara, author of "Butterfield 8," is doing the script of "Shake Hands with Murder" at M-G-M.

"Rangers" and Eleanor Holm Lead Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 7. — "The Texas Rangers," with Eleanor Holm on the stage at the Michigan, took the lead for the week with a slight margin. The $27,600 take was over normal by $7,600.

"Road to Glory," with a stage show, went $6,300 over the line on a gross of $26,300 at the Fox. "Anthony Adverse" held up to $13,400 in its second week at the United Artists.

Good weather helped.

"Clipper" Big In Pittsburgh Aided by Show

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—The Stanley came out on top of all first-runs last week, showing a strong $23,000 with "China Clipper" and the "Glorified Follies of 1936" on the stage. Weak competition from the other leaders helped the gross which exceeded the average take by $6,500.

"The Last of the Mohicans" at the Penn, while given a swell sendoff by the press, proved disappointing and gathered only a fair $11,000. The Warner with "The Big Noise" and "The Case of the Velvet Claws" achieved its $4,000 average, while the Alvin with "Charlie Chan at the Race Track" and "Pepper" in six days came through with a mild $3,700. The Fulton with another double bill, "We Went to College" and "Thirty-Six Hours to Kill," slipped off to $3,300.

Total first run business was $45,000. Average is $38,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

Doubles, "To Mary" Lead Providence

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 7.—Two houses jumped into the big money here last week, the Strand and the Majestic. The former, with "Forgotten Faces" and "A Son Comes Home" gleaned a neat $8,800 which is $2,300 over average. "To Mary—with Love," caught $8,000, or $1,000 over par, at the Majestic.

"Sworn Enemy" and "Kelly, the Second," at Loew's State was down $2,000 at $10,000 and "Star for Tonight" and vaudeville, at Fay's, was under its $7,000 gross by $1,000. Weather was cool and clear, but closing attractions at the beaches cut into receipts. With all houses going to town next week, inaugurating their new seasons, grosses are expected to soar.

Total first run business was $32,800. Average is $32,500.

Estimated takings for week ending Sept. 3:

"STAR FOR TONIGHT" (20th-Fox)
FAY'S—(1.600), 15c-40c, 7 days. On stage: Five acts of vaudeville. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $7.000)

$12,500 in Denver Puts 'Adverse' 1st

DENVER, Sept. 7.—"Anthony Adverse" with a $12,500 take at the Denver, which was $5,000 ahead of average for that house, was the city's leader last week. "The Texas Rangers," which did $8,500 and so topped the norm at the Denham by $4,000, was a stiff competitor for first honors. "Adverse" is now at the Aladdin for a second week.

"Mary of Scotland" and "Kelly, the Second" gave the Orpheum $8,000 comparing with a $6,000 average there, but "China Clipper" at the Aladdin and "Pepper" at the Broadway dipped under routine business.

Principal competition was Elitch's stock, amusement parks, soft ball games, and marathon dance.

Total first run business was $38,500. Average is $28,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"CHINA CLIPPER" (F.N.)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days, following a week at the Denver. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $3,000)

RCA to Demonstrate At Allied Sessions

Daily demonstrations of RCA's high fidelity sound apparatus with the new diaphonic speaker will be given at the Allied of New Jersey annual convention in Atlantic City, Sept. 9-11. Special equipment is being installed and exhibitors will be invited to attend. Engineers will be on hand to explain details.

About 125 installations of the new apparatus already have been made, including the one set up at the New York Strand. The new Criterion will have the latest model when it is opened next week.

The four new theatres recently built by Consolidated Amusements in the Bronx have the latest RCA equipment, it was stated.

Gerwing Replaces Brown

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—George Gerwing is replacing Gilmor Brown as state director of the Federal Theatre Project. Gerwing, formerly in charge of the Los Angeles district, is succeeded by Ole Ness as local director.

Gilmor Brown at present is in Europe on a two-month leave of absence.

Radio Gets Judith Blake

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Judith Blake, stage and radio actress, has been signed to a long term contract at Radio. She will appear first in "General Delivery" with Lee Tracy.

'Adverse' Top In Milwaukee; Does $12,400

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7. — Breaking house records, "Anthony Adverse," at a 50-cent top, copped heavy money here for the week with a $12,400 gross at the Warner. This is $7,400 above par. The film will play there a second week.

Second high honors went to "Sing, Baby, Sing," and "36 Hours to Kill" at the Wisconsin with a $8,800 take, just $800 to the good. "The Texas Rangers" and "Half Angel" grossed $5,500 at the Palace.

This picture perk-up smothered an attempt to reopen the Alhambra. A double feature bill and $250,000 fur show were advertised for the house at 25, 30 and 40 cents, but the fans turned up their noses and after a one-day showing, the house is again dark.

Weather was cool and cloudy with occasional rain.

Total first run business was $33,000. Average is $24,500. Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 2:

"ANTHONY ADVERSE" (W. B.)
WARNER — (2,400), 25c-35c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $12,400. Average, $5,000)

Top Receipts, Higher Rates Seen by Sears

Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager of Warners, was back at his desk yesterday following a trip to the coast, convinced the 1936-37 season would take on definitely bullish proportions and that theatre admissions throughout the nation would be advanced generally.

His slant on product was by no means confined to his own company's activities, although Sears was not exactly retiring in singing the praises of the Warner attractions designed for release between now and the first of the year. "I predicate my opinion on every major company's output. Insofar as the outlook for the new season is concerned and aside

Big Pictures Tip Key City Grosses Early

Grosses across the country, with the exception of a few scattered cities, have felt the late summer stimulus of the release of big pictures and the general improvement of business conditions.

Whereas Labor Day usually marks the beginning of the fall pickup, this year the pre-holiday week stirred enthusiasm in a number of key spots.

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Montreal, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Cleveland and Indianapolis were decidedly on the plus side. In Washington some old films and some weak releases were still being booked, but two houses were reopened. In Houston, Omaha, San Francisco and New Haven

Circuit Heads Enthused; Give Credit to Big Current Films

Circuit business on the Labor Day weekend jumped from 20 to 50 per cent over last year's same holiday period, according to a checkup made yesterday with RKO, Loew, Warner and Paramount executives.

Broad smiles were the order of the day as reports trickled in from various key cities to headquarters. All circuit operators were highly enthused over the fine showings, none overlooking the fact that strong attractions aided considerably in boosting the figures.

With "Anthony Adverse" and "Swing Time" current in a number of its houses, the Warner circuit noted a 20 per cent increase. This is regarded as an average figure. In some spots like Philadelphia, business was reported to be in excess of 20 per cent over last year.

The RKO circuit reported a 25 per cent better gross for Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Most of the circuit's houses out of town opened for the holiday with "Swing Time." Last year, "Top Hat" was the holiday attraction. Locally, the RKO houses in Brooklyn up to Sunday night played

Secretary Hull Telegraphs Protest on Barcelona Story

An echo of the troubles rampant in Spain reached Motion Picture Herald yesterday when Secretary Hull, at the request of the American consul at Barcelona, telegraphed a protest by Armando Manez to portions of an article published by the Herald in its issue of Aug. 22.

The telegram from the State Department at Washington read:

"The following telegram has been received from our consul at Barcelona:

" 'Would appreciate message being sent to Ernest A. Rovelstad, managing editor Motion Picture Herald, Rockefeller Center, New York:

" 'Request you register fact in next edition Motion Picture Herald that correspondent in Barcelona, Mr. Plummer, admits having been deceived in reporting page 87 of Aug. 22 that Columbia accepts orders from an anarchist and that Armando Manez has passed to the Anarchist forces. All these statements are false and we appeal to sense of fairness of that publication that they correct immediately these statements in justice to undersigned Harry Chapin Plummer. Armando Manez, Barcelona, Sept. 5.'

Hull appended this:

"In forwarding this message the Dep't of State accepts no responsibility therefore and transmits it merely as a courtesy in view of the interruption of normal means of communication with Barcelona."

At the same time, Secretary Hull telegraphed Red Kann, editor of

Johnston Silent on Monogram's Revival

W. Ray Johnston, who returned yesterday from conferences with independent producers on the coast, declined to comment on the results of his trip in the face of persistent reports that Monogram Pictures would be restored to activity as a producing organization with franchised distributors. The founder and head of Monogram said, however, that he would issue a press release today for publication in tomorrow's papers.

Monogram still maintains offices in the RKO Bldg. and these were the scene of unaccustomed activity yesterday.

Zukor Confers with Paramount Officials

Adolph Zukor, who arrived from the coast over the weekend, conferred at length yesterday with department heads at Paramount at a luncheon meeting.

No official comment within the company could be obtained concerning coast reports that Zukor would confer while here with Barney Balaban, Paramount president, and members of the company's board on extensive economy measures at the studio. It was stated, however, that no meeting of the board has been called for this week. Zukor plans to return to the studio by the end of the week providing he can complete his work here in time. If not, the visit may be extended for as much as a week.

Cantor to Make Three

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Eddie Cantor was signed yesterday by Darryl Zanuck for the making of three musicals for Twentieth Century-Fox during the coming two years. The first will start in February. The comedian will continue his radio work.

Preliminary roadshow tryouts as legitimates are planned for the productions.

W. B. to Use Coast Players in England

LONDON, Sept. 8.—American featured players on the Warner list, wherever possible in view of Hollywood schedules, will be drawn upon by Irving Asher, in charge of production here, for the company's British program. Asher has been authorized to so proceed.

Planned for Warners' English schedule later are Joan Blondell, George Brent, Hugh Herbert, Glenda Farrell, Frank McHugh, Ross Alexander, June Travis, Anita Louise and Jean Muir. In the meantime, George E. Stone has been signed to appear in a film with Max Miller and Zasu Pitts in the Claude Hubert picture.

Chili Bouchier is expected to be signed by Warners for a Hollywood film. Sam E. Morris has approved her on the basis of her work in "Tzigane" in production at Teddington.

Cohan Theatre Goes Back to 10c Start

With the Broadway and 42nd St. theatres failing to drop "early bird" admissions, the Cohan eliminated the 15-cent opening price yesterday and reinstated the former dime charge.

Max Cohen, who operates the Cohan in addition to two houses on 42nd St., was the only exhibitor to boost the tariff in accordance with the agreement adopted by all major and independent circuits recently.

Theatres yesterday holding to the 10-cent price were the Central, Liberty, Times Square, Lyric, Harris, Times, Wallack and Selwyn. The Mayfair continued its 15-cent charge for mornings, while the Paramount, State, Capitol, Roxy, Globe, Palace and Rialto were scaled at 25 cents.

No Broadcasts

New Haven, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Gertrude Temple has declared that Shirley will continue to refuse radio offers, in a communication addressed to the Connecticut M. P. T. O. The organization recently wrote Mrs. Temple congratulating her on her refusal to permit the child to appear on the radio and at an exposition.

Mrs. Temple concludes: "The theatre owners of this country and all other countries as well have been very kind to us and we are endeavoring to maintain our friendly relations with all exhibitors."

British Television Halts for New Test

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The British Broadcasting Corp. has suspended television transmissions pending improvements in equipment at Alexandra Palace, its official station, but by mid-October plans to inaugurate regular programs on an experimental basis.

During the last transmission Saturday to Radiolympia where eight television companies had set up booths to publicly demonstrate how far they have advanced, the first scene to be televised outdoors was shown. It was a comedy scene enacted on the grounds of the palace. The significance, however, rests in the fact all previous scenes originated in the studio, whereas this one outdoors emphasizes a method has been devised to enable broadcasting of the coronation next spring.

St. Louis Amusement Notes Up for Action

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.—Stockholders of the St. Louis Amusement Co. will meet Nov. 5 to ratify the issuance of two groups of notes, one for $136,067.47 and $10,893.50 to Warners, as nominee for F. & M., and another issue of $75,397.98 to Nelson Cunliff, trustee for Skouras Bros. Enterprises, Inc.

The stockholders also will be asked to ratify mortgages covering the notes.

Chaplin Signs Bodley

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Charles Chaplin has signed Major R. V. C. Bodley, British author, to prepare the screen adaptation of D. L. Murray's novel, "Regency," which will be Paulette Goddard's second starring vehicle. It will follow Production No. 6 which Chaplin is now preparing.

HOW LOUD CAN YOUR AUDIENCE SCREAM!

It is our belief (check us up if we're wrong) that the Capitol Theatre, N.Y., set a new high in screaming laughter this week when M-G-M's timely "OUR GANG" COMEDY, "BORED OF EDUCATION" was on the program.

Give your patrons a timely treat as the new school season opens. HAL ROACH's clever kids (including Spanky MacFarland, Alfalfa, and all the rest) present belly laughs for all sizes. Run—don't walk—to your M-G-M Branch Office and arrange for this program highlight right now!

GANGWAY FOR 1936-37: Here's something important to notice. "Our Gang" Comedies are in one reel now. Packed with gags and hilarious situations they move twice as fast as in their former 2-reel length. "Bored of Education" is the first of '36-'37 and you'll see the difference!

Court Gets Contempt Action in Fox Case

Atlantic City, Sept. 8.—A recommendation that Mrs. Eva Fox, wife of William Fox, be adjudged in contempt of court was forwarded today by Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle, who is conducting the bankruptcy hearings here, to U. S. District Judge John Boyd Avis in Camden. Steedle also sent along a detailed report reciting the events of the past few weeks and declaring Mrs. Fox refused to appear for questioning, despite his repeated orders and report from his own physician that she was physically able to testify.

Judge Avis now is to study the report and decide. If he finds Mrs. Fox to be in contempt, he is expected then to summon her before him for sentence. The penalty in such cases is left to the discretion of the court.

The situation results from creditors' futile attempts to question Mrs. Fox in the $9,500,000 bankruptcy of her husband. She is president of All-Continent Corp., the chief bone of contention in the case. Fox assertedly gave the corporation outright as a trust for his wife and daughters, while the creditors' lawyers charge this transfer was a sham and that All-Continent really is a William Fox asset. Its value is estimated at up to $8,000,000.

More Research Seen Colorgravure Need

London, Aug. 31.—Further research is necessary to place Colorgravure on a commercial basis, it is implied in the annual report of Gerrard Industries, Ltd., which control this color process.

The parent company made a small profit during the last year, the annual report discloses, but after allowances for depreciation and losses in subsidiaries there is a small debit balance.

The company's profitable trading was mainly in the department concerned with the production of box-making materials.

Disclosed in the report is that Gerrard Industries partly financed itself in the past year by a loan secured on its holdings in Technicolor.

Seek Agreement on Cleveland Increase

Cleveland, Sept. 8—It was agreed by the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n, at its last meeting that nothing could be done relative to raising admission prices by the higher bracket houses until those charging 10 and 15 cents had agreed to the plan in order to permit uniform action. Another meeting is scheduled shortly to discuss possible increase in admission prices.

The organization unanimously agreed to increase dues for all houses over 800 seats. The increase is $3 per month for houses seating between 800 and 1,200, and $6 per month for those seating more than 1,200.

Film Traps First Man

The first result of the experimental criminal sound films used by the New Jersey State Police was seen at Freehold, N. J., when John A. Byers was picked up and identified by motion pictures of himself taken last May under direction of Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Bulldog Edition"

(Republic)

Hollywood, Sept. 8.—Melodrama, romance, comedy, gangsterism and thrill action are included in this different type of newspaper story that has a circulation war for its premise. Supplementing the dominating melodrama is a freshly contrived vein of romantic conflict that establishes the film as acceptable, mature audience entertainment.

Tabloid News, presided over by Ray Walker, Regis Toomey, Evalyn Knapp, gains great circulation through colorful reports written by Miss Knapp of Gangster Cy Kendall's doings. The latter allies himself with Ivan Miller, manager of the rival Post, for personal revenge and a circulation war is precipitated. Marked by beatings, arsons, wreckings and all the depredations common to such affairs, the action is exciting.

As the conflict between Toomey and Walker for the hand of Miss Knapp continues simultaneously with a grand jury investigation of a racketeering war, a murder is committed. The crime sickens the rival editors of warfare and, with Miss Knapp's life at stake, both combine to save her and round up Kendall and a dishonest judge to make for a peaceful and happy ending.

The calibre of the acting by Walker, Miss Knapp, Toomey and Kendall is better than the material. Their work gives the film an appeal that should satisfy average audiences. Similarly intelligent handling of production detail helps noticeably.

Charles Lamont directed from an original by Richard English. The latter collaborated with Karen De Wolf in the script.

Running time, approximately 65 minutes. "A."

"The Beloved Vagabond"

(Toeplitz-Columbia)

London, Aug. 31.—A rather new Maurice Chevalier in a version of the previously filmed novel by W. J. Locke, an English best-seller in its day and still a steady reader-getter.

The story of a French artist who goes vagabond, after breaking his engagement to an English girl in order to save her father from prison, is an attractive one with fine pictorial and musical opportunities when the artist, with his landlady's small son and an unattached French girl accordion player, roams the countryside gypsy fashion.

Good stuff also when, the girl's husband dead, the artist is invited back to London and respectability and breaks from the stifling atmosphere when his young charges, coming with wedding congratulations, are consigned to the kitchen.

Chevalier, moustached, has lost some of his old fire and there is only one moment in his several songs when the old vibrant irresistible quality gets over.

The Victorian atmosphere has its appeal and there is an amusing episode with a primitive auto. There is fair supporting acting from Margaret Lockwood and young Desmond Tester as the other members of the wandering trio, and good character work from Austin Trevor and Peter Haddon.

It's a picture to be sold on its book and star value.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Many at Denver Outing

Denver, Sept. 8.—More than 250 attended the annual outing of exchanges and theatres, held this year at the Cherry Hills Country Club.

Festivities started with a golf tournament, in which Gus Ibold was low with 80 and Chuck Flowers was second with an 83. Walter Ibold and William Ahren were tied for third with 88's.

The distributors beat the exhibitors in a ball game, 17 to 16. E. C. Dettman won the horseshoe tournament.

Mrs. E. F. Roberts won the auction bridge tournament, and Florence Chamberlain won the auction bridge section.

British Labor Union For Increased Quot

London, Aug. 31.—The detail recommendations from the Natior Ass'n of Theatrical Employes to t Moyne Committee on the Films A now published, support the foreca that this labor union would be fou in general agreement with the Fi Group of the Federation of Briti Industries.

The main point of the N. A. T. case is that the distributors' quo should be 30 or 35 per cent of the tot footage handled.

The exhibitors' quota, it is su gested, should be "no less than 75 p cent of distributors' quota." The E. A. asks a 2/1 quota ratio in fav of exhibitors.

Supporting also the F. B. I pri ciple of a minimum cost clause, t N.A.T.E. suggests the figure £15,000 for features.

Importance attaches to the N. A. E. statement as one representative the view of studio employes and b cause it is based on the belief th "the British production industry cou not have reached its present substa tial position had there not been t Cinematograph Films Act."

Jury to Get Tampa Bank Night Actior

Tampa, Sept. 8.—The two su filed sometime ago against the Tam for refusing to pay-off Bank Nig prizes, will probably be brought trial shortly before a jury. Circ Judge Sandler has ruled that the was a legal contract between the th atre and the public on the Bank Nig drawings.

When the suits were filed, attorne for the theatre filed a demurrer, which they claimed that the Ba Night prizes were simply a gift fro the theatre; that there was no co sideration asked by the theatre, a that where there was no considerati there was no contract, and so the wi ners could not enforce their claims court. This was the question t Judge ruled upon.

Warners Drop Shows At Philadelphia Fox

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—With the expiration of the musicians' agreement with the Fox this week Warners are discontinuing their stage shows beginning Friday. It is believed that a straight picture policy will be maintained at least until an agreement is reached. Rumor has it that the stage policy may be dropped altogether. The Earle will be the only first run house using vaudeville.

The circuit feels that by the general use of all companies' product rather than by the exclusive showing of Twentieth Century - Fox as was the former policy of the Fox the house can keep a strong lineup of films, maintaining prestige without the necessity of stage presentations.

The Earle agreement has until Oct. 1 to run and no decision is expected before that time.

MEN WHO BUY OR WRIT TELL YOU HOW GREAT "CRAIG

Do you know GELETT BURGESS, one of America's favorite novelists? He writes an incredible number of best sellers. He comments:

"A swell histrionic tour de force by Rosalind Russell in the most difficult role any actress ever played. The picture had terrific suspense, and the uncompromising finale was courageously honest!"

This is HOMER CROY, one of the nation's finest authors. His successes include "West of the Water Tower." Remembering with admiration the stage production of George Kelly's Pulitzer Prize winning play, he writes:

"The motion picture is even more effective than the play!"

Introducing DANIEL HENDERSON. He's editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine. His unerring judgment in the selection of fiction has made Cosmopolitan a marvel of consistent circulation. He says:

"Every husband rebuked for cigarette ashes . . . every young wife called upon to choose between pride of house and love of husband . . . should see "Craig's Wife"—a portrait of a warped woman as fascinating as it is relentless!"

This is BENJAMIN DE CASSERES, one of America's most discerning men as a biographer, philosopher and columnist. He writes:

"A perfect picture! One of the finest I have ever seen!"

Meet ELLERY QUEEN. He's written a dozen best sellers. His books are tremendously popular with both men and women. He enthuses:

"A delicate and intelligent production, with Rosalind Russell superb in the name part. Her selection for the role was an inspiration. Dorothy Arzner's direction is flawless."

"Mary of Scotland" and according to theatre officials, the picture could have been held seven days instead of four, if not for the fact a new show had been dated to start Monday. "Road to Glory" played the Manhattan and Bronx theatres and on Monday was switched to the Brooklyn group. "China Clipper" replaced "Road to Glory" at the Manhattan.

Speaking for Loew's, Joseph R. Vogel stated that "The Gorgeous Hussy" opened five per cent better in 45 spots than "San Francisco." This is for the first four days of the current week. Compared to last year, Vogel estimated that Labor Day weekend takes were approximately double last year's holiday grosses. He also stated that "The Gorgeous Hussy" is to be held a second week and possibly a third in all 45 situations.

While he could not give any estimates offhand, A. H. Blank of Tri-States, a Paramount affiliate, yesterday telephoned his offices at Des Moines and Omaha and reports were that business was "excellent."

O'Connor Elated

The RKO houses in Greater New York did "tremendous," John J. O'Connor explained yesterday. At Proctor's, Newark, N. J., "Girls' Dormitory" garnered $5,000 over the weekend for a new record.

Independent houses in Greater New York felt the effects of the fine weather which sent scores to the beaches. Grosses were off Friday, Saturday, Sunday and part of Monday, picking up Monday night. In contrast to this, the unaffiliated houses on 42nd St. flourished from Saturday to Monday night with a dime admission from 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. and 20 cents from 6 P. M. to closing.

The Reade and Isle circuits, located at shore resorts, swelled the box-office receipts as in pre-depression days. Both circuits are playing pictures day-and-date with Broadway, and in some instances ahead of Broadway.

Broadway Nights Heavy

All theatre managers along Broadway were excited Saturday, Sunday and Monday, particularly Monday night when the returning weekenders and out-of-town visitors flocked en masse to the various film attractions. According to some of the operators, the crowds were like a New Year's Eve. celebration.

Because Arthur Mayer was away on a vacation, it was impossible to check the Rialto. However, the theatre was being torn down this time last year and on Friday a new picture, "A Son Comes Home," started an indefinite run. The business for the first four days was said to be far above average with the possibility the week will end with more than $10,000.

Approximately 136,000 persons attended the Paramount to see "The General Died at Dawn" in the first seven days. With 70,000 recorded on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the theatre broke a six-year record, according to Bob Weitman, manager. The total admission figure tops by 11,000 the number which saw "Klondike Annie" last year. The picture wound up its first week last night with $62,000 and indications are it will stay for another fortnight.

Over at the Music Hall, the cashiers counted $98,000 for the first five days of the second week of "Swing Time." More than 90,000 saw Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers go through their new dance paces in that time. The anticipated second week's take is $125,000, which will top the second week of "Top Hat" by about $20,000.

The Roxy ran a close attendance race with the Music Hall, getting about 90,000 people to see "Girls' Dormitory" in the four days of the second stanza. The take for these four days was $36,400, which was $1,500 better than the first week at the same time. Last Friday, 13,700 paid to see the picture; on Saturday, 23,500; Sunday, 25,800; Monday, 27,000. Irving Lesser predicted $52,000 for the second week, which would amount to $3,000 less than the first seven-day tally.

Business at the Strand for the second stanza of "Anthony Adverse" will come pretty close to the first week's gross of $53,000, according to Byron Moore, managing director. From 40,000 to 45,000 passed the ticket taker in the three-day weekend, giving the house $24,000. On Sunday alone, the intake was $8,100. "It's the biggest Labor Day weekend we've had in the last 10 years," Moore said yesterday.

"The Last of the Mohicans" ended its first week at the Rivoli with about $35,000. For the Labor Day weekend John Wright estimated the gross at $19,000, which he regarded as "very good."

The Capitol, with "The Gorgeous Hussy," was one-third better Saturday, Sunday and Monday than any other Labor Day weekend, according to an official of the theatre. There were 38,600 who saw the show the first four days, it was said. It is expected that the week will end with $49,000. Last Labor Day weekend, the Capitol played "Anna Karenina," with the weather and admission prices the same.

"Romeo and Juliet" at the Astor on a two-a-day policy, reached a new high when $21,413 was taken in during the third week. This did not include Labor Day, which is the first day of the current and fourth week ending next Sunday night.

Girl Manager

Avon Park, Fla., Sept. 8.—This state has its first girl theatre manager, Virginia Gough, just graduated from high school. She has been put in charge of the Park, a Mulco house.

4,550,000 Admissions

SPOKANE, Sept. 8.—Two days before the Fox Theatre celebrated its fifth birthday, customer No. 4,550,000 bought a ticket, and was given another by Manager Al Baker. Coffee and cakes, the western premiere of "The General Died at Dawn," and the Fox Theatre handicap, sixth race of the opening day at Playfair, marked the birthday week celebration.

Farnum on London Stage

LONDON, Sept. 8.—William Farnum will appear in the stage cast of "The Night of January 16" which opens at the Phoenix the end of the month

Secretary Hull Telegraphs Protest on Barcelona Story

MOTION PICTURE DAILY, this communication:

"The following telegram has been received from our counsul at Barcelona:

"'Maurice Kann
"'Quigley Publications
"'New York

"'Carefully refrain publication any material not included in my personally signed articles concerning Barcelona and especially information conveyed communications on my notehead.

"'PLUMMER.'"

Acting on behalf of both publications, Martin Quigley telegraphed Secretary Hull as follows:

"Motion Picture Herald and MOTION PICTURE DAILY acknowledge and express appreciation for courtesy your telegram conveying message from United States consul at Barcelona. Motion Picture Herald and MOTION PICTURE DAILY regret exceedingly the inclusion in published article signed by Harry C. Plummer, Barcelona correspondent, of false and misleading information and will be pleased to disavow and retract the misleading statements in the next issue of each publication and to state that Mr. Plummer admits having been deceived in reporting 'that Columbia accepts orders from an anarchist and that Armado Manez has passed to the anarchist forces.' We would greatly appreciate if the Dep't of State would convey this information to our consul at Barcelona."

Harry Chapin Plummer is an American newspaper man, resident in Spain, and the accredited correspondent for Motion Picture Herald and MOTION PICTURE DAILY in that country. He has been making his headquarters in Barcelona and has been reporting, chiefly by cable and without protest from any source until now, developments in the trade there.

from generally improved conditions, the tremendous business rolled up over Labor Day was a factor influencing my forecast that the year will be a tremendous one. Today there was completed for us a national survey on Labor Day grosses. Whereas in other years Labor Day business often has been spotty, dependent upon areas, this year grosses were uniformly big all over the land.

"Exhibitors are advancing prices for runs of 'Anthony Adverse.' That you know. However, it is interesting to point out that not a solitary squawk has been registered on the part of the public.

Extended Playing Time Seen

Sears also reported a tendency on the part of showmen to increase runs. "Important product generally is longer in footage now. This is one factor inducing exhibitors to extend playing time in order to get the most out of their runs.

Warners, he said, were pinning their bets on eight pictures for release between now and the end of the year, aside from "Adverse." They are "Cain and Mabel," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Three Men on a Horse," "Gold Diggers of 1937," "Give Me Your Heart," "Stage Struck," "Green Light" and "God's Country and the Woman," the latter in Technicolor.

Crescent Buys Houses

NASHVILLE, Sept. 8.—The Crescent Amusement Co., Nashville, has purchased the Princess and Palace at Greeneville and the Park at Maryville, Tenn., according to Earle Hendren of the Parrott-Hendren Corp.

"This sale, however, will in no way affect the other theaters belonging to the corporation," Hendren stated, "we are making plans to enlarge and expand holdings elsewhere."

Double Wedding Bill

SPOKANE, Sept. 8.—Cupid scored twice at the State Theatre this week. Vera McInnis, switchboard operator, became the wife of Boots Brindel, musician. Cashier Norma Cran was married to Jimmy Gulvitch and moved to Tacoma. Ruth Rogers was promoted.

Orlando Lease Delayed

ORLANDO, Fla., Sept. 8.—The lease agreement sought here by the Beacham Theatre Corp. to have the right to bar all pictures and road shows not sponsored by that company from using the municipal auditorium was laid aside by the city council at its last meeting.

Brooklyn Pool Signed

Papers were signed yesterday for the pooling of the Fox, Paramount and Strand in Brooklyn on a one-year deal under the supervision of Si Fabian. It is retroactive to Sept. 1.

Big Pictures Tip Key City Grosses Early

grosses were about normal for the season.

Portland opened September with the first week of Greater Movie Season and all the six first runs were well in the profit division as a result. A dual, "Texas Rangers" and "Second Wife," went $4,000 over normal on a take of $9,000. "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" continued on its record-breaking run at the Blue Mouse by grossing $2,000 in its 18th week and "San Francisco" was still strong with a take of $4,000 in its 11th week at the Mayfair. "The Great Ziegfeld" was $1,000 above par on a take of $6,000 at the United Artists.

New Haven Just Normal

New Haven failed to feel much stimulus at the box-office for the week before Labor Day. Only one of the first runs, the Paramount, with "Texas Rangers" and "I'd Give My Life," was outstanding. This combination reached $6,500, up by $1,700.

With state fair competition Omaha failed to get started toward marked fall prosperity, but another house downtown, the Kiva, was opened, so that nine houses are in lights for the first time in a long time. "Devil Doll" and "Satan Met a Lady" made the best individual showings at the Lincoln with $2,700. Total first run business of $9,700 was $1,050 over normal.

Philadelphia felt the impact of big releases for the week preceding Labor Day and also before that. "Anthony Adverse" was outstanding in its first two weeks at the Boyd and took $24,000 in the second. "Romeo and Juliet," opening on a roadshow basis, went to $17,000 at the Chestnut, thereby helping get the fall season off to a big start. In the face of this competition "Girls' Dormitory" was a $17,000 hit at the Stanley and "The Last of the Mohicans" got off to a fast start at the Aldine on Wednesday.

"Hussy" Scores in Washington

Two houses reopened in Washington, the Belasco and the Gayety, the latter a burlesque spot, but second runs and revivals were still on in some spots. "The Gorgeous Hussy" went to near-record heights, $28,000, at Loew's Palace, but elsewhere business was in a bad way.

Houston first runs finished August and opened September with only two attractions outstanding—"Anthony Adverse" and "The Texas Rangers." "Adverse" took $9,335 at the Metropolitan and "Rangers" was good for $7,700 at the Majestic.

Montreal wound up the vacation season with strong pictures and good grosses. "To Mary—With Love" hit $11,500 at the Capitol, and "San Francisco," in its seventh week at the Palace, held to $6,500. "China Clipper," on a dual with "Satan Met a Lady," was $1,500 to the good at $8,500.

With five strong pictures in the first runs at St. Louis, business was good, "The Last of the Mohicans" leading the list with a gross of $15,250 at Loew's. "Sing, Baby, Sing," "The Road to Glory" and "Women Are Trouble" also pulled well.

Cooler weather and rains have helped Louisville box-offices, but last week "Road to Glory" was the only one of the new fall releases to get into the big money. It took $6,200 at the Strand. "Texas Rangers," on a dual, also did well at $7,000, but "The Last of the Mohicans" failed to get started at Loew's State. "China Clipper" also was weak at $3,600 in the Mary Anderson.

Bigger attractions have stimulated business in Oklahoma City. "Anthony Adverse" was outstanding for the first week of the month at $8,000 in the Criterion, and three other pictures, 'Sing, Baby, Sing," "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack" and 'The Big House," turned in excellent grosses.

Cleveland Takes Up 40%

Grosses in Cleveland have been running well for seven consecutive weeks. Last week they were 40 per cent over average. During the seven weeks nine pictures have been held for two or more weeks. The holdovers have been "Poor Little Rich Girl," two weeks; "San Francisco," four weeks; "The Green Pastures," two weeks; "Suzy," two weeks; "To Mary — with Love," two weeks; "Rhythm on the Range," two weeks; "Mary of Scotland," two weeks; "His Brother's Wife," two weeks, and "Piccadilly Jim," two weeks

Business has been generally better in Indianapolis for several weeks. All first runs were in the profit column last week, with "Star for a Night" and a stage show leading the procession at $9,500. "Sing, Baby, Sing," at the Apollo, "Texas Rangers" and "Grand Jury" at the Circle and "Last of the Mohicans" and "Final Hour" at Loew's made up the rest of the downtown fare.

"Glory" to Frisco Fox

San Francisco has failed to feel the general pickup in grosses thus far, but F.W.C. is starting a heavy advertising campaign on the reacquisition of the Fox, and will open Friday with "The Road to Glory.' Herman Kersken, now manager of the Warfield, who was the first F.W.C. manager of the Fox when it opened in 1929, is to manage the house again. The Warfield is to be remodeled and refurnished immediately at a cost of $30,000 in anticipation of improved fall and winter business.

Boston grosses showed strength in the pre-Labor Day week with "Road to Glory" standing out at the Metropolitan on a gross of $35,000, which was $13,000 over normal. "Piccadilly Jim" and "Trapped by Television," dualled at Loew's Orpheum and Loew's State, also pulled strongly.

Kansas City has been doing well for some time, and with "Anthony Adverse" leading the first run parade on a tally of $13,900 at the Mainstreet optimism continued to rise for September's opening.

At Vitaphone Stage Debut

Warners, with fitting ceremony, which included a christening in champagne via Jeanne Madden, yesterday launched a new stage at its Vitaphone studio in Brooklyn. The ceremony was attended by newspaper reporters who were served lunch and drinks, but not the champagne reportedly used for the dedication.

The new building, covering 26,000 square feet, is fireproof throughout, the interior walls and ceiling requiring 40 tons of rock wool material. The stage portion occupies 16,000 feet, the height from stage floor to ceiling being 50 feet. There are three tiers of dressing rooms at one end of the building, in addition to preview rooms, lamp and storage space, etc.

Catwalks stretch over the floor for overhead camera shots, and a large pool of reinforced concrete, with a capacity of 100,000 gallons, has been built under the stage floor, including traps, lifts and other equipment. Air conditioning also has been installed.

Three separate services are supplied by the Brooklyn Edison Co., each service capable of delivering 2,000 amperes to the studio. More than 100,000 feet of copper conductors were used, with 48 200-ampere A.C. studio pockets, each operated by remote control.

Microphones, cameras and motors are interconnected by a wiring system with the monitor room, and from there with the recording building at the plant.

New Moves in Sight to Get 10-point Plan that no such action will be taken in advance of Kuykendall's arrival in New York.

All of the large distribution companies were understood to have expressed their informal approval of unqualified cancellation and the possibility of an increase in the cancellation privilege. A more liberal policy in connection with the score charge was also reported to have been indicated by most companies. Most of the remaining trade practice reforms were believed possible of accomplishment through the setting up of a national system of conciliation boards, for which distributors also indicated their approval during the initial conferences with the exhibitor committee.

Whether or not distributor attitudes have altered on the trade practice program since could not be learned. Most companies state frankly that no formal consideration has been given the program since and that no arrangements have been made yet for doing so.

Agreement Near on Ascap Stipulations

Sufficient agreement on stipulations of fact in connection with the Government's monopoly suit against Ascap is indicated in the discussion under way between attorneys for the two to make it unnecessary to resume trial of the action in Federal court here, it was stated officially yesterday.

The discussions between representatives of the Attorney General's office and Arthur Schwartz, of counsel for Ascap, will probably be concluded tomorrow despite the fact that no work on the stipulations was done yesterday or over the weekend. The discussions will be resumed today.

When Schwartz and the Government attorneys complete their work it will have to be rechecked by the Attorney General's office, Ascap, the Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n and various attorneys for other individual defendants involved in the suit. This work is expected to consume a minimum of three months and, in consequence, the evidence involved is not expected to be in readiness for presentation to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard until the end of the year. Because of the great amount of evidence involved which the court will have to study, a decision is not expected for several months thereafter.

"Ramona" Sets Record

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8.—"Ramona," which opened yesterday at the Alvin here, established a new house record with a gross of $3,619, despite strong opposition. Exploitation included airplane banners and a radio broadcast.

Klein Brings First Capitol Films Here

London, Sept. 1.—Edward L. Klein, who is aboard the Britannic bound for New York, has with him the first output of Capitol Prod., one of Max Shach's companies, which he will seek to place in America.

Included are: "When Knights Were Bold," featuring Fay Wray and Jack Buchanan: "Southern Roses," with Neil Hamilton and Gina Malo and music by Johann Strauss; "Public Nuisance No. 1," with Francis Day and "The Marriage of Corbal," with Nils Asther, Hazel Terry and Noah Beery.

Klein also has with him "Royal Eagle," produced by Quality Films and featuring John Garrick and Nancy Burne, as well as other British independent product. He expects to remain in New York for a couple of months and while there will look over the market with a view to acquiring American films for distribution here.

Reopening in Rochester

RKO, Paramount and M. E. Comerford will reopen the Capitol, Rochester, tomorrow with M. Cobb, assistant manager at the Century, in the same city, in charge.

The new policy will be double features on full week stands. A complete renovation has been made while the theatre was closed all summer. On Aug. 28, the same interests reopened the Eckel, Syracuse, after the house had been darkened for the hot months.

Named to G. N. Staff

Cincinnati, Sept. 8.—Ralph Kinsler, recently appointed manager of the new Grand National branch, has named William Burns as booker. Burns formerly was booker for First Division, but more recently connected with local suburban houses. Ross Willams, salesman for Paramount, and Pete Neiland, M-G-M salesman for many years, have joined the Grand National sales staff.

Men's Style Short Set

March of Fashion, Inc., will hold a cocktail party and preview at the Waldorf this afternoon for its first short, using men's fashions as a subject. The masculine styles have been selected from some of the city's leading stores and have been passed upon by a jury which includes James Montgomery Flagg, David Smart and Bill Tilden.

Show Frisco Fire Film

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—The only print in existence showing real contemporary news shots of San Francisco before and immediately after the 1906 fire is currently being shown by the PWA theatre project in its 12-act vaudeville show at the Columbia.

The rare film is the property of Herman Lubkin of San Francisco. Bill Jones, Federal theatre publicity chief, was instrumental in locating it and promoting its loan.

Radio Signs Two Writers

Hollywood, Sept. 8.—Sam Briskin has signed Edmund Hartman and Robert J. Bren, writers, to new term contracts at Radio. They will collaborate on the screen play of "Miss Custom Agent" as their first assignment.

Hatch Gets Heavy Vote

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—Alvin S. Hatch, owner of the Half Moon Bay Theatre, in the nearby peninsular community of that name, rolled up 11,938 votes in his candidacy for nomination as San Mateo County supervisor in the elections held last week. He will run off with the incumbent at the November elections, and is conceded an excellent chance to win.

Team Alexander-Keeler

Hollywood, Sept. 8.—Warners will team Ross Alexander with Ruby Keeler in the leads of "Ready, Willing and Able." The picture will be made from the magazine story by Richard Macauley. Warren Duff is now writing the screen play.

Heads Conn. Operators

New Haven, Sept. 8.—William P. Barry of New Haven has been elected president of the executive council of the Connecticut T.S.E., replacing Thomas J. Shea of Middletown, Connecticut Federation of Labor president, who has held the position since the inception of the council four years ago. Charles Morse, business agent of the M. P. Operators' Union in Hartford, is executive council vice-president and John O'Connell of New Haven, secretary-treasurer.

Falmouth House Burned

Falmouth, Mass., Sept. 8.—Fire has destroyed the Old Silver Beach Theatre at an estimated loss of $25,000.

Variety Club

Detroit

Detroit, Sept. 8.—More than 20 film men and their friends turned out for the Variety Club's tournament at Franklin Hills. Mannie Gottlieb, Universal branch manager, was chairman of the committee in charge, which included Ray E. Moon of Co-Operative Theatres, Max Smitt of the Metropolitan M. P. Co., Charles Perry manager of the Adams, and Irving and Adolph Goldberg of the Komer circuit.

Johnny Howard, who recently came here from Indianapolis to succeed Otto Bolle as Paramount branch manager and who is the organization's newest member, captured the club championship and the Sallan-Variety cup emblematic thereof by shooting the 18 holes in 86.

More than 50 golf and door prizes were distributed among the members and their guests. H. M. Richey was toastmaster at the dinner.

Washington

Washington, Sept. 8.—Fall activities of Tent No. 11 will get under way Sept. 21, when Carter T. Barron, assisted by the personnel of Loew's, Inc., will have charge of a luncheon. King-to-be Barron lost out through postponements last spring, so lead-off honors were given him.

The following Monday night, Sept. 28, A. Julian Brylawski and his Committee of Sixteen will toss the first stag smoker of the season.

The third annual dinner and dance will be held sometime the week before Thanksgiving, according to a recent decision of the Board of Governors. Chief Barker J. Louis Rome will announce the committees in the near future.

Postponed from last summer to this fall, the annual golf tournament now is dated for spring, 1937.

Product Deal Signed By FWC and U. A.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—The Fox West Coast product deal with United Artists was completed here today and papers in the agreement signed. The contract, it is believed, does not include first runs because of the circuit's eavy schedule of major product. It was learned that United Artists is negotiating for first run bookings on a icture-to-picture basis.

"The Last of the Mohicans" is definitely booked first run while "Dodsworth" will be previewed Tuesday at he Hollywood, bearing out the truth of first run booking predictions.

New Preview Machine Ends Audience Reaction Guesses

By J. M. JERAULD

It hasn't any name yet. It may be called a guess-remover, or a laugh-timer, perhaps. Some technician with a serious turn of mind may even describe it as a preview-meter.

But whatever they term it, it will be the thing that will stop arguments as to what happened at previews and it may improve pictures generally.

Some director or gag man may think he has the funniest comedy ever produced and he may come back and tell his associate producer that he's right after a preview, but the laugh-timer will prove him right or wrong.

Charles E. Ford, editor of Universal Newsreel, invented it. Some weeks ago he went to a coast preview and sat in on a conference at the studio later to discuss what was wrong or right with the picture. Nobody agreed on what had happened in the audience.

Ford has been handling negative on newsreels so long that he can remember the stunts used two or three years back. Remembering what happened is his business, so he was disturbed when a half-dozen men told him he was wrong. He built himself a machine.

It has two turntables with wax

Famous to Be Merged With Parent Firm

Famous Theatres Corp., holding company for Paramount's theatre interests, will be merged with Paramount Pictures, Inc., the parent company, in a process of simplifying both the corporate structure of Paramount and of the company's wholly-owned theatre units, it was learned yesterday.

Papers reporting the proposed merger were filed at Albany with the corporate bureau of the department of state by Paramount yesterday. With the transfer of Famous Theatres' assets to the parent company under the merger, Famous will be dissolved. Y. Frank Freeman, head of the Paramount subsidiary, is also a vice-president of the parent company and continues in charge of the theatre depart-

N. J. Allied Plans Legislative Fight

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 9.—Plans for participation in a "war chest" to defray the cost of pushing legislation in every state for the abolition of producer control of theatres were formulated here today by directors of the Allied Theatre Owners of New Jersey.

Opening of the 17th annual state convention at the Traymore, the directors declared that such separation of manufacturer from retailer has been

British Film Plans Backed By Exhibitors

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 9.—More than 150 men attended the meeting called by Capt. A. F. Dixey for discussion of the new Independent Exhibitors Dist. Corp. cooperative producing project. The gathering was representative, with many members of the C.E.A. council present. A resolution was adopted approving the principle of the plan and authorizing the drafting of a prospectus.

Captain Dixey said rentals would be lower than 30 per cent. The plan is to start with 300 good theatres, Dixey said.

C. Austin Potter, director of London and Western Counties Trust, said the financing would be easy if exhibitor support is assured. The plan is

Music Firms Adopt Code of Practices

The Music Publishers Protective Ass'n has drawn up a code of trade practices which is designed to eliminate exploitation gratuities and all free special arrangements, according to Motion Picture Herald. The code has been approved by a majority of the publishers of popular music, including those controlled by film companies, and it is now effective.

It is called the "anti-bribery" code, and is generally regarded as a move

See Collapse Of Drive On "Early Birds"

New Meeting Set Today To Renew Effort

Collapse of the metropolitan New York plan to discard "early bird" admissions and institute a 5 P. M. evening scale appears imminent with another meeting of the major and independent circuit heads called for today at C. C. Moskowitz's office in an effort to clear the weak spots.

Broadway theatres, particularly the Roxy, yesterday were blamed for delaying the completion of the plan agreed upon by independent exhibitors. Less than 50 theatres in the area have adopted the plan, according to a checkup made by managers and supervisors of both affiliated and non-affiliated houses.

Pointing to the Roxy as the chief target of their complaint, the theatre men around Times Square declare it is impossible to compete with the theatre which continues to charge 25 cents up to 1 P. M. for a combination picture and stage show. Owners of the houses on 42nd St. and Broadway charging 10 cents complain that for them to increase the price to 15 cents and the Roxy to remain at 25 cents is unfair. The Mayfair with two second run features at 15 cents also is regarded as

By RED KANN

Prowlings, early and late, around Times Square, checking into and reflecting upon new product:

THEY concocted a roaring lurid melodrama when they put together "The General Died at Dawn," gave it an application of very expert production values, a good cast, easy flowing dialogue, well-knit production and the results, or most of them, are all piled up on the right side of the ledger. Stalwart hero Gary Cooper, beautiful heroine Madeleine Carroll whose looks run away from her acting, war lord Akim Tamiroff, weak-kneed Porter Hall, conniving secondary menace J. M. Kerrigan, gun-running, conflict, gold notes, war-scarred China, mysterious and intriguing even in peacetimes. There it is in a capsule and a well-conceived one for adroit entertainment in the popular prescription form. . . .

Woven in by Lewis Milestone's direction are a tenseness and a suspense which serve the whole admirably. Tamiroff's performance as the military overlord tops the performances, overlooking his slightly Russian Chinese accent and Hall, as his sniveling, courageless agent, is not far behind although the film and his life part company early. The dialogue is from the Left Wing typewriter of Clifford Odets who was not remiss about accepting beaucoup Hollywood money to turn out the job. He did it craftsman-like, but how much of what he wrote originally remains is something with which we are not familiar. One concession, at least, to the proletariat is included and it is not a tremulous, ephemeral wish confined to the Left by any manner of means. This is Cooper's speech in which he voices the hope that one day man will stride the earth freed of oppression. Well, who doesn't? Then you pick up your morning paper and read columns of defeatist cables about the powder keg geographically known as Europe. But "The General Died at Dawn" packs a wallop, mostly theatrical but undeniably effective down the line to the mass self-execution of Tamiroff's officers, thereby reminding of a recent news dispatch which reported a like incident. Reactions over the Rhine, if anyone cares, will be interesting to observe what with the inclusion of a German officer who trains the war tyrant's hordes. However, it's only the Chinese who face the spouting ends of the guns and that should be no worry for Aryans. . . .

Over at Paramount, there is another picture which is playing around the country but not yet on Broadway. "The Texas Rangers" ought to be hot stuff because it features Fred MacMurray, the feminine pulse devastater, as a bandit touched by the manly pursuits of the Rangers along the Rio Grande for an ultimate regeneration and a fadeout with Jean Parker. His running mate is Jack Oakie, almost blown out of bounds by excessive avoirdupois, but together the two boys pass through stirring adventures punctuated by hard riding, snorting six-shooters, obstinate Indians who won't stay on the reservation and Lloyd Nolan who won't get out of MacMurray's way and range. Nolan's bad man characterization is a splendid piece of work until his last fight with Fred. Then the scenario writer, or maybe the director or both, had him crumble like wallpaper without a friendly wall and showed him up with a wide streak of yellow which the front part of the picture insisted he hadn't had at all. A glorified rendition of a formula yarn and the MacMurray hero worshippers ought to be enough to induce "The Texas Rangers" into a handsome account of itself. . . .

This busman's holiday idea, a regular, if sometimes belated, undertaking of ours, eventually led to the Roxy where pertinent business seemed to be a check into the current excitement over Simone Simon. When a producer goes to it with both feet and predicts things for a new personality, the undertaking, more often than not, is apt to be dangerous; there was Sam Goldwyn, Anna Sten and "Nana," if you remember. But Twentieth Century-Fox, we think, is on firm ground with Mlle. Simon who depends not so much on looks as upon a refreshing personality and an ability to perform. Her French accent, once again charming as is a way with French accents, needs a talking to for the sake of greater legibility and easier understanding. But that looks like a fairly simple task. Her introductory picture, "Girls' Dormitory," has a "Maedchen in Uniform" atmosphere without its story, ends up in a routine love situation with Herbert Marshall and, taken by and large, is not much of a picture. However, it has Simon and she's something. . .

It was a long breath that Harry M. Goetz held while making "The Last of the Mohicans." Soldiers in wigs, Hurons who were Indians in grotesque smears of war paint and a hero, trying to look dashing in a fur cap that must have tickled, offer situations with abundant opportunity for error in the studio and laughs in the theatre. There was script trouble shooting the "Mohicans," as well as wig and makeup trouble, yet the picture at the Rivoli met and vanquished them as did Goetz's respiration. What you have there is an intelligently abridged version of James Fenimore Cooper's standard work of American colonial days in an intelligent film rating a handshake. That's what this is supposed to be. . . .

"Follow Your Heart," which is Republic's most pretentious attraction to date, would do any program proud and from that there are no exemptions. It is a musical, featuring Marion Talley and Michael Bartlett but with a sense of humor and a delightful comedy vein which never desert the footage of which there is a lot. Booking film at the Music Hall is not our job, but looking at pictures and attempting to appraise them is. If the conversation around is accurate, and we think it is that the M. H. is scurrying for product since the fight continues with Twentieth Century-Fox, it passes our understanding as to how, why and when "Follow Your Heart" was passed up. It was, as all and sundry know, and the new Criterion gets it. Anyhow, the Republic gang is excited no end and Nat Levine, than whom there is no harder working studio head on the coast, is basking in the warming compliments of the praise hurlers. He has earned them. . . .

"Mohicans" Is $15,250 High In St. Louis

St. Louis, Sept. 9.—"The Last of the Mohicans," with "Women Are Trouble," at Loew's, was the outstanding attraction of a week filled with pictures with unusual box-office appeal. The $15,250 gross beat house average by $5,250.

Just a few blocks away at the Ambassador, "Mary of Scotland" took $14,500, almost 50 per cent better than an average of $10,000.

Out at the Fox "Sing, Baby, Sing" stepped along at a fast pace, the gross being about $14,750. This is $750 better than average for this house.

"The Road to Glory" at the Orpheum reached the house average of $7,000. It was supported by "The Three Stooges." In the previous week at the Fox "The Road to Glory" and "Hot Money" took in $16,300.

The week included one evening in which more than two inches of rain fell, and two days were partly cloudy.

Total first run business was $51,500. Average is $4,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"MARY OF SCOTLAND" (Radio)
AMBASSADOR — (3,018), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $14,500. (Average, $10,000)

"SING, BABY, SING" (20th-Fox)
FOX—(5,038), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $14,750. (Average, $14,000)

"LAST OF THE MOHICANS" (U. A.)
"WOMEN ARE TROUBLE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S — (3,162), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $15,250. (Average, $10,000)

"THE ROAD TO GLORY" (20th-Fox)
ORPHEUM—(1,950), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $7,000)

"Devil Doll" Best, But Omaha Is Dull

Lincoln, Sept. 9.—Races at the state fair track and a lack of outstanding films moderated grosses, the best draw was "Devil Doll" and "Satan Met a Lady" at the Lincoln, where $2,700 represented $500 profit.

"China Clipper" took $3,400 at the Stuart, $300 to the good.

Westland Theatres' second run, Kiva, opened late in the week and brought the town to 100 per cent operating status. This makes nine houses within three blocks of each other.

Total first run business was $9,700. Average is $8,650.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 2:

"LIGHTNIN' BILL CARSON" (Puritan)
"LADIES CRAVE EXCITEMENT" (Mascot)
"POSTAL INSPECTOR" (Univ.)
LIBERTY—(1,200). 10c-15c, 7 days, first two films dualled for 3 days. Gross: $900. (Average, $850)

Week Ending Sept. 3:

"JUSTICE OF THE RANGE" (Ambassador)
"SEVEN SINNERS" (G. B.)
VARSITY—(1,100), 10c-15c-20c, 7 days on split. Gross: $1,000. (Average, $1,100)

"DEVIL DOLL" (M-G-M)
"SATAN MET A LADY" (W. B.)
LINCOLN—(1,600), 10c-20c-25c, 7 days on split basis. Gross: $2,700. (Average, $2,200)

Week Ending Sept. 4:

"THINGS TO COME" (U. A.)
"STAR FOR A NIGHT" (20th-Fox)
"SPEED" (M-G-M)
"GRAND JURY" (Radio)
ORPHEUM—(1,350), 10c-15c-20c, 7 days. Dual splits. Gross: $1,500. (Average, $1,400)

"CHINA CLIPPER" (F. N.)
STUART — (2,000), 10c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,400. (Average, $3,100)

"Adverse" Is Second Week Phila. Lead

Philadelphia, Sept. 9.—Bolstered by a heavy second weekend trade, though business slumped toward the end of the week, "Anthony Adverse" again topped the town with its $24,000 for the second week at the Boyd. It was held another week.

"Romeo and Juliet" swept into town with a fine $17,000 at the Chestnut on its first week on a roadshow basis. This figure topped the opening of "The Great Ziegfeld" by reason of its exceptional matinee draw. It should go for six weeks at least.

With Jan Savitt's band on the stage to bolster "Yours for the Asking" on the screen, the Fox breezed in with a neat $16,000 on the week. In spite of heavy competition, the customers went for Simone Simon in good fashion, giving "Girls' Dormitory" $17,000 on its eight days at the Stanley. .

The Aldine opened on Wednesday with "The Last of the Mohicans" and has been reporting a good draw. The theatre will probably do $9,000-$10,000 on its first week.

The weather break was generally good.

Total first run business was $99,100. Average, exclusive of the Chestnut, is $73,220.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"NOW AND FOREVER" (Para.) (Revival)
ARCADIA — (600), 25c-40c-50c, 4 days. Gross: $1,200. "Three Cheers for Love" (Para.), 2nd run, 2 days, $400. (Average, 7 days, $2,800)

"ANTHONY ADVERSE" (W. B.)
BOYD—(2,400), 40c-55c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $24,000. (Average, $14,000)

"ROMEO AND JULIET" (M-G-M)
CHESTNUT—(1,500), 55c-87c-$1.14-$1.71, 7 days. Gross: $17,000. (House regularly legitimate, no average)

"JAILBREAK" (W. B.)
STANTON—(1,700), 30c-40c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $6,400. (Average, $7,000)

Bernard Newman to Rest

Hollywood, Sept. 9. — Bernard Newman, fashion designer, has secured his release from his Radio contract. Reason given is that Newman is tired from strenuous work, and wishes an extended vacation. He will sail from New York, Oct. 3, on a three-month vacation in Italy.

Columbia Shifts Titles

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Columbia has changed titles on two of its pictures. "Cross Fire" will hereafter be "Code of the Range," and "Two Minute Alibi" has been changed to "Alibi for Murder."

Takes a Year

Hollywood, Sept. 9. — The Marx Brothers have announced that they will limit their picture activities to one production per year hereafter. According to Harpo Marx, it takes them seven months to prepare a script, three months more for shooting and rehearsals, and they require at least five weeks of personal appearances to test material.

"Glory" Louisville Hit; Pulls $6,200

Louisville, Sept. 9. — "Road to Glory," on a dual with "Second Wife" at the Strand, brought that house the best business it has had in months. The $6,200 take was over par by $2,700.

"The Texas Rangers," with "Hollywood Boulevard," also went well into the profit column with a gross of $7,000.

"China Clipper" on a single at the Mary Anderson did well at $3,600, $100 over the line. The take at Loew's State was disappointing. "Last of the Mohicans," dualled with "Women Are Trouble," was considerably below par.

A sudden drop in temperature and much needed rainfall has been a stimulant to box offices.

Total first run business was $23,000. Average is $18,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"LAST OF THE MOHICANS" (U. A.)
"WOMEN ARE TROUBLE" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE — (3,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,500. (Average, $5,500)

"Star for Night" Tops Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Sept. 9. — Business was generally better in Indianapolis last week with all houses doing better than average. "Star for a Night" at the Lyric, coupled with a stage show, led the procession with a gross of $9,500 which was $2,500 over average.

"Texas Rangers" and "Grand Jury" at the Circle registered a gross of $5,000, which was $1,000 over the line.

Total first run business was $25,500. Average is $21,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 4:

"SING, BABY, SING" (20th-Fox)
APOLLO—(1,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,500. (Average, $4,000)

"TEXAS RANGERS" (Para.)

"Glory" with Show Boston Top-$35,000

Boston, Sept. 9.—"Road to Glory" with radio show on the stage, "Radio Jamboree," gave the Metropolitan $35,000 or $13,000 above average. The weather was most suitable for picture houses with rain, lower temperature, and overcast skies most of the seven days.

"Piccadilly Jim," co-featured with "Trapped By Television" playing at Loew's Orpheum and Loew's State also did well in their second week runs. Both theatres totaled $24,500 for the week, the State doing $12,000 or $1,000 above average, while the Orpheum did $500 above average with a $12,500.

"Mary of Scotland" dropped a little in the third week bringing $10,500 for the week's showing. This is $500 under average for the RKO Memorial.

The RKO Boston did $9,000 for six days. The house closed down on Wednesday to make the last finishing touches to the decorating and alterations that have been in progress for four weeks. The films playing at the Boston for the six day period were "Second Wife" and "Shakedown."

The Paramount and Fenway went up this week with "My American Wife" and "Charlie Chan at the Race Track." The Fenway did $6,000 or $1,500 over average, while the Paramount grossed $8,000 or $1,000 over average.

The American Bar Ass'n concluded its meetings this week, while Harvard's 300th anniversary celebration got under way.

Total first run business was $93,000. Average is $89,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"MY AMERICAN WIFE" (Para.)
FENWAY—(1,382), 30c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $6,000. (Average, $4,500)

"MARY OF SCOTLAND" (Radio)
RKO MEMORIAL — (2,970), 25c-65c, 7 days, 3rd week. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $12,000)

"PICCADILLY JIM" (M-G-M)
"TRAPPED BY TELEVISION" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S ORPHEUM—(2,907), 25c-55c. 7 days. Gross: $12,500. (Average, $12,000)

"PICCADILLY JIM" (M-G-M)
"TRAPPED BY TELEVISION" (M-G-M)

Burlesque Competes Now in Kansas City

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—For the first time in several years downtown theatres will contend with burlesque competition.

The Empress is operating as a unit in the New Independent Burlesque Circuit, with Harry D. Hirsch, operator of the Gayety burlesque in Minneapolis, at the controls. With Friday changes, the house will play two a day with an "owl" performance Saturday nights.

Sparks and Dunbar Cast

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Ned Sparks and Dixie Dunbar have been added to the cast of "One in a Million" at Twentieth Century-Fox. Sonja Henie has the leading role and Sidney Lanfield will direct. Raymond Griffith is the producer and the story is the joint work of Leonard Praskins and Mark Kelly.

"Hussy" Hits Washington's Top, $28,500

Washington, Sept. 9.—"The Gorgeous Hussy" soared to near record heights, $28,500, last week at Loew's Palace, topping average by $12,600. The gross includes the gross for two special screenings on Aug. 27, the first of which was the premiere.

"Sing, Baby, Sing," plus a stage show at Loew's Capitol, took $20,800, under par by $100. The Earle, with "The Return of Sophie Lang," and also with a stage show, grossed $15,500, under average by $2,900.

At Loew's Columbia a return of "Poppy" took $4,600, over the first run par by $1,000; and a continuation of "Rhythm on the Range" at the Metropolitan took $5,200 to go over an average first run week by $1,900.

"Walking on Air" at RKO-Keith's Theatre nosedived to $5,000, or $5,600 under average.

The Belasco reopened on Sept. 5, and presumably a two-week engagement of "Romeo and Juliet" at the National on Sept. 6 on a roadshow basis. The Gayety, burlesque, reopened for the season on Aug. 30. Glen Echo Park closed its 1936 season on Sept. 7.

Total first run business was $79,600. Average is $73,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax, for the week ending Sept. 4:

"RETURN OF SOPHIE LANG" (Para.)
EARLE—(2,218), 25c-77c, 7 days. Stage: Will Osborne & his Orchestra, Dick & Dorothy Rogers, Ruthie Barnes, Bob Hall. Gross: $15,500. (Average, $18,400)

Commonwealth Sets Outing of Managers

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—The Commonwealth Amusement Corp. will be host to approximately 40 persons, including the managers of the circuit's 23 theatres in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, at the Pistol Club, Lake of the Ozarks, Sept. 16-18.

The outing culminates the company's annual "King of the Sun" contest for its managers, which continued for 13 summer weeks ending Sept. 5. Besides two closed business sessions at the Lake, the outing will be devoted to fishing and pleasure.

"Considering drought and heat, the contest resulted very satisfactorily," C. A. Schultz, circuit head, declared.

Sign Constance Collier

Hollywood, Sept. 9. — Constance Collier has been signed to a long term contract by Twentieth Century-Fox. Miss Collier is in England now, but will return by Jan. 1, when the contract takes effect.

Burn-up Stuff

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Bob Palmer, casting director at Radio, has been sending out frantic calls for youngsters. Requirements included age from six to 12 and a British accent.

One of his pals called the other morning and proceeded to give Palmer a build-up.

"I got him for you," he said.

"Yeah, who?" asked Palmer.

"Freddie Bartholomew."

"To Mary" Garners $11,500, Montreal

Montreal, Sept. 9.—"To Mary—with Love" was a hit at the Capitol, taking $11,500. Par is $2,000 under that figure.

"China Clipper," topping the double at the Princess, earned second place with a total of $8,500, while "The Devil Doll," with Duke Ellington's orchestra on the stage, rang up $11,500 at Loew's.

The Montreal baseball team was back in town for its last stand of the season and the several amusement parks also took a share.

Total first run business was $38,000. Average is $38,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 5:

"TO MARY—WITH LOVE" (20th-Fox)
"CRIME OF DR. FORBES" (20th-Fox)
CAPITOL—(2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $11,500. (Average, $9,500)

"Adverse" Is K.C. Leader In Mild Week

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—Only two first runs went into the profit column in a week of cool weather and no outside competition except a Monday circus.

"Anthony Adverse" garnered $13,900 at the Mainstreet, overshooting par by $5,900, and was moved to the Newman for a second week. "Star For A Night" at the Tower built steadily and finished with the strongest Thursday the house has had in several months to a $7,700, up $1,200.

"Follow Your Heart" did a $3,500 average at the Fox Uptown in six days, when it was pulled to make way for a spot booking and moved to the Fox Apollo for an indefinite continuation of the first run. The Uptown received a number of calls on the picture after its run, wondering where and when it could be seen.

"Last of the Mohicans" took big money, $10,400, but failed to harvest a normal crop, $11,500, at the Midland box office. Neither "Bunker Bean" nor "A Son Comes Home" could do much for the Newman, where the pair did a poor $4,200, $2,800 under the line.

Total first run business was $39,700. Average is $36,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 2:

"FOLLOW YOUR HEART" (Republic)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $3,500)

To Attend Style Show

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Gwen Walters, fashion editor of Columbia, will attend the National Style Conference at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Sept. 14. Miss Walters has taken with her a collection of costumes by Ernst Dryden which will be worn in "Lost Horizon," "Craig's Wife," "Pennies from Heaven" and other Columbia pictures.

"U" Signs Betty Rhodes

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Universal has signed Betty Jane Rhodes to a term acting contract and cast her in the feminine lead of "Jungle Jim," a serial, as her first assignment. Raymond Hatton has been assigned the leading comedy role in the picture.

Selznick Signs Marshal

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Alan Marshal has been signed to a long term contract by Selznick International. Marshal, from the New York stage, played his first film part in "The Garden of Allah."

Music Union Starts Drive On Theatres

The American Federation of Musicians plans the immediate expenditure over the country of at least $250,000 in an effort to bring about the return to film theatres of living entertainers in conjunction with films, as a means of relieving the Federation's heavy bulk of unemployed, according to Motion Picture Herald, out today.

The public will be asked to aid, and pickets will be employed, it is understood. Allied theatrical crafts are expected to lend support to the Federation's drive, which will have its inception in New York, through Local 802, the local unit of the national organization. There is every indication, the Herald points out, that the campaign will be the most important since sound forced the musicians from the theatres in the late 1920's. An army of 5,000 pickets has already been enlisted.

Mass Meeting Tonight

The first shot will be fired at a mass meeting, called for this evening at the Manhattan Opera House. Mayor LaGuardia of New York is expected to be the principal speaker, in addition to various other officials high in labor circles, including Jacob Rosenberg, Local 802 secretary, and Ralph Whitehead, secretary of the American Federation of Actors. Radio appeals will follow, and the mass meeting proceedings also will be put on the air. It was said that 20 New York houses will be picketed. Active picketing is expected to begin tomorrow.

The membership of the A.F.M. is estimated at between 16,000 and 17,000 and the majority of them are unemployed. The extent to which the campaign ultimately will be carried will depend largely on the result of the opening drive in New York.

Some years ago Federation undertook a similar campaign against sound films, spending approximately $1,000,000, seeking public support against "canned music." The campaign was an expensive failure. That drive was directed through advertising media, this will have more direct action as its method.

Women Being Enrolled

Women are being enlisted in a drive by Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians in an effort to get orchestras back into theatres, according to Jacob Rosenberg, secretary.

Rose Schneiderman, president of the Women's Trade Union League, is also backing the movement. They will start picketing Friday and will do house-to-house canvassing, Rosenberg says.

A mass meeting is planned at the Manhattan Opera House.

Warners to Do "Dombey"

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Warners will make Charles Dickens' "Dombey and Son." William Ulman is working on the screenplay, but there are no other assignments so far.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Captain's Kid"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Comedy and drama more artificial than homespun is this film's principal motivation. Despite its unpretentious, unimpressive and never-better-than-average quality, it has some natural humor that is gayly exciting in spots, endowing the picture with considerable amusement value. The romantic angle which involves Jane Bryant and Fred Lawrence, both newcomers, is dragged in in such a manner as to appear generally irrelevant to the main theme and as a result is hardly noticeable.

Preserving the characteristic atmosphere of the Cape Cod locale, the story concerns the penchant of Guy Kibbee, an old sea dog, for the spinning of exaggerated yarns to little Sybil Jason, a practice which finally gets him in a real mess. Following the discovery of some buried treasure, Kibbee kills Dick Purcell, a hijacker. Jailed on a murder charge, the testimony of Miss Jason, the coroner and the jury seem to paint Kibbee as a bloodthirsty murdered and he seems headed for the electric chair.

Following some good comedy, melodramatic incidents and a hectic chase, the situation clears and it is revealed that Kibbee slew Purcell, the mobster, in self defense. There follows the capture of Maud Adams, Purcell's accomplice, who is taken with the aid of Sybil.

The plot is carried principally by Kibbee, Sybil and May Robson, who strives mightily but ineffectively to free the child from what she believes to be the evil influences of the old salt. The story is jumpy and sometimes complicated. Nevertheless, the drawing strength of the trio plus the affection of the lovable old sailor for the child afford dependable exploitation angles. The tale is based on Earl Fenton's original. Tom Reed did the screenplay and Nick Grinde directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,293. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Greenwood to Merge His Theatre Units

W. E. Greenwood, British exhibitor who sailed for London on the Queen Mary yesterday, said prior to his departure that the five theatre companies in which he was interested were about to be consolidated in one new corporation to be known as the Majestic Theatres Corp., Ltd. His houses are located at Staines, High Wycombe, Mitcham, Woodford and Wembley.

Greenwood arrived, via Quebec on June 9 and, during his stay, covered 11,500 miles by car, the itinerary including visits to the studios in Hollywood, and most of the major cities in the eastern, northern and western portions of the country.

"I thought that there were more theatres in proportion to the population here than in England," he said yesterday, "but your prices of admission are much cheaper than ours and there is less new construction here than in England."

Greenwood, who is a Fellow of the Institute of British Decorators and the author of "The Villa Madama Rome," believes judicious and effective use of decorations in theatre auditoriums here would enhance appeal and add to the measure of comfort enjoyed by patrons.

Frisco Records Seen

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—"The Texas Rangers" at the Warfield grossed $11,700 in four days and "The General Died at Dawn" garnered $13,900 at the Paramount in five days, indicating that new records will be set by both theatres. The anticipated take for each house for the week is figured at $17,000.

New Detroit Buying Combine Given Name

Detroit, Sept. 9.—The new buying and booking combine of more than 50 out-state theatres, of which Frank Stuart, former film salesman, has been appointed general manager, will be known as American Theatre Science, Inc. Offices are to be opened within the next 10 days on the fifth floor of the Fox Theatre Bldg.

No announcement of the names of the member theatres or officers of the corporation has been made, but will be forthcoming at the time the offices are opened, according to Stuart.

James M. Minter of Flint and William A. Cassidy of Midland have been leaders in the formation of the unit, which will not include any Detroit theatres.

Report Pollak Injured

Joseph Pollak, former head of National Screen, yesterday was reported found severely injured 20 miles from Budapest, according to the Associated Press. Elias Lewin, a friend of Pollak, reported the disappearance of the former National Screen president from a Budapest-Belgrade train. Local police, according to the dispatch, suspect robbery as the motive inasmuch as Pollak's baggage was missing.

Payne Forms Company

London, Sept. 9.—Jack Payne Odeon, Ltd., has been formed to provide bands for film-vaudeville theatres. Payne is a well known dance band director and radio star. Other directors in the group are Oscar Deutsch and Stanley Bates. The company will start Sept. 28.

Short Subjects

"Clothes Men Like"

(March of Fashion)

This is the first of a new series called "The March of Fashion." The reels will be seasonal in their presentation of current modes in milady's wardrobe. The initial issue is a well conceived offering of fall styles which are projected and modeled against real settings of airports, football stadiums, supper clubs and other locations where the lady of fashion is wont to be. It is entirely different in its conception of clothes from that of routine newsreel material. Not only does it illustrate the latest in habiliments, but it also has an entertainment quality, light, but nevertheless it is present. It has nationwide female appeal and the possibilities for tieups with local merchandisers are present. Distribution plans have not been set. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Who's Looney Now?"

(Radio)

Another treatment of the man-wears-the-pants theme, this is average comedy with standard laugh-provoking situations. Jack Norton follows Harry Bowen's advice and pulls a heart attack on his domineering family which includes his mother and brother-in-law. They ignore his affected illness, but later decide he is out of his mind. Billy Gilbert, a mental doctor, is called in and with a good amount of dialect the comedy reaches its end when Gilbert is wrapped in his own straight-jacket and carted off. Norton socks Bowen for his advice. Production Code Seal No. 2,310. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Swampland"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

This is of an educational nature, but at the same time there are gripping struggle-for-life scenes that will thrill the audience. The photography is remarkable in the closeups. The idea of the short concerns the undercurrent of primitive animal life in the stillness and mystery of swamp lands. The beauty angle of bird life and habits is also worked in. Most impressive is the fight between two alligators. It is different and should be exploited for its realistic punch. Production Code Seal No. 2,463. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Trinidad"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

The British possession in the West Indies offers good material and some novel revelations in its 10 minutes. Fine shots of the harbor, the main hotel, a bit of local life and custom, and a religious celebration by the Mohammedan population which includes fire walkers, and lying on a bed of spikes gives additional interest to the piece. A good travel offering. Production Code Seal No. 01,080. "G."

"U" to Make 4 Musicals

Hollywood, Sept. 9.—Four of Universal current season's schedule of 36 features will be musicals, the first to go into production being "Top of the Town." This will be followed by "Music in the Park," "Hippodrome" and "Melody Lady."

"THE DEVIL IS A SISSY"

starring FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW

Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney, IAN HUNTER, Peggy Conklin, Katherine Alexander

In 1932 the picture "Street Scene" gave to audiences the thrill, heart-beat and romance of tumultuous city streets. In 1936 "The Devil Is A Sissy" will be hailed as another memorable drama of the metropolis, portrayed by vastly appealing personalities and directed by that master of film-making W. S. Van Dyke.

"For whiz-bang comedy this takes the prize. Audiences will lap it up," says Showman's Trade Review

"Deserves 'A' ranking. A bang-up production with plenty for the audience," says Hollywood Reporter

"Unusually bright and different," says M. P. Daily

The 24-sheet above is blanketing the nation to proclaim the multi-starred "LIBELED LADY"

Not only is M-G-M the sole outfit that literally pours Star Value into a production ("Libeled Lady" cast even tops "Gorgeous Hussy" for star-power and that's something!) but M-G-M is the one and only company that hires 10,000 billboards month after month to nationally advertise its great attractions. You know how that helped in the case of "San Francisco", "Suzy", "Gorgeous Hussy" to name just a few recent billboard-campaign-pictures! Great Pictures PLUS Great Promotion means PLUS in the bank!

"LOVE ON THE RUN"

with FRANCHOT TONE, Reginald Owen and Big Cast!

When Clark Gable and Joan Crawford co-star, it's box-office dynamite! This is their fifth co-starring picture. The others were (just to give you an idea of what you're getting): "Dancing Lady", "Forsaking All Others", "Chained", "Possessed." And now this spirited, ultra-modern, fast-moving comedy melodrama "Love On The Run." It will be one of the very biggest attractions of the year.

"BORN TO DANCE"

starring

with a Great Cast of Personalities including JAMES STEWART, VIRGINIA BRUCE, Una Merkel, Sid Silvers, Frances Langford, Raymond Walburn, Buddy Ebsen, Allan Dinehart, Juanita Quigley and many more!

The girl they're waiting for! They want more of that Eleanor Powell pep that they loved in "Broadway Melody of 1936" and what a glamorous Ziegfeldian show M-G-M has prepared to sweep away all box-office records of all musical entertainments. Roy Del Ruth again will direct. He's sure-fire! The sets are breath-taking. One of them tops the biggest number in "Ziegfeld". 2000 dancers, showgirls, beauties. And the music by Cole Porter will set America dancing to your show-shop! Watch!

There is a thrill in the screen mating of these two stars that will sweep the nation!

GRETA GARBO ROBERT TAYLOR in "CAMILLE"

How fitting that one of the world's most electric dramas of love should be portrayed by the great Garbo and the handsome star who is today's idol of romance! A mighty cast has been assembled: LIONEL BARRYMORE, Elizabeth Allan, Lenore Ulric, Laura Hope Crews, Henry Daniell, E. E. Clive and a host of other celebrities. George Cukor, whose acclaim for "Romeo and Juliet" rings around the world, will direct this gigantic production, destined to be among the mightiest of the year!

All-Continent Files Suit on Securities

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—All-Continent Corp. has filed action in Federal court here to establish its ownership of securities valued at $500,000 which were sequestered pending the bankruptcy proceedings of William Fox. The securities have been claimed by the Capital Co. of San Francisco as satisfaction for a judgment of $297,412 which it holds against Fox.

Judge George A. Welsh has ordered Capital Co. and Hiram Steelman, Fox trustee, to answer the suit by Sept. 28. In the absence of any pleas a judgment in favor of All Continent Corp. by default may be handed down.

Seek All Fox Records

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 9.—Counsel for Hiram Steelman, trustee in bankruptcy for William Fox, today petitioned Federal Judge John B. Avis to force the transactions of the All-Continent Corp. into the record of the Fox bankruptcy proceedings in Atlantic City.

Judge Avis said he would make an early decision on the case after briefs are filed by both sides.

Reservations at 1,100 For Rodgers Dinner

Reservations for the beefsteak dinner to be tendered William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, at the Waldorf on Sept. 29, are pouring in from all parts of the country, according to the committee. Whereas plans originally had been made to accommodate 800, the reservations now on hand exceed this number by 300.

Many important circuit heads from all parts of the country are planning to attend in addition to a coast delegation of about 250.

Rebels Take Cameraman

RKO declared yesterday that Henri Brut, Pathe News cameraman, who has been covering the fighting in Spain, was arrested yesterday at Burgos by the rebels, who confiscated his camera and equipment. William G. O'Brien, Pathe European representative, went into Spain to find Brut, but fear was expressed that he would be unable to locate the imprisoned cameraman without considerable difficulty.

Para. Brazil Head Dies

Tibor Rombauer, Paramount manager for Brazil, died Tuesday at Rio de Janeiro following an operation for appendicitis, according to cabled information received at the home office yesterday. No successor has been appointed yet.

B'way Sees Pickets Again

Cross picketing was revived on Broadway yesterday as a result of Local 306's campaign against the 19 Century circuit houses in Long Island. Allied sandwich men paraded in front of the Palace and State, while a Local 306 picket did the same at the Central.

Col. Answers Wage Fight

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—Columbia yesterday filed an answer with the Actors' Guild which, on behalf of Victor de Camp, had asked for extra remuneration for speaking lines. Conceding that the actor spoke the lines, Columbia denied the Producers' Ass'n had agreed to uphold the NRA scale of $25 daily as contended by the Guild. Fred Beetson upheld Columbia's denial, although he said the producers had agreed among themselves to follow the NRA.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—Mrs. J. R. Stowers, wife of a Kansas City, Kan., dentist, has been renamed to the Kansas censor board

Roncoroni Leaving Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—Carlo Roncoroni will leave tomorrow by plane for Chicago. His schedule calls for arrival in New York Monday, with sailing date set for Sept. 19. Roncoroni stated today that no deals had been completed, and added that it was too early to discuss possibilities in that direction.

Buying at Low Ebb

Local film buying by independents was reported at a low ebb, a survey made at the I.T.O.A. meeting at the Astor showed. With exhibitors representing approximately 200 theatres present, only 21 major film contracts had been signed, it was stated.

Operators Ask Raise For Chicago Dualing

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—A meeting held here today between exhibitors and operators ended in a disagreement regarding the running of double features which are expected to start this fall. The union asks a big overtime allowance plus a 20% increase in salary because of the longer hours which the exhibitors are asking under the suggested dualing system.

A meeting scheduled for Monday is expected to result in a settlement.

I.T.O. Meets with I.A.T.S.E.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Representatives of the I.T.O. today met with Rollie Hayward, of Projectionists' Local 150 of the I.A.T.S.E., for the purpose of preliminary discussions concerning the closed shop. It was decided that formal action will follow the consideration of the union's prospectus at the general meeting of the I.T.O. to be held Friday.

Election of Morris Seen at Ascap Meet

Edwin Morris, vice-president of the Warner music subsidiaries, is expected to be elected a director of Ascap at the organization's next meeting, Sept. 24.

Morris has returned from the coast, where he left Arthur Schwartz in charge. According to his plans, Morris will spend more time at the studios in the future. He will return west within the next two months.

Election of Morris to the directorate of Ascap will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Herman Starr at the time Warners withdrew from the music association.

M-G-M Plans Essay Contest on "Romeo"

M-G-M has inaugurated an essay contest based upon the story of "Romeo and Juliet" for which two grand prizes of trips to Shakespeare's birthplace, Stratford-on-Avon, England, will be awarded. Contestants will be divided into two groups, one comprising students and the other to be composed of adult members of clubs and study groups. Local eliminations will be held, the winner to be eligible for one of the grand prizes.

M-G-M will issue in about a week a contest guide describing the contest and setting forth its rules.

Rates Raised in Iowa

SIOUX CITY, Sept. 9.—The first important admission price increase went into effect here today when Evert R. Cummings, district manager for A. H. Blank theatres, raised rates at the following five houses: Loop, 11 to 16 cents; Hipp and Rialto, 11 to 16 for matinees and 16 to 21 for evenings; Iowa, 16 to 21 for matinees, and at the Granada, 21 to 26 cents for evenings. The houses had been individually operated before Blank took them over a short time ago.

Resumes Law Practice

George E. Quigley, former Warner executive, has resumed the general practice of law. Sidney R. Fleisher, who was associated with the late Joseph P. Bickerton, Jr., is continuing the office, with Edward E. Cohen as his associate.

a stumbling block, but it is understood Loew's is willing to boost the morning price to 25 cents provided the Roxy jacks its opening tariff to 35 cents.

No representative of the Roxy attended the two conclaves at Moskowitz's office at which the new price schedule was discussed.

When the plan was scheduled to go into effect Saturday, the only Times Square house to comply with the agreement was the Cohan. The dime charge was raised to 15 cents, but on Tuesday the former admission was back again.

At a meeting of the I.T.O.A. yesterday members discussed the Broadway situation as holding up the plan to hike admissions. The men held that unless Broadway theatres take the lead there will be no benefits for the smaller houses.

Cullman to Stand Pat

While some theatremen hope to induce the Roxy management to fall in line, Motion Picture Daily learned yesterday that new charges in the admission there are remote. Howard S. Cullman, trustee, when apprised of the attitude of the independents, expressed little interest, asserting:

"The Roxy is a family house with 6,100 seats. I am delighted to make these seats available to those of limited means who visit the midtown area for screen and stage entertainment.

"These people are largely responsible for the rehabilitation of the theatre and we will show them the same cooperation they have shown us in no uncertain terms. The backbone of the nation made the show value of the nation.

"I will not turn on these people who bailed us out; there's not a thought in my mind of changing the 25 cents morning price.

"I have no complaint against independent operators running double and triple bills; and I don't see why they should have any complaints to make against us."

Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum in Federal court yesterday reserved decision on the motion of Melbert Pictures to dismiss an involuntary petition in bankruptcy which had been filed against the firm. The attorney for Melbert asserted that the assets for exceeded the liabilities.

Music Firms Adopt Code of Practices

to avert a music industry investigation by the Federal Trade Commission. The M. P. P. A. recently asked the commission to grant a trade conference before launching the inquiry, and was informed that substantial evidence of the industry's sincerity must precede the granting of the request. It was reported that the code followed a commission recommendation for its formulation.

The agreement declares that publishers shall not pay, in money, service, or favor, for the privilege of having works performed. Specifically exempt, however, is the privilege of a publisher to contract with film company or stage producer for the use of music.

No direct penalties for violation are included in the code, it being merely an agreement among publishers to refrain from certain practices. The association, however, may go to court and seek an order restraining any violator from continuing the practice complained of. Contempt of court proceedings would follow a subsequent violation. The association board is confident of obtaining support for its arrangement from Government agencies.

Midwest Contest Starts

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—Fox Midwest has inaugurated a new fall campaign, the "High Striker All-Employe Participation Bonus Contest," which will run 17 weeks to Dec. 26. Managers, district managers and bookers, house staffs, and home office department heads will participate in $12,500 in bonuses, which are based on increased business over a year ago, the same period.

carried out successfully in other lines of business such as meat packing. They pointed out that it is mandatory in the liquor business.

"And in our field," a spokesman pointed out, "we have to buy our films from the producers, yet "we may have a theatre across the street, competing with us, controlled by that same producer and getting first choice of his product at special terms."

The "war chest" was voted last June in Cleveland by national Allied. The New Jersey unit includes 150 independent theatres.

Reports also were received today on the progress of the campaign against blind buying and block booking embodied in the Neely-Pettengill Bill in Congress. Speakers today included Nathan Yamins of Fall River, Mass., president of the national organization; Herman Blum of Baltimore, its treasurer; Arthur Price of Baltimore, eastern regional vice-president; Arthur Howard of Boston, business representative of the New England group and Sidney E. Samuelson of Newton, N. J., past president of the New Jersey group.

The convention will continue tomorrow and Friday with Lee W. Newbury of Belmar, president, presiding.

Next Year Set for Start by Monogram

Monogram Pictures Corp., which is being revived by W. Ray Johnston, will not become operative until the 1937-38 season, Johnston said yesterday. Organization work will occupy the fall and part of next winter and a sales convention will be held in the spring.

The reorganized Monogram plans to sell franchises to circuit operators, who would develop their own exchanges along the lines of the original First National plan, Johnston said. In this way the distribution problem existing because of many independent distributors being tied up with other franchise deals already, might be solved. Johnston is reported to have available ample funds from Wall St. sources for the new enterprise.

Independent producers would contribute to a schedule of 36 features and four serials. Trem Carr, former production head of Monogram, will not be associated with the new company because of his existing contract commitments.

records and microphones. It's portable and can be plugged into any theatre light socket. When the picture starts he starts his records, and when it is finished he plays back every sound that has come from the screen and from the audience.

When laughs interrupt dialogue it is obvious. When funny situations or dialogue don't click there is silence.

In one picture where it has been tried additional film from the cutouts has been added to clear up the dialogue and give time for the laughs to die down. In another an entire sequence has been retaken.

Universal is going to begin using the machines at all previews soon.

Yesterday Ford demonstrated the apparatus with the current issue of the newsreel and a screening of "My Man Godfrey." The results were so surprising that members of the audience could recognize the tones of their own laughs.

to have an exhibitor committee on stories with four pivotal area exhibitors on the board.

A loan of £300,000 as capital is available if exhibitors on their own contribute £100,000, and ultimate finance up to £1,000,000.

Asked about product, Dixey said producers were afraid to commit themselves as yet, but that this would be decided when the company has been organized.

Drop Deal with Dixey

London, Sept. 9.—Associated Artists, new company in which Leslie Howard and Dudley Murphy are interested, officially states all negotiations with Capt. A. F. Dixey and the Independent Exhibitors Dist. Corp. have been terminated.

J. Elder Wills denies Ensign Prod., also mentioned as a possible producer or the Dixey company, any deal has been under way.

ment, retaining the same title as heretofore.

The consolidation is the second of its kind within Paramount during the past month. Paramount Prod., the picture subsidiary, having been dissolved early in August. The plans for the dissolution of both the picture and theatre subsidiaries were reported in Motion Picture Daily on July 25. Paramount International, the foreign subsidiary, and other smaller Paramount units were consolidated with the parent company earlier. Tax economies as well as simplification of the company's corporate structure are understood to have influenced the moves.

The dissolution of Famous may be followed by similar consolidations throughout the Paramount theatre structure, it is learned reliably. Discussions are now in progress on the advisability of simplyfying the corporate setup of a number of the larger Paramount theatre operating partnerships and may result in the dissolution of numerous local operating and holding companies, the assets of which would be taken over by their parent units.

mission system employed with the receiving equipment operating with 360 lines. The price of the receiver is approximately $2,000, which makes it unavailable to the home field. Another development here is a television camera, claimed to be capable of picking up action at a distance of 400 feet, the optical image being transformed into electrical impulses, by means of an American invention, the Iconoscope of Dr. Zworykin of RCA.

Guarantee and Percentage Plan Also Attacked

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 10.—Bills sponsored by Allied States which will seek to divorce theatre ownership, operation or control from production and distribution interests are in preparation and will be introduced into state legislatures next fall and winter, Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied, relates in a message and report printed in the convention program of Allied of New Jersey, which is in session here.

The guarantee and percentage plan was attacked during today's session by Lee W. Newbury, president of the organization, who characterized it as "one-sided gouging." He declared that the old flat rental basis was the only system of selling "where a true

C.E.A. Delegation Found Methods Arresting

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Arthur Taylor, secretary of the London and Home Counties branch of the C.E.A., and organizer of the recent trip of British exhibitors to the States, is impressed by the competitive spirit of American exhibitors.

Finding conditions in New York, for example, very different from those in London, he thought that difference particularly marked in the methods taken to attract the public. Outside lighting in Broadway, he said, was based on the principle that a big sign called for a bigger, and would be

Para. Economies Up At Board's Meeting

The departmental reorganization of Paramount and the economies being effected through it were discussed at a special meeting of the Paramount board yesterday. Although the session was described as "routine and brief," it was reported that Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board, made his first formal report on the progress of studio reorganization under his direction for the past three months.

It was also reported that the board was treated to favorable current financial reports from all domestic operations of the company.

Zukor will try to wind up his visit here today and return to the studio.

Film Shopping

Kansas City, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Abe Baier, operator of the Lindbergh, long opposed to giveaways, was called on the telephone one evening recently.

Increase In Boston Scale Is Expected

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Local houses are expected to institute slight increases in admission prices within the next two months. The basis of the anticipation lies in the report by the New England Council that general business in the area has reached the highest level since 1930.

The RKO Boston, which has been playing duals at an evening top of 50 cents, has raised the scale to 65 cents with the inauguration of stage shows and single features.

In general, theatre operators here are watching the effect of price increases in other parts of the country before making a definite decision. It is expected that if several of the leading houses should institute price in-

Key Grosses Near 50-Week Peak as September Starts

Pre-Labor Day grosses in 28 key city first runs topped everything for the past 50 weeks except the high point reached once last November and again during the Christmas holidays. The total was well ahead of that set late in September a year ago when the fall pickup made the outlook brighter than it had been in some time.

For the week ending Sept. 4-5 the grosses in 163 theatres reporting to MOTION PICTURE DAILY totalled $1,747,748. This was $215,427 above the total for the last week in August. It was also $92,698 higher than the figure for the last week in September a year ago when the new season had gotten off to what was considered an excellent start, and it came within $29,902 of reaching the high point of the year last Christmas.

The showing is especially striking, because when the top figures were registered in November and December last year there were 183 and 175 theatres open, respectively, whereas there were only 163 first runs in operation in these cities for the first week of September this year.

(Comparative grosses will be found on page 7)

Report "Early Birds" Ended By 80 to 95%

Extension Expected in Next Few Weeks

Between 80 and 95 per cent of the theatres in Greater New York have eliminated "early birds" and instituted a 5 P.M. evening scale while within the next few weeks it is expected that every theatre in the local area will go for the plan, it was learned yesterday, following a meeting of major and independent circuit heads at C. C. Moskowitz's office.

The results of a survey and developments in the last few days were a complete surprise to a number of exhibitors who felt the plan was on the verge of collapse.

Reports of each situation were made by Moskowitz, who had all Loew supervisors and managers check into competitive situations, and Max A. Cohen, secretary of the tentatively formed committee, who had his men check houses surrounding Cinema Circuit houses. A spirit of friendly co-

Jury in Kansas City Approves "Ecstacy"

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 10.—After deliberating for two hours in circuit court today the jury put its seal of approval on "Ecstacy" when, after seeing the film last night, it found Breckenridge Fagin, manager of the Royal, not guilty of exhibiting an obscene or immoral picture or one detrimental to public welfare.

Fagin was found guilty, however, of showing "Ecstacy" without permission of the city censor and on this count was fined $35.

A mandamus suit to force the city to grant a permit and thus prevent interference with the showing of the film, will probably be the next move of the operators of the Royal but Fagin and Samuel Cummins, owner of the film, have not yet determined what course will be taken.

Appeal Allowed in Suit Over "Angels"

Permission to take an appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals was granted yesterday by Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum to Richard Barry whose suit over "Hell's Angels" was dismissed June 18 by U. S. District Court Judge William Bondy.

Barry had filed a complaint against Howard Hughes, Caddo Co., Inc., United Artists Corp. and United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., charging that "Hell's Angels" was an infringement of his story entitled "The Breaking Faith of an Insurgent." In his application to take an appeal Barry charged that the court was in error in dismissing the complaint.

Chaplin Wins Injunctions

Judge Samuel Mandelbaum in U. S. District Court perpetually enjoined Institutional Cinema Service, Inc., and Herman Ross from reproducing, selling or leasing any films belonging to Charles Chaplin and copyrighted by him. The two pictures figuring in this litigation which Chaplin claimed were wrongfully distributed were "A Dog's Life" and "Shoulder Arms." Judge Mandelbaum ruled that the defendant must turn over all pamphlets, advertising and publicity material and other paraphernalia to Chaplin.

Skouras to Query Lazar

Justice Lloyd Church in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday granted a motion made by Skouras Theatres Corp. for the examination of David Lazar, president of Lazfox, Inc., in connection with the suit for $100,000 damages which Lazfox has brought against Skouras. The suit is over candy concessions at the Fox Metropolitan Playhouses and Fox Theatres Corp.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Thank You, Jeeves"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—Possessing a refreshing lilt unlike the ordinary mystery comedy, this should please most audiences although the characteristically British humor may miss in some localities. Played with speed under the direction of Arthur G. Collins, the sequences build nicely for alternate laughs and suspense. Based on the popular P. G. Wodehouse stories, it is the first of an expected series.

The plot concerns the adventures of David Niven, assisted by Arthur Treacher, who portrays the title character, in a struggle for possession of a set of plans for a new invention. Douglas Walton, the inventor, with Virginia Field as helper, is trying to deliver the blueprint to the Government while a band of crooks, led by Lester Matthews, seeks to steal them. In his blundering way Niven first helps the gang and then switches when he learns of his error. In an exciting finish he and Treacher rout the mobsters. The laughs match the excitement as Treacher goes to work on the gang with a dignity, but efficiency, which is delightful.

The screen play by Joseph Hoffman and Stephen Gross retains little of the Wodehouse style, but it is a good job and leaves the way open for future pictures with the same cast. The performances are uniformly good. Treacher plays the Wodehouse Jeeves to the hilt and Niven exhibits a splendid flare for light farce. Miss Field looks well and delivers a convincing portrayal. The supporting cast includes Colin Tapley and Willie Best, who draws laughs in an unimportant role. The Sol Wurtzel production is creditable as is Barney McGill's photography. The film should show good returns as average entertainment.

Production Code Seal No. 2,488. Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Der Kampf" ("The Fight")

(Amkino)

Taking the Reichstag fire trial of George Dimitroff and his subsequent aquittal as its theme, the Soviet Mejrabpomfilm studios have produced an indignant and realistic indictment against the Nazi regime. With a measure of authenticity and a cast of exiled German actors, the film, in documentary and theatrical flashes presents its case.

The murder of a factory worker sets off the narrative. This is followed by the setting of a fire in a factory, described as a frameup by the "Shock Troops." The purge follows. In its sweep many innocents are caught, abused, imprisoned and generally maltreated. With the burning of the Reichstag and the arrest of Dimitroff and Van De Lubbe, the secret Communist organization begins to spread, inspired by the incarcerated Dimitroff. The story from that point is one of suffering and struggle in cencentration camps, freedom and tragedy which strikes when the central character's mother is taken as a spy.

While it is a historically strong piece of indignation its appeal is limited to Soviet film devotees. The dialogue is in German. English titles translate.

The cast features Ingeborg Franke, Lotte Loebinger, Bruno Schmitsdorf, Gregor Gog, Alexander Timonajeff and Ernest Busch.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 90 minutes. "A."

"Sing, Baby, Sing," last night's preview at the Roxy, was reviewed from Hollywood by wire on Aug. 3.

Delay G. N. Color Film

Due to a delay in the laboratory on color prints in time to meet the national release date, Carl Leserman, general sales manager of Grand National, has set back "Devil on Horseback" as second on the company's schedule. "In His Steps" will be the company's first release on Sept. 22. The latest RCA sound development has been employed for both pictures produced by George Hirliman.

"Love Letters" New Title

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—Universal's "The Case of the Constant God" has been retitled "Love Letters of a Star."

Short Subjects

"Toonerville Picnic"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

The folks of the comic strip decide to go to the beach when the terrible tempered "Mister Bangs" is on his way there following his doctor's advice for rest and quiet. The expected happens and "Bangs" goes through many wracking and exasperating experiences which render him explosive. Finally he arrives back home fagged out. He returns to the doctor and is knocked unconscious by himself when he swings at the medico. It is amusing and in Technicolor. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"So and Sew"

(Radio)

Romantic and marital complications, in farce style, are the elements of comedy in this film. Some fair entertainment results. Lorin Baker is the interior decorator who innocently gets involved with Constance Bergen when she tries to get ride of Billy Gilbert, a passionate South American. Baker poses as Miss Bergen's spouse and is discovered by his fiancee, Lucille Ball, as they are playing up to Gilbert. The real husband returns. Baker is chased. He catches up with Gilbert, pops him one, and goes off with Miss Ball. Production Code Seal No. 2,279. Running time, 15 mins. "G."

"High Wide and Dashing"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

An excellent collection of scenes of track sports, commented on by Bill Corum, this short is a lively offering. The outstanding stars of the running track, pole vault, broadjump, etc., do their stuff with spectacular effect which is enhanced by Corum's informative jargon. Production Code Seal No. 01,135. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Harms Sues M-G-M Over "Suzy" Song

Damages and an accounting of profits from the picture "Suzy" is asked by Warners' music publishing subsidiary, Harms, Inc., in an action filed in U. S. District Court here yesterday against Leo Feist and M-G-M.

The complaint alleges that the song, "Did I Remember?" used in "Suzy" and published by Leo Feist, is an infringement of the copyright on "Fancy Our Meeting." The latter song, the complaint asserts, was composed by Joe Meyer and Phillip Charig, was published by Harms and used in the play "Wake Up and Dream" and in the London production of "That's a Good Girl." The suit was filed by Wattenberg and Wattenberg, attorneys for Harms.

Carolina Men Confer

CHARLOTTE, Sept. 10.—Approximately 35 managers and executives of North Carolina Theatres, Inc., held a meeting here. Roy L. Smart, district manager, presided.

Topics discussed included installation of new equipment and improvements in several houses and new pictures. Brief talks were made by H. F. Kincey and R. B. Wilby.

eration prevailed throughout the ses- on.

The Times Square area was ad- itted as a weak spot in the plan, but is hoped to be worked out within e next few weeks. Efforts will be ade to induce Howard S. Cullman, ustee of the Roxy, to join the move, was stated, as theatre men figure uch depends on that house increas- g its morning admissions. With the oxy charging 25 cents, independents ong Broadway and West 42nd St. y they cannot compete if they charge 5 cents for “early birds.”

Moskowitz, after the meeting, told Iotion Picture Daily that 80 per ent of the houses in Greater New ork had gone for the plan and that was known by the committee be- re the plan went into effect last aturday that some of the Broadway d 42nd St. theatres would be diffi- lt to line up. However, he said e expected that this situation would e ironed out shortlv. He also as- erted that some neighborhood theatre anagers misunderstood the date for dopting the plan and that this had aused temporary confusion.

Brandt Says 95% Upped

Harry Brandt, president of the T.O.A., however, was more optim- tic over the number of theatres hich have conformed to the agree- ent. He said 95 per cent have done way with cheap morning admissions; at out of 585 theatres only 41 did ot adopt the plan; that 35 of these ouses had joined at the meeting; and at it was due to the ignorance of ertain managers that a number of eighborhood units did not change rices last Saturday morning.

Brandt added that in neighborhoods here one theatre did not boost the pening admission, four others forgot change. This, however, has been traightened out. He also stated that the Broadway and Times Square ouses joined there would be 98 per ent cooperation.

Referring to Motion Picture aily's story on Cullman's stand not hike the opening price at the Roxy, randt said that if Cullman actually new the good which will come from oosting the price, he would go for it.

Exhibitors Hopeful

Notwithstanding, the exhibitors feel hat the Broadway situation will work tself out. While it is hoped the Roxy vill not sit back and let other Broad- vay theatres jack up prices without ecoming a party to the move, theatre nen will not stop the progress made, t was said.

Meanwhile, all Brooklyn downtown irst and second runs have upped veekend admissions in addition to dis- arding “early birds.” The Fox has dvanced prices from 40 to 50 cents, he Paramount, Albee and Metropoli- an from 50 to 55 cents.

The general attitude of a number f independent and major circuit heads ontacted yesterday on the price situ- tion was that no matter what others lid their theatres would continue to perate with advanced admissions.

forming Rights Society of London, is scheduled to arrive here Oct. 19 for conferences with E. C. Mills, general manager of Ascap, on the Canadian situation and the future policy of the organizations there. The Canadian Performing Rights Society, the licensing organization for the Dominion, is controlled equally by Ascap and the English society of which Boosey is head. In the meantime, the Canadian society continues to represent Ascap, but is issuing licenses on a month-to-month basis only, pending the scheduled conferences here on future policy.

Ascap contends that the new Canadian regulations do not make it worthwhile to continue operations there and has threatened to withdraw from Canada except as a policy agency for its member copyright owners. If the threat is carried out, American distributors might be impelled to pay Ascap the Canadian theatres' seat tax to avoid considerable copyright litigation against their exhibitor accounts there.

Ascap Agreement Made

An initial agreement on stipulations of fact in connection with the Government's monopoly action against Ascap was completed yesterday by representatives of the Attorney General's office and Arthur Schwartz of Schwartz & Frohlich, counsel for Ascap. The agreement was reached in little more than a week of work by the attorneys here.

With the completion of the conferences, the Attorney General's office will prepare a first draft of the stipulations, which is expected to be ready in about 10 days. This must be checked by Ascap and other defendants with the possibility that several months will elapse before a final draft has been approved by all parties to the Federal action.

If no serious objections to the stipulations are raised by any of those concerned, the final draft will be presented to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard here toward the end of the year, and the case may then be decided by the court without a resumption of the trial which was discontinued and stricken from the court calendar about 18 months ago.

Tauber Film Listed

“April Blossoms,” starring Richard Tauber, is on M-G-M's fall release schedule. The picture was produced by British International in London and sold to the distributor when Arthur Dent was here last year.

senberg, secretary of the local, says “our forces are mobilized for the drive, and it may interest you to know that more than 6,000 of our members already have volunteered to devote themselves entirely to the drive.

“As a start, 20 theatres in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn,” the letter continues, “will be picketed by the members of Local 802 and the American Federation of Actors. Your theatre is one of those selected for picketing activities.

“However, since we are desirous of achieving our aims as speedily and peacefully as possible, we ask you to confer with us at the earliest possible moment.

“There is no secrecy about this matter. Our drive starts promptly on Friday morning, Sept. 11, and will be pushed with all the vigor at the command of the two unions.

“May we, therefore, hear from you as soon as possible?”

A mass meeting of the two organizations was held last night at the Manhattan Opera House at which 7,000 were reported to have attended.

Increase In Boston Scale Is Expected

creases, the others will follow quickly. For the most part theatres in New England did not cut their prices drastically during the depression years, as was done in many other sections of the country.

Approximately 10 Warner houses in Connecticut and Massachusetts will increase admissions shortly by five cents as an experiment. Most of them are houses which had cut prices during the past several years. New Haven houses are not included in the plan, although prices there will go up 10 cents for "Anthony Adverse," as they did by 15 cents in Torrington, New London, South Norwalk and Danbury, with business reported excellent.

"Adverse" Prices Up

Cleveland, Sept. 10.—Warners have raised admission prices at the Hippodrome on "Anthony Adverse." From the present 30 cents, 35 cents and 42 cents, the scale went up to 35 cents, 42 cents and 56 cents, including state tax.

Loew's State will adopt the same scale on "The Great Ziegfeld."

Increase for "Ziegfeld"

St. Louis, Sept. 10.—Loew's has increased the scale for the current showing of "The Great Ziegfeld" from 25, 35 and 55 cents to 35 and 65 cents.

Shift Des Moines Scales

Des Moines, Sept. 10.—With the opening of the Orpheum here late this week by Tri-States, which purchased the house from RKO, three other Tri-States houses in the city will shift their price schedules. The Des Moines and the Roosevelt, which charge 26 cents to 2 o'clock, 36 cents to six o'clock and 41 cents for evenings, will change to 26 cents to 2 o'clock on weekdays and to 1 o'clock on Sundays and holidays, and 41 cents until closing.

The Paramount, instituting a full week run, now charging 26 cents to six o'clock, with evenings at 26 cents for the balcony and 36 for the orchestra, will charge 26 cents to 2 o'clock, 36 cents to 6:30 and 41 cents to closing.

Tip Pittsburgh Scales

Pittsburgh, Sept. 10.—Both Warner's Stanley and Loew's Penn have raised their admission prices, the former for "Anthony Adverse" and the Penn for "Gorgeous Hussy."

Spartanburg Scales Up

Spartanburg, S. C., Sept. 10.—The Strand, second run, has upped its admission price from 15 to 20 cents after 6 P. M.

Weeks Starts New Drive

George Weeks, general sales manager for G.B., has started a new Big Push Drive with cash prizes for exchanges. Last year's drive was won by Ken Hodkinson of the San Francisco office.

Allied Seeks Ban on Houses Of Producers and proper economic condition can exist between exhibitor and distributor."

"The most prosperous periods for both sides in the industry," said Newbury, "were those days when the flat rental was the only method of purchasing film. Now we have a system where the distributor is guaranteed his rental regardless of gross business. The exhibitor does not even know at the time of purchase which films will be designated as percentage. Your investment and your experience entitle you to run your theatre with at least some secrecy. A live-and-let-live basis should be established which will enable the owner to operate his house and make necessary improvements to the ultimate benefit of the entire industry."

Myers Describes Bills

Myers, in his plea for the elimination of producer exhibiting, states that the bills under consideration are being patterned after "acts preventing the ownership and operation of saloons by breweries and the prevention of the transportation by railroad of commodities which they own or in which they have an interest."

In addition, Myers says, Allied will renew its efforts for the passage of the Neely-Pettengill Bill at the forthcoming session of Congress and will institute or participate in litigation "involving principles of law of importance to exhibitors generally."

In attempting justification of Allied's program of legislation and litigation, Myers calls attention to the seeming failure of the round-table conferences on trade practice reforms which the M.P.T.O.A. held with distributors several months ago.

Calls M.P.T.O.A. Plan Futile

"The policy of begging crumbs from the producers' table," Myers writes, "led these so-called leaders to present a very modest bill of rights to the producers . . . made up of palliatives none of which offered a lasting solution of any industry problem. But Congress having adjourned, and the immediate danger of adverse legislation being over, the producers treated this petition with the contempt that it deserved."

Today's meeting hailed the decision of the New York Supreme Court which exempted New Jersey theatres which buy film from New York distributors from the New York City sales tax. It was declared that each of the 150 members in the New Jersey organization should be able to get a refund up to $150 on taxes paid before the ruling became effective.

Election of officers will take place tomorrow and plans will be laid for a defense fund against what is termed producer control of theatres.

Wife" will start the Columbia lineup for the new season.

"Anthony Adverse" at the Strand tallied $51,900 for the second stanza and indications point to the picture being held for a fifth week. The picture is now in its third week. On Sept. 18, the Paramount, Brooklyn, will start an indefinite run.

The Paramount set a new record under its new band and picture policy when "The General Died at Dawn" ended the first week with approximately $62,000. Now in its second week, the picture will be held for a third.

siderable unplayed product on the current season list.

Duals will get started within four weeks, or sooner, he says.

The split between U. A. and B. & K. has been mended, with the circuit buying U. A. product this season. Last year U. A. sold away from B. & K. when the circuit refused to buy the entire lineup.

End Lombard Dispute

Hollywood, Sept. 10.—Carole Lombard's next at Paramount will be "Paris Adventure," with Cary Grant and Charles Ruggles in the cast. "Exclusive," which was to have been started shortly, has been sidetracked because of Miss Lombard's dissatisfaction with the leading role.

Krasna Set on Film

Hollywood, Sept. 10.—Norman Krasna is looking for a leading man to play opposite Carole Lombard in "You and Me," which he wrote and will direct for Paramount. Krasna's dissension with the studio over the unavailability of George Raft for the part apparently has been settled. Raft goes into "Souls at Sea" next.

Arline Judge will also have one of the principal roles in "You and Me."

Theatre Permit Refused

License Commissioner Paul Moss has denied an application for a permit to operate a film theatre at 1 E. 52nd St., in the 5th Ave. business area. The granting of the application was opposed by the Fifth Ave. Ass'n. The application was made by the Gramercy Realty Corp., and the property involved is said to be owned by the Phipps Estate, which recently was refused permission to build a film house at Madison Ave. and 62nd St.

Bombing Attempt Fails

An attempt to bomb the Flatbush, Church Ave., Brooklyn, failed because of a faulty fuse. A policeman fired several shots at a fleeing automobile from which the bomb was alleged to have been thrown. The damaged car was found later.

MacLean Buys Yarn

Hollywood, Sept. 10.—Douglas MacLean has purchased "Plumber's Pudding," a story by Gene Markey, for the fourth production on his program. No assignments have been made.

Impressed by U. S. Theatre Competition more effective if there were a more o less uniform scheme, as in London.

Greatly impressed by the Musi Hall, and by its stage shows, whic he declared outstripped anything eve dreamed of in England, Taylor foun New York theatres generally belo the standard he had expected. I the heart of New York, he declare were old-fashioned buildings of a typ not seen in the West End of Londo for many years.

The "competition" vogue in Ameri can theatres struck him as strange an the bawling of "souvenirs" and th like in the auditorium as eve stranger, but he was greatly impresse by the fact that at 2 A.M. Broadwa was as busy as Piccadilly, in Londo at 2 P.M. and also by the skill o American exhibitors in catering fo relays of workers from as early a 10 P.M.

Surprised by Smoking Ban

America's ban on smoking, or th limitation of the right to the balcony struck all the visitors as strange i view of the universal practice in al seats in England.

The American two-feature program filled Taylor with envy. Each of th attractions linked would, in most cases cost the British exhibitor 40 per cent with a second feature of inferior grad to be paid for.

Filled with gratitude for America hospitality, and greatly impressed b the executive line-up at the Quigley Radio City reception, Taylor said tha he found the Grand Canyon the nex most impressive thing in America.

Kansas, Mo., Business Up Despite Heat

Remodeling and Building Hold Fast Pace

Kansas City, Sept. 11.—Few exhibitors in Kansas and Missouri report business off, and many declare it is better than last year, despite one of the worst droughts in their history. While Kansas had a fairly good wheat crop, corn and similar crops were seriously hit by dry weather and grasshoppers.

Highly significant is the volume of remodeling, replacing of equipment and new construction which is continuing at the good pace it maintained all summer, far exceeding last year at the same time.

An estimate of work currently in progress, or that has just been completed, totals an imposing $220,000. This does not include the active remodeling and building program completed this year. The figure reveals a much healthier condition at the boxoffices of the area's theatres than was thought possible, and a strong confidence in the future.

A brief summary of new capital investment by exhibitors shows a fairly wide distribution over the territory.

The new theatres include: one at Anthony, Kan., by Charles and Meta

N. J. Allied to Raise Defense Fund Quota

Atlantic City, Sept. 11.—Allied of New Jersey will raise between $5,000 and $6,000 as its share of the national defense fund currently set at $100,000 which is to be used in the fight against control of theatres by producers and distributors. This action, supporting the decision of last June reached in Cleveland by national Allied, was voted unanimously here today at the 17th annual convention of the New Jersey group held at the Hotel Traymore.

The New Jersey quota is to be raised by a special committee which will be named by Lee W. Newbury of Belmar, president of the organization. The fund will be used both for litigation and in efforts to obtain enactment of legislation seeking the separation of theatres from producer and distributor ownership. This,

"Dormitory" Hits $53,000 2nd Week

"Girls' Dormitory" wound up its second week's run at the Roxy in a blaze of glory, tallying $53,000 for the stanza. This is $2,000 less than the opening week. Under ordinary circumstances the picture would be held for a third week, but Howard S. Cullman had to make way for "Sing, Baby, Sing," which had been previously dated.

Adolphe Menjou, who appears in "Sing, Baby, Sing," made a personal appearance from the Roxy stage yesterday, being introduced at the first show by Leo Carrillo, who is heading the stage show. Yesterday's figure on the opening day of the new attrac-

Consolidated Finance Plan Up for a Vote

Stockholders to Act on Proposal Oct. 9

A plan of recapitalization for Consolidated Film Industries which provides for the elimination of accumulated dividends on the present preferred stock by a part cash payment, and reduces the fixed annual cumulative dividend on the preferred stock now outstanding from $2 to $1 will be voted upon at a special meeting of the company's stockholders Oct. 9.

The plan, as set forth in a letter to stockholders yesterday by H. J. Yates, president, provides that holders of the present 400,000 shares of preferred stock will receive in exchange for their shares, together with unpaid accumulations in excess of a $1 cash dividend to be declared with the stockholders' approval of the plan, one and one-quarter shares of the new preference stock and one-quarter share of new common stock. Holders of the present common stock will receive two-thirds of a share of new common for each old share held.

The new preference stock carries a fixed cumulative dividend of $1 per share per annum, and as a class takes one-half of all dividends declared by the corporation in excess of such $1, the common as a class

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Craig's Wife"

(Columbia)

Hollywood, Sept. 11.—A radical departure from the regular run film merchandise is made here. In the adaptation Mary McCall, Jr., has adhered rigidly to the biting dramatic theme of George Kelly's Pulitzer prize play; Dorothy Arzner has directed so none of the effectiveness is lost. It is played to accentuate that quality.

No varnishing has been attempted, no softening concessions made. "Craig's Wife" is penetrating character drama. Realistic, sometimes almost grim, it is a vivid story of the working of a selfish, self-centered woman's warped mind.

Loving only her home, seeking always to bend others to her will, she causes unhappiness to relatives and neighbors and finally drives her husband from her side. Basically human, with humorous situations serving as a contrast to the motivating sting, the story is one of a proud, unrelenting ambition that provokes heartache and tragedy.

In the title role Rosalind Russell gives a fine performance. It can be anticipated that her work will be acclaimed as among the leading dramatic portrayals of the season.

The cast is glove-fitting. John Boles as the huband, Billie Burke as the neighbor, Jane Darwell and Nydia Westman as servants, Dorothy Wilson as the niece and Alma Kruger as the aunt are particularly effective. It is a woman's picture.

The film places in the hands of exhibitors many things outside of the usual formula. It has personnel angles with which to bid for general adult support. If possible, the film should be seen before being presented to get ideas for stimulating business.

Production Code Seal No. 2,403. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"In His Steps"

(Zeidman-Grand National)

Hollywood, Sept. 11.—B. F. Zeidman's faithful reproduction of this story should send Grand National off to a good start. Containing elements which should appeal to class and mass patronage, and particularly adaptable to family audiences, the film should need only an aggressive exploitation campaign, emphasizing its entertainment to make it popular.

The adaptation by Karl Brown and Hinton Smith modernizes the original story and provides it with drama and heart appeal. The film teaches a moral lesson, although it is entertainment at all times.

Directed by Karl Brown so that the dramatic mood of human and spiritual conflict is dominant, that quality is intensified by the realistic performances of the entire cast and the quality of Harry Jackson's photography.

Eric Linden and Cecelia Parker, children of antagonistic families, elope. The match is encouraged by Harry Beresford, who has devoted his life to teaching the precept that people should follow in the steps of Jesus. Because Linden forced the girl into an auto, her parents, Charles Richman and Olive Tell, demand that the boy be prosecuted as a kidnapper. Sheltered in the farm home of minister Roger Imhof and Clara Blandick, as a search is pressed, the youngsters learn what it means to wrest a livelihood from the soil. Learning that Beresford is being persecuted for refusing to reveal their hiding place, they return home. In an unorthodox court trial Henry Kolker confesses he has given Linden everything he needs but spiritual advice, Richman forgives them and they return to the farm.

There are numerous instances of lightness contrasting with the dramatic theme of the story.

Production Code Seal No. 2,560. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

Wafilms Sues UFA; Charge Pact Breach

A suit for $15,000 alleging breach of contract was filed yesterday in N. Y. Supreme court by Wafilms, Inc., against UFA Films, Inc. The complaint charges that the plaintiff and defendant entered into an agreement to adapt the silent version of the picture "Heavenly Bodies" into a talking film and that they were to share the profits equally.

The complaint further charges that the plaintiff had already spent $1,340 when UFA broke the agreement. The charges have been denied and UFA has filed a request for a bill of particulars.

Fox Theatres Appeal Granted

Federal Judge Martin T. Manton yesterday granted permission to Milton Weisman, as receiver for Fox Theatres Corp., to appeal from Judge Manton's own ruling of last June 11 which modifies Referee Cortlandt Palmer's allowance of a claim of the Union Guardian Trust Co. of Detroit of an additional amount of $1,421,178 for rent from April, 1927, until October, 1931, on the Fox Theatres in Detroit.

Gem Sues on Loans

A suit was filed yesterday in N. Y. Supreme court by Gem Pictures Prod., Inc., against George S. Gullette for $3,935 allegedly due the plaintiff on loans. The complaint charges that Gem loaned $8,735 to the defendant between April, 1933, and June, 1934. A general denial has been entered to the complaint.

Hold Bombing Suspect

Police are holding Amedeo Pepe of Brooklyn as a suspect in the attempted bombing of the Flatbush, Church Ave., early Thursday morning. He appeared to report the stealing of his car, and it proved, the police say, to be the car at which six shots were fired by a patrolman after the bomb was thrown.

Looking 'Em Over

"Sea Spoilers"

(Universal)

An action yarn of the Coast Guard unit stationed off Seattle, with the Alaskan seal poachers as its special focus of attention, this picture offers good, lively weekend material, with a slight romance and enough of the right sort of action to make it excellent material for the youngsters and the oldsters who like their films exciting.

John Wayne is the hero of the piece, for the moment out of his western element, but completely acceptable here. Nan Gray handles the romance, and William Bakewell and Fuzzy Knight are in chief support. Frank Strayer, in his direction, has kept the pace rapid, and avoided any lagging in the story.

Wayne is in command of a ship, Knight is his buddy, and Miss Gray is his fiancee. Expecting his promotion, he is supplanted by the commander's son, Bakewell. When seal poachers kill a yacht owner, and kidnap Miss Gray, who was aboard the yacht, Wayne goes off independently with Knight to find her and the poachers' base. There is plenty of fast action and excitement when they find the spot and are imprisoned with Bakewell, in the flying unit, and forced down. A punchy climax is the fight of the landing party of Coast Guardsmen with the poachers.

Production Code Seal No. 2,474. Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

"Sworn Enemy," now current at the Rialto, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on July 2.

"Walking on Air," which opened yesterday at the Palace, was reviewed on Aug. 13.

complete collectivization and centralization of management as is the case here, where the 117 houses have entered their third week of socialized operation.

All houses enjoyed capacity business last Sunday, even first runs, which previously had been weak in attendance. The servicing of films by distributors continues without incident. An attempt is to be made shortly to call for at least a partial settlement of outstanding debts of exhibitors under unfulfilled contracts, and failing that, to exact more definite commitment relative to the eventual liquidation of sums due.

Grand opera has opened at the Tivoli, with "Aida" creditably presented considering the hasty preparations. The huge theatre was jammed with a typically proletarian audience. There were indications that the opera "for the people" would prove a threat to film houses, but they continued to serve large crowds when other operas were rendered.

Telegrams received by distributors here from Valencia reported a movement late last week by the Federacion d Espectaculos Publicos to take over distributor interests. Four of the executives of distributors here, accompanied by the MOTION PICTURE DAILY representative, requested Lynn W. Franklin, American Consul, to instruct the consul at Valencia to protect the film stocks on deposit in the branch offices there.

A memorandum was filed by William B. Morgan, United Artists; Ferdinand Bruckner, M-G-M; Enrique Aguilar, Universal, and Rene J. Huet, Warners, confirming the request and pointing out that the interests of the other four companies, Paramount, Radio, Columbia and Twentieth Century-Fox, were likewise affected.

Action Promised

Daniel M. Braddock, of the consulate here, assigned to handle the situation, assured the delegation he would get in touch with Valencia immediately. It was ascertained from Thomas D. Davis, American consul in Valencia, and from the branch managers there, that beyond the threatened "intervention," no interference with branch operations and no undue demands upon film stocks had been recorded. Further information indicated that no steps would be taken by the controlling factors in Valencia differing from those already prosecuted here.

only in the case of minor houses and theatres in outlying country districts.

Percentages range on the average from 20 to 50 per cent. A specific average is approximately 30 per cent. In France, Germany and Italy there is no differentiation between domestic and foreign product as far as rental figures are concerned. In Esthonia, Luxemburg and Yugoslavia there is virtually no domestic production, the theatres in general showing about half European films and half American product.

Switzerland has a minimum rental, stipulated by the renters' association, of 100 francs, no matter what the size of the house may be. In many cases percentage figures are computed on the basis of the theatre's total income before the deduction of the entertainment tax, which in many cases is quite severe. In Germany, Poland and Norway, however, the percentage are computed after the deduction of the tax.

Domestic Films Protected

In Finland on domestic product as high as 50 to 60 per cent goes to the distributor, owing to the Federal law which exempts domestic product from any form of taxation.

In France films are rented almost entirely on the basis of quality of product, which makes for a wide range of rental figures, dictated to a large extent by supply and demand. The range is from 25 to 50 per cent, with the average approximately 40 per cent.

In the small country of Luxemburg films are rented exclusively on a flat rental basis. German product, being the most popular, brings as high as 12,000 francs per house, with other films drawing only half as much.

National Theatres, bookers and sales heads of the various major distributing companies slated to attend.

Skouras is enthused over the results of the meetings held in the last three weeks and feels that the utmost cooperation will be given by his operating heads on outstanding product scheduled for delivery next season.

Operations and admissions were not discussed at the recent open meetings, the divisional operators having conconferred privately with their district managers and bookers on increases of admissions and extended playing time.

Having closed with George J. Schaefer for the playing of 27 U. A. pictures in approximately 400 theatres during the 1936-37 season, National Theatres' attorneys next week will sit down with counsel for the distributor to draft a one-year pact. The deal provides for bookings in the same houses as this year. Although Samuel Goldwyn's product was not included in the current season's line-up at the circuit's coast houses, the producer's output is embraced in the new deal.

Union, Hoyts Deal Renewal Is Expected

Belief Refutes Earlier Report of Break

By CLIFF HOLT

MELBOURNE, Aug. 11 (By Airmail Via London).—Suggestions of an early break between Hoyts and Greater Union and the collapse of General Theatres Corp.—persistently voiced recently—now appear to be without foundation. On the contrary, general opinion inclines to the belief that the five-year "working agreement" between the two companies, due to expire next year, will be renewed.

Explaining the delay in transit of this dispatch was the stamped note on the envelope: "Damaged by Sea Water."

It is said that one of Stuart F. Doyle's missions to London, the acquisition of sufficient capital to lift Greater Union from banker control, was successful. However, it remains to be seen whether this will affect the position. Doyle is due here from London via New York in October, and it

Television Pictures Seen In Fast British Airplane

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 5.—History was made this week when, in a passenger air liner, traveling over London at 180 miles an hour, a television program was witnessed by the passengers with as much clearness as if they had been on the ground.

The demonstration was arranged by Baird Television, which took up a press party in a 14-seater Douglas-Fokker plane.

Curtains were drawn in the cabin after a height of a few thousand feet had been reached and, by means of a standard Baird receiver, obtaining its signals through the plane's wireless aerial, the travelers saw scenes from Charles Laughton's "Rembrandt" just made for London Film Prod., an extract from a Gaumont British newsreel of the maiden voyage of the Queen Mary and other news pictures of the Spanish fighting.

Sound as well as vision was up to the best standard yet reached by Television.

London opinion is that the experiment has definitely proved the practicability of providing entertainment for air travelers by means of television.

Aviation experts see a further use for the television receiver as a stand-

Favors Film Stages As Training Places

The opening of the industry's thousands of theatres to legitimate drama in order to replace the former trying-out grounds in the development of stage talent is urged in an editorial to be published tomorrow in Equity Magazine, organ of Actors' Equity Ass'n.

Pointing out that concurrently with the increased demand for legitimate actors and playwrights, marked since the inception of talking pictures, there has been a decline in the sources which trained and supplied such talent. The editorial asks "where is the motion picture actor of tomorrow coming

Central Film Service Plan To Be Widened

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—That the centralized film exchange being established here by Horlacher's Delivery Service may be duplicated nationally by other film carrier concerns was made known over the weekend by James P. Clark, president.

Clark said that at the next meeting of the National Film Carriers, to be held in Chicago in the near future, the establishment of the system throughout the country by other carriers would be discussed. He added that Horlacher would also establish the community exchange service in Washington and possibly other eastern centers in which it operates, as well.

The Philadelphia unit will be known as Clark Film Distributors, Inc., and

"Dimples" 3rd from 20th-Fox for Roxy

Shirley Temple in "Dimples" is the third Twentieth Century-Fox on the distributor's new season lineup to be booked by the Roxy. The date will be set following "Sing, Baby, Sing," now current at the house.

"Nine Days a Queen" is slated to follow "Sing, Baby, Sing," which is definitely set for two weeks, but may be extended to a 21-day run. With $7,000 garnered the opening day, the present Roxy tenant was expected to tally $33,000 for the first three days and possibly more than $55,000 on the week.

Due to the Jewish holidays, RKO theatres in Greater New York will change shows Thursday this week instead of Friday.

Para. Profit Is Predicted For 3 Months

Theatre Pickup and Cut in Costs the Reason

Paramount Pictures, Inc., will show a profit for the quarter ending Sept. 30, according to a ranking executive of the company who, however, declined to estimate the amount of earnings indicated by current operations. It was stated, however, that the expected net would be realized without applying anything from the special inventory reserve of $2,500,000 set up out of 1935 earnings.

There now remains $900,000 of this reserve fund, $1,600,000 having been applied to operating earnings during the first and second quarters of the current year. Earnings for the first quarter amounted to $718,921 after applying $800,000 from the inventory reserve. A loss of $476,000 was reported for the second quarter after applying $800,000 from the reserve fund.

In both 1936 quarters Paramount's theatre operations showed a substantial profit and during the current quarter earnings from this source are running eight to 10 per cent ahead of the first half of the year with good prospects of an even larger increase during the current month. Distribution, likewise profitable in the first two quarters, is estimated to be a 12

Leonidoff Planes East

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

WITH all of its foibles, the job at large of producing in Hollywood cannot be described as anything but an orderly and planned procedure. Certainly, that must be the truth. The problems in casting, lighting, construction and other innumerable factors, not to overlook by any means the task of building entertainment value whether in comedy or drama, can be and are being met. Once away from sound stages and technicians and particularly in territory where civilization trails at best, making pictures throws a director on his own resources; makes him dependent upon the elements and chance for results. When, therefore, those results are achieved, an occasional encomium or two properly belongs. . . .

"Tundra," produced, directed and shot by Norman Dawn, is quite definitely in this coveted category. There is no secret about it or how it came about. Originally financed by Carl Laemmle, the Dawn expedition, made up principally of ideas and ingenuity, spent seven months somewhere north of Nome, Alaska, patiently waiting on nature and the breaks for material to build up a saga of life in the open. When Laemmle's company changed hands, Dawn lost out and had to return to Hollywood, his job not quite finished. Eventually and in the usual way, the negative was purchased by Burroughs - Tarzan, connecting shots—only a few—made in Hollywood and the film rounded out in its present form. While Dawn may not have gone as far as his first-laid plan allowed, he caught enough in the camera box to stamp his film as not merely unusual in the field of outdoor animal pictures, but a thriller and one of the best naturals in circus-like exploitation attractions we have seen in quite a spell. Whatever it was that persuaded Universal to let it go, became Burroughs-Tarzan's gain. . . .

Only a slight yarn has been built into the amazing nature stuff filmed by Dawn. That yarn actually is an excuse to keep "Tundra" out of the one hundred per cent animal film classification. It tells of a young doctor taking off for a northerly settlement with serum designed to lick an influenza epidemic. He crashes, the plane explodes and the impact lets loose an avalanche which he, of course, escapes. Thereafter on the tundra and alone, he begins his fight for salvation. What takes place narrates his experiences in learning the first law of nature. You know, the one about self-preservation. Del Crambe is the Ulysses of the piece. His occasional conversation, directed at two remarkable bear cubs, and his diary entries serve to nurture the slight narrative thread, although the screen itself conveys the drama far better than any words. . . .

The climax arrives when Crambe reaches the outpost which was his original objective to find the inhabitants dead, and wild dogs, hungered by lack of food, attacking him. A trapper friend on the wanderer's trail finds him at this point, the cubs return to their mother who has been stalking the trail, and the thrilling film reaches its conclusion. Like "Sequoia" in general outline and yet widely removed from its idyllic phases, "Tundra" is essentially raw meat, intercharged with comedy furnished by the camera-unconscious animal cast and, all factors borne well up front, a remarkable effort. Genuine showmen ought to go far with it. . . .

Allied rallied around its old and well-known—the typewriter almost slipped and pounded "well-worn"—war whoops in Atlantic City last week. These included the reiterated determination to seek, by legislative means, the divorce of production from exhibition which, it strikes us, will be one sweet and long campaign. Abram F. Myers, outlining the procedure about which nothing new lingers, explained the bills are patterned, or will be, after

Plans are being formulated in Australia for the establishment of a Board of Catholic Film Inspectors, as a result of the recent encyclical of the Pope urging the creation of film review boards in all parts of the world.

The proposal will be considered at the conference of all Australian dioceses, to be held in Adelaide in December. One suggestion is that members of the groups subscribing to the review principle will promise not to patronize a picture which has been disapproved by the inspectors.

ard part of airplane equipment. It will be possible, they declare, to televise a picture of a landing ground invisible from the plane itself because of fog. If the ground itself is fog bound, a previously made film can still be used to give the pilot his general bearings.

Another London trade comment was that, for the purpose of entertaining passengers by railroad as well as by air perfected Television would probably be found to have distinct advantages over films; there would be less space demanded for equipment, and the danger of fire would be eliminated.

Favors Film Stages As Training Places

from?" and urges the stages of film theatres as national schools for actors and dramatists.

The editorial says in part:

"An examination of pictures produced today will show that a very large proportion of the acting bone and sinew has been drawn from the legitimate theatre. For 15 years or more, and especially since the advent of talking pictures, the men and women who have gained experience in the legitimate theatre have been more and more in demand.

"But of late years this legitimate field, where these actors gain needed experience, has been gradually narrowed. Nearly all the great trying-out grounds have disappeared—the road, stock, tents, reps and chatauqua. This poses the question—where is the motion picture actor of tomorrow coming from?

"The motion picture industry controls thousands of theatres which may house legitimate drama, either exclusively or one or more days a week. Opening these houses to legitimate drama will open up a nation-wide school for actors and a new incentive to would-be dramatists."

The editorial also points out that scores of stage-trained dramatists are in Hollywood, and asks pointedly whether Hollywood gives the training a dramatist gets when his play is produced in the legitimate.

has leased over 10,000 square feet of floor space in the Warner Bldg., sufficient to handle all of the physical distribution in the Philadelphia territory, its sponsors assert. It will handle complete physical distribution for any distributor or producer in the territory.

Clark asserted that the project would not increase unemployment, as arrangements would be made to take over film inspectors and shippers from exchanges which closed down after subscribing for the service. He said that this was possible because the film bureau would be operated on a basis of 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Clark stressed numerous economies which he said, were possible in branch operation through the use of the community film exchange.

A number of independent distributors and producers have already signed for the centralized service, Clark said. Grand National Pictures is one of these.

Distributors Cool

Spokesmen for major distributors, queried over the weekend, expressed the opinion that their companies would continue to maintain their individual exchanges throughout the country even though a community bureau for the handling of physical distribution was made available on a national scale.

These spokesmen pointed out that the idea of a merger of physical distribution had been thoroughly studied and discussed by major companies in 1932 and 1933, when all were desirous of effecting operating economies wherever possible during the depression. The idea was abandoned, it was said, because of irreconcilable individual attitudes among major company heads. The physical distribution merger was the brainchild of R. E. Cowie, then president of the American Railway Express.

Five Films Held Over

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13.—For the first time in several years only one opening was staged in the downtown area last week. Of the six first run houses, five held over their pictures. The Warner, a dual bill house, was the only house to change. The holdovers are "The Gorgeous Hussy" at the Penn, "Ramona" at the Alvin, "Anthony Adverse" at the Stanley, "Romeo and Juliet" at the Nixon and "My Man Godfrey" at the Fulton.

Warners Raise Scales

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13.—Warners are raising admission prices throughout the tri-state territory on the big pictures of the new season. Among the films to play to tilted scales are "Anthony Adverse," "Swing Time," "The Great Ziegfeld" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Ramona"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Sept. 13.—Done in soft-hued Technicolor, this is a sympathetic, emotion-stirring, romance-drama. Finely mounted by Sol Wurtzel, the producer, the film is set in the original's outdoor setting. The natural scenic grandeur of rolling meadow and mountain country lends itself to the motivating theme with telling effect.

Wisely refraining from deviation from the spirit of the Helen Hunt Jackson classic, the Lamar Trotti screenplay is an expert demonstration of understanding of the entertainment and commercial values demanded by modern audiences and exhibitors. Similarly Henry King's directorial technique dividing the story into two impressive chapters is a showmanship gesture which is sure to be understood and appreciated. The color, as applied by Natalie Kalmus and William Skall, the photographer, is an integral part of the basic elements. The music score by Alfred Newman and songs by William Kernell aid greatly in establishing the film's mood.

The first sequences are pastoral romance in gay, lively fiesta atmosphere. The anticipated happy betrothal of Loretta Young, as Ramona, and Kent Taylor, as Felipa, is menaced by the opposition of his mother, Pauline Frederick, the possessor of some forbidden secret, who turns dramatic when she denounces Miss Young as an Indian and forbids the union. Miss Young is driven into the arms of Don Ameche, a cultured Indian, to whom she is attached because of his friendship with Taylor. They flee the hacienda to be married by Pedro De Cordoba, a priest. The sustaining action of this episode provides delightful humor.

Moving to the second chapter, Miss Young and Ameche are blissfully happy and with their baby live close to earth and God. The appealing quality of this picturization of domestic tranquility turns starkly dramatic when invading whites rout the Ameches and other Indian families from the fertile fields and orchards. Homeless wanderers, Ameche's brood is befriended by Jane Darwell, a squatter, whose first fear dissolves to sympathetic, motherly kindness, as the baby falls ill. Ameche, a victim of white rapacity, is unable to get a doctor and steals a horse to rush medicine for the dying infant. He is trailed and murdered by John Carridine, completing Ramona's tragedy. She, comforted by Miss Darwell and solaced by the baby's recovery, visions future peace and happiness as Taylor finds her.

Miss Young, Ameche, Taylor, Miss Frederick, Miss Darwell, Katherine De Mille and Claire Dubrey give convincing and believable performances always in keeping with the story's spirit. Generally serious toned because of its fundamental structure, the film is not without its full quota of comedy, thrills and action to insure a pleasing balance. Valuable merchandise, the picture is placed in the exhibitor's hands with the combined worths of a recognized title, a moving story, accomplished acting and an intelligent production with which to seek support. Possessed of all the required exploitation elements it should induce showmanship comparable to its worth as an attraction.

"Under Cover Man"

(Supreme Pictures—Republic)

Hollywood, Sept. 13.—This well-produced western stacks up as an acceptable attraction for average audiences. Its particular appeal is to thrill action fans. Plenty of that quality legitimately and intelligently included, counterbalanced by a quota of romantic love interest and comedy, gives the picture a refreshing character.

Speedily paced, action, backed up by smartly prepared dialogue, tells the story plot logically and believably. Localed in western country, beauty of natural scenic settings which constitute the picture's background is considerably enhanced by Jack Greenhalgh's photography.

First foiling a stage coach hold-up, Johnny Mack Brown rescues fellow passenger, Suzanne Kaaren, and way is prepared for romantic contrast to dramatic content. Arriving at her home town and going about the investigation of a series of robberies, his presence is resented by Sheriff Horace Murphy and his henchman. Murphy, suspicious of Brown and jealous of the favor he enjoys with Miss Kaaren and her father, Lloyd Ingraham, proceeds to make things uncomfortable for the new arrival. Planning to eliminate Brown so that he can proceed with the looting of the express office, Murphy lures the under cover man to a hideout, using a faked note from Miss Kaaren as a pretext. Leaving him supposedly dead, they start for the express office only to discover to 15 per cent better in the third quarter. Excessive studio costs have been pared appreciably during the summer under the direction of Adolph Zukor, and marked savings at the studio and in all other branches of the company's operations are being shown as a result of the departmental reorganization of Paramount launched early in the current quarter by Barney Balaban, president.

The improvement in the company's operations is regarded in the trade as the more remarkable in view of the fact that it is being realized in the face of a change of administration at the outset of the quarter, a circumstance usually of a disturbing nature to film companies, and one that is frequently reflected adversely in earnings for the period immediately following. Predictions within the trade last June were that Paramount probably would not show a profit before the year's end.

The company's improving financial position is reflected in the present popularity and strength of its securities. The first preferred has advanced during the past three months from a low of 59 to its present 87, close to the year's high. The second preferred and common issues, likewise, have made significant advances in recent heavy trading.

RKO to Add 7,000 Seats in New York

Friday closed with Warko Trading Co., which will build the $1,000,000 house. A number of stores will be located on the plot on which Woolworth and Whelan already have contracted for space.

The second, a 3,000-seat theatre, will be built at 96th St. and Broadway. The nearest RKO house in this neighborhood is the 81st St. About 20 years ago, Keith's bought the site with the intention of building in the immediate future. However, nothing was done about the matter until a few weeks ago when RKO executives decided to make use of the property.

Not one new theatre has been built in the vicinity for 15 years. Keith's paid $700,000 for the land and RKO expects to spend $600,000 for the building.

Warners Buy "Secretary"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13. — Warners have purchased an original story called "His Wife's Secretary" by Robinson White and Ben Graumon Kohn. Margaret Lindsay, Anita Louise and George Brent are tentatively assigned to portray the triangle.

Gladys George Gets Role

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13. — Gladys George has the leading role opposite Edward Arnold in the B. P. Schulberg production, "A Man and a Woman." Shooting will start on Sept. 21 under the direction of Richard Wallace.

Must See Film

Spokane, Sept. 13. — Seven men will see "And Sudden Death" when it opens at the Spokane Orpheum and thereby will avoid spending 15 days in jail. The men, convicted drunken drivers, will be guests of Justice Frank Yuse, publicity - conscious police judge noted for his freak sentences. The drivers were sentenced at different times within the past two weeks to 30 days, $50 fines and revocation of drivers' licenses for one year. The jail sentences will be halved if they see the film.

"Sing, Baby" Gets $14,500, Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13.—Clear, cool weather held first run grosses approximately 40 per cent over the average take. This was the seventh consecutive week that business has gone over par.

"Sing, Baby, Sing" at Warners' Hippodrome, was the top of the week at $14,500 as against an $8,000 weekly average.

"Jailbreak" at the Allen took second place. It grossed $6,750. This was $2,750 better than the $4,000 average.

"Piccadilly Jim," playing a second week downtown at Loew's Stillman where it moved after a big week at Loew's State, beat the $6,000 par with a $10,000 take.

"The Last of the Mohicans" opened big at Loew's State and finished with $1,000 over the $12,000 house average.

that Brown with the assistance of Miss Kaaren has outwitted them. Ensues a wildly exciting fight sequence, remarkably well done, in which the whole town is involved. Brown, victorious in his personal encounter with Murphy, reveals that he is a Wells Fargo man. The gang rounded up, the stage is set for the romantic climax.

The entire cast is effective. Playing the show with spirited enthusiasm, they deliver merchandise that should meet with the approval of thrill action fans. Based on an original by Andrew Bennison, Albert Ray's direction is consistent and the quality of production given the film by producer A. W. Hackel is of similar grade.

"As You Like It"

(Interallied-Twentieth Century-Fox)

[Flash review by cable appeared in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Sept. 3.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—To appraise the entertainment value of this Elisabeth Bergner production, with that star in the part on which her stage reputation was so largely founded, is no easy matter. It is not made easier by the fact that, in the opinion of this reviewer, Bergner stands, since "Escape Me Never," in the front rank of the relatively few players who are great artistes as well as box-office.

In some parts of America, as in all of England, there is a public for Bergner no matter what her part. In "As You Like It," she applies this test of loyalty to her following; they are asked to accept her in a Shakespearian part and they are asked to take their Shakespeare practically undiluted. There has been no attempt, as in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" to add a super-spectacle to the original. "As You Like It," treated according to a suggestion of Sir James M. Barrie, says the program, is the play straight. The forest of Arden is better treated on the screen than on the boards, but that is about all the difference.

This means that the effect of the film depends on the acting and, in this matter-of-fact world, on the extent to which Shakespeare wrote screen material.

As to acting, no need telling that Bergner's Rosalind is Shakespeare's Rosalind made delightful flesh and blood. Whimsical, graceful, captivating—choose the adjectives and they fit. Supporting her is the charming Celia of Sophie Stewart, an exiled duke from Henry Ainley marked by exceptionally fine elocution, a Jacques by Leon Quartermaine providing one of the finest deliveries you'll ever hear of the "All the World's a Stage" speech; such other established names as Laurence Olivier as Orlando, Mackenzie Ward, Joan White, Dorice Fordred, J. Fisher White, Austin Trevor, Felix Aylmer and Stuart Robertson.

As to the suitability of "As You Like It" for the general public, it's a matter of opinion and of intelligent experiment. Certain, it appears, is that this production, well directed by Paul Czinner, well mounted, well staged, marked by a respect amounting to deference to its original, is a sure thing for special exhibition on Broadway, in Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Philadelphia. After that . . .?

Running time, 95 minutes. "G." ALLAN.

Roach Musical Titled

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Edward Sedgwick, who will direct the next Jack Haley feature for Hal Roach, has selected "Pick a Star" as the tentative title. The film will be a musical with production scheduled to start late this month.

Sees G B Deal In Effect By Jan. 2, 1937

J. M: Schenck Is Back Citing 'Advantages'

By BILL ORNSTEIN

Declaring the deal "is advantageous to all three companies," Joseph M. Schenck, upon his return yesterday from England on the Normandie, stated the M-G-M-Twentieth Century-Fox-G. B. distribution setup in England will be ready to start functioning Jan. 2, and that G. B. pictures will be handled in this country by M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox with the start of the new selling season next spring.

Dressed in a grey tweed with a slip-over sweater almost a match, Schenck appeared wan from his recent illness. He said he felt much better as he sat in his suite, answering questions put to him by a MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporter. He was in good spirits and kidded with Lew Wertheimer, his personal friend, who bobbed in and out of the room during the interview. Except for a momentary interruption when a cable arrived from Harry Richman and Richard Merrill announcing their takeoff from London to New York on their non-stop plane

Irving Thalberg Passes At 37; Industry Stunned

Irving Thalberg

THE sudden death of the brilliant Irving Thalberg is a tragedy of moment in the affairs of the motion picture. Coming abruptly, following the first public showings of "Romeo and Juliet," the motion picture he considered his best, the passing of Irving Thalberg has about it that kind of dramatic essence out of which he spun entertainments which have carried his own and his company's prestige to the four corners of the world.

Irving Thalberg was considered by many of the keenest and best-informed experts to be the foremost producer of motion pictures. In Hollywood he was a figure of commanding influence and importance. Although his name never appeared on a title frame, his reputation penetrated throughout the world of motion pictures and into the hearts of millions of the public the world over.

Despite the coming of fame and fortune he retained in a remarkable degree an appealing simplicity. He had that kind of self-confidence and mental serenity which enabled him to deal always in a considerate and sympathetic manner with his fellows, even in the midst of the nerve-racking business of production. He has left an enduring impress not only upon motion pictures but upon the many thousands of persons in the production colony with whom he dealt during his years of spectacular progress from a secretary's desk in New York City to the figurative throne-room of Hollywood.

To his family and to his business associates goes the heartfelt condolence of the world industry of the motion picture.

Metro, Trade Mourn Death In New York

M-G-M and Loew's home office personnel, from top executives to elevator and office boys, were stunned by word of the sudden death of Irving Thalberg in Hollywood yesterday. Many had been unaware that the producer's life was in danger and some had not known even of his illness.

The same was true throughout other home offices and along Broadway, where the news spread rapidly, leaving shock and sorrow in its wake. So few were informed in advance of the seriousness of Thalberg's condition that, first, unbelief, then stunned silence met bearers of the news. From 2:30 in the afternoon, MOTION PICTURE DAILY's telephones were swamped with calls seeking confirmations of the reports along Broadway.

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's and M-G-M, left for Hollywood last night in a specially-chartered TWA 'plane. It was his first air journey. Unavailable for comment, one close to him reported he was "too completely knocked out" by Thalberg's passing. Last night and immediately prior to his departure, however, this statement was issued by Schenck:

"Thalberg was the most important man in the production end of the motion picture industry. He was important personally even more than officially. We all loved him. It is diffi-

Lobular Pneumonia the Cause—Illness Short And End Sudden

By GUS McCARTHY

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept. 14.—Irving Grant Thalberg, only 37, and at the height of a brilliant career in the world of the screen which carried him to the production helm of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, died here this morning at 10:16 of lobular pneumonia.

The swiftness with which death came, the fact that very few were aware of the seriousness of his illness, left the industry here, from top to bottom, completely stunned.

Thalberg's illness was brief, and the end came at his home at 707 Ocean Front Ave., here. The illness developed from a slight head cold he had contracted during a Labor Day weekend vacation at Del Monte. He was compelled to take to his bed, and the condition rapidly developed into pneumonia. Yesterday his temperature rose rapidly, his condition became grave, and the young executive sank into a coma five hours before his death.

In attendance were Dr. Philip Newmark and Dr. F. Groedel, as consultant, who flew from New York when Thalberg's condition became serious.

At the bedside when the end came were Norma Shearer, his widow; William and Henrietta

Death of Thalberg Is Shock in London

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Alexander Korda of London Films and Michael Balcon of G. B. reflected tremendous shock and temporarily were unable to comment on the death in Hollywood today of Irving Thalberg. This correspondent first informed them of the news over the telephone tonight.

"Surely, it can't be true. I did not know he was ill. I am frightfully shocked and grieved. He was the greatest man in the film business. It is an enormous loss to the whole world of films," said Korda finally.

Balcon declared: "I cannot believe it. It is the most terrible thing I have ever heard. He was the greatest figure in production. Such men

"Sing Baby" Cracks Record at the Roxy

"Sing, Baby, Sing" at the Roxy for the first three days set a new record business for the theatre under the trusteeship of Howard S. Cullman. The total take for the three days amounted to $36,720, of which $7,900 was taken in Friday; $15,350, Saturday; $13,400, Sunday. This tops the tally for the similar period on "Girls' Dormitory."

Howard S. Cullman estimated that 75,397 persons attended the showings, that 4,000 were in line when the theatre opened its doors Sunday, and that "there has been nothing like it in years."

"Swing Time" at the Music Hall also played to capacity business since it entered the third week last Thursday. Indications are that the week will end with approximately $90,000. The take for the first two weeks amounted to $248,200.

Cooper Suit Hearing Set

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—The hearing on the Goldwyn demurrer in the Paramount-Goldwyn suit involving the services of Gary Cooper, which was scheduled for today, has been continued until Oct. 19 at the request of Walter Tuller, Paramount attorney.

Statement by Hays Refutes Shaw Charge of Censorship

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.—Will H. Hays, president of the M.P.P.D.A., today issued a statement refuting charges made by George Bernard Shaw that censorship of the screen adaptation of his play, "St. Joan," had been exercised by the Hays organization, and that "the censorship of the Hays organization includes that of a body called the Catholic Action."

Shaw's complaints were included in a letter, dated at London Sept. 2 and published in The New York Times of this morning.

Shaw wrote: "I find myself presented with certain specific requisitions from the Action to be complied with on pain of having all Roman Catholics forbidden to witness an exhibition of my 'St. Joan' film."

The statement from Hays said:

"George Bernard Shaw in a letter to The New York Times published this morning relative to a proposed motion picture version of his play, 'St. Joan,' has committed several errors of fact.

Script Not Seen on Coast

"No motion picture treatment of the play has been received by the Association and consequently no opinion as to such treatment has been rendered.

"With respect to Mr. Shaw's statement that 'the censorship of the Hays Organization includes that of a body called the Catholic Action:

"In the first place, the functions of the Association's Production Code Administration are not censorship. They provide a self-regulation which is wholly cooperative on the part of those participating in its activities.

"Furthermore, our Production Code Administration functions entirely independently of any other organization. It is, of course, responsible to the public for the character of the motion pictures it approves. In this sense, the views of any responsible public agency are weighed by the Production Code Administration for their proper value. But no outside agency of any character controls or determines the judgments or opinions of the Production Code Administration.

No Deletions Suggested

"We have no knowledge whatsoever concerning the advices given to Mr. Shaw relative to the changes and deletions in his play which he says were suggested.

"There is no organization in the United States known as the 'Catholic Action.' The Catholic organization in the United States concerned with moral significance of motion pictures is known as The Legion of Decency, which organization for its membership reviews and classifies motion pictures following release and does not participate in any manner in the activities of the Production Code Administration."

Pope Told Films Improving

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 14.—Giuseppe Cassinis, official representative of the Vatican to the International M. P. Exposition in Venice, reported to Pope Pius today that films throughout the world are 40 per cent better from a moral standpoint than at this time last year.

Business reached a five-year high for Paramount Week, asserted Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of sales, yesterday.

Film rentals were 35 per cent higher than the figures for the same period last year, he said.

Allied Seeks Federal Help On Clearance

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—A scheduled meeting between operators' union officers and representatives of exhibitor groups was cancelled today when Aaron Saperstein called an emergency meeting of Allied this afternoon to formulate plans for legal action against B. & K. and distributors regarding extra clearance.

Allied will seek to have its attorneys contact the Attorney General regarding alleged violations of the consent decree handed down several years ago which bars distributors and circuit heads from making agreements on clearance among themselves.

Allied claims the granting of clearance to B. & K. is unfair to its members and wants the subject arbitrated.

So far independents have refused to buy any new product. Distributors have been unable to make any product deals even with B. & K. This temporarily eliminates clearance difficulties, but Allied says prices could be dropped after contracts had been signed, leaving them holding the bag.

Broadway Sees Film Cash in Play Concerns

A sudden outcropping of new companies with ready money for the financing of Broadway productions this season is responsible for the growing suspicion within the Dramatists' Guild that film companies, which foreswore stage backing several months ago, are returning to the market wearing false whiskers and smoked glasses.

The new concerns display a sprightly interest in all likely manuscripts, whether from the typewriters of established playwrights or promising newcomers, and the agents of the new companies are mysteriously reticent when questioned about whom they represent, according to guild officials. Moreover, it is said, the bankrolls of these agents appear to be definitely of Hollywood proportions.

"We can't say positively that film companies are backing any of the new plays," one guild official said. "Circumstances, however, lead us to believe that they are, although working through 'dummies.' It wouldn't surprise us to see them out in the open soon."

Meanwhile, M-G-M, Warners, Paramount and other film companies whose coffers were opened to a likely Broadway play before, assert that they still are opposed to play financing under the present form of contract between the playwright and producer which led them to state early in the summer that they would back no play which was produced under the contract. Warners also added a denial of a report published in a local newspaper that the company was sponsoring a Broadway version of the London production, "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse."

Italian Envoy Here

Carlo Roncoroni, head of the Italian Government's film activities, arrived yesterday from Chicago by plane and will be here until Saturday, when he is scheduled to sail for Rome.

Roncoroni spent several weeks on the coast conferring with Hollywood producers on the possibility of their using the new Italian studios near Rome for occasional productions. He will meet during the week with home office officials for similar discussions. It was reported from Hollywood that Roncoroni sought Jack La Rue and other players for an Italian production based on the life of Christopher Columbus. Comment on the report could not be obtained from Roncoroni yesterday.

Obtain Bank Night Writ

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—Attorneys for Associated Theatres, operating the Granada, have obtained an injunction in Federal Court here restraining police and the prosecutor's office from interfering with the use of Bank Night in that house. Federal Judge Moinet has ordered the defendants to show cause on Sept. 18 why the injunction should not be made permanent.

Delay Hearing Upon Philco-RCA Action

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—Hearing on the suit of the Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. against RCA seeking to prevent termination of radio licensing agreements, scheduled in Chancery Court today, was postponed until tomorrow by Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott.

The storage battery company, on behalf of Philco Radio Television Corp., seeks to prevent RCA from terminating a licensing agreement on which its entire structure hinges, it alleges.

The action was started in May, 1935, after RCA, charging violation of an agreement entered into Feb. 10, 1928, which gave Philco the right to RCA patents in manufacturing radios, sought to terminate the contract.

RCA in a cross suit will fight to uphold its right to revoke licenses for use of basic patents.

Organize 16 Mm. Firm For Trade in Indies

Slem Samuels and J. H. Hoffberg have formed Amerasia Agencies, Ltd., with offices in New York and Batavia. Business of the new company will be to develop 16 mm. distribution.

Samuels recently sold his Batavia exchange to United Artists whose product he handled for many years. He has been visiting New York several weeks and will leave for the Dutch East Indies in a fortnight.

Club Meets Today

The 16 mm. Get-Together Club will meet at luncheon today in the Hotel Victoria Grill.

Elect Mulvey, Rose To Board of Goldwyn

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—James Mulvey has been elected vice-president of Goldwyn Prod., and subsidiaries, and reelected to the board of directors.

David Rose, retired Kansas City manufacturer, was elected a vice-president and director. He will act as a financial adviser, with headquarters on the coast. Mulvey will return to New York in two weeks.

New Criterion Given Start On Site of Old at Preview

By C. S. AARONSON

The New Criterion, latest addition to the theatres of Broadway, on the ancient and honorable Time Square theatre site which runs from 44th to 45th Sts., made its formal official—and pre-public—bow last night to an invited audience.

The fanfare and trumpets were there, but the sudden death of Irving Thalberg on the coast yesterday morning had flung an unaccustomed pall over Broadway.

Owned and operated by the new team of B. S. Moss and Harry L. Charnas, former director of Warners' Metropolitan theatres, the house seats 1,700, and, said the publicists, is the "last word."

For a glance at the "last word," this reporter dropped over to the theatre yesterday morning, and through a welter of wires and vacuum cleaner cords, not to mention ladders, workmen and assorted brooms and dusters, strolled from projection booth to lower level and lounge.

The impression gained from that brief survey almost compelled an agreement with the description. Equipment, interior physical treatment, appearance, are all the absolute latest in what a film theatre should have. Flashes of last night's opening attraction, "Give Me Your Heart," with Kay Francis, came to the observer, vocally and visually, as he paraded the house, for the projection crew was making ready.

Comfort a Keynote

In all, the theatre, the 1,700 seats of which make it far from the largest in the Times Square area, gives a definite impression of comfort and dignity, and at the same time has an appearance of spaciousness. The orchestra floor seats 1,250, the loges 200 and the mezzanine 250. The latter two sections are actually a split balcony. All seats are red plush, comfortable—in appearance and actuality—and each is 22 inches wide, which compares with a general theatre seat average of 18 inches.

Entering, the lobby is wide, well-lighted, tastefully decorated. Throughout the house are deep carpets. In back of the orchestra is ample standing room area—in case of need. The walls and ceiling from stem to stern are of rock wool acoustical treatment, which eliminates echo and provides the maximum in auditory reception. The deep auditorium is entirely lighted indirectly, with a noticeable lack of heavy lighting fixtures, which results in a subdued illumination throughout the house.

There is no seat in the house, the management proudly points out, directly behind any other, which affords a maximum of clear vision from any seat. Likewise, vision from any corner of the theatre is as good as from the best front-center location. The theatre's stage, it is claimed, is built to accommodate anything up to musical comedy, although pictures only is the permanent plan. Also there is an orchestra pit, boarded over, with the exception of one corner, where a Hammond electric organ will furnish incidental interludes.

Murals a Feature

A striking feature of the orchestra floor are tall murals on either side. Running to an approximate height of 30 feet, they were executed by Lembke and Battiski. The screen, presenting a 22-foot picture, is of a size proportionate to the size of the orchestra. The theatre was the work of Eugene De Rosa, architect, with Thomas W. Lamb as consultant.

An outstanding feature of the theatre's equipment is the control room situated, not in some remote corner of the house, but at the rear of the orchestra, flush with the last row of seats, from which an operator can regulate sound at the touch of a control, as he hears it through grillwork.

The public address system, another "pride of the house," permits house announcements, pick up from the projection booth of the picture itself, news flashes, or, by a mere plug-in, a listen-in on radio broadcasts. There are two loudspeakers in the lobby, one in the manager's office, one, hidden in the fireplace, in the lounge and one in the publicity office.

The projection booth sparkles with newness and efficiency. Three Simplex projectors, one high intensity spotlight machine, an effects machine, electrical control board and an RCA high fidelity sound reproducer make up the equipment in that room, while in one adjoining is the generator, with two engines of power mounted in concrete and cork cushioning. Another, the rewind room, contains an electrical rewinder and fireproof storage vaults.

Beginning tomorrow morning, after another formal preview tonight, the house will open on its regular policy of continuous run from 8 A.M. to 2 A.M., running Saturday night until 5 A.M. Prices are to be 25 cents to 1 P.M., 55 cents to 6 P.M., 75 cents for evenings to 10 P.M., and 55 cents for the late show. Loges are slightly higher.

First and indefinite runs is the plan, the program to include feature, organ solo, news and probably two shorts.

Fields Up and Around

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—W. C. Fields, confined to Riverside Hopital and Las Encinas Sanitarium for the past five months, was permitted an automobile drive of an hour today. It will probably be several weeks before the comedian will be released from the sanitarium.

Carl Dreher Honored

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—Carl Dreher, who resigned as sound director at Radio to devote his time to writing, was presented a silver cigarette case by the sound department heads of all major studios at the Academy Research Council headquarters.

Attending the meeting were John Aalberg, Radio; E. H. Hansen, Twentieth Century-Fox; Franklyn Hansen, Paramount; Nathan Levinson, Warners; John Livadary, Columbia; Wesley Miller, M-G-M; Thomas Moulton, United Artists; Homer G. Tasker, Universal, and Gordon S. Mitchell, manager of the research council.

cult to bear such a blow." In the party traveling west were J. Robert Rubin, Edgar B. Hatrick, Howard Dietz, Douglas Shearer, Thalberg's brother-in-law; Bert Nayfack and Joseph Mankiewicz.

Work came to a standstill in the M-G-M and Loew offices as the news spread throughout the building. Company executives dropped whatever they were doing and gathered together in the office of one or another in quiet saddened groups. Employes everywhere throughout the building were sobered quickly as the news passed from one to another. The usual bustle of the offices quieted, slowed almost to a halt, and for the remainder of the afternoon labored on mechanically.

No arrangements were completed yesterday for the closing of the offices, exchanges or theatres in observance of the company's loss. Officials awaited word of the completion of funeral arrangements and, it is believed likely, M-G-M exchanges and Loew's theatres will mark Thalberg's passing simultaneously with the holding of services on the west coast.

Eulogies Begin to Pour In

Tributes to Thalberg's memory gathered momentum by late afternoon and began to pour in on Motion Picture Daily in a deluge by early evening. Some of them follow:

Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox: "In the death of Irving Thalberg, the motion picture industry has lost one of its greatest production minds, but more than that, the industry suffers because he made the whole world richer by giving it the highest type of entertainment. He was a true genius and his death is a terrible shock."

H. M. Warner, president of Warner Bros.: "The death of Irving Thalberg comes as a shock to everyone connected with the industry and as a keen sorrow to all who knew him personally. This brilliant young man seemed to have many years of usefulness and outstanding achievement ahead of him. He was gifted with one of the finest minds ever placed at the service of production and also he had a personality that commanded respect and won affection. The industry will miss him, for his ability was an asset to all of us."

"No Man Contributed More"

Leo Spitz, president of RKO: "With the passing of Irving Thalberg the industry has suffered an irreparable loss. No man has contributed more to the outstanding success that this industry has achieved. As long as there are motion pictures his name will be remembered."

R. H. Cochrane, president of Universal Pictures: "Irving Thalberg's death is a terrific blow to the industry. The company he did so much for will miss him greatly. Our sorrow at Universal is a deep and personal one, too. He was loved by hundreds of people who worked with him here who will never forget his charm, his great ability and his unfailing loyalty to his friends."

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount: "Irving Thalberg's death is the greatest loss the industry can suffer."

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board of Paramount: "I am so shocked I hardly know what to say. Irving Thalberg was the most brilliant young man in the motion picture business."

"Was Lovable Character"

Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Dist. Corp.: "The industry has lost one of its greatest figures in the death of Irving Thalberg. His unique position as a successful producer will forever be unchallenged, and his name will always be revered by those of us who have had the pleasure of knowing him."

David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of Loew's and M-G-M: "The sudden death of Irving Thalberg came as a great shock to all of us. We, who knew him so well, are at a loss to express what we feel in our hearts. It is sad indeed that he should have been taken from us at such an early age. His leadership and record of achievement in this industry will be a monument to his memory and history will proclaim him as one of the truly great men of the motion picture world of all times. He was a lovable character and we will sorely miss him as an associate and a true friend."

George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of United Artists: "Mr. Thalberg's death comes as a severe blow to those of us who were fortunate enough to know him as a business associate and as a friend. Aside from the inspirational qualities which he contributed to motion pictures through the films he created, important as this was, of even more importance were his personal attributes, his exemplary family life. In both these respects—as a fine executive and as a family man—he has endowed the industry with qualities that are irreplaceable."

Jack Cohn, vice-president of Columbia Pictures: "Irving Thalberg's death is an unutterable and irreparable loss in a great industry."

Called Industry's "Genius"

M. H. Aylesworth, chairman of the board of RKO: "The passing of Irving Thalberg, the great genius of the industry, is a great loss to every man and woman engaged in making, distributing, and exhibiting motion pictures. While a young man he was an inspiration to every producer, and to young and old alike, no matter in what field of motion picture endeavor. His integrity, vision and ability made him the spear-head of all picture productions throughout the world. Irving Thalberg's modesty, kindly spirit and great achievements erased the barriers of competition. In his great field he was a leader for the entire industry. The young men in our industry, and those to come, have been bequeathed a fine heritage."

Albert Warner, vice-president of Warner Bros.: "It is difficult for me to express adequately my sorrow at learning of the death of Irving Thalberg. He was my friend and, like all who knew him, I felt not merely respect and admiration for his altogether exceptional ability and sterling character, but an attachment for the man himself that will always remain with me. He had a creative brain, a vision that was far-reaching and prophetic, and the practical capacity to make his visions come true. To his wife and family I can only offer my heartfelt sympathy, and to the great producing company with which he was associated I extend the sincere regrets of an industry that will miss Irving Thalberg's talent and constructive genius."

J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of Universal Pictures: "Much of the magic of modern big production technique was given to the movies by Irving Thalberg. He was a credit to this industry and one of its proudest legends of success. He will be greatly missed."

J. R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal Pictures: "Few people realize how important Irving Thalberg was to this industry. He worked so smoothly and so unobtrusively that he did not seem to be working. But it was that intense concentration that wore down one of the greatest producers this business ever developed. His place will be hard to fill, but in memory he will be a milestone of progress. I shall feel his loss personally and deeply."

Harry D. Buckley, vice-president of United Artists: "One of the greatest tragedies the industry has experienced is the untimely death of Irving Thalberg. His contributions as a producer were countless, his influence as a man unparalleled.

"Place . . . Hard to Fill"

Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager of Warners: "All of us who are associated in any capacity with the industry must feel that the death of Irving Thalberg is one of the greatest losses that the industry could possibly sustain. It is irreparable, for men of that calibre are very rare. He did as much as any single individual to put motion pictures in the position they hold today. He set new and finer standards of screen entertainment; he was a builder and a pioneer. We all have a share in the sorrow of those who were nearest and dearest to him."

Neil F. Agnew, vice-president and general sales manager of Paramount: "In the industry there was no man more gifted than Irving Thalberg whose death is a great loss."

C. C. Moskowitz, vice-president of Loew's: "It was such a terrific shock to me I still don't believe it possible. I have lost one of the dearest friends I have ever had."

Jules Levy, vice-president and general sales manager of RKO Dist. Corp.: "The death of Irving Thalberg is not only a loss to Metro but the entire industry. Thalberg was unique as the greatest young executive in the history of our business. We all feel a personal loss."

Abe Montague, general sales manager of Columbia: "The greatness of a man lives after him; the greatness of Irving Thalberg, as a man and as a genius, will live on forever in the memories of all connected with the industry."

Loss Not Only Metro's

E. L. Alperson, president of Grand National: "Irving Thalberg's death is an irreparable loss. His accomplishments even in his early twenties established him as one of the most progressive personalities and outstanding showmen in the theatrical trade. I consider his passing not only a great loss to the entire industry but to the millions of picture goers as well."

Fred C. Quimby, short subject sales manager of M-G-M: "I don't know what to say. I have just returned to the office after being laid up in bed with a bad foot and it was only about 10 days ago that I had lunch with Irving Thalberg and Carey Wilson and he looked in perfect health. I have known Thalberg more than 20 years. His passing is a deep loss to me."

Carl Leserman, vice-president of Grand National: "It was a decided shock to me to learn of Irving Thalberg's death. I have always had the greatest admiration for this brilliant young executive to whose credit are many of the outstanding hits of all time. I have known him since the days he first started in this business and remember the brilliance and great promise he showed as a lad of 20 when he was general manager in charge of production for Universal. The loss suffered by the industry as a result of his death will never be known."

Carl E. Milliken, secretary of the M.P.P.D.A.: "Irving Thalberg was a creative genius and his loss will be grievously felt by all in the industry. He was a charming, lovable character."

Chicago Film Row Shocked

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Irving Thalberg's death cast a pall of gloom over Film Row here this afternoon. A frequent visitor on the street when in Chicago, he was held in high esteem by all.

John Balaban said: "Irving Thalberg's death is a great shock to us all. The industry has suffered an irreparable loss."

Felix Mendelssohn, M-G-M branch manager here, declared: "The news of Irving Thalberg's death is a tremendous shock. We in this office knew him well as a fine gentleman and friend, and respected his genius. His place will be hard to fill."

Thalberg, his parents; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Weingarten, sister and brother-in-law; Mrs. Edith Shearer, mother-in-law; Louis B. Mayer and Edward J. Mannix, M-G-M studio executives, and Bernard and Mrs. Hyman, close friends. When Thalberg's condition became critical, Mayer and Mannix went to his bedside, where they remained until the end.

Besides Mrs. Thalberg, his parents and his sister, Thalberg left two children, Irving, Jr., aged six, and Katharine, aged one.

All Hollywood will cease activities for five minutes during the funeral services which are to be held Wednesday, the Producers' Ass'n announced late today. The M-G-M studio, however, will remain closed throughout that entire day.

The body has been removed to the Malinow and Simons Mortuary, but final arrangements for the services will not be completed until tomorrow.

Hollywood Is Shocked; His Praises Sung

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—Hollywood learned with shock and complete dismay of the death of one of its most illustrious sons today when word of the sudden passing of Irving Thalberg became generally known. From all ranks then came a torrent of tributes to his memory in word and phrase which went beyond the perfunctory and conveyed the personal, as well as the professional esteem, in which this young, but brilliant, producer had been held.

Will H. Hays issued this statement: "The death of Irving Thalberg is an irreparable loss to the industry. No one can take his place, though others may come to do his work.

"Brilliant, courageous, a careful workman, who always gave his best, he had the vision and the genius which made him a leader in the industry's constant progress toward the highest levels of art and entertainment. It is a tragedy that he should be taken from us in the very fullness of his youth.

"Such productions as 'The Big Parade," 'The Barretts of Wimpole Street,' 'Mutiny on the Bounty' and 'Romeo and Juliet' will stand as monuments to Irving Thalberg, but he was destined for ever finer things.

"His will be a living memory. He had the highest esteem and the deepest affection of everyone in the industry. Through his death the industry has lost one of its foremost figures and I have lost a friend."

"Brilliant Leadership . . . Idealism"

Louis B. Mayer: "I have lost my associate of the past 14 years and the finest friend a man could ever have. There is so very much to be said about Irving Thalberg, but there are so few words with which to say it and the shock is too great. He was the guiding inspiration behind the artistic progress of the screen. His brilliant leadership, his idealism, his warm, human qualities made him the foremost figure in the advancement of the high standards and the appreciation that has marked milestones in film history. He was a creator, a man with vision who believed sincerely in the mission of the motion picture; a man to whom no effort nor sacrifice was too great if it served a purpose toward attainment of artistic achievement. My heart goes out in this sorrow to his fine, gifted wife, Norma Shearer, whose unfailing devotion and courage knew no bounds. Irving Thalberg was a simple man, a man whose greatest tribute is having achieved in so short a life so towering a monument of affection."

"An Irreplaceable Loss"

Samuel Goldwyn: "I cannot express the terrible grief I feel at the passing of my dearest friend. We, his close friends, have suffered an irreplaceable loss, but my heart goes out to Mrs. Thalberg and their children. They have lost a great husband and a great father. Not only was he the foremost figure in the industry, but beyond that he was a man of great character, personal in-

Thalberg Reached Heights From Stenographer Start

The extraordinary career of young Irving G. Thalberg, which brought him to a position where he was generally recognized, within and without the industry, as one of its most consistently outstanding producers, in its beginnings held no hint of the creative faculty which led him to the top, nor of the executive genius which, however, soon came into evidence.

Thalberg was born May 30, 1899, in an old-fashioned brownstone house in Brooklyn. His parents were William and Henrietta Thalberg, his father a lace importer with a small business.

The boy attended Public School No. 85 in Brooklyn, and graduated from Boys' High School in that borough. His health, never robust, broke then. Stricken with a heart ailment, he was confined to bed for six months, and more than two years passed before he was able to resume normal activity.

But that convalescence meant no mental stagnation. He read innumerable books and studied shorthand, typewriting and Spanish at home. Subsequent courses at a business school and at New York University added to his store. Six months later, fortified with his teachers' statement of his qualification as an expert stenographer, he inserted a modest advertisement in the Journal of Commerce, stipulating a salary of $15 per week.

Of four answers, he chose one, and within a year was assistant manager of a small exporting concern. With the realization that advancement was limited there, Thalberg determined to seek other work.

Into Films Via Laemmle

Then came, purely by chance, his first intimation of the business of films as a possible field. Visiting his grandmother at Edgemere, Long Island, he was introduced casually to Carl Laemmle, Universal president. Laemmle offered the boy a job, impressed with his manner and personality. Thalberg declined, preferring to remain in the mercantile business.

Again almost by chance some time later young Thalberg was walking past the building in which the Universal home office was located. Suddenly he decided, went in, did not ask for Laemmle, and obtained a secretarial position at $35 per week.

It was some months later that Laemmle noticed the young man who had turned him down, now in his employ. He offered Thalberg the post of his private secretary—and never regretted it. Frequently consulted on matters of importance, in two years he accompanied Laemmle on a coast business trip, and was left in charge there as studio manager while Laemmle went abroad. His success led to his appointment as permanent general manager. At that time he was under 21 and legally unable to sign a check.

Modesty a Characteristic

His modest and unassuming manner brought the young executive loyalty from those working with him. He plunged into his job, hiring and firing. From his command came such outstanding pictures as "Outside the Law," "Merry-Go-Round" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." "Boy wizard," "boy Napoleon" came to be the descriptive titles attaching to his name.

His Credo

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—Irving Thalberg's name never appeared on the screen. He once said:

"Credit is something valuable only when it is given to you. If you are in a position to give yourself credit, then you do not need it."

Louis B. Mayer, at that time an independent producer in partnership with J. Robert Rubin, was attracted to the young Universal executive. The three met, the liking was mutual, and Thalberg decided to join the Mayer company.

With the merger in April, 1924, of Metro-Goldwyn and Mayer, Thalberg became vice-president and a producing chief at the Culver City plant. On the heights then, he had still greater heights to scale.

John Gilbert a Discovery

Success followed success on the screens of the nation from that time. "Ben-Hur" and "The Big Parade" marked the inauguration of Thalberg's preeminence as story producer; John Gilbert was an early discovery.

Other players who developed, under Thalberg's leadership, included Norma Shearer, Greta Garbo, Lon Chaney, Ramon Novarro, Marie Dressler, Joan Crawford and Wallace Beery, and these were supplemented later by Robert Montgomery, Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy, Clark Gable, Jackie Cooper, Nelson Eddy, Robert Taylor and many others. The notable fact about this player development was that nearly all these players were unknown, obscure or misplaced when first engaged by Thalberg.

During his development of talent, Thalberg's attention was attracted by a young actress playing small bits in films made in New York. Her name was Norma Shearer. She was invited to join the M-G-M roster, and rapidly developed into one of the most talented players at the studios. In 1927 the executive and young star were married.

Had Happy Married Life

The Thalbergs have always been considered one of Hollywood's ideal couples. Their home was a charming French provincial cottage on the the shore of the Pacific, at Santa Monica Palisades. There are two children, Irving, Jr., who is now six, and Katharine, 14 months old.

The arrival of talking pictures placed Thalberg in the most challenging position of his career. He met the challenge. His first dialogue film, "The Broadway Melody," broke all records. From then on, despite the depression, his career went forward. Some of the outstanding pictures produced under his supervision include "Grand Hotel," "Smilin' Through," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "The Merry Widow," "What Every Woman Knows," "A Night at the Opera," "No More Ladies," "China Seas," "Mutiny on the Bounty" and the newly released "Romeo and Juliet." In addition to the films which he personally supervised from start to finish, most executive decisions at the M-G-M studios revolved about him. The manner in which he held in mind the mass of detail about all productions at Culver City amazed friends, and it was nothing for him to spend a day aiding in the cutting, editing, photographing or continuity treatment of a dozen different pictures, beside ordinary office appointments.

The group of eight productions which Thalberg was to supervise personally for the coming year included: "The Good Earth" and "Camille," both about completed; "Marie Antoinette," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Pride and Prejudice," "Beloved," "Maytime," and the Marx Brothers' film, "A Day at the Races."

Retiring by Nature

Thalberg was the exact opposite of the film mogul of fiction and the stage. He was quiet, slight of build, ever-courteous, tireless in enthusiasm and energy but restrained in speech, and modest in the extreme. It was this latter trait which was responsible for the deletion of his name from screen credits. He was, in fact, the only producer in Hollywood whose name was not given "top billing" on pictures individually turned out.

A creative artist, Thalberg was never pompous, always extremely considerate in his dealings with others, and a shrewd observer and appraiser of human nature. Generous to a fault in the matter of giving credit where credit was due, he took his success in stride. He never gloried in past successes, brushing those aside in favor of concentrating on the work at hand.

In late February or early March, Thalberg, following persistent coast reports of his dissatisfaction with the then current situation at M-G-M, signed a 10 year contract which virtually set him up in business on his own with Metro financing his activities. The arrangement followed a special trip west by Nicholas M. Schenck who, it is understood, personally undertook to straighten out Thalberg's disaffection.

Hal Hode Reminisces

Irving Thalberg was a clerk at Universal when Hal Hode, now with Columbia, was assistant general sales manager of the company under Harry Berman. Hode reminisced yesterday:

"I recall I was sort of big brother to the office boys. One day, Thalberg came to me and told me he had a choice of two offers from Carl Laemmle. One was to train under me for a junior salesmanship; the other was an opportunity to go to the coast. I explained to him the advantages of Hollywood, but Irving told me he did not want to leave his family. I reminded him that he might some day become a director and in a position financially to take his family to the coast. Three weeks later, he went to Hollywood.

"About seven years ago, someone tapped me on the shoulder at the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles. It was Thalberg and another man whose name I did not know. Turning to this man, Thalberg remarked: 'This is the fellow who, a long time ago, thought I should come out here and that I might become a director one day.'" tegrity and inspiration to all who came in contact with him. I loved that boy and feel his passing is the greatest blow ever suffered by the industry."

Dr. A. H. Giannini, president of United Artists: "His great work did not belong to any one studio. There were no geographical boundaries to his talent. His work was in the geography of the ideal—work that God will set aside for mortals not to mar."

David O. Selznick, president of Selznick International: "Irving Thalberg was beyond question the greatest individual force for fine pictures we had ever known. The world's greatest producer, the influence of his fine mind and spirit extended far beyond the pictures he made. He will be sorely missed for a long time by the industry he benefitted, by the millions throughout the world to whom he gave beautiful things and most of all by his intimates, among whom I was happy to count myself, to whom he was a beloved friend and counsel."

Loss "Irreparable"

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production of Twentieth Century-Fox: "The loss of Irving Thalberg to the industry is irreparable. More than any other man he raised pictures to their present world prestige. I am sad at the thought of losing him as a friend, but proud that the industry in which I belong has produced a man of such notable stature."

Harry Cohn, president, Columbia Pictures: "In the passing of Irving Thalberg the industry has suffered a loss from which it will not soon recover. It has lost its staunchest friend and greatest idealist."

Sam Briskin, executive vice-president in charge of production at Radio: "The unfortunate passing of Irving Thalberg at the height of his career is one of the most severe blows we of this industry have suffered in many years."

C. R. Rogers "Deeply Shocked"

Charles R. Rogers, vice-president in charge of Universal production: "Not only M-G-M but the entire industry will suffer by the passing of Irving Thalberg. I am deeply shocked by the loss of this close, personal friend."

B. P. Schulberg: "Thalberg can never be replaced. In the whole industry no single person on or off the screen gave more to the industry or was loved by more. His thoughts and deeds can only be an inspiration to all of us for all of our lives."

William Goetz, executive assistant to Darryl Zanuck: "Irving Thalberg's loss is one of the greatest tragedies which has befallen Hollywood. He was great in every sense of the word. He was a man of great brain, vision and talent. In his passing Hollywood lost a friend and the industry lost one of its guiding geniuses."

Hal Wallis, associate producer at Warners: "The death of Irving Thalberg comes as a great shock to me and to everyone who had the good fortune to know him. In our official capacity, I had the opportunity to become intimately acquainted with him and not only was he the ablest producer in Hollywood but he was a perfect gentleman with a heart of gold. His passing is a tremendous loss to the entire industry and his friends."

Sam Katz: "I cannot believe this true friend and great leader has been taken away. His passing will prove the greatest loss the industry has ever suffered. His accomplishments in the past, however, will live long after him and his ideals will continue to lift the industry to new, exalted standards."

"Greatest Conceivable Loss"

Cecil B. De Mille, Paramount producer: "Irving Thalberg's passing is the greatest conceivable loss to the industry. I say that absolutely and without qualification. There are hundreds of executives, but only about six with a genuine genius for making films. He was the greatest of these.

E. J. Mannix, general manager of the M-G-M studio: "My friend, Irving Thalberg, is gone. But in his passing, he leaves an ideal that will live as long as the screen endures and serve as an inspiration and guide. No man contributed as much at any one time as did he."

Jesse L. Lasky: "It will be utterly impossible to replace Irving Thalberg. He was a magnificent man and the staunch friend of many. He will be missed beyond the power of words to describe."

David L. Loew: "The untimely passing of Irving Thalberg is a major loss to the industry he loved so well and served so faithfully."

"Truly Great"

Ernst Lubitsch, associate producer at Paramount: "I am shocked and deeply moved at the sad news. I mourn the loss of a true friend. With the passing of Irving Thalberg the industry has lost one of its truly great leaders."

Hal Roach: "A great man. He will be missed by the world for his genius and by his friends for the wonderful fellowship he gave us all."

Hunt Stromberg: "Still so young, so enthusiastic, with so many ideas planned for the future, Irving's passing will prove an unforgettable loss to the industry of which he was so proud. He has done more to lift pictures to their present standard of excellence than any one individual."

Mervyn Le Roy: "Thalberg's death not only is a great blow to the entire industry but to me, as I have lost one of my closest friends as the world has lost its greatest producer."

Rosh Hashona Here

Sundown tomorrow will usher in Rosh Hashona, the first of the important Jewish holidays which this year fall on Sept. 17-18 and Sept. 26. The last date is Yom Kippur, or The Day of Atonement.

Coast Halts Activities

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—Edmund Goulding halted work on "Maytime" and Sam Wood on "A Day at the Races" at 11 A. M. today in tribute to the memory of Irving Thalberg.

Mrs. Thomas Winter of the Hays office postponed an elaborate luncheon scheduled for Better Films Councils at the Ambassador, at which a discussion of "Romeo and Juliet" was to have been the principal topic.

Hard Blow to Mayer

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—Louis B. Mayer, who was by Irving Thalberg's side when he died this morning, is taking the latter's passing much to heart. He is under his physician's care and his family is worried.

Death of Thalberg Is Shock to London are so rare as to be irreplaceable. It is their work that has created the industry.

Sam Eckman, managing director for M-G-M here: "How little one can say about a tragedy so heartbreaking. The world has lost a great man, the film industry a brilliant leader and personally I grieve at the most untimely loss of a close and truly staunch friend. The memory of him and all he stood for will remain with me forever."

Kilroe Here; Silent On Copyright Trip

Having completed a survey on the copyright situation after contacting author societies and government officials at Dublin, London, Paris, Berne, Vienna and Rome, Edwin P. Kilroe, copyright advisor to Twentieth Century-Fox and chairman of the copyright committee of the film industry in this country, returned yesterday on the Normandie after spending seven weeks abroad.

Because he had not submitted a report to the Hays organization, Kilroe would not discuss the results of his observations other than state that he would have his findings ready within the next few days.

Kilroe's assignment was to determine whether it would be to the best interests of the United States to join the Berne Convention and whether the film companies would ask Congress to ratify or reject the copyright treaty in which 40 countries have joined.

It is possible that after Kilroe submits his report legal heads of the industry may not permit its being made public until all angles are gone over.

Many Others Return

The Normandie passenger list embraced a long array of film and theatre personalities. Among them was Gilbert Miller, who made "The Lady Is Willing" for Columbia in London some time back. He told a Motion Picture Daily reporter he had given up film production because it required all of his time. "After making the one picture, I didn't think it any good and so have decided not to make any more," he said, adding he will produce a show here shortly and return to England on Oct. 17.

Returning from the Salzburg festival was Max Reinhardt, who will leave today for the Warner studio to start work on "Danton." He said he had signed a German actor, Vladimar Sukoloff, to play the part of Murat. After the film, Reinhardt will produce "The Eternal Road" here about the latter part of October and November.

Capt. E. Beddington Behrens, who played a part in the M-G-M-Twentieth Century-Fox-G. B. deal recently, accompanied Joseph M. Schenck. He denied that his trip had anything to do with pictures, this later being confirmed by Schenck. Behrens is a member of Myers & Co., financial interests identified with all of John Maxwell's backing in Associated British Pictures and with some financing of G. B. He left for the coast last night and may return in a week.

Composer of the musical score for "The General Died at Dawn," Werner Janssen, on his return, queried reporters on the reaction of the film. He said it was his first film effort, like Clifford Odets. Janssen is a conductor of the New York Philharmonic and will head for Hollywood in three or four days, probably to rejoin Paramount.

Many of Industry Aboard

Genevieve Tobin, Patric Knowles, Heather Thatcher, Brigette Helm, Dr. Henry Moskowitz, Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, Lew Wertheimer, Marc Connelly, Rose York and True King, Daniel O. Hastings, Mrs. Byron C. Foy, Ira Haupt and Dwight Wiman also returned from business trips and vacation jaunts.

Miss Tobin said she had just completed "A Man in the Mirror" for Elstree Prod. and will leave today for Hollywood to free lance. Dr. Moskowitz said he visited Ireland and England for a vacation. Miss Thatcher asserted she was here as a guest of Douglas and Mrs. Fairbanks and will probably return in about a week. Knowles, who appears in "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and "Give Me Your Heart," left yesterday on the Century for the coast to resume work for Warners. Connelly brought his mother home, he said, and will sail for London again next week to produce "Till the Cows Come Home." He stated production originally was planned for New York, but because Leslie Banks, the star, is at work in a picture for Alexander Korda, the rehearsals and opening would be in London.

Sees G B Deal In Effect By Jan. 2, 1937

flight, Schenck responded to all queries without hesitation or reservations. He did, however, break in for a moment to make certain his answers were being put down as given.

Schenck's reason for seeing the three-way deal as advantageous to the companies involved and "to the industry generally" was explained by this observation:

"If the Ostrers, who have absolute control of G. B. sold out to John Maxwell, who always has been ready to buy, Maxwell would have control of 60 per cent of the theatres in England and thereby put into the hands of one man the power to practically dictate terms.

In Hands of Lawyers

"Negotiations have been completed and the legal departments of the companies will take the next 10 days to draft the contracts so that the deal can become operative immediately after the first of the year," he added.

"Isn't most of the detail of the transaction set and of the remaining, isn't it merely a routine matter of the Ostrers depositing their stock?" Schenck was asked.

"Not all the details are set," he answered. "Operations of the distribution for the three-way company have yet to be worked out. There will be no change in this country or England. Sidney R. Kent will go over this month or next to work out the details."

"Isn't it a fact Sam Eckman will supervise the sales of the three companies when the merger becomes effective," he was next asked.

"Nothing has been determined at all because there has not been a meeting of the three companies to decide."

Q.—Has the name been decided for the new company to replace Metropolis & Bradford Trust?

A.—There will not be a holding company. The stock of G. B. will be divided and held by each company. It was originally intended to form a new holding company, but this legally could not be done.

M-G-M Share 40%

Q.—How much stock will M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox have?

A.—Combined, Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M will have 40 per cent, the Ostrers, 20 per cent and the rest will be in the public's hands.

Q.—It has been widely reported Alexander Korda will tie in with the deal, perhaps as general production head. Have you anything to say on this? Will Michael Balcon join M-G-M on the coast as was discussed about a year ago, or will he continue to head G. B. production?

A.—There is absolutely no truth at all to the reports. As a matter of fact, Balcon will produce for the three companies. Although G. B. is scheduled to produce 24 this year, the combined production of the three companies will be increased to 36.

Q.—We understand M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox will each distribute a minimum of five annually in America under the G. B. deal. Is this correct?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Is there any maximum?

A.—No. This depends on the quality of product made.

Q.—Reports indicate G. B. distribution in America will be discontinued not later than the spring of 1937 with absorption of the sales force by M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox. Is it possible that the American sales staff of G. B. will be absorbed by Jan. 1?

A.—That's our present intention. There is no chance of taking over G. B. distribution in this country by the first of the year. The company must sell its product here for the rest of the season and this position will not be changed until our next sales convention, probably in May.

Q.—Are there any changes in the deal as first announced? London has reported the stock setup has been altered to further reduce the Twentieth Century-Fox and M-G-M participation in Metropolis & Bradford Trust.

Original Deal Holds

A.—Fundamentally, no. In details many changes have been made on account of legal points. You cannot operate there as you do here, and vice versa. But fundamentally the deal is set up as originally contemplated.

Q.—Is it not a part of the plan to retire the Ostrers from active management within a year after the deal becomes effective?

A.—The only change which has come about from what we originally contemplated is that we have abandoned the idea of setting up a new trust company to replace M. & B. We didn't deem it advisable to have the Ostrers as a one-man control. We are now doing away with that so the control will not be in one man's hands.

Q.—Has any stock changed hands?

A.—No.

Q.—Who will direct the activities of the new combined company?

A.—That will be up to the board of directors. Twentieth Century-Fox will have two men on it, M-G-M, two and the Ostrers, two. Of the remaining six, these men will be impartial and will act for the best interests of G. B. They will not be rubber stamps, but regular directors.

Q.—Any date set when M-G-M and Twentieth Century-Fox will ratify the deal?

A.—I understand the Loew board has given my brother the authority to ratify the pact. The Twentieth Century-Fox board will hold a meeting as soon as Mr. Kent comes back from Maine. I understand he is due back Tuesday.

Q.—Has the G. B. board ratified the deal?

Approval Held Inevitable

A.—The Ostrers control the G. B. board and it is bound to approve the arrangement. The G. B. board hasn't had a meeting because the papers have to be drawn and submitted to the members. It wouldn't be practical for them to ratify the deal until we have done it first. After our boards have passed on the pact, the G. B. directors will meet and dissolve Metropolis & Bradford Trust.

Q.—Many of the G. B. theatres in the provinces are antiquated and outmoded. How far have plans progressed for reconstruction or rehabilitation and is the report correct that plans have been discussed to augment the circuit by acquisition or construction of new theatres throughout the United Kingdom?

A.—A substantial amount of money has been appropriated to rehabilitate theatres, naturally. The theatres are much finer than I thought they were and business is very good. Where G. B. business is not very good is in the producing end. Yes, a policy of expansion is natural as soon as the deal goes through.

Q.—Who will run the G. B. circuit and is it fair to assume that the operator will be an American theatre executive sent over from this side?

A.—An Englishman, by all means. We may send over technical men, if needed. No change in management is contemplated. The present operator is a good man. However, we will send over a man to make a report so that we know what we have. I believe there are about 340 theatres.

Q.—What about A. C. Blumenthal's commission?

A.—Blumenthal will get his as soon as the deal is finished. He will be paid by the Ostrers and Twentieth Century-Fox and not from M-G-M. The Ostrers and Twentieth Century-Fox are selling something, while M-G-M is the buyer.

Q.—In view of M-G-M's first announced plans to send important talent over, what is the plan now that G. B. will be the production outlet for M-G-M in England? What talent from Twentieth Century-Fox will go abroad? How does Bob Kane fit into the picture?

Balcon, Production Head

A.—M-G-M will have to answer for itself. Twentieth Century-Fox hasn't yet decided. Whatever will be the best policy for the production company will be worked out by the three companies, not by one man or one company. Michael Balcon will remain as the top man, but with the help of more producers. We know we're going to have a new producing company to be financed by the three firms and naturally we will do everything to make it a success. Bob Kane will be in the new company in a business capacity.

Q.—The G. B. studios at Shepherd's Bush are recognized as antiquated and old-fashioned. What are the plans for a new studio and is it true the new Amalgamated studios will be used?

A.—Yes, Shepherd's Bush is antiquated and expensive to produce in. Alexander Korda has a fine studio and we may make a deal with him. If not, we will have to get new studios. Korda's studio is ideal. The layout is such that we could increase offices and stages under the present arrangement as much as we want. If we cannot make a deal with him, we will build a studio large enough to make as many pictures as we decide. We may even rent space at other studios.

Q.—Counter moves on part of other American and British companies have been reported. Radio and Columbia are reported talking to John Maxwell. C. M. Woolf is said to be buying theatres on the q.t. What is there to say about this, if anything, on the theory the G. B. deal and counter moves are popularly believed to be influencing a widespread change in the entire alignment of the British industry, putting independent exhibitors on their guard and perhaps influencing them to band together to fight distributors either now or planning to go into exhibition?

A.—We have nothing to say. Ask the people making the moves. We are not disturbed over rumors or reported moves. The conduct of our negotiations speaks for itself. Rumors will be rife until we start operating.

Q.—What will be the name of the new company distributing in England?

A.—Probably M-G-M-Twentieth Century-Fox-G. B., or in some other order. I am giving the names of the companies in the order of their importance. We haven't given the matter any thought.

Q.—What will become of the corporate names of M-G-M, Twentieth Century-Fox and G. B. in England?

A.—All companies will be dissolved into one name. The sales forces will be retained, but distribution will be handled by a central unit.

Sales Savings Five Per Cent

Q.—How much will be saved by one distributing system?

A.—I have no idea, but I think from four to five per cent of the gross.

Schenck said he had signed Janet Johnson, an Australian, who is now appearing in a London show. She is not expected to arrive here until the show closes, which will be Jan. 1.

The Twentieth Century-Fox board will meet and authorize Kent to go through with the deal as made before Schenck leaves for the coast in about two weeks, the chairman of the board stated. The only communication Schenck has had with Kent on the deal is by transatlantic phone and cable. The two will get together immediately to discuss all phases of the arrangement and within the next month or six weeks, "Kent will go abroad and work everything out."

Kent Returns to Desk

S. R. Kent, after an extended vacation in Maine, was back at his desk at Twentieth Century-Fox yesterday, feeling and looking fit.

upon his arrival yesterday from England on the Normandie after a five-week trip.

Reports have been trickling in by cable from London that Korda would be included in the deal and become general studio head of the combined production in England and that Balcon would join M-G-M in Hollywood as a producer.

"There is absolutely no truth at all to these reports," Schenck declared. "Balcon will produce about 36 pictures for the three companies," he said. "Korda has a hard and fast contract with U. A.," the chairman of the Twentieth Century-Fox board stated, "and, while he is a valuable man to any company, we do not wish to disturb our contractual relations by trying to take him away from a company with which he is under contract."

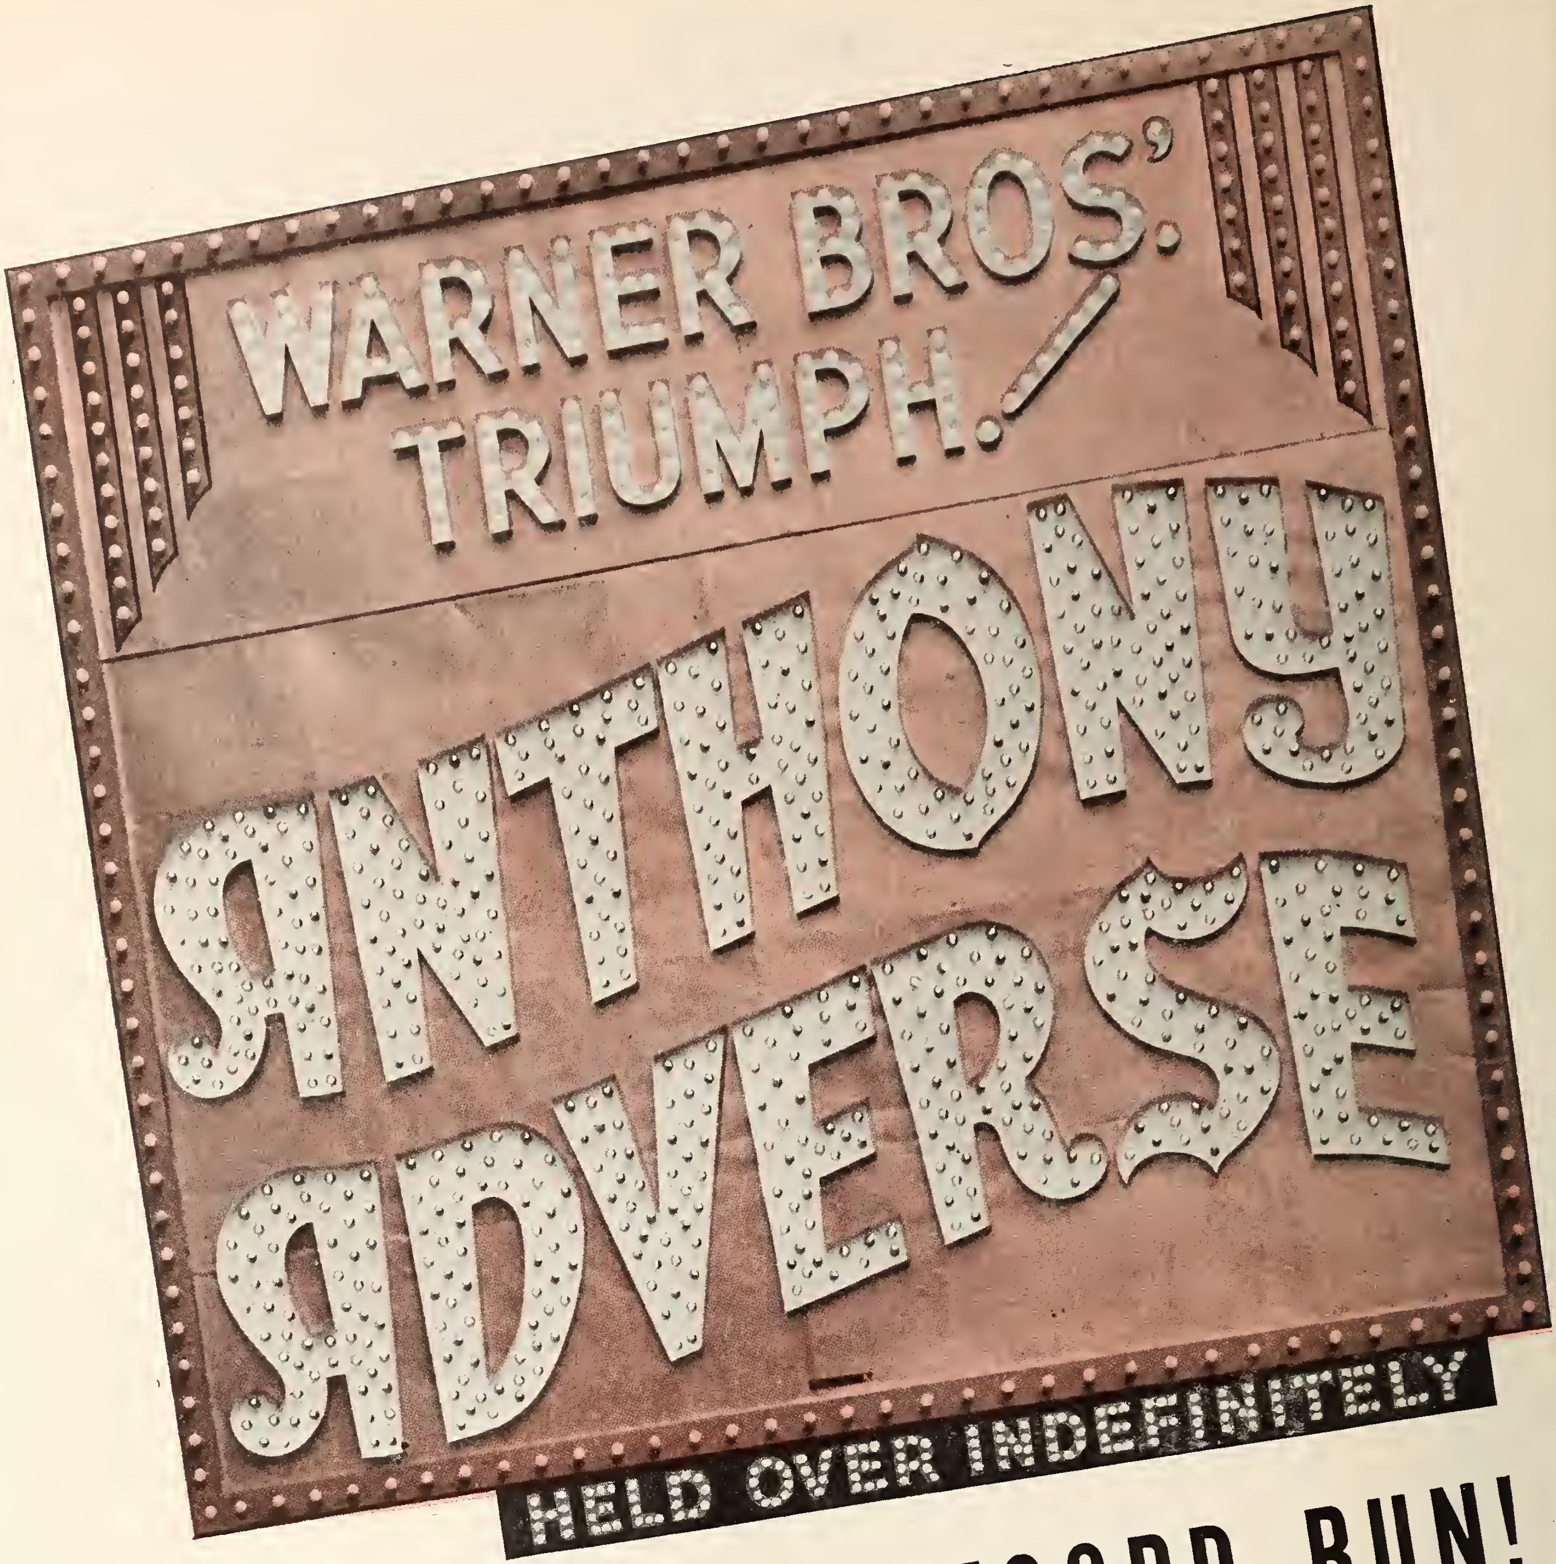
cause change in plans, but if Schenck goes, he will be accompanied by Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox, and Arthur M. Loew, M-G-M foreign sales manager.

"Tired of knocking about the world and exhausted from making four to five trips abroad a year," which he asserted was "too much" for him, Joseph M. said he will leave for Hollywood in about two weeks to stay there. "I'm over 40, you know, and tired of traveling," he added.



SURE SIGN OF A RECORD RUN!

Now it's a fourth tremendous week for New York, three weeks for Detroit and Philly—and the howl for holdovers in every other key engagement already brings Pittsburgh, Newark and Cleveland into line with doubled time! Watch the amazing figures from coast to coast—then figure on a record run for your money with this giant leader of the sensational set-up of smashes on the way from Warner Bros.!

New National Organization Plan Up Again

Report Regional Groups Interested in Move

Revival of plans to formulate a new national independent exhibitor organization will get under way next week, according to one of the sponsors of the proposed association.

Several local organizations throughout the country are said to have signified their intention of joining the new group, it was stated. Some of the exhibitor groups are either affiliated with the M. P. T. O. A. or Allied, but most of the territorial associations are without national affiliation.

Under plans of the new organization, a formula of representation along Congressional lines will be set up. It is said that approximately 15 important exhibitors are prepared to back the new move.

Hearing Begins on RCA's Patent Pact

WILMINGTON, Sept. 15.—A hearing on an injunction action by the Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. against Radio Corp. of America seeking to prevent RCA from terminating a licensing agreement opened in chancery court here today before Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott.

The basic patents of the radio and television industries and the basis upon which royalties should be computed are involved. The hearing is expected to last about a month. P.S.B. seeks to have RCA enjoined from terminating a licensing agreement under which the battery company is licensed to use RCA patents. P.S.B. denied the charges of RCA that it had violated agreements and

"Romeo" at $20,354 In Its Fourth Week

"Romeo and Juliet" tallied $20,354 in the fourth week at two-a-day prices at the Astor. The figures include Labor Day, when three shows were held.

At the Strand, "Anthony Adverse" finished up a third week with approximately $37,000. The second week of "The General Died at Dawn" ended at the Paramount last night with $40,000. The third and last week of "Swing Time" at the Music Hall is expected to wind up tonight with $90,000.

20th-Fox Will Have 54, States Schenck

Twentieth Century-Fox will produce and release 54 features for the 1936-37 season, the same number as the current year, Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the company's board, stated following his arrival from England.

"It is too early to tell how many we will have on our 1937-38 program," he added.

With the double feature trend fastening its hold throughout the country, Schenck held "there is very little demand or room for shorts." Although reports from time to time have had it that Twentieth Century-Fox will discontinue distributing these sub-

Newsreels in Cuba Are to Be Censored

HAVANA, Sept. 15.—The Cuban Dept. of the Interior tonight ordered Havana distibutors of American films to submit all newsreels in the future for special censorship before releasing. The order was issued because of the fear of the Government that shots showing civil war in Spain might cause disorders among members of the Spanish colony in Cuba who are sympathetic to opposing factions abroad.

The release of several American newsreels of the war in Spain was forbidden by the Dept. of the Interior.

Dixey Touring Keys On British Venture

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Capt. A. F. Dixey is pushing efforts to get the proposed cooperative producing organization started with the necessary exhibitor support. He will explain the plan in six provincial key cities between Sept. 23 and Oct. 8.

A Tribute

Hollywood, Sept. 15.—A large floral wreath from the entire M-G-M organization, at the services for Irving Thalberg here, will bear the following inscription:

"With heads bowed in grief the entire family of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in its home office and in its branches throughout the world extends deepest sympathy."

Nathanson Is Given Canada Radio Post

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—N. L. Nathanson of Toronto, president of Famous Players Canadian, has been appointed director in the newly-organized Canadian Radio Corp. by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King. The president of the corporation is Leonard Brockington of Winnipeg, while the general manager to be appointed is expected to be Major Gladstone Murray of the British Broadcasting Corp., London, or Reginald Brophy of NBC.

This is the first time Nathanson has accepted a Government appointment and his selection is regarded as highly important in that it will link films with broadcasting in Canada. The new Canadian corporation is an outgrowth of the Canadian Radio Commission which was organized

Archbishop, Refuting Shaw, Clarifies Status of Legion

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Answering the recently published charge of George Bernard Shaw that censorship of the screen adaptation of his play "St. Joan" would be exercised by a body which he termed "Catholic Action," Archbishop McNicholas of Cincinnati, speaking as chairman of the Episcopal Committee on Motion Pictures, today said:

"The letter of Bernard Shaw to The New York Times on Sept. 14 regarding the adaptation of his play "St. Joan" to the cinema can give rise to much misunderstanding. Four of its points should be kept clearly in mind.

"First: The Legion of Decency has no connection directly or indirectly with the Hays organization. It is not to be identified with it. The words 'Catholic Action' are used so loosely by Mr. Shaw as to embrace apparently the Hays organization and The Legion of Decency. Nothing could be further from the truth. There is no Catholic group in the Hays organization nor in the motion picture industry.

"Second: The Legion of Decency is

Funeral Rites For Thalberg Set for Today

Arrangements Are Made And Ushers Named

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15.—While this mercurial community was still trying today to grasp a realization that the drama of life moves more swiftly and poignantly than the studio make-believe it was announced that Irving Thalberg's funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from Temple B'nai Brith. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin.

The honorary ushers at the funeral will be Carey Wilson, Sam Wood, Cedric Gibbons, J. J. Cohn, Robert Leonard, Moss Hart, Douglas Fairbanks, Clark Gable, Sidney Franklin, Lucien Hubbard, W. S. Van Dyke and Fredric March.

Burial will be in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Only the family, immediate friends and associates will be admitted to the services. In accordance with the wishes of Miss Shearer every attempt is being made to prevent any demonstration on the part of crowds that may gather. Only the family will attend the interment in the crypt at the cemetery.

Nicholas M. Schenck, Howard Dietz, J. Robert Rubin, Edgar B. Hatrick, Douglas Shearer, Bert Nayfack and Joseph Mankiewicz arrived by plane from New York this morn-

Indies Advised to Fight in Congress

Milwaukee, Sept. 15.—The presentation of a solid front by independent exhibitors at the next session of Congress was advocated by Congressman Thomas J. O'Malley as the only means of securing relief from the present copyright situation in an address before more than 50 independent exhibitors attending the opening session of the Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n of Wisconsin at the Hotel Plankinton today.

O'Malley outlined the history of Bill S-3047, declaring that the hearings held in connection with it had done some good despite the fact that that it failed to pass.

Aaron Saperstein, president of Illinois Allied, spoke on the difficulties which face the Cook County exhibitors in the form of double features and the extra week of clearance to B. & K. as a need for a strong independent exhibitor organization.

Capital Notice Filed

Sacramento, Sept. 15.—National Theatre Supply Corp., a Delaware corporation, has filed notification here of a reduction of capitalization from $3,256,659.93 to $509,241.13.

Lee Publicity Head For Brooklyn Pool

Joe Lee, for the past two years managing director of the Paramount, Brooklyn, has been named publicity director of the Fox, Strand and Paramount in Brooklyn under the three-way pool effected and supervised by Si Fabian.

As his assistants, Lee will have Sonny Schlenger, Teddy Trust and Ruth Leighton. Harold Fisher will be manager of the Brooklyn Paramount with George Evans and Elihu Glass assisting. William McLaughlin continues as manager of the Strand and Charles Dowe remains in charge of the Fox.

Larry Cowan, formerly in charge of publicity for the Brooklyn Fabian theatres, has been transferred to Albany where he has taken over the directorship of exploitation of the Grand and Leland.

Mississippi Tax May Get Signature Soon

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 15.—A special session of the legislature opened here today with the possibility of the revised state admission tax being signed by Gov. Hugh White. The measure was passed by the legislature during the regular session and will become a law automatically if not signed by the governor this month.

Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, came here from his home at Columbus, Miss., as an observer at the session. He plans to leave for New York from here within the next week.

File Elsmere Judgment

A judgment in foreclosure and sale was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by the Mortgage Commission and the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. against the Elsmere Theatre Holding Co. and the Five County Realty Corp. This was a foreclosure action on four mortgages given to secure payment of $265,000 on property at 528 W. 125th St. and 29 Moylan Place.

Exhibitors Breathe Easy

Seattle, Sept. 15.—The two greatest sources of competition for local theatres during the past three months have concluded their activities for the season. Daily horseracing ended its season last week. More than $2,500,000 was wagered during the 10-week session. Night baseball, responsible for crowds of 4,000 to 10,000 at each game, also closed its local showing here.

Jensen Estate to Widow

Los Angeles, Sept. 15.—The will of Walter F. Jensen, pioneer theater man, filed in the probate division of the Superior Court, names Mrs. Eskaleen Blythe Jensen, his widow, sole heiress to an estate valued at $250,000. Jensen was drowned when he fell from a fishing boat on Aug. 29.

MPPDA Annual Meet Set

The postponed annual meeting of the board of the M. P. P. D. A. is scheduled for Sept. 23. Will H. Hays, president, is expected to leave the coast today or tomorrow in order to attend the meeting after stopping off for a day or two in the middle west.

One Big Night

Kearney, Neb., Sept. 15.—It was a gala evening for Kearney recently when Charley Chase was discovered eating in a local restaurant while on a transcontinental auto tour.

Court Cuts Steuer's Theatre Fee $25,000

Allowance of $100,000 counsel fees to Max D. Steuer in connection with litigation on behalf of Knickerbocker Theatres, Inc., and the Clinton-Apollo Theatre Corp. was reduced yesterday by Supreme Court Justice L. A. Valente to $75,000. Steuer was allowed disbursements amounting to $789.

Justice Valente further explained the reason he was compelled to reduce the original verdict by $25,000 was that the first award was made on an expected profit of $500,000 in 10 years. He assumed that the present worth of the expected profit is only $375,000, and therefore, made the reduction.

"U" Signs 2 Circuits

James R. Grainger, general manager of distribution, has arranged for the showing of Universal product by the E. M. Loew circuit of 23 theatres in New England and by Tri-State Theatres Co., operating 16 houses in Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska. A. J. Herman, William Kelly and Loew consummated the former deal in the Universal Boston office, while in the latter negotiations G. Ralph Branton acted for the circuit with E. T. Gomersall, LeRoy Miller and Jerry Spandau representing the distributor.

Ufa Wins Particulars

Justice Edgar J. Lauer yesterday granted a motion for a bill of particulars requested by the Ufa Films, Inc., in connection with the suit brought against them by Wafilms, Inc. The complaint asks for $15,000 damages alleging breach of agreement to make a sound version of a silent picture entitled "Heavenly Bodies."

Hummel to Australia

Hollywood, Sept. 15.—Joseph S. Hummel, general foreign sales manager for Warners, will sail for Australia tomorrow to negotiate a new deal with United Theatres and Hoyts circuit. From Australia he will tour the Far East, Asiatic branches and South Africa, returning to New York in nine months.

Jolsons to Celebrate

Hollywood, Sept. 15.—Al Jolson and his wife, Ruby Keeler, will celebrate their eighth wedding anniversary next Monday, following which he will leave for a New York radio appearance while Miss Keeler will start work in Warners' "Ready, Willing and Able."

To Name SMPE Winner

The Society of M. P. Engineers will name the winner of the 1936 Progress Award medal at the fall meeting of the society to be held at the Sagamore Hotel, Rochester, Oct. 12-15. The first award last year was won by Dr. Edward C. Wente of Bell Laboratories.

Midwest Houses Gain In Spite of Drought

Kansas City, Sept. 15.—"Considering the national publicity in connection with this area's crop failure, drought and heat this summer," comments E. C. Leeves, district sales manager for Erpi, "it is rather amazing to find that during the past seven months we have made 58 installations of sound equipment, compared with 20 in the preceding seven months.

"And in almost all cases where improvements are being made in sound equipment, exhibitors also are making extensive improvements in other departments of their theatres. The inevitable conclusion, which is borne out by observation, is that exhibitors are doing more business at the box-office than last year. The area is, apparently, in spite of all that it has 'taken' during the past several months, and during the past several years when there has been a recurrent drought condition, in the best shape since the depression, with more money available and circulating.

Gains Widespread

"Better business is not confined to any particular geographical location, to any particular type of theatre. Installations recently have been made in Broken Bow, Neb., a city of 2,500; Algona, Iowa, around 9,000; Paris, Mo., 1,500; Lamar, Mo., 3,000; Topeka, Kan., 75,000; Sarcoxie, Mo., 950; Wichita, Kan., 100,000, and Kansas City, Mo., 400,000."

Recent rains have been general throughout the territory, Leeves reports, and while too late to do more this year than make pasture and late feed, have revived optimism throughout the area because they have meant good seed beds for fall planting, which is half of the prospects for crops next year.

Will Single Better Pictures in Akron

Akron, O., Sept. 15.—The Akron Exhibitors' Ass'n has agreed to single feature the outstanding pictures during the 1936-37 season, leaving only the weaker ones for double features. The pictures to be shown under the single feature policy exclusively will be determined by a committee of seven headed by Robert Menches, president of the association, chairman. The association is now working out a plan to increase admission prices five cents in all member houses.

Kurtz to Study Melbert

Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum yesterday appointed bankruptcy referee Irwin Kurtz to decide whether or not an order should be entered dismissing the involuntary petition in bankruptcy which has been filed against Melbert Pictures.

Halt "Santa Fe" Release

Hollywood, Sept. 15.—Burroughs-Tarzan Pictures, Inc., have postponed the release of "The Phantom of Santa Fe" until after the release of "Tundra."

Low Rates for "Brigade"

Major Albert Warner states "The Charge of the Light Brigade" will be released throughout the country at popular prices.

Sees Readiness to Film in Australia

By CLIFF HOLT

MELBOURNE, Aug. 21. (By Airmail Via London)—Ernest Turnbull, head of the newly formed Gaumont British Dominions Films Distributors, Ltd., just returned from London, expressed the view that American and English units were willing and eager to participate in Australian production, so long as some sound commercial system for production and distribution on an international basis could be evolved. At the same time, he said, Britain was dissatisfied because no provision was made for British films under the New South Wales and Victorian Quota legislation, despite the fact that Australian-made pictures were regarded as British quota subjects under the British Quota Act. A proposal had been submitted to the British Government to bar pictures made in the Dominions as counting as British quota pictures and instead, place them on a reciprocal basis with tariffs.

As Turnbull points out, this would give the infant Australian producing industry a poor chance on the British market; whereas if Britain were to give Australian producers an opportunity to "get going," it would not be long before their films could be sold in England on merit alone, just as British films are sold here.

An expenditure of £100,000 is planned by M-G-M in the construction of its new house in Brisbane. Building is already in progress.

Raise Albany Prices

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—The Grand, a Fabian house running double bills, has advanced its top to 35 cents as a new fall policy. The top formerly was 25 cents.

Increase "Ziegfeld" Price

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 15.—Loew's Ohio has raised matinee prices to 35 cents for any seat, with the evening rate scaled to 40 and 56 cents for balcony and lower floor, for "The Great Ziegfeld." The Saturday schedule is 35 cents for any seat until 1 P.M., 40 cents from 1 to 6 P.M., and 56 cents thereafter. Sunday admission of 35 cents is extended to 2 P.M., after which the 56-cent charge applies until closing. The regular scale at this house is 30 and 40 cents for matinee and night, respectively. This is the first price advance here in several years.

Kansas Scales Raised

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15.—Price increases are being extended by the Glen W. Dickinson circuit. Top at the Booth, Independence, Kan., has just been lifted from 25 cents to 35 cents.

The scale at the Dickinson, Hiawatha, Kan., was raised 10 cents to 35 cents two weeks ago, and others are scheduled.

The Booth at Independence, operated by William Wanger, has added 10 cents to the 25-cent top.

Warners Raise Prices

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 15.—Warners have increased balcony prices by five cents at the Cameo, Bridgeport and State, Waterbury, as the first move in the tryout of higher admissions.

Looking 'Em Over

"Lady Luck"

(Chesterfield)

Produced by George Batcheller, this production has but little to offer, and appears suitable only as the second half of a double bill.

Revolving about the romantic difficulties of a manicurist and a newspaper reporter, played by Patricia Farr and William Bakewell, respectively, the story has a touch of murder mystery, which is not too subtly solved, the usual stupid-appearing detective, and the polished "gentleman" who appeals to the girl, but is revealed as a fraud.

In support are Lulu McConnell, Duncan Renaldo and Jameson Thomas. The title refers to the girl's drawing of a sweepstakes ticket on a horse called Lady Luck, which proves the winner and brings the fortune hunters gunning for her money. Bakewell saves her from them and a murder indictment threat, and the two begin their lovers' spat all over again as the film ends.

Charles Lamont directed from a screenplay by John Kraft.

Production Code Seal No. 2,397. Running time, 61 minutes. "G."

"The Ghost Patrol"

(Puritan)

Tim McCoy changes into a flying suit and then again into cowboy regalia as he brings about the demise of clever gangsters who, with the aid of a scientific device, bring down airplanes carrying cargoes of cash and bonds. McCoy plays a Federal man and the wandering of the plot takes him to a deserted city where the mob is working a ray, through holding its inventor. There he ingeniously, and through the credulity of the outlaws' rounds them up. The Government aides arrive and with some noisy gunplay the piece ends when cowboy meets the girl, Claudia Dell. They had not been introduced up until the finish.

The film will please its audience of excitement seekers. It is done well enough in western-mystery fashion. Sam Newfield directed. The cast includes Wheeler Oakman, Walter Miller, Lloyd Ingraham and Jim Burtis.

Production Code Seal No. 2,287. Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

"Campo di Maggio" ("Hundred Days of Napoleon")

(Nuovo Mondo)

One of the most noteworthy efforts to come out of Italy recently, this dramatization of the 100 stirring days which elapsed between Napoleon's escape from Elba and his final defeat at Waterloo and imprisonment on St. Helena, is excellent entertainment.

It will have its greatest appeal, of course, for those audiences who can understand Italian, but there are sufficient subtitle translations of dialogue to make following of the story a simple matter.

The performance of Corrado Racca as Napoleon is outstanding. He brings a breath of reality to an almost legendary figure. Worthy of mention is the work of the child player, Pino Locchi, as Napoleon's adored son, the King of Rome.

The highlights of the Emperor's last and in many ways his greatest adventure, are told swiftly, as the events themselves moved. There is always action, dominated by the movement of the "Little Corporal," against an early 19th century background of political double-dealing, intrigue and alliance against Napoleon.

The strongest sequence of the picture is the battle of Waterloo, splendidly enacted, with Napoleon pitted against Wellington, heading the English forces, and brought to defeat by the arrival of Prussian reinforcements against the French under General Blucher. Finally there is Napoleon's forced withdrawal and the completion of the plan to send him to St. Helena.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 100 minutes. "G."

"Give Me Your Heart," this morning's opener at the New Criterion, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on July 11.

"My Man Godfrey," which opens at the Radio City Music Hall tomorrow morning, was also previewed from Hollywood, but on June 13.

Hold K. C. Jamboree

KANSAS CTY, Sept. 15.—A jamboree for picture people, press, and politicians, arranged by Earl Jameson of Film Delivery, was held here this evening. It was strictly a stag affair. Rube Finkelstein, operator of the Belmont, was co-host.

Radio Buys "Violette"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15.—Radio has purchased "Violette," a short story by Vincent Sheean which deals with a Paris news correspondent who covers the League of Nations meetings at Geneva. Katharine Hepburn will be starred.

Boston Post Office Hits at Bank Night

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—The Boston Post Office, notwithstanding the recent ruling of the Massachusettes Supreme Court that Bank Night as conducted by theatres is not a lottery issued a statement yesterday that all publications containing advertisements or news items refering to such drawings will be barred from the mails.

A circular letter mailed by Peter F. Tague, acting post master here, stated that the solicitor of the Post Office Dep't. had issued a ruling that any reference made to Bank Night qualified publications in which it appeared as unmailable under section 601 of the postal rules and regulations.

Jefferson Circuit Reaches 63 Houses

With the building of two new theatres and the acquisition of another, the Jefferson Amusement Co. now totals 63 in Texas, J. C. Clemmons, president, said yesterday. He plans to remain here about a week on product deals. With him are T. R. Clemmons, his brother and general manager, and Julius M. Gordon, attorney.

About a month ago the circuit opened the Port, La Porte, Tex., a 500-seat house and next week the Rio, Nederland, Tex., another 500-seat structure, will be opened. Last week a deal was closed for the Lyric, Port Neches, Tex., with operation to change Oct. 1.

Roxbury Theatre Robbed

ROXBURY, Mass., Sept. 15.—Two gunmen held up the Rivoli here on Monday and escaped with $1,400. The bandits, it is said, were familiar with the plan of the theatre and after the last performance forced Lewis Newman, manager, and G. Cronin, his assistant, to open the safe.

The police gave chase, shooting at a car which was doing 70 miles an hour. The speeding machine was wrecked and its two occupants were seriously injured. The car had been stolen but it was not the thieves. The real bandits made their escape.

Gallagher at Funeral

TERRE HAUTE, Sept. 15.—Richard ("Skeets") Gallagher came here by chartered plane today to attend the funeral of his father, Anthony J. Gallagher, 82, who died Sunday. The comedian returned to Hollywood on the same plane immediately after the services.

John B. Price Dead

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15.—Word has been received here of the death Sept. 12 of John B. Price, Hannibal, Mo., who was one of the earliest operators of theatres in the state. Approximately 30 years ago, Price erected one of the first three houses.

M. Temple in Story Post

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15. — Mildred Temple, formerly assistant to David Matthews, has been named story editor in the Mervyn LeRoy company.

Cowdin East by Plane

New National Organization Plan Up Again

a number of important exhibitor leads had been discussing the Congressional plan of exhibitor organization. Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T. O. C. C., fathered the idea at the time and today is still actively interested in developing it. It is understood that the to-be merged I. T. O. A. and T. O. C. C. local group will be the nucleus of the new nationwide body.

Howard S. Cullman, trustee of the Roxy, has been mentioned from time to time as slated to head the organization, if, and when, it becomes an actuality. Cullman has repeatedly denied he has been approached.

Forces outside the industry, rather than within, will be the center of attack by the new group when organized, it was stated. Exhibitor protection from legislative bodies will be the primary aim of the principals heading the Congressional districts. In some states, it is asserted, theatres are being taxed from 15 to 20 per cent of their grosses. In some instances, it was figured, exhibitors are being taxed 20 different ways.

Brandt Issues Statement

As president of the I. T. O. A., who is scheduled to head the new local organization to replace this unit and the T. O. C. C., Harry Brandt was queried on the reports he would lend his full support to the Congressional organization idea. Without hesitation he confirmed the rumors with a broad smile. At the same time he had his say about the M. P. T. O. A. and Allied.

"Ed Kuykendall and Abram F. Myers are just names," he declaimed. "There is no national organization that functions for exhibitors.

"The need for a national organization is greater now than ever before," he added, "and I certainly would be interested in any plan that would give exhibitors over the entire country the assurance that a properly organized and a smoothly functioning organization would give.

"Myers and Kuykendall, who have talked a lot and delivered nothing, should be supplanted by an individual from the outside who is big enough to handle national affairs.

"The industry is menaced by far greater enemies from without than within by unnecessary, impractical, and, in many cases, abusive legislation.

"It is costing this industry millions which should be diverted into channels of usefulness. The exhibitor today has nowhere to turn for support on matters that are pressing him in his own state or because of Federal acts.

"Who knows but that some day in the future, and I hope soon, a Messiah will come who will eventually lead theatre owners of America to that place in the sun to which they are rightfully entitled."

Kipling Yarn for Shirley

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15.—"Wee Willie Winkie," by Rudyard Kipling, has been bought by Twentieth Century-Fox for Shirley Temple.

Golfer Sues on Use Of Poses in a Short

A $50,000 damage suit alleging wrongful use of his photograph in films and advertising was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday on behalf of Jack Redmond, professional golfer, against Columbia.

The complaint charges that during the spring of 1935 Redmond gave a private exhibition of trick shots for the Fox Movietone News at the Country Club, Eatontown, N. J. Fox Movietone exhibited the pictures and the plaintiff got no compensation therefor. Redmond further charges that at different times after May 15, 1936, Columbia, without his written consent, showed pictures of him in "Golfing Rhythm."

These were the shots for which he had posed for Fox Movietone News, he says. He charges that as a result of this breach he has lost contracts with other producers.

Columbia has filed a general denial and has further asserted that "Golfing Rhythm" is one of a series of films portraying events of public interest and that Redmond consented that Fox Movietone News make unlimited use of the pictures and that it obtained permission from Fox Movietone News to incorporate Redmond's pictures in "Golfing Rhythm." This morning counsel for Redmond will appear before Edgar A. Lauer in N. Y. Supreme Court and ask that various defenses set up by Columbia be stricken out.

Denials Filed in Play Suit

Answers were filed yesterday in Federal Court to the $2,000,000 plagiarism suit brought by Edna Buckler against Sidney Kingsley, Samuel Goldwyn, Random House and Norman Bel Geddes over the play, "Dead End." The complaint charged in the suit recently filed that "Dead End" was a steal from her play, "Money."

In his answer, Kingsley stated that he had never known the late Joseph T. Bickerton until after "Dead End" had been produced and that Bickerton was never his attorney. He further asserted that he never had read the play entitled "Money." General denials were filed by Random House and Norman Bel Geddes. Goldwyn's answer has not been filed as yet. Kingsley sold "Dead End" recently to Goldwyn for $165,000.

Pathe Opposes Questioning

A motion was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday to set aside the petition of Herman B. Freedman to examine officers of Pathe Film Corp. in connection with the suit against him for two promissory notes. Counsel for Pathe asserts that the examination is unnecessary. Freedman on the other hand has entered a general denial to the suit and stated that Pathe agreed to look for payment to the First Division Exchanges.

Century Planning Six

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15.—Century Pictures will make a series of six action films starring Yancy Lane, produced by H. A. Wohl. Plans call for Spanish versions to be released through a major company, but that deal has not been closed. Dickie Jones, child player, will be featured in the series.

Plans Test in Court On Usher's Ballyhoo

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 15.—A court test will be made of the right of R. G. Cochran, usher, to ballyhoo in front of the Ohio Theatre. Tom Muchmore, manager of the Ohio, previously submitted to arrest for permitting the ballyhoo, but was discharged when the judge held that the police should have arrested the person who was actually doing the announcing.

Muchmore said that the usher was standing on company property at the time he was taken into custody, and that he would make a test case of the arrest.

Nine U. A. Features Ready for Release

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15.—United Artists producers have completed nine films, which are ready for release, six are in advanced stage of production and six are in preparation.

Those completed include: Samuel Goldwyn's "Dodsworth" and "Come and Get It"; "The Garden of Allah," from Selznick - International; "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," "Elephant Boy" and "Rembrandt" from Alexander Korda; Pickford-Lasky have "The Gay Desperado," Criterion has "Accused," and Reliance has "The Last of the Mohicans."

It is expected that 21 features will be completed by the first of next year.

The Spanish film, "Incertidumbre" ("Uncertainty"), which United Artists is releasing, will have its premiere at the Cervantes Theatre in New York on Friday. It will be the first under U. A. 's new plan of distributing Spanish features in this country. It was produced by Hispania-Orbis Films.

"Godfrey" Grosses Hitting High Spots

Universal executives are in a state of excitement over the grosses being rolled up by "My Man Godfrey" across the country, with city after city reporting totals in excess of those rolled up by "Show Boat" and "Magnificent Obsession."

Joe Weil, exploitation director, sent the following wire to R. H. Cochrane on the coast yesterday:

"Here are latest 'Godfrey' figures: Reading, Pa., six days, $6,400, beating 'Show Boat' by $1,200; Akron, seven days, $5,900, beating 'Show Boat' by $200 and 'Obsession' by $600; Denver, six days, $10,500, beating 'Show Boat,' seven days, by $5,000 and will top 'Obsession' few hundred on week; Erie, Pa., three days, $2,000, topping 'Show Boat' by $800.

"Fort Worth, first four days, $5,000, same as 'Obsession,' topping 'Show Boat' by $2,300; Indianapolis, first week, $7,500, $400 less than 'Obsession' which played larger house, topping 'Show Boat' $1,500 and held over; Los Angeles, first two days, second week, combined runs $7,000, compared with $3,700 for 'Show Boat,' and $4,200, 'Obsession'; Oklahoma City, eight days, $8,000, topping 'Show Boat' by $3,800 and 'Obsession' by $1,400; Pittsburgh, sensational, $10,000 first week in smaller theatre, $2,000 more than 'Show Boat,' but $3,000 less than 'Obsession, held over first day, second week which is as large as first two days, second week, 'Obsession.

"Portland, six days, $7,200, same as 'Show Boat' and $500 better than 'Obsession'; St. Louis, seven days, $15,000 in smaller theatre than 'Show Boat,' and 'Obsession' and practically equal business, being held over second week; Salt Lake City, seven days, $8,500, topping 'Show Boat' $2,400 and 'Obsession' $1,700; San Diego, first three days, second week, $1,800, topping 'Show Boat' by $200, 'Obsession' by $300.

"San Francisco, two days, $5,000, topping 'Show Boat' by $2,200, 'Obsession' by $2,400; Seattle, first week, $10,700, topping 'Show Boat' by $3,000, 'Obsession' by $2,500; Toledo, first week, $8,000, topping 'Show Boat' by $1,700 and held over for first time in theatre's history; Toronto, six days, $10,000, topping 'Show Boat' by $500, and 'Obsession' by $300.

I. A. and FWC Agree On Union Wage Scale

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—Projectionists' Local 150, I. A. T. S. E., has successfully completed negotiations with Fox West Coast for the granting of union wages throughout the territory. The settlement has been reached with Dave Bershon of the Mesa and Leimert theatres the last two houses to accept the arrangement. The union scale is retroactive to April 1. Rollie Hayward and Earl Hamilton negotiated. Fox West Coast executives gave their approval.

Simultaneously, the union, through its attorney, Sidney Sampson, filed an answer in Superior Court to an order granted to the independent Roxie, Glendale, to prevent picketing. At the same time Hayward warned houses in the locality that failure to grant union hours and wages would call for immediate boycott.

Loew Leaves Today For Canada Survey of Britain, from Canada for London on Sept. 26.

The M-G-M foreign head pointed out yesterday there is no intention on part of Loew's to build, but that the survey was to be made to see how the company is getting along. It is possible that the Canadian trip may take a little longer than he plans to stay. In that event, Loew will leave on the next boat after the Empress of Britain sails.

Loew stated yesterday that his voyage to England was to study the M-G-M, Twentieth Century-Fox-G. B. deal. The extent of time this would take could not be predicted by the M-G-M foreign chief. After his English sojourn, Loew will head for the Far East on a general trip which will take in the inspection of the company's theatres and distribution. He does not intend to return to this country for several months.

studio, but as yet there has been no agreement as to the location.

Two towns, Montreux and Zurich, are competing for the honor. In Zurich a municipal committee is studying the situation, while the Federal commission is engaged in a similar survey at Montreux. The lively newspaper discussion of the project which followed the announcement aroused such a degree of interest and brought forth so many differing opinions, that the Government has postponed a decision in order not to offend either of the two towns.

Klein Predicts 25% Gain British Films

A 25 per cent increase in British production during the new season is anticipated by the London trade, Edward L. Klein, sales representative for British producers, said yesterday. The expected increase, however, is dependent to an important degree on what provisions are incorporated in the new quota law, Klein said. If the expected increase is realized, British studios will turn out in excess of 400 features during 1936-'37.

Klein reported that the London trade expects to see several new producing companies organized there subsequent to the closing of the Twentieth Century-Fox-M-G-M-Gaumont British deal.

"Every important consolidation of producing interests has been followed by the development of new companies," Klein said. "Already there are indications in London that this will happen shortly after the Gaumont deal is closed."

Klein arrived in New York with his wife, Mrs. Etta Klein, on the Brittanic, Sunday. He brought with him prints of the new Capitol Prod. and Quality Films product, for which he will seek American distribution. He will also acquire American product for British distribution during his month's stay here.

Plans "Ecstasy" Arrest

Kansas City, Sept. 14.—H. F. McElroy, city manager, said today that he would order operators of the Royal arrested if any further attempts are made to show the picture "Ecstasy," banned late last month by City Censor Guy Holmes, and by an appeal board of three appointed by McElroy.

Hearing Opens on RCA's Patent Pact

maintains that instead of not paying sufficient royalties it has been paying more than is just.

RCA charges in a cross bill that P.S.B. violated its agreement by dividing the licensing agreement with another corporation, Philco Radio and Television Corp.

Preliminary details today included the reviewing of the P.S.B. complaint and the introduction of a vast number of exhibits by former Federal Judge Hugh M. Morris of Wilmington, counsel for the complainant. Some of these exhibits seek to show that cross control among P.S.B., Philco Radio and Television Corp. and Transitone Automobile Radio Corp. ceased to exist after July 30, 1934. RCA has charged that P.S.B. sold large quantities of apparatus which it was licensed to manufacture to Philco and its subsidiaries and to Transitone.

Cancelled checks of money paid to RCA were put into evidence in an effort to show that royalties were fairly computed. The chancellor will be called upon to determine the basis on which royalties should be computed, P.S.B. claiming one system as proper while RCA supports a different form of payment.

In its bill P.S.B. contends that termination of its agreement would prevent it from doing further business and would injure Philco which distributes P.S.B. products.

John W. Davis of New York is chief counsel for RCA.

jects, Schenck would not comment on the Educational contract.

As for newsreels, that's another matter, "an important proposition" and a necessity, he said. Enconiums were showered on S. R. Kent by Schenck for developing the Movietone News to "the greatest of all." He said he was "very proud" of the reel.

Para.-Prudential Agree

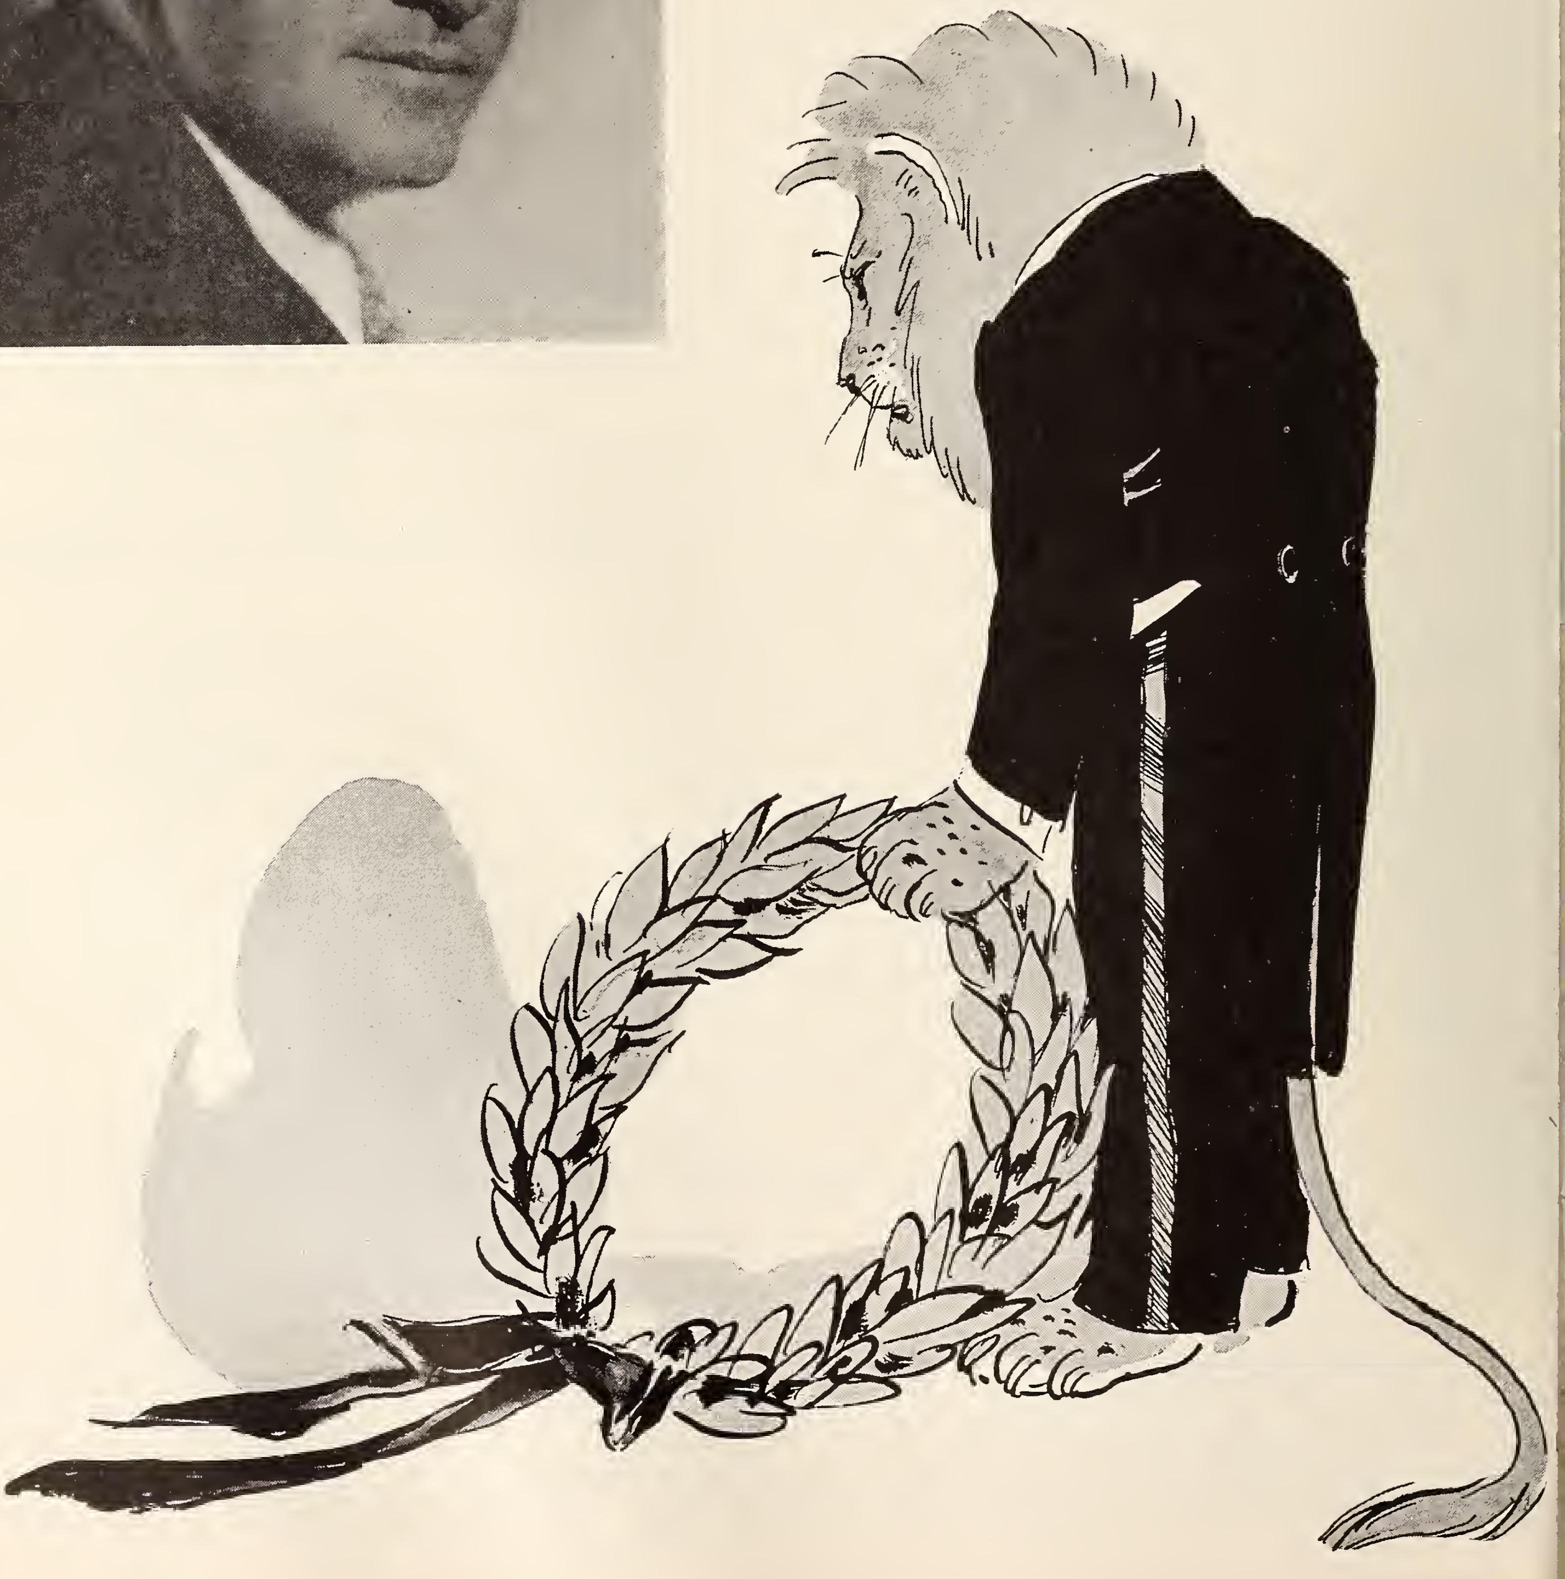
Milton Kusell and Henry Randel of Paramount yesterday closed with Joe Seider and Irwin Wheeler of Prudential on a deal which will provide for the showing of the distributor's product next season in 35 houses of the circuit. After the pact was signed, Kusell left for Buffalo by plane on another deal.

Greenhouse to Far East

Daniel Greenhouse, former M-G-M manager at Colombia, S. A., has been transferred to the Far East by Arthur Loew. He will make his headquarters at Batavia, Java, Dutch East Indies. Greenhouse is in New York on a vacation and will leave for Batavia in about a week.

"Adverse" Opens Big

Portland, Sept. 15.—A heavy exploitation campaign brought out long lines for the opening of "Anthony Adverse" at the Paramount today. Top prices were advanced from 35 to 55 cents. The first day's gross was $2,000.



Tributes Pour In from Coast And Overseas

Hollywood, Sept. 15.—The avalanche-like proportions of tributes to the memory and work of Irving Thalberg gained momentum today. Some of the comment follows:

Walter Wanger: "His position in the industry cannot be replaced. He was the undisputed leader in production and was loved and respected by everyone who had the privilege of knowing him. His passing is an irreparable loss to the industry and to the millions all over the world who loved high class pictures."

William Koenig, general manager of Universal studio: "I began my film career under Irving Thalberg. I cannot find words to express my sense of terrible, personal loss."

Pandro Berman, executive producer at Radio: "It is hard to believe that the career of Irving Thalberg, so representative of the industry itself, should be so abruptly terminated. There is no worker in Hollywood, from star to electrician, who does not feel a personal loss, for Thalberg was a friend to all."

"A Great Artist"

Merian C. Cooper: "Irving Thalberg was not only a great producer but a great artist. His was one of those rare minds. It was bound by no convention or precedent. His work probably more than that of any other man in pictures served to raise the standard of the entire industry. Not only M-G-M, but the industry as a whole has suffered a tremendous loss in his death."

William LeBaron, Paramount production executive: "The death of this great friend is too sudden to realize. His position in the industry was one which will be impossible to fill. My deepest sympathies go out to his family in their bereavement."

Frank Capra, producer, Columbia: "The death of Irving Thalberg leaves me stunned. I have lost a great friend and the industry has lost one of its truly great leaders. I long considered him the most competent and inspired producer."

Clark Gable: "At a time like this what is there to say?"

His Altruism Cited

John Stahl: "Irving Thalberg's passing is a shocking tragedy. He gave his life to the advancement of this industry with little thought of himself or of reward. Many of the finest pictures ever made will remain a tribute to his memory, but the industry will not find another Thalberg."

Frank Lloyd, Paramount producer: "The sudden death of Irving Thalberg is a great shock and irreparable loss to his friends. I extend my deepest sympathy to his family."

W. S. Van Dyke: "The industry in which Irving Thalberg was so instrumental in building will feel his loss keenly. Our great consolation rests in the fact that whatever he built was built upon a rock and his precepts and philosophy will carry on long after many of us are forgotten."

Harry Rapf, associate producer at M-G-M: "Not only the industry, but the millions who go to theatres throughout the world will mourn the loss of Irving Thalberg. It is unbelievable that he has left us. To me he was a wonderful friend."

Edmund Goulding: "I have lost the best friend I ever had or will have. He was a living lesson in honor, duty and friendship."

Robert Z. Leonard, M-G-M director who did "The Great Ziegfeld": "Having been associated with Irving Thalberg for 15 years, the shock of losing such a great person and friend was, at the least, terrific. The industry has lost something which can never be replaced."

"Leaves a Void"

John Stone, producer for Twentieth Century-Fox: "Thalberg's death leaves a void in Hollywood that can never be filled. He was as much respected personally as he was admired professionally. He deservedly held a position pre-eminent as a man and as a producer."

Chester Morris: "Irving Thalberg's work was not confined to any one studio. His interest embraced the entire industry."

Jack Benny: "The death of Irving Thalberg comes as an overpowering shock to me. It is hardly believable. It is awful, just awful. I knew and admired him greatly and feel that Hollywood has lost one of its greatest persons."

George Raft: "Hollywood and the industry have received an irreparable setback. Not only a fine man, Irving Thalberg was a consummate artist."

Robert Fairbanks: "His death is a sad blow to the artistic world. His constant striving to make better films and his tireless energy helped the industry to reach higher creative pinnacles than the world of make-believe ever attained before."

Lou Anger: "His death is one of the most tragic losses the industry has experienced. He was an executive genius."

Victor McLaglen: "Irving Thalberg was truly a genius in the executive field as well as the artistic world. He was one of the prime leaders in placing the American industry on the high creative plane it enjoys throughout the world."

Hal Horne: "He will be missed not only by the industry to which he contributed so brilliantly, but by the far-flung legion of filmgoers who thrilled to the product of his artistry."

Tod Browning: "I remember the day when Thalberg first took charge of Universal. My association with him is something one can only cherish in the heart as a great inspiration. He was as great as he was good."

Ben Piazza: "The four happiest years of my life were spent working for him. During that time, I was constantly impressed by his absolute thoughtfulness to others and his generosity in giving credit to his fellow-workers."

Lawrence Tibbett: "He was responsible for the creation of some of the greatest films Hollywood has produced. He will be greatly missed by the industry and the public."

George Cukor: "The sudden passing leaves us without words to describe our feeling of irreparable loss."

Harold Lloyd: "Irving Thalberg earned and deserved the many honors conferred upon him by the industry. His daring, initiative and innate artistry made him a foremost contributor to screen progress. His pictures stand as monuments to his art."

Warner Baxter: "Not only have I lost a splendid friend, but the industry one of its greatest leaders."

Janet Gaynor: "I am terribly shocked at the news. The screen world has lost one of its greatest guiding lights."

One of the "Greatest Minds"

Richard Rowland: "The passing of Irving Thalberg is a great shock to me. The industry has lost one of its greatest minds and the hiatus left by his sudden departure will be felt for a long time. My sincerest condolences to Miss Shearer."

Ruth Chatterton: "I have lost one of my truest friends."

Grace Moore: "Death always seems more tragic when it comes to someone early in life and with so many of life's finer things to live for. Irving Thalberg's sudden, untimely passing is tragic indeed."

Carole Lombard: "Word that Irving Thalberg so suddenly passed on comes as a terrible shock. It is difficult, in fact it is impossible, for me to say more at this time."

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink: "I am too heartbroken to talk. I was a dinner guest of Irving ing to find the M-G-M organization at a virtual standstill.

Flags were at half-staff on all studios except M-G-M, where, strangely, there is no flagpole. Nothing was done about it because of the general feeling among his co-workers that this could be taken as a symbol of Thalberg's lack of ostentation.

In the subdued conversations carried on at the plant attention was called to the fact that it was at Del Monte nine years ago that Thalberg and Norma Shearer spent their honeymoon. It was at Del Monte, too, that he became ill a week ago.

In the ranks of M-G-M workers, many of whom had had no personal contact with him, his passing seems to be felt keenly because he was the symbol of a fulfilled dream—the boy who had made good. He was probably the only man in Hollywood to be recognized without challenge as a production genius; probably the only man, too, to reach that position in extreme youth and stay there in a kaleidoscopic struggle of personalities where rises and falls are spectacular and commonplace at the same time.

M-G-M Studio Closes

Culver City, Calif., Wednesday, Sept. 16.—The M-G-M studio closed at midnight last night for 24 hours as a mark of respect to the memory of Irving Thalberg. The academy will be closed Wednesday morning.

All studios will suspend for five minutes.

Exchanges Stop for Hour

The New York office of Loew's and M-G-M will close today at 1 P.M.

All exchanges of M-G-M throughout the country will cease activity for one hour today at 10 A.M. Pacific Time (2 P.M. N. Y. Time).

has lost a great personality. He dreamed and dared beyond his fellow producers. Irving Thalberg was the most powerful, single force behind the advancement of the talking picture."

Hannen Swaffer, writing in the Daily Herald: "A man whom scandal never touched. His death is a terrible loss to a great business he helped make worth millions. A real producing genius, Irving Thalberg inspired a half dozen other producers."

Paul Holt in the Daily Express: "This frail man held Hollywood gently in the palm of his hand. He always was a jump ahead of the next man. He died too soon."

The Morning Post: "The outstanding producer in the film industry. His courage and artistic judgment built him a unique position."

The Daily Mirror alluded to the ending of Hollywood's "perfect romance" and likened the marital relation between Thalberg and Norma Shearer to "Romeo and Juliet."

Coast Papers Eulogize

Los Angeles, Sept. 15.—"Of not many can it be said their passing constitutes a loss to the entire world, yet it is literally true wherever American motion pictures are shown the touch of genius which was Irving Thalberg's will be missed," stated the Los Angeles Times editorially this morning. "His untimely death at the height of a brilliant career is one of the heaviest blows which the industry has suffered."

The Los Angeles Examiner: "Into brief years, Irving Thalberg crowded a long lifetime of splendid achievement. He won material success and, greater than that, spiritual success. Tirelessly and devotedly he followed his own high ideals. He believed pictures could be fine, beautiful, true and uplifting and to that cause dedicated his life. Success did not change him. He was a modest, kindly, tolerant, understanding and great gentleman. He made no enemies, only friends."

"He Had Unusual Taste"

"Amid all the phoniness of Hollywood there was genuineness to his ability," editorialized the World-Telegram yesterday on the death of Irving Thalberg. "No one may question it. He was a young man of big ideas, dealing in the colossal, the stupendous and the amazing. He had unusual taste, and he insisted upon quality. He was a discoverer and purchaser of talent, and his keen eye opened up to him many a pioneering venture which gave new direction to film entertainment. To name over his outstanding productions is to touch year after year many of the landmarks of film progress. Hollywood and Broadway had a well-grounded respect for him, and his friends speak of him with affection.

"The public owes to him some of the highest enjoyment the screen has afforded. The screen itself owes to him many of its worthiest achievements."

Thalberg only a few days ago. It is impossible that he is gone so soon."

Albert Lewin: "To speak of one's sense of personal loss at a time like this seems out of place. The loss of Thalberg is too great a loss to the world at large to mention my own grief. He was one of those rare beings born only every few centuries—a true leader, a true genius and a magnificent figure in the industry he loved and to which he gave so much. He was a humanitarian in the truest sense and the mark he left on the world will long endure."

Max Siegel, Thalberg's assistant: "In my mind, he was the greatest man in show business and that includes stage as well as screen. Had he been a producer on Broadway, his success would have been equally as brilliant. He had patience and courage."

John M. Stahl: "Irving Thalberg's passing is a shocking tragedy. He gave his life to the advancement of this industry."

"A True Friend"

Sam Wood: "No man had so forcibly the courage of his convictions as did Irving Thalberg. This was a quality that enabled him to lead the screen into paths of new progress and into greater achievements than any other leader. He was a true friend, not only to all of us who knew and loved him, but to humanity at large. To many, Thalberg was everything that the ideal man could be. His loss is too great to ever express in mere hopeless words."

Abe Lehr: "I am stunned, so stunned I find it difficult to express what I feel. His loss cannot be measured. There is no one who can take his place."

William Perlberg: "Irving Thalberg's untimely death is one of the most tragic blows the industry has suffered. His work was completely unselfish."

Sam Engel: "The loss to Hollywood is irreplaceable. He represented the highest type of man."

Official Soviet Regrets

The New York offices of Amkino yesterday received the following cablegram from Boris Schumiatsky, head of the Soviet film industry:

"The directors and artists of the Soviet cinema industry join in the universal grief for the irreparable loss of one of the most creative minds in the American industry.

"Please accept our deepest sympathy."

Copies of the cablegram were forwarded to Louis B. Mayer and Norma Shearer.

More Praise from London

London, Sept. 15.—British film leaders today paid further tribute to the memory of Irving Thalberg.

Theodore H. Fligelstone, president of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, stated: "A very definite and a very great loss to the industry here as well as in America. British exhibitors are deeply sorry that a man who meant so much to screen entertainment should be cut off so soon."

Herbert Wilcox, of British and Dominions Prod.: "He did more for films than the entire American film industry."

Capt. Richard Norton, managing director of the new Pinewood Studios: "I am distressed beyond measure to hear of the loss of one of the most distinguished figures in the industry. This is among the greatest blows the film has ever had. Personally charming and so great a producer, I cannot remember a bad film he ever made. It is tragic that the blow fell on the eve of what probably was his greatest triumph, 'Romeo and Juliet.'"

Arthur Dent, managing director of Wardour Films: "One of the most vital forces in the industry, the British trade and even the public admired him intensely as a potent force shaping outstanding entertainment. Irving Thalberg had a definite and important place in the history of films."

An Exhibitor Comments

J. C. Clemmons, president of the Jefferson Amusement Co., Beaumont, Tex.: "The death of Irving Thalberg is a great loss for exhibitors as well as distributors. He set marks for all producers to shoot at. The things he did gave all something to think about. He was a creative genius."

Archbishop, Refuting Shaw, Clarifies Status of Legion

an agency of Bishops in the United States. It deals only with the morality of the cinema. Its chief concern is to point out what is contrary to moral principles and moral living. Groups carrying on other activities even under the name, Legion of Decency, have no commission from the general body of Bishops.

"Third: In the confusion arising from the misuse of the words 'Catholic Action' in the letter of Mr. Shaw the impression is given that The Legion of Decency might concern itself with scripts and requisitions. The Legion of Decency does not undertake in any way to criticise specific scripts nor in any manner whatsoever indicate how a motion picture should be produced. That is not its business. But after a picture is produced it can and does say, if necessary, what wrong moral ideas are contained and that the picture is to be considered, in part or in whole, dangerous to Christian morality.

"Fourth: The Legion of Decency has noted with great gratification that the motion picture industry has set up a system of self-regulation that is helping it to produce pictures that are becoming more and more acceptable to the general public. It must be unmistakably clear, however, that the Legion of Decency has no part in this self-regulating body nor has it any responsibility for it. Members of the American hierarchy constitute a conservative body of prelates whose judgment is always sane. They are never meddlers. They know their domain of doctrine and morality and Catholic action. Beyond that they never wish to go."

Archbishop McNicholas spoke as representative of all Bishops of the Catholic Church in the United States.

Canadians Renew Pledges

Toronto, Sept. 15.—The Legion of Decency in Ontario observed the ceremony of renewal of pledges last Sunday by all congregations.

A joint circular letter dealing with films was prepared by the ecclesiastical authorities requiring the observance, and parish priests were directed to speak against so-called indecent and immoral pictures. The pledge was read from pulpits and congregations were asked to stand and, with the right hand raised, to repeat the pledge to abstain from attendance at theatres where pictures are shown which have been reported as unworthy through Catholic channels.

Schools under the jurisdiction of the Roman Catholic Church were visited by the clergy during the subsequent week when the children were instructed to accept the guidance of the church in theatre patronage.

Rosenberg Is Chairman

Pittsburgh, Sept. 15.—M. A. Rosenberg, manager of the Rialto, has been named general chairman of the M. P. T. O. of Western Pennsylvania convention, which will be held in a downtown hotel here Oct. 19 and 20. An attendance of 200 is expected.

Dubinsky Back from Trip

Kansas City, Sept. 15.—Ed Dubinsky, head of the Dubinsky Brothers circuit, returned this week from a three-week, 3,000-mile motor trip with his son, Stanley.

Resume Managers' School

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—The Students Managers' Traning School, originated and conducted by Joe Goetz, assistant division manager and booker for RKO Midwest, has resumed after a summer vacation. Arthur M. Frudenfeld, division manager, addressed a class of 14 ushers.

Since the school was organized last February, two ushers have been promoted to assistant managers. They are Beman Richey, now at the Shubert, and Roy Ferndon, at the Capitol.

Tickets Named for Local 802 Election

Three different tickets will be presented to the membership of Local 802 of the A. F. M. at the elections scheduled for December. It will be the first time the musicians' union will vote for their president. Heretofore that office has been filled by appointment.

One ticket is headed by Jack Rosenberg, present secretary, and supported by William Feinberg, present vice-president. A second ticket has named only Harold Basch for secretary, supported by Selig S. Liese and Billy Van, and a third is headed by Edward Canavan, present president, who is supported by Louis Weissman. Petitions have been circulating pressing Liese to run for the presidency.

Fox Unit Takes Over 2 in Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, Sept. 15.—Fox Utah Theatres Corp. has taken over the furnishings and equipment and leases of the Orpheum and Studio here from Fanchon & Marco. F. H. Ricketson, Jr., president and general manager of the Fox unit, has appointed John Taylor, formerly of Denver, as resident manager.

R. W. McGowan, manager of the Orpheum for the past two years, will return to St. Louis in a similar capacity at the Orpheum there. Serving with Ricketson are Albert J. Gould, secretary; I. Weiner, treasurer, with headquarters in Denver, William Steege as district manager and Max Goldstein as booking manager here.

More Actors in Canada

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Another and final contingent of Hollywood actors has arrived on the scene in the heart of British Columbia for location work on "The Great Barrier," G. B. film of the building of the C. P. R. which has been in work for the past four months.

The latest contingent represents the original board of directors of the first Canadian transcontinental railway and the character of Canada's prime minister 50 years ago. Frank McGlynn is depicting the character of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first Prime Minister; Arthur Loft is William Van Horne of the railway story; Reginald Barlow is James J. Hill; Gilbert Emery is George Stephen; William Ruhl is Lord Shaughnessy; Howard Hickman is Donald A. Smith, and L. Millman is Angus.

Columbia Borrows Brent

Hollywood, Sept. 15. — Columbia has borrowed George Brent from Warners for the lead in "Safari in Paradise," opposite Jean Arthur. The picture will be made from a story by Dale Van Every with Alfred E. Green directing under the supervision of Everett Riskin.

Simple Rites Held on Coast For Thalberg

Services Are Limited to Relatives, Friends

By GUS McCARTHY

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—In an atmosphere of quiet dignity that contrasted sharply with this community's well known love of display even on solemn occasions, funeral services for Irving G. Thalberg were conducted today at Temple B'nai Brith.

In accordance with Norma Shearer's wish the rites were limited to relatives, close friends and business associates of her husband. Among the mourners were Thalberg's father and mother and sister.

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, following the solemn ritual, extolled the homely virtues of a kindly man. From the ancient Testament he chose words designed to pay homage to the memory of the departed and at the same time comfort the bereaved.

Preceding the benediction, Grace Moore sang the XXIII Psalm, with the organ playing softly. A white

M-G-M Adds Second Play to B'way List

M-G-M has added a second play for Broadway production to its properties for the new season. "Spring Tide," a comedy by George Billam and Peter Goldsmith, was acquired in London for production here. Earlier, M-G-M acquired Philip Barry's "Spring Dance," at a reported price of $25,000.

The company states that, with these exceptions, it will back no other plays under the new minimum basic agreement adopted by the Dramatists' Guild for playwrights and producers.

Pope Declares Faith In U. S. Film Public

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 16.—Pope Pius XI today told George MacDonald, papal marquis, of New York, that he was sure his recent encyclical on films would meet a warm reception in the United States. The Pope declared that he had "faith in the good sense of the American people" in their reaction to pictures.

MacDonald presented to the Pope a large collection of documents and clippings describing the progress of the campaign on films now being conducted in the United States.

U.S. Spanish Units Facing New Problems

Labor Groups' Conflict Basis of Difficulty

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

BARCELONA, Sept. 4.—Conflicts in policy between the Confederacion Nacional de Trabajo and the Union General de Trabajo, the two major labor syndicates which hold the balance of power in the country, are presenting vexing problems to the American distributors, particularly in Madrid and Valencia. The situation is less difficult here, however, than in the other cities, since here and throughout Catalonia province the C. N. T. is in undisputed control, whereas in Madrid and Valencia the U. G. T., stronger numerically, is able to make its objections to matters of policy felt.

Distributors in Madrid lately have Little Concern Over Cuba Reel Censoring

Newsreel offices here are accepting the Cuban censorship of reels, instituted yesterday in Havana, calmly, and for the moment are awaiting further developments. The Dep't of the Interior yesterday ordered all American distributors in Havana to submit their reels for special censorship, based on the fear that scenes of the Spanish conflict might lead to disorders in Cuba.

Little concern was expressed yesterday here that the initial censorship move against newsreels might lead to censorship of the reels permanently and in other directions. Newsreels in Cuba have never before been subject to censorship.

Philco a Separate Company, Says PSB

WILMINGTON, Sept. 16.—Philco Radio and Television Corp. was reorganized as a separate corporation July 30, 1934, to meet the competition in the industry, James M. Skinner, president of Philadelphia Storage Battery Co., testified today in the hearing on an injunction action which seeks to prevent Radio Corp. of America from terminating the storage battery company's licensing agreement.

While Skinner was on the stand, Hugh M. Morris, counsel for Philadelphia Storage Battery, said that the move was made to secure lower royalty rates and "to prevent its great-

Some Record!

"Give Me Your Heart," which opened yesterday at the New Criterion, broke the house record, according to Sid Rechetnick, Warner press agent de luxe, who knows a good stock line and when to use it.

Criterion Draws Big Crowds Opening Day

Approximately 1,810 persons entered the New Criterion every 60 minutes during the first nine hours yesterday. The total number of admissions from 8 A.M., when the house opened, to 5 P.M., was 16,300. The theatre seats 1,700.

An hour-by-hour resume for the 540 minutes follows: From 8 A.M. to 9 A.M., 900; 9 to 10, 1,500; 10 to 11, 1,900; 11 to noon, 2,000; noon to 1 P.M., 2,400; 1 to 2, 2,100; 2 to 3, 2,200; 3 to 4, 1,900; 4 to 5, 1,400.

The opening attraction is "Give Me Your Heart," which has been booked for an indefinite run.

Cullman Says Roxy Scales Will Remain

Prices at the Roxy will continue as they are without change, despite reports a committee of independent and major circuit heads in the metropolitan area are planning to contact him in an effort to eliminate the "early bird" admission, Howard S. Cullman, trustee, said yesterday.

"I have heard nothing directly, but only indirectly through MOTION PICTURE DAILY, that a committee planned to see me regarding tipping the morning price," he added. "The portals of my office are open to everyone and I will see one and all. Albeit, I have no thought of changing admissions. Why should I?"

Cullman said he recalled the days

Warners Raise Scale In Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—Warners today instituted increases in admission prices at first runs in this territory. The raises ranged from five cents for matinees to 10 cents for evening plus tax. A 10-cent increase in loge prices is effective in Hollywood and downtown houses, subsequents remaining the same.

A 10-cent increase, to 50 cents, prevails throughout the northwest on "Anthony Adverse," with a similar advance planned on "The Great Ziegfeld." Balcony admissions at Salem, Ore., have been raised from 20 to 25 cents. The increases were made following a series of meetings here.

Progress Greater Than Expected, He Says

Universal's 1936-'37 production program is being revised and expanded as a result of the increased number of contracts already closed, J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman, said yesterday on his return from the coast. The decision followed conferences with R. H. Cochrane, president; Charles R. Rogers, William Koenig and James R. Grainger at the studio.

"When the new administration took charge of the studio last April," Cowdin said, "we laid out a tentative and conservative program of what we expected to be able to do. Cochrane and I, during our last visit at the studio, found that in pictures completed and pictures fully ready to shoot we are now at the point which we had not expected to reach until next Jan. 1. From the number of pictures already completed and those ready to go into work, Universal this year will be able to meet its release schedule promptly, something the com-

Schwartz Is Named To Columbia Board

Charles Schwartz of the law firm of Schwartz & Frohlich, was elected to the board of Columbia Pictures at the annual meeting of stockholders of the company held at the home office yesterday. Schwartz's election fills the vacancy which has existed since the death of Nathan Burkan. Schwartz is also secretary of the company.

Except for the election the meeting transacted only routine business. In answer to a stockholder's question, Jack Cohn, vice-president, who presided at the meeting, said that "Lost Horizon" would be released in November. The board is scheduled to meet in the near future for the annual election of officers of the company.

Felt Sues Trans-Lux

A suit for $42,900 alleging breach of contract was filed yesterday in Federal Court by Abraham Felt against Trans-Lux Daylight Pictures Screen Corp. and Percy Furber. The complaint charges that the defendant entered into an agreement with the plaintiff as their agent to secure a site for a Trans-Lux house in Washington. He charges that the defendant broke the agreement with him and independently signed a lease with Evelyn McLean for 40 years at a rental of $2,400,000.

The defendants entered general denials to the allegations. The suit was originally filed in N. Y. Supreme Court and was transferred to Federal Court.

Joseph P. Stearns Joins Suit

Federal Judge Murray Hulbert yesterday allowed Joseph P. Stearns to join with Marie Reachi as co-plaintiff in connection with her suit against Warners for alleged misuse of her name. Miss Reachi, known professionally as Rosita, the dancer, formerly was of the team of Rosita & Ramon. She sued Warners for an injunction and an accounting in connection with "Gold Diggers of 1935." At the same time she filed a petition in bankruptcy. Stearns who asked to be allowed to join as a co-plaintiff is one of her creditors.

U.S. Spanish Units Facing New Problems

been faced with the problem, imposed by the U. G. T., through the Camara Syndical there, of the pooling of receipts of all houses in the Madrid area to provide for salaries and wages of the smaller and weaker units, chiefly Spanish, which have experienced steadily declining grosses.

When American company branch heads in Madrid reported the move to their Barcelona headquarters, a conference of company heads here was called at the United Artists office. Six of the group agreed on an identical telegraph reply which categorically rejected the proposal. Camara Syndical is the successor to the recently re-incorporated Seccion Central of the Camara Defensa de Cinematografia.

A reply pointed out that the plan had the approval of both the C. N. T. and U. G. T. The Barcelona group answered with a reiteration of its refusal, but declared they would suspend Madrid bookings for 30 days, and assured the payment of salaries to their employes in the interim.

Labor Groups at Odds

The move resulted in suspension of the agreement by the Camara Syndical in Madrid, with the indication that the problem would be re-examined with a view to arriving at a new formula.

During the ensuing discussion, sharp differences of opinion arose between the two chief labor syndicates, and up to this date no definite action has been taken, although a solution is expected shortly. In substance the proposals ask payment by sound American houses of the defaulted wages of employes of smaller units, some of them distinctly "fly-by-night" in character, and known to have paid extremely low wages.

It is expected the Camara will not accept the Barcelona offer to suspend bookings, since the continuance of a flow of American product is considered of vital importance to the syndicalists.

The situation in Valencia continues relatively unchanged. Consular protection there has prevented any direct seizure of films, but conditions are unsettled and unsatisfactory. There have been repeated propositions and counter-propositions between the Camara Defensa there and the Syndicalist exhibitor committee in the city. Discussions are under way relative to the refusal by certain theatres to return rented films to Radio and United Artists, which refusal was said to have been endorsed by the Syndicate.

Americans in Counter-Proposal

The latest joint counter-proposal of the American interests to the Valencia group demands 100 per cent cash payment on all films billed, with no deferred credits, that position having been taken since the Valencia houses are running day and night. Liquidation of ante-revolt credits also is demanded.

Barcelona theatres continue to hand over to the Camara Defensa their pooled payments each Thursday, in the amount of 70 per cent of the film billings, the remaining 30 per cent being carried as deferred credits, in accordance with the agreement reached three weeks ago. Totals are not revealed, but it is understood that for last week it was slightly in excess of 42,000 pesetas, while that for the current week was appreciably lower.

Western Electric here continues to be the only American unit remaining undisturbed. The office still is functioning normally, except that the unit's head, Joseph W. Dolphin, is serving the British Consul General, Norman King, and has rendered valuable assistance.

British Stock Safer

Most of the British film stock held in this country is carried on open account with Spanish representatives, and its legal position is much less favorable than that of the stock maintained by American companies as the property of export subsidiaries of the parent firms in the United States.

William B. Morgan, managing director for United Artists, who has won the sincere admiration of all factors for the manner in which he has stuck to his post through strikes and the revolt, has left for a well-earned rest of three weeks. He has joined Mrs. Morgan in London, going via Marseilles. After conferences with U. A. officials in London he plans to return to his post here.

Philco a Separate Company, Says PSB

est competitor, RCA from seeing its list of customers and prices at which it sold to the several customers." RCA had access to all books and sales records of P. S. B. as a holder of patent rights. John W. Davis, RCA counsel; objected to Morris' statement, but was overruled.

Skinner declared that at the time of the reorganization the company was paying 20 per cent higher labor rates than any other company in the industry. The chief competitors, he said, were buying on the basis of virtually manufacturing costs plus manufacturers' profit, royalty being paid on that basis. All advertising and distributing costs were paid by the purchaser and were not subject to royalty.

Philco P. S. B. Distributor

The executive declared that officials of the company executed the separation in order to place P. S. B., then selling through Philco as a subsidiary, on a par with competitors, in view of the information in April, 1932, that Congress was considering an excise tax on the component parts of radio. Philco took over from P. S. B. sales and distribution of radios and assumed other distributing expense. P. S. B. made and sold parts of radio to Philco on the basis of cost plus five per cent of manufacturers' cost.

The Internal Revenue Bureau interpreted the excise tax differently, on Philco's selling price rather than on P. S. B.'s selling price to Philco.

Skinner, at the outset, testified the agreement with RCA was made after the development of an A.C. tube for receiving sets in 1927. P. S. B. purchased the William Murdock Co., and with it the company's licensing agreement with RCA.

"U" to Expand Feature List, States Cowdin

pany unfortunately has been unable to do several times in the past.

"As far as sales are concerned," Cowdin said, "we are far ahead of previous years both in the terms of new contracts and in their number. Because of this, a revision and expansion of our production program is justified. Cochrane and I are more than gratified by the results achieved by Grainger, our general manager of distribution, and his staff. Nate Manheim, in charge of our foreign operations has set a mark for the domestic staff to shoot at, too.

Enthusiastic About "Godfrey"

"The records being established now by 'My Man Godfrey' are tremendously encouraging. Cochrane and I were both delighted and amazed at the marked progress made by our studio under Rogers and Koenig," Cowdin said. "We are having the same difficulty that all studios have at this time of year in casting pictures, but we are preparing for this by developing more new talent and promising personalities than we have ever tried to develop before. Hitherto we have tried to groom a few youngsters at a time, but now we have over 40 who look excellent and we are confident they will give new zest to our pictures."

Universal Deal Set

Universal has closed for first run showing of its new season product in the Charles Hayman theatres, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. The deal was handled for Universal by F. J. A. McCarthy, eastern sales manager, and Nate Sauber, Albany exchange manager.

"U" Managers Shifted

Clifford Eskell, former Universal head in New Zealand, has been named to succeed Alf Daff as manager of the Victorian branch, with the latter en route to Tokyo to take charge there. W. A. Hislop, New Zealand representative, will succeed Eskell.

Kennedy in London On a Scotch Quest

Whalen, former New York City police commissioner, is the head of Schenley Distributors, Inc., also a major liquor distributor in the States. This summer, Whalen succeeded in taking away from Kennedy the Dewar franchise.

Kennedy was summering at Cape Cod at the time and immediately canceled several weekend parties and other arrangements to hurry here in an effort to recoup the loss. Ted O'Leary, with FBO and Pathe during the Kennedy regimes and now with Somerset, is here in London with Kennedy.

Reissuing "Trader Horn"

London, Sept. 16.—M-G-M is reissuing "Trader Horn" for Christmas bookings.

Indies Are Asked to Mold Public Opinion

Milwaukee, Sept. 16.—Independent exhibitors must arouse public opinion to the need for the Neely-Pettengill Bill before they can expect to secure passage of the measure, Congressman Harry Sauthoff, of Madison, declared as the opening speaker at the second session of the Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n of Wisconsin at the Plankinton Hotel here this afternoon. He asked that exhibitors assume the responsibility for bringing about such reform before regulation comes from outside sources.

A. W. Steffes of Minneapolis solicited the support of the Wisconsin association in making possible the proposed work of the national defense committee, declaring that the plan to prohibit producers from engaging in distribution has been declared feasible by outstanding legal talent and that the committee, as soon as it has been pledged its $250,000 fund, will begin action immediately.

Asks for a Leader

Col. H. A. Cole, president of Texas Allied, called upon the exhibitors to band together and delegate authority to some individual whom all can trust in order that their fight may have proper leadership.

H. M. Richey, general manager of Michigan Allied, advocated that exhibitors devote at least 20 per cent of their running time to independent product.

Today's session closed with a talk by R. A. Tesch, business manager of the local organization, who referred to the circuits as an "organized minority" controlling the state situation and called upon his fellow members for a strengthening of the association.

when he couldn't get pictures, adding without mentioning names, "those who are asking assistance said at the time they would not play pictures if the Roxy showed them."

"I'll be glad to give consideration to any move progressive to the industry; but in my opinion, I don't think a tilt of the morning price at the Roxy is."

Meanwhile, it is understood that Consolidated has not dropped the opening price at its 8th Ave. theatres. It is stated the circuit will not make the move until the 42nd St. and Broadway houses discard the 10 and 25-cent tariffs.

Strike Closes Houses

Salinas, Cal., Sept. 16.—The business of the three local houses came to a complete standstill here today because of a strike of 4,000 lettuce workers. There was considerable rioting. The houses are the Fox West Coast Fox, Elrey, operated by the circuit and Lawrence Borg, and the Crystal, operated by Borg and John Peters.

Extend Bette Davis Stay

London, Sept. 16.—Justice Lewis has continued the injunction obtained by Warners to prevent Bette Davis from acting in a film for Ludovico Toeplitz until trial is ordered. An early hearing is expected.

Simple Rites Held on Coast For Thalberg

rose covered casket was carried from an embankment of flowers.

Outside a respectful crowd watched. In it were friends of Thalberg from every walk of life.

With only the family and close friends joining, the cortege proceeded to Forest Lawn Cemetery. There Rabbi Magnin conducted a simple service under a clear blue sky. The body was placed in a mausoleum crypt.

Those at the cemetery included Norma Shearer, Miss Pratt, nurse; William Thalberg and Mrs. Thalberg, Bernard Hyman and Mrs. Hyman, Lawrence Weingarten and Mrs. Weingarten, who is Thalberg's sister; Mrs. Fleischman, his aunt; Miss Hunter Hecht, a cousin; Douglas Shearer and Mrs. Shearer; Mrs. Edith Shearer, Mrs. Howard Hawks, Jack Conway and Mrs. Conway; Hunt Stromberg, Harry Rapf, Howard Dietz, Albert Lewin and Mrs. Lewin, Nicholas M. Schenck and Mrs. Schenck, Louis B. Mayer and Mrs. Mayer, E. J. Mannix and Mrs. Mannix, J. Robert Rubin and Mrs. Rubin and Edwin J. Loeb.

All studios closed during the services and the M-G-M plant remained closed until midnight.

Norma Shearer received thousands of messages yesterday from all parts of the world. Among them was one from President Roosevelt. Others were from Irving Berlin, Maria Jeritza, Noel Coward and many industry figures.

N. Y. Offices Halt Work

A three-minute period of silence in tribute to Irving Thalberg was observed by a number of the industry's home offices at 2 o'clock yesterday. The Twentieth Century-Fox office suspended activities from 2 to 2:30 P.M. The M-G-M office closed for the day at one.

In Hollywood, the studio ended its 24-hour period of silence at midnight last night. Other studios suspended activity for five minutes during the funeral services.

Regal Branches Closed

Toronto, Sept. 16. — Canadian branches of Regal Films, Ltd., were closed and darkened this afternoon as a mark of respect for Irving G. Thalberg. Regal is the Canadian distributor for M-G-M.

Calls Him "A Genius"

The New York American editorially said of Irving Thalberg yesterday:

"Irving Thalberg, one of the world's greatest motion picture producers, is dead.

"These brief words struck at the hearts of his multitude of friends, at the hearts of millions of others whose lives had been helped and brightened by the magnificent things that this young genius had done in his tragically short life.

"He was only 37—so young to die.

"But into those brief years Irving Thalberg had crowded a long lifetime of splendid achievement.

"He had won material success and, greater than that, spiritual success.

"He believed that motion pictures could be fine and beautiful, true and uplifting, and to that cause he dedicated his life.

"Success did not change him. He was modest and kindly, tolerant and understanding, a great and gallant gentleman."

"The Best"

Editorially, the Daily Mirror said, in part:

"'The good die young'—Irving Grant Thalberg, just 37 years old, was the best; he died Monday. Hollywood will miss him; Hollywood and Thalberg literally grew up together, out of slapstick and trash, into art. Thalberg will be remembered by the names of his now famous movies: 'The Big Parade,' 'Grand Hotel,' 'The Barretts of Wimpole Street,' 'Mutiny on the Bounty,' 'Romeo and Juliet' and others. And the names of these stars will be remembered long after Thalberg's name is forgotten: the late John Gilbert, Greta Garbo, Clark Gable, Joan Crawford, Myrna Loy, Jean Harlow, the late Marie Dressler, and Thalberg's wife, Norma Shearer.

"But Hollywood will remember that Irving Grant Thalberg created all those pictures, and all those stars out of his own genius and imagination.

"And other producers will remember that Thalberg made 'movies' into an art.

Modesty Limitless

Louis Sobol, columnist of the New York Evening Journal, yesterday wrote:

"Irving Thalberg was inherently a shy chap—and a modest one. . .Flamboyant, self-assertive Hollywood could never understand why he persisted in keeping his name off the screen credit list on his masterpieces, but his purpose was definite. . .'The public,' he used to say, 'don't give a hang whether it's Thalberg or John Doakes who produced the picture—they're interested in the star, the story—and maybe once in a while in the director. The few people for whose opinion I care know whether or not I've had anything to do with the picture. I feel very much like a doctor—it's enough to turn out a good job without having your name signed to it—you don't hear of doctors signing their operations.'"

Laemmle on Thalberg

By PIERRE AUTRE

Paris, Sept. 16.—Carl Laemmle was deeply affected by news of the death of Irving G. Thalberg. A cable arrived at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning at the George V Hotel where Laemmle is staying asking his secretary to break the news to Laemmle as gently as possible that Thalberg was very ill.

At 8:30 o'clock the secretary carried a copy of the European edition of the Herald-Tribune into Laemmle's room with the story of the death on the front page. Laemmle is still depressed.

"Thalberg's death is the greatest loss the industry has had," he told this correspondent today. "He was a great man and nobody can replace him. His was an outstanding, magnetic personality.

"I knew him when he was a boy of 17. Although in later years he did not work for me, he always kept in contact with me, and he often reminded me that I gave him his start. He also told the story very often to others.

"I always was proud of him and appreciated his kindness in later years. I feel very sad. I remember the lunch we had together in the private dining room at the M-G-M studios one week before I left Hollywood for Europe. I did not know I would not see him again.

"I wonder what will happen to the American film industry without Thalberg."

Laemmle and his son and secretary and Jerome Horwin will leave here Sunday for London and will stay there two weeks before returning to the United States.

I.T.O.A. Meet Routine

The board of directors of the I.T.O.A. yesterday held a routine meeting. Due to the Jewish holidays, only a few members reported. The next regular meeting of the membership will be held Wednesday at the Astor.

The personnel of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation expresses its deepest sympathy to the family and associates of Irving Thalberg, in whose passing this industry loses one of its most brilliant and best-loved leaders. His great abilities will forever be an inspiration, and the fine qualities of the man himself will forever be remembered.

Short Subjects

"The Choke's on You"

(Vitaphone)

Knobby has Joe Palooka training at the beach in this latest episode. They brush with a neighboring wrestler and a revenge match is arranged. The contestants go into training—after their fashion—and await the bell. Before the bout however there are the usual slapstick and low brow comic situations done in characteristic style. The character, "Punchy," again just about steals the show with his pantomime and business. The moment of the big battle arrives and the audience is treated to a hilarious exhibition of wrestler versus boxer. The scene is given with all its comedy possibilities and again through a ruse Palooka wins for Knobby Walsh and Ann Howe. It develops its humor and is good entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 01,086. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

"Rush Hour Rhapsody"

(Vitaphone)

The subway, hard hit by new bus lines, decides to go in for the latest in comfort, convenience and entertainment to retain its clientele. Dining cars, torch singing by Jean Sargent en route, special stops for absent minded passengers, bars and cafes on stations with floor shows are worked in and the result is a tuneful and novel twist to this two reel musical. The situations are played for their utmost and make a cleverly new entertainment idea. Production Code Seal No. 0983. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial Revue No. 1"

(Vitaphone)

Some popular and desirable information is given in the initial number of this new series. A dance director explains and illustrates the fundamentals of tap dancing, skiing technique for the novices, Oscar of the Waldorf's recipe for lamb stew and the latest in furs for the ladies. The subjects are shown in snappy style and delivered with clever comment. Production Code Seal No. 01,132. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Toy Town Hall'

(Vitaphone)

In color, this cartoon features the disappointment of Junior when he must give up listening to the radio and go to bed. However, when he is asleep he is entertained by a Jack-in-the-Box Fred Allen who, with the aid of the toys in nursery, puts on a characteristic and satisfying show for him. The film has appeal for the children. Production Code Seal No. 2,524. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Leon Navara and Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

Smooth and flowing rhythms, interspersed with the specialties of Bill Brady, Vicki Joyce and Chester Fredericks are tunefully pleasant. Navara winds up playing his favorite, "Treasure Island," in the style of Ravel and Sousa. It is set in a night club. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time 11 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Dodsworth"

(Goldwyn-United Artists)

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—Here are stage people in a stage play making it a class picture. A modern tale of domestic drama and pleasant comedy, the show is handsomely mounted by Samuel Goldwyn with the mechanics of up-to-date technique colorfully embellishing the motivating plot. Directly appealing to adults, particularly sophisticates, the film's entertainment value, together with the cast and author credit, presages rich showmanship potentialities.

The story concerns a mature, married American couple who sail in search of happiness as their visioned reward of lifetime sacrifice and work. In Europe, the wife is determined to enjoy life if it kills her although she is approaching the stage when she is no longer young and already has passed through two romantic adventures. Marked by drama and comedy, the tolerant ruins- and- tomb-viewing husband caters to his wife's whims. The third love escapade leads to the filing of a bill of divorcement. The man finds idyllic companionship in a fellow woman wanderer. The wife finds tragedy as the boy's mother forbids marriage. Disillusioned, she calls to her husband. He, seeing in her a shallow woman 20 years of married life never revealed, leaves her alone to hurry back to the other woman who means so much to him.

Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton contribute exceptional, realistic performances in the lead roles. David Niven, Paul Lukas and Gregory Gaye please as the successive lovers. Mary Astor acts with dignity and charm. In an effective dramatic episode, Maria Oupenskaya won audience applause. With Huston and Miss Chatterton, Harlan Briggs and Spring Byington account for the picture's comedy content.

Sydney Howard's dramatization of the Sinclair Lewis novel is a crisply pointed job of screen writing. Making sure none of the characteristic Lewis irony is slighted, William Wyler's direction handles the story material with sharp precision and, as he smartly permits Huston and Miss Chatterton to give full vent to their histrionic abilities, the film promises much to those appreciating the entertainment worth and quality of this domestic drama.

Production Code Seal No. 2,603. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Girl from Maxim's"

(Korda-J. H. Hoffberg)

Alexander Korda is recognized today as an outstanding producer, perhaps the leading figure in English production. This picture, produced and directed by him and said to have been completed in 1933, if not earlier, is not the work of the Korda of today, and as such, might better be passed over lightly.

Just now reaching this country, playing the World Theatre, the film is farce comedy revolving about Maxim's, notable in the Paris of the 1890's, and treating of a staid doctor's spree and the subsequent complications which result from that escapade. Mistaken identity is the time-honored basis of the farce.

The picture is weak, highly ineffective in every regard, and somehow conveys the impression of having been made some time in the screen's yesterday.

It is, in brief, something from Alexander Korda's past, and it should have been left there.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

Court Cites Mrs. Fox

Camden, N. J., Sept. 16.—Federal Judge John B. Avis here has ordered Mrs. William Fox to appear on Tuesday to show why she should not be punished for contempt of court. Referee Robert E. Steedle in the Fox bankruptcy action had reported to the court that Mrs. Fox was in contempt for not complying with a summons to testify in the proceedings at Atlantic City. She had contended she was too ill to testify.

G. N. Signs Mae Clarke

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—Mae Clarke has been signed to a term contract by Grand National. Her first role will be in Boris Petroff's musical, "Hats Off."

Lynd, Randall Signed

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—Helen Lynd and Robert Randall, stage players, have been signed by Grand National. They will have featured roles in "Hats Off."

Variety Club

Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Sept. 16.—Extensive decorative improvements will be made in the lounge of the local tent to harmonize with the modernistic atmosphere of the salon, according to H. J. Wessel, chief barker.

The Wednesday afternoon sessions for women only will be resumed within the next few weeks.

Barker James J. Grady heads a committee to form a bowling league among theatre and film men in which Tent No. 3 is to be represented with a team.

Use of the club quarters was granted Joe Kolling, property master, who staged a birthday celebration for his young daughter Sunday.

James McCarthy is the new assistant steward, replacing Pete Sperk, who resigned recently. Clarence Williams and Harry Donau still are on the job.

Detroit

Detroit, Sept. 16. — First fall luncheon of the Variety Club was held in the Book-Cadillac with the three Stooges, appearing on the Fox stage this week, as the guest of honor.

Kansas City

Kansas City, Sept. 16.—On Sept. 19 Variety Club will officially open its fall season with a "gigantic, monstrous show and party at Variety clubrooms on the Country Club Plaza. An orchestra has been engaged. Vic Allen will be master of ceremonies for the floor show. There will be dancing.

Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Sept. 16.—The annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Variety Club will be held at the William Penn Hotel Oct. 25. George Tyson will be in charge of publicity and will start work immediately after his return from Atlantic City.

John Harris, national president, is in Atlantic City for the Variety Showmen's Jubilee.

The local Variety Club headquarters on William Penn Way will resume activity late this month, with luncheons to be held on Mondays. A meeting will be held sometime this month to formulate plans for the entire season.

With the club's second ward safely in the hands of a local couple, it is reported that officers are making plans to adopt a third ward.

Washington

Washington, Sept. 16.—Initiation fees go into effect Sept. 30. Samuel N. Wheeler, chairman of the membership committee, has application blanks for those interested.

By a recent vote of the board of governors, 16 affiliate memberships have been made available for men not directly affiliated with the amusement business. The board's action increases membership in this division from 34 to 50. When the new figure is reached, membership rolls will be definitely closed.

Short and snappy are to be the luncheons of the club this year. Sixty minutes will be the limit. Carter T. Barron will be the king-for-a-day at the first luncheon Sept. 21.

"Mary," Show $21,000 Lead, San Francisco

San Francisco, Sept. 16.—"Mary of Scotland," with Eddie Peabody on the stage, led a generally fine Labor Day week among first runs with a gross of $21,000 at the Golden Gate. This was $5,000 above par.

"Romeo and Juliet," at advanced prices on a roadshow basis, was also outstanding, getting $14,000 at the Geary where a normal take is $10,000. In the face of this competition "The General Died at Dawn" and "Lady Be Careful" went up to $17,000 at the Paramount. This was $4,000 in the profit column.

Total first run business was $97,950. Average is $90,200.

To Remodel in Frisco

San Francisco, Sept. 16.—Both the Golden Gate and Warfield will spend a minimum of $30,000 apiece on remodeling as a result of a recent County Board of Supervisors' decision to widen Taylor St., on which both houses front.

The work is to start immediately, with both Cliff Work, Golden Gate chief, and A. M. Bowles, F. W. C. manager, unable to say definitely whether or not the estimated costs may have to be increased. Attorneys for both theatres had protested the proposed widening.

Completion next November of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, with an expected increase in traffic over certain sections of town, is the reason for the supervisors' action.

Reopen at Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Sept. 16.—The Arion in northeast Minneapolis which has been undergoing remodeling for several weeks, will reopen Friday night after a five-day shut down for completion of renovation and modernization.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Girl on the Front Page"

(Universal)

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—What happens when a flighty blonde inherits a newspaper with its hardboiled managing editor, has enough bright comedy sequences to make it a happy addition to a dual bill.

Edmund Lowe has the kind of a part he does best, as the editor who threatens resignation if Gloria Stuart, a social butterfly, so much as enters the city room. So, she slicks her hair back, puts on glasses and an ill-fitting suit and gets a job as a reporter. Lowe guesses her identity and gives her the toughest assignments which she blunders through with angry determination until her family friends are involved in a murder when she tries to kill the story.

In a sub-plot Reginald Owen, as the leader of a blackmail ring, is good for many funny sequences. Spring Byington, Gilbert Emery, David Oliver, Robert Gleckler, Clifford Jones, and Maxine Reiner give good support under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

The screenplay is by Austin Paker, Albert R. Perkins and Alice Duer Miller from the original by Roy and Marjorie Chanslor, who, it seems, were undecided as to whether to go farcical or melodramatic. But the film has bright dialogue and many entirely funny spots, notably when a confession is won by tickling Owen into talking and Loew's imitation of how women wheedle men.

Production Code Seal No. 2,565. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Ciboulette"

(Franco-American)

For those who understand French this operetta should provide an enjoyable hour, and for those lacking a knowledge of the language the film offers several delightful musical numbers. In general it may be said that, in view of the absence of translations of the dialogue, the film is adaptable only to those metropolitan theatres whose patronage are interested in importations from abroad.

Set in the Paris of 1867, the film tells the story of Ciboulette, who takes the produce to market from her uncle's farm and is caught in the swing of a lively dance that has swept the market place. She meets the young man whose sweetheart has just been stolen by a soldier, and falls in love with him. Her uncle is angry but she tells him the young man is to marry her.

Via a light and amusing series of complications the story winds its way until the romance is completed and the finale is sung. Through it all run the songs, all pleasant, the whole set against a 19th century background which is in itself entertaining.

Simone Berriau, as Ciboulette, is attractive and sings well, and Robert Burnier, as her lover, is effective and likewise has a good voice.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

Lumber Co. Given Film

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—As a gesture of appreciation for aid in filming logging sequences of "Come and Get It," Samuel Goldwyn has shipped 3,000 feet of film to the Potlatch Forests, Inc. It is part of the 40,000 feet of film shot while the company was on location in Northern Idaho, and will be shown through the northwest.

Lesser Starts "Rainbow"

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—Recording has started on Sol Lesser's "Rainbow on the River" with St. Luke's Boys' Choir and the Hall Johnson Choir supporting Bobby Breen. Filming starts within a week. Clarence Marks is finishing added dialogue and Charles Schoenbaum has been signed for camera work.

Edward Gross Promoted

Hollywood, Sept. 16. — Edward Gross, production manager for Sol Lesser, has been promoted to the post of associate producer. A Bobby Breen picture is his first assignment. He will continue his production activities.

"Hussy" Gets Big $23,700, Kansas City

Kansas City, Sept. 16.—"The Gorgeous Hussy" more than doubled the $11,500 average to score a $23,700 bullseye at Loew's Midland, and was held.

"Swing Time" dittoed, doubling average at the RKO Mainstreet by going to $17,500, $9,500 over the $8,000 normal. It also beat "Follow the Fleet," and gave the house its biggest gross in a long time. It went to the Newman for a second week.

Opposition failed to spike the guns of "Road to Glory," which pounded out a big $7,100 at the Fox Uptown in nine days, better than usual by $2,500. "Lady, Be Careful," the Tower offering, took $7,200, over average by $700. One day of "Anthony Adverse" and six days of "My American Wife" and "Human Cargo" gave the Newman $5,200, $1,800 under.

The cooler weather faded toward the end of the theatre week. Baseball drew $40,000, and the Empress offered burlesque.

Total first run business was $60,700. Average is $37,600.

"Ziegfeld" Is St. Louis Top With $22,250

St. Louis, Sept. 16.—"The Great Ziegfeld," at Loew's on an advanced priced schedule, grossed $22,250, the best business at that house for many months, and topping a week packed with the strongest kind of opposition, including the reopening of two first run houses, the Missouri and St. Louis. The take beat house average by $12,250. The picture was held over.

Right behind the extraordinary pace of "The Great Ziegfeld" moved "My Man Godfrey" and "Man From Louisiana" at the Ambassador. It grossed $18,000 for the week, doubling the house average, and also was held over for another week.

The reopening of the Missouri as a first run proved very successful, notwithstanding that the St. Louis, just one block north, also reopened. The Missouri's take was $12,000, which was about $3,000 better than what this house should average under the new policy. The attraction for the week was "Pepper" and "A Son Comes Home."

"Swing Time" and "Shake Down" at the Fox also had a very good week with total business of $17,250, or $3,250 better than average.

The Ambassador, Loew's and Orpheum, the three downtown first runs grossed a total of $47,850 for the week, while the Fox, Missouri and St. Louis in the Grand boulevard sector did $36,250.

Total first run business was $84,100. Average is $55,000.

New Haven, Sept. 16.—The Independent M. P. T. O. of Connecticut will resume regular meetings on Sept. 22, at the Kilfeather Bldg. headquarters, after a suspension of two months. Maurice Shulman of Hartford will report on the activities and discussions of the Allied convention, which he attended.

Quits House for College

New Haven, Sept. 16. — Robert Bernstein, son of David B. Bernstein, vice-president of Loew's, has resigned as assistant manager at the College here to return to Harvard, from which he graduated in June, to take post graduate work in business administration. No successor has been named yet.

Quite Varied

Dunnellon, Fla., Sept. 16.—The Lyric is now operating five nights a week, offering two Treasure Nights and changing the screen program four times.

The theatre is open Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday nights, with Sunday and Monday being the only nights the program is not changed.

Treasure nights are held on Tuesday and Thursday.

"Swing Time" Big In Cincy, $25,500

Cincinnati, Sept. 16. — "Swing Time," leading the town by a terrific margin, knocked the RKO Albee average for better than a double loop with a $25,500 gross, one of the biggest takes on record at present scales. The established figure is $12,000. The picture was shifted to the RKO Capitol for a second stanza.

The RKO Palace had a $13,300 week with "The Texas Rangers." This is $1,300 over normal. "The Gorgeous Hussy" bettered the RKO Capitol average by $350, pulling down $6,850 on its second week after a $22,000 seven days at the Albee. It continues at the RKO Grand. The RKO Family went $50 over the full week figure with a $2,500 aggregate gross with "The Cowboy and the Kid" and "Hot Money" on a split bill.

"Frankie and Johnnie" and "Go Get 'Em Haines," dualled at the independent Strand, accounted for $1,800, up $300. The house goes straight second run hereafter. The Labor Day holiday helped theatres, thousands of out-of-towners being here for ball games and other entertainment. Amusement parks closed season Labor Day, but dog racing resumed at nearby Harrison.

Total first run business was $69,100. Average is $60,200.

'Swing Time' Philadelphia Hit, $30,500

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—The best Labor Day business in years sent grosses upward. For Labor Day alone, "Swing Time" grossed $7,900 at the Stanley with "Piccadilly Jim" at the Fox only $1,000 behind. "Anthony Adverse," three weeks old, got $4,500 on the day at the Boyd.

The leader was "Swing Time" with $30,500. "Piccadilly Jim" took second place with $19,500, aided by the Don Bestor band on the stage.

"Last of the Mohicans" opened to a $11,000 first week at the Aldine and "The Texas Rangers" got a cracking $11,000 at the Stanton for its first week. "Anthony Adverse" finished its third and last week at the Boyd with $15,500, going into another first run spot at the Karlton. The Earle joined the profit procession with $16,000 for "Pepper" and Will Osborne's band.

In its second week at the Chestnut, "Romeo and Juliet" shaded a little under $16,000, an excellent figure.

A T & T Wins Patent Suit Against GTP

Injunction, Forfeiture Ordered by Court

A. T. & T., Western Electric and Erpi yesterday were awarded a permanent injunction against General Talking Pictures Corp. in a patent infringement suit begun in November, 1934, and heard about a year ago.

U. S. District Judge Mortimer Byer also ruled that the infringing apparatus should be turned over to the plaintiffs.

General Talking Pictures took over the business of DeForest Phonofilm Corp. in the early days of sound and marketed theatre reproducers, which A. T. & T. and its subsidiaries claimed infringed eight patents controlled by A. T. & T. and licensed to W. E. and Erpi.

General Talking Pictures' defense was that it did not manufacture the Appeals Denied on Para. Lawyer Fees

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has denied four of the five final appeals from Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe's order dealing with applications for allowances for services in connection with the reorganization of Paramount, it was learned yesterday. The fifth and final appeal was successful.

The circuit court's decision saves Paramount $202,500 in fees which had been sought by attorneys and denied by Judge Coxe, whose decision the higher court upheld. The appeals were taken by Samuel Zirn, who sought $75,000 as attorney for a petitioning creditor and, with A. J. Schanfarber and Louis Boehm, as attorneys for a Paramount security holder who sought an involuntary receivership for the

Zukor to Coast and LeBaron Due Here

Adolph Zukor left yesterday on his return to Hollywood. Following his arrival at the Paramount studio, William LeBaron, executive producer, will start east for conferences with home office executives. He is expected here about the end of next week.

Robert Gillham, Paramount advertising and publicity head, plans to leave for the studio this weekend and Neil Agnew, sales head, may leave early next week.

"New Theatre" Exults Over Production of Labor Films

American Labor Films, Inc., has been formed in Hollywood, and already has produced a picture, "Millions of Us," according to the September issue of New Theatre. The film, says that publication, was produced cooperatively by a group working during the early mornings and on weekends, and runs 20 minutes. It deals with the problem of unemployment.

Says the New Theatre: "We are tempted to surprise our readers with the familiar names associated with the production, but the makers request anonymity; less out of modesty than out of a disconcerting knowledge of the methodology of Hollywood blacklisting. The little Hitlers of the California Hills would hate to see liberal ideas given such an even break."

Prints are available to all labor halls, according to the magazine. It tells of the enthusiastic reception thus far accorded the film by those labor groups which have seen it. The publication further reports plans by the American Federation of Labor, for the development of a production unit, and the preparation by Nykino in New York of a pro-labor film. Two of three incidents already have been completed, says the publication, and upon the completion of a third, the 30-minute film will be released in standard and 16 mm. sizes, for non-theatrical showing to labor audiences.

Shaw's Censor Cry Is Denied By Dr. Czinner

London, Sept. 17.—A definite denial of the charges of George Bernard Shaw, that the film adaptation of his play, "St. Joan," had been censored by the Catholic Action and the Hays organization in New York, came yesterday in specific terms from Dr. Paul Czinner, producer who will make the film version of the Shaw play.

Said Dr. Czinner: "Never up to the present moment has there been any oficial censorship of Shaw's 'St. Joan' or of any film version or treatment of the life of Joan of Arc."

Dr. Czinner, who is the husband of Elisabeth Bergner, designated as the

Mrs. Chapman Name Kansas Censor Head

Kansas City, Sept. 17.—Mrs. L. H. Chapman, member of the Kansas board of review for two years, has been named chairman to succeed Hazel Myers, chairman for several years, whose term has expired. Mrs. Chapman's term has another 18 months to run.

Miss Myers is taking a leave of absence for several weeks, but will rejoin the board at the end of that time in a new capacity. She has been named head of the Landon Business Women's League for Kansas, and is helping organize chapters of the league in various cities in the State of Kansas.

Spanish Group Asks Promise Of New Films

By HARRY C. PLUMMER

Barcelona, Sept. 17 (By Cable).—Miguel Espinar Martinez, president of the Comite Cines en Explotacion (Committee on Film Exploitation) is en route to Paris today to urge the European executives of American distributing companies to continue the supply of films and the release of features for the coming season.

The full committee of distributors is following Martinez to Paris to support his request. The group includes: Rene J. Huet, Warners; Enrique Aguilar, Universal; Luis Echevarria,

20th-Fox Gets Big Profit at the Roxy

Under the guarantee and split figure arrangement, the Roxy paid Twentieth Century-Fox a rental of approximately $30,000 for the two weeks of "Girls' Dormitory."

"Sing, Baby, Sing," which is expected to end its first week at the theatre with a tally of $56,000, will probably net the distributor from $35,000 to $40,000 on a three-week run. For the first week, Twentieth Century-Fox is expected to get $16,000; for the second week, $13,000; for the third, $6,000 to $7,000.

Leo Carrillo, who has been appearing in person this week, will not be on the stage show next week.

Producing in Italy 6 to 8 Months Away

U. S. Firms' Plans Await Studio Completion

Final commitments by American producers to use the new Italian studios being constructed near Rome are not expected for another six to eight months, Carlo Roncoroni, Italian Government film envoy, said yesterday.

Roncoroni explained that the new Italian studios would not be opened until next June. He said that there was a possibility of his returning to this country during the winter or spring for further conferences with American producers who evinced interest in the opportunity of working in Italy when the new studios are opened. The subject was discussed with many Hollywood producers during Roncoroni's recent coast visit, but aside from an earlier commitment from Walter Wanger to make at least one picture in Italy next year no other definite acceptances were given.

Roncoroni placed heavy orders for

To Assign Thalberg's Unfinished Pictures

Hollywood, Sept. 17.—The uncompleted schedule of M-G-M features which were to have been produced by Irving Thalberg will be divided among the existing roster of Metro associate producers. Actual assignments for the individual pictures will probably be made tomorrow.

The pacts of players such as Norma Shearer and Charles Laughton, who were under personal contract to Thalberg, are now expected revert to the studio.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

ONLY quiet has trailed the Hays office program of checking grosses of personalities currently boomed nationally over the air. We hasten to add that there is no quarrel with the intention. The survey, it is to be assumed, will be completed in due course, then discussed, then pigeon-holed with as little requiem as possible. For it is a shadow-boxing effort, licked as to any possible remedy from the very beginning for reasons simple and obvious. The precedent has been established. As soon as one personality became flushed with radio dollars, it was, of course, axiomatic that others would follow suit. And why not? . . .

The base-line trouble which is far easier to point out than it is to correct traces back to the hold which players of genuine box-office draw exercise over their producers. With one Astaire, Sam Briskin would be a brave, also a foolhardy studio administrator, indeed, to imperil the star's straight film activities by seeking to keep him out of radio and away from $5,000 additional each week for whatever period his Packard Hour contract runs. The application multiplies itself by merely looking over Hollywood and is another manifestation of the grip which the star system maintains on the business. Like it or not—and practically everybody likes—the entire celluloid structure draws its majority strength from a handful of men and women. They rule Hollywood and, in so doing, dominate the industry. Their word is the law and, for the present at any rate, it spells out radio. . . .

The American Federation of Musicians has set aside $250,000 which might be diverted into more productive channels on a campaign for the return of stage entertainment and so orchestras to picture houses. If anything happens about it in New York, the idea is to extend the victorious technique across the country. Presumably, the impression running through the line of reasoning behind such a course is that the circuits dropped vaudeville or stage presentations to effect economies. Actually, as is generally and widely known, they dropped the stage content because the public no longer was interested enough to keep on parting with its money for an entertainment form worn thin and out. Many lost causes have been pushed and urged. None strikes us as more futile than this. . . .

Something approximating a new low in bad taste comes to light and, interestingly enough, can be traced to no action on Hollywood's part. Read this United Press dispatch from Uniontown, Pa., for the delightful facts:

> A bed owned by the late John Gilbert will be installed in the Summit Hotel next week as "an attraction for American honeymooners."
> The purchase of the bed from the actor's estate for $1,250 was announced today by Leo Heyn, manager of the mountain resort, who said he planned to equip a whole room with the film star's furniture and call it the "John Gilbert honeymoon room."
> "I have looked over the situation carefully," he said. "I anticipate a tremendous demand.
>
> "Because so many couples will be wanting the room," he added, "I will hold a drawing every morning. The winner of the lucky number will get the room. No, there will be no extra charge."
> The bed, eight feet square and now on its way from Hollywood, will be put in one of the larger rooms. A photograph of Gilbert will be hung on the wall.

Anyone who has been around Hollywood while the racing season flourished at Santa Anita knows how the excitement runs. We were in the office of a major producer last winter on the day which immediately preceded the Handicap. Such goings on as went on took on the aura of a national holiday. Players and directors slated to work on the world-shaking day pleaded, implored, bent knees and, for once at least, pledged the management complete cooperation, if only they could switch the Saturday activity to Friday night. Or Sunday morning. Or any time Sunday. Now two more tracks are under construction in the gold belt. With three racing seasons instead of one, Hollywood now looks a new crisis in the face and exhibitors a shortage of product. . . .

Robert Taylor, the No. 1 pulse throb of American womanhood at the minute, is represented with a byline and an article titled, "Anything Can Happen in Hollywood" in September Ladies Home Journal. The account, of course, deals with his rise and how, after a period of nonentity, he was finally cast opposite Irene Dunne in "Magnificent Obsession" on a loan to Universal. ". . . shrewd showmanship. Not only would I play in houses under a different management in this country, but Universal is acknowledged to have the best foreign release for its product," he writes.

Those blushes are Nate Manheim's. . . .

Zane Grey recently wrote a western opus in his usual and well-known manner. He called it "Stairs of Sand." Paramount looked it over, caught a country fair sequence in the yarn, added Joe Cook to the cast with laugh intent. The picture now is about to emerge as "Arizona Mahoney."

Never more accuse the coast of lack of versatility. . . .

Philco and PSB Men Heard in Pact Suit

WILMINGTON, Sept. 17.—Five officials of the Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. and the Philco Radio and Television Corp. took the stand here today in chancery court denying any connection between the two companies since their reorganization in 1934 as the hearing in the injunction suit against Radio Corp. of America was resumed. Those testifying today were: James M. Skinner, president of Philadelphia Storage Battery Co.; Larry E. Gubb, president of Philco; Edward S. Peyton, secretary of P. S. B., and James T. Buckley, treasurer, and George E. Deming, executive vice-president respectively, of the same company.

The storage battery company seeks to prevent RCA from cancelling its licensing agreement for the use of basic patents in the radio and television field. In a cross suit, RCA seeks to end the agreement, charging that P. S. B. violated the pact. The basis on which royalties are to be paid is also involved.

Skinner denied receiving any monies since July 30, 1934, either from Philco or Transitone Automobile Radio Corp. nor, he claimed, had he any understanding with them. He declared that the research and engineering departments of P. S. B. and Philco were separate units.

Deming V. P. of Both Firms

Gubb, who is also sales manager of Philco, testified that he went into the organization plan and became president voluntarily. He further stated that the reorganization cancelled all leases and understandings between P. S. B. and Philco. He was sales manager from the time of the organization of Philco in 1932 until its reorganization in 1934. Between these years, he said, Philco understood that it was to take and sell what P. S. B. produced. It does not now, he said, have to take everything that the battery company produces.

Buckley also denied receiving any monies from Philco or Transitone after the reorganization.

Deming testified concerning meetings of the board of directors and stockholders of both P. S. B. and Philco on July 27, 1934 when the written plan of reorganization was submitted. He admitted signing for both companies as vice-president.

star of the film, declared that he hopes to start production shortly at Denham. He went on to explain that the origin of the Shavian excitement was an attempt by Czinner to obtain Catholic reactions to the script in order to avoid a "ban or possible objection from the Will Hays organization or the church" in the United States. Czinner explained that an American church ban on the film "would have made it impossible to make a production of 'St. Joan' at all."

Accordingly, said Czinner, he sought an opinion on the script in Rome relative to possible objectionable parts. "These people studied the script very carefully and made notes of everything possibly objectionable," he declared.

Shaw "Excited"

Shaw became excited upon seeing the notes later, Czinner declared, but despite Shaw's protest that he wanted to lose none of his play through censorship, Czinner continued to negotiate, with a view to getting complete, if unofficial, approval before beginning production.

"The so-called Catholic censorship whereof Shaw complains is simply the development of this work of mine," said Czinner. The negotiations have been going on for more than a year, the producer said. "I am sure that as things stand now both sides will be satisfied in a very short time," he said.

A statement from the National Council on Freedom from Censorship, signed by Hatcher Hughes, chairman, and issued through the American Civil Liberties Union, of which the council is a unit, criticized Shaw's endorsement of Federal censorship in his letter to The New York Times.

The endorsement was declared to be "confusing nonsense, profoundly disappointing to those who remember with admiration his tilts with the British Examiner of Plays."

"Official censorship," said the statement, "whether by municipality, state or Federal government, is at best negative and useless, and at worst a threat to all that is adventurous and creative in the motion pictures."

Although in all, appeals involving more than $1,000,000 were taken from Judge Coxe's decisions, the jurist was reversed by the circuit court for fees totaling less than $200,000.

The information conveyed is the first cable dispatch Plummer has been able to transmit for several weeks, the only other cable having been that sent by the consul at Barcelona, and transmitted through Secretary of State Cordell Hull at Washington, which was received on Sept. 8.

The resumption of regular cable service, indicated by the receipt of this dispatch yesterday, points to a lessening of the severe restrictions which have been exercised on outgoing communications, and the elimination, at least in part, of some of the difficulties attendant upon the transmission of cables.

The information contained in the dispatch indicates further that the theatres, at least in the province of Catalonia, of which Barcelona is the chief city, are in active operation, and that continued activity is anticipated through the fall.

"Adverse" $13,000 Hit in Providence

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 17. — Inauguration of the fall and winter season sent grosses skyward here despite a million dollar pari-mutuel handle at Narragansett over the holiday.

Both the Majestic and Loew's had sensational weeks. At the former "Anthony Adverse" upped the $7,000 average take by $6,000, while Loew's, boosting "Gorgeous Hussy" to the skies, was repaid by an intake of $17,500, which was $5,500 to the good.

A good week also was experienced by the Strand, which did $8,200 with "My American Wife" and "Secret Agent." The usual gross for the house is $6,500.

The RKO Albee, opening with a dual picture policy after a summer of legitimate attractions, caught $7,100, slightly above average.

The weather was warm and clear with beach, sails and counter-summer attractions folding up Labor Day.

Total first run business was $52,800. Average is $39,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 10:

"MARY OF SCOTLAND" (Radio)
"WALKING ON AIR" (Radio)

"Love Begins" Top In Lincoln Pickup

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 17.—Grosses were boosted last week by the strong attendance at the State Sair and several rainy evenings which drove the customers into the downtown area seeking amusement. The Orpheum took its first vaudeville try of the season and was strong at $4,500 with "Love Begins at 20" on the screen for four days. That was $3,100 above normal.

The Stuart's "His Brother's Wife" took $3,900, or $800 over average. At the Lincoln "Road to Glory" took $4,000, where $2,200 is normal.

The Varsity's new price policy of two-bit top raised it over average by $100 to $1,200. The film was "Nero Wolfe."

Total first run business was $14,600. Average is $8,650. Estimated is $8,650.

Week Ending Sept. 9:

"FEUD OF THE WEST" (Diversion)
LIBERTY—(1,200), 10c-15c, 7 days on split. Gross: $1,000. (Average, $850)

"On Air" and Show $34,000 Boston Smash

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The RKO Boston took a remarkable $34,000 with "Walking on Air" and "Folies Parisienne" on the stage. This figure is $23,000 above average. The other RKO house, the Memorial, followed close with "Swing Time," grossing $33,000 for the week.

The influx of visitors helped boost business at the Metropolitan to a total of $27,000, $5,000 above average with "The General Died at Dawn" and "Streamline Follies" on the stage.

Other houses followed with high grosses. The Orpheum took $15,000, $3,000 above average with "Last of the Mohicans" and "Final Hour." Loew's State with the same program for the week, did well with $12,500, $1,200 above average.

"Romeo and Juliet" at the Colonial did well with gross for the first week of $12,500.

The Harvard Tercentenary continued to bring in many out-of-town visitors which added greatly to the receipts over the holiday. The weather also helped, being cool and overcast most of the week.

Estimated takings for the week:

"Pepper" and Show Indianapolis Wow

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—First run business continued its upward curve into phenomenal business, with "Pepper" and Major Bowes' anniversary unit at the Lyric leading the parade with $14,000, double the normal take. The Bowes' show approached the Lyric's attendance record, set last winter by the No. 1 unit.

"My Man Godfrey," showing at the Apollo, also multiplied normal by two for a gross of $8,000. It was held over. "The Gorgeous Hussy" at Loew's also was held over after a powerful week that brought $10,000, $4,000 over the line.

If the Circle hadn't had "Swing Time" coming up, the management might have held over "The General Died at Dawn," which went $3,000 over the line for $7,000.

"Swing" Hits $35,600, Top For the Loop

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The Labor Day weekend brought Loop theatres the greatest run of business they have known in years.

Astaire and Rogers tapped a merry tune on the Palace cash-registers to hit $35,600 for "Swing Time." "My Man Godfrey" did plenty for the Chicago. It was the first Universal picture to play there in years and was booked because the Palace is expecting a run with "Swing Time."

"Iron Man" proved to be a strong attraction at the Apollo, giving that spot $11,900 for a house record. "Romeo and Juliet" continued to hit high marks, the matinees doing a heavy feminine trade. The Roosevelt, Garrick and Oriental were not sensational but pulled well. The State-Lake, with a revival film, "The Iron Man," found it strong with a $20,100 take.

Plenty of convention delegates of various groups and no big outside attractions helped boom business.

Total first run business was $187,700. Average is $125,000.

Twin Cities' Boom Led by "Swing Time"

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 17. — With crowds from the entire northwest converging on the Twin Cities for the Minnesota state fair, theatres zoomed out of a normal summer lag, with "Swing Time" leading the way to more than a 100 per cent increase at the Orpheum here on a gross of $11,000 and a $10,000 take at the St. Paul Paramount, slightly less than a perfect double.

"The Texas Rangers" was high at both the State in Minneapolis and the Orpheum in St. Paul. At the former the take was $9,500 and at the latter $8,000.

"My American Wife" at the Minnesota helped by Eddie Duchin and his band with vaudeville, took third honors, $16,000, or $6,000 over par.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $42,400. Average is $25,100. Total first run business in St. Paul was $21,500. Average is $14,500.

Universal Signs Boles

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—John Boles has been signed to a five-year contract by Universal to make three pictures a year. Because of previous commitments at Radio and Paramount the agreement will not start until the 1937-38 season, though the actor will make one picture on the 1936-37 program for Universal. Several stories are being considered, among them "Mme. Curie," which will star Irene Dunne in the title role.

Warner Buys Florida Lot

MIAMI, Sept. 17. — Major Albert Warner has purchased a 50-foot lot on Lincoln Road, Miami Beach, the local "Fifth Avenue" in the tourist season, for $800 per front foot. Warner is an extensive property owner here and plans to erect a store building on this site.

"Godfrey" Hit In Seattle on $8,100 Gross

SEATTLE, Sept. 17.—"My Man Godfrey" got off to a flying start at the Fifth Avenue on a take of $8,100, which was $1,100 over par. It was moved to the Music Box for an extended run.

"San Francisco" took $3,100 in its tenth week at the Blue Mouse, and a combination of "The Texas Rangers" and "Love Begins at 20" was good for $6,900 at the Orpheum, but elsewhere grosses were nothing to get excited about.

"Glory" on a Dual Milwaukee's Leader

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 17.—"The Road to Glory" and "Pepper," on a dual bill at Fox's Wisconsin, took high honors for the week with a $9,000 take, just $1,000 above par. Despite a somewhat slow start due to the heavy Labor Day exodus from the city, and a Labor Day outing on Monday which attracted 40,000 union men, business perked up nicely.

"Anthony Adverse" grossed $7,500 in its second week at the Warner. This is $2,500 above average. "The General Died at Dawn" and "Hollywood Boulevard" were good for $6,000 at Fox's Palace, $1,000 above par.

Some 3,000 Red Arrow veterans in town for their confab helped boost business during the week.

Total first run business was $29,000. Average is $24,500. Estimated takings:

Pittsburgh Flocks To Catch "Adverse"

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—Labor Day week was biggest in several years for first runs. The Stanley, back to a straight picture policy, grossed a fine $24,500 with "Anthony Adverse."

Loew's Penn, upping its top from 40 cents to 50 cents, took second high honors with a take of $21,000 for "The Gorgeous Hussy." The Nixon came next in line with "Romeo and Juliet," showing a strong $12,000 for its first week. The Fulton scored the best business in over a year with "My Man Godfrey" which attracted $9,500, while the Harris-Alvin topped its $4,500 average by $1,500 with the premiere week of "Ramona." The Warner grossed a strong $5,500 in six days with "Bengal Tiger" and "A Son Comes Home."

Total first run business was $78,500. Average is $47,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 11:

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Accusing Finger"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Sept. 17.—Preaching against capital punishment and driving home its points with grim realism, this picture may prove too gruesome for sensitive audiences. One sequence in particular, where Robert Cummings, being led to the chair, temporarily breaks loose and stands at bay while the condemned men in the death house hysterically beat their tin cups against the cell bars will bother all but the very hard-boiled spectators. To the credit of director James Hogan, however, the film is in no sense ridiculous although at times it attains extremes of stagey theatricalism.

The plot concerns Paul Kelly, a vigorous prosecuting attorney, who joins the men whom he has sentenced to the death house when he, on circumstantial evidence, is convicted of slaying his estranged wife. Kent Taylor, with the assistance of Marsha Hunt, eventually uncovers evidence which clears Kelly. A minor love plot first links Miss Hunt with Kelly but joins her with Taylor at the finish when Kelly is released. A third theme features the fight of Harry Carey, a state senator, to have the capital punishment law repealed.

The performances of the principals are uniformly good, with able support contributed by DeWitt Jennings, Joseph Sawyer and Bernadene Hayes. The screenplay is jointly credited to Madeline Ruthven, Brian Marlow, John Bright and Robert Tasker. The production is by A. M. Botsford with Daniel Keefe as associate. The theme offers unusual controversial exploitation angles that can be readily capitalized by tieups with organizations opposed to the death penalty.

Production Code Seal No. 2,590. Running time, 62 minutes. "A."

Looking 'Em Over

"End of the Trail"

(Columbia)

Substantial entertainment for adults who have a yen for western melodrama now and then and first class material for juveniles because of its quota of thrills, hard riding and fisticuffs, Zane Grey's latest with Jack Holt should go over big in the neighborhoods.

Ably supported by the surrounding cast, Holt is not the glorified hero. When his prankish playfulness brings about a general taboo by most of his friends, the protagonist resorts to rustling as his only way to get by. Having saved "Big Boy" Williams from certain death in a prelude centered about the battle of San Juan Hill, Holt temporarily escapes the arm of the law because Williams, the sheriff, is anxious to repay the debt.

However, when Holt's activities extend beyond reasonable doubt and brings about censure by the citizenry, Williams has no other alternative but to perform his duty. The final shot shows Holt doomed to the noose.

A romantic tinge is injected with Williams vying for Louise Henry, who has engendered a longing for Holt, hoping he finally would give up his cattle stealing. After he has decided to lead a new life, Holt kills Douglas Dumbrille for murdering John McGuire, the girl's brother. That marks his finis.

Direction by Erle C. Kenton is smooth. The photography is good, particularly the scenes of combat on San Juan Hill. John Stumar handled the camera. Kenton, by the way, portrays the role of Theodore Roosevelt, an interesting bit.

Production Code Seal No. 2,404. Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

"Love Begins at Twenty," which opened at the Palace yesterday, was covered by wire from Hollywood May 21.

"The General Died at Dawn" stays over at the Paramount for a third week, as does "Sing, Baby, Sing" at the Roxy for a second.

"The Great Ziegfeld," which opens at the Capitol this morning, was previewed in Hollywood as far back as March 20.

German Talent Signed

Hollywood, Sept. 17.—Warners have signed Joseph May, German director, to a term contract.

Richard Haymann, well known German composer, also has been signed.

Short Subjects

"Gags and Gals"

(Educational)

The likeable and insane humor of the Jefferson Machamer cartoon pages runs through this effort. And, there are plenty of pretty faces and their owners moving about the serio-comic situations. Machamer is the creator of advertising ideas and his quest for a model to illustrate shoes comes to a point where his imagination causes one of his drawings to do a Pygmalion and Galatea. Of course, she is vivacious and charming. Together they go to a night club where they indulge in all manner of high jinks, which is refreshingly humorous. The situations develop around art talk, models and advertising. The night club sequence is clever. The short's drawing power is there. Production Code Seal No. 01,180. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Porky's Poultry Plant"

(Vitaphone)

The star of the "Looney Tunes" starts off the day by feeding his chickens and other fowl. The barnyard is plastered with posters of the victims of Hawknapper No. 1. A moment later the villain swoops down and makes off with a chick. Porky is after him in his plane and soon the air is disturbed by spectacular combat. Of course, after exciting reverses, Porky eliminates the menace and its co-menaces. From start to finish the cartoon is exciting and amusing entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 2,486. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Sports in the Alps"

(Educational)

The winter ice and snow diversions in the Swiss mountain range are spectacularly presented in this film. Ed Thorgersen's spoken accompaniment adequately rounds out the flashes from the camera. The editing job starts the pace with shots of curling, continues to fancy skating and follows with whirlwind scenes of speed skating, bob sledding, horse racing on snow and finally winds up with a breath taking collection of skiing shots. It is good stuff for the approaching cold weather. Production Code Seal No. 01,219. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Memories of Spain"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

A timely and up-to-the-minute narrative by Lowell Thomas and charmingly photographed clips of locations of the present Spanish strife makes a short that is tops, ranking as both a travel offering and an insight to a current European problem. The industries of such famous places as Toledo, Seville, Segovia are shown in their unchanged technique. It is a fine job. Production Code Seal No. 01,205. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Produce Prison Film

Baltimore, Sept. 17.—A 16 mm. silent film designed to show the evils of idleness among prisoners has been made by Milton Stark of Stark Films for the Maryland Commission on Prison Labor. It is to be shown in churches and schools and to various civic organizations.

"New Theatre" Exults Over Production of Labor Films

Theatre tells of the magazine's happiness in describing "to our readers an event that means the conquest of a new area for left-wing art. We have become aware of several young and healthy film groups actively engaged in the production of professionally conceived and enacted pro-labor films. The importance of this phenomenon is apparent to any one who recalls how the abrupt appearance of a number of small left-thinking theatre groups became the signal for an extraordinary growth of the labor drama. Now the movies—at last—which can reach into a hundred cities at once."

"Millions of Us," first effort of American Labor Pictures, runs 16 minutes. A review follows:

With a "rally round the flag, boys" theme in the direction of labor unionism, this short is hardly adaptable for showing among capitalists. Specifically it is designed for non-theatrical exhibition in labor halls and like places and may be called the latest propaganda piece which unionism has produced.

It tells of unemployment, personified in a hungry young man, who attempts to crash a picket line to get a scab job. A strike leader in a lumber jacket, in big-brotherly fashion, plies him with food and a speech, explaining the organization of the "bosses," and the dire need of workers to band together to "show our strength, our power." So well does he sell his idea that the young, now filled, man springs from the long table to the long picket line, there is welcomed with a pat on the shoulder.

This picture made New Theatre happy, in its indication of the "conquest of a new era for left-wing art."

Strictly from a technical film standpoint, the film is well produced, and should bring rounds of applause—in labor halls.

Running time, 16 minutes.

"Hussy" a $14,000 Hit in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 17.—"The Gorgeous Hussy" at Loew's State topped the town at $14,000, almost triple the normal take. This equalled the business done by "San Francisco," "David Copperfield" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

"Swing Time" at the Rialto crashed through for a gross of $12,000, bettering the mark made by "Poor Little Rich Girl," which was that theatre's most popular film to date.

"Anthony Adverse" at the Mary Anderson did well, but not up to expectations. Gross was in the neighborhood of $4,000, $500 over the normal take. The picture was held over. Prices were raised to 44 cents for matinees and 61 cents at night. Afternoon attendance was light, but the night patronage held up well. "The Road to Glory," dualled with "Grand Jury," at the Strand on a holdover, could do no better than $2,700. Opposition attractions were too strong and takings were not expected to be very important.

Total first run business was $36,100. Average is $19,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 10:

"THE GORGEOUS HUSSY" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $14,000. (Average, $5,500)

"ACCENT ON YOUTH" (Para.)
OHIO — 15 cents, 7 days, split week. Gross: $1,600. (Average, $1,600)

"Scotland" Leads Montreal, $10,500

MONTREAL, Sept. 17. — "Mary of Scotland" on a dual at the Princess topped the first runs with $10,500, an excess of $3,500 over par, and was held for a second week.

"His Brother's Wife," on a double-header at the Palace, brought $13,000, or $2,000 above the line. "Girls' Dormitory," heading the pair at the Capitol, resulted in a take of $11,000 for third spot in the lineup. "Yours for the Asking," coupled with strong vaudeville, registered $12,000 at Loew's.

Opposition included horse racing at Blue Bonnets, the last flourish of outdoor sports for the summer and special Labor Day attractions at amusement parks. The weather was mostly cool and cloudy.

Total first run business was $46,500. Average is $38,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 12:

"GIRLS' DORMITORY" (20th-Fox)
"HALF ANGEL" (20th-Fox)

G. B. Men Meet in Hub

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Arthur Lee, G. B. vice-president, will hold a meeting of the local sales staff with men present also from Albany and New Haven on Saturday. John Scully, New England district manager; Marcel Mekelburg, Ben Rogers, Nathan Ross, Boston; Carl Gee, Albany, and Philip Sherman, New Haven, will attend.

"East Meets West" and "The Man Who Liver Again" are slated for screening.

E. F. Maertz Elected By Indies of Wisc.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 17. — E. F. Maertz of Milwaukee was today elected president of the Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n of Wisconsin at the closing session of its convention held in the Hotel Plankinton here. Maertz succeeds F. J. McWilliams of Madison.

Other officers elected were: William Copeland of Jefferson, vice-president; A. C. Berkholtz of West Bend, secretary; Max Krofta of Milwaukee, treasurer, and L. F. Thurwachter of Waukesha, chairman of the board. These executives also comprise the directorate which will name regional vice-presidents at a meeting scheduled for October 2.

The convention went on record as opposing the appearance of film stars on the radio and recommended that independent exhibitors purchase 20 per cent of their required product from independent producers.

Abram F. Myers, as principal speaker today, outlined the offensive drive to be made by national allied to protect independents. He intimated that litigation against the circuits will be started in at least two sections of the country.

Editorial Lauds Thalberg

The New York Times, editorially commenting on the career and death of Irving Thalberg, said, in part, yesterday:

"The production of motion pictures is a young industry, and it is typical of the spirit of that industry that a young man of 37 had risen to the very top of it. A giant business which had few established precepts of success, and no traditions older than its oldest living patron, offered a particularly inviting opportunity to youth, enthusiasm and capacity for work.

"The story of Irving Thalberg, who died in Santa Monica on Monday, might have been taken from one of the scenarios in which the motion picture traces the triumphant path of merit through adversity to success.

"Largely to the enterprise and good taste of Mr. Thalberg must be credited the production of such excellent pictures as 'Mutiny on the Bounty,' 'Grand Hotel' and 'The Big Parade.' He helped, perhaps more than any other man in Hollywood, to make the motion picture a medium of adult entertainment, and by many thousands of theatregoers his talent and vitality will be missed."

Levi Funeral Today

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17. — The funeral of Newton Levi, local Warner branch manager, will be held tomorrow from the J. T. Whitney funeral parlors in accordance with the Masonic rites. The body will be cremated and forwarded to San Francisco for burial. Levi was 47. He died yesterday of a heart attack.

Improvement Work Active Through N.E.

Installations for Sound Are Numerous

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The opening of the fall season has brought considerable activity in New England in the improvement of theatre properties, ranging from lobby changes to the installation of new sound equipment.

In Hartford the Crown, Princess and Rivoli have been reopened after extensive alterations, and the 4,000-seat State will reopen shortly following the reseating of the house after the floods of some months ago.

The Wilkinson in Wallingford, Conn., is continuing in operation during lobby and front improvements. John Kata has resumed operation of the Strand in Wallingford.

The Scenic in Westbrook, Me., has reopened after alterations.

The Strand at Kennebunk Port, Me., operated by W. F. Goodwin, has closed for the winter.

"Sing, Baby, Sing" at $60,000 Gives the Roxy a Smash Week

"Sing, Baby, Sing" did a smashing $60,000, less tax, at the Roxy in its first week which ended Thursday night, giving Twentieth Century-Fox three of the heaviest grossers in the history of the house under the Howard Cullman operation. Attendance for the seven days totaled 152,903, comparing with the weekly average in 1932 of 67,000, while the gross was rolled up by the theatre's prevailing scale of 25 cents to 1 P.M., 40 cents to 6 o'clock and 55 cents thereafter with a 75-cent night tariff prevailing on Saturday and Sunday.

The "Sing, Baby, Sing" business followed two weeks of sock grosses with "Girls' Dormitory" which did $55,000 in its first seven days and a revised $50,000 in its second week. The former picture did an unusual $10,000 on Thursday, the first of the two-day Jewish New Year holiday and may hold over for a third stanza.

Budget Jumps Part Of New "U" Plan

Universal's plans for expanding and revising its new season schedule will include the addition of several features to the list announced at the company's annual sales convention, will embrace increases in production budgets and the acquisition of more costly story properties, J. The revised production schedule is now under discussion at the studio and final plans are expected to be set early next week as a result.

The expanded program was decided upon as a result of the in-

Kilroe recently returned from Europe where he attended meetings of the Berne convention for the purpose of determining whether or not the industry should recommend to Congress that the United States become a member of the International Copyright Union. The industry, as the largest user of copyrights in America, is regarded as having the most influential voice in determining the Government's action. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Valiant Is The Word For Carrie"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Sept. 18.—This a long, wordy, monotonous drama. Slow paced to keep a sober pitch, it is occasionally highlighted by rich comedy incidents. It is a heavy character study of a scarlet woman who is painted as a saint. The intelligent treatment of the theme by Wesley Ruggles, the producer-director, precludes the possibility of censorial objections. However, it fails to endow the film with emotion-stirring appeal which presages favor with the masses.

In a difficult role, Gladys George makes an auspicious screen debut. Two child players, Jackie Moran and Charlene Wyatt, earn the audience's sympathy. Arlene Judge as the romantically tortured adolescent contributes a fine performance. John Howard and Isabel Jewell are acceptable as the other principals.

Miss George is run out of town by moral forces and takes her children to New York. Years pass and business success comes to her, permitting her to transfer the children from a life of uncertainty to one of luxury. Miss Judge loves Howard with fierce jealousy and the union is highly desired by Miss George. Howard, convinced that it is his duty to protect Miss Jewell, who is the sister of a man he accidentally killed, forces Miss Judge to marry Grady Sutton, a collegian. To avert shattering her long dream to make something of Howard, Miss George, knowing Miss Jewell is bad, becomes involved with her in a jailbreak which, as Jewell dies, lands her behind bars. As it is difficult to understand what becomes of Miss George, Howard and Miss Judge, Harry Carey and Dudley Digges philosophically conclude that valiant is the only word descriptive of the woman who fought so hard for respectability but apparently failed.

The Claude Binyon screen play is a seemingly laborious attempt to crowd the full dramatic detail of the Barry Benefield novel into the film story. It is essentially an attraction for specialized audiences. The picture's first appeal is to women.

Production Code Seal No. 2,531. Running time, 110 minutes. "A."

"Daniel Boone"

(Hirliman-Radio)

Hollywood, Sept. 18.—What might have been another smash historical film emerges merely as an acceptable, average attraction. The main fault is the routing of the story treatment which parallels Boone's life none too closely. The film is more pretentious than the former O'Brien offerings even though the producers have neglected to take full dramatic advantage of the obviously California scenery.

The story by Edgcomb Pinchon neglects many of the incidents in Boone's life which are familiar to all. The omission of exploits which have become part of the legend and lore of this country will make the Boone character seem thin to audiences despite the creditable individual work of O'Brien. John Carradine, as a renegade white, looks and acts like a typical big, bad wolf as he leads the Indians against the settlers in one of those unrelenting villain parts. Heather Angel has little to do as the intrepid woman who become's Boone's wife. Ralph Forbes supplies additional smooth villainy. George Regas does well with the role of a loyal Indian and the voice of Clarence Muse is used very effectively.

The direction of David Howard resulted in some excellent scenes of a caravan crossing a river and a siege of the settlers' stockade but its effectiveness is almost defeated by the shortcomings of the script in the dramatic sequences. The best exploitation angle is the bigger and better part for O'Brien.

Production Code Seal No. 2,500. Running time, 77 minutes. "G."

a member of the convention providing certain changes in the existing rules of the convention are made.

The principal concessions desired by the industry before it recommends American adherence to the Berne convention involve four major points. The Berne convention at present prohibits the changing of an author's work in any detail after it has been acquired for production, publication or any other purpose. The industry wants the right to change purchased material, not only for its obvious practical reasons but also because it believes that this right can be contracted for and, in the event an author enters into a contract, he should be bound by its terms, Kilroe said.

The Berne convention also permits the copyrighting of an oral idea. The industry will ask that a record of an idea be in existence when the copyright is issued. Copyrights are obtainable on forms or styles of acting under the Berne convention, to which the industry is opposed. The final major change desirable to the industry, Kilroe said, is the designation of the person or organization which has the legal right to bring suit for copyright infringement to be the author of the copyrighted material. The Berne convention now would permit the producer or director of a picture to be designated the copyright author, rather than the person or concern by whom they are employed.

If these principal changes are agreed to, there appears to be no doubt but what the industry would recommend American adherence to the Berne convention, Kilroe indicated.

"It is apparent," he said, "that they want us to join the convention. I believe that they will consent to any reasonable concession."

creased number of contracts already closed by the company's domestic sales department under James R. Grainger and by the foreign department under N. L. Manheim. The studio pace set by Charles R. Rogers and William Koenig, which has resulted in placing Universal six months ahead of its anticipated schedule laid out last April, likewise contributed to the decision to improve and enlarge the new season program. The company states that it is now in a position to meet its release schedules without variation as a result of the studio's progress.

Southern California FWC Lineup Shifted

Los Angeles, Sept. 18.—Several shifts in F. W. C. management were made known today at a meeting of managers from Southern California and Arizona.

Under the new setup Cullen Espy will manage District No. 1, consisting of 18 houses in Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, Hollywood and Westwood. Earl Rice takes over District No. 2, which has 13 theatres in south Los Angeles, Hollywood, Santa Barbara and Santa Paula. In District No. 3, which B. V. Sturdivant will manage, are 18 houses located in southern Los Angeles, Glendale, Pasadena. George Bowser has charge of District No. 4 consisting of 22 theatres in San Pedro, Long Beach, San Diego, Wilmington and Imperial Valley. District No. 5 is managed by Dick Dickson with 17 houses in Compton, Bell, Huntington Park and several beach towns. Homer Gill has charge of District No. 6 which consists of 17 theatres in San Bernardino, Redlands, Riverside, Pomona, Ontario, Bakersfield, Taft.

Homer Gill has been promoted from manager at Tucson and Phoenix to head District No. 6, a new district.

During today's meeting Spyros Skouras spoke on the benefits to be derived from paying better attention to bookings and stated that henceforth every manager will have his own booker.

Espy, Bowser and B. V. Sturdivant also spoke.

ration of America in the injunction suit brought by P. S. B. against RCA in Chancery Court here.

P. S. B. is seeking to have RCA enjoined from terminating licensing agreement whereby P. S. B. has a right to use RCA patents. Under cross examination by John W. Davis, New York, chief counsel for RCA, Gubb testified, "We wanted to pay royalties on a proper basis."

In relation to plans for reorganization after he and his associates had been approached on the matter, Gubb declared, "I talked with Skinner about getting an exchange of P. S. B. stock for Philco stock and possibility of getting our P. S. B. stock back if the venture was not a success."

"Did Mr. Peyton or Mr. Skinner tell you that the licensor, the officials of RCA, didn't regard the reorganization plan to be in accord with the license agreement?" Davis queried.

Gubb answered, "No they didn't tell me that, but I know in a general conversation this was a thing they thought would be satisfactory."

Philco received Transitone, three subsidiaries of Philco in reorganization before separation, Gubb said, one in New York, Illinois and California and Philco stock which P. S. B. held. Stock of Transitone amounted to about one quarter million dollars he estimated.

Gubb testified that since reorganization he is paid on commission basis on sales same as he was paid as general manager of Philco before reorganization and also receives a bonus.

Hearing will be resumed on Monday.

A.F.L. Denies Plan to Make Labor Films

Calls New Theatre Report "Red Propaganda"

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Officials of the American Federation of Labor today flatly denied that the organization plans to produce labor films, as reported in New Theatre.

In the absence from Washington of William Green, president of the A. F. L., no formal statement could be issued, but men close to the activities of the organization declared the New Theatre report to be "simply another piece of Red propaganda," implying support of the Federation without making any definite statement.

The production of pictures has never been suggested to the A. F. L. and would not be given serious consideration if brought up, it was declared, since the organization has never digressed from its policy of non-invasion of industrial fields except under the usual conditions of competition. It was explained that while the organization has two insurance companies and also has been interested in banks and certain other activities, all of its companies have been regularly incorpo-

Jack Springer Dies; Services Tomorrow

Funeral services for John W. (Jack) Springer, head of the Springer & Cocalis circuit, will be held at 10 A. M. tomorrow, from the home of the deceased at Mamaroneck.

Springer, one of the best known independent exhibitors in the metropolitan area, died Saturday morning in Polyclinic Hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage following an illness of two days. He was 41 years old and is survived by his mother, Cora A. Springer, and a sister, Mrs. Louis George. He was unmarried.

Born in New York and graduated from New York University in 1914, Springer was commissioned a second lieutenant and served overseas during the World War. Theatre operation, in which his father also had been engaged, was his only business pursuit. In conjunction with Sam Cocalis, with whom he entered partnership, he established an important neighborhood cir-

SEEK UNIFORMITY IN THEATRE SOUND

The poetic quality of the Shakespearean dialogue in "Romeo and Juliet" could not be reproduced on the sound equipment found in many of the houses leased for roadshowing the picture without much of the archaic English being made ludicrous by tonal distortion, according to Douglas Shearer, in charge of M-G-M sound recording.

New sound equipment was installed in all of the roadshow houses especially for the picture.

Studio Experts After Reproduction Equal To Recording

By SHERWIN A. KANE

Studio sound technicians are engaged in a drive to influence the manufacture by the major equipment manufacturers of reproducing sets which will be as nearly identical in all vital respects as possible in order to bring about sound reproduction of a uniform standard in all of the principal theatres of the world, it is learned.

The general objective of the current effort appears to be the desire to have the productions of each company projected and reproduced to the best advantage in all theatres in which they play, regardless of the make of sound equipment used in the theatre. The technicians are of the opinion that this can be assured only when the two major types of equipment possess the same or equal reproducing refinements.

An equally important consideration in the studio technicians' current activities in the field of sound reproduction is one which has developed from the rapid forward strides which have been and are being made in the technique of sound recording at the studio. Constantly improving sound and effects are being captured, yet equipment in use in thousands of theatres is incapable of taking it off for the benefit of the audiences for which it is intended, the studio men assert. Their complaint is that the refinements in recording technique are being wasted and will continue to be until every important theatre, regardless of the make of its reproducing equipment, has equal facilities for the projection of sound.

The Academy Research Council is furthering the work for uniform sound

Studio Work Slips With 44 Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—Although 10 new pictures went into production here last week an unexpected slump hit the studios, dropping activity five features and four short subjects under the previous week's figures. Forty-four features and one short were shooting as compared to 49 features and five shorts in the preceding week. Twenty-five features were planned for the cameras within a two-week period and 56 pictures were in the cutting rooms.

Independent production advanced during the week to register a new high with five features before the cameras.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

INTERESTING and significant in today's production drift is the length to which major attractions are running. We should say overlength, to be more accurate. The reason why is no secret, of course. It is one of Hollywood's approaches to a solution of the double feature, never more widespread than in this year, month, and day of grace. "We'll make 'em longer. That'll cut into the time turned over to the average program, make it tougher to slip in the second feature and, finally and perhaps and maybe, knock it off altogether." . . .

That's alright on paper and in conversation. In the practice, it's thoroughly and soaking wet. A fact, of course, is that a current and far too slight tendency on the part of some exhibitors is to shuttle from doubles to singles when a "Swing Time" or a "My Man Godfrey" comes along, but there is nothing fixed about the idea. In the main, those houses that double feature continue regardless of attraction(s) because they know they're holding a bear by the tail and are afraid to let go. . . .

In the meantime, this is what Hollywood is doing to theatres: Longer footage is increasing operating costs, bearing in mind that very persistent second feature. Longer footage is spreading available entertainment content thinner than usual, giving many fine pictures dull spots, re-introducing with a bang the anti-climax and, instead of helping worthy attractions which, after all, can have just so much and no more of the good things, is hurting them by dividing those good things over the additional length. . . .

Dramatic and comedy values, as a consequence, are being dissipated. A sharp look at almost any of the current better shows you may care to make the guinea pig will demonstrate the point. Never, or at least almost never, one for avoiding issues, we shall go specific, risking a dark look or two from three of the majors. One is "Swing Time" which we thought had ended at least twice and should have if the extra length hadn't stuck in its insistence. Two is "The General Died at Dawn," which canters almost into slow motion in a number of its sequences, thereby doing no good to mood, pace or drama. Third is "The Gorgeous Hussy," one of the better jobs, but pretty skimpy from time to time because of sequences over emphasized and over long. . . .

The vehicles that fully and roundly—not to overlook, naturally—lend themselves to what has grown by practice into "feature length" never have been too plentiful. That's what a great deal of Hollywood's yellings are about. The total of features which, on a purist basis, should have never left the studio beyond one or two-reel length, defies any man's adding machine. It is a dangerous procedure, therefore think we, to tinker with good and solid properties on any other calculation except to wring the best from them irrespective of the final footage tally. . . .

"Gorgeous Hussy" $25,000, 2nd Week

"The Gorgeous Hussy," in its second week at the Capitol, wound up with approximately $25,000. The opening of the New Criterion, according to RKO people, hurt the Palace last week, which took in less than $5,000 on the dual bill comprising "To Mary—with Love" and "Walking on Air."

"The Last of the Mohicans" at the Rivoli ended with about $20,000 for the second week. The Rialto with "Sworn Enemy" garnered $7,000, the New Criterion debut also dipping into this theatre's regular take.

The picture will be an even greater box-office factor than the play!

because . . . the star, Walter Huston has a perfect co-star in Ruth Chatterton, and a strong supporting cast in Paul Lukas and Mary Astor.

because . . . the production values that Samuel Goldwyn has given the picture far exceed those of the play.

because . . . the screen gives a broader range and scope to the vast canvas painted by America's foremost novelist, Nobel Prize Winner Sinclair Lewis . . . and because the Pulitzer Prize Winner, Sidney Howard, transcends the limitations of the stage in his screen adaptation.

results in the theatre in several significant ways. Classes in sound recording are sponsored by the council which not only make available to the student technicians all or most of the refinements in recording as they are developed in the studios, but also tend to school the film colony's sound recorders in identical basic principles of their craft. The result would seem to be advanced recording of equal or similar merit in all studios.

With all of Hollywood's sound recording on a par in its essentials, the obvious remaining objective is to realize comparable, uniform reproduction of Hollywood product in any and all theatres. Hollywood influence in attempting to bring this about already is noticeable.

With the introduction several years ago of Western Electric's Wide Range and RCA Photophone's High Fidelity, studio recorders learned to adapt their improving technique to the advantages peculiar to each system. The results, however, were not entirely satisfactory to studio technicians. They discovered that in aiming their recording for the best reproduction which could be realized on the two individual sets, they were developing a specialized recording technique which resulted in improved sound reproduction only in those theatres which were equipped with either Wide Range or High Fidelity. Theatres with equipment other than these frequently had poorer sound than before when newer recording methods came through their older sound equipment. In the face of their striving for improved sound in the theatres this situation, obviously, spurred the technicians' efforts to obtain uniformity in sound reproduction.

Shearer's Work Recognized

In this drive, the studios themselves have contributed significant suggestions, and even refinements to the new reproducing equipment being introduced now by Erpi and RCA.

Douglas Shearer of M-G-M is credited with having adapted for commercial use the Fletcher horn of two frequency bands and multi-cellular units, which was first demonstrated about three years ago in a transmission of a Stokowski Philadelphia Orchestra concert from that city to New York. The Fletcher horn originated in the Bell Laboratories, but was not believed practicable at the time for use in theatre reproducing equipment. Shearer's work in adapting it to this use has been recognized to some extent by RCA, which refers to the horn of this type being used in its new High Fidelity equipment as the Shearer horn. The same type of two-way multi-cellular horn is also used in the new Mirrophonic.

A further note of similarity in new sound equipment appears in the use of the rotary stabilizer type of scanner now a part of Mirrophonic. This type of scanner, credited with reducing variations in the speed of the film past the scanning point, has been a part of RCA equipment for the past several years.

Some Hollywood factors claim credit also for the introduction of the new amplifiers which reproduce sound in almost any required volume without distortion. They assert that these came from the laboratories of the manufacturer in answer to Hollywood's insistent demand. Some of the amplifiers still in use in theatres date back to 1928 and the days of the wax record, when true volume was an almost unknown quantity in sound reproduction.

New Reproducer Valuable

The development of the new reproducers has pleased the Hollywood technicians in at least one very vital respect. They assert now that neither Mirrophonic nor the new High Fidelity requires any specialized recording, such as they say was necessary to get maximum results from Wide Range and the earlier High Fidelity. The result is that sound is not only better than it was in theatres using the new equipment, but that improvements are also noticeable in theatres having older equipment. The last result they trace, of course, to advances in recording technique.

An example of the interest being shown currently in realizing uniform reproduction results is the installation of new equipment by M-G-M and Loew's in many of the houses in which "The Great Ziegfeld" was opened and, now, in all of the theatres in which "Romeo and Juliet" is being roadshown. These installations are being made under the direct supervision of Shearer and Lester B. Isaac, director of sound and projection for the Loew circuit. The two wrestled with tone control problems encountered in the individual roadshow houses, as well as supervising the installations. Both RCA and Erpi equipment is used, further suggesting the ambition to encourage uniformity in reproducers. Installations have been made at the Astor, here; Nixon, Pittsburgh; Maryland, Baltimore; His Majesty's, Montreal; National, Washington; Colonial, Boston; Chestnut, Philadelphia; American, St. Louis; Erlanger, Buffalo; Royal Alexandria, Toronto; Hanna, Cleveland; Cass, Detroit; Geary, San Francisco; Carthay Circle, Los Angeles, and Erlanger, Chicago.

The entire Loew circuit is to be re-equipped in the near future and present indications, according to company officials, are that both RCA and Erpi installations will be made.

G. N. After New Talent

Grand National will begin at once an extensive search for new talent in an effort to build up its own list of contract players, the company states. Sidney M. Biddell, eastern story editor, has been placed in charge of the new talent department. Robert Randall, stage player; Helen Lynd, musical comedy player; Tex Ritter, radio singer, and Marjorie Raymond, night club entertainer, are among new talent signed recently by Grand National.

The company plans to produce 24 pictures during the new season, with the first release planned for about Nov. 1. Production will be started at the RKO Pathe studio immediately upon Welsh's return to the coast, he said. Distribution is to be partly through General's own exchanges which it plans to open in a number of key cities and partly through franchise in others.

"Swing Time" Washington's Hit, $21,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. — "Swing Time" soared to $21,000 at RKO-Keith's Theater, topping par by $10,400. This was but a few hundred dollars under "Top Hat." It went into a second week.

"And Sudden Death" at the Metropolitan was a surprise at $5,000, over average by $700.

A return engagement of "Piccadilly Jim" at Loew's Columbia was good for $4,600, $1,000 over par.

The Earle, with "China Clipper" and Bob Crosby's orchestra, took $18,500, only $100 over average; and Loew's Capitol, with "Yours for the Asking" and a stage show, slipped to $16,800, or $4,900 under par.

The second week of "The Gorgeous Hussy" at Loew's Palace, was good for $13,500, but $2,400 under the first-week average.

"Romeo and Juliet" at the National, took $18,800, slightly above the first week of "The Great Ziegfeld." The gross is about $4,400 over the estimated roadshow average at this price scale, 55 cents to $1.65.

Weather progressively warmer during the week, closing very summery. Besides road-show, theatrical opposition is Gayety (burlesque) Theater. Summer resorts practically closed, but warmish weather is sending cottage owners out of city over week-ends.

With the engagement of "Swing Time," RKO-Keith's Theater abolished the 25-cent admission from opening to 1 P.M., instituting the rate of 35 cents from opening to 5:30 o'clock. Children's price of 25 cents at all times still valid.

Total first run business, exclusive of the National, was $81,900. Average, including the Belasco, is $76,700.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax:

Overseas Previews

"Spy of Napoleon"

(Twickenham-British)

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Entertainment values of a very considerable order, expressed in a great variety of settings and incident, are in this more than workmanlike production by Julius Hagen's "J. H. " unit, working at the Elstree studio of that name. Maurice Elvey's direction of good story material, from Baroness Orczy of "Scarlet Pimpernel" fame, is efficient and imaginative. It is undoubtedly audience material.

Dolly Haas, star of "Broken Blossoms," is teamed with Richard Barthelmess, of the Griffith original of that name, but it is one of the virtues of the film that their love drama is only one of the elements of a production which gains much of its appeal from a colorful picture of the career of Napoleon III, brilliantly pictured by Frank Vosper and his consort, the Empress Eugenie, portrayed by striking Joyce Bland. There are other very good historical portraits, notably that of Lyn Harding as Bismarck. A police chief is well played by Francis L. Sullivan.

With its main theme Napoleon III's fear of his secret enemies of the old aristocracy and his police chief's campaign against them, the picture very deftly links the two leading characters, a natural daughter of Napoleon and a young aristocrat, with an attempt to assassinate the Emperor at Lyons. Plausibly created is the situation that the girl is married to the aristocrat, in order to be able to use his name at court while he nominally is shot and actually banished. She becomes a star of counter-espionage and he finally assists her in the capture of a super-spy. The climax is the Franco-Prussian war, the surrender at Sedan, very well staged, and the final scene the deathbed of Napoleon III.

Too long in its present form and open to criticism in various questions of detail, "Spy of Napoleon," by its colorful pictorial qualities, its good characterization and acting and its plot values, definitely belongs to the category of British pictures good enough to interest the American exhibitor.

Running time, 98 minutes. "G."

"Juggernaut"

(Twickenham-London)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Boris Karloff, not so horrible, as a doctor who, lacking $100,000 to complete a piece of research, bargains for that amount to poison an elderly husband and so free the young wife for the gigolo who is at her disposal only when her purse is full—the elderly husband, smelling a rat, has seen to it that it is empty.

This is the main plot of "Juggernaut," with side developments provided by a nurse who discovers the poison syringe with which the murder is done and, after an old style serial escape from an attempt on her own life, saves the murdered man's son from the demented medico's third essay at homicide. Suicide by hypodermic injection, with Karloff lecturing on his own dying symptoms, is the climax.

It is too unconvincing to be horrifying and too crude to be mischievous. Away in the backwoods it may get by; in the cities they are more likely to find it a burlesque and sometimes a very funny one. The dated material makes the acting also look as though it belonged to the early silent melodrama, but you can't blame the cast.

Running time, 70 minutes. "A." ALLAN

Looking 'Em Over

"Incertidumbre"
"Uncertainty"

(Hispania Orbis—U. A.)

The first Spanish-produced film for United Artists release in this country, this picture has little or nothing to offer any but Spanish-speaking audiences. It is not an easy matter to follow the complications in the dramatic-romantic story without a knowledge of the language, and subtitle translations are in this case conspicuous by their absence.

For Spanish audiences, however, the film seems to have its entertaining moments, judging by audience reaction at the newly opened Cervantes Theatre in New York's Spanish section.

Considered in the light of Hollywood production, this picture appears to have entirely too much dialogue and entirely too little action. The story concerns the escape from a night club raid of a girl by hiding in the back of a car. When the car crashes, she and its owner are of necessity thrown together. He is an engineer engaged in the construction of a telephone line. Complication and misunderstanding ensue before the budding romance comes to a satisfactory conclusion.

Short Subjects

"Colorful Occupations"

(Vitaphone)

Those rare and novel jobs that have such eye-appeal are revealed in this Cinecolor short. Among the items shown are: a California woman who adorns her garden with realistic fairy-tale characters, a South Sea Islander who carves human likenesses from cocoanut shells, the raising of rare Siamese cats, a lady bug farm for supplying orange growers with the insects to combat other pests, and a few others. It is moderately interesting. Production Code Seal No. 0141. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Wacky Family"

(Educational)

Tim and Irene give their familiar comedy antics this time at their summer vacation home. Of course, the in-laws with their lunacies are present. Tim is promoted to general manager at his office on the eve of his holiday. His boss invites himself to meet Tim's family. When this finally happens—after much comic relief—he decides that Irene should have charge of the office. All this, of course, after Tim is made the butt of Irene's father's insane inventions which pop up about the house. It is fair entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 01,158. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"A Bully Frog"

(Terry-Universal)

A Small Pond frog gets a hankering for the Big Pond and when he is not taken seriously by his fellows, he flies to the latter. There he attempts a romantic sally with a gangster frog's moll and is beaten up. He returns to Small Pond, finds his true love, sees the comfortable points of the place and decides to make it permanent. It is lively and has a measure of animated action that makes it fairly entertaining. Production Code Seal No. 01,195. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Nature's Songsters"

(Educational)

The Cornell laboratory of ornithology took its cameras and special recording equipment into the field, observed bird life, obtained some fine studies of their nesting habits and the result, this short, is an entertaining and educational bit of entertainment. There is also an excellent running narrative. Production Code Seal No. 01,151. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Sentenced to See Film

MASSILLON, O., Sept. 20.—Found guilty of driving 45 miles per hour and passing a traffic light, Harold Williams was fined $5 and costs, and sentenced to see "And Sudden Death" at the Lincoln. Judge George Howells agreed to suspend a 15-day jail sentence if Williams would return with a note signed by the manager testifying that he had seen the picture. He did.

FULTON THEATRE

DIRECTION HYDE & BEHMAN AMUSEMENT CO
PITTSBURGH, PA.

Mr. E. W. Hammons,
President, Educational Pictures,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Hammons:

As manager of the Fulton Theatre here, I was searching for an outstanding comedy to play with the Fox feature "Sing Baby Sing" and was rewarded on the day before we opened by the arrival of a print of Bert Lahr in "Boy, Oh Boy!"

We are now on the third day of our run, playing to marvelous business despite the extremely hot weather, and I want you to know that the audience reaction to your Bert Lahr picture is the finest I have seen any two reel comedy get in the past several years.

Besides laughing throughout the eighteen minutes, the story of "Boy, Oh Boy!" is full of action and has as much suspense as some mystery or action features that have been produced.

Two reel comedies like this will do more to discourage double feature programs than all the meetings and discussions that are going on.

Sincerely yours,

John P. Goring

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wedding Present"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Sept. 20.—A gay, giddy comedy played to the hilt for its laughs, B. P. Schulberg's first Paramount release under his new deal has enough bright gags for two films.

Joan Bennett and Cary Grant, two star reporters, know it's love until Grant becomes city editor and wise to all the work-evading dodges. He starts cracking the whip and Miss Bennett decides to marry Conrad Nagel, a prim, sedate writer of successful mental hygiene books, who never can know how the sound of fire sirens is an imperative call to the story sense in her. Despairing Grant sits in a bar trying to face the fact of her wedding. Next thing he decides is to take the end of love gallantly and give her a wedding present after her own heart—sirens, and plenty of them. As a result engines, ambulances, utility fire shooters and dozens of fast cars from the police, asylum, hospital and undertaker jam the street demanding the horrified groom on different pretexts. Grant naturally wins back the girl.

The main story by Paul Gallico supplying the happy general theme is embroidered with the sparkling dialogue and giddy characters in the episodic, but funny, screenplay by Anthony Given. ·Happy emphasis is in the direction of Richard Wallace. The supporting cast is unusually fine with George Bancroft as the harassed city editor, Gene Lockhart as an archduke kidnapped for a scoop, William Demarest a gangster with a heart of gold, Edward Brophy a brow-beaten mobster, and George Meeker, Inez Courtney, Douglas Wood, Purnell Pratt, Jack Mulhall and Lois Wilson all registering individual laughs.

Emphasize the mad general theme for exploitation.

Production Code Seal No. 2,580. Running time, 79 minutes. "G."

"Polo Joe"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Sept. 20.—Laughs start immediately and continue without interruption in this conglomeration of farcical nonsense. Whether it is Joe E. Brown's singing of Chinese songs, gagging, romancing, beating up kidnappers or being a high goal polo player, there is only occasion for giggles and guffaws.

Clowning in his best fashion and topping any previous endeavor as an amusement provider, Brown is ably supported by "Skeets" Gallagher, David Newell, Carol Hughes, Joseph King and Faye Holden. The story by Peter Milne and Hugh Cummings is about a horse-hating fellow whose own vanity and love for the girl allows himself to get mixed up with a horsey, polo playing set. Following serious and ludicrous situations he emerges as the best player ever to swing a mallet.

As directed by William McGann, with the interest continually centered on Brown's antics, the picture moves with a rapid pace without any noticeable letdown. It is sure to click with Brown's following.

Production Code Seal No. 2,364. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"The Case of the Black Cat"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Sept. 20.—This latest in the Perry Mason series by Earl Stanley Gardner compares favorably with the earlier films and should please followers of the character. Ricardo Cortez, replacing Warren William as the lawyer-detective, makes Mason more believable by giving a straight performance, dropping byplay which William gave the role.

However, like others in the series, this gives the audience no chance to solve the mystery by giving Cortez the advantage of clues not disclosed on the screen. The story concerns a wealthy family, all the members of which are disagreeable and fighting for the estate even before the eldest member of it is dead. Then the murder occurs and all are suspects until Cortez discloses that the "corpse" is alive and has committed one of the subsequent murders.

June Travis now appears as Mason's secretary, Craig Reynolds, Jane Bryan, Gordon Elliot and Harry Davenport are the members of the family, and Nedda Harrigan and Carlyle Moore, Jr., are others who become involved. The cat mentioned in the title is more of a herring thrown across the trail for the audience than an integral part of the plot.

The screenplay by F. Hugh Herbert, the direction of William McGann and the production in general are all up to standard.

Production Code Seal No. 2,446. Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

"Hollywood Boulevard," Saturday's opener at the Rialto, was covered by wire from Hollywood Aug. 1.

"Adverse" $10,000, 10 Days, New Haven

New Haven, Sept. 20.—With holdovers in the other three first runs, and a five-cent advance in price to swell receipts, "Anthony Adverse" grossed $10,000 in eight days at the Roger Sherman—more than twice the week's average for the house. Children's prices were raised from 10 to 25 cents. It was held.

The Paramount, in the last week of an 11-day engagement of "The General Died at Dawn" and "Three Married Men," played to an exceptional week-end and steady business throughout, with a take of $6,600, up from par by $1,800. "Girls' Dormitory" and "Shakedown," first college dual to repeat, held up to $700 above the usual $2,800. The repeat week of "The Great Ziegfeld" at the Poli, with admissions hiked 10 cents in the orchestra, and five in the balcony, dipped $500 under the $7,000 line. After two days of Indian summer just before the week-end, the weather was ideal for theatre-going, a fact which was reflected in the grosses.

Total first run business was $26,600. Average is $19,300.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 17:

"GIRLS' DORMITORY" (20th-Fox)
"SHAKEDOWN" (Col.)

COLLEGE—(1,499), 25c-35c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $2,800)

"ANTHONY ADVERSE" (W. B.)

ROGER SHERMAN—(2,200), 40c-55c, 8 days. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $4,700)

"Swing" a $13,000 Hit in Providence

Providence, Sept. 20.—The fall season started with a bang here this week with "Swing Time" giving the RKO Albee one of its biggest grosses in many moons. The picture collected $13,000, which was $6,000 over the usual intake.

The Strand also had a strong attraction in "The Texas Rangers," which upped the average gross of $6,500 by $1,500. The Majestic was slightly over its $7,000 par with "Girls' Dormitory" and "Back to Nature," while the second week of "Gorgeous Hussy," at Loew's, was good for $9,000. "King of the Royal Mounted" and vaudeville at Fay's was even at $7,000.

The crisp weather was ideal for picture-going and all of the counter-summer attractions have folded now.

Total first run business was $44,100. Average is $39,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 17:

"THE TEXAS RANGERS" (Para.)

STRAND—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,000. (Average, $6,500)

"GIRLS' DORMITORY" (20th-Fox)
"BACK TO NATURE" (20th-Fox)

"GORGEOUS HUSSY" (M-G-M)

LOEW'S STATE—(3,800), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $9,000. (Average, $12,000)

"SWING TIME" (Radio)

RKO ALBERT—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $13,000. (Average, $7,000)

"KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED" (20th-Fox)

FAY'S—(1,600), 15c-40c, 7 days. Stage: Five acts of vaudeville. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $7,000)

"Godfrey" Is Cincy Smash; Gets $18,000

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.—The outstanding gross last week was turned in by "My Man Godfrey," which did $18,000 at the RKO Palace, up $8,000 on the house average. It was shifted to Keith's.

"Swing Time," in its second downtown week, was runnerup from a plus-average standpoint, grossing $9,800 at the RKO Capitol, over the line by $3,300 for the best week this house has had in many months. It held over.

"The Road to Glory" had a $15,000 stanza at the RKO Albee, against a $12,000 normal figure. It moved to the RKO Lyric. "The Gorgeous Hussy" bettered the RKO Grand figure by $450 on a $3,200 take in its third week downtown.

The week was marked by a record September heat. Nearby dog racing and open air operas by the music division of the WPA constituted the chief opposition.

Total first run business was $65,850. Average is $58,700.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 17:

"THE ROAD TO GLORY" (20th-Fox)

Variety Club to Bowl

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—John Muchmore was elected president of the Variety Club Bowling League at the organization meeting at Pla-Mor, where the 10-pinners will start bouncing them tomorrow.

Andy Anderson of Paramount, who will bowl with Film Delivery, got the call for vice-president, with W. J. Kubitzki, treasurer, and Frank Lambader, secretary.

Ten teams will be sponsored by as many companies or individuals: Norris Cresswell, Finton H. Jones, Erpi Midwest Exchange - Commonwealth Theatres, RKO-RCA, M-G-M, Film Delivery, Twentieth Century-Fox, Warners and the PlaMor barkers.

Plan Bust of Thalberg

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—Friends of Irving Thalberg have entered into negotiations with Allen Ullman, internationally famous sculptor, for a bust of the late producer to be presented as a memorial for the M-G-M Studios. In order to avoid any appearance of personal publicity, members of the group have asked that their names be withheld. Ullman will start work as soon as he gets the necessary specifications.

To Start Cagney Film

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—Douglas MacLean will start "Great Guy," the James Cagney picture on Oct. 15, with John Blystone directing. This will be his first production, and "23½ Hours Leave," originally scheduled to go first, has been set back to Nov. 2. MacLean is still seeking a lead for the latter picture.

"Adverse" at $11,300 Hits Seattle High

SEATTLE, Sept. 20.—"Anthony Adverse" stirred up plenty of excitement in its first week at the Fifth Avenue at advanced prices. The take on a 75-cent top was $11,300. Normal for the house is $7,000.

Film Deals at Standstill in Chicago's Row

Independents Insist on Clearance Settlement

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Film deals running into hundreds of thousands of dollars are being held up in this city by the unsettled clearance problems brought about when independent theatres refused to buy any product on terms other than those of last year.

B. & K., in buying the new season's product, demanded from distributors, and in all but one instance, received an extra seven days' clearance between "C" week and the first-week-of-release. The one company which has not okayed the contracts for new product with the new clearance allowance attached is United Artists.

When B. & K. was given the extra clearance Allied Theatres, as a group, refused to buy any product until the old terms were included in all contracts. Allied claimed that setup was a violation of a consent decree handed down in U. S. District Court in 1932, which is said to state that distributors and major circuits cannot not change the clearance rules without first discussing the matter with independent theatres.

Allied has moved to take the matter up with the U. S. Attorney General

G. B. Deal Faces Collapse; Schenck Holds to Terms

Maxwell Seen Figure Behind Upset in Schenck G. B. Move

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The City, London's Wall Street, sees the hand of John Maxwell of British International behind the upset in the Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew offer for G. B. in the form of a new and more substantial bid for the Ostrer holdings.

A secondary report, discounted somewhat in more conservative quarters, insists that a group composed of Lord Portal, C. M. Woolf of General Film Distributors, Ltd. and Alexander Korda of London Films have stepped into the situation with a proposition of their own. A third angle maintained that Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's may sell their holdings in G. B. instead of endeavoring to purchase enough additional shares to secure management control through the Metropolis and Bradford Trust which controls 57 per cent of the outstanding G. B. stock.

The financial editor of the Daily Mail on Saturday and again today stated the Twentieth Century-Fox, Loew, G. B. deal has fallen through

Alperson Active in Grand Nat'l Shares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Extensive operations in Grand National Films stock by Edward L. Alperson, New York, president and a director of the company, were shown in his July report to the Securities and Exchange Commission, made public today.

During the month, in a series of transactions, the report showed, Alperson acquired 43,931 common stock rights and disposed of the same amount, and acquired 37,530 shares

Tax Revenue Shows Decrease in August

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Breaking a steady upward trend which had prevailed since last March, admission tax collections in August dropped more than $184,000 from the July figure of $1,568,487 to $1,384,107, it was reported today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Collections for the month, however, were more than $70,000

Gains Rapidly

"I don't know exactly when I'll get out of jail, but it will be soon," declared Joseph M. Schenck last night. He has been confined to the Mt. Sinai Hospital for a liver disorder and a general overhauling.

"I feel very well," he added.

Grosses Fail To Prove Loss Due to Radio

An analysis of grosses of 30 affiliated theatres, recently completed by the M. P. P. D. A., has proved inconclusive in determining whether or not box-office takes are injured directly by competition from radio programs which feature film personalities, it was learned yesterday.

As a result of the failure of the study to indict the participation of stars in radio broadcasting, official quarters here believe that Will Hays will make no move on his return here early next week to influence radio officials to curtail their use of film names.

The Hays organization's study of theatre grosses embraced houses located in territories which were directly covered by one or more important radio stations using the Hollywood programs. The figures gathered in-

One of Ostrers Seeks Rewriting—J. M. Says He'll Stand Pat

By RED KANN

The possibility loomed last night that the Twentieth Century-Fox, Loew deal for Gaumont British may be washed up because of the insistence of one of the Ostrer brothers for a revamping of the purchase offer on different and, presumably, more favorable terms.

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of Twentieth Century-Fox, admitted this to MOTION PICTURE DAILY over his hospital telephone at Mt. Sinai where he is confined for observation of a liver disorder.

"We heard today that one of the Ostrers was insisting upon re-trading the terms of the deal. We have made our offer and are standing by it. I do not propose to change the terms," he said. Schenck did not mention which Ostrer it was.

As perhaps the chief individual factor in the long negotiations leading to what would be the largest international deal in the history of the industry, Schenck's statement came as partial confirmation of widespread rumors in London that the deal might not be consummated after months of deliberations, agreements and outlines of terms set up here in conferences with Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's and M-G-M, and Isidore Ostrer, managing director of Gaumont British.

The understanding last night was that the shift in the situation was traceable to renewal of offers for G. B., through Metropolis and Bradford Trust, by British interests, led probably by John Maxwell of British International who had made at least one earlier bid for the company.

Inferentially, confirmation of another Maxwell bid was furnished by Schenck himself who also stated the head of B. I. P. recently had made an offer to purchase Twentieth Century-Fox's interest in M. and B., which controls 57 per

Barnstyn Completes Film Deals Abroad

Several product deals were completed in England and on the Continent by Jack C. Barnstyn, head of British and Continental Trading Co., during a three-month trip abroad from which he returned over the weekend, Barnstyn said yesterday.

He brought back with him a print of a new film, "Guilty Melody," which was produced in London by the Ealing Studio, and is being distributed in England by A.B.F.D. He is negotiating its distribution here. Barnstyn said he found business in England exceptionally good, but that on the Continent it was very poor.

To Call Option Warrants

A reminder that option warrants for the purchase of the preferred and common stock of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. are exercisable at $70 a unit for one year after Oct. 1 has been sent by Arthur W. Loasby, chairman of the reorganization committee of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., to holders of certificates of deposit for the 10-year, six per cent convertible gold debentures.

Philadelphia Starts Central Film System

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Clark Film Distributing, Inc., the new company formed by Horlacher's Film Delivery Service to inspect and route films, got under way today with Grand National and several other independent companies as the first accounts to be served.

No major companies have joined the move, but the backers hope they will fall in line after the plan has been in operation a few months.

K. C. Deal Is Closed

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21.—E. M. Jamison of the Kansas City Film Delivery Service, has signed with Grand National to handle the local inspection and distribution. Jamison plans to line up a number of other independent exchanges in this territory.

While in New York recently Jamison closed a deal with TWA to handle the local delivery of all air express packages.

No N. Y. Plans Made

No plans are under way to centralize inspection and booking of films in the Greater New York territory, it was stated yesterday by Louis Molitch, executive of Horlacher's Film Delivery Service. He will return to Philadelphia, his headquarters, today.

Sue to Recover Film

A suit to recover 15 reels of negative, tentatively entitled "Indomesia," photographed in the vicinity of Borneo, has been filed in N. Y. Supreme Court by Morton Hartman and Verne Porter, Inc., against Luther Reeb and K. Blyth Emmons. The complaint charges that the plaintiffs turned over the film to the defendants on March 21, 1935, to complete work on it in 90 days and that the defendants then refused to turn over the film. The defendants have entered a general denial to the charges and they also deny that the plaintiffs are the owners of the film.

This morning the plaintiffs will ask Justice Edward J. McGoldrick for an order to examine the defendants before trial. In the complaint, the plaintiffs seek $25,000 damages, or the film, plus 5,000 damages for detention of the film. The defendants have made a counter claim for $2,290.

Woman Sues Pathe News

A $10,000 libel suit was filed yesterday in U. S. District Court, Brooklyn, by Mrs. Gertrude Sweenek against Pathe News, Inc. Mrs. Sweenek charges she was libeled in a clip released April 13, 1935, and which represented her and several other women taking reducing exercises in Philadelphia Jack O'Brien's gymnasium. She alleges that comment by Teddy Bergman held her up to ridicule. The film was shown in court. Pathe attorneys, pending a motion for dismissal, stated that the facts did not warrant action and asked to have the plaintiff state whether or not it was a newsreel. Hearing will resume tomorrow.

Obtains "Ecstasy" Writ

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21.—Roy W. Rucker, representing Jewel Prod. and the Royal Theatre, today obtained an order from Circuit Judge Ray Cowan requiring the city to appear tomorrow to show cause why it should not be restrained from interfering with the exhibition of "Ecstasy."

Wanted to Know

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 21.—A tourist gazed up at the triple feature ads on the Capitol the other day about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Am I in time to see the whole show?" he asked the cashier.

She admitted he would probably make it if he hurried.

Lawyers Will Study New Copyright Move

No formal action was taken yesterday by attorneys of major companies on an oral report by Edward P. Kilroe, chairman of the copyright committee, who returned last week from a seven-week trip abroad gathering data in connection with the Berne Copyright Committee.

Revisions suggested by Kilroe before film companies recommend to Congress the joining of the Berne Committee by the U. S. were thoroughly discussed at a two-hour session at the Hays office. Kilroe will reduce the analysis to writing and early next week will call another conclave. In the interim, however, the lawyers will digest the suggestions made.

Attending the session were, in addition to Kilroe, James L. Polk, Paramount; Aloph Schimmil, Universal; Benjamin Pepper of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, representing U. A.; David O. Decker, M-G-M; Robert Dan, RKO; Morris Ebenstein, Warners; Irving Moross, Columbia.

To Decide Picketing Extension in a Week

Decision on the extension of the picketing campaign of the American Federation of Musicians from New York to other major cities will be made within a week, it was learned yesterday. Local 802 of the A. F. M. is conducting the drive here, which is designed to bring about the remployment of "living music and entertainment in the theatres." With the addition of the New Criterion to the list, 21 film houses in New York, Bronx and Brooklyn are being picketed.

Jacob Rosenberg of Local 802 declared that music unions in other cities have asked for details on the operation of the campaign. Only houses with orchestra pits or stages are being picketed, Rosenberg insisted, and asked that it be made clear that the campaign is "not a fight against canned music," but a drive to bring about reemployment of union members to supplement the present shows. He declared himself as satisfied with the progress of the campaign thus far.

Hays Meet Off Again

The twice-postponed annual meeting of the board of M.P.P.D.A., which was scheduled for tomorrow, is being set back again and is now slated for Sept. 30. The postponements have resulted from changes in plans which have kept Will H. Hays, president, on the coast longer than anticipated. Hays was to have presided at a meeting of the Producers' Ass'n in Hollywood last night, and may leave for the east within the next few days. At present, he is expected here early next week.

Films Setting New Quality Mark—Coh

Hollywood studios are setting a ne mark in quality productions whic should account for continued increas in theatre attendance throughout th fall and winter season, when genera business conditions are expected t reach their improvement peak, Jac Cohn, vice-president of Columbia, sai yesterday on his return by plane fro a brief coast visit.

Cohn was enthusiastic over "Los Horizon," which was screened at th studio with other new product, an said he was impressed by the outloo for "Theodora Goes Wild," with Iren Dunne, and "Depths Below," wit Dolores Del Rio.

Cohn leaves for London on th Queen Mary tomorrow, to be gon about three weeks. While there, h will look over the company's produc tion interests in England and mak what he described as his "annual in spection" of the London situation.

Benham, Collins End Coast Federal Prob

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Willia Benham, accompanied by Harold Col lins and another attorney from th Dept. of Justice, have returned fro the coast after spending six weeks investigating a number of complaints Several studios were visited by th Federal lawyers, reputedly in connection with a questionnaire sent out recently by Assistant Attorney Genera Dickinson.

Benham also played an importan part in the investigation by the department in the Government's anti-trust suit in St. Louis. Collins was on the Government legal lineup in the St. Louis equity case, but not in the criminal action.

R. A. McNeil Denies Rift with Universal

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Answering a rumor of a split between Universal and Golden Gate, Robert A. McNeil today stated:

"We are unaware of any difficulties with Universal. Despite strikes on our city's waterfront and in the agricultural sections this is the first we have heard of a strike on the part of Universal against one of the business interests of northern California."

Without permitting further quotation, McNeil indicated that the situation is approaching a probable settlement.

Lubitsch Coming East

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Ernst Lubitsch left for New York today by plane. He is accompanied by Samson Raphaelson who will prepare the next Marlene Dietrich story.

Robert Gillham, Paramount's director of publicity, is remaining on the coast for sales conferences.

Cinema Club to Meet

A luncheon meeting of the board of governors of the Cinema Club to discuss plans for fall activities will be held tomorrow in the clubrooms.

Just one of the reasons why the Show of Shows, Paramount's "Big Broadcast of 1937", is gonna pack 'em in at your theatre

"THE BIG BROADCAST of 1937"

The most beautiful girls in the world . . . that's what you're going to say when you see these LeRoy Prinz lovelies swing through the measures of "La Bomba", one of the many big production numbers in the Show of Shows, Paramount's "The Big Broadcast of 1937"

Retain Price Raise At 2 in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21.—The increase in prices at Warners' Stanley and Loew's Penn, started on "Anthony Adverse" and "The Gorgeous Hussy," will continue in effect indefinitely. Both houses increased their scales for straight pictures by 10 cents for matinees and evenings.

At the same time, the Fulton dropped its bargain opening price of 15 cents. Its early matinee admission price is now 25 cents.

Increase on Specials

Louisville, Sept. 21.—Admission prices have been raised in two instances here, but only for specials, and cannot be taken as an indication of general price raising in this area. On "Anthony Adverse" the Mary Anderson increased the matinee price from 28 cents to 44 cents, while the night prices were raised from 44 cents to 61 cents for the three-week engagement.

Prices also were raised at Loew's State for "The Great Ziegfeld." The picture played the Brown in the spring at roadshow prices, and for the present showing the increase was from 28 to 38 cents for matinees, and from 44 cents to 55 cents at night.

Change Policy in Seattle

Seattle, Sept. 21.—Hamrick-Evergreen's Paramount here has instituted a single feature, class "A" product, according to William Hamrick. "The Gorgeous Hussy" was the opening attraction under the new policy, with admission rates raised to a 40-cent top, in place of the previous 30-cent top for dual-features.

RKO Men Go to Dallas

After a week of conferences here Cresson E. Smith, RKO western and southern sales manager; Herbert MacIntyre, southern district manager, and Sol Sachs, Dallas branch manager, left by air last night for a general survey of the southwestern sales territory. They will make their headquarters at Dallas.

Plan Tampa Sales Tax

Tampa, Sept. 21.—A new tax ordinance before the City Council calls for a sales tax of 30 cents on each $100 of gross receipts. Bank Night receipts would be taxed at $1 per $100.

It will be voted on next week, and, if passed, will become effective Oct. 1.

Film Party Arrives

Southampton, Sept. 21.—Aboard the Normandie stopping here today were Mrs. Spyros Skouras and her daughter, Daphne; Mrs. Lillian Alperson, Ricardo and Mrs. Cortez, Sally Eilers, Sophie Tucker and Mick Hyams of H. & G. Kinemas.

Sherman Held by Para.

Hollywood, Sept. 21.—Paramount today signed Harry Sherman to a new two-year contract calling for the production of 12 pictures in the Hopalong Cassidy series.

Imperial to Blackstone

The Blackstone Agency has taken over the Imperial Pictures account. Ruth Schwerin has rejoined the agency.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Without Orders"

(Radio)

Hollywood, Sept. 21.—Built of tried and true ingredients, this latest aviation story compares favorably with the best from the standpoint of thrills and melodrama. Motivated by sound dramatic conflict the tale is spectacularly embellished by sensational aerial thrill, action and production effects. It possesses entertainment value fully worthy of general audience attention. Also, it should lend itself well to interest-creating exploitation.

Based on a Peter B. Kyne story, the screen play of J. Robert Bren and Edmund Hartman is intelligently and logically done. The aerial sequences are skillfully photographed by J. Roy Hunt and Vernon Walker. The Lew Landers direction seldom misses a beat and keeps the show moving at a brisk pace.

The plot concerns the intense professional and romantic rivalry between Robert Armstrong, a reliable transport flier, and Vinton Haworth, a stunter. Playing the game fair and square, Armstrong always seems to get the short end of the stick, his hardest blow being the announcement of Sally Eilers, a stewardess, that she will marry Haworth. After Haworth assaults Francess Page, Miss Eilers' sister, to prevent her from spreading news of his past indiscretions, he turns completely yellow as he is flying a passenger plane through a storm and commits suicide, leaving Miss Eilers to land the ship as best she can. In a suspense-packed finale, Armstrong sends instructions to the girl by radio, enabling her to land the plane safely.

The picture is convincingly acted in all its phases by the principals, Charley Grapewin and especially by Haworth, a newcomer, who gives a splendid account of himself in a most distasteful role. Geared to a high theatric atmosphere, the film has that quality that will move an audience to hisses at one point and to cheers at another.

Production Code Seal No. 2,499. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Romance Rides the Range"

(Spectrum)

The first of a new series of six musical westerns starring Fred Scott, this production by Jed Buell and George Callaghan would have been vastly improved, as western material, had it been endowed with considerably more action. It must be obvious that the audience for westerns is, above all, an action-seeking audience. With the exception of a fist fight or two, this lacks that all-important ingredient.

Scott is supported by Marion Shilling, Cliff Nazarro, Buzz Barton and Bob Kortman in particular. Scott's voice is good, the song numbers are effective, but it would seem that the average youngster would gladly sacrifice vocal renditions for a few more whizzing bullets and racing horses than are found herein.

Scott, opera singer, vacationing on his ranch, discovers that Miss Shilling and her brother are being cheated by Kortman and his brother. The manner in which he brings them to book and clears himself when romantic complications develop, might have been told with less conversation and more punch. Harry Frazer directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,502. Running time, 59 minutes. "G."

Virginia's Sunday Cases Up on Appeal

Richmond, Sept. 21.—This state's Sunday laws seem headed for appeals to the Supreme Court in spite of the fact that Charles A. Somma was acquitted on an appeal to Hustings Court some time ago.

Fleet Robinson, manager of the Virginia at Danville, went to jail rather than pay a $5 fine. L. L. Long, projectionist at the theatre, was acquitted after trial.

An appeal by S. H. Northington, manager of the Bluebird, Petersburg, is scheduled to come up in Hustings Court at Petersburg Oct. 2.

New Mississippi Tax Vetoed by Governor

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 21.—Gov. Hugh White has vetoed the revised state admission tax, which provided for a decrease in the tax on small town theatres and an increase for city houses. The state tax of one cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof continues in force, as a result of today's action.

Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, who came here from Columbus as an observer at the special session of the Legislature, has returned to his home with plans for going to New York from there next weekend.

N. Y. U. Film Course Will Open Thursday

On Thursday New York University will inaugurate a new series of lectures in its course on films, conducted by Prof. Frederick M. Thrasher, associate professor of education, at its downtown school. The course will consist of two series of lectures, one each Thursday evening, the first group running to February, the second through June.

The screen's contribution to contemporary life will be the basic theme of the course, which will be given with the cooperation of the National Board of Review. Various representative figures in the film business and fields related to it will lecture each week. The opening session will be addressed by Terry Ramsaye, editor of Motion Picture Herald, who will speak on "New Trends in the History of the Movies." Louis Nizer, Howard S. Cullman, John S. Martin, Wilton Barrett and Max Fleischer will be among the lecturers during the first half of the course.

Optimism Runs High In Providence Area

Providence, Sept. 21.—The advent of the new season finds exhibitors here more than usually optimistic. They have succeeded in weathering a summer which was crammed with horse racing, legitimate theatre and resort opposition and the general exodus to the beaches, all of which made deep inroads into grosses.

Prior to the Labor Day openings the Strand, Loew's and Fay's cut loose with big advertising campaigns and received generous cooperation from the dailies in news copy. Managers anticipate no increase in prices during the fall and winter with all houses in the downtown area scaled a 40-cent maximum.

The fact that business conditions show constant improvement in this textile area is regarded as another augury for a banner year.

W. B. to RKO, Comerford

Contracts have been signed with RKO and the Comerford circuits for the entire Warner-First National-Cosmopolitan feature lineup, including Vitaphone shorts and trailers for the 1936-'37 season.

John O'Connor, for the circuit, and Bob Mochrie, acting for Warners, closed the RKO deal, while the Comerford pact was signed by Mochrie and John Nolan, who represented the theatres.

Al Barnett Very Ill

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21.—Al Barnett, local Universal manager, is seriously ill at the Montefiore Hospital. He has had several blood transfusions and every exchange manager has offered to donate blood. Arthur Levy, manager of the Columbia branch, has given Barnett a pint.

Sig Wittman, district manager, was here all last week and left for New York last night.

Fred Dolle Recovering

Louisville, Sept. 21.—Fred Dolle, head of the Fourth Ave. Amusement Co., has recovered sufficiently from a recent appendicitis operation and has been moved to his home.

Educational Films Get Chinese Study

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—That films may become an important factor in the education of China's illiterate masses is indicated in a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Commercial Attache Julean Arnold in Shanghai. The Chinese Ministry of Education has appointed a special committee to undertake the educational film movement.

One of the first tasks facing the committee will be to train personnel to produce educational films. It is also planning to purchase a large number of projection machines for distribution to various provinces and municipalities.

The Ministry is planning to produce films on history, industrial and agricultural conditions, sanitation, and other subjects.

Researchers to Make Preservative Tests

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Arrangements have been completed by the Academy Research Council to conduct a series of field tests on the various film preservative processes now available to companies.

Starting next week a test reel containing several 150 ft. sections of film, each section treated by a different preservative process, will be taken into each of approximately 150 theatres and projected from three to six times to determine the comparative effects of field service.

Membership of the committee handling the tests consists of Harris Ensign, chairman; George Crane, Fred Gage, Hugh McClung, Sidney Lund, J. M. Nickolaus, John Swain, A. U. Guerin and Gordon S. Mitchell.

Youngclaus Not Quitting

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 21.—W. H. Youngclaus, head of Western Theatre Enterprises, denies that he has given up plans for a circuit or that he will terminate his partnership with W. H. Thompson. He has disposed of five of his six houses in recent weeks.

Set Extra "Romeo" Show

Four shows every Saturday has been adopted as the policy for the run of "Romeo and Juliet" at the Astor. The extra performance will be sandwiched in between the three other shows at 6 P.M.

"Tundra" to Criterion

"Tundra" will go into the new Criterion soon. A deal has been closed between Harry Rathner, general sales manager of Burroughs-Tarzan and Bert Kulick of Syndicate Pictures with Harry Charnas and B. S. Moss.

Slight Damage in Fire

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—A fire in the Twentieth Century-Fox exchange here caused $1,500 damage, largely from smoke and water. Several files of office records were ruined but no film was destroyed.

SMPE Meets Sept. 23

The Atlantic coast section of the Society of M. P. Engineers will hold its first meeting of the new season Wednesday evening, Sept. 23 at the office of Paramount News, Inc.

Looking 'Em Over

"Trouble Ahead"

(Atlantic)

The boy-meets-girl theme in a London setting, whimsically directed by Monty Banks, this is an entertaining offering with moments of charm and the novelty of being actually done in and about London. Aside from being projected against travelogue scenery, this importation from Allied Films features Charles Farrell, Gregory Ratoff, Margot Grahame and for a brief sequence, Marion Harris.

Farrell plays the American actor who goes to England accompanied by Ratoff, his press agent. The acclaim of his English public causes Farrell to flee and when he makes his escape on a bus he meets Mary Lawson. The romance develops from that point. However, Ratoff's troubles start when the English backer of Farrell's film reveals the details of a leading lady contest which Miss Grahame must win. Of course Farrell objects. Miss Lawson, a Cinderella-like girl, is misinformed by Ratoff and goes off. Farrell takes ship for the States and as things move at a faster pace Ratoff eventually settles the difficulties and they all return. The serio-comic romance is well handled and a boating scene in the early morning is attractive.

Farrell is good in a fitting role. Miss Grahame and Miss Lawson as siren and sweetheart, respectively, give good performances. Ratoff is perfect. The support includes Diana Napier, H. F. Maltby, Catherine Nesbit, Pat Ahearn and Sally Stewart.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Overseas Previews

"The Man Who Changed His Mind"

(Gaumont British)

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Boris Karloff, again a sinister doctor, in one of those types of stories in which the desire to curdle the spectators' blood is sometimes more obvious than the success of that attempt.

However, and although the fearsome and wonderful machinery by which the crazy medico transfers one man's soul to another conveys an unintentional atmosphere of travesty, there are other entertainment elements which get over more effectively.

Notable is Frank Cellier's portrait of a pompous newspaper owner and Donald Calthrop's picture of an embittered cripple, and there is ironic humor in the situation of this warped mind being seen in operation from the rotund frame of the press magnate. Some people will be thrilled by the apparatus by which the transposition of personalities is effected, first in the case of monkeys and then with men.

The love interest depends on the fact that John Loder, the newspaper man's son and heir, loves the beautiful assistant of the mad doctor and that the latter exchanges bodies with the young man in order to get the girl. She, of course, manages to effect a comeback.

It has obvious exploitation possibilities.

Running time, 65 minutes. "A."

"Dusty Ermine"

(Twickenham-British)

LONDON, Sept. 11.—An amusing adaptation of Neil Grant's stage play with Ronald Squire excelling himself as a droll forger-artist hero and Margaret Rutherford putting up a quite outstanding performance as a middle-aged woman crook. This actress looks a discovery for either humorous or macabre "characters." Hollywood is likely to note her.

The story concerns the tracking in London of a gang of forgers and their final rounding up in an Alpine resort and has some hair-raising ski stunting against very beautiful snow backgrounds, but its main appeal is in Squire's depiction of the criminal-by-accident and his battle of wits with the police. Love interest is purveyed very engagingly by Jane Baxter and by Anthony Bushell, as an ingenuous detective, in a fortissimo of voice and action which is somewhat tiring.

The blend of comedy, crook melodrama and open-air thriller will make it entertainment where its witty but very English dialogue gets by.

Running time 75 mins. "A."

ALLAN.

"Dodsworth," tomorrow morning's opener at the Rivoli, was previewed by wire on Sept. 17 from Hollywood.

"Texas Rangers," which is to be previewed at the Paramount tonight, was reviewed from Hollywood on Aug. 20th by wire.

Variety Club

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21..—The Cleveland Variety Club is making preparations to open its clubrooms in the Statler Hotel, following a summer of inactivity. Weekly luncheons will be resumed, also the "queens for a day" ladies' afternoons. The first social event will be a dinner-dance for members and guests. S. A. GERSON is in charge of arrangements, including setting the date for the affair.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—Two hundred persons attended the party which dedicated the new quarters of Tent No. 10 in one of the city's more pretentious residences of an older day. Inside, however, the club members have swept out the Gay Nineties tinge and installed furniture and decorations in modern style. A rathskeller has been fitted up as a successor to the Tent's circus-motif bar in the old homestead in the Claypool Hotel.

Flowers decorated the clubrooms for the party. Dancing was part of the evening's festivities and entertainment was provided by acts from the Lyric's vaudeville bill, supplied by Charles Olson, Lyric manager.

Set M.P.T.O. Session

SEATTLE, Sept. 21.—The annual convention of the M. P. T. O. of Washington will be held here Oct. 16 at the Washington Hotel. Executive Secretary James M. Home is arranging for the business program. The annual film ball will be held in the evening, sponsored by the Northwest Film Club. Roy Cooper of Sterling Chain Theatres will be general chairman of the ball, with L. J. McGinley of Universal in charge of the Film Row section.

within the next few days. Attorneys are now preparing a complaint.

The clearance plan used here is based on admission prices. When a number of B. & K. "C" week theatres recently raised their scales from 20c-30c to 25c-35c the clearance difficulty was cleared somewhat as the raise put them in what might be called a "B-C" week. If these prices could be "fixed" the indie group would not oppose the clearance. However, Allied claims that after the contracts for film have been accepted with the extra clearance clause attached B. & K. could lower prices and thus get the advantage of the extra period which is said to be detrimental to the first and second week houses. These theatres, for the most part, are independently owned and operated.

Clearance Right Conceded

In many cases it is pointed out that B. & K. deserve the extra clearance. The indies agree, but the rule affects all "C" week houses. If certain ones entitled to the clearance were given it, the independents say, they would be satisfied. All this is expected to come up in the federal investigation.

The clearance plan is thought by many exhibitors to be so keenly desired that B. & K. are merely threatening to use double features as a means of getting it. To date no offer for a settlement has been made by either side. B. & K. originally planned to get duals started in outlying theatres about the middle of September, but business in the Loop has been so good that many new pictures have been held over and not enough new product is available for the double bills. Such pictures as "The Great Ziegfeld," "Anthony Adverse" and "His Brother's Wife" are scheduled to play B. & K.'s. "A" and "B" theatres before the dual policy starts. This means that it will probably be another three or four weeks before it goes into effect.

Taking All Major Product

This year B. & K. has signed for all major product. The United Artists deal was probably held up because the Great States Circuit refused to buy the product when it was learned that a number of pictures on the list had been sold to downstate theatres which are in competition with Great States. United Artists, it is reported, has refused B. & K. the extra clearance and will not close the deal until an agreement is reached.

Allied plans another meeting this week to complete plans for filing a protest. Unless some sort of an understanding is reached all film deals will be delayed. As playdates for some of the new pictures are rapidly drawing near, the situation is causing both theatremen and distributors great concern.

run Sept. 29. After "Stage Struck," the popular price engagement of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will begin. It is set for a fortnight's run "Dodsworth" will open at the Rivoli tomorrow morning. "The Last of the Mohicans" will wind up a three-week run tonight with approximately $18,000 for the last stanza.

Despite the bad weather Friday "My Man Godfrey" grossed $67,000 for the first four days at the Music Hall. It was decided to hold the picture a second week, thereby setting back the opening of "Craig's Wife."

"Sing, Baby, Sing," for the first three days of the second week at the Roxy, took in $28,600. Howard S. Cullman has decided to hold it for a third week.

cent of the outstanding stock of G. B. That offer was declined and will continue to be. "We are not selling," was Schenck's dismissal of the possibility.

Opposition to the original deal has been stirred up in London since word first was flashed in early July that a tentative basis of purchase had been reached by the Schenck brothers and Ostrer. It has been a suspicion, not provable, of course, that questions asked in Parliament about the deal from the angle of control of Britain's largest company passing to American hands had been inspired more by unsuccessful bidders than by nationalistic pride.

Ostrer was not in London today and, in his absence, all authoritative avenues of comment appear to be closed.

In the meantime, many in the British trade are inclined to view it as significant that no denial of the Daily Mail story has been issued.

cluded the theatres' grosses for performances before, during and after the broadcasting of a Hollywood program by the local station. About 6,000 individual gross figures comprised the study.

The analysis of the grosses is said to have produced results of such a conflicting nature as to disrupt for the present, at least, any formal industry move to discourage the appearance of stars on radio programs. Any new move probably will be dependent upon the development of concrete evidence of the injuriousness of the programs to the theatres or to the stars' name value.

Among the 15 cases involving manipulation of security prices on which the S. E. C. has taken formal action is one concerning stock of Trans-Lux Daylight Picture Screen Corp., on the N. Y. Curb Exchange. Trans-Lux is not named among the defendants, who are officials of Torr & Co., and others not connected with the film business.

The action charged violation of the securities law from Oct. 1, 1935, to the date the suit was filed Dec. 23. A preliminary injunction was granted by the U. S. District Court in New York April 11, on which an appeal is pending in the Circuit Court of Appeals.

"His Steps" Release Set

"In His Steps," first on the Grand National program, will be released today. A trade showing was held yesterday at the Astor.

Sol Edwards, formerly assistant to Jack Skirball, general sales manager for Educational, yesterday took up his new duties as eastern district manager for Grand National. His territory includes exchanges as far south as Washington and west to, and including Detroit.

Dave Bader, who recently resigned as Carl Laemmle's representative in England, has joined G. N. as special sales and publicity representative for B. F. Zeidman in the British Isles and Australia.

Advance Reason for Philco-P.S.B. Split

Wilmington, Sept. 21.—Russell L. Heberling, vice-president of Philco Radio Television Corp. and executive vice-president and chairman of the board of Transitone Automobile Radio Corp., testified today that the Philco company was established as a separate corporation in order to place it in an "unassailable" position with regard to excise taxes, royalties paid to the Radio Corp. of America and from a competitive standpoint, in the suit brought by Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. against RCA in chancery court here. P. S. B. seeks to prevent RCA from terminating the licensing agreement.

"We wanted to be sure that we were paying the excise tax on the proper basis, according to law and on the lowest basis, according to law," Heberling testified. Separating Philco and P. S. B. also aided Philco from a competitive standpoint, he said, since under the old setup with Philco as a subsidiary of P. S. B., RCA had access to the sales records of Philco.

Reorganization Details Told

Sayre Ramsdell, vice-president of Philco, followed Heberling on the stand and told of learning of the reorganization plan through Edward S. Peyton, treasurer of P. S. B. Ramsdell testified that Peyton came to him and told him, "We are going to absolutely dissolve P. S. B. and Philco for three reasons. The first is from a competitive standpoint; we want to be in better shape than we are." Ramsdell went on to say that Peyton told him that he had been told by attorneys that if complete divorce is made between the two companies, "our position with regard to the excise tax in Washington would be absolutely unassailable."

Both Heberling and Ramsdell denied owning P. S. B. stock after the reorganization but admitted that their wives still own some non-voting stock.

Submitting all parts which go into the manufacture of Philco radio, counsel for P. S. B. prepared to present claims that royalties paid on different parts to RCA are not warranted.

Malaya Bans Nine Films

Washington, Sept. 21. — Nine American-made films were banned in Malaya during the second quarter of 1936, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Trade Commissioner Harold D. Robinson in Singapore.

The banning was made under a notification in the Official Gazette on July 17. A 10th picture, one of Egyptian origin was also banned.

Drop Sunday Vote Plea

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21.—The Bellevue district dropped its fight for a vote on Sunday films at the November election, when it was proved that a petition bearing 748 signatures contained many fictitious names. Harry Browarsky, manager of the Bellevue, who led the fight for another Sunday film vote, asked the council to dismiss the petition.

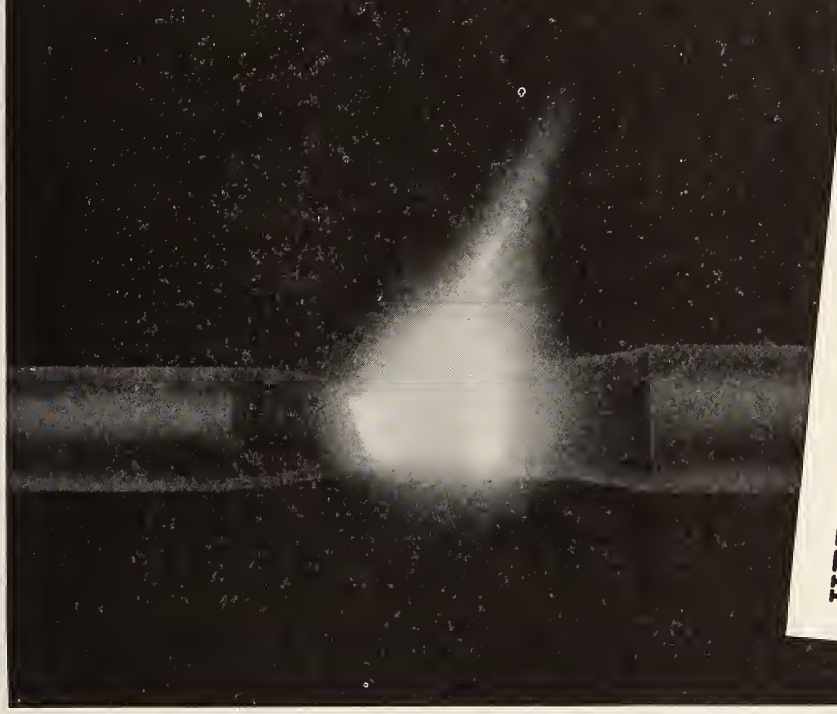
NATIONAL SUPREX CARBONS

ARE RAPIDLY REPLACING LOW INTENSITY ARCS IN THEATRES OF SMALL AND INTERMEDIATE SIZE



HERE ARE THE REASONS

- Whiter projection light.
- 150 to 200 percent more screen illumination.
- Higher permissible level of general illumination.
- Greater clarity and depth in the projection of black and white productions.
- More accurate color values in the projection of color features and sequences.
- No increase in cost per unit of screen illumination.

The SUPREX ARC is a high intensity arc, using a new type of carbon developed by the National Carbon Company Research Laboratories. New lamps, of high efficiency and simplified design, have been produced by projection lamp manufacturers for use with this new carbon.

In comparison with the low intensity arc, the SUPREX ARC has the inherent advantages of higher intrinsic brilliancy, whiter light, and greater efficiency in light production. The improved quality of screen illumination it provides and the higher level of general illumination, from supplementary sources, which it permits are advantages which strongly appeal to the theatre-going public. The SUPREX ARC has been acclaimed as the "outstanding achievement of years" in the field of motion picture projection.

Guild Asserts Plays Up With No Film Money

Dramatists Believe New Men Are "Dummies"

Despite the declared withdrawal of ilm company financing of plays, Broadway will see a greater number of productions opening this season han last, according to the Dramatists' Guild. More plays already have been cquired for production this season han at the same time a year ago, although Hollywood's investment in the tage is said to have been at its peak ast year, the guild asserts.

Guild officials are of the opinion, however, that film money is finding its way to a number of the new Broadway productions through "dummy" sponsors, as a number of new and thus ar unidentified investors have come on the Broadway scene this season with sizable bankrolls.

M-G-M will have "Spring Time"

Zanuck Has Thalberg Producer Ass'n Post

Hollywood, Sept. 22.—Darryl F. Zanuck was elected chairman of the Producers' Ass'n controlling committee which completed its meeting here t an early hour this morning. Zanuck ucceeds the late Irving Thalberg who ad held the post since the inauguration of the monthly cooperative producer meetings eight months ago.

Attending today's election, in addition to Zanuck, were: Will Hays, Adolph Zukor, Robert H. Cochrane, Harry Cohn, Samuel J. Briskin, William Koenig, Hal B. Wallis, William Goetz, Fred Beetson, Edward J. Mannix, Edwin Loeb, Mandel Silberberg and Herbert Freston. The latter three are attorneys.

Samuel Spring Made Universal Director

Samuel Spring, film attorney, has been elected to the board of Universal Pictures Corp., it was learned yesterday.

Spring was a vice-president, general counsel and treasurer of the old First National; he was a former advisory counsel of RKO, and has been attorney for Pathe and for the late Samuel L. (Roxy) Rothafel. At present, he is attorney for numerous industry executives, including Charles R. Rogers, Sam Katz, Harry Katz and others.

20th-Fox Must Approve Sale of G. B.---Schenck

Deal Binding, He Says When Told of Other British Offers

By RED KANN

Refusal of the Ostrers to go through with the tentative deal made with Twentieth Century-Fox, through Joseph M. Schenck, and with Loew's, through Nicholas M. Schenck, may succeed in blocking the original plan, but the Ostrers, in turn, are blocked from the sale of their stock holdings, in part or in toto, without express permission of Twentieth Century-Fox.

This is how Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of Twentieth Century-Fox, views the situation and about it he expressed himself in emphatic terms last night.

He was asked if it was not a fact that neither Twentieth Century-Fox nor the Ostrers, as the two chief interests controlling G. B. through its 57 per cent stock holdings in Metropolis and Bradford Trust, could not sell their holdings without the consent of the other party.

"Absolutely," was his reply.

He had stated to Motion Picture Daily from his bedside telephone at Mt. Sinai Hospital Monday night that his company had rejected a recent offer of purchase by John Maxwell of British International Pictures with the flat statement: "We are not selling."

Last night, he repeated that his company considered the preliminary arrangements made in July with Isidore Ostrer were binding. In view of the complete backing which Nicholas M. yesterday gave his brother's Monday statement, the assumption becomes automatic that the latest declaration represents the Loew point of view as well.

In the light of the consent clause, it appeared last night that efforts instituted by other bidders for the control of G. B. might not get very far. Cables from London tended to verify Motion Picture Daily's dispatch of yesterday that it was John Maxwell who was the most active figure in the latest

"We Are Waiting"

Nicholas M. Schenck yesterday supported to the full statement of his brother, Joseph M., on the status of the G. B. deal and added:

"A deal was made and we are waiting to see if it will go through as arranged."

Joseph M. Schenck informed Motion Picture Daily Monday evening that he had no intention of changing the original terms struck with Isidore Ostrer in New York in July.

KRS Rejects Joint Move on Overbuilding

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, Sept. 22.—The main feature of the first report to the Council of the C. E. A. of the special committee appointed to investigate overbuilding is the disclosure that the Kinematograph Renters' Society, representative body of distributors, has rejected the committee's invitation to consider joint action.

At a meeting of the C. E. A. committee today with the circuits it was decided to approach K. R. S. again to suggest a joint committee to control overbuilding by trade action.

Says Frank Hill, secretary of the K. R. S. in a letter to W. R. Fuller, secretary of the C. E. A.:

"Until complete agreement is reached by your own association, this society could not be expected to interpose itself as between any groups of

British Financier Confers with Kent

Capt. E. Beddington Behrens of Myers & Co., British firm identified with the financing of G.B. and B.I.P., yesterday conferred with S. R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox, at the latter's office, following which speculation arose as to the purpose of the visit in view of latest reports that the M-G-M-Twentieth Century-Fox-G.B. deal was on the brink of collapse. John Maxwell, head of B.I.P., is reported to have made the Ostrers another offer for their interest in G.B., which, if taken up, would upset the deal as worked out by Joseph and Nicholas M. Schenck and Isidore Ostrer.

When advised of the latest developments by Motion Picture Daily, Behrens regarded them with his usual

Bank Night Ads, Stories Are Barred from the Mail

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, Sept. 22.—All publications carrying advertisements or news items of Bank Nights face the loss of all mail privileges under the lottery regulations of the Postoffice Dept., it was learned today.

The department's ban includes any reference to the awards angle and prohibits the mere statement in theatre advertising that Bank Nights are to be held, or such terms, frequently used as a subterfuge, as "150 reasons why you should be here," "big night tonight," "be here at 9 o'clock" and similar statements.

It also prohibits the announcement of results of drawings, or any reference to the lottery angle.

It is understood, however, that this does not include news references to developments having a connection with

Daly's, London, May Be Columbia Outlet

The possibility that Daly's, historic London theatre, may become a show window for Columbia product in England, is suggested by the current trip abroad of Jack Cohn, Columbia vice-president, and M. S. Schlesinger, the latter representing financial interests which are converting Daly's into a modern show house.

Cohn and Schlesinger leave today on the Queen Mary to be gone about three weeks. Cohn described the trip as his usual annual visit to London. Schlesinger, questioned about a possible tieup resulting from the joint trip, declined specific comment, but added a note of mystery to the situation with the statement that "I have done business with Columbia for many years and if there is any chance for mutual expansion of our interests I am sure we are both willing to discuss it." He declined to amplify the statement further.

August B'way Area Tax Revenue Is Off

Washington, Sept. 22.—Hot weather conditions prevailing in the Broadway sector brought Federal admission tax collections in the third district of New York in August down to $363,362, from $522,535 in July, the Internal Revenue Bureau reported today.

Collections from box-office admissions were $314,708, against $471,748 in July, while $4,056 was collected on free or reduced rate admissions against $6,276; $2,331 on tickets sold by brokers against $7,153; $1,094 on tickets sold in excess of established price against $3,232, and $41,173 on admissions to roof gardens and cabarets against $35,127.

Bauer is a patent specialist and was active in the commission's behalf during the hearings on the laying of a coaxial cable between New York and Philadelphia.

RKO Team Tops League

The RKO team of the M. P. Baseball League was declared the winner of the 1936 championship and will be awarded the Quigley trophy, as the result of its 11-5 victory over the Skouras team. The Music Hall team won the Billboard trophy for the greatest number of games won, RKO took the League President's Cup for the second highest total of games won, and Consolidated won the Variety trophy for the highest total of runs. The officers and managers of the league teams decided that the Music Hall be declared the champion over the regular season, although it was unable to participate in the playoffs.

Loew's, RKO Drop Games

All games have been abandoned at RKO and Loew theatres in Mt. Vernon, New Rochelle and Yonkers by agreement between the two major circuits.

Technical Help

Hollywood, Sept. 22.—When Mae West landed a hefty wallop on the chin of Warren William in a scene for "Go West Young Man," she had plenty of expert advice.

On the sidelines were Speedy Dado, former fighter and now her chauffeur; John Indriano, former welterweight who was working in the picture; Nate Slott, assistant director, spent some years in the ring; Victor M. Shapiro, publicity director, former physical training instructor, and Don Roberts, his assistant, who covered fights for several years as sports editor of the Los Angeles Record.

Legislative Drive Starts Soon—Myers

Detroit, Sept. 22.—Abram F. Myers, Allied States general counsel today told 150 independent Michigan exhibitors that the organization's campaign to divorce production and distribution from exhibition would get under way shortly with the introduction of bills in several state legislatures.

The occasion was a luncheon at which the hosts were Allied of Michigan and Chesterfield-Invincible at the Detroit-Leland. Edward A. Golden of the film company also was a speaker. Myers urged support of the Allied - sponsored Chesterfield - Invincible product, and said that Allied's drive for the Pettengill Bill would be carried on. He will reveal other important steps planned at the state convention next month, he said.

Golden asked exhibitor support of the product and promised that the company would not fail in the trust placed in it by Allied. "Missing Girls," first of the films, was screened. Fred Stone, appearing this week at the Fox, addressed the meeting briefly.

Pep Club Elects Gartner

New officers of the Paramount Pep Club elected yesterday are Charles L. Gartner, president; Joseph J. Doughney, vice-president, and Carl Clausen, treasurer. The newly elected board of governors consists of Esther Jablow, Lillian Grossman, Frank Meyer, Edward J. Wall, John W. Hicks, Jr., Maude K. Miller and Arthur J. Leonard.

Over 500 Film Men At Springer Rites

Mamaroneck, Sept. 22.—More than 500 friends, associates and relatives of John W. Springer this morning paid a last tribute to the late exhibitor at services conducted at St. John's Church by Rev. Frank Dean Gifford, rector of the church.

The small church on the knoll of Mt. Pleasant Ave. was crowded with many standing through the services. Springer was laid to rest in the family mausoleum at Kensico Cemetery.

Every branch of the film industry was represented, including home office executives, among whom were Spyros and George Skouras, Neil F. Agnew, J. J. Unger, Milt Kusell, Frank McCarthy, Sig Witman, Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., and Charles L. O'Reilly, head of the T.O.C.C. Sam and Mrs. Cocalis and A. W. and Mrs. Smith, Jr., also were among those who attended.

Welsh Goes West to Start General Film

Robert E. Welsh left for the coast yesterday by train to begin work on the first production for the new General Pictures Corp., of which he is vice-president and head of production. The company's first picture is planned for release about Nov. 1.

Fenn Kimball, Los Angeles financier, who is president of the new company, is remaining in New York to complete organization work here. A sales and distribution organization is to be developed at once. Kimball is checking over space in the RKO Bldg. with a view to opening a local office.

moves involving G. B. The messages took a more concrete form insofar as Lord Portal's interest in the situation was concerned and drew a picture of Portal pitted against Maxwell for control.

If the impasse continues, the status quo existing since William Fox originally purchased a 49 per cent interest in Metropolis and Bradford for approximately $19,000,000 in 1929 will continue. The Ostrers originally held a similar amount of stock, but the remaining two per cent, representing the balance of power at the time, had been deposited with Lord Lee of Fareham for the purpose of perpetually maintaining British control of England's largest film company.

Latterly, reports have been circulating that the Ostrers acquired the pivotal two per cent, although the reports have never been confirmed. Of the remaining 43 per cent of outstanding G. B. stock, relatively little is known. Presumably it is widely spread and in the hands of the British public.

Loew's Took Half of 49%

Fifty per cent of the Twentieth Century-Fox's 49 per cent interest in M. and B.'s 57 per cent interest in G. B. was sold to Loew's as part of the arrangements leading to the now dubious deal with the Ostrers. The latter group, it was planned, was to relinquish enough of its holdings in M. and B. to set up itself, Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's as equal participants.

If, theoretically, M. and B. held 1,000,000 shares of G. B., Twentieth Century-Fox would hold about 250,000 shares and Loew's a similar amount. The Ostrers, on this for-example basis, would control 500,000 shares, but were to sell to the two American companies roughly 166,000 shares in equal lots, thereby achieving parity on the basis of 333,333 shares for each of the three participating groups.

The price at which the Ostrers were to sell is the point in dispute over which a desire for re-trading now injects itself on the part of the unnamed Ostrer brother, and, not inconceivably, the entire family group.

Three Set for Bancroft

Hollywood, Sept. 22.—George Bancroft has three pictures ready for him. After he makes "Racketeer in Exile" for Columbia he will go into "Heart Flush," original by William R. Lipman and Houston Branch, at the same studio. In between times he will play the character lead in B. P. Schulberg's "A Man and a Woman," which is scheduled to start this week.

the giveaway so long as they do not aid in its use.

Acting promptly on all such cases as they are submitted by postmasters, the department has issued hundreds of orders holding unmailable the issues in which such material appears.

Officials of the department explained that it is not the practice to issue general orders barring the mails to publications carrying lottery advertisements or items, but that the general regulations of the department cover the subject fully and postmasters may either bar offending issues of publications on their own initiative or submit the matter to Washington for a formal ruling.

That the department is having considerable trouble in keeping up with the Bank Night situation was admitted, but the view was expressed that it will be a matter of only a short time before all publishers realize they cannot mail issues referring to such drawings.

It was also admitted that in some instances local postal officials have not acted on such papers, but it was said that in most of those cases complaint is made by some outside source and the department issues instructions. Postmasters, however, are not supposed to exercise any discretion in the matter of lotteries and where they are in doubt as to the mailability of a publication are instructed to refer the matter to the department in Washington.

This is the first statement from Washington on Bank Night, although the Boston office and one or two other local offices have notified advertisers of the department's stand.

Bank Night advertising is usually done by theatres for local audiences. In some places a variety of subterfuges have been used to indicate to audiences by some special phrasing that the drawings were to be held.

In other spots, it is understood, newspapers have inserted the ads only in editions not destined for mailing.

levity and was inclined to view them as mere gossip. Other than what was told to him of the possible collapse of the deal, Behrens said he had neither heard nor read any stories in this connection.

Scheduled to sail on the Queen Mary for home today, Behrens, when asked about the Kent visit, couched his answers in mystery terms.

"Didn't you see Mr. Kent on the G.B. deal?" he was asked.

"Don't ask silly questions," was the prompt response. "I didn't come over on the deal."

"Well, will you tell us what you did see Mr. Kent about?"

"Mr. Kent is a great friend of mine."

"When you return to England will you be on a mission from either Joseph M. Schenck or Kent in view of the fact that your company represents both G.B. and B.I.P.?"

"It's nice to have met you again!" This answer came after a long pause and only after the question was repeated.

Behrens, who arrived last week with Joseph M. Schenck, spent about five days in Hollywood.

under way for a joint discussion of the plan with Equity officials.

The proposal to employ the stages of film theatres for the production of legitimate drama was made in the current issue of Equity, official publication of the actors' organization. It cited the dearth of new talent for both stage and screen and the disappearing sources for the development of playwrights and actors.

Speaking unofficially, industry executives expressed doubt as to the practicability of the idea, asserting that the experience of the industry has been that the investment involved in stage productions is not commensurate with either the financial return from them or the discovery of new talent. Professional schools of acting were held by some to offer more practical training for new talent than the development of a legitimate drama movement within the industry.

exhibitors who may not be in accord with each other on the policy to be adopted."

Suggestions of an appeal for Government action were considered, says the report, but suspended pending the attempt to establish an agreed trade policy with which the K. R. S. could cooperate.

The official report of the council meeting of the C. E. A. confirms the belief that an understanding has been been reached with the K. R. S. about two matters in dispute which have created a considerable amount of ill-feeling between exhibitors and distributors since they were first discussed at the Eastbourne summer conference of the C. E. A.

"Threat" Smoothed Over

A threat from a film salesman that, if an exhibitor did not take his product, his company would inspire the erection of a competing theatre "by one of the circuits in which we are interested" has been dealt with by an expression of regret from the company concerned and a promise that no such threats will be permitted by the company in the future.

The listing of certain exhibitors as to be supplied with films on a percentage basis only has been modified by the K. R. S. into the supply of a list of exhibitors, thought to be exceptionally favored in their stations in the matter of negotiating flat price bookings, leaving it to the individual distributor to decide on what terms he will supply them with films.

The C. E. A. report states that "every member who was placed on the list . . . has been removed from it and has been able to book with renters as he has normally done."

Looking 'Em Over

"La Kermesse Heroique" ("Carnival in Flanders")

(American-Tobis)

Wholly delightful in theme, and made completely engaging as entertainment by excellence of execution, this so-called heroic comedy from France should be found a treat by many audiences. Produced by Films Sonores Tobis of Paris, and entirely in French, it formed the opening attraction last night at the new Filmarte on 58th St. Intelligent and sufficient English subtitle translations permit of ready understanding of the film's story.

It is chiefly by reason of the French language that all audiences may not respond to the film, but for those "class" patrons who appreciate good humor, roundly and cleverly served in large portions, the picture should be really enjoyed. Women, in particular, should find in it the incentive for many a chuckle. The film was the winner of the Grand Prize of the French screen for 1936 and the Gold Medal at the Venice International Exposition for 1936.

Elaborately mounted, it tells of the Flemish town in the year 1616, and the fright of its mayor and board of aldermen when word is received of the approach of a Spanish duke with his military escort. Frightened, they pretend bravery, and the mayor hatches a plan, to play dead and hope for mercy for the town. Annoyed beyond measure by the cowardice of their men, the townswomen, led by the clever and high-spirited wife of the mayor, formulate a plan to use feminine wiles in the "conquest" of the duke. How the plan succeeds, and incidental romance comes to happy conclusion, must be seen to be appreciated.

The cast, although unknown here, is excellent from leads to bits, and the direction of Jacques Fedyer speaks volumes for his ability as a director with a rare touch. Charles Spaak did the story, Bernard Zimmer the dialogue and Lazare Meerson the entertaining settings.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 95 minutes.

Police Again Seize Print of "Ecstasy"

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 22.—In the face of an order issued at 9:30 A.M. today by Circuit Court Judge Ray Cowan, and returnable tomorrow morning, temporarily restraining the city from interfering with the exhibition of "Ecstacy," the city police arrested Breckenridge Fagin and Robert F. Lakenan, Jr., of the Royal shortly after they started the showing of the picture. The police confiscated the print.

Fagin and Lakenan have been released in $500 bail. The case will be heard in municipal court tomorrow.

Another print of the picture which was confiscated Aug. 27 has not yet been located.

Fagin was freed by a jury Sept. 10 on the charge of showing an immoral film. At that time he was fined for exhibiting without a permit. Circuit Judge Marion D. Waltners' subsequent contempt citation of city and police officials who were unable to locate the confiscated print has not yet been made effective.

Madison in Detroit To Become First Run

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—The Madison, present United Detroit second run house, will go to first runs on Oct. 2 and the Capitol, former Publix first run, which has been dark for some time, will then be reopened by George W. Trendle as a second run.

This change has been brought about by the consummation of a deal between Nat Levy, RKO divisional sales manager, and Trendle for the playing of RKO product in the United Detroit first, second and subsequent run theatres here.

Henry P. Zapp, manager of the Madison, has been named booker for United Detroit, succeeding Edward Atkinson, who has resigned to become assistant to Jack Frost, now general manager for the Lynch Florida theatres.

New Detroit Booking Unit Delays Opening

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—Opening of offices here of the American Theatre Science, Inc., the newly formed booking and buying combine of out-state theatres, has been postponed until next week, due to the fact that the offices in the Fox Theatre Bldg. are not ready for occupancy. Frank Stuart, general manager of the organization, states that it now lists 57 theatres in its membership. Several of the local major exchange managers have said that they will not deal collectively with the new combine.

Royalty Computation Described by P. S. B.

Wilmington, Sept. 22.—The royalty payment covering the first quarter of 1935 made by the Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. to Radio Corp. of America after the latter company had threatened to cancel its licensing agreement with P. S. B. was arrived at by calculating the royalty as if there had been no separation between P. S. B. and Philco Radio Television Corp. and other companies and was calculated on the formula that had been prescribed by RCA, Charles F. Steinruck of Philadelphia, accountant for P. S. B., testified today as the hearing on an injunction suit brought by P. S. B. against RCA was resumed here.

Steinruck, who has computed all royalty reports for P. S. B. since the middle of 1929, testified that two checks, an advance payment of $150,000 and a remitted check for $82,034.89, aggregating $232,034.89 were paid RCA in royalties for the first quarter of 1935, calculation of which "was arrived at by taking the difference between the amount of royalty figured on the RCA basis and the amount we had previously paid on our third and fourth quarter settlements for 1934," he said.

Cancellation Letter Mentioned

"The first quarter of 1934 was prepared with the letter of April 19 in mind," Steinruck declared. The letter was one threatening cancellation of the licensing agreement. Steinruck further stated, "Once again, there being no definite statement as to whether we erred, we prepared the report for the first quarter of 1935 as if P. S. B. had assembled for Philco instead of Philco completing assembly of the receiver."

Steinruck itemized articles and devices on which P. S. B. paid royalties and others on which no royalty was paid because "from the report we received from RCA those items were considered to be under their formula and deductible as a part of the cabinet."

Photographs of parts of woodwork and cabinets were identified by Reynolds D. Brown, Jr., P. S. B. engineer, who resumed the witness stand this morning. Following the cross-examination of Brown by John W. Davis, chief counsel for RCA, Davis introduced Philco advertising and pamphlets and other printed matter dealing with Philco auto and home radios. Brown was questioned at length concerning wet and dry batteries as well as cables used in automobile radios.

"Adverse" Is Capital Draw In Two Houses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—"Anthony Adverse" rose to a near-record at the Earle last week to take $26,000. At the same time the usually sub-run Ambassador was playing day-and-date, taking $9,700 at the 1,400-seat house at 55 cents top. This was the first time that the Ambassador had played such an engagement. The picture continues at the Metropolitan.

"Swing Time," in its second week at RKO-Keith's, went to $12,000, over the first week average by $1,400, and continued into its third stanza.

A revival of "State Fair" at the Metropolitan was good for $4,900, or $600 over the first run par.

On its third week, "The Gorgeous Hussy" at Loew's Palace took $10,300. Loew's Capital, with "The Last of the Mohicans" and a stage show took $18,500, under par by $2,400. "A Son Comes Home" at Loew's Columbia received $2,000, but skidded under par by $1,600.

"Romeo and Juliet," on its second roadshow week at the National, took $10,000 and went into its third week.

Total first run business was $96,200, but, without the Ambassador and National, houses not normally first run, the total would have been $76,500. Average is $76,700.

"Chan" at $2,250, 3 Days in Houston

HOUSTON, Sept. 22.—In a week of holdovers and little competition otherwise, "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack" made the best showing, taking $2,250 in three days at the Kirby, where the average is $5,000 for a three-picture week.

"M'Liss," at the Kirby one day with Bank Night, also went above par with a take of $1,200. "Speed" at this house for three days was normal at $2,000.

"The General Died at Dawn" fell down by five per cent at the Metropolitan after a good opening. The take was $6,650. "Swing Time" pulled $6,200 in a second week at the Majestic where $7,000 is the first run average. "The Gorgeous Hussy" at Loew's fell to $6,000 in a second week. Average is $7,000.

Total first run business was $24,300. Average is $26,000.

Skouras Making Tour

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22. — Charles Skouras is making a tour of the Rocky Mountain territory. The F. W. C. executive met Rick Ricketson, who operates that division, in Salt Lake City.

"Godfrey" $7,000 Hit in Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 22.—"My Man Godfrey," dualled with "Postal Inspector" at the Strand, made the big noise of the week and was held over. The gross was $7,000, double average for the house.

A rather unusual situation for this town was the fact that the Strand was the only house showing a new picture. The other first runs all had holdovers; Loew's State, with "The Gorgeous Hussy;" the Mary Anderson, with "Anthony Adverse," and the Rialto showing "Swing Time." Takings at the State were $4,800, $700 below normal. Receipts also were light at the Rialto, where "Swing Time" could do no more than $4,300, $200 less than average.

"Anthony Adverse" made a better showing than was expected at the Mary Anderson on its second week. The take was about $3,600, over the line by $100. It was given a third week.

The runs of "The Gorgeous Hussy" at the State and "Swing Time" at the Rialto were concluded one day early, to make room for "Great Ziegfeld" and the "General Dies at Dawn."

It was State Fair week, with swarms of visitors from out-state. The weather was extremely hot, but the thermometer took a tumble at the end of the week.

Total first run business was $22,300. Average is $19,400.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 9:

"THE GORGEOUS HUSSY" (M-G-M)

500 Children See Free Show Because of Fire

500 Quit Film House Only on Pledge They Can Return; Blaze Put Out, 1,000 Go In

No Exit Checks Issued

News of Big Chance Soon Spreads in Neighborhood

A fire started yesterday afternoon in the basement of the Eagle Theater, a motion-picture house at 1852 Third Avenue, between 102d and 103d Streets. Mrs. Mary McCord, matron in charge of the children's section, smelled smoke about 3:45 o'clock and informed David Olsen, assistant manager of the theater.

Olsen, as soon as he had turned in an alarm, switched on the lights and mounted the stage. He announced that there was a small fire in the basement which would be extinguished within a few minutes and asked the spectators to leave the house quietly, assuring them that they might return without charge when the fire was out.

There were about 500 children in the section set aside for them and several hundred adults in the house. A storm of protest went up from the children's section [illegible] the announcement. Audience, Readmitted Free After Leaving in Fire Scare, Found Strangely Swollen.

About 500 small children are having quite a laugh today at the expense of the manager of the Eagle Theater, at 1,852 Third Ave.

There was a slight fire in the theater yesterday afternoon and the audience of 750, including 500 children, were escorted out. When the blaze was extinguished the audience was readmitted — without tickets. Someone tipped off the neighborhood children that no tickets were needed for entry and when the final count was taken it was found that double the number of children were in the theater after the fire.

Oh, yes—the feature was "Custer's Last Stand." The children enjoyed it very much.

1,500 Children Rush Movie After Fire

Fire in the basement of the Eagle Theatre, 1852 Third ave., near 103rd st., yesterday caused orderly evacuation of 1,500 persons —and proved a boon to the children of the neighborhood.

Many of the 500 children, who paid to see "Custer's Last Stand," broke through a guard of eight policemen and staged a riot at the box office, demanding their money back. Police pushed them back.

An hour later, when announcement was made that fire in a basement storeroom was extinguished and the patrons might return and view the interrupted show, at least 1,500 children rushed in through the open doors.

Maxwell Aim May Be Joint Gaumont Rule

Status of 2% of Ostrer Shares Is Hazy

By RED KANN

John Maxwell of British International may be seeking a combination control deal of Gaumont British in association with the Ostrers through the pivotal two per cent in Metropolis and Bradford Trust which gives the Ostrers the majority interest in that holding company.

This would keep the control of G. B. in English hands and prevent consummation of the deal first arranged by Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's with the Ostrers.

It is understood the two per cent which represents the balance in M. and B. was purchased by the Ostrers some time ago, although its transfer from the custody of Lord Lee of Fareham has been a matter of speculation despite persistent reports of its acquisition over a period of many months.

The arrangement with Lord Lee goes back to the original 49 per cent purchase in Metropolis and Bradford by William Fox. The Ostrers retained a like interest in the holding company which controls 57 per cent of Gaumont British. The purpose of setting aside the determining two per cent was to make certain G. B. control remained in British hands.

The debatable point is whether or not the sale consent clause which prevents the Ostrers from selling their shares in M. and B. and likewise is binding upon Twentieth Century-Fox applies to each group's 49 per cent only or whether it embraces the two per cent which never figured in the master transaction dating back to 1929.

An authoritative source close to one of the groups definitely known to be dickering with the Ostrers admitted to MOTION PICTURE DAILY in London

Key Grosses at 4-Year High Mark, $2,090,144

Labor Day Week Total Is Far Above New Year Holiday Figures

Key city first run grosses reached a new four-year high Labor Day week —$2,090,144.

First run theatres in operation increased to 173, well over the average that has prevailed since the depression hit the industry in 1932.

The Labor Day week total is especially striking because it is far ahead of any of the New Year week grosses rolled up during the four-year period and was $342,396 ahead of the previous week, when the total of $1,747,748 had been exceeded only once in 12 months—New Year's week.

The figures for New Year's and Labor Day weeks for the past four years are practically a record of the slow recovery from the low point of the depression.

In 1933 there were 130 first runs open New Year's and the gross was $1,717,730. Labor Day week of that year there were 122 first runs in operation and the total gross was $1,365,105.

In 1934 there were 136 first runs New Year's with a total gross of $1,714,824, with 129 theatres and a gross of $1,471,742 Labor Day week.

In 1935 the first runs had increased to 141 with a take of $1,719,887 New Year's week and 130 theatres with $1,595,551 Labor Day week.

In 1936 there were 179 first runs with a gross of $1,918,729.

The figures show that the number of first runs open Labor Day week has risen from 122 in 1933 to 173 this year and the total gross has increased $725,039.

This year's Labor Day is $171,415 above the New Year record of the year in spite of the fact that there were six more theatres open at that time. The number of first runs in operation usually reaches a peak in the holiday period of December and January.

Warner Moves Against Duals Await B. & K.

Despite B. & K.'s plan to adopt dual features shortly, Warner interests in Chicago will shy clear of the policy and stick to single attractions, James Coston, Warner zone manager, stated yesterday prior to his departure for his headquarters after conferences with Joseph Bernhard.

"I don't believe in double features," Coston said. "After B. & K. adds a second picture to programs we will try to compete with them without changing our present policy for about a month."

In the event the dual feature plan of B. & K. proves to be too much competition, the Warner houses will put in a second feature only where necessary, Coston asserted.

Dismissal Denied in Laemmle Stock Suit

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday denied a motion to dismiss the complaint in the suit brought by Edwin R. Lavin against Willard S. McKay for $275,000 commission in connection with the sale of Universal stock.

In this action Carl Laemmle is a co-defendant, and it is alleged that Lavin secured the purchase of Laemmle's stock for $5,000,000, after negotiations with McKay on Laemmle's behalf. Lavin charges that McKay was authorized to make the agreement on Laemmle's behalf. McKay denied this and sought to have the complaint dismissed.

Steinruck Continues Testimony for P. S. B.

WILMINGTON, Sept. 23.—The basis on which royalties were paid by Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. to Radio Corp. of America and various amounts paid to the latter organization since the signing of the licensing agreement between them covering a period of eight years were brought out by Charles F. Steinruck, an accountant for P. S. B., who resumed the stand in chancery court here today in the injunction action brought by P. S. B. against RCA. P. S. B. seeks to prevent RCA from terminating the licensing agreement.

One of the items on which P. S. B. and RCA were not in accord with regard to the paying of royalties was the assembly kit, Steinruck testified. He declared that P. S. B. contended that the kit was unlicensed apparatus and deductible while RCA, he added, held that all items other than the grille cloth and baffle board were subject to royalty.

Under cross-examination by John W. Davis, chief counsel for RCA, Steinruck declared that reorganization of the companies in 1934 was not motivated by a desire to decrease royalties but the "chief reason was to prevent inspection of our vital data by your auditor."

Steinruck pointed out that P. S. B. has paid RCA approximately $7,500,000 in royalties from the signing of their agreement June 28, 1928 until June of this year. For the first half of 1936, he said, royalty payments amounted to $432,569.12.

Eugene Zukor Given Production Position

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23. — Eugene Zukor has been elevated to an executive post in the production department at Paramount. He will act in an advisory capacity on foreign department requirements and will also be active in the selection of material.

Zukor is expected to arrive here within a few days to take over his new post. His promotion was said at the studio to be recognition of his services on behalf of the company which his father helped to found.

yesterday that it was quite correct that neither the Ostrers nor Twentieth Century-Fox could dispose of their M. and B. holdings without the other's consent. This is significant because of the reliability of the informant and because it gives confirmation from a competitive source to the similar statement made by Joseph M. Schenck in New York on Tuesday evening.

In the meantime, the Ostrers are maintaining strict silence in London, but promise an official statement on the status of the negotiations shortly.

Yesterday, Lord Beaverbrook, British newspaper publisher and original partner with Will Evans in the development of Provincial Cinematograph Theatres, Ltd., which formed the nucleus of the G. B. circuit, entered the picture by a circuitous route. The factors rating consideration here are several. It is known that he has been anxious for some time to actively reenter the film industry. One of his companies is Standard Film which sold its holdings to P. C. T.

Newspaper circles in Fleet Street, claiming to be informed, analyze the Ostrer defection as an effort to better the terms of the deal first made with the Schencks.

Two Per Cent Was Sought

In an interview with Motion Picture Daily approximately 18 months ago and on the occasion of his arrival in New York from London, Mark Ostrer admitted that his brothers had purchased the two per cent in Metropolis and Bradford originally deposited with Lord Lee of Fareham as an effective method of perpetually maintaining British domination of G. B.

Kent Sailing Shortly

S. R. Kent is expected to sail for London shortly. It may be on the Normandie Wednesday. Reports that he had booked passage on the Paris which leaves Saturday proved to be without foundation yesterday.

Behrens Sees Benefits

Capt. E. Beddington Behrens of Myers & Co., British financing company, prior to his sailing yesterday on the Queen Mary for England, stated he saw benefits to both American and British companies without regard to whom the Ostrers sold their interest in G. B.

Although he has met previous references to the possible collapse of the M-G-M-Twentieth Century-Fox deal with levity, he became serious yesterday.

"Whatever works out," he said, "will be to the best interests of both British and American companies and both must work in harmony with each other."

Continuing, he added, in his own way and without being prodded:

"I feel sure a deal will be made either along the lines already discussed or for a purchase of G. B. by the John Maxwell interests.

"Should a deal be made along the lines suggested, fear has been expressed that control of G. B. would go to American interests; that the control of important units by Americans might have harmful effects on English exhibitors.

"However, if a deal is consummated along the lines discussed there would be no control of G. B. by Americans. Neither of the American companies desires in any way to control the British situation, but only to work in cooperation with English interests."

Sees Mutual Benefits

Discussing the latest developments, he said:

"In the event of a purchase by Maxwell's company, Associated British Pictures, the fear has been expressed the combine of G. B. and A. B. P. might harm American film interests. This would not be the case, as American producers want British pictures and exhibitors in the United Kingdom cannot live without good American pictures, particularly like 'Mutiny on the Bounty,' 'Modern Times,' 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town,' which are the lifeblood of the exhibitor in any country.

"Whatever comes of existing negotiations," he added, "it will result in cooperation between American and British interests and nothing harmful to either. It is to the advantage of British producers to have their films distributed here and likewise to the benefit of Americans to continue with their outlets in England."

Asked whether he would return shortly, the representative of Myers & Co. answered that he had no present intention of visiting these shores again.

Police Chiefs Hear Defense of Pictures

Kansas City, Sept. 23.—Films are no crime stimulant, declared Dr. Carleton Simon, criminologist and New York Deputy Police Commissioner, before the convention of the International Ass'n of Police Chiefs.

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Secret Service, also came to the defense of films.

"The attitude of the press, motion pictures and the radio in offering helpful support has done a great deal to change the picture of criminal activities," he said. "Movies used to give the picture of the crime when committed, but in recent years they have given the solution. Boys who used to palm toy pistols and act the part of a desperado now play at being Government agents."

MPTOA Seeks Showdown for Early October

M. P. T. O. A. at the time its trade practice program was first proposed, has become of less importance as the selling season advanced.

While the M. P. T. O. A. is not expected to refrain from urging the elimination of the score charge, even at this late date, it has pointed out to its members from time to time in the past that payment of the charge, regardless of the distributor's sales policy, should be made a part of the exhibitor's negotiations when buying new product. In recent years and despite any formal change in sales policy, more and more exhibitors have succeeded in having the score charge eliminated. This trend, according to reports from both distributor and exhibitor quarters, is continuing during the present sales season and, due both to this circumstance and the fact that many new product deals have been closed already, either with or without the score charge included, tends to make the formal elimination of the charge less of an issue than it was before the actual start of selling.

Cancellation Clause Feasible

Concessions from distributors on cancellation are not impaired by the fact that many new season contracts have been closed. If increased cancellation is granted, there appears to be no reason why the concession could not be extended to deals already made, providing a full program had been contracted for and the terms agreed upon were not based on any special concessions which would be nullified by an increase in cancellation. Lateness in putting a new cancellation agreement into effect is not likely to minimize the value of the concession to the exhibitor, as early season bookings are seldom cancelled. The privilege is utilized most in the last half of the trade year.

The establishment of national conciliation boards and adoption of the short form of contract are both matters which will take time to realize. Little more than experimental work is expected from the local boards during the next year, even if they are approved. The proposal being made is that four or five of the boards be established at first in the more important keys. They would be continued or extended only if they proved effective in settling local trade practice complaints and reducing litigation.

Plans Bill to Bar Producer Theatres from the ownership or operation of theatres.

The anti-price discrimination bill was aimed primarily at chain stores. The new measure, it is said, will be designed to carry to its ultimate conclusion the aims of the earlier legislation, by prohibiting manufacturers in any line of business from operating retail outlets, and will affect, among others, films, shoes, clothing and many other commodities.

THEY ALL WANTED TO LIVE DIFFERENTLY!

You have enjoyed many Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hits during recent months, among them "The Great Ziegfeld", "San Francisco", "His Brother's Wife", "Gorgeous Hussy", "Suzy" and many more. But here truly M-G-M has given the world a drama with the heartbeat of humanity... a stirring motion picture as great as its mighty setting—with a cast that genuinely lives its exciting story... and superb direction by W. S. ("San Francisco") Van Dyke.

He wanted... a chance to live his life like everyone else... to show he could take it in the battles of the tenements.

She wanted... the love of her boy—but found that all her money couldn't buy it...

He wanted... to be the neighborhood "big shot"—and he was tough ...but a loyal pal.

He wanted... to break away from the ties of a wife with more money than was good for her...

She wanted... love—real love... not the kind that bloomed like orchids in a florist's window...

He wanted... Money... he'd beg, borrow or steal... to buy a tombstone with angels for his dad...

She wanted... a chance for her boy, whose father paid the penalty in

"Swing," "Godfrey" Clean Up in Frisco

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—"Swing Time" and "My Man Godfrey," are mopping up business here in a week of exceptionally hot weather.

First week grosses at the Golden Gate, where "Swing Time" is showing, ran 65 per cent beyond house average, while the Orpheum hit what is believed to be an all-time high with "My Man Godfrey," striking the bell at 210 per cent above par.

Although third-week holdovers are rare with the two local first runs, both Cliff Work, RKO chief, and Hal Neidas, manager of the Orpheum, are confident that their respective bills will justify a third week. Second week takes at both houses have to date shown almost as good business as the opening week of the two films.

Court to Rule Soon On Mrs. William Fox

Camden, Sept. 23.—An early decision on the contempt action pending against Mrs. William Fox because of her failure to appear for testimony in the bankruptcy proceedings against her husband was promised today by U. S. District Court Judge John Boyd Avis.

The court's assurance was given after Walter Hanstein, Atlantic City attorney, had told the court that "something should be done to show Mrs. Fox that the court is supreme."

Fox Bookkeeper on Stand

Atlantic City, Sept. 23.—Hearings were resumed today in the William Fox bankruptcy action with Joseph Hart, assistant to Herbert Leitsteen, Fox family bookkeeper, on the stand.

After three hours of desultory questioning Murry C. Becker, Fox attorney, was called to the stand for testimony about the All-Continent Corp. Fox's daughters, Belle and Mona, have testified they left the corporation's affairs to their mother and she has testified that she depended upon her lawyers for advice and information.

A question was raised as to whether Becker could be forced to testify. Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle will decide the question tomorrow.

A T & T Will Refund $175,000,000 Bonds

A. T. & T. intends to offer $175,000,000 3½ per cent bonds to refund outstanding issues. Of this total, $150,000,000 will be used to refund all its present coupon issues. The issue will be sold to the public through a banking syndicate.

The board has also authorized the redemption at 165 in December of $64,865,200 collateral trust five per cent bonds due in 1946.

At the same time it has filed with the Federal Communications Commission notice of a reduction of rates for broadcasters. It is estimated this will save $10,000,000 a year to radio firms.

B. & K. to Pay $1.75

Chicago, Sept. 23.—B. & K. has declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the seven per cent preferred stock, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record on Sept. 21.

Koplar Billed for Court Cost in Suit

St. Louis, Sept. 23.—Harry Koplar, associated with Skouras Brothers and later with Fanchon & Marco in operating the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central, has received a bill of $32,487.60 for court costs in connection with the suit filed in 1931 by Koplar and others seeking the appointment of a receiver for Skouras Brothers Enterprises, Inc.

The suit was dismissed in 1934 and costs were assessed against the petitioners.

Tobis Theatre Opens

The Tobis, playing foreign product, will open its new season today with the German film, "Ein Lied Geht Um Die Welt" ("A Song Goes Around the World") as the opening attraction.

"Godfrey, my man, you are an amazing gentleman! Your magnetism is superb. You performed the astonishing feat of packing $17,000 into the Music Hall box office in a single day. And they tell me you are — ah —knocking them lifeless—is that the expression? —everywhere. My word, Godfrey, what do you do to people that literally makes them bowl over doormen and tear down theatre doors for a glimpse of you? Fourth week in Pittsburgh, fourth week in Seattle, third week in Los Angeles, third week in San Francisco, third week in Chicago, third week in Portland, second week N. Y. Music Hall. Records blown to bits in 27 important cities, extended playing time at every turn; telegrams, congratulations, critics positively magniloquent! By jove, Godfrey old boy, that New Universal bunch is going places rapidly and doing things in a huge way. I hear they're going to follow you with pictures like 'The Magnificent Brute,' 'The Girl on the Front Page,' 'Two in A Crowd,' 'The Man I Marry,' 'Luckiest Girl in the World,' 'Top of the Town,' 'Madame Curie.' And by-the-by, old top, keep both your peepers open for those New Universal screen personalities!"

Ohio ITO Lining Up For New Tax Battle

COLUMBUS, Sept. 23.—A series of exhibitor meetings is to be held in seven Ohio cities starting next Tuesday and continuing through Oct. 14 for the purpose of organizing opposition to a suggested restoration of the 10 per cent admission tax.

A constitutional amendment to be voted upon election day will, if passed, exempt food from the present sales tax. It is estimated this will cut state revenue $15,000,000, and that the admission tax will be tried for the purpose of reducing the deficit.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the I.T.O., says this would cost exhibitors $5,500,000 a year. At present they are paying about $1,500,000 under the sales tax.

The meetings will be as follows: Cincinnati, Netherland Plaza, Sept. 29; Lima, Kirwin, Sept. 30; Toledo, Commodore Perry, Oct. 1; Steubenville, Fort Steuben, Oct. 6; Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 7; Cleveland, Film Bldg., Oct. 8; Columbus, Neil House, Oct. 14.

California ITO and Operators Talk Deal

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Harry Vinnicoff, president of the I. T. O., met with Rollie Hayward of Projectionists' Local 150, I. A. T. S. E., following a meeting of the I. T. O. board of directors where a discussion of the closed shop was held.

Although I. T. O. is not acting as an organization in the matter, Vinnicoff expressed confidence that a satisfactory adjustment between I. A. T. S. E. and the independent exhibitors would be worked out in the near future.

Vinnicoff will meet with union officials a week from Wednesday following a close study of the closed shop prospectus. Attorney Frank S. Hutton attended the meeting and explained legal aspects of current problems.

Kirk Holds Hearing On Reel in Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Film executives and representatives of the fire underwriters yesterday recommended the approval of the new 2,000-foot standard reel size at a hearing conducted before Paul Kirk, commissioner of public safety here. Kirk is expected to make known his decision in the near future.

"Le Barbier de Seville"—From Franco-American comes this tuneful production which is a combined and condensed version of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" and Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro." It should appeal to all, especially to lovers of good music.

This film will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Seattle Gets Mirrophone

SEATTLE, Sept. 23.—The first contract on the west coast for Erpi's Mirrophonic sound has been signed by LeRoy Johnson, vice-president and general manager of the Jensen & Von Herberg Circuit in Seattle.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Dimples"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Shirley Temple's extraordinary talents as a singer and dancer get full play in a backstage New York setting of about 1850 when "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was introduced.

She triumphs, with the aid of an outstanding cast, over a somewhat involved story that seems to halt at times, so that the picture is undoubtedly headed for the bulky grosses usually rolled up by her efforts.

Frank Morgan, a lovable, broken down actor, with a penchant for lifting things that do not belong to him, has her in tow as his granddaughter. In the opening scene she leads a harmonica orchestra of children which collects from interested street crowds. He gets the players into the palatial home of Helen Westley. Furs of Miss Westley's guests disappear and Burton Churchill accuses Morgan, but he returns them when Shirley seems in danger.

Miss Westley's nephew, Robert Kent, is in love with Astrid Alwyn, an actress. A family scene develops when he tries to produce a play. Morgan isn't much help when he buys Napoleon's watch with Kent's money, but the complications straighten out when "Uncle Tom's Cabin" proves a hit with Shirley as Eva.

A minstrel show scene is also introduced.

The story is contrived for both adult and child appeal, with excellent performances by the principals. Morgan's work is outstanding.

Production Code Seal No. 2,352. Running time, 77 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Man Who Lived Twice"

(Columbia)

A strong story, well told, this appears the type of film with which the showman might do much, since it presents a controversial issue, in a sense embroiling law and science, its theme the virtual reincarnation of a criminal into a scientist and the insistence of the law that the criminal be punished.

The idea is novel and goes a step beyond what science already contends, that many habitual and pathological criminals may be permanently "cured" by medical aid.

Ralph Bellamy has the lead as the criminal-doctor, with Isabel Jewell as his criminal sweetheart and later his betrayer; Marian Marsh as his fiancee and Ward Bond as his criminal aid and later his devoted chauffeur. Harry Lachman's direction is smooth and forceful throughout.

Bellamy, hunted murderer, in escaping, hears a doctor describe an operation to rid a criminal of his tendency toward crime. He offers himself, the operation is successful and he remembers nothing of his past. Under the doctor's tutelage, he himself becomes a famous surgeon, specializing in criminal work. He befriends and falls in love with Miss Marsh. Miss Jewell, who sees him during his attendance at a prison, betrays him. Bond, going to rob him, becomes his chauffeur. His trial brings a verdict of guilt despite Bond's deliberate killing of himself and Miss Jewell to protect Bellamy. A pardon and the completion of the romance end the film.

Medical and legal groups might be induced to view the film, with profitable results.

Production Code Seal No. 2,525. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

"My Man Godfrey" enters its second week at the Music Hall today.

"Sing, Baby, Sing," launches its third at the Roxy tomorrow.

"Don't Turn 'Em Loose," which opened at the Rialto yesterday morning, was previewed from Hollywood on Aug. 21.

"Stage Struck," which succeeds "Anthony Adverse" at the Warner Saturday, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on Aug. 7.

Delay I.M.P.T.O. Meet

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 23.—The meeting of the Independent M.P.T.O. of Connecticut, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed to Sept. 29. Problems which have arisen during the summer will be taken up, and Maurice Shulman will report on the Allied national convention.

Sarnoff in Radio Talk

David Sarnoff, president of RCA, in an address before the Herald Tribune Institute, reviewed the progress of radio, stressing its importance in the world today, and noted the advancement in television. However, Sarnoff made no specific predictions with regard to its future.

Jay Means Extending His Rate Increases

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 23.—Jay Means, operator of the Oak Park and Bagdad here, has adopted a policy of increasing admissions on holidays and on big pictures, and has found the practice so successful during the past year he will increase its use during the coming season.

At the Oak Park, over the Labor Day holiday, he increased the normal 20-cent admission to 25 cents.

As he sees it, this is the best method of approaching the admission increase problem. Average scales for Kansas City, Mo., are just a little over 16 cents.

Hanson Starting Big Theatre at Timmins

Construction on a new 1,200-seat theatre at Timmins, Ont., the latest addition to Hanson Theatres, Ltd., will begin immediately, Oscar Hanson, head of the Canadian circuit, said yesterday. Two other spots are being considered for new theatres, he added.

With the new Timmins unit, this will make 15 for the circuit, exclusive of the 40 houses booked by Hanson's company. Hanson will remain here for two more days.

R. M. Lederer to Build

Richard M. Lederer plans a new 600-seat theatre at Gun Hill Road and Hull Ave., Bronx.

Fay Bainter to Radio

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Radio has signed Fay Bainter for the part of Katherine Hepburn's sister in "Quality Street."

Code Seals Up To 255 During Three Months

List Has 184 Features and 71 Shorts

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.—Working at high speed for three months, the Hollywood office of the Production Code Administration has viewed and has given seals to 184 features and 71 shorts. These figures date from June 27 to Sept. 19.

Indicating that a flood of reissues of old pictures will greet exhibitors during the season, the Hays office tabulation shows that 58 old features received the code certificate during this period. Warners accounted for 52 of these.

Since the code seal machinery was started, July 15, 1934, Joseph I. Breen and his aides have approved 1,524 features and 894 one and two-reel shorts.

Distributors Busy On Sales Tax Appeal

Distributors are preparing their appeal from an appellate court decision that film rentals within the city are subject to the municipal sales tax and arguments are expected to be set for hearing by the Court of Appeals at Albany about Oct. 25.

A recent decision by the State of Louisiana exempting film rentals from the state sales and luxury tax is regarded as an aid to the local case and is being cited in the briefs now being prepared by T. Newman Lawler of O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, counsel for United Artists, which is testing the city's sales tax ruling with the cooperation of other distributors.

The Court of Appeals will reconvene on Monday and a hearing of the Discussions Delayed on Forming Of New Exhibitor Organization

Discussions centering about the formation of a new national independent exhibitor organization have been delayed, the sponsors of the plan having been tied up with personal affairs and hence failing to get together this week as originally planned.

The setting up of a new local organization to replace the T. O. C. C. and I. T. O. A. also has been delayed. Assurances have been made by Charles L. O'Reilly, head of the T. O. C. C., and Harry Brandt, president of the I. T. O. A., that both groups will get together as soon as each can clean up personal matters occupying their immediate attention.

Illinois Allied Sets Suits on Clearance

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The battle waged by Allied of Illinois against double features and the extra clearance granted B. & K. will reach a climax next week when the organization will file dozens of suits through various members against the distributors granting the extra clearance. Allied will ask that product be released this year on the same terms as last year thus giving its members a full year in which to work out a solution to the present situation.

The general opinion is that B. & K. will offer to drop their plans for double featuring as a compromise when the showdown comes but thus

New Franchise Plan Is Johnston's Aim

With Wall St. scheduled to finance the new proposed Monogram setup, which is slated to get under way the first of the year, W. Ray Johnston, president, will revise the former franchise plan, it was learned yesterday.

Instead of local distributors becoming actual partners in the new organization, they will be asked to sign long term deals providing only for the handling of the product.

The new Monogram stock is expected to be listed on the New York Curb shortly. Johnston plans to make a trip to Hollywood around Jan. 1.

Cocalis Cooperating On Springer Estate

Sam D. Cocalis, partner of the late Jack Springer, is cooperating with John Connolley, attorney for the estate of Springer, who operated a number of theatres of his own in addition to the Springer & Cocalis circuit.

Cocalis said yesterday he was not interested in taking over Springer's houses, but is anxious to assist administrators of the estate in getting every benefit possible.

Up to a day before Springer's death, Cocalis had reached an oral agreement with his partner for the joint operation of their combined interests. Actual drafting of the pact was held up due to the Jewish holidays and was not reduced to writing.

Says Lawyers Hired As Fox's Directors

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 24.—From the time William Fox created All-Continent Corp. with assets of more than $6,000,000 late in 1930, until his wife and daughters became its officers in August, 1935, the family lawyers served as its hired directors.

This was the substance of today's testimony in the Fox bankruptcy hearings before Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle here. The witness was Murry C. Becker, of the New York firm of Hirsh, Newman, Reass and Becker, the family's attorneys since 1929. Questioned by creditors' attorneys, Becker recalled that, "We signed un-

WPA Shows Hurting Vaudeville—Frisco

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—WPA shows, booked at low cost without regard to deficits, are hurting vaudeville in this territory, declares Ross Frisco, veteran agency executive. Actors, he charges, are being forced to choose between relief and unemployment.

Frisco says some bookings are being held up because theatres fear WPA shows will appear as opposition.

Freeman Gets Odlum's Place On Para. Board

Follows New Policy of Naming Film Men

Y. Frank Freeman, vice-president of Paramount in charge of theatre operations, was elected to the company's board of directors at the monthly meeting yesterday. Freeman's election fills a vacancy created by the resignation from the board of Floyd B. Odlum, head of Atlas Corp., who had been an influential figure in the company's activities since its reorganization.

Freeman's election to the board is in line with the new management policy inaugurated last June at the time of the annual election. That election saw Barney Balaban, E. V. Richards and Neil F. Agnew, all of whom are experienced Paramount management men, added to the board's membership which, at that time, had Adolph Zukor as its only seasoned industry member. The board elections were followed by the election of Balaban to the Paramount presidency, Zukor to the chairmanship of the board, and Austin Keough, Paramount general counsel, to a vice-presidency. Five of the 16 board members now are management men.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE administration at Paramount, gradually but none the less happily, is taking a change for the better and along lines which experience and wisdom dictate should have held forth when first the company emerged from bankruptcy. It is not amiss by any means to roll the record further back, on second thought, and express the now purposeless hope that more film men had been given voice in the conduct of that enterprise. Yesterday came to bring with it the election to the board of Y. Frank Freeman, long experienced in theatre operation and vice-president of that phase of the company's network of activity. He succeeds Floyd B. Odlum of the Atlas Corporation whose sphere of influence began to dwindle some months ago. . . .

At Paramount now and on the directorate which fashions the bullets ultimately fired are five film men. You will recognize all of them. There is Adolph Zukor, also chairman of the board and these days directly in charge of pumping lifeblood through the organization, national and international, from Hollywood. There is Barney Balaban, one of the nation's successful showmen, reluctantly away from Chicago, his home, and for slightly under three months president of the company. There is Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution and grown up in the intricacies and complexities of a complex business. There is E. V. Richards, head of Saenger Theatres and surely among the first half dozen circuit operators who count in the width and length of the land. Freeman now rounds out the quintet. . . .

The observation is old and must be tiresome by this time. Don't ask what, necessarily, sets this business apart from others and makes it so difficult for ordinary rules of procedure to apply. Perhaps it is because so many of the elements resemble gamblers' chances from the risk which first enters production filtering through the distributor, who is the trade's middleman, to the public which remains loyal to that which it wants to support and runs like fury from that which it does not. The elements, these and others, after all make slight difference. The conclusion, proven by an array of attempts over the years, demonstrates that film men best know how to run the film industry. And that ought to be enough. . . .

To the management of the Rivoli, a salute. Maybe, United Artists influence should get some rattling of the muskets as well. We don't know. We haven't checked, for the circumstance is so pleasant it makes us positively magnanimous. This has to do with the front built for "Dodsworth" at that theatre. It indulges in no overplaying of Mary Astor's role, but maintains the billing in relation to the part in the picture which, while important in that she is the other woman, is quite subordinate to those of Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton. You might say contract billing took care of that and it would be true. But there would have been ways of inferentially taking advantage of the Astor case by photographically emphasizing her part in the film. And no contract would have entered into that. . . .

It is the impartial report to make this morning that Miss Astor delivers an effective job of acting; that her appearence is shuttled properly into the dramatic weavings of Sydney Howard's script and that we, at least, discerned no effort on Samuel Goldwyn's part to capitalize on an unsavory mess within the structure of his production. A great deal already has appeared about "Dodsworth" and the Hollywood wire some days back had its ravings about the calibre of the effort. Nobody can foretell what Hollywood will send out today or tomorrow, but, whatever it may be, this attraction, by its very considerable merits, must and will stand among the outstanding pictures of the bustling 1936-37 season. . . .

A chief reaction, recognizing the smoothness of the development, the soundness of the dialogue and the temper of the performances, is the naturalness of the flow. The impression is captured that here are no actors committed to play their parts as best their abilities will allow and then let it go at that, but that unreeling their story before you is a group of people meeting and endeavoring to solve their problems as makeup and emotions dictate in essentially the normal manner. Not about enough pictures can such a statement be made. . . .

One of the exciting preview nights on the coast for us last winter was the occasion of the showing of "These Three." Memory seems to insist that this department had criticized Goldwyn for his purchase of "The Children's Hour" because the Hellman play had Lesbianic implications which do not belong on celluloid, if some argue they do belong on the stage. The argument was a general one, merely illustrated by this incident, that producers ought to have enough sense to shy clear of properties which could not be filmed according to the mandate of the original. "These Three," directed by William Wyler, showed that sense was lacking, but it was this commentator who lacked it because the picture generally was better than the play. It is the same Wyler who directed "Dodsworth" and that reminds of an earlier and completely charming, if unsuccessful, picture with Margaret Sullavan called "The Good Fairy." On the strength of the latter, Wyler emerged as an important director. "These Three" drew attention due him in the seven-league boots manner. "Dodsworth" stamps him as among the too limited few in his field. . . .

Friends of Dickson Hail His Farewell

Gregory Dickson's associates, friends and creditors celebrated yesterday. He's leaving for the coast today to handle trailers for Radio.

Dickson was put at the head of the table at a luncheon in the Tavern, but wasn't allowed to speak. In fact, he had difficulty reading a telegram "delivered by carrier pigeon."

He received several parting gifts and was allowed to sign the check, so everybody seemed to be pleased except the management.

Among those present were Monroe Greenthal, whose department will try to get along without Dickson; Ken O'Brien, Arnold Van Leer, Ed Olmstead, Jack Harrower, Marvin Kirsch, Al Margolies, Al Adams, J. H. MacFarland, Abe Goodman, Red Kann, Rodney Bush, Lynn Farnol, Charles Curran, Emil Jensen, Lowell Calvert, Lou Rydell, Morris Helprin, J. M. Jerauld, Bill Ornstein, William Ferguson, Dan Doherty, Ben Serkowich, Len Daly, William McBride, Walter Moore, Jim McCarthy and Manny Silverstone.

Denies Judgment Plea

Judge Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court, after reargument, again denied the motion of Victor Halperin to vacate a judgment against him in the "White Zombie" case, in which Amusement Securities Corp. obtained an injunction against the distribution of the film, "The Revolt of the Zombies."

WITH THESE STARS....THAT

It's the greatest thing that

She ropes them with sincerity!

She slays them with sighs!

"SWELL!" rejoiced the trade when they heard the title. Then cheers when they heard Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young, Constance Bennett, Simone Simon headed the cast. "Boy!" they gasped, "what SHOWMANSHIP!!!" And then to top it all ... a grand story, a big story ... so big that every one of these four great stars has a full-size role to troupe the stuff that made her famous. Don't pinch yourself! You're not dreaming! You'll actually play this show (IF you're a 20th Century-Fox exhibitor)!

E. M. Loew Settles Paramount Claims

an award of about $300,000 to Loew, when Paramount Publix went into receivership in 1933. Loew then filed claims for $6,000,000 against Paramount in the receivership proceedings, based on the pending anti-trust actions. In addition, he filed claims for another $6,000,000 against Publix Theatres Corp. and Olympia Theatres Corp., which were solvent subsidiaries of Paramount at the time. When Olympia also went into receivership Loew filed new claims for $6,000,000 as a creditor, and also filed claims for $5,099,000 against solvent subsidiaries of Olympia. When Paramount went into reorganization in 1934, the claims were consolidated under those proceedings at a total of $5,215,000.

Attempts Made at Settlement

Efforts to settle the claim were carried on by the Paramount trustees during the reorganization proceedings and at one time a settlement agreement was reached by counsel for the trustees and George Ryan, attorney for Loew, but subsequently were rejected by the latter. Ryan withdrew from the case shortly thereafter, although he had been identified with the anti-trust actions as Loew's counsel from the outset. Some months ago he brought suit against Loew for compensation for his services.

The $70,000 settlement was paid to Herman A. Mintz, who had been designated Loew's nominee. The settlement was concluded by Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine, counsel for Charles D. Hilles, who continue as trustee of Paramount Publix on unfinished matters inaugurated by the reorganization trustees of the company. Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe approved the settlement yesterday.

Illinois Allied Sets Suits on Clearance

far no attempts at settlement have been made by the circuit.

Aaron Saperstein of Allied said today that it will be a fight to the finish, adding that his organization feels that the only fair solution is the elimination of dual bills and extra clearance. He said that it will take a week or more to prepare the various suits for filing.

Distributors here feel that Allied will be unable to prevent duals because clauses covering this feature in last year's contracts were omitted from this year's pacts thus making duals fair for all from a legal standpoint. The clearance situation, on the other hand, is due for extensive investigation and the battle over it may last months. Meanwhile, selling to independents is at a standstill and the probability is that they will be forced to play old pictures starting next month unless an agreement is reached.

The situation here is admitted to be very acute since neither exhibitors nor distributors know exactly what course to take.

of Munich. The other two units of major importance in the country are Ufa and the Tobis Syndicate. Bavaria in recent years has imported numerous American pictures. The company owns large studio properties in southern Germany.

Germany has adopted the Society of M. P. Engineers' standard on 16mm. sound film, discarding the German DIN standard, which has been in use for some years here. The action was taken at the Budapest meeting of the International Standard Ass'n, where the United States was represented by S. K. Wolf of Erpi. Neville Kearney represented England. The sessions were presided over by Dr. Walter Rahts of Agfa. Practically all European countries had delegates at the meeting.

A condition of the German acceptance of the S.M.P.E. standard was that the new international basis shall not be changed for 10 years.

The 11th Congress of the International Federation of Authors and Composers Societies will be held here from Sept. 28 to Oct. 3. More than 100 delegates are expected, representing 42 societies in 27 countries, including the United States. Dino Alfieri of Italy will preside.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"President's Mystery"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.—With production, directing and acting all of high calibre, this emerges as Republic's best effort and seems certain to reach the upper brackets as an important grosser. The story is a gripping drama of social struggle and not a criminal yarn as the title would suggest.

Henry Wilcoxon dominates the cast, giving a shaded performance as a blase corporation lawyer and political lobbyist who acts upon the suggestion of a magazine which questions whether a character such as he can completely disappear. Cashing in all his assets, Wilcoxon leaves Evelyn Brent, his wife, and Sidney Blackmer, his chief client, and goes to organize a cooperative cannery in a community bankrupted by his former lobbying activities.

Miss Brent meets her death accidentally on the night her husband departs and Wilcoxon is believed by police to be the murderer. When the competition of the cooperative venture makes trouble for Blackmer, Wilcoxon is discovered and held by the New York authorities. The canners, thus leaderless, stampede. The situation is cleared when Barnett Parker, former Wilcoxon butler, finds an eye witness to Miss Brent's death. The guilty ones are brought to justice and Wilcoxon culminates a romance which has developed between himself and Betty Furness.

The direction of Phil Rosen builds continuous suspense from the various situations, never letting interest diminish. The story, suggested by President Roosevelt, was developed by Rupert Hughes, Samuel Hopkins Adams, Anthony Abbot, Rita Weiman, S. S. Van Dyne and John Erskine for Liberty and brought to the screen by Lester Cole and Nathaniel West. It offers exceptional exploitation possibilities on which exhibitors can readily capitalize. The production of Albert Levoy is on a de luxe scale and the picture will back up all claims made for it.

Production Code Seal No. 2,588. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

"The Magnificent Brute"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.—This is lusty comedy which provides Victor McLaglen with an ideal role he plays for all it is worth. Audiences desiring their entertainment splashed with robust roughness will like it.

The story is a unique combination of hokum and human interest. It has been given good production value by Edmund Grainger.

Steel mill episodes have been artistically photographed by Merritt Gerstad so that they enhance the drama.

The story is played down to mass level. Rowdy rivalry between the bragging McLaglen and cocky William Hall for professional and romantic supremacy gets under way immediately. McLaglen, always a little bit better, triumphs in a metal producing test and takes Hall's girl, Binnie Barnes, from him. On the spot because of the loss of a carnival wrestling match on which the workers have bet their shirts for him to win, things look bad for the "Big I Am," but when Jean Dixon, to whom McLaglen has been a pain in the neck, learns that Hall has double-crossed McLaglen and Miss Barnes, by betting a benefit collection fund against him, the stage is set for a fight which forces a confession from Hall.

The pace set by McLaglen is convincingly picked up by Hall and Miss Barnes, Miss Dixon, Billy Burrud and Henry Armetta. The result is a colorful combination of action elements. The adaptation by Lewis Foster, Owen Francis and Bertram Milhauser of the Francis story is meaty in situation, action and dialogue. This quality has been preserved by John Blystone's direction.

Production Code Seal No. 2,527. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Try New Release Sheets

Twentieth Century-Fox has discarded the old-time release sheets in favor of a decorative layout on a light green background with the company's trade mark at the top on white and a white panel with some descriptive matter on recent films and those coming. The new sheet is an idea developed by John D. Clark and Charles E. McCarthy.

dated resignations and turned them over before taking the job, but we were not dummy directors in the usual sense. We didn't just sign everything handed to us. We understood everything that was being done, considered it and advised upon it."

Under further questioning, he said, "We did not know immediately what stocks Fox was trading in. We had given him blanket authority under his power of attorney, issued to him under instructions from Mrs. Fox."

DODSWORTH . .

ELECTRIFIED BROADWAY AN CRITICS INTO HIGH VOLTAG
STORMED THE RIVOLI O

THE NEW YORK SUN

'Dodsworth,' With Mr. Huston of Course, Even More Moving as a Screen Play.

By EILEEN CREELMAN.

Surprisingly often Hollywood refutes the old supposition that it wrecked fine stage plays and, as part of the day's work, even improves a little on the original. When Samuel Goldwyn is the producer the surprise is not so great. It was Mr. Goldwyn who produced Lillian Hellman's "The Children's Hour" as "These Three."

It is he whose staff turned out the Rivoli's new feature, the Sinclair Lewis-Sidney Howard drama, "Dodsworth." And Hollywood can once again be proud.

"Dodsworth," the film, is, if anything, just a shade better than "Dodsworth," the play; and it was a grand play. It's a fine picture, distinguished by acting and direction as much as by Sidney Howard's intelligent, resourceful adaptation of his own work. Freed from the limitations of the theater, Mr. Howard has told the story of Sam Dodsworth and his Fran in even greater and more vivid detail.

The camera follows the Dodsworths from Zenith, their home town, through that eagerly anticipated European trip that was to end by breaking up their life together. Walter Huston, now so closely associated with Dodsworth that it will probably always be remembered as his outstanding role, is once more the boyish, kindly, middle-aged, occasionally ruthless Sam. With the camera to give him sufficient close-ups, Willy Wyler to do his usual skillful job of direction, Mr. Huston has added a few more laurels to the wreath.

This is one of the most complete character studies the screen has ever attempted. Ruth Chatterton, reported to have been hesitant about accepting the role of Fran, gives a performance so excellent that it may be the start of a comeback to movie stardom for her. She plays the small town wife, frightened of getting old, vain, selfish and yet rather charming. Having coaxed her husband into retiring from business after the marriage of their only daughter, Fran tries to become a woman of the world. Slowly, reluctantly, in spite of her own efforts and Sam's, she changes. Sam's patience endures through the shipboard episode of Capt. Lockert, the Parisian romance of Arnold Iselin, almost through the more serious affair of young Kurt von Obersdorff in Vienna.

The film has a Goldwyn production, quietly lavish, in excellent taste, dignified. It has also a cast quite worthy of drama and production—Marie Ouspenskaya as the Baroness who refuses to let her son marry Fran, Gregory Gaye as the unhappy young Baron, Paul Lukas as a Continental philanderer and David Niven as an English philanderer, Spring Byington and Harlem Briggs as home-town folk, and Mary Astor as the woman who finally replaces Fran in Sam Dodsworth's heart.

"Dodsworth" is still another of this season's films on the must list, a list astonishingly long for so new a season.

'Dodsworth' Is Magnificent; Walter Huston, Too, in Role He Made Famous on Stage

By ROBERT GARLAND.

ROBERT GARLAND

Ever since I've been writing about the talking-pictures I've been longing to use the word "magnificent." But, until yesterday, it was all to no avail. Now, however, "Dodsworth" has come into the Rivoli and I can let the delectable designation go. "Dodsworth" is magnificent, magnificent through and through. Most of all, it's magnificent for what it does not overdo.

Let there be no "ifs," let there be no "buts" about it. "Dodsworth" is a perfect example of what Hollywood can achieve when Hollywood takes a Sinclair Lewis seriously. We'll forget about the West Coast's reactions to the potential filming of "It Can't Happen Here." Hollywood has done right by Mr. Lewis where Sam Dodsworth's saga is concerned. Hollywood and Walter Huston.

Stage Play Followed Pretty Closely

More than run-of-the-Rivoli film-fans might deem advisable, the screen transcription of "Dodsworth" follows the stage transcription of that selfsame tale. With the good ship Bremen changed to the better ship Queen Mary, with the happy ending enlarged so that the dullest journalist can see, Hollywood has been smart enough to understate Sam Dodsworth's serio-comic biography.

Hollywood and Mr Huston, as I said before. By the simple expedient of playing down the retired automobile manufacturer from the Middle West, by the simpler expedient of scarcely playing him at all, Walter Huston bestows a three dimensional aspect upon his man who would be king. Or, to give Rudyard Kipling the go-by and put it more precisely, his man whose wife would be queen.

Up on the Rivoli's screen, Sam Dodsworth is damnably alive. And damnably likeable! whether he is retiring from business, retiring from his wife or retiring with the persistent Edith Cortright, played by Mary Astor, he is that miracle of miracles, a tired business man who is not tiresome. A modern replica of Booth Tarkington's "The Man from Home," Sam Dodsworth is a darn good egg.

Progress of a Good Egg From Ohio to Naples

You once more follow the good egg's progress from Zenith, which is in Ohio, to Paris, which is in France, from Vienna, which is in Austria, to Naples, which is in Italy, from Fran, who is Ruth Chatterton, to Edith, who is the Miss Astor of whose extramural activities you have recently been hearing. It is as Mary Astor's horse you leave him, happy and contented.

On the screen, as on the stage, "Dodsworth" belongs to the Sinclair Lewis who created him and to the Walter Huston whose blood runs through his veins. To come right out and say so, Walter Huston and Sam Dodsworth are one. For the life of you, you can't think otherwise. Two dimensional as the talking-pictures may be, Sam Dodsworth is three dimensional where Broadway and 49th st. come together.

Ruth Chatterton asks for no sympathy as Fran. Asking for no sympathy, she is what Sinclair Lewis ordered. Mary Astor is pretty, plausable and persistent as Edith Cortright. Marie Ouspenskaya, as the Baroness Von Obersdorf, is a bit porcine. Porcine or not, she is my favorite over-actress. And, believe it or not, Odette Myrtil appears without her violin . . .

Yes, magnificent is the word for "Dodsworth." And for Walter Huston's realing of the role.

THE NEW YORK TIMES,

Samuel Goldwyn's Film of 'Dodsworth' Opens At the Rivoli—

By FRANK S. NUGENT

Brooks Atkinson, in his review of the play "Dodsworth," on the morning of Feb. 26, 1934, wrote: "Among the virtues of 'Dodsworth,' place Walter Huston foremost." This morning, with Samuel Goldwyn's admirable film transcription of the drama on view at the Rivoli, we can but repeat Mr. Atkinson's summary. Mr. Huston still is foremost, lending a driving energy and a splendid virility to the character so clearly drawn in Sinclair Lewis's novel, and so brilliantly highlighted in Sidney Howard's dramatization of the book.

Mr. Howard, who must be considered Mr. Lewis's personal dramatic translator, has adapted his play to the screen with the seriousness of an author who has studied his work long and has weighed each comma before fitting it into his literary mosaic. He was not then, in converting his play into a pattern for a motion picture, lightly to be turned from his conception of its dramatic sequence, its characterization or its speech. Mr. Goldwyn has had the wisdom to accept his judgment; William Wyler, the director, has had the skill to execute it in cinematic terms, and a gifted cast has been able to bring the whole alive to our complete satisfaction.

Dodsworth remains, through the years, a man we can understand and believe and respect. Mr. Huston deserves most of the credit for that by treating the character as it deserves: with sympathy, humor, delicacy; irony and crudity, all in their turn. It must be a studied characterization, but we never are permitted to feel that, for Mr. Huston so snugly fits the part we cannot tell where the garment ends and he begins.

We cannot feel the same about Fran Dodsworth—either as she is in the novel or as played by Fay Bainter on the stage or Ruth Chatterton in the current screen edition There is a basic impossibility in Mr. Lewis's premise that she and Dodsworth could have been married for twenty years before his retirement, and their tragic grand tour abroad revealed her to him for what she was—a silly, shallow, age-fearing woman of ingrained selfishness and vulgarity. Fran, for all the skill of the Lewis-Howard writing and the deftness of Miss Chatterton's portrayal (one of her best, by the way), is just convincing fiction against Sam Dodsworth's unquestionable fact.

This is a minor note, an aside in a sense, which is offered less as a criticism than as a contrapuntal comment on a work which already has attained something of the stature of an American classic. The film version has done more than justice to Mr. Howard's play, converting a necessarily episodic tale, interrupted by fourteen curtains, into a smooth-flowing narrative of sustained interest, well-defined performance and good talk.

If we had more words to use we could employ them to compliment Mary Astor for her alert and intelligent playing of the Edith Cortright rôle, and to acknowledge the excellence of Spring Byington and Harlan Briggs as the Pearsons, Paul Lukas as Arnold Iselin, Maria Ouspenskaya in the Baroness von Obersdorf rôle she had in the play, John Payne as Dodsworth's son-in-law, David Niven as Major Lockert and Gregory Gaye as Kurt.

NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM,

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL.

Here, at the Rivoli, is Samuel Goldwyn's screen production of Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth," and here, by your leave, is a brilliantly acted, thoroughly absorbing film of the first order. I could, I suspect, tell you at length of the film's excellent acting by Walter Huston, Ruth Chatterton and Mary Astor, of the superior screen translation Sidney Howard has made, of the fine direction by William Wyler and the quite magnificent production Mr. Goldwyn has given it. But why waste words. Instead I shall simply advise you to see it at once and enjoy its many virtues to the full.

William Boehnel

A satirical picture of an American abroad, Mr. Howard has drawn a full-sized portrait of Dodsworth who comes to life brilliantly in the person of Mr. Huston. As the story unfolds you get every side of Dodsworth — the prosperous automobile manufacturer, the loving father, the tired business man jubilant on his first holiday, the broken-hearted husband and finally the happy man who has found his real love.

Rich and successful at 50, Sam Dodsworth yields to his wife's persuasions and takes his first trip to Europe. While he is visiting the Louvre and Napoleon's tomb his wife, Fran, is succumbing to the soft words of a smooth foreigner. Sensing a tragedy, Sam wants her to come home, but she refuses and instead sends him back to New York alone.

Determined on a showdown, Sam returns to Europe only to find that Fran has taken up with a young Austrian who wants to marry her. In a bitter scene in their hotel suite she bids Sam begone once and for all and starts divorce proceedings. Wandering aimless around Italy, Sam runs across a lovely divorcee who understands him and who eventually wins him away from his selfish wife.

Full of revealing truths of character, "Dodsworth" tells its story with fine dramatic strength and purpose. The picture it paints of Fran, for instance, is not always pleasant, but it is full-blooded and authentic as played by Miss Chatterton. Miss Astor is superb as the divorcee who understands Sam and fine performances are offered by Paul Lukas, Maria Ouspenskaya, Spring Byington, Gregory Gaye and Harlan Briggs.

Walter Huston Stars on Screen In Role He Created on Stage

By ROSE PELSWICK.

A brilliant play has been made into a brilliant picture. "Dodsworth," which Samuel Goldwyn presented yesterday at the Rivoli Theatre, definitely takes its place as one of the year's most important screen events.

ROSE PELSWICK

The picture follows the play faithfully, but at no time is there even a suggestion of a photographed reproduction. A fluent, adult and thoroughly absorbing drama, it has been magnificently transferred to its new medium, thanks to an adroit screenplay written by the same Sydney Howard who dramatized the Sinclair Lewis novel for the stage, a superlative cast and skilful direction by William Wyler. mr

Walter Huston, who created the character of Dodsworth on the stage, plays the same role again before the cameras and brings to it the same power and humor that distinguished his Broadway portrayal. Sharing honors with him are Ruth Chatterton, who gives the best performance of her screen career in the part of the snobbish and shallow Fran.

Mary Astor, as the cool Mrs. Cortright; Paul Lukas, as Iselin; David Niven, as Major Lockert; Gregory Gaye, as Kurt; Mme. Maria Ouspenskaya (of the original cast) as the Baroness von Obersdorf and the other players, even to the most minor part, contribute richly to the distinction of the entire production.

Retaining all the irony as well as the deep understanding of the Lewis novel the film moves smoothly through a series af handsome sets as it tells of the middle-aged Samuel Dodsworth and his wife, Fran, who leave middle-west Zenith for a vacation in Europe.

Certainly the story is too well known by now to permit any detailed synopsis here: those unacquainted with either the book or the play will see a profoundly moving account of a retired business man who loses his bearings when tries to enjoy leisure, and a woman who is afraid of growing old, who is determined to have her last fling, and who alienates even her tolerant husband by the superficial selfishness of her romantic escapades.

The wider latitude of the camera makes it possible to see Dodsworth and Fran aboard the Queen Mary, where Dodsworth becomes boyishly excited over catching a glimpse of Bishop's Light and Fran meets Major Lockert; their stay in Paris, where Dodsworth goes off to Napoleon's tomb with a guide book while Fran meets the group that includes Iselin and Kurt; Mrs. Cortright's villa on the Mediterranean, where Sam forgets Fran while he goes fishing under the shadow of Vesuvius, and, finally the excitement aboard the homeward-bound Rex.

"Dodsworth" is, as a matter of fact, a succession of arresting sequences, each endowed with keen perception, that build to a forceful climax. It isn't easy, selecting this scene or that for comment when there are so many—Fran's dramatic outbursts while she's cold-creaming her face; the episode in which Dodsworth takes out his irritability at home by upsetting his daughter's jig-saw puzzle and shouting at Tubby Pearson over the subject of the Chicago fire; the scene in which the Baroness refuses to give her consent to Kurt's marriage; Dodsworth's agonized loneliness at the American Express office in Naples—the picture is superb entertainment. Don't miss it.

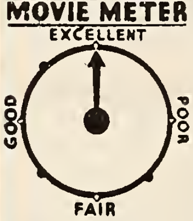
"Dodsworth" Is Perfect; Critic Turns Gusher

Movie Is Example of Best That Can Be Done for Novel on Screen

By ARCHER WINSTEN

THE critical faculty of this reviewer is being blighted in its infancy. Another movie in which there is nothing to criticize opened yesterday on Broadway at the Rivoli. And there's probably not much to tell you about it that you don't already know. The book, "Dodsworth," from which the picture has been made, was one of Sinclair Lewis's best. The play, "Dodsworth," proved itself on Broadway "for two years at $4.40" top seat prices. And neither of those could have been a slight bit better than the movie.

MOVIE METER



Walter Huston, the most dependable of actors, gives a performance that makes you forget acting. As Sam Dodsworth, the retired automobile manufacturer from Zenith. he is indelibly American. And there is both humor and pathos in his middle-aged quest for culture and education of the European brand. He doesn't really want to do it, but there's Fran (Ruth Chatterton), the wife who can't bear the thought of growing old, who cries out, "You've got to let me have my fling. You're simply rushing at old age, and I'm not ready for that."

Sam is indulgent. He says, "All right. I'll enjoy life if it kills me."

But a part of this play's interesting problem is that Sam really does enjoy life in a simple, unsophisticated way. When they go to Europe he's tremendously thrilled by the first sight of Bishop's Light off the coast of England. While Fran is annoyed. She is afraid of seeming thrilled by anything. It would be small-townish.

Fran seeks the night clubs and smart society of Europe, the smooth gentlemen with polished manners or some one with a title. While Same hikes off in Paris with his guide book to see points of historical interest. He's not above taking a sight-seeing tour, that shameful weakness of the "bourgeois" American abroad.

Very soon love triangles make their appearance and twenty years of married life hang in the balance. What happens is not for me to tell, but Fran is not the only one who finds that new, old, wonderful vision of Life Again in the not too familiar eyes of Another.

Sam looks on Edith Cortright, played by Mary Astor, and finds her good, as who would not?

A slight digression is necessary. In view of the recent Mary Astor scandals a spectator might foresee considerable distraction in her appearance on the screen, which could scarcely assist in creating the illusion of the part. I was prepared myself to take a little time out from the story to think it all over again. It is a tribute to the actress that nothing of the sort occurred. Her film presence is so charmingly simple, and her acting so good, that you have forgotten before you have time to brood upon the fact that this is indeed the one whose name graced the headlines so recently. On the visual evidence of this film, I have concluded that none of it ever happened. Miss Astor is that appealing.

The dialogue of Sidney Howard, though it may have been lifted from the book, is eminently satisfactory. An example of quarrel stuff:

Sam says, "I'm tired."

Fran says, "Don't you think I'm tired, too?"

Sam says, "All right. We're both tired."

A brief shot of a Turk trying to sell Sam a rug at the Cafe de la Paix will appeal to those who have been there, not to mention the ogling dame two seats away. In other words, the direction of William Wyler also deserves praise.

Among the cast, each one of which fills the bill, Mme. Marie Ouspenskaya contributes an impressive bit as the chilling Baroness Von Obersdorf.

Perhaps the mood and story of this picture are already dated in the Traveling Twenties. For some time now Americans haven't been retiring rich and seeking their soul's ease in Europe. The Dodsworths are probably all Liberty Leaguers now, a change for the worse, I might add. And not many of us, I fear, will share the part of their trouble that came from too much money and leisure.

But that does not lessen the film's appeal. Nor is it any less a lasting example and a mark to shoot at for those who would put novels on the screen. Precisely as the advertisements will recommend, this picture is a "must" on any adult's list, particularly those who have been, are going to be or ever were married.

DAILY NEWS

Audience at Rivoli Applauds 'Dodsworth'

By KATE CAMERON.

"Dodsworth," a United Artists production, story by Sinclair Lewis, screen play by Sidney Howard and Sinclair Lewis, directed by William Wyler, and presented at the Rivoli Theatre.

The few qualms which disturbed me before the opening of "Dodsworth" on the Rivoli Theatre screen were laid at rest yesterday morning at the end of the first showing of the picture.

The Sinclair Lewis novel, on which Sidney Howard based the play of the same name, which was released in New York two and a half years ago, fell into expert hands in Hollywood.

Picture Better Than Play.

Under Samuel Goldwyn's painstaking proprietorship, William Wyler's sagacious direction and the shrewd and expert acting of a fine cast, nothing of the penetrating satire of the original work is lost on the screen. If anything, the picture is an improvement on the play, as it has, like the novel, greater fluidity of movement and freedom of action.

There was a spontaneous expression of appreciation in the applause that greeted the picture. It was evident that the audience was in complete accord wth the author when the film faded from the screen on the satisfying sight of the shallow and selfish Mrs. Dodsworth standing alone on the deck of a boat, bound for an America that she despised, and seeing for the first time the wreckage which she had made of her life and of a once-happy marriage.

Huston in Realistic Role.

Walter Huston recreates the role of the retired automobile magnate, which he played to such perfection on the stage. This second performance of the character of Sam Dodsworth is something to cheer about. as Huston projects him from the screen with the same force and realism that he put into the original characterization.

Ruth Chatterton, playing the role of the silly Fran Dodsworth superbly, moves back into the front ranks of Hollywood's star performers, just as she did in "Sarah and Son" at the beginning of the talking picture era. Her performance on the screen equals in excellence the portrayal given by Fay Bainter in the original stage production and will undoubtedly bring Miss Chatterton renewed fame and fortune.

The story of the Dodsworths marital smash becomes so absorbingly real on the screen that Mary Astor's presence in the role of the other woman, fails to distract one's attention from the screen drama. As the sympathetic Edith Cortright, who helps Sam Dodsworth over the trying period of his wife's gradual desertion of him for the hand-kissing gigolos of European resorts, Miss Astor fulfills her assignment competently.

The balance of the cast is fine. Maria Ouspenskaya repeats the gem of a characterization which brightened one scene in the play with the same brilliant results on the screen.

David Niven, Paul Lukas and Gregory Gaye are excellent as the Continental playboys and Odette Myrtil, Spring Byington, Harlan Briggs and Kathryn Marlowe contribute fine performances in the lesser roles.

In a word, the screen version of "Dodsworth" is a fine achievement for all concerned in its production and should be checked as a "must" by all who collect good pictures.

"Dodsworth" Magnificent, Touching Movie

By BLAND JOHANESON.

THOUGH no stormy ovation greeted Mary Astor at the Rivoli, yesterday the fans assembled to see Goldwyn's elegant production of the Sinclair Lewis-Sidney Howard play seemed to accept Hollywood's celebrated romanticist as a sincere and plausible actress giving the finest performance of her career. She plays the romantic lead in a high-powered cast which co-stars Ruth Chatterton and Walter Huston.

The acting of "Dodsworth" is magnificent. The film itself is touching, dramatic and exciting. It is an adult picture, offering little to the young fans who applaud swing music and juvenile coquetry and cowboys, but much to the mature who are interested in living characters in live conflict.

"DODSWORTH" is the drama of a successful American business man. Blindly in love with his wife, he submits to her persuasion that he retire and take her to Europe to enjoy life. Her enjoyment of life. involves a frantic and pathetic pursuit of her lost youth, a grotesque ambition to be loved and admired. Enduring her infidelities, it is her reaction to the birth of a grandchild which finally awakens him to her shallowness, vanity and selfishness. He turns to the other woman, who has offered him character, companionship and sympathetic love.

MISS CHATTERTON gives the most exciting performance of her career as the wife. It is a role tragic and pitiful in its shabbiness and she gives it splendid vitality. Huston is great, of course. And their support is strong from Miss Astor as Mrs. Cortright, and from Paul Lucas, David Niven and Gregory Gaye.

The film is produced with characteristic Goldwyn splendor and Mr. Wyler's direction is polished and inspired.

"Another triumph for the screen. Another victory for Samuel Goldwyn!"

Looking 'Em Over

"Le Barbier de Seville"

(Franco-American Film)

Outstanding in this entertaining production which is a condensed and combined version of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" and Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," is the excellent vocal work of Andre Baube, of the Paris Opera, who plays the immortal Figaro in energetic fashion.

Jean Kramm, in his direction, has skillfully blended straight dialogue and rendition 'in operatic style to make the result wholly entertaining. The absence of subtitle translations is hardly noticed and the story is too familiar, in any case, to require any amplification for those who lack an understanding of French.

The film's audience suitability is necessarily restricted to those theatres whose patrons appreciate the better foreign material and whose desire to hear good music is strong. The symphonic musical background, using the music of Rossini and Mozart, is at all times attractive. Louis Masson, director of the Opera Comique, conducted the orchestra.

The story tells of the love of a young girl for a count, which is protested by the girl's elderly guardian, who seeks to marry her himself. The count obtains the aid of Figaro, the barber, who concocts clever schemes to aid the suitor. The marriage is effected, complications enter when the count falls in love with Figaro's sweetheart, but general reconciliation concludes the film.

P.S.B. Completes Its RCA Suit Testimony

Wilmington, Sept. 24.—Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. rested its case today after John Ballantyne of Abington, Pa., treasurer of Philco Radio Television Corp., told of the mechanics of the reorganization of Philco and P.S.B. and how it was affected as the injunction suit against RCA neared the end of its second week.

The defense opened late this afternoon before court adjourned, with John W. Davis, chief counsel for RCA, calling two of the P.S.B. witnesses back to the stand to clarify several points in their previous testimony. They were Charles F. Steinruck, P.S.B. accountant, and Reynolds D. Brown, Jr., P.S.B. engineer.

Denies Profit Sharing

Ballantyne testified today that there is no agreement whereby Philco profits are to be passed on to P.S.B. From July 30, 1934, the date of reorganization, to Aug. 27 of the same year, when the assembly contract was made by the two firms, P.S.B. did assembling of complete sets the same as had been done since Philco was founded, Ballantyne declared.

After the receipt of the RCA letter of April 9, threatening to terminate the licensing agreement, the assembling by Philco was discontinued, he testified.

Regarding the reorganization, Ballantyne stated that he was "to make a determination as to whether or not it was absolutely necessary to have the setup from an accounting standpoint and from a financial standpoint that previously had been used by the company."

Rural Russia Sees Portable Picture Shows

Traveling Theatres Are Gaining in Use

By BEATRICE STERN

Moscow, Sept. 10. — The state-owned industry in Russia is bringing entertainment to the rural population of the country by means of traveling picture theatres. During the current harvesting season, screenings at field stations some distance from the villages have become regular attractions, and are well attended.

In Odessa Province in the Ukraine, during the past six months, 212 traveling theatres served an estimated 23,000,000 farmers, for whom they showed the more popular silent Russian pictures produced within the past two years. Among the 290 portable machines operating in a nearby province 16 are equipped for sound pictures. The collective farm audience which patronizes the traveling theatres comprises more than 80 per cent of the peasant class of the country, which

Music Drive Pickets Dismissed in Court

Two members of Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians, arrested last Saturday night while picketing in front of the Capitol in the union's drive for the reemployment of musicians at film houses, were dismissed yesterday in West Side Court on disorderly conduct charges.

Three girls, arrested while picketing in front of the same house Thursday night, were dismissed in Night Court. The union has placed pickets at the RKO Jefferson and the Academy of Music on 14th St., bringing the total of houses to 23 in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn. No decision has been made as yet relative to the extension of the campaign into other cities.

Chesterfield Set in 90% of Territories

Approximately 90 per cent of the country has been closed for distribution of Chesterfield and Invincible product, according to Edward Golden, general sales manager, who returned yesterday from a five-week trip.

All Star Attractions in Los Angeles and San Francisco and Charles Tarbox of F. C. Exchanges in Buffalo and Albany are the latest deals closed.

Ostrers Silent

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, Sept. 25.—Today was the day on which the Ostrers were to issue a statement "concerning the G. B. negotiations and interested American parties." It did not develop, thereby maintaining for the Ostrers their consistent failure to comment on the breakdown of the original deal with Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's.

Lord Beaverbrook is now viewed definitely as a counter bidder and John Maxwell, of course, continues in the running. There appears to be some doubt now about the interest and the activities of Lord Portal, persistently mentioned earlier in the week as a contender.

Irish Producing Company Planned

London, Sept. 25.—The establishment of an Irish production center is planned by Lord Killanin and Desmond Hurst, the latter of British International. Two companies are being formed, with headquarters in Dublin. One will own the studio planned, and the other will be the producing-distributing unit. Private backers are said to be supplying ample capital.

The company is negotiating with the Irish Free State Government to take over the giant airplane hangars at Gormanstown, near Dublin, which have not been used since the war, for conversion into sound stages. Hurst will begin production on the first film, a story of the Easter week rising in 1916, next spring, when his B.I.P. contract expires. It is said Hollywood players will be brought over for the production, which is expected to cost about $250,000.

It is planned as well to rent the studio to outside producers for Irish backgrounds. On the schedule are two other films, "Colleen Bawn" and "Modern Irish Comedies."

Conclude Trial in Philco-RCA Action

Wilmington, Sept. 25.—The trial of the injunction suit brought in chancery court here against RCA by Philadelphia Storage Battery Co., parent company of Philco Radio and Television Corp., ended before Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott here today, as the defense rested without calling a witness.

No date was set by the court for

Aylesworth Quits at NBC For RKO Post

Reorganization Work to Require Entire Time

M. H. Aylesworth, RKO board chairman and former head of National Broadcasting Co., has resigned as vice-chairman and a director of the latter company in order to devote his entire time to RKO. The resignation marks Aylesworth's complete severance from NBC.

Aylesworth resigned as president of NBC last Jan. 1, but remained with the company in the posts which he has just now relinquished in order to act temporarily in an advisory capacity on NBC policies. He was succeeded as president of NBC by Major Lenox Riley Lohr of Chicago, and in the interim has been devoting more of his time to RKO than formerly. Aylesworth had held the dual posts of president of NBC and RKO since 1932. He was elected chairman of the RKO board and subsidiaries when Leo Spitz became president of the company last winter.

"It is with sincere regret that I sever my official connection with NBC," Aylesworth said yesterday in

Kuykendall's Trip Here Delayed Week

Renewed efforts to obtain distributor action on the M.P.T.O.A. trade practice program, which were expected to be made early next week with the arrival here of Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, will be delayed for another week as a result of changes in Kuykendall's itinerary.

The exhibitor leader has been obliged to postpone his departure from Columbus, Miss., his home, because of personal business affairs, and instead of leaving for New York this weekend, as originally planned, Kuy-

"Ziegfeld" Garners $53,129 at Capitol

The first week of "The Great Ziegfeld" at the Capitol at popular prices ended with $53,129. Because of the length of the picture, the theatre is opening daily at 9 A.M. and closing at 3 A.M. The musical is now in its second week and there is a possibility it will be held a third. If it isn't held, "The Devil Is a Sissy" will open next Friday.

Grainger Heading East

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—William Heineman and J. R. Grainger leave today for Dallas, where they will spend one day in the Universal Exchange. Grainger will then go by train to New York, and Heineman will take off for his second jaunt around the country by air. R. H. Cochrane plans to finish his conferences at the studio and leave Tuesday by train for New York.

Hays Back from Coast

Will H. Hays returned to his office yesterday after summering on the coast. He presided at a staff meeting of M.P.P.D.A. department heads in the morning. The annual meeting of the board of the organization, which was twice postponed pending Hays' return, will be held next Wednesday.

"India" on Queen Mary

"Voice of India" will have its first public showing on the Queen Mary, now en route to England. Paul Hoefler, who produced the film, is a passenger on the liner.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Big Game"

(Radio)

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—The timely football angle of this production, together with a cast that looks, and is largely, collegiate, featuring eight All-American players, plus the hearty stress of comedy, all combine to give this first gridiron film of the season a big chance for a winning score. The plot is slight, but so brightly decorated with good dialogue, smart gags and convincing shots of actual scrimmages that those who are football-wise will eat it up.

Philip Huston, star of the team, is working his way through college and supporting his relatives on the proceeds from a football scholarship while Guinn Williams, his brother, picks up money on the side by betting. Scandal hits the headlines when a gambling ring, hearing that Huston has injured his knee, reverses its bets and later kidnaps Huston to make their wagers sure.

The climax is very funny with Andy Devine, a stalwart husband and father of three children, deliberately starting a fight with King Kong Klein which quickly empties the bleachers in a free-for-all on the field, thus gaining time for the rescue of Huston in the fourth quarter.

June Travis carries the love interest nicely as the daughter of C. Henry Gordon, a sports writer. Bruce Cabot, James Gleason, John Arledge, Barbara Pepper, Edward Nugent and Margaret Seddon contribute telling performances. Among the football players are Shakespeare, Berwanger, Wilson, Moscrip, Jones, Hamilton and Alustiza. The direction of George Nichols, Jr., keeps the comedy moving at a collegiate pace. Edward Killy directed the football scrimmaging sequences in a manner that will excite even the game's experts.

Production Code Seal No. 2,484. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

"15 Maiden Lane"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—Although lacking big cast names, this picture should be found entertaining by general audiences. The story is a novel crime drama, the acting is convincing and the production is well handled. A slight mystery and comedy are interwoven with considerable suspense to hold the attention. The dialogue is clever, and there are plenty of lively action sequences.

Claire Trevor, posing as a jewel thief, allies herself with Cesar Romero, clever crook, in order to ascertain the identity of the real leader of a gang which has been looting 15 Maiden Lane, diamond center. Fast-moving drama and good comedy are present as an insight is given into the art of diamond cutting.

Romero is at the bottom of several killings during which Miss Trevor's life is in danger. In an exciting climax as she tips off the police, Romero is killed and Lester Matthews, unsuspected as the brains of the gang, is arrested.

The excellent support is contributed by Douglas Fowley, Lloyd Nolan, Robert McWade, Ralf Harold. A feature of Allan Dwan's direction is the manner in which he has inserted fresh story twists to lift the film above the average.

Production Code Seal No. 2,558. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Indiana Unit Sets Meet

Indianapolis, Sept. 25.—The Associated Theatre Owners of Indiana will hold their annual convention here Oct. 27 with business sessions in the morning and afternoon, a luncheon and a banquet and a program for women guests. Election of officers will be held. Complete details are to be worked out in the near future, R. R. Bair of this city, president, said.

Endorse Dixey Plan

London, Sept. 25.—Manchester and Liverpool exhibitors have endorsed Capt. A. F. Dixey's plan for a cooperative producing and distributing company with independent theatre operators as partners. His company is the Independent Exhibitors Distributing Co., Ltd.

Walbruck Signs by Cable

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—A term contract with Adolph Walbruck was closed by cable this week by Samuel Briskin, who plans to star the Viennese stage and screen actor in "Michael Strogoff" which Pandro Berman will produce. Joseph Ermolieff, European director, already has been signed to direct the film.

Set Sunday Referendum

Rockwood, Tenn., Sept. 25.—Although an ordinance was passed recently by the local city council legalizing Sunday films, it has been decided to hold a referendum Oct. 17 "to ascertain the wish of the community." The city commissioners took the step on receipt of protests and petitions from various church groups.

Loew's Moviegoer to Be Published Oct. 1

A. L. Miller, president of the Moviegoer Publishing Co., will publish the first issue of Loew's Moviegoer on Oct. 1, when it will be distributed free at 15 local theatres in the circuit. Another 20 theatres will be added in November and out-of-town Loew houses will distribute as soon as possible.

Oscar A. Doob, advertising director for Loew's, will supervise the editorial end. The first issue will run from 16 to 30 pages with copy to center on M-G-M, Paramount, U. A. and Columbia product which will play the local circuit. Where the magazine is distributed out-of-town, publicity copy to include pictures of other companies booked will supplement the local material.

Loew's Weekly, which has been issued every week for the past 25 years without advertising, will be continued, as heretofore. It is planned later to sell the Moviegoer on stands.

Orders Examination In Replevin Action

Justice Edward J. McGoldrick in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday ordered Luther Reed and K. Blythe Emmons to submit to examination before trial in connection with a replevin action brought against them by Morton Hartman and Verne Porter, Inc. The plaintiff had sought to recover 15 reels of negative made in Borneo and titled "Indonesia," claimed to be worth $25,000, and asked damages of $5,000 for the alleged wrongful holding of the film.

The defendants denied all the charges, and answered that they were ready to deliver the film to anyone legally entitled to it upon the payment of $2,920 which they claim they spent in preparing the film for exhibition.

Denies Melbert Petition

Special Master Irwin Kurtz in Federal Court yesterday denied the petition of Melbert Pictures to be dismissed from the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings into which the company was forced by Amusement Securities Corp.

Al Barnett Passes

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25.—Al Barnett, 40, Universal branch manager here for three years, died today in Montefiore Hospital of a blood stream infection. The infection developed from intestinal influenza which he contracted three weeks ago. He had been with Universal for 14 years. His widow survives.

Rites for J. P. Taylor

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—Funeral services were held today for James P. Taylor, 73, superintendent of Warners' Sunset Studio since 1917. He died early Wednesday morning at his home. He is survived by one son, James E. Taylor, a member of the Los Angeles Board of Education.

Charlie Chaplin, in "Modern Times," is still a prime favorite among Russian audiences in Moscow and Leningrad. The theatre showing the film is crowded every night, some people returning three and four times.

The Russian film trust has bought "City Lights" and will show it when "Modern Times" has completed it run. Foreign films are not dubbed as they are in most other countries, the Russians preferring to follow the story as it unreels on the screen.

A large film town has just been completed at Ozerki, a short distance from Leningrad, where mass scenes will be shot. There, V. Petrov is directing the filming of Tolstoi's novel, "Peter I," involving scenes of 1,500 people such as the capture of the Swedish fortress by the Russian troops, the building of St. Petersburg and the first flood in the city. Covering an area of 25 acres, the Swedish fortress combines a water-filled moat and bridge. Eight thousand sets of equipment were used for the "Russian" and "Swedish" armies. The film will be released the end of the year.

* * *

N. V. Ekk, producer of the first color film, "Nightingale, Little Nightingale" is preparing a version of "Hamlet." He has had a special translation of the play made after study of the important productions of the tragedy interpretations of the character.

Ekk also plans a sequel to his color film.

A version of N. Pogodin's play, "Aristocrats," one of the hits of the Moscow theatrical season, will be released next month under the title, "Prisoners." Filmed on the Baltic-White Sea Canal to give authenticity, it pictures efforts to rehabilitate lawbreakers. Russians never turn to the theatre for film material, nor think of dramatizing for stage production successful films, believing that only one medium can be suitable, which explains why this production is arousing so much interest.

Set Four "Romeo" Dates

Four more roadshow dates have been set for "Romeo and Juliet." On Sunday, the picture will open at the American, St. Louis; next Wednesday at the Carthay Circle, Los Angeles; Oct. 4 at the Erlanger, Buffalo, and the Royal Alexandria, Toronto, Oct. 5.

Fawcett Promotes Two

C. W. Fuller, former eastern advertising director of Fawcett Publications, has been appointed advertising director, supervising five offices. William Cotton has been named business manager, retaining his duties as production manager.

kendall will not start east until Tuesday. He will make a stopover in Philadelphia to confer with exhibitor leaders there and may remain for the annual Variety Club outing next Thursday, coming to New York the following day. Following this program, Kuykendall probably would not begin his final conferences with distribution heads on the M.P.T.O.A. trade practice program until the week following.

Kuykendall is reported to be intent upon having a "show down" session with distributors during his visit which is for the purpose of obtaining either acceptance or rejection of the exhibitor program from sales heads.

Batcheller Signs Three

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—George R. Batcheller has signed Leslie Fenton, Madge Evans and Sidney Blackmer for the leading roles in "The House of Secrets," next picture on the Chesterfield program. Production is scheduled to start Sept. 24 with Rowland Reed directing. The picture will be made at the Republic Studio.

Plan 55th St. Opening

The 55th St. Playhouse will reopen after remodeling on Oct. 1, under the new management of the 55th St. Playhouse, Inc., headed by Martin J. Lewis, who was connected with the house previously. The first film will be "La Maternelle," which played the same theatre last year.

"Pyjamas" Title Changed

"Love in Exile" is the title finally chosen by G. B. for "His Majesty's Pyjamas." Helen Vinson and Clive Brook are co-starred.

Romancing Over

It's all over—that heart-fluttering which Leslie Howard has been perpetrating via the stage and films for years. He says so himself.

Peering through his horn-rimmed spectacles, he says he's 41 and intends to turn to character roles. No more romantic parts.

And some of the American actors think they're just getting started at that age!

closed shop drive is expected to be outlined. The first attack which the leaders will launch is expected to be similar to the I.A.T.S.E. drive with a demand that all players become full members of the guild or suffer the refusal of American Federation of Labor members to work with them. The guild refused official comment on this point but admitted that such a move is possible.

Picketing Threat by I.A.T.S.E.

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—Projectionists' Local 150, I.A.T.S.E., has served notice on Grover Smith, operator of the Roxie and Casino, Glendale, that unless the I.A.T.S.E. terms are met the union will resume its picketing of the house. The union has granted a nine-day grace period during the period of negotiation, although an early settlement seems unlikely.

Negotiations between I.T.O. and I.A.T.S.E. are still under way.

argument. The counsel for the plaintiff was given four weeks in which to file briefs, while RCA counsel was given an additional two weeks for filing.

John W. Davis, chief counsel for RCA, rested the defendant's case immediately after the court opened this morning. Technically the defense opened yesterday when Davis recalled to the stand two of the complainant's witnesses, Charles F. Steinruck, P.S.B. accountant, and Reynolds D. Brown, Jr., engineer, to identify several documents.

Philadelphia Storage Battery is seeking to enjoin RCA from terminating a license agreement whereby Philadelphia has the right to use basic patents in radio and television assigned to RCA.

Sets Empire Hearing

Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn yesterday set Oct. 30 as the date for a hearing to determine whether the amended petition on the reorganization plan submitted by the Empire Theatre Supply Corp. should be approved. The application was filed on Aug. 21.

Cooper Entrains Today

Hollywood, Sept. 25. — Merian Cooper will leave for New York tomorrow by train. Both personal and company business takes him east.

Vacation for Lewin After Leaving Metro

Hollywood, Sept. 25.—Albert Lewin, associate producer at M-G-M, who tendered his resignation to E. J. Mannix, studio general manager, plans an extended vacation, probably in Europe, when he leaves M-G-M. His resignation is expected to take effect in 60 days, when he completes work on "Good Earth," which he is supervising.

Lewin declared it is too early to make any announcement relative to his future affiliation. The producer had exercised his right to terminate his contract under a clause permitting such action if Irving Thalberg is no longer available.

"Hussy" Hits $20,000, Tops Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Sept. 25. — "Gorgeous Hussy" took $20,000 on its first week at the Boyd and was held.

At the Fox, "Road to Glory" rated a second week with $18,000. Stage shows have been dropped at the Fox pending negotiations with the musicians on a new season's contract.

"Romeo and Juliet" hit a third week slump, dropping to $12,000. Two more weeks are scheduled at the Chestnut. "Last of the Mohicans" also dropped in its second week, going out with $6,500. "Swing Time" reaped a high $17,000 on its second and last week at the Stanley, but the grosses began to slip toward the end of the period and it was rushed out in favor of "The Great Ziegfeld."

The weather was fair, though warm afternoons cut into the matinee trade.

Total first run business was $101,000. Average, not including "Romeo and Juliet," is $81,960.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 17:

Goldberg Named Booker

Kansas City, Sept. 25.—Stanley Goldberg, brother of Herb Goldberg, manager at the Fox Isis, has been named booker by Consolidated Film Distributors, to succeed W. G. Kubitzki, newly appointed booker for Grand National.

"Wife" Montreal's Best Bet, $12,000

Montreal, Sept. 25.—"My American Wife," with a Bowes stage unit, showed the way with a take of $12,000 for Loew's. Par is $10,500.

"Poor Little Rich Girl" went over the top at the Capitol as a first feature and scored $10,000. "Romeo and Juliet" at His Majesty's registered $9,000, which was high for a two-a-day. It was held over. "Piccadilly Jim" brought $10,500 to the Palace, while a second week of "Mary of Scotland" was good for $6,000 at the Princess after doing $10,500 for the first week.

The film houses had opposition in the San Carlo Opera Co. at the Imperial, horse racing at Blue Bonnets and the first of the football clashes. Cooler nights featured the week's weather.

First run grosses totalled $47,600. Average is $47,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 19:

"POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL" (20th-Fox)
"HUMAN CARGO" (20th-Fox)

"Ziegfeld" Buffalo Leader at $18,800

Buffalo, Sept. 25. — "The Great Ziegfeld" was top draw here in a week that saw every house better par. Its first week at the Great Lakes at popular prices coaxed $18,800 through the turnstiles, beating average by $11,800.

"Girls' Dormitory" was $1,600 into the black with a gross of $8,600 at the Hippodrome. "They Met in a Taxi" on a dual with "Blackmailer" at the Lafayette, took $7,200 to beat average by $1,400.

The Century's dual, "Border Patrolman" and "36 Hours to Kill," was over par by $1,300, grossing $6,900.

The weather was generally fair and cool. "Boy Meets Girl," playing to good houses the last three days at the Erlanger, along with a championship baseball team at home, offered strong competition.

Total first run business was $53,400. Average is $36,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 19:

"PICCADILLY JIM" (M-G-M)
BUFFALO — (3,000), 30c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $11,900. (Average, $11,500)

"Ziegfeld" Is 2d Week Lead In St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25. — "The Great Ziegfeld," in its second week at Loew's continued the big draw of the town with a take of $15,100, above house average by $5,100. It was held over for a third week.

"Swing Time" and "Shake Down" at the Orpheum proved a real surprise by taking in $10,200 against a house average of $7,000. The results of this subsequent first run showing were so remarkable the combination was held for another week. "Swing Time" had its first local showing at the Fox prior to moving downtown to the Orpheum.

"My Man Godfrey" and "Man From Louisiana," in their second week at the Ambassador, took in $12,500, beating the house average by $3,500, while "Two in a Crowd," at the St. Louis with a vaudeville bill headed by Willard and Hurley, Pacific Coast badminton players, did $8,000, or $2,800 above house average.

On the whole the weather was favorable and there was no real serious amusement opposition in town.

Total first run business was $67,500. Average is $55,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 17:

"MY MAN GODFREY" (Univ.)
"MAN FROM LOUISIANA" (Republic)
AMBASSADOR—(3,018), 25c-35c-55c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $12,000. (Average, $9,000)

Closing Summer Spots

Sound View, Conn., Sept. 25.—The Colony and Strand have reduced their schedule to one night a week, with October 1 set as closing date. Walnut Beach, another summer spot, will probably close the Colonial within the next few weeks, and keep the Tower open. George Smith now operates both houses. Under separate ownership, both houses attempted all-year operation for the past two years.

"U's" Booking Battle Begun Around Frisco

"Godfrey" Playing Spots Usually Second Run

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—Universal's threat to sell pictures around the Golden State and T. and D. Junior Circuits because of the latter's refusal to buy 12 on percentage and the remainder of the 1936-37 schedule flat is being carried out. James R. Grainger, general sales manager for the distributor, declared for such a policy about 10 days ago and, it develops now, has followed through in a number of towns where both of these circuits, each affiliated with the other, operate.

"My Man Godfrey" opened Saturday in Reno, where Golden State virtually dominates. The same picture has been booked and will open in the next few days in Santa Cruz, Monterey, Visalia and Hanford, all key points in the two chains' lineup. The film has been booked into second run theatres, thereby elevating them to first-run category for the one time engagement, at least. In Santa Cruz the playdate is in a 1-200-seat house.

British Television Programs Cut Down

London, Sept. 17.—Confirming information published in Motion Picture Daily several weeks ago, the British Broadcasting Corp. officially announces that regular television transmissions are to be immediately discontinued. Following improvement in equipment at Alexandra Palace, a series of trial programs "primarily for test purposes," will be transmitted for a month, beginning early in October.

No fixed time will be adhered to, but, "so far as possible," the public will be advised of transmissions. At the end of this period, regular television programs will be transmitted on the previously announced basis of three sessions daily.

Dixey's Goal 1,000 Houses In British Producing Plan

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, Sept. 27.—Capt. A. C. N. Dixey, promoter of the Independent Exhibitors' Distribution Co., entertains hopes of a final adhesion to the scheme of close to 1,000 exhibitors.

This estimate is based on the fact that 150 exhibitors attended the inaugural London meeting and endorsed the principle of the Dixey plan of a distributing company with 25 per cent of its capital provided by theatre owners and the latter given a franchise to product expected to total 15 British films in the first year.

If provincial support is on the same scale, the total of 1,000 is not regarded as impossible. It does not follow, of course, that all exhibitors supporting a resolution in favor of the plan will become shareholders, on the basis of an average investment of £50 per theatre, but the cash contribution certainly will not worry the smallest man.

Manchester and Liverpool exhibitors this week endorsed the plan. On Monday, a meeting is slated for Leeds to be followed by others in Newcastle on Wednesday, Glasgow on Friday, Birmingham on Oct. 5 and Cardiff on Oct. 7. A second meeting has been called for London on Oct. 8 at which Dixey is expected to divulge the total number of exhibitors who have signifcd general approval of his scheme.

Kuykendall Is For Watch on Broadcasting

A close scrutiny and supervision of radio broadcasting material designed for programs featuring Hollywood personalities, in order to lessen the injurious effects of such broadcasting on both the industry and the individuals participating in the programs, is urged by the M.P.T.O.A. in its current bulletin to members issued over the signature of Ed Kuykendall, president.

In a discussion of the radio problem, the bulletin observes that "To try to bar any and all motion picture stars from radio broadcasting is stupid and impossible. Movements to bring this about are a waste of time and merely place the exhibitors participating in a foolish position." However, the bulletin suggests: "It may be necessary to

Claim B'way Runs Hurting Subsequents

Extended playing time and day-and-date runs of strong attractions in key cities by major circuits are creating a serious situation for subsequent and neighborhood theatres, according to several independent operators in New York.

Where first runs on Broadway are prolonging the initial showings to two and three weeks, the pictures are left with little to attract second, third and fourth-run patronage, it was said.

Sam Rinzler of Randforce, with approximately 48 theatres in Brooklyn, decries extended runs, declaring that major circuit houses are sapping every ounce of business with strong product while the neighborhoods have to carry on with inferior films until better pic-

Majors Deny Financing of Stage Plays

No Direct or Indirect Activity, They Say

Little, if any, film money has gone—or will go—into Broadway plays to be produced this season under the new minimum basic agreement between playwrights and managers, it was ascertained from major companies on Saturday.

Spokesmen for M-G-M, Warners and Columbia, which, with Paramount, have supplied most of the film money which has been earmarked for Broadway during the past three years, are emphatic in their denials that they have engaged in any financing, either directly or indirectly, of plays to be produced under the new agreement. Authoritative Paramount officials could not be reached for definite statements on that company's policy, although it was stated unofficially that Paramount has no plans of any significance for play financing this season. The company has been reported as participating in the forthcoming production "Red Hot and Blue."

The Dramatists' Guild, in recent statements, has asserted its belief that film companies are engaging in play financing through "dummy" interests which are appearing on the Broadway

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IN a general M. P. T. O. A. bulletin, Ed Kuykendall picks up the problem of double features and lays that jaw-breaker down where he found it. He deplores its hold, resurrects the code hearings of 1933 and cites ten conclusions which the M. P. T. O. A. then drew from its crystal ball about the wildfire spread of the apparently insoluble twin feature situation. It's interesting, it goes over well-worn paths generally familiar to all and sundry and it furnishes us with a couple of paragraphs to drop into menacing, white space demanding attention.

One or two statements, however, did arrest attention. This, for instance:

> ". . . most of the theatres in competitive situations have been forced into double featuring whether they like it or not and the 'free and unrestrained' cut-rate competition by shoe-string exhibitors has forced double featuring to spread across the country."

What difference did it make whether exhibitors liked it or not? They went because of competition or unsatisfactory grosses, but to blame the tide of twin bills flatly on "shoe-string exhibitors" is neither entirely fair nor accurate. Naturally, it all depends what Kuykendall means to embrace in such a sweeping classification. Certainly, he cannot corral the major circuits in one handful, set them aside and eliminate them entirely from the blame. It won't hold water. . . .

"It has developed into a vicious circle, the influence of this wilful practice has seeped up through the intermediate runs to the first run theatres" is another eye-arrester. We sense in this either a thoughtlessly prepared comment or a deliberate effort to shunt the fault complete to independent exhibitors. What about those intermediate runs? Don't the majors control some or many of them? What about New England, the original spawning ground of the double feature? Don't the major circuit outlets there double feature and haven't they along with the subsequents? We are supposed to supply answers through this forum and not questions, but these make their own rejoinders.

When Kuykendall remarks "none of the distributors has developed any courage to even tackle the problem in an effective way," he says something. If an answer is to be found from within, the distributor, as the agent for the producer, has it within his reach. The distributor sets release, approves the playdate, designates weekend time—all measures controlling and, as he sees it, protecting his property. The exhibitor squawks about designated playdates, but he submits largely since there is no out for him. Theoretical, perhaps, but intriguing anyway is the idea that distributors do more designating by stipulating their releases cannot be dualled, with their own or anyone else's.

Those shots you just heard came from the double feature camp which has more advocates in the ranks than only the independents. . . .

The world's well of information can never be finally plumbed, it appears. Did you, for instance, know that it was not Marlene Dietrich's legs which make her a great actress? Note an Associated Press prelude to a short interview with Ernst Lubitsch:

> It's her soul, said Ernst Lubitsch, the Hollywood producer-director, yesterday—her soul reflected in her eyes that has put her in the top flight of cinema stars. And history will some day prove this, Lubitsch said.

And Ernst, via the direct quote route:

> "It's all very well to speak of Miss Dietrich's legs. They are very beautiful, very beautiful, and they haven't been a detriment to her. Maybe they've even helped her a little bit, but—"
> He chewed for a few moments on a big cigar, then gestured lightly:
> "She has something else—something we are going to show in her next picture.
> "The something is a talent for comedy which the public knows little about.
> "So far, too many of Miss Dietrich's parts have been too much alike. Exotic manners, enchanting smiles, dreamy eyes and the legs. Ah, yes, the legs!
> "But I have confidence that in our next picture she'll be wonderful and become more immensely popular than ever. It's a great opportunity."

Miss Dietrich is in London. Lubitsch is in New York, those sharp, dark eyes of his, no doubt, twinkling harder than ever. . . .

Taxes in Wisconsin Gain by 12 Million

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—An increase of approximately $12,000,000 over 1935 in the total volume of taxes collected by the state and all its political subdivisions for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, has been reported by the State Tax Commission.

According to the commission's report, the increase may be largely attributable to the general improvement in business conditions and is uniformly distributed over the entire tax structure.

Greatest tax gain over the preceding fiscal year was made in the collection of normal incomes where a $3,000,000 increase was registered, being 45 per cent higher than a year ago.

RKO Team Got 69 Runs

The RKO team which was awarded the Quigley Publications trophy as 1936 champion of the M. P. Baseball League had a season's record of 69 runs and 79 hits in winning 10 of its 13 scheduled games. Other trophies were awarded as follows: most games won, Music Hall, Billboard Publications trophy; second most games won, RKO, League president's cup, and most runs scored. Consolidated Film Industries, Variety trophy.

W. Sparks & Co. and California Capital Co. are made defendants.

Para. Gets Jean Arthur

Hollywood, Sept. 27.—Paramount has borrowed Jean Arthur from Columbia in a talent trade which gives the latter studio Cary Grant to play the lead opposite Grace Moore in her next film, "Interlude." Miss Arthur probably will have the leading role in "Free Woman," magazine story by Katharine Brush, just bought by Paramount.

"U" Buys Murphy's Pact

Hollywood, Sept. 27. — Universal has purchased George Murphy's term contract from M-G-M. The actor had previously been borrowed for the lead in "Talk of the Town," and studio executives believe the part will be so important they want the player under permanent contract to their studio. Doris Nolan will have the feminine lead opposite Murphy.

Tax Problems In Manchukuo Hit Japanese

By TETSUYA MORI

Tokyo, Sept. 10.—Abolition of extra-territoriality in Manchukuo has raised an unexpected taxation problem for Japanese exhibitors. Taxation is now in the hands of local municipalities to a large extent and is being applied to Japanese as well as other theatres. Rates at Harbin, key city, have been raised from three per cent to nine per cent.

Japanese exhibitors have appealed to their consul, claiming this will be fatal to their business, but they are faced with the fact that if rates are cut the same cuts will apply to all other exhibitors—Russian and Manchukuoan—and competition will be just as keen.

Attendance of Japanese patrons has increased from an approximate 20 per cent a few years ago to about 80 per cent, and Russian and Manchukuoan exhibitors are making a bid for Japanese attendance by improving their houses and fitting their shows to Japanese tastes.

Manchurian Expansion Planned

The Capitol which recently included Japanese investors has been incorporated as the Toa Theatrical Co. with a capitalization of 250,000 yen, and is planning circuit expansion in Hsinking, Mukden, Dairen and other cities.

In the meantime Japanese houses at Harbin, the Model, Orient, Palace and Harbin Cinema, are seeking Manchukuoan patronage, in opposition to the Capitol.

Some form of national film control is in prospect in Manchukuo. Production of so-called cultural films has been quite successful and a national studio has been started. The Government has named a committee to study the industry in Japan, the United States and various European countries. Its report will be used for the purpose of setting up national regulations.

Baird to Shift Reports

London, Sept. 17.—Baird Television, Ltd., proposes to end its financial year on June 30, instead of Sept. 30. At the annual general meeting of the company today, the directors proposed an adjournment until Oct. 16, when the accounts will be complete. Baird, controlled by G. B., is one of the two companies entrusted with the official television transmissions of the British Broadcasting Corp., and the installation, at short notice, of the transmitter at Alexandra Palace is one of the reasons ascribed for the holdup of the trading figures.

U.S. Product Off to a Good Start in Budapest Houses

By ENDRE HEVESI

Budapest, Sept. 14.—American product was away to a good start in the new season here. M-G-M's "Wife vs. Secretary" is doing well at the Forum. Among 18 films of the company scheduled for release the first half of the season, only six will be shown at the Metro, the others going to other first run houses. "A Tale of Two Cities" also started favorably. Exhibitors displayed considerable eagerness to book "The Great Ziegfeld," which will play the Metro first.

Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Littlest Rebel," starring Shirley Temple, played day and date in three first runs and drew large crowds. The formation of a Shirley Temple Club helped considerably.

Warners' "Pasteur" started rather slowly, but built rapidly and gives every promise of outstanding grosses. "The Green Pastures" was banned by the censor because of its treatment of a Biblical story.

Columbia has not arranged distribution of its product yet, since Bela Keleti, who handled Columbia product in Hungary last year, has not taken it this season.

Booking Contract Written

The Gero Circuit, largest Hungarian group, has formed Unitas Distributing Co., Ltd., to handle United Artists and London Films product this season. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is the first release.

In view of the inability of the organized distributors and exhibitor units to agree on a new standard exhibition contract, local branches of American firms have decided to formulate their own contract, booking their product in accordance with it.

The first six weeks of operation under the Governmental edict of last summer which prohibits subsequent run houses from showing more than one feature on a program has proved the new policy an advantage to theatre operators. At the time of its proposal, the order brought a storm of protest from theatremen, who argued that the public had become accustomed to double features and would not patronize single bill houses.

The edict also permits only four performances on weekdays and five on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, and fixes the prices of admission, making the price at de luxe houses considerably higher than at subsequents. The restrictions on first runs' various types of "bargain" prices have resulted in a considerable portion of their normal patronage finding its way to the neighborhood theatres.

Single Bills Satisfy

The requirement that subsequents may show a program running only 3,400 meters maximum in total length enables them to save money on operating cost. The initial fear of exhibitors that the public would not be content with single bills has proved unjustified. The edict has increased considerably the market for short subjects, of which American companies supply almost the entire number.

Two new Hungarian-made films were released here recently, "Sargo Csiko" ("The Yellow Colt") and "200 Pengo Fix" ("200 Pengoes a Month"). Both are having fair success.

It is expected that 15 to 20 features will be produced in this country this season. Very few German films will be released in this market this season. Three years ago German product virtually dominated the country's release schedules.

Says British Unions Watch "Combines"

London, Sept. 17.—T. O'Brien, secretary of the National Ass'n. of Theatrical Employes, stated on his return from the Trade Union Congress at Plymouth that the delegates were watching "certain commercial developments with combines in this country," and the T. U. C. would, if necessary, be prepared to make representations in the right quarter to "insure the protection of the British film industry and also the labor employed in it."

Radio Is Enjoined

London, Sept. 16.—An interim injunction was granted by Justice Lewis in the Vacation Court today restraining Radio from showing "Wings Over Africa" under that title. The plaintiff, Frederick Roy Tuckett, claimed he made a picture with the title for Imperial Airways in 1933.

"Deeds" Hitting Records

London, Sept. 17.—"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," at the Regal, Marble Arch, has beaten all records for the house since "The Singin' Fool." Booked for four weeks, it started a fifth with packed houses still the rule.

"Pastures" Is Seen By Lady Tweedsmuir

Toronto, Sept. 27.—Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of Canada's Governor-General, has placed the stamp of viceregal approval on "The Green Pastures" by personal attendance. During the official tour of Western Canada by Their Excellencies, she, accompanied by an official retinue, attended a showing of the picture at the Palace in Calgary, Alberta, as the guest of Manager P. D. Egan.

She expressed a personal desire to see the much-discussed feature and the official program of entertainment for the stay in Calgary was changed so that the party could attend.

Joins B. F. Shearer

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—Frank Harris, city salesman for Columbia here, has resigned to join B. F. Shearer's theatrical supply company as a salesman.

Dividends Reach 12%

London, Sept. 16.—A final dividend of three per cent on the participating preferred shares of General Theatres Corp., Ltd., controlled and managed by Gaumont British, brings the distribution for the year to 12 per cent. No dividend was paid last year.

Houses Fight Holland Plan To Raise Tax

By PHILIP de SCHAAP

Amsterdam, Sept. 15.—Exhibitors in Haarlem, one of the larger cities in Holland, with a population of 130,000, and with five film theatres, are protesting vigorously against the proposed increase in the city admission tax from 20 to 25 per cent.

The admission tax is common to all Dutch towns, and affects all types of amusement. In general the tax ranges between 15 and 20 per cent. The planned increase in Haarlem is designed to hit only film houses, the municipal authorities having expressed the belief that the theatres are well able to stand the increase. The protest, on behalf of the Haarlem houses, was directed by the Dutch M. P. Federation, and pointed out that an increase in the tax would force the closing of the local theatres.

Increase May Close Theatres

The trade throughout the country is watching the progress of the Haarlem problem closely, since an important precedent would be set for other municipalities if the Haarlem authorities are successful in imposing the increase. The Federation threatened that the Haarlem theatres will close, if the increase is affected, until the rate is reduced.

A similar increase some years ago in several other towns resulted in the closing of all houses affected until the rate was dropped to 15 per cent. In 1935 Haarlem's tax revenue amounted to 102,000 florin.

The lack of Dutch laws to punish individuals who create disturbances at film houses was indicated when Fascist elements demonstrated at theatres showing the French picture, "La Kermesse Heroique." When the individuals were brought into court, the judge was compelled to invoke an old statute relative to the punishment of offenders who create disturbances in coffee-houses.

New laws are being prepared to cover film houses in such situations.

Paramount is considering the possibility of shipping film to Australia from New York via the Dutch East Indies. As an experiment, a letter was sent from New York to Amsterdam on the Hindenburg, and forwarded by air mail to Australia via Singapore. It is anticipated that film could be delivered in Australia in two weeks, faster than the time by the Pacific route.

Kuykendall Is For Watch on Broadcasting

consider each separate proposal for radio appearance on its merits, exercising reasonable judgment and at least a grain of sense as to the adaptability of the stars' talents to radio broadcasting, the frequency of their appearance, what sort of a radio program they are to appear on, what staging, material, rehearsal, direction, musical setting, supporting cast and publicity will be provided, and what possible interference with the release of the stars' current pictures is involved."

The bulletin offers the opinion that reasonable regulation of the stars' radio appearances may be sufficient to offset what is believed to be the injurious effect of Hollywood broadcasting on star name values, on story values and the box-office.

In a lengthy discussion of the double feature problem, the M.P.T.O.A. bulletin, after citing the spread and increasing dangers of the policy, cites as a possible solution the recent regulatory action taken by the city exhibitor organization of Akron, O. An agreement to play only selected outstanding features on single bookings was adopted by the organization.

Asks Elimination of Duals

The bulletin suggests that, while "nobody wants to deny double feature bookings to cities where the majority of exhibitors honestly feel that their own public prefers that sort of a show," exhibitors, even in such territories, might find it profitable to "make a play for those who dislike double features by paying for and shelving the weak picture and running singles all or most of the time."

"It would not increase his feature film rental," the bulletin points out, "and, with any reasonable booking judgment, the theatre should build up a reputation for always having a good show."

The M.P.T.O.A. commentator ascribes the spread of double featuring to " 'free and unrestrained' cut-rate competition by shoe-string exhibitors . . . the influence of which has seeped up through the intermediate runs to the first run theatres."

Sees 10-Point Plan Progress

The bulletin relates that M.P.T.O.A. has been informed "that steady progress is being made by at least some of the distributors towards working out in their own companies the M.P.T.O.A.'s 10 proposals to remedy specific abuses in commercial practices," and adds that "we hope this is true." The bulletin declares that distributors' decisions on the program will be had "very soon."

Kuykendall is expected here late this week for what are described as his final conferences with sales heads on their acceptance or rejection of the program, with action expected some time next week.

The bulletin urges local and state organizations to prepare for "alert and effective defense of their business against unfair and destructive attacks" which it says may be expected when Congress and many state legislatures convene again within a few months. The current Allied States legislative campaign to bring about the divorce of theatre operation from producer and distributor ownership is attacked as a "reckless campaign" of "dubious legality" and "which shows an utter lack of any sense of responsibility on the part of those making such demands."

May Convene in Miami

A national convention of M.P.T.O.A. is being urged by directors of the organization for Miami next winter. The organization's current bulletin to its members solicits opinions on the recommendation and urges those who plan a Florida trip to keep the proposal in mind.

The M.P.T.O.A. did not hold a national convention last year. A meeting of its board of directors was held at Miami last March, however.

Herbert a Mayor

Los Angeles, Sept. 27.—Hugh Herbert is the latest film mayor. He's chief executive of Studio City, that spot of land on the Ventura Blvd. in the San Fernando Valley.

He also says he intends to name himself tax collector and treasurer, an idea that Mayor Al Jolson of Encino and Mayor Richard Arlen of Toluca Lake haven't tried as yet.

Ohio Scales Are Raised

Cleveland, Sept. 27.—All theatres located in Lorain County raised admissions five cents starting today. The houses affected are the Capitol, Elyria; Ohio, Palace and Tivoli, Lorain, and the Apollo, Oberlin. The Capitol, Elyria; Ohio, Lorain; Palace, Lorain and Apollo, Oberline, went from 30 to 35 cents.

tures are available. When better attractions finally come around to smaller theatres their value has been diminished to the point where they are in the same category with lesser pictures.

Rinzler also holds that de luxe Broadway units do not have to play the weak pictures, but smaller houses have to take them all, good or bad. His partner, Louis Frisch, has been complaining about business for the past few weeks, and although he had hoped Labor Day would be the turning point, he declares this was not the case.

Consolidated Amusements also has been feeling the effects of protracted playing time and in practically all of its theatres one or two days a week are set aside for revivals.

Clearance a Problem

Clearance, which in some instances is seven days after downtown prior runs, is another factor holding up neighborhoods from obtaining product. In some cities pictures do not clear in less than 30 days after key runs.

Although he can assign no reason, Harry Brandt, operating 64 theatres in Greater New York, says his business is 33 1/3 per cent off in comparison with last September's receipts. Now that Labor Day is over, he says the first runs on Broadway also are beginning to feel the slump.

Walter Reade declared his first run theatres are doing very well. In most of his towns he plays day-and-date with Broadway. He said he did not know how business shaped up in the neighborhoods.

Scoville, Howard Reif, August Ilg of Lorain, Sam Lind of Zanesville, and Bill and Ed Biggio of Steubenville.

Majors Deny Financing of Stage Plays

scene for the first time this season. The guild admits that it has no definite evidence that its suspicions are correct, but declares that the size of the bankrolls in evidence and the mystery surrounding their source incline them to the belief that Hollywood may be behind some of the newly appeared financing agents.

Film company officials are as emphatic in denying this phase of the guild's suspicions as they are in asserting that none of their respective companies' money will bring out a new play while the present minimum basic agreement is in force. Their withdrawal from the managerial scene, however, will not influence their bidding for the film rights to any play which they regard as good film material, it was said. They will continue this activity without abatement.

One M-G-M official, in explaining that company's stand, pointed out that there were fewer than 30 genuinely successful plays on Broadway last season, as compared with 74 outright failures. M-G-M, he said, was financially interested in five of the better plays rated as "successes," yet realized an appreciable profit on only one of the five, "First Lady."

Calls Theatrical Profit Small

"It is apparent," he said, "that the financial returns from the stage, insofar as the manager is concerned, are negligible in any season. Vastly more money is poured into the legitimate theatre than is ever taken out of it. In this situation the playwright inevitably makes a profit, regardless of how the manager comes out. Yet the new minimum basic agreement tends to increase the managers' hazards and does minimize his chances of financial return. The manager's participation is reduced by 10 per cent, he is deprived of his rights to the play after 10 years and in other ways, particularly if the manager happens to be a film company, he is handicapped in his negotiations for the film rights. Moreover, there is no assurance that new handicaps will not be placed upon him in the future."

All of the film men interviewed attributed the appearance of new money for Broadway to Wall St. interests, which, they said, had grown flush anew.

Glass on "Hats Off"

Hollywood, Sept. 27.—Gaston Glass has been signed by Boris Petroff as production manager for "Hats Off," first of four musicals for Grand National. In the same unit, Ellis Carter has been made first assistant to Cameraman Harry Newman, Danny Hall is doing the sets and Lon Anthony is designing costumes.

OF THE THRILL-PACKED NOVEL BY FRANCIS WALLAC

"Night" with Show $16,000 Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—The stage combination of Eleanor Holm Jarrett, Art Jarrett and Leo Carrillo, plus top-notch notices for "Star for a Night," put the Earle out front with a $16,000 gross, topping average by $4,000.

Next in line was $17,000 grossed by "The Great Ziegfeld" in the first week of its popular priced run at the Stanley. Because of the feature's length, only five shows a day were permissible and under these conditions the figure is topnotch.

Other attractions were mainly holdovers and second runs. Without the support of a stage show, "Road to Glory" dwindled to $11,000 for its second week at the Fox. "Gorgeous Hussy" kept up to scratch with $12,000 for its last six days at the Boyd. For its fourth week, "Romeo and Juliet" took $10,000.

Rain and hot weather joined to make most of the week hazardous from the standpoint of climate. The legitimate season opened at the Erlanger also, but didn't dent the proceeds very much. Biggest competition was offered by the Louis-Ettore fight on Tuesday night, which drew an attendance of 50,000 and kept thousands more home at radios.

Total first run business was $88,100. Average, less the "Romeo and Juliet" (roadshow) gross, is $77,960.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 24:

"GIVE ME YOUR HEART" (W.B.)
ALDINE—(1,300), 40c-55c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $7,500. (Average, $8,160)

"SECOND WIFE" (Radio)
ARCADIA—(600), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average, $2,800)

"GORGEOUS HUSSY" (M-G-M)
BOYD—(2,400), 40c-55c, 6 days, 2nd week. Gross: $12,000. (Average, 7 days, $14,000)

"ROMEO AND JULIET" (M-G-M)

Hollywood, Sept. 27. — Sylvan Simon, formerly test director at Warners, has been signed by Universal to act as talent scout and direct tests. Simon will also serve as general assistant to Rufus Lemaire.

Must Like Them

Kansas City, Sept. 27.—The world isn't so bad after all, reflects Landon Laird, film critic for the Kansas City Star.

"A gentleman on South Troost Ave. testifies he saw 23 films last week, and offers proof," Laird commented in 'About Town,' his daily column. "And we sometimes wolf at having to look at eight features every seven days!"

"Crowd" a Big Boston Draw; Gets $20,000

Boston, Sept. 27. — "Two in a Crowd" was something of a sensation at the RKO Boston with a gross of $20,000, which was $9,000 over normal in a cloudy and rainy week.

"The Gorgeous Hussy" made an excellent second week showing at Loew's Orpheum with $15,000, up by $3,000, but failed to pull strongly in its holdover at Loew's State where the $11,000 take was just average.

"Three Married Men" and "The General Died at Dawn" was $1,000 up on a $5,500 take at the Fenway and $2,500 to the good on a $9,500 gross at the Paramount. "Romeo and Juliet" took $8,500 at the Colonial.

Total first run business, including "Romeo and Juliet," was $95,000. Average is $88,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 24:

Couldn't Fool 'Em

Hamilton, Sept. 27.—The Palace, playing a western on Sunday, was holding 'em out for the matinee. A score of youngsters had spent the afternoon in the theatre. To make room for the standees, a slide was flashed asking the youngsters who had seen the picture to come into the lobby and receive a bag of candy.

There was a wild scramble for the exits. The candy was presented, and then followed another wild scramble back into the auditorium, which the doorman and others were powerless to prevent.

"Adverse" $16,000 Cincinnati Leader

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27. — "Anthony Adverse" was last week's best box-office bet. It grossed $16,000 at the RKO Shubert at a 40c and 60c scale, compared with a $12,000 average at regular admissions of 35c and 55c at this house. The picture went into a second week.

"Stage Struck" raised the RKO Palace figure by $2,000 on a $12,000 take, and "My Man Godfrey" was $100 over the top at Keith's, where it did $6,600 for its second downtown week. It was shifted to the RKO Grand for the third stanza.

Cooler weather helped theatres. The few remaining outdoor attractions provided the bulk of the competition.

Total first run business was $58,600. Average is $58,700.

Buying Groups Gain as Fall Season Starts

More Active Than Usual; Distributors Watch

The annual outcropping of booking combines has made no exception of the current selling season, home office sales executives reported yesterday. An increase in the number of buying groups has occurred in many sections of the country and distributors are faced with wholesale demands for concessions in playing terms in one form or another from the many organized buying units.

The greater number of percentage deals and generally higher terms being sought by sales organizations this season is believed to be responsible in part for the upspringing of some of the new buying combines, although the persuasiveness of organizers is able to account for many of them in any new selling season, distributors believe.

Treatment of the new buying organizations presents distributors with a delicate problem. Old, established

Report Elleness in An Expansion Move

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—It is reported here that the Elleness circuit, formed some months ago by Ike Libson, Cincinnati, and George Skirboll, Cleveland, is negotiating for the Semmelroth chain at Dayton, composed of the Federation, Peoples, Riverdale, Sigma and Wayne, Dayton neighborhoods, and the Ohio, at Franklin.

From the same source it is learned that the Chesborough interests also are figuring on these six houses. The Chesborough circuit controls seven houses in Columbus and three in Dayton, all neighborhood or suburban. Headquarters are in Columbus.

13 Towns in Pa. Set Vote on Sunday Show

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28.—Thirteen municipalities in Pennsylvania will vote in November on Sunday films. The balloting will be conducted under the terms of the 1935 state law, permitting communities to exercise local option on continuation of the blue laws which date back to 1794. Last year more than 120 municipalities voted, about half deciding for Sunday shows.

RKO to Keep Spain Offices—Reisman

RKO has no intention of giving up its office in Spain, Phil Reisman, head of the foreign department for the company, stated upon his arrival yesterday on the Normandie after more than two months abroad. He said he did not visit Spain on this trip.

There are no changes in the RKO setup abroad, both regarding production and distribution, he said. Reisman added business was better in the countries he visited than last year, but could not give figures.

Also on the same liner were many writers and actors and actresses. The literary lineup included Francis Martin, who spent a two-month vacation visiting England, Holland, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland and France, and who will leave by plane tonight for the Paramount studios; Monckton Hoffe, English writer headed for the M-G-M studios; Aben Kandel, who did the script on "Thunder in the City," enroute to Columbia studios; Irving Caesar, who has just finished a Felix Ferry show, "Transatlantic Rhythm," in England and has

U. A. to Distribute Six Argentine Films

By N. BRUSKI

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 21.—A contract has been closed here providing for the distribution by United Artists in Argentina and abroad of six films to be produced by Portena Films, new Argentina company, headed by Adolfo Z. Wilson. The six will be delivered at the rate of one every two months to July 1 next. United Artists also has an option on an additional six pictures.

The first of the six will be "Mustafa," an old and popular play which has been produced many times on the stage here. It will be directed by Armando Discepolo, one of the authors of the play. Portena has enlarged its studio and plans the production of ten pictures up to next July, including the six for

"Romeo", in Sixth Week, Gets $17,253

"Romeo and Juliet" continues strong at the Astor, garnering $17,253 for the sixth week of the extended run.

The Roxy is expected to wind up the third week of "Sing, Baby, Sing" on Thursday night with approximately $37,000.

Attendance for the first five days of "Dodsworth" totaled 58,250, according to United Artists, which stated the patronage is running second to that of "Modern Times." The picture will start its second week tomorrow.

Shaw in "Muddle"

George Bernard Shaw, interviewed at his country home at Ayot St. Lawrence, to the extent of approximately one column and a half in The New York Times, stands by his original charge of Catholic censorship of the script of the planned film of his play, "St. Joan," but virtually clarified the entire situation when he declared:

"The whole thing is a muddle. I am in a muddle still."

Surprises Promised For Rodgers Dinner

Many surprises are promised by the committee at the testimonial dinner for William F. Rodgers, general sales manager for M-G-M, at the Waldorf tonight. The affair will be held in the grand ballroom with Howard Dietz as toastmaster.

On the dais will be Nicholas M. and Joseph M. Schenck, David M. Bernstein, Al Lichtman, Hal Roach, J. Robert Rubin, Merlin H. Aylesworth, Barney Balaban, Jules Brulatour, J. Cheever Cowdin, Dietz, Ned E. Depinet, George J. Schaefer,

Academy Names Its Board of Governors

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—The members of the Academy board of governors were named today following a tabulation of ballots from the organization's five branches. They are: actors—Lionel Atwill, Clark Gable and De Witt C. Jennings; directors—Frank Capra, Cecil B. DeMille and Frank Lloyd; writers—Graham Baker, Edwin Burke and Waldemar Young; producers — Samuel Briskin, David O. Selznick and Darryl F. Zanuck; technicians — John Arnold, Nathan Levinson and Van Nest Polglase.

The board will take office immediately. The annual election of officers will be held in October.

Spitz to Coast on Berman's Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—Leo Spitz, president of RKO, is due here shortly from New York and, among other scheduled business, will discuss a new contract with Pandro S. Berman, executive producer at Radio, whose current contract expires in April.

Reports that he would join M-G-M today were dismissed by Berman, who said he "knew nothing at all about them."

Warners Seen Planning New Radio Circuit

Transcontinental Said to Be the Nucleus

Warners are seriously contemplating the formation of a new national broadcasting chain, using as the nucleus and perhaps retaining as its title the Transcontinental Radio System, it is understood.

Transcontinental is being developed, in turn, by John Clark, former general manager of Station WLW, Cincinnati. The move on the part of the Warner organization is reportedly being given considerable impetus through personal activities along such lines by Harry M. Warner, although an official spokesman for his company yesterday stated he had heard nothing of such a scheme.

Some months ago, it was reported from Hollywood that Warners were active in developing plans for a new national chain, but, following the original rumor, came no subsequent developments. It is not at all improbable that no statements heralding the projected plan will be made, at least until sufficient outlets have been lined up to bring the objective into sight.

Joseph Pollak Takes Turn for the Worse

BUDAPEST, Sept. 28.—Joseph Pollak, former president of National Screen Service of New York, is suffering from internal bleeding and his condition has again taken a turn for the worse at the Jaanos Sanitorium here. Pollak was found along the right of way of the Orient Express about 20 miles from here on the run between Budapest and Belgrade several weeks ago under mysterious circumstances.

First reports indicated that he had been attacked and pushed off the speeding limited, but farther checkup indicates he was taken ill, had gone to the lavatory where he missed the door, but opened an exit door instead and thus fell out.

Sheldon Quits Para.; Will Join Selznick

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—E. Lloyd Sheldon has resigned his Paramount producer post after 15 years with the company and will join Selznick in the same capacity on Nov. 1.

Sheldon's first Selznick assignment will be "Man with Young Wife," starring Edward Arnold.

Colombia Prohibits Posters in English

Posters in English have been banned in Colombia, South America and exhibitors or distributors posting advertising other than in Spanish will be fined 50 pesos, it was stated at one of the major distributor headquarters recently.

As a result of the Government order, all major companies are withdrawing advertising and accessories printed in English and substituting material in the Latin tongue.

New M-G-M Studio Unit

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 28.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, Inc., was incorporated here today with a capitalization of $50,000 under articles giving the new corporation general rights. Christina Shultz, Amy Whittington and Berna Doty, all of Los Angeles, were listed as directors.

Members of the M-G-M home office legal department said the identity and purpose of the new incorporation was unknown to them, but assumed that it was a routine studio enterprise.

FWC Managers Shift After a Promotion

Los Angeles, Sept. 28.—Following the promotion of Louis B. Christ to F. W. C. district manager, a number of managerial changes have been made.

Edward Penn replaces Christ as manager of the Arlington in Santa Barbara. Penn, formerly manager of the Redlands, at Redlands, is succeeded by Ernest Martin, who was transferred from the Embassy here and has been replaced by William R. Roberts, formerly of the Carlton. The Carlton now is managed by Charles Mann.

James Brinton has replaced Jim Runte as manager of the Strand in Pasadena, and Runte takes over the Rialto in South Pasadena, replacing James Finkler, resigned. William Prass is taking over the Lyric in Monrovia, formerly handled by James Brinton. J. S. Nelson replaces Charles Price as manager of the Parisian, recently acquired from the Chotiner estate. J. E. Poynter replaces Ray Deane, resigned, at the Rivoli in Van Nuys. Robert Armstrong has taken over the West Coast in San Bernardino from W. T. Cunningham, resigned. C. E. Browne has succeeded M. F. Williams, resigned, at the Padre in San Jose.

No Ascap Election Held

A monthly meeting of the Ascap board was held yesterday. E. C. Mills, general manager, said that no election was held and that the meeting was of no news interest. The election to the board of Ed Morris, representing Warner music subsidiaries, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation last winter of Herman Starr, had been expected to occur at the meeting held yesterday.

Meyer on Coast Trip

Fred Meyer leaves for the coast Thursday on his first personal tour of inspection of RKO theatres which he has been booking for years. Among points to be visited in his six weeks' trip will be Denver, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Mrs. Meyer will accompany him.

"Dodsworth" Hits Record

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—"Dodsworth" broke all records for the first five days at the Aldine, according to the manager, Harry S. Torrante. The turnaway benefited other houses, he says, and a second and possible third week are assured.

Will Honor Streimer

Moe Streimer, U. A. home office sales representative, will be tendered a testimonial dinner by the Monday Knighters on Oct. 30. It will be held at the Astor and limited to the membership of the local exhibitor and branch managers' organization.

Plan Charity Matinee

St. Louis, Sept. 28. — Numerous local houses on Oct. 10 will conduct toy and clothing matinees for the benefit of the Child Conservation Conference and the Board of Religious Organizations, according to Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M. P. T. O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

Give 'Em a Chance

Pittsburgh, Sept. 28.—The Fulton, in announcing its holdover of "My Man Godfrey" for a fourth week, had the following copy in the dailies:

"To the 82,750 Pittsburgh people who have already seen 'My Man Godfrey': Having you return to see this great comedy several times is greatly appreciated, and, we know that the more you see it the better you like it, but it is only fair to give others, who have not seen it, a chance to occupy a seat."

The picture broke the house all-time attendance mark last week.

Film Series Starts In Investment News

A series of articles on the film industry and its principal companies has been started in the New York Investment News. The first, by E. L. Mills, says films are of better quality and financial policies are on a better footing.

The peak of topheavy capitalization seems to have been passed, the writer says.

The second article will discuss Loew's and Warners.

Win Warner Sales Drive

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The Warner Theatres' 17-week summer drive for extra business was won by Herb Wheeler's team, consisting of the Stratford, Highland, Avalon, Orpheum, and Paramount. The individual winners were M. Connors of the Grove, E. H. Arkin of the Lexington and S. Lambert of the Shore who won $125, $50, and $25, respectively. The awards were made at the outing and dinner held tonight at the Ravislow Country Club for the managers.

Arthur M. Loew Married

Arthur M. Loew, vice-president in charge of foreign activities for M-G-M, has been married to Melisa Schmitt, his former secretary, it was revealed yesterday. Now in Canada with his wife on a survey of exhibition and production, Loew will sail on the Empress of Britain on Oct. 10.

Sothern-Pryor Wedding Held

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Ann Sothern and Roger Pryor were married at 12:01 yesterday morning. Their three-day notice of intention became legal at that time.

To Celebrate 25th Year

Worcester, Sept. 28.—Loew's Elm Street will celebrate its 25th anniversary the week of Oct. 2, with a special campaign and "Dodsworth" as the attraction.

Seek Examination in Suit Over Airplane

An application for examination before trial was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court by W. Stewart Smith, president of the International Flight Corp., yesterday in connection with a suit for $100,000 alleging breach of contract against Movietone News, Inc., and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Smith, in his affidavit, stated that the suit arose over an oral agreement under which the defendants chartered an airplane to meet the Washington at sea and pick up film showing the assassination of King Alexander of Jugoslavia. The complaint charges that the defendant failed to return the airplane. The defendant had planned to pick up the film from the ship at sea with a grappling hook. The defendants have denied the charges. The plane crashed.

No Lasky-Para. Deal

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Jesse L. Lasky today declared he knows nothing of reports, published in New York, that he would rejoin Paramount.

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, viewed reports about Jesse L. Lasky yesterday as "news to me and also, if discussed, something which had developed since Adolph Zukor returned to the coast a few days ago."

Rites for Macfarland

Funeral services for Hood Macfarland, former city editor of the Herald-Tribune, American and other New York papers, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock from the Funeral Church, Broadway and 66th St.

Macfarland was the father of James Hood Macfarland of the Music Hall publicity department. He died Saturday.

Mrs. Harry Cohn Back

Harry Cohn, president of Columbia, is due from the coast tomorrow by air. Mrs. Cohn returned yesterday with her two nieces on the Normandie after spending three months visiting Italy, France, Switzerland and England. The wife of the Columbia head said yesterday she planned to remain in town about a week.

Mrs. Markham Signed

London, Sept. 28.—Jack Cohn, while en route here on the Queen Mary, signed Beryl Markham to make a British picture for Columbia.

Gillham, Pine Coming

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Robert Gillham took the air route for New York today. The Paramount advertising and publicity head is accompanied by William Pine.

McCarthy, Clark West

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—J. J. McCarthy arrived here today accompanied by Kenneth Clark, who will fill the Hays organization press relations post while Tom Pettey vacations.

May Go West Today

Joseph M. Schenck may leave for Hollywood today by train. Following his discharge from Mt. Sinai Hospital he has been resting at the home of his brother, Nicholas M., at Great Neck.

Buying Groups Gain as Fall Season Starts

groups with which past dealings have been on a fair and reasonable basis are treated as valued customers and are being dealt with this season exactly as in any other. However, the distributors are usually wary of dealing with the new or little known organizations.

One sales executive pointed out that buying groups of the mushroom variety spring up on the promise of their organizers to obtain valuable concessions for the exhibitors who join in the buying combine. The initial membership is used to obtain whatever modification in playing terms a distributor is willing to make; the concession is used to obtain additional membership and each increase in the strength of the group becomes a wedge for new demands, it was said. The distributor frequently finds himself in an unenviable position once he has elected to sell an unknown buying combine, yet failure to do so may be equally unwise in the event the new group develops any appreciable strength or effectiveness at a later date, sales executives point out.

New season sales plans and terms inevitably are followed by the formation of new buying groups and increases in the membership of those already in existence, distributors assert. Industry records for many seasons past appear to bear them out.

U. A. to Distribute Six Argentine Films

U. A. The remaining four will be for domestic release.

* * *

During August, which is the height of the film season in Argentina, 41 features were shown in this city, of which 32 were American, seven European and two domestic.

* * *

Differences between Juan A. Bracamonte and Senator Matias Sanchez Sorondo have lead to the cancellation of the former's recent appointment as honorary technical director of the Argentine M. P. Institute. The strained relations between Bracamonte and Sorondo, who was to have collaborated in the organization of the Institute, apparently was the cause of the termination of the appointment.

Miss Larrimore Signed

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28. — Francine Larrimore, who was under personal contract to Irving Thalberg, today asked and secured her release from M-G-M and was signed by B. P. Schulberg for a role in "A Man and a Woman."

MacDonald, Jones Cast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28. — Jeanette MacDonald and Allan Jones have been assigned by M-G-M to roles in "The Firefly," the Friml musical romance. The players were paired in "Rose Marie."

The 13 communities to vote are: Verona, Sykesville, Lackawaxen, St. Clair, Port Carbon, Benson, Burgettstown, Centerville, McDonald, Finleyville, Cecil, Export and Sutersville. Fourteen statewide church and civic organizations have served notice that they will conduct an aggressive campaign to defeat Sunday films.

Loew House in K. C. Gets Columbia Films

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28.—Loew's Midland will play Columbia product this year in addition to its regular lineup of United Artists and M-G-M. The Tower had Columbia last year and the year before. The product was slated for the first run operating pool managed here by Fox Midwest, but this week was shifted to Loew's.

Immediately the shift was learned the report arose that the Midland would double bill. Even if the house should adopt such a policy, it probably would not be put into effect until later in the year.

Greenberg New Manager

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 28. — Fred Greenberg succeeds Oscar Kueschner, Warner branch manager here. Greenberg has been with Warner's sales division since 1932. Earlier he operated and owned a circuit in St. Joseph, Mo., and was one of the first exhibitors to install sound equipment.

Kueschner is now in the theatre department at Pittsburgh.

Shift Tri-States Men

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Sept. 28. — By order of District Manager E. R. Cummings of Tri-States, Warren Butler and Harold McKenna, managers of the Rialto and Granada, respectively, have traded jobs.

Gets Bernstein Post

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 28.—Edward Dolan has been named assistant manager at the College here, replacing Robert Bernstein, who resigned to return to Harvard.

RKO to Keep Spain Offices—Reisman

returned for the opening of "White Horse Inn" at the Center on Thursday night; Len Hall and his wife, Alice Hughes, New York American writer; P. G. Wodehouse, who will leave for the coast Thursday to start writing a musical for a Sam Katz unit, after which M-G-M has two options, one for three months and a second for six months. Arthur Brisbane also was on board.

The Earl of Warwick, who has been signed by M-G-M as an actor under a year's pact, said he would leave in about a week or so for Hollywood. Frank Orsatti returned from his honeymoon, Robert Woolsey got back from a seven-week pleasure trip and plans to leave for the RKO studios in about a week. He said his next picture with Bert Wheeler will be "Pair of Sixes." A second will complete the lineup for the company this year.

Ethel Merman's father and mother were on the boat. Ed Sullivan, Bob Ripley, Ina Claire and Ray Henderson were among the other passengers.

Houses in Lincoln In Promotion Tieup

LINCOLN, NEB., Sept. 28.—A two sided promotional deal is being fostered by the Lincoln and Stuart here with the cooperation of the Sunday Journal and Star. It is a film question box plan wherein queries dropped in a lobby question receptacle are answered the following Sunday on the theatre page of the newspaper.

Ballyhooing the stunt, the theatres are both spotting trailers on the screen asking patrons to participate and the Sunday Journal and Star is given considerable publicity. It is designed to revive lagging interest in film stars, promote closer newspaper-theatre relations, and to concentrate interest on the theatre page.

Goldwyn Eyes "Othello"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28. — Samuel Goldwyn is making tentative plans for the filming of "Othello" if Walter Huston's stage production proves as big a success as anticipated. Huston leaves here Oct. 27 for Chicago where he will be the guest of Dr. Lloyd Davis for a few days before going to New York to start rehearsals for "Othello" which opens during December. Goldwyn will star Huston, if plans go through.

Paramount Sets 2 Titles

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—Paramount has chosen "Happiness Preferred" as the title for the forthcoming Emanuel Cohen production starring Warren William. The title of the Richard Rowland picture formerly called "Love and Laughter" has been changed. It is now "Along Came Love."

Nolan in "Souls at Sea"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—Lloyd Nolan has been set for a featured role in "Souls at Sea," next Gary Cooper picture on the Paramount schedule. Henry Hathaway will direct and production is scheduled to start within a month.

Rains Cheer Kansas And Business Gains

Kansas City, Sept. 28.—Robert F. Withers, exchange manager for Republic-Midwest, found prospects good in Kansas on his return from a trip through the state this week.

General rains the past several weeks have brought a belated green to the plains and prepared an excellent seed bed for the planting of winter wheat, Withers reports. Exhibitors are cheered. Business is not booming, but the state is rapidly convalescing from the worst drought in its history. Most exhibitors reported to Withers that business now is going ahead of a year ago.

Name Dance Committees

Seattle, Sept. 28.—Appointment of committees to stage the annual Movie Ball here Oct. 16, in conjunction with the 1936 M.P.T.O. convention, have been made as follows:

Robs Chicago House

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A holdup man robbed the State-Lake here of $2,000 while the show was on. Forcing Samuel Levin, assistant manager and Thomas Montgomery, colored porter, to lie on the floor, the robber took the money from the safe, bound the men with shoestrings which he carried, and fled after warning the men to lie still.

St. Louis Concern to Keep Downtown Spot

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—The St. Louis Amusement Co. and not F. & M. is operating the St. Louis, second run downtown theatre. Just prior to the reopening of the house recently, F. & M. turned it over to the St. Louis Amusement Co., of which Leto Hill is supervisor. The stage shows are being booked by F. & M.

Jack Partington and Paul Ash will arrive early tomorrow morning by plane from New York to reinstate presentations at the Ambassador, starting Oct. 2.

Republic Starts School

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Republic has organized a stock school for young contract players under the direction of Ned Dobson, studio talent scout. Twenty contractees will present plays weekly on a specially built stage for the benefit of executives. The players will also be used for supporting roles in pictures.

Mrs. Lillian Burns has been signed as dramatatic coach. Contracts have been signed with Marc Kramer, Mary Russell, Christine Maple and Grace Durkin. Twenty more junior players are being sought to build Republic's list of youngsters.

Short Subjects

Louis-Ettore Fight

(Super Sports Attractions)

They are very well done, but there is very little of a compelling nature about these pictures. The bout was not a major one. Fight fans will have much to mull over and comment upon. However, toward the end of the match, in the fifth round, there is some of the most vivid slugging scenes yet to be recorded. The high standard recently set by the producers in cutting, editing and catching fine angle shots of the fight is still evident. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

'Washington In Virginia'

(Van Beuren-Radio)

With fine photography and a tastefully conceived running narrative, this short traces the life of Washington in his native state. From his birthplace near Wakefield, the camera moves to the landmarks of his early boyhood, continuing to take in William and Mary college, and the locations of his early work as a surveyor. These and many other clips are put together in excellent taste which reach a high calibre of instructive entertainment. Washington's career in the Revolution and in years following is traced by scenes of the places where he lived, worshipped and was entertained. A fine offering. Production Code Seal No. 01,134. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Little Swee' Pea"

(Paramount)

The infant member of the Popeye comic strip starts in this cartoon. Olive Oyl is doing her housework when Popeye calls. She persuades the sailor to take the baby out and visit the zoo. There the child leaves the carriage and invades the cages. Popeye goes to his aid. The animation and invention in the subject makes a delightful few minutes of hair-raising excitement. As strong and ferocious as the animals are, Popeye, with his reliable can of spinach, completely subdues them. It is a highly pleasing number. Production Code Seal No. 01,030. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Milk Parade"

(A. O. Bondy)

The preparation, distribution, bottling and processing of milk, from the cow to its early morning delivery in cities is illustrated in this reel which may be had gratis. Sponsored by the Milk Foundation, it shows the modern advances in the care taken to preserve the purity of the product, the chemical analysis at each stage and the particular attention that is given to the cleanliness of the distribution points. Lowell Thomas appears briefly at the beginning and carries on with the narrative. The interesting material makes it worth playing. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 27"

(Universal)

Items in this number include a Brooklyn woman who invented a clear vision umbrella, a home built in a redwood tree in California, an 84-year-old native of Union City, Tenn., who is an artist in wood with the hammer and chisel, a 74-door church on the site of an Iroquois massacre in up-state New York, a road bed of tin cans, a deserted railway depot in Nevada and a canine "newsy." The element of the title is present and makes a novel form of entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 01,169. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Vocalizing"

(Radio)

Edgar Kennedy works with an insane and wholly delightful story in this comedy. The audience, aside from witnessing Kennedy without the usual mother, brother-in-law business, will be pleased. The farce circulates around a singing and musically inclined friend of the family and the bevy of nitwits she leads Kennedy into when he accompanies her home. The ensuing complications give new light on Kennedy's comic abilities. There is plenty of novelty in the smartly devised situations. Good stuff with plenty of laughs. Production Code Seal No. 2,190. Running time, 20½ mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Milizia Territoriale" ("Territorial Militia")

(Nuovo Mondo)

Entertaining comedy for persons who understand Italian, this is not sufficiently outstanding in any respect to attract any who do not speak the language, especially in the absence of subtitles. It recounts the rather familiar story of the timid soul who revolts, asserts his latent strength and emerges to dominate his particular sphere.

The timid soul is a clerk in a large company and is thoroughly browbeaten by his superiors and other employes. But when the war comes he is called to command a camp, since he is an officer in the territorial militia. Immediately the situation is reversed. His employer comes to beg that he treat his son favorably, and the old maid sister treats him as a hero. He falls in love with a young widow, but cannot tell her of his feeling.

The war ends, he returns to his job, and the old order returns, until, when he is visited by the widow and is ordered about in her presence, he rebels, asserts himself, and plainly tells everyone what he thinks of him.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Il Cappello a Tre Punte" ("The Three-Cornered Hat")

(Nuovo Mondo)

A rather inconsequential, although amusing comedy in Italian, this production of the Cines Studios in Rome doubtless will be found entertaining by those who understand the language. For others, however, it has comparatively little to offer, since the comedy is for the most part built around dialogue, and there are no subtitle translations of dialogue to assist the patron lacking a knowledge of Italian.

Leda Gloria, in the lead, is attractive and highly capable, while in the opposite part is Peppino de Felippo, as her farmer husband. The story is set 100 or more years ago, and tells of the amusing complications which develop when the governor of the city falls in love with the pretty wife of the farmer, and arranges for his arrest so that he may be alone with her.

But accidents happen, the farmer escapes and the plan is frustrated after a series of incidents in which mistaken identity figures largely and the governor has to answer a number of questions asked by his wife.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 79 minutes. "G."

20th-Fox Gets New Sound

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Erpi equipment of the latest design will be used by Twentieth Century-Fox on all new units now nearing completion. The studio has signed contracts for the complete modernization of six truck recording channels and re-recording equipment. Delivery will mark the first installation in any studio, it is said.

F.&M. Forms Two Firms

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—Fanchon & Marco has organized two new subsidiaries, Cinema Publishing Co., for printing, publishing and advertising, and the Kurtzman Agency, Inc., for general advertising. Chief shareholder in both companies is Charles E. Kurtzman, with R. C. Wipfler and Joseph H. Grand holding the remainder.

Up Price in Terre Haute

Terre Haute, Sept. 28.—Admission prices at the Orpheum here were raised five cents when the house reopened. The new prices are 30 cents for evenings and 20 cents for matinee, as against 25 cents and 15 cents. The children's admission remains at 10 cents.

Variety Club

Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 28.—Oct. 10 is the date set for the local Variety Club dinner-dance that will mark the opening of the social season. S. A. Gerson is chairman of the committee. Dave Miller, Universal branch manager, is this year's chairman of the house committee.

Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Sept. 28.—Plans are being made for a Cincinnati Night here, when barkers from the Queen City and their wives will be guests of the Indianapolis tent in the tent's new home. It'll be some Saturday night in October and details will be worked out soon.

A series of Bingo parties will begin Oct. 3.

Johnnie Perkins, "ton of fun" stage comedian, and Rose Coyle, the Atlantic City beauty winner, were guests at a recent Saturday night soiree. They were in town with the Lyric's vaudeville bill. Perkins is a barker in the Pittsburgh tent.

Kansas City

Kansas City, Sept. 28.—Variety Club, now officially open for the fall season, has set aside Monday nights "for men only," when barkers try their skill with the pasteboards. On Saturday nights the barkers bring their friends and "get acquainted."

Omaha

Omaha, Sept. 28.—More than 100 persons were present for the seventh annual golf tournament and buffet luncheon held at the Field club by the Omaha Variety club. Walt Green of Fepco, Al Avery, RKO manager; Joe Scott, Twentieth Century-Fox manager, and M. G. Rogers, Film Transport were in charge.

Harold McIninch won the tourney, Scott being runnerup.

R. G. Olson, Universal; Rube Wagle, Twentieth Century-Fox booker, and Rogers, also won golfing prizes.

Joe Scott brought $14 when auctioned in the players' pool.

Bill Foley, Bill Miskell and Sol Francis won a big water fight.

Gus Harms, Harold Dunn and Guy Mills, Jr., engaged in a biggest stomach contest, young Mills winning.

A dinner at the club in the evening wound up the affair.

Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—A large representation from New York is expected to attend the annual golf tourney sponsored by The Philadelphia Exhibitor and Variety Club, Tent No. 13, Oct. 2 at Whitemarsh Country Club.

Among the contingent will be Harry M. Warner, Arthur Lee, George Weeks, Jack Alicoate, Don Mersereau. Harvey Day, Ted Sullivan, James Cron, Charles Mersereau, Floyd Stone, George Dembow and others.

Already 45 prizes have been received for distribution to the winning golfers ranging from a chest of silver and a radio to golf balls, bags, clocks, etc.

The afternoon's golfing will be followed by a dinner-dance in the evening.

"Hussy" Hits $24,600, Top Chicago Take

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—"The Gorgeous Hussy" was an outstanding hit at the United Artists with a take of $24,600, which passed normal by $9,600.

"The General Died at Dawn" also was in the big money with a gross of $18,300 at the Roosevelt, up by $7,300.

Business was good all along the line. "Swing Time," in its third week at the Palace, with a stage show, reached $23,000, over normal by $4,000. "They Met in a Taxi" was $3,200 to the good on a take of $18,200 at the Oriental.

"Hussy" at $9,000 New Haven's Best

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 28.—Following weak openings in a terrific rain storm, an excellent Saturday established the Poli lead on "The Gorgeous Hussy" in an otherwise average week, the gross hitting $2,000 above the usual $7,000 here. The picture was held at the College.

"Anthony Adverse" garnered an additional $4,600 in its repeat week at the Roger Sherman, $100 under the line. "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack" and "Second Wife," the College dual, nosed $200 ahead of the $2,800 par; while "Lady Be Careful" and "Hollywood Boulevard" dropped under the $4,800 Paramount average by the same amount. The pre-Broadway opening of Tallulah Bankhead in "Reflected Glory" at the Shubert cut into business to the extent of a $12,500 take in three days.

Total first run business was $21,200. Average is $19,300.

"Ziegfeld" $25,000 Smash, Providence

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 28.—Boosting its prices from the usual 15-40-cent scale to 30-55, Loew's State came through with a sensational $25,000 playing "The Great Ziegfeld." Thousands were turned away and the picture was held. The house average is $12,000 with lower prices.

All of the theatres in the downtown area soared over par. The Majestic caught $8,000, up by $1,000, with "The Road to Glory," and another $8,000 looked good to the RKO Albee where "Swing Time" played its second week. The usual Albee take is $7,000.

"I'd Give My Life" and "Three Married Men" were strong at the Strand, where they passed the usual $6,500 take by $1,000, and Fay's caught $7,100 with "Down the Stretch" and five acts of vaudeville.

Rainy weather practically all week helped business with the only competition coming from the closing of Narragansett track.

Total first run business was $55,600. Average is $39,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 24:

"I'D GIVE MY LIFE" (Para.)

"Piccadilly" Gets $3,100 at Lincoln

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 28.—"Piccadilly Jim" did the best business in the week at the Lincoln, $3,100, which was $900 over par.

"Stage Struck" was pulled at the end of six days at the Stuart with $2,400, $600 below average.

The Orpheum with Clyde Davis' orchestra on the stage with Ruby Hart, the Miss Nebraska at the Atlantic City beauty pageant, did well on the first half with "Two Against the World." The second half dual consisted of "Frankie and Johnny" and "Bunker Bean" and the week's gross was $2,400, $650 over par. The rest of the town was light to dull.

Total first run business was $10,000. Average is $9,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 23:

"KID RANGER" (Supreme)
"I'LL NAME THE MURDERER" (Puritan)
"DOWN TO THE SEA" (Republic)
LIBERTY—(1,200), 10c-15c, 7 days, last four a dual. Gross: $800. (Average, $850)

Week Ending Sept. 24:

"STAGE STRUCK" (W. B.)
STUART — (2,000), 10c-25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $2,400. (Average, 7 days, $3,100)

"Ziegfeld" at $18,400 Wins K.C. Pennant

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28. — "The Great Ziegfeld" topped first runs for a week with no outside competition and half warm, half cold weather, harvesting $18,400 at Loew's Midland. It was held.

"The Texas Rangers" upped the Mainstreet's $8,000 average $3,400, strong over the weekend but weakening somewhat in the weekday stretch. "Walking On Air" pushed the Tower over average with a take of $7,300. Normal is $6,500. This house still is showing at 25 cents straight, the summer price, but is expected to go to 25c-35c soon.

"My Man Godfrey" was $200 under $7,000 average at the Newman in its second week, while "Two in a Crowd" and "The Return of Sophie Lang" at the Uptown was pulled after taking $2,800, $100 under average, in five days.

Total first run business was $45,900. Average is $36,700. Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 23:

"TWO IN A CROWD" (Univ.)
"RETURN OF SOPHIE LANG" (Para.)
UPTOWN — (2,000), 25c-40c, 5 days. Gross: $2,800. (Average, 5 days, $2,900)

Maxwell Deal For G. B. Off, London Hears

Deadlock Said Caused by Schenck's Stand

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 29.—John Maxwell's deal for G.B., set on Sunday, today fell through, according to reports current here and believed to be authentic.

The result is a deadlocked situation precipitated further by the stand of Joseph M. Schenck that the Ostrers could not dispose of their holding in Metropolis and Bradford Trust without the former's express consent. He is said to have informed the Ostrers that he views any contemplated sale on their part as illegal and a cause for legal action as a method of compelling Isidore Ostrer to go through on the terms of the deal originally struck in New York in July.

This correspondent learns that the Schenck deal, made jointly on behalf

Uncertainty Halts Chicago Buys—Levy

Uncertainty of subsequent run exhibitors in Chicago over the amount of product which they will require for the new season in the face of the indicated return to double features there, was cited yesterday by Jules Levy, RKO Radio sales manager, as a new reason for the buying stalemate in that city. Levy returned Monday from a visit to Chicago.

In making its new season product deals, B. & K. sought an extra week of clearance between "C" houses and first-week-of-release. Subsequent runs objected to the change and declined

It's Scotch Mystery As Kennedy Returns

The fate of the Dewar Scotch distilleries' franchise for America, which drew Joseph P. Kennedy to London recently, remained in doubt yesterday in the absence of any official information at Kennedy's office here on the results of his trip. Kennedy returned on the Normandie Monday, but debarked at Quarantine and took a plane to Boston.

Grover Whalen of Schenley is reported to have wangled the Dewar franchise away from Somerset Importers, the American distributing concern for the Dewar products in which Kennedy has a large interest.

Plan to Shift U. A. Control To London Stopped at Start

An internationally conceived scheme, carried to Hollywood by Capt. E. Beddington Behrens of Myers & Co., London financial house, but presumably on behalf of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. to convert United Artists Dist. Corp. into a British-controlled company has been brought to an abrupt end at its beginnings.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns Behrens, who spent five days on the coast prior to his departure for England on the last eastward trip of the Queen Mary, made that trip by air for the express purpose of placing before United Artists owner-members the proposal originating in London. It is understood they listened, but that they also rejected the proposition which, London advises, would have been tied in with a public flotation on the other side.

United Artists Distributing is one-sixth British as currently constituted through Alexander Korda and London Films. The remaining owner-members, their holdings on a parity basis, are Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin and Samuel Goldwyn.

Behrens steadfastly refused to talk

Para. Studio Is Stabilized, Says LeBaron

Reorganization activities at the Paramount studio have been completed, operations have been stabilized and no further "upheavals" are contemplated or likely, William LeBaron, managing director of Paramount production, said yesterday. He emphatically denied reports that the associate producer lineup at the studio would be pared now or in the near future.

E. Lloyd Sheldon, LeBaron said, was the only associate producer who was leaving the company at this time and, LeBaron added, Sheldon's contract expired more than six months ago and he remained at the studio to complete a final picture. Bogart Rogers has been signed to replace Sheldon.

LeBaron said that no feature production was planned by Paramount for the east this season. Oscar Serlin, Name Goldwyn And Pioneer To M.P.P.D.A.

Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., and Pioneer Pictures, Inc., yesterday were elected to membership in the M.P.P.D.A. at a meeting of the directors at the New York office. The meeting was presided over by Will H. Hays, president.

Samuel Goldwyn was designated as representative of his company, and Merian C. Cooper as representative of Pioneer.

The board also unanimously passed a resolution expressing the grief of the organization at the death of Irving Thalberg. The resolution cited Thalberg's "energy, vision and ability," and noted that "he rendered incalculable service to the art of universal entertainment." Copies of the resolution will be sent to Thalberg's family.

It was explained that Goldwyn's present company, Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., never has been a member of the

1,200 Honor W. F. Rodgers; Profit for Feist Memorial

By RED KANN

In many ways, it was one of the most unusual as well as one of the most important dinners ever tendered an individual in this industry, that testimonial to William F. Rodgers at the Waldorf last night.

The New York industry, of course, was representatively there. It went beyond, however, in that the manifestations of the esteem in which the general sales manager of M-G-M is held were evidenced by the array of exhibitors from distant points who gathered for the occasion. Large delegations from virtually every key point

Radio Council Being Studied By the Majors

Home Offices May Urge Plan Upon Studios

Establishment of a radio advisory council to supervise broadcasting activities of industry personalities is under discussion in home offices and may be formally urged for consideration by studios, it was learned yesterday.

The proposal, apparently, is in line with the recent recommendation of the M.P.T.O.A. that regulation, rather than the banning, of broadcasting activities by studio figures be attempted by the industry.

The radio advisory council could be patterned after the industry's Production Code administration or advertising advisory council, both as to organization and general functions, it was pointed out. Under its advisory and regulatory functions it could, as urged by the M.P.T.O.A., safeguard both the name value of the stars participating in broadcasts, story values when production material is used in the radio programs, and any direct competition with the box-office.

A proposal for the appointment by each studio of an official to supervise the radio activities of its contract names, has also been suggested as a

Grainger in Frisco On Booking Dispute

The unscheduled return of James R. Grainger to San Francisco where he spent Monday was construed yesterday as opening up the possibility of an end to Universal's current difficulties with the Golden State and T. and D. Kaufman Named "U" Pittsburgh Manager

Joseph Kaufman, for many years a salesman in the Pittsburgh exchange, has been promoted to branch manager of Universal's office in that city by Frank A. McCarthy, eastern division manager.

He succeeds the late Al Barnett, who died late last week and was buried Monday. Attending the funeral were four members of the Buffalo alumnae, a group of managers formerly identified with the Universal upstate exchange; Dave Miller, now head of the Cleveland branch; Nate Sauber, Buffalo; Pete Dana, Albany: Al Herman, district manager for Boston, New Haven, Albany and Buffalo. From the home office were McCarthy and Sig Wittman, the latter district head for New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington.

36 Features by Syndicates Prove Screen Is Good Copy

From "Greek Movie Reviews" to "Hot from Hollywood" each week copy pours from the typewriters of the syndicate feature writers who tell all about Hollywood to fans from one end of the country to the other and in Canada. According to the annual checkup on syndicated features compiled by Editor & Publisher, no less than 36 different features are devoted to "news" of the film world.

Ranging from as little as 400 words to as much as a full page, 28 individual writers and an uncounted number of syndicate staff members revel in and reveal the facts and fancies of motion pictures to an occasionally breathless reading public.

This, of course, does not take into account the innumerable film editors and assistants of practically every newspaper of any consequence in the country. They write their reviews, news and gossip without benefit of syndicates.

Twenty Groups Represented

The material is written for 20 different syndicates. Of the total number of features 15 are daily and 17 weekly pieces. One includes Canadian rights.

The titles of the features cover ground most completely. As samples, there are: "Behind the Scenes in Hollywood," "Britain on the Screen," the prosaic "Film News and Features," "Hollywood Fads," "Hollywood Off Guard," "Hollywood's Echo," "Hot from Hollywood," "Interviews with Film Stars," "Movie News Column and Hollywood Gossip," "New York Film Criticisms," "Rambling 'Round Hollywood," "The Reel Hollywood," "Screen Life in Hollywood" and "Stars and Screen."

The syndicates include Star Newspaper Service, McNaught Syndicate, Pan-Hellenic, American Foreign Press, Dominion News Bureau, Matz Feature Syndicate, King Features, Associated Press Feature Service, Hollywood Press Syndicate, North American Newspaper Alliance, Consolidated Information Service and Unique Feature Service, among others.

The range of syndicates and the number of features merely serves to indicate that the world of the screen is perennially good newspaper copy looked for by readers and avidly read.

Loews Due in London

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Arthur M. Loew and his wife are due from Montreal on the Empress of Britain on Thursday. The M-G-M foreign head plans to spend several weeks here in connection with the M-G-M Twentieth Century-Fox-G.B. deal, after which he will leave for the Far East.

New York Bound

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Carl Laemmles, father and son, sail for New York on the Queen Mary Wednesday. Sam E. Morris, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution for Warners, will be another passenger.

Cochrane Entrains Today

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29.—Robert H. Cochrane plans to leave by train tomorrow for New York.

At Other End

Gertrude Michael sails for London tomorrow to make a picture for B. I. P. The other day she received a wire from her mother expressing concern because of the Spanish situation.

"Spain is at other end of continent" wired Miss Michael.

"But it's such a small continent," replied her anxious mother.

Kuykendall Is Due Saturday for Talks

Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, is scheduled to arrive here Saturday in order to open his final conferences next week with distributors on his organization's 10-point program for the improvement of trade practices. A number of sales heads of major distribution companies who were queried yesterday said that no effort to arrange meetings between themselves and Kuykendall for next week had been made yet. The sales officials indicated that no recent consideration had been given the program by their companies and that no formal policy in connection with it had been decided upon.

Kuykendall leaves his home at Columbus, Miss., today and will stop over in Philadelphia tomorrow and Friday for conferences with exhibitor leaders there, as well as to attend the Variety Club golf tournament.

I.M.P.T.O. to Vote in Connecticut

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29.—A proposal to affiliate with Allied will be voted upon by members of the Independent M.P.T.O. at a meeting to be held Oct. 13, it was decided today.

Sentiment is reported to be in favor of the move.

Honor Sarnoff Tonight

A testimonial dinner for David Sarnoff, president of RCA, honoring his 30 years in the radio industry, will be held this evening at the Ritz-Carlton. Among the executives who will attend from the New York and Camden offices of RCA Photophone will be Ralph B. Austrian, Edward Auger, Bernard Scholtz, Barton Kreuzer and David J. Finn.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Jack L. Warner has deferred his departure for New York pending a hearing on the action against Bette Davis who has been signed by Toeplitz Prod. to star in two pictures. The Warners are fighting the contract in court.

John A. May Nominated

ALBANY, Sept. 29.—John A. May of Gloversville, an executive in the Schine enterprises, has been nominated for state comptroller on the Republican ticket at the party's state convention.

Never Saw Document, Says Fox Pact Maker

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 29.—Daniel G. Rosenblatt, New York attorney who dictated the form for the William Fox-All-Continent Corp. trust agreement, testified today that he never saw the document in its final form, typed and signed, until a few months ago.

Earlier in the William Fox bankruptcy hearings before Federal Referee Robert E. Steedle here, Murry C. Becker, another member of the firm of Hirsch, Newman, Rease and Becker, counsel for the Fox family, testified that he also had not seen the paper until recently. Creditors' attorneys stressed the point today. They have maintained that All-Continent, estimated now to be worth between seven and eight million dollars, is a William Fox asset and that its asserted transfer to Mrs. Fox and Fox's daughters was a sham.

Becker Close to Contempt Citation

Earlier today Becker was threatened with contempt of court proceedings. Walter Hanstein, Atlantic City lawyer for the creditors, insisted that "Becker and Rosenblatt were co-attorneys throughout numerous transactions. They were both officers of the same corporation (All-Continent) about which they are about to be examined. We are entitled to get the independent recollection of each witness (Becker and Rosenblatt), without its being refreshed by hearing the other witness." Becker flatly refused to testify without having Rosenblatt present as his counsel, adding that "the only reason I can see for Hanstein's attitude is to try to trick Rosenblatt or me. He can safely assume that we are both going to tell the truth."

Referee Steedle at this point said that "whether a witness is entitled to counsel is entirely within the discretion of the referee. If you want to insist that he answer and he continues to refuse, I shall certify him as in contempt."

Hanstein finally withdrew his insistence and consented that Rosenblatt return to the room.

"Ziegfeld," "Heart" To Get Third Week

"The Great Ziegfeld" at the Capitol and "Give Me Your Heart" at the new Criterion will each be held for a third week. "The Texas Rangers" today enters a second week at the Paramount, while "Dodsworth" likewise will be held over at the Rivoli. "Craig's Wife" goes into the Music Hall tomorrow replacing "My Man Godfrey," which will then have completed a two-week run.

On Friday, "Nine Days a Queen" will supplant "Sing, Baby, Sing" after three weeks at the Roxy. "Dimples" is slated to follow "Nine Days a Queen."

Orders Cuts Restored

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—All the sequences of the film "Don't Turn 'Em Loose" which were eliminated by the Ohio censor board, have been ordered restored to the picture.

Cohn Leaves Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29.—Harry Cohn, having finished a week of conferences here, left today by plane for New York. He will stop en route at the Centennial.

Benchley Film Short, "How to Vote," Gets High Commendation

Humorist Seen as Foolishly Funny Political Speaker·

By CHARLES SCHNEIDER

TO appraise the new films which came to town yesterday on purely an emotional basis—foregoing artistry and importance for the moment—would be to toss our critical hats into the air over that infectiously funny Robert Benchley short subject, "How to Vote," at Loew's State.

This is not intended as a reflection upon the State's feature film, nor upon the Palace's enjoyable musical show, both of which are reviewed elsewhere on this page.

But the only way to give this Benchley short the credit due is to drag it out here in front—a position it should have no trouble in holding.

"How to Vote" is the funniest picture, regardless of length, that I have seen in months. Or hope to see for a long time to come.

It is a simple little thing, but to attempt a thorough description of its humorous and human content would be futile. Briefly, the spectacle presented is that of a big, good-natured but clumsy lummox trying to make a political speech.

Into the Breach

The speaker of the evening—the candidate—is unable to attend the meeting in dear old Eighth Ward. So his substitute, Mr. Benchley, steps into the breach.

Benchley forgets his speech, sputters, scowls, grins and bites his lip. He goes round and round, meeting himself on the turns. He "double talks" and accentuates the wrong words, with gestures of distraction and embarrassment, so completely foolish, yet so human.

One of the guests on the speakers' stand rustles a newspaper. Another walks across the stand with squeaking shoes. When Benchley unfurls a wall chart to show a proposed river dam, his audience begins to sing "Schnitzelbank."

A Sly Dig

Close observers will note in this bit about the proposed dam a sly dig by the producers at the New Deal's alphabetical agencies.

There are to be two dams—one of them a beautiful thing, costing millions, but a fake. The other, designed to do the work, is to be "hidden under the bushes."

Neither of the dams is to be of any value because, as Benchley proudly points out, someone has just discovered that the river, a half-mile above the proposed dam, turns out to be the state highway.

Benchley, as you may already know, has become one of Hollywood's prize possessions. A humorist of some note in the smart magazines and on the book stands, he went to Hollywood to write for the films. After one look at his expansive and genial pan, a canny producer put him before the cameras and turned out a short subject on "How to Sleep." Others, as well as minor roles in feature-length films, have followed—"Etiquette" and "How to Train a Dog"—but "How to Vote," to my mind, tops them all.

It's really a panic—short but violent. I highly recommend it to you.

IT'S NEWS

when a Short Subject takes first place in the headlines and overshadows one of the biggest of current feature pictures. (Of course, it wasn't an M-G-M feature. They always take first place.)

West Coast is sizzling with schmoos about HITS that M-G-M's got l wrapped up and rarin' to go!

Wherever you wander . . . from Brown Derby to the Troc they're talking M-G-M . . . and they're saying "You've gotta hand it to that outfit . . . they've got what it takes!"

Soon the industry will see "LIBELED LADY" four-starring William Powell, Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy. Hollywood is wild about it. They say it's simply terrific!

And after the sneak showing of Clark Gable and Joan Crawford in "LOVE ON THE RUN" the town is buzzing with superlatives. The 'inside' is that it's their best yet and they made "Dancing Lady" among others!

And imagine this! The prediction from those who have seen it with their own eyes is that "BORN TO DANCE" starring Eleanor Powell and Gang is positively another "Ziegfeld". Wow!

You'd be amazed at the way Hollywood is waiting for the preview of Garbo and Robert Taylor (some team!) in "CAMILLE." And another eagerly awaited premiere is Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy's "MAYTIME" which looks rosier than "Rose Marie".

And that's just part of the story! Take a tip from those who know! Even competing producers are saying it! M-G-M in 1936-37 will positively astound the industry with its hit delivery. They're on the way . . . one knockout after another . . . and oh boy what fun to be an M-G-M showman!

Uncertainty Halts Chicago Buys—Levy

to buy product except on the same release arrangements as last year. Meanwhile, B. & K. delayed putting into effect its announced new double feature policy, and exhibitors not vitally affected by the clearance dispute are reported to be holding back on their buying because of the resultant uncertainty as to whether or not duals actually will be in vogue in the city during the coming year. If the policy is not reinstated, theatres obviously would require only half as much product as they otherwise would. The uncertainty has held up the closing of new season deals on a citywide scale.

Levy said that the RKO product split-up in the Loop would not be affected by the proposed leasing of the State-Lake by B. & K. The Palace will continue to get first choice and, if the State-Lake becomes a run house, its former policy would be inaugurated at some other Loop house which, then, would get the balance of the RKO product.

Levy said that theatre business in Chicago is at its best level in years, and compared current grosses there with those of 1927 and 1928. All but a very few of the RKO's first run and large circuit deals are closed now for the new season, he said. Terms are generally better than for the past several years and an increase in the company's accounts is assured.

Reserve Decision on Equipment Duty Cuts

Toronto, Sept. 29.—No definite action was taken at the session of the Federal Board of Tariffs and Taxation at Ottawa on the application of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce for free entry or reduction in customs duty on film producing equipment imported into the Dominion for the purpose of making films in Canada to qualify under the quota regulations of Great Britain.

After hearing argument by W. T. Straith, representing the Victoria chamber, and the opposition claims of the Canadian Manufacturers' Ass'n., Northern Electric, RCA-Victor, Westinghouse and the Associated Screen News, Ltd., of Montreal, Chairman George H. Sedgewick of the tariff board declared that its decision would be reserved pending an amicable agreement between the parties concerned on a practical arrangement.

Des Moines, Sept. 29. — Stanley Brown, district manager for Tri-State in charge of Des Moines, Waterloo, Ottumwa and Newton, Ia., has resigned, effective Oct. 1, and will join L. K. Brin on the coast in producing independent features.

Rockey Newton, Tri-State city manager at Cedar Rapids for five years will replace Brown.

"Men of the Plains"—A Rex Bell tale of gold-stealers and the efforts of the Federal men to round them up. The film has its romantic moments also and should satisfy.

This picture will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of Motion Picture Daily.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Three Men on a Horse"

(First National)

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Rowdy and farcical, this comedy should provide a broadside of laughs when trimmed to release length, although the audience here indicated a hearty response even to the rough cut print. A judicious pruning of lines has removed many technical race track terms which might confuse those who have never seen a racing form, but the full effect of the emotional upheaval of touts at post time is retained for its high comedy values.

Although it is still essentially a man's story there is plenty of comic appeal for women in the mild and muddle-headed greeting card poet who is kidnapped by professional gamblers when his talent for picking winning ponies is discovered.

Frank McHugh, the poet, quarrels with his wife and ends up by giddily passing out tips on the races in a mouldy saloon. While Guy Kibbee, his boss, waits in a rage for McHugh's quota of Mother's Day poems and Carol Hughes, his wife, wailingly pages him at police stations, McHugh is cajoled into picking winners by Allen Jenkins, Teddy Hart and Sam Levine, the latter two newcomers from the stage cast. Joan Blondell does a highly individual characterization as the dim-witted girl friend. Edgar Kennedy and Paul Harvey add to the uproar of laughter.

There are gaglines to spare and the fast action is set at a madhouse pace by Mervyn LeRoy, the director, who tossed aside reality for consistent loud and fast farce. Laird Doyle adapted the John Holms play.

Production Code Seal No. 2,500. Running time (uncut) 105 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Devil on Horseback"

(Hirliman-Grand National)

Produced for Grand National release by George A. Hirliman, and photographed entirely by the Hirlicolor process, this romantic story is set in the scenically effective, fictitious South American country of Alturia. Two factors weighing against the film as potentially good general entertainment are the too heavily Spanish-accented speech and the rather conspicuous lack of action one would anticipate in a story of a dashing Spanish ranch owner and his romantic inclinations.

In the lead role is Del Campo, as the swaggering and singing ranch owner, although Lili Damita and Fred Keating are listed before him in the cast. The performances in general are not better than adequate; the picture as a whole a subsequent attraction.

Campo is in love with Miss Damita, screen star he has seen only in pictures. When she comes to the country on a personal appearance tour, accompanied by Keating, son of a coffee plantation owner and old friend of Campo, the latter halts their train, and inspired by the idea of her press agent that she be abducted, takes the entire party to his hacienda.

There Blanca Vischer, who is in love with Campo, leaves no doubt of her opinion, and Keating is less than enthusiastic at Campo's efforts, with fiesta and vocal rendition, to woo Miss Damita. When Campo's arrest is ordered because of the abduction, and his life threatened, Miss Damita says she loves him to save him. But at the conclusion his life is spared, Keating is reconciled with Miss Damita and Campo with Miss Vischer. Crane Wilbur wrote the screen play and directed.

Production Code Seal No. 2,441. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

as trustee in reorganization of RKO, for authority to retire the last $850,000 of the notes outstanding. The RKO trustee asks that the collateral which will be released as a result be turned over to it.

Federal Judge William Bondy, who has supervision over RKO's reorganization proceedings, is expected back from a European vacation next week, at which time definite hearing dates for the petitions will be set.

The RKO gold notes are held by the Bank of America National Ass'n and are secured by virtually all of the working assets of RKO, including the studio and investments of the parent company in other going subsidiaries. RKO debentures have a second lien on the collateral securing the gold notes while those notes remain unpaid. In the event the court authorizes the payment of the notes, debenture holders are expected to intervene to maintain their status of secured creditors of RKO, which is technically affected by the retirement of the gold notes.

British View First All-Color Feature

London, Sept. 21.—A rough-cut print of "Wings of the Morning," first all-color feature to be made in England, was screened today in the private theatre at the Denham to Robert T. Kane and other executives of New World Prod. Also present was Alexander Korda.

Kane said later the film "will reveal a further development of the Technicolor process." Korda who was held off color in London Films productions until the results of "Wings of the Morning" were seen, declared them to be "brilliant," according to a New World statement.

Penley New Manager Of British Theatres

London, Sept. 19.—Earl St. John, director of Paramount Theatres in England, today said Charles Penley, previously in charge of Paramount London Theatres, had been appointed general manager of all theatres. Tony Reddin has been transferred from the Paramount, Liverpool, to head office as circuit supervisor. Leslie Holderness, recently supervisor, is now controller for Union Cinema Co., Ltd., with which Paramount recently made a joint management deal.

Ballance on Way Here

Charles Ballance, Paramount general manager in India, will arrive here aboard the Queen Mary on Oct. 5 on a regular business visit.

He will confer with George Weltner, assistant to Vice-President John W. Hicks, Jr., during the latter's absence in Europe, on matters relating to Paramount's distribution in India during the forthcoming year.

Irena Schiller to G. B.

Irena Schiller has been added to the non-theatrical and visual educational department of G.B., contacting schools, women's organizations and the like. William Barry, department head, reports a 100 per cent increase in business over last year.

Para. Studio Is Stabilized, Says LeBaron

head of Paramount's eastern production department, has prepared a script for "Artists and Models" and this may be produced on the west coast next spring in the event the script is approved by the studio and the proper casting is available. Serlin would go to Hollywood for the one production, LeBaron said.

He declared that he had not lost faith in the advantages of eastern production, himself, and said that "a lot of pictures can be made here better and more economically than on the west coast."

In response to a question, LeBaron said that he knew of no deliberate design on the part of major studios to increase the footage of feature pictures in order to discourage double featuring. The Paramount production chief said that all pictures, insofar as he knew, were cut for what they were honestly believed to be worth in dramatic value and with no other objective in mind.

Non-Committal on Radio Starring

LeBaron said that he was unaware that the radio appearances of stars presented a serious problem to exhibitors. Informed by reporters of theatre owners' attitudes toward this activity, LeBaron said it was "news" to him, but added that he could see it was a subject which had two sides, despite the fact that he had known only the stars' side of it before. He said it impressed him as a matter for home office, rather than studio, attention.

LeBaron has been vacationing here since late last week. He plans to return to Hollywood in another seven days.

Story Buys Total 17

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Paramount within the past month has purchased 17 stories, including seven originals.

Among those purchased was "To Have and to Hold," novel of Mary Johnson produced earlier by the studio as a silent. Other buys include: "Show Business," by Lew Lipton; "Crime Woman," by Norman Burnstine; "Tablecloth Millionaire," by Don Marquis; "Hollywood Conference," by Patterson McNutt, Grover Jones, Nunnally Johnson and Gene Fowler; "Glorious Mixup," by Melba Gray; "Beyond the Sound of Machine Guns," by Llewelyn Hughes; "The Other Passport," by Harold McGrath; "American Plan," by Manuel Seff and Milton Lazarus; "Too Young to Die," by Lewis R. Foster; "Gold Bullets," by Charles G. Booth, as well as Booth's "Cavair for His Excellency"; "Murder Goes to College," by Kurt Steel, and "Mountain Music," by McKinley Kantor.

Franciska Gaal Signed for Two

Budapest, Sept. 16.—Franciska Gaal, well known Hungarian actress, has been signed by Paramount for two pictures. She will sail Oct. 7 on the Normandie. Ernest Lubitsch will direct her. She will be accompanied by her husband, Francis Dajkevich.

Plan to Shift U. A. Control To London Stopped at Start

about the purposes of his quick visit. As a matter of fact and prior to his departure, he had insisted he had not come over for business.

Giannini, Goldwyn Deny

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—"There is nothing to the Behrens report. It is unfounded. Nothing whatsoever was said about U. A. going under British control," Dr. A. H. Giannini states.

Samuel Goldwyn made a similar denial.

Was Credited in London

London, Sept. 29.—That Capt. E. Beddington Behrens went to America in an effort to interest owner-members of United Artists to rearrange their financial structure so as to give a majority control to British interests is regarded here as the inside reason for his journey.

U.A.-Odeon Tieup Seen

London, Sept. 29.—A more direct tieup between United Artists and the Odeon circuit through a stock flotation in six figures sponsored by Myers and Co., which has figured in part of the financing of G. B. and British International, looms following the return from New York of Capt. E. Beddington Behrens.

Oscar Deutsch is the head of Odeon, probably England's fastest growing circuit. The impression along Wardour Street, prevalent for some time, has been that Odeon has an arrangement with Murray Silverstone which automatically gives Odeon first call on U.A. in any theatres which it may build.

Giannini Due Saturday

Dr. A. H. Giannini, president and chairman of the board of United Artists, is due in New York from Hollywood this coming Saturday.

George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager, flies to Dallas today and will spend a business weekend in New Orleans before returning here.

Mickey Gets a Pass

Mickey Mouse has a life pass from the French Line on the Normandie in honor of his eighth birthday.

On the last trip over a big replica of Mickey was placed near the captain's seat in the dining room, and on the return trip starting today Henri Villar and Jean Henri, pursers, will pass out Mickey Mouse buttons and balloons to children.

A special showing of Mickey Mouse subjects will be given on the ship and a party will be staged.

Gather for U.A. London Meet

London, Sept. 20.—United Artists entertained at its annual convention banquet at the Savoy tonight probably the most notable company of executives and stars ever gathered at one London function.

Murray Silverstone presided over a company including Elisabeth Bergner, Marlene Dietrich, Ann Harding, Marie Tempest, Edward G. Robinson, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Richard Tauber, Conrad Veidt, Flora Robson and many other players, while executives and directors included Alexander Korda, Erich Pommer, Victor Saville, Marcel Hellman and Lothar Mendes. Theodore H. Fligelstone, president of the C. E. A.; Oscar Deutsch of the Odeon circuit represented exhibiting interests.

Radio Council Being Studied by Majors

possible solution in the event the obstacles to the functioning of an advisory council on behalf of all studios are found to be insurmountable. In either case, the functions of the individual studio's supervisor, or of the advisory council acting jointly for all studios, would be identical, it is said. Each separate proposal for a radio appearance would be considered on its merits; the adaptability of the star's talents to radio broadcasting would be weighed, as well as the frequency of appearances on the air of the same star, the type of program, its staging, the material, its direction, music, supporting cast, publicity and rehearsal. Whether or not the appearance or the program would work an injury on a current release in theatres within the broadcasting zone, likewise, probably would be considered.

Present indications are that if the proposals for regulation of star broadcasts garner any home office support they would be urged upon the studios immediately for serious consideration or actual experimentation.

Goldwyn and Pioneer Named to M.P.P.D.A.

M.P.P.D.A. His earlier company, Goldwyn Distributing Corp., was an original member of the association, but when that firm was merged with Metro in 1924 the membership passed to the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company.

Goldwyn withdrew from the coast producers' organization, the Ass'n of M. P. Producers, some time ago in objection to the clause incorporated in the NRA code which was designed to eliminate star "raiding" among coast producers. His return to the fold on the coast is viewed now as perfunctory in view of his membership in the M.P.P.D.A, which is the parent association and with which the Ass'n of M. P. Producers is affiliated.

Ayres Back Shortly

London, Sept. 29.—Lew Ayres, who has been touring the Continent, leaves for Hollywood in a few days.

Phil Hyams of H. and G. Kinemas, Ltd., is back from a holiday in Russia.

Maxwell Deal For G. B. Off, London Hears

of Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's, provided for £400,000 in cash and 1,000,000 in new shares; that Isidore and Mark accepted but Maurice Ostrer raised objections on the premise control of G.B. would pass from London to New York. A counter angle insists that the Ostrers then traded with Schenck on the basis of a cash turnover of £800,000, but that Schenck flatly refused to consent to any rewriting of the terms.

Capt. E. Beddington Behrens, who returned from New York on the Queen Mary, is believed to have been acting for Maxwell in an effort to purchase Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's stock in M. and B. Joseph M. Schenck is on record with having admitted a recent offer had been made by Maxwell. His company, he added in New York last week, will not sell.

G. T. C. Net Is $1,379,845

London, Sept. 19.—The report and accounts of General Theatre Corp., Ltd., which a few days ago announced a final dividend of nine per cent, making 12 per cent for the year, on its participating preferred ordinaries, show a net profit for the year ended March 31 of £275,969, including income from investments. After payment of the final dividend, £12,500, carried forward is £50,834.

Capital "lost or unrepresented by available assets" figures was written off to the amount of £1,450,833, in accordance with the scheme of arrangement sanctioned during the year, and which confirmed the Gaumont British management of the company.

It is stated in the report that, while no provision has been made for the debenture stock sinking fund, suspended as part of the rearrangement scheme, £20,000 has been credited to new reserve. An issue of £148,803 second debenture stock, bearing 5½ per cent interest, has been made to Gaumont British as part of the rearrangement. It is stated that the Capitol, Haymarket, will be open in its reconstructed form in January, 1937. G. T. C. also controls the Palladium, in the West End.

Leeds Exhibitors Alarmed

London, Sept. 21.—The Leeds and district branch of the C. E. A. has passed a resolution: "that this meeting views with alarm the possibility of more British cinema screens coming under foreign control and urges the General Council to use all its influence to prevent anything of the sort, either now or in the future." The G.B.-Loew-Twentieth Century-Fox deal is, of course, aimed at.

"Adverse" Is Washington's Holdover Hit

Washington, Sept. 29.—"Anthony Adverse," playing a continuation run at increased prices at the Metropolitan, skyrocketed to $11,500, to top the usual 40-cent average by $7,200.

"Nine Days a Queen" took $18,700 at the Earle, with a stage show, to exceed average by $300.

At Loew's Columbia, "Charlie Chan at the Racetrack" took $3,800, to go over par by $200. Loew's Capitol, with "The Road to Glory" and the ninth anniversary stage show, took $19,300, under average by $1,600. "The General Died at Dawn" at Loew's Palace dove to $10,400, under par by $5,500.

"Swing Time" at RKO-Keith's, in its third week, did a great $9,000, only $1,600 under the first week average, and continued into a fourth week.

"The House of Rothschild" at the Belasco was pulled in favor of "Friday the Thirteenth" after a four-day run during which $1,600 was taken in, or $1,400 under the seven-day average.

The third week of "Romeo and Juliet" at the National was good for only $3,800.

Total first run business, excluding the National, was $74,300. Average is $76,700.

To Co-Star Janet Gaynor

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Twentieth Century-Fox has abandoned its plan to star Janet Gaynor individually in a series of pictures. In her next, "Ladies in Love," Miss Gaynor shares billing with Loretta Young, Constance Bennett, and Simone Simon.

Club Will Aid Films

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Members of the Southern California M. P. Council have agreed to launch a telephone campaign to support better films. Members will contact friends by phone to urge attendance at theatres showing high class pictures.

Purely Personal

The Nicholas Schencks, the Eddie Churchills, the Lynn Farnols among the many who congregated at "21" after the opening of "Night Must Fall," no doubt reacting as most who attended the Emlyn Williams show. In other words, a drink to straighten out the nerves. Gertrude Michael, who arrived from the coast by air about 4 A.M. Monday morning after having been grounded at Albuquerque for 14 hours, came along as the guest of the Farnols. She sails on the Normandie this morning to do a picture for B. I. P. in London. Winnie Sheehan dropped in and held a long and animated chat with Schenck.

John Golder, Chesterfield and Invincible franchise holder for Philadelphia and Washington, was in town yesterday conferring with Edward Golden, general sales manager of the two companies.

Jack Goetz has returned from the coast by air after closing a deal whereby DuArt will handle the film printing for the six Joe E. Brown features to be produced by David Loew for RKO release.

Edward L. Alperson, president of Grand National, has postponed his departure for the coast a few days. When he goes, Sidney M. Biddell, story editor, will accompany him.

Mrs. Spyros P. Skouras and Mrs. Lilian Alperson are due to arrive from abroad on the Normandie's next trip, Oct. 12.

Jack Barnstyn plans to leave for the coast in about two weeks, and after a stay there will return, en route to Europe.

Arthur Fisher is recovering at his home from intestinal flu and is due back at his office Monday.

Max A. Cohen has renewed his long term lease on the Harris on W. 42nd St.

Ben Goetz is due from Hollywood any day. He's scheduled to sail for England shortly.

Truman Talley is due back from Europe in about a month.

J. Cheever Cowdin, board chairman of Universal, and Charles Ford, newsreel editor, are in Cleveland for a screening of "The Magnificent Brute" before officials of Republic Steel, at the plant of which much of the film was shot.

Sam Levine, who up to last week played the leading role in the stage version of "Three Men on a Horse," has left for the coast via train for the M-G-M studios.

Robert E. Sherwood, author of "Idiot's Delight," and collaborator on the screen play of "Thunder in the City," returned yesterday on the Berengaria.

Walter Reade has called a press conference at the Astor tomorrow when he will announce plans for nationalizing his circuit.

Monckton Hoffe, English writer who arrived on the Normandie on Monday, has left by train for the M-G-M studios.

Jack Benny, who returns to the air waves next Sunday over WEAF, will return to Hollywood soon for a role in "College Holiday."

Moe Streimer's party to be tendered by the Monday Knighters will be held Oct. 20, and not Oct. 30, as reported yesterday.

Raymond Friedgen will leave Pensacola today for the deep sea fishing grounds where he will produce "Killers of the Sea" for Grand National.

Louis Lesser, for some time past connected with Century Pictures in Boston, is back in town.

Bert Wheeler will be interviewed by Buddy Cantor over WMCA tonight at 8:30.

Mrs. Edward G. Robinson and Sally O'Neil are among the passengers sailing today on the Normandie.

William T. Powers is due back today from Albany after attending the Republican State Convention.

Milton Hossfeld is due tomorrow from a tour of National Theatres units in the west and midwest.

Carr Buys "Adventure"

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Trem Carr has purchased Ben Ames Williams' Saturday Evening Post novel, "Adventure's End" as a starring vehicle for John Wayne. Sidney Sutherland and Walter Weems will collaborate on the screen play.

Carr is en route to St. Louis by train to adjust matters in connection with the settlement of his father's estate. He is expected back at the Universal studios this week.

Linda Perry with Foran

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Warners have assigned Linda Perry the feminine lead opposite Dick Foran in "Bad Man's Territory." The picture is scheduled to start soon with B. Reeves Eason directing.

Team McLaglen-Foster

Hollywood, Sept. 29.—Radio will team Victor McLaglen and Preston Foster in the top roles of "Coast Patrol" which Edward Small will produce. Production is scheduled for late October with James Flood directing. The story is by Lieut. Commander Frank Wead, who is collaborating on the screen play with John Twist.

Shift Cincy Para. Staff

Cincinnati, Sept. 29.—Changes in the local Paramount branch personnel include transfer of Ross Spencer from booker to West Virginia salesman, succeeding R. Williams. Vincent Kramer, cashier, has been made booker. William Meier moves from the ad sales department to the cashier's post.

"Godfrey" Is 3rd Week Wow In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29.—The third-week holdover, "My Man Godfrey," at the Fulton and "Swing Time" at the Stanley were the big noises of the week in a session marked by only moderate competition and excellent weather conditions. "My Man Godfrey" maintained its terrific pace in its third week, getting around $8,800, and holding for a fourth, while "Swing Time's" $20,000 was good enough to send it to the Warner for a continuation of its downtown first run.

Elsewhere, however, takings were just so-so. "The Texas Rangers" managed to hold its own at the Penn, collecting about $10,000, while "Star for a Night" and "They Met in a Taxi" lasted only six days at the Alvin, where it did barely $4,000. Things were not much better at the Warner, "Down the Stretch" and "Lady Be Careful" accounting for $4,100 in eight days, the extra day being allowed in order to coincide with "Swing Time's" closing at the Stanley.

Total first run grosses were $46,900. Average is $34,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 24:

"STAR FOR A NIGHT" (20th-Fox)
"THEY MET IN A TAXI" (Col.)

ALVIN—(2,000), 35c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, for 7 days, $5,000)

"LADY BE CAREFUL" (Para.)
"DOWN THE STRETCH" (W. B.)

WARNER—(2,000), 35c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $4,100. (Average, for 7 days, $5,000)

"Ziegfeld" $15,000 Indianapolis Smash

Indianapolis, Sept. 29.—"The Great Ziegfeld" was a big draw at $15,000 in Loew's, $9,000 above the line. The first two days were moderate, but attendance gained rapidly. It was held.

"Two in a Crowd," plus a stage show headed by Johnnie Perkins and Miss America 1936, went $2,000 into the black at the Lyric. "Stage Struck" at the Apollo was good for $500 above average at $4,500. Against this competition "Swing Time," in its second and final week at the Circle, took $3,500, $500 below normal.

First chilly weather struck the city in midweek, probably contributing something to night business.

Total first run business was $32,000. Average is $21,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 25:

"STAGE STRUCK" (W. B.)

APOLLO—(1,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: 4,500. (Average, $4,000)

"SWING TIME" (Radio)

1,200 Attend Function for W. F. Rodgers

east of the Mississippi and some from beyond combined with the others to throng the grand ballroom of the huge Park Avenue hostelry to the bulging point.

Rodgers was razzed and praised alternately but all in good fun. Benny Rubin, the comedian, acted as a celluloid master-of-ceremonies and stooged at large before the cameras of the Hearst Metrotone News with notables among the guests as his actors, kidding and making fun chiefly at the expense of the embarrassed guest of honor. The films were rushed through the laboratory and shown to the crowing of the Pathe rooster emanating from Leo's throat shortly after midnight as a final piece d'resistance of the evening. It was as screwy a record as ever was caught on celluloid.

An earlier film episode of a full evening was a record of Rodgers' career, embellished by shots from his family album. They pointed up characteristics of the hero and under the general title of "The Life Story of Metro's Own King Kong," traced for the record of the evening highlights of Rodgers' career from the American Tobacco Co. in '06 to General Film in '10 to Mutual, Triangle, Goldwyn Pictures, Paramount and finally to M-G-M.

Louis Nizer "Broadcasts"

One of the gags, taken seriously by some at first, was an international broadcast in which Louis Nizer simulated the voice of Sam Eckman, "The Duke of Wardour Street" but officially known as managing director of M-G-M in England. Eckman, long an associate of Rodgers in the early days of the domestic sales organization, told not all, but nearly all in his best Bronx Piccadilly English. The staged voice of Louis B. Mayer felicitated Rodgers on behalf of the Metro studio, while France's leading exhibitor delivered his eulogies in French. Jack Miller, for the exhibitors of America, came through from Chicago with a "dese, dose and dem" speech that regaled the large audience and concluded on a note not reprintable for polite society.

Jay C. Flippen of Station WHN, controlled by Loew's furnished an interlude of entertainment on the stage which caused Howard Dietz, toastmaster of the evening, to remark:

"We are grateful to Flippen, but his entertainment merely proves again that motion pictures are here to stay."

Note, Plus Tip

It happened to Harry M. Warner last night at the William F. Rodgers testimonial dinner at the Waldorf.

George Zeppos of Wheeling, W. Va., who bought film from the Warner head 32 years ago, sent a note to Warner by a bell hop, whom he gave a quarter for his troubles. When Warner received the note the 25-cent piece was rolled in it.

Warner still has the coin and is trying to figure out whether it was a gag.

There were wires, of course. One came from S. R. Kent, who sails for London on the Normandie today. Others were from Mike Tamasino, Ike Libson, David Loew, Sam Cocalis, Mort Spring, Herbert J. Yates, Ted Healy, J. Robert Rubin and Pete Smith. Nicholas M. Schenck sent his praise of Rodgers by wire. He was unable to attend because he had left New York in the afternoon to accompany his brother Joseph M., as far as Chicago. The Twentieth Century-Fox executive is on his way to Hollywood at the present time.

Electrical transcriptions off stage provided the music, except for an interlude when a parody written by Si Seadler to the tune of "Did I Remember" again took Rodgers over the coals. It went like this:

Beware of Rodgers,
Look out for Metro's Shorty
His life begins at 40 per cent.
Beware of Rodgers
In spite of acting kiddish
He's smarter than a Yiddish gent.
Nail things down or he will take whatever's loose
While you enjoy a schmoose
You get a Goldwyn goose.
Beware of Rodgers
He doesn't stop at mayhem
To make a fellow play M-G-M.

However, a definitely serious note was struck. Al Lichtman, Harry M. Warner, Milton C. Weisman and Harry Brandt and Rodgers finally read into the formidable turnout a note of cooperation which can be made to prevail in the major branches of the industry. Lichtman, taking cognizance of the various jibes aimed at Metro's new selling plan, said the step was merely an initial one in an effort of all producers, not merely M-G-M, to arrive at a final yardstick for determining film rentals for all times.

Warner, who had not expected to be called upon, told the assemblage they might well feel a glow of pride in their industry. "The eyes of the world are upon us," he said. "Yet I have never met anyone who can run this industry any better than it is run. We get complaints and we are attacked and nobody gives us credit for the good this industry has done. By its foresight, Metro has set new standards and it is a great thing for all of us. I want to take this opportunity for thanking M-G-M. It is only by cooperation for good that we can benefit."

Lichtman, in part, spoke along identical lines. Rodgers echoed the sentiment and made several references to points expounded by Warner earlier.

Weisman gave Rodgers a scroll presented by Will Hays. Sam Dembow, Jr., turned over to the guest of the evening a check for $2,000 with a promise that more was to come. It represented part of the proceeds of the dinner which will go to charities, largely within the industry, in memory of Felix F. Feist, whose successor Rodgers is. A solid silver tea service was presented to Mrs. Rodgers through her husband by Brandt.

Rodgers paid tribute to the memories of Feist, Irving Thalberg and Jack Springer and declared each one, prominent in his own branch of the industry, will be missed. From 11 o'clock the speeches were broadcast over WHN.

The attendance included:

Bit Crowded Now

Los Angeles, Sept. 29.—A stranger, visiting Film Row, tried to pump the boys about the coming election. The crowd gave evasive answers, and the stranger became vexed.

"Don't you fellows ever discuss politics?" he asked.

"Well, you see it comes at rather a bad time," one of the boys explained, "right now there's the start of the football season, soon it will be time for the World Series, and before we can get around to it, the election will be over."

Preview "Missing Girls"

An invited audience, including Judge Morris Koenig, members of the local staff of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, officers in the N. Y. Police Dep't. Missing Persons' Bureau and police reporters attended a screening of Chesterfield's "Missing Girls," written by Martin Mooney, former newspaperman. The film opens at the Globe Oct. 3.

J. J. Sullivan Gaining

Los Angeles, Sept. 29.—J. J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer, is recuperating at his home here after a relapse from a recent illness at Kansas City.

Sullivan usually is in New York this time of the year, particularly during the World Series. His radio will have to serve the purpose this fall. He is expected to return to his office in a few weeks.

THESE are among the hundred and one interesting facts about the status of the theatre and conditions as affect showbusiness in many of the world's key cities as detailed by Motion Picture Herald correspondents in the second series of the Showman's Travelogue.

- The Regal Theatre in Bombay, India, has an underground parking space for autos.
- Every Berlin exhibitor must pass an examination on projection.
- Double features are prohibited in Vienna. Theatres there must give one show a week for children at reduced prices.
- Tokyo theatremen plant waiting lines at the box-office before opening to attract trade.
- Budapest de luxe theatres cannot issue cheaper tickets than the prices fixed by the Hungarian Home Office.
- Australian circuits accept the policy of allowing managers to operate "on their own."
- London as a theatre center is considered as 20 cities in one.
- All Cleveland theatres are utilized as community centers.
- Newspapers in Warsaw, Poland, do not regularly publish motion picture news.
- Motion picture newspaper reviews in Columbus, Ohio, are written by the editors themselves.
- Indianapolis theatres receive their sharpest competition from an event that lasts 30 hours.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

THE NATION'S LEADING ORGANIZATIONS
Endorse "IN HIS STEPS"

IN HIS STEPS • A MODERN ROMANCE INSPIRED BY CHARLES M. SHELDON'S FAMOUS NOVEL

NEW YORK FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS: "A splendid picture. There should be more of the same kind."

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION (1400 branches nationally): "A beautiful and powerful picture. The religious groups who have constantly striven for better pictures have in this production one which they can sponsor. If the church finds it unethical to support this picture, then it is hopeless for the industry to do anything for the religious groups."—George J. Zehrung, Director, M. P. Division.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: "A sincere translation to the screen of a story that has helped bring into the lives of many thousands of people peace and a steadfast confidence in the need for right doing. 'In His Steps' marks the entry into the motion picture field of Grand National as an occasion of promise, for the production quality and the talent of the cast give it rank with the productions of the established studios."

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC ALUMNAE (reaching 6,000,000 readers of Catholic newspapers as well as several million non-Catholics cooperating in the Better Films Movement): "A deeply moving and profoundly inspiring story of two young people. The ultimate solution of the plot and the manner in which it is brought about is a veritable sermon which no one can afford to miss." —Mrs. J. F. Looram, Chairman.

GENERAL FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS: "The picture is very interesting and is sure to have a good influence everywhere it is shown."

RUSSELL SAGE FOUNDATION: "I enjoyed every moment of this picture from beinning to end, and went away with the feeling that another splendid service had been done in motion picture entertainment by Grand National." Lee F. Hanmer, Director, Recreation Dept.
